Again, just like the West Point case before it, the military, the FBI and US attorneys willfully conspired to sabotage the case with minimal guilt and culpability. The lead prosecutor was a district court judge's daughter with zero experience in pedophile cases. Her alleged motive (no doubt per her superiors' instructions) was to gather just enough evidence to convict just the one identified abuser of committing one single sex crime against just one victim as her "best chance" to win in court, completely disregarding scores of other abused children (one FBI document indicated 102 suspected victims),[xcviii] allegedly lacking confidence that she could present strong enough evidence to secure a successful guilty verdict, or so the official story goes. Just like McMartin and West Point, the reality is the feds once again conspired to ensure the case was botched to protect the guilty. Despite the Army deliberately undermining and beleaguering the case at every turn, totally devoid of bringing any justice to the abused children and their families, instead the feds focused exclusively on their M.O. of damage control, just wanting the case to go away ASAP. Finally, almost two months after the Tobin boy's revelation in November 1986, the prime and only suspect Gary Hambright was arrested on January 5th, 1987 on charges of committing sodomy, oral copulation and a lewd and lascivious act on just one child.[xcix] The HIV infected pedophile would die of AIDS less than two years later.

Adding insult to injury, little more than two months later the district court judge dismissed the case, allowing Hambright to go free. The federal judge refused hearsay evidence of statements the Tobin boy initially made to both his family and the nurse and doctor that first examined him and concluded that the three year old was too young to be a qualified witness.[c] “Mistakenly” banking on the judge accepting the crucial hearsay evidence from the victim’s mother who was a nurse and the father a West Point graduate and nuclear engineer, the US attorney told the judge that she had another dozen children making the same claims as the Tobin boy.

To further weaken the case, the CID investigator that interviewed the 3-year old had never interviewed victims under the age of 8 before, nor ever videotaped interviews. On top of that, he bungled the case with leading and loaded questions, implanting the idea that “Mr. Gary was bad and should be spanked.”[ci] Once again the abysmal pattern unanimously holds, like the Catholic Church, the judicial system - the US government and US military alike, work consistently together on behalf of protecting the satanic pedophile rings rather than do what’s right for the victims.

Clearly seeing that they were never getting a fair shake from the authorities, the Tobins began organizing a counterstrategy with other parents whose children were also molested. To directly sabotage them, the US Army command quickly began reassigning parents to far reaching points in order prevent any potential solidarity that as an embarrassing weapon could be used against the government conspirators. Relieved that the case was dismissed, the Presidio’s ranking officers refused to meet with the upset parents, purposely delaying a second letter going out alerting all daycare parents that more than one child may have been abused.[cii] When two mothers tried to meet with Lt. Col. Walter Meyer, director of personnel and community activities, he refused because his audacious priority that day was to tape a video claiming, “Despite what you may believe, this is a model daycare center.” Turns out that Meyer was stonewalling from having to send that letter out, using his quibbling over the number of identified victims, insisting that “only 32” were raped as opposed to the more accurate count of 37. Finally, over five months after the Tobin boy’s disclosures, with the signatures of a dozen parents, a second letter dated April 29th went out to all the facility’s parents warning that a far more significant number of children were likely victimized. And of course they were correct, out of nearly 100 children examined for physical or psychological signs of abuse, at least 60 were identified as victims.[ciii]

The most vocal core amongst the parents were from the professional officer corps, who were able to afford daycare facilities elsewhere in San Francisco and were pulling their children out of the Presidio center. During the course of the investigation, Presidio CDC attendance dropped drastically from 250 to just 180 kids.[civ] But the Tobins and others realized that many of the parents were enlisted personnel who were either afraid of speaking out for fear of their career or the high cost of daycare services in the city was too expensive. In keeping with damage control, throughout this entire protracted crisis at the Presidio and the ensuing torment endured by the abused children and their parents, did the US military, its CID investigators, the US attorneys or the FBI ever bother mentioning the numerous abuse accusations on the post from the previous half dozen years, nor did they breathe a word about the concurrent scandals unfolding at West Point and more than a dozen other US military daycares worldwide.[cv] There is irrefutable evidence that the feds in their cover-ups have only maintained a longstanding record of protecting Satanist pedophiles operating among them for numerous decades now.

Unsurprisingly, also willfully hidden from the parents' knowledge were clear signs that an organized satanic cult had been actively operating at the Presidio throughout the 1980's. Earlier in the decade military police had discovered in one of the concrete bunkers behind the Military Intelligence (MI) building that the reinforced structure that once housed artillery cannons had painted in large bold red letters the words "Prince of Darkness."[cvi] What are the odds that the San Francisco "Prince of Darkness," Michael Aquino, was working in the Military Intelligence building just yards away? Next to those painted words was printed "Die" and blackened paint covered what appeared to be names in red. Another wall had the number 666 and occult drawings painted. At the center of the bunker were burnt logs. On the wall facing the MI building a huge pentagram inside a circle was drawn. At the rear wall where the least light shone lay a crude satanic altar complete with white and black candle drippings and half used incense sticks. Clearly it was a makeshift meeting place where satanic occult rituals were conducted. In another bunker not far away, a large picture of Satan with horns and red eyes was drawn.

Years before the Presidio scandal broke the same juvenile investigator Ed Albanoski one day had received two strange emergency calls that a man dressed all in black was running holding a little girl's hand followed moments later by another call reporting screams heard from the same general vicinity.[cvii] The search led to a gardener's shack in the park bordering the Presidio land where noises were heard inside. The MP's kicked open the door and found music blaring from a radio, a mannequin with a gun pointed towards the door, a large pentagram drawn on the floor in the middle of the room, a bunk on one side of the room and a bunch of dolls' heads hung from the ceiling, a very bizarre scene that again confirmed satanic ritual activity. In the several days following the MP's even staked the shack out but nothing turned up. But what was absolutely certain is that a satanic coven or larger network was actively operating on the post but the provost marshal once again stepped in ordering Albanoski and his crew to "just forget about it."

One married couple with a three year old daughter attending the daycare in Hambright's class noticed back in September and October 1986 – a full two months prior to the Tobin boy accusation - that their little girl was suffering nightmares and wetting herself when frightened, behaviors she had never exhibited before. Once they heard about the Tobin boy in January and Hambright's arrest, they began suspecting she also was abused. The parents took their daughter to a therapist and in February the child opened up, stating she was sexually abused by Gary Hambright and a man named "Mikey" and a woman named "Shamby," whose identities were yet unknown.[cviii] Then as fate would have it, a half year later on August 12th, 1987, the Adams-Thompsons were shopping with their little girl at the post PX store. The daughter suddenly panicked when she spotted Michael Aquino and began grabbing her father's leg, blurting out, "That's Mikey and he's a bad man!" When they were leaving the daughter identified Aquino's wife as Shamby. As soon as they arrived home they called the FBI.

The next day the Adams-Thompson daughter identified Hambright from a photo lineup and furnished remarkable details of Hambright having driven her off post to Mikey and Shamby's house, where for an almost four-year old she described in incredible detail being abused in a room with all black walls that was later observed to be soundproof, and the two men dressed up like women and Shamby dressed like a man.[cix] [cx] She also reported being photographed and filmed while being fondled by Hambright in a bathtub in the Aquinos' home.[cxi] The FBI drove her to 2430 Leavenworth Street and the girl was able to point out the residence where the Aquinos lived. Armed with a search warrant on August 14th, the FBI and San Francisco police entered the home and confiscated videotapes, cassette tapes, 29 photos depicting costumes and masks, two photo albums, notebooks with names and addresses as evidence that the home appeared to be the center of a satanic pedophile ring.[cxii] The indignant couple claimed their home was "raided" in a "witch hunt."

Aquino's flimsy ready-made alibi was that he was attending the National Defense University in Washington DC. But he also admitted that he made trips frequently back home to San Francisco. The report of abuse by a satanic colonel created such a stir in the press that the Army quickly reassigned him out of the way to the US Army Reserve Personnel Center in St. Louis.[cxiii]

With the father of the little girl who Identified the Aquinos as her abusers also the assistant chaplain at the Presidio, Aquino claimed that Capt. Larry Adams-Thompson was riding his high horse on a Christian vendetta to ruin him because Aquino was a high priest in the satanic church, and in retaliation the colonel actually attempted to generate court martial proceedings against the father of the child that Aquino abused for "conduct unbecoming an officer"… if ever there was a pot calling the kettle black, this would be it.[cxiv]

Throughout the decades of uncovered crimes that Aquino committed, he has always played the "innocent victim" card, blaming his years of alleged "persecution" on bigoted Christians with an axe to grind against Satanists. As a vain publicity hound at heart, he has readily appeared on national talk shows in attempts to defend himself as well as answered countless online rebuttals to "set the record straight.” On one forum, in response to written input from the Presidio’s former Chief of Juvenile Investigations Ed Albanoski further implicating Aquino, the infamous lieutenant colonel was prompted to write two lengthy accounts of his side of the story.[cxv]

Because the abuse in the Aquino home occurred within city limits, the SFPD took over the case spending from August 1987 to June 1988 investigating the high priest and priestess of the Temple of Set before turning over their findings to the city’s district attorney office. But as in every other case involving Aquino, no indictment, no arrest and no trial were forthcoming. The US attorney in charge of the case as chief prosecutor - Joseph Russeniello - supposedly acting in adversarial position against the accused Aquino. Of course it always helps when Russeniello happens to be a fellow partner-in-crime involved in the same US illegal drug running operation, the Contra affair,[cxvi] led by the infamous Maltese knighted trio VP President George H. W. Bush, Governor Bill Clinton and their fall guy Lt. Col. Oliver North. “Suicided” journalist Gary Webb[cxvii] [cxviii] also reporting for the San Jose Mercury broke the Contra scandal implicating Russeniello as a cocaine distributing money launderer. Aquino’s indisputable ties to fellow military officer Oliver North and Offutt Air Force Base where Aquino had been a Project Monarch mind control programmer, and the Franklin Scandal are incontrovertible.[cxix] Again, just another reminder how Malta Knight Satanists have been international ringleaders in child sex trafficking, drug trafficking, arms trafficking and organ trafficking. And the child raping, murdering kingpin - George Bush Sr. - has been this same crime family cabal patriarch.[cxx]

Meanwhile, more foul play at the Presidio was suspected when a $500,000 fire broke out in the building next to the classrooms housing the daycare records during the middle of the night on the autumnal equinox, a major satanic calendar event, September 22nd, 1987.[cxxi] The Army fire department claimed the cause was faulty wiring, but arson was suspected. Obviously Aquino and the rest of his child raping Satan worshippers did not want authorities to gain access to records that could put them behind bars where they belong. Almost as payback, the daycare building itself three weeks later was set ablaze destroying four classrooms, one where Gary Hambright taught. Due to a second fire causing $50,000 in damage, the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms was called in and both fires were confirmed acts of arson. A half year later a $2.3 million new daycare facility was constructed and opened.

Eight days after the first fire on September 30th, and a half year since the first case against Hambright was dismissed, he was re-indicted on 10 counts of lewd and lascivious conduct on 10 children and two counts of oral copulation, announced at a press conference by Attorney Russoniello, who added that the charges carry a maximum penalty of 96 years and a $3 million fine.[cxxii] The lone gunman theory to feds' cover-ups was once again upheld, with co-conspirator Russoniello stating no other arrests would be made due to lack of evidence, which was total bullshit. Reinforcing what the kids and their parents already painfully knew, that a number of other child rapists were getting off scot free, Hambright later made the statement:

I cannot understand why these allegations and falsehoods have been, directed solely at me.[cxxiii]

Understandably the parents were upset because overwhelming evidence indicated at least six times the number of children had been physically, sexually and emotionally injured by the extensive satanic ritual abuse by multiple perpetrators. Though medical records showed that many children were missing hymens, had rectal lesions, and suffered from anal and genital trauma as well as chlamydia, they weren't included on the indictment, only the Tobin boy's medical evidence.[cxxiv] Even victims with proof of medical damage were never interviewed. Because the at least half dozen children afflicted with venereal disease apparently had the wrong culture taken at the Army hospital lab, that critical evidence was conveniently thrown out.[cxxv] The prosecutors explained that only 10 children were selected in the re-indictment because they were deemed the best witnesses despite the fact that over 60 children had been identified as abuse victims. It was yet another low blow and slap in the face to the children and their families.

Yet the situation only grew more demoralizing when in February 1988 the US attorneys requested that charges be removed on four children due to problems with their testimony.[cxxvi] The presiding Judge William Schwarzer, a Harvard educated, 9th district court appointee nominated by pedophile President Gerald Ford,[cxxvii] [cxxviii] during the first legal go-round against Hambright had refused all hearsay evidence. But this time due to the indictment's alleged "vagueness," Schwarzer eliminated all counts of charges but one. Then the Tobin boy's therapist recommended that he as the final possible witness, no longer take the stand (although an AP article reported that the boy's parents "were no longer willing to participate in the trial set for April 4th").[cxxix] In any event, the case against Hambright at every turn was seemingly undermined by judge, prosecution and top military brass alike. Thus, the very people whose professional job was to ensure that justice for the victims be served, by intentional design, failed miserably. And so the sole identified child rapist among many was a free man yet again. This sad outcome was chalked up to the US attorneys' inexperience handling child abuse cases and their failure at the outset to seek expert consultants. Yet another excuse was the overlapping city and federal jurisdictions that confused and obscured the case. The US attorneys claimed they were limited to what transpired on federal land at the Presidio only. Those off post home visits to Aquino's torture chamber were not even on the table for consideration as evidence since the San Francisco DA office refused to file charges. When orders comes from the top, all pervs go free.

Psychologist Diane Ehrensaft pointed out in the American Journal of Orthnopsychiatry the over-the-top evidence that the court willfully ignored:

> *The severity of the trauma for children at the Presidio was immediately manifest in clear cut symptoms. Before the abuse was exposed, parents had already noticed the following changes in their children: vaginal discharge, genital soreness, rashes, fear of the dark, sleep disturbances, nightmares, sexually provocative language, and sexually inappropriate behavior. In addition, the children were exhibiting other radical changes in behavior, including temper outbursts, sudden mood shifts, and poor impulse control. All these behavioral symptoms are to be expected in preschool children who have been molested.[cxxx]

But no matter the feeble excuses for failing to hold the pedophiles accountable at the Presidio, history provides a far more sinister explanation, repeatedly showing that institutions like the federal government and the US military, just like the Catholic Church, serve only its own evil self-interest - shielding pedophiles in control at the highest levels from ever being brought to justice, including even pathetic, "low level" rapists like Gary Hambright. The grim, sobering reality that the power-broking leader of a satanic church and career mind control-torture expert - Lt. Col. Aquino, has long been the kingpin of a northern California satanic ritual abuse ring that's harmed hundreds of defenseless kids, has been permitted to flourish to this very day.[cxxxi]

While on the East Coast the little known satanic pedophilia case at West Point was unethically contained by the likes of Rudy Giuliani and the Pentagon, amidst the far more open, politically progressive climate of San Francisco, the disgrace of military child abuse on the West Coast would eventually attract far more publicity. In October 1987 the local newspapers began running articles, especially once Col. Aquino the Satanist was outed and under investigation. In self-defense, Michael Aquino took to television airwaves as Geraldo Rivera interviewed both Aquino and former FBI chief Ted Gunderson in 1987[cxxxii] and later still facing accusations in February 1988 on the Oprah Winfrey Show.[cxxxiii] Based on multiple accounts from countless victims, tons of evidence proves Aquino's guilt as a pedophile, torturer and MK Ultra/Monarch mind control programmer, despite the murderous Satanist never spending even one day in jail for his thousands of crimes. And though next to no convictions have resulted in any of his criminal satanic ritual abuse enterprises, in June 1988 the parents of 23 abused children from the Presidio scandal filed a $55 million civil suit for damages resulting from the Army's gross negligence and sexual abuse.[cxxxiv] Apparently later an undisclosed multimillion dollar settlement was reached.[cxxxv]

For all his unpunished crimes, Michael Aquino actually had the audacity as plaintiff to file an unsuccessful lawsuit against the Army in January 1988, seeking to amend his criminal investigation report, clear his otherwise "good" name, and collect damages for what he contended were false statements against him.[cxxxvi] The CID charged the lieutenant colonel with "conspiracy, kidnapping, sodomy, indecent acts or liberties with a child, false swearing, intentional noncompliance with Article 30 Uniform Code of Military Justice, maltreatment of a subordinate and conduct unbecoming an officer." After Aquino's lawsuit, on September 28th, 1990, the Army CID's commanding general kept the following charges against Aquino a matter of public record that the military court subsequently concurred:

There was probable cause to title Aquino with offenses of indecent acts with a child, sodomy, conspiracy, kidnapping, and false swearing.[cxxxvii]

This permanent blemish left at least on paper as a footnote to Aquino's otherwise "outstanding" military career was the basis behind his forced retirement[cxxxviii] from active reserve status in 1990[cxxxix] (though Aquino disputes this).[cxl] However, because he's been so valued an asset in US intelligence as a mind control expert and additionally holds so much potential blackmail dirt on the elite's rampant pedophilia, Lt. Col. Aquino maintains he was allowed to remain in uniform for another 16 years as a reserve officer on reserve status. In other words, in response to the overwhelming facts piling up over the years proving Aquino is a rabid child raping, murdering maniac, the government elected to assuage his satanic wrath by merely slapping his hand publicly in order to continue utilizing his "expertise" in the New World Order quest for absolute mind control tyranny over the global population. He never served a day in jail because once again "the national security" card has sealed the tons of evidence against him. Yet to this day as the forever "maligned," self-proclaimed victim, the Satanist is still evoking "satanic panic" as his persecutor. His 2014 paperback Extreme Prejudice: The "Satanic Abuse" Scam sells for $20 on Amazon.[cxli] But more on this satanic high priest-military officer-MK Ultra programmer-pedophile-septuagenarian in the next chapter.

For all of Aquino's victimized kids through the years whose childhood was traumatically stolen from them barely after it began, they remain plagued and haunted the rest of their lives. Children reflexively internalize guilt that causes them to blame themselves for the horror that's been perpetrated on them.[cxlii] Self-loathing, self-hatred and shame typically haunt and terrorize them for decades to come in adulthood, impairing abuse victims' capacity to develop healthy intimate adult relationships. Survivors of the Presidio scandal continued suffering from abuse long after evidence was buried as the case shamefully grinded to a halt. Even with the abuse behind them, one 4-year old girl told her mother at the dinner table that she wanted to kill herself with a knife. Another 6-year old girl playing with clay at school all of a sudden began stabbing it, yelling "Mr. Gary is bad and I'm bad because I let him do it!" Nightmares and flashbacks commonly persist for years and decades to come. Just like the West Point parents who heard the same worn out, sugarcoated advice, "It's over, you should just move on," a mother with two of her four daughters sexually abused, both having suffered from chlamydia answered:

Three weeks ago, our youngest daughter was having nightmares and our other daughter was closing out the whole world, going to her room and sitting there, with no radio, no TV, no nothing. Tell me it's over.[cxliii]

Aside from West Point and the Presidio, the fact remains that during the 1980's at least 15 other Army, Navy and Air Force installations in the US (i.e., Fort Dix, Fort Hood, Fort Jackson, Fort Leavenworth, Fort Meade) and abroad (Germany, Panama)[cxliv] [cxlv] - an estimated over 10% of all 300 US military daycares around the world daily taking care of nearly 100,000 young children have had documented cases of ongoing sexual abuse.[cxlvi] This serves as indisputable proof that a systemic, well-oiled global pedophile machine has been operating around the world for numerous decades raping in plain sight with complete impunity. Keep in mind that during this same time period of the 1980's, pedophile George HW Bush (after Reagan got shot a month into his two terms) acting for all intents and purposes as US president (for three terms) and his CIA were trafficking in kids from Boy’s Town into the White House as well as from Central America using fellow pedophile Father Ritter’s AmeriCares as his “charity” cover while pedophile Father Maciel and his fellow pedo priests were spreading their sinful seeds to every corner of the globe in the name of Satan. In recent decades, the Luciferian grip of ritualized sexual abuse and child sacrifice has only grown far more sophisticated, extensive and profitable perpetrating unthinkable atrocities against children worldwide.

Thirty years later with millions more children since gone missing forever, many having also been brutally defiled by Satan’s grip, with here and now evidence aggressively thrust in our face virtually every single day that child rapists and murderers in high places are still getting away with their sins against humanity, we have finally begun turning the corner exposing these demonic criminals and currently have them on the run. There is no turning back now, we must dig deeper and uncover their filthy truth if we are ever to be able to stop the horrifying abuse and bloody slaughter of our young. For both the millions who have been lost as well as the beautiful children still able to gift us their cherished innocent smiles and joyous laughter living amongst us now, we owe them our fiercely committed protection of them no matter the cost, to secure justice for all the children through the ages if we as a human species are to ever overcome this despicable blight on humanity committed by an evil few, ultimately to survive and thrive on our only home - our sacred planet earth, so that at long last all children are able to live safely in peace and love the way that God intended.

Deep State Pushback Suppressing Pedophile Evidence – Then and Now

The sociological phenomenon of so called “mass hysteria” generated during the 1980’s and 90’s, nimbly labeled "satanic panic," is taken up in a Vox article from last October,[cxlvii] prompted by the then media "clown scare" coverage[cxlviii] without so much as a mention of Pizzagate that was just taking off on the internet. The hit piece from Vox suggests another irrational resurgence of Satan-phobia hitting the USA once again, targeting an anxiety-ridden America, attempting to back up its claim by citing cases from the 1980's of hyper-sensitized parents, therapists, law enforcement, prosecutors and journalists, all putting words in the mouths of the babes, resulting in a rash of false and wildly "bizarre" accusations and convictions, punishing innocent adult victims to decades behind bars.

As another blast from the past reminder, the Pacific Standard put out another hit piece in September 2015 also ridiculing the true believers in satanic ritual abuse (SRA), exposing the Satanist fear mongers and "witch hunts" pursuing "imaginary" evil.[cxlix] Another weapon used to scorn and shame the "satanic panic" crowd is a 1980 best seller called Michelle Remembers that fueled the decade long "contagion" written by an alleged adult SRA survivor who through four years of therapy and a miscarriage began recovering buried lost memories of her horrified childhood at the hands of Church of Satan followers.[cl] The woman ended up marrying her therapist and together they wrote a book that was later alleged to be debunked as fiction. The Standard article's subtitle reads "how quack psychology helped pundits invent satanic panic of the 1980's and 90's." The Washington Post, the Jeff Bezos' Mockingbird controlled rag,[cli] the one that hired John Podesta as columnist to spread pedo cover-up lies,[clii] weighed in with a July 2015 headline "how the daycare child abuse hysteria of the 1980s became a witch hunt."[cliii] Again, lame stream media has a job to do, ridicule and demean the labeled "conspiracy theorists" as "nuts" who actually believe that satanic ritual abuse is real.[cliv] Controlling public opinion and perception is key to keeping the pedo lid sealed tightly from public consciousness and awareness. But even more important is the lame stream task of concealing all evidence of the pedophilia scourge[clv] so long been embedded at the highest reaches of earthly power, protecting the child rapists who not only own and operate MSM but the entire world and the global trafficking rings as well.[clvi]

A quarter century after the McMartin child abuse debacle, the recent Vox, Standard and WaPost articles cited the infamous case as cornerstone evidence of how "innocent" lives are being ruined when false memories are "manufactured," and how it infamously jumpstarted the 80's "satanic panic." By calculated design, just as the mainstream press made sure to sway and control public opinion during the McMartin investigation and trial, the Vox, WaPost and Standard treatment of the case make the guilty perpetrators out to be victims, and not the long suffering sodomized children and their families viewed by the perps and their mainstream minions as mere expendables. The hit pieces' central point showcases case after case in a feeble attempt to demonstrate how unjustly blamed "phantom" Satanists that never were ended up causing satanic panic hysteria to spread like wildfire out of control, all designed to condition the public now to summarily dismiss actual cases of ritualized satanic abuse against children as false and untrue. The clear MSM message is that any and all present and future cases that surface [like Pizzagate/PedoGate], claiming children have been ritualistically raped and sacrificed should be taken with a grain of salt and disbelieved as the hyped up consequence of overly-imagined, overly-coached, malleable toddlers and young children who again may well be putting more innocent people behind bars, or so the MSM dogma would have us believe.

So let’s take a look at the hard evidence of the 1980’s. A scientific study conducted by researchers at the University of New Hampshire analyzed actual data of US daycare facilities during the three year period from January 1983 through December 1985, and concluded that 500-550 reported and substantiated cases of sexual abuse of children at daycare facilities across America were confirmed involving 2,500 victims.[clvii] So in spite of “satanic panic” and media exaggeration and lies, there was more than enough documented hardcore evidence that sexual abuse did in fact occur during the mid-1980’s. And in 13% of these confirmed cases, that’s over 70 known child sex abuse cases within just a 3-year period that included “invocation of religious, magical or supernatural symbols of activities,” supporting the reality that satanic ritual abuse was and is definitely perpetrated against children. And if it was going on over three decades ago, Satanists are sure as hell still ritualistically torturing, raping and killing today.

But aside from the standard denial publicity, deep state’s sinister answer to this “satanic panic” phenomenon went on the offensive and in 1992 delivered the so called “False Memory Syndrome.”[clviii] The CIA scientists from their Monarch mind control program quickly crafted a counteroffensive hoax in response to the 80’s satanic panic,[clix] in the early 90’s elucidating how over-reactive therapists, parents, police and prosecutors were unintentionally, or intentionally, misleading both children and adults into recalling buried lost memories of sexual trauma that never actually occurred, a la the supposed Michelle Remembers scenario, resulting in countless innocent caregivers, teachers, parents and otherwise hapless adult victims falsely blamed and imprisoned.

As a licensed therapist in Los Angeles for many years working closely with children, adolescents and young adults who were victims of pedophilia, my own direct experience confirms the empirical research that shows that kids almost never make up sex abuse from purely overactive imaginations. That said, there are occasional cases of misguided therapists who have overly embraced the recovered repressed memory bandwagon that has harmed clients, families and the innocent accused, digging up false memories from long lost childhood. But compared to the hundreds of thousands of cases involving memories of very real substantiated sex abuse, the “false memory” cases are dwarfed. I found that one pendulum-swinging bandwagon simply replacing another does far more harm when memories of real abuse are customarily discarded as fake. Obviously memories of sexual abuse, incest, pedophilia, use of hypnotherapy for ascertaining the truth are all far too complex to allow biased, extremist positions to interfere, prejudge or sway perceptions either way as they invariably cloud accurate assessment, clinical diagnosis and discernment of truth. And regardless of statutes of limitation, the profound implications and consequences of false memories and false accusations should never be taken lightly nor be based on preconceived notions or prejudices.

But when memories of sexual abuse either recent or long past are real and accurate, they too should never be flippantly dismissed based on any preconceived biases. This allows guilty child rapists to go free, condemning true victims to undeserved punishment for life by both the offender and offending system. To gain a more fully educated perspective on this global pedophilia epidemic, a reminder again of a few cold hard facts are in order here. By nature, pedophilia crimes are among the most compulsive and addictive, and extremely difficult to effectively treat psychologically as the recidivism rates tend to be off the charts. Child rapists will generally continue to rape until they’re eventually caught and physically isolated and removed from children. Studies have shown that the average pedophile will victimize children 260 times during his lifetime ("his" being 96% male), and 90% of convicted pedophiles will become repeat offenders. In fact over half of convicted child sex offenders are back in prison within the first year after release and less than one in four remain out of prison after two years.[clx] So allowing child rapists to go free literally means hundreds more children are being harmed by the same offender. And with just 1-10% of child molestation even being reported to authorities, pedophiles are allowed to strike again and again before their horrendous crimes ever get reported much less result in conviction and imprisonment.

Though the majority of victims of child sexual abuse do not later become offenders, a portion of them do.[clxi] The disturbing consequence of continuing to protect offending pedophiles combined with systemic failure to protect children translates into the global epidemic only growing larger today. And over time, with multiple generations of victims potentially becoming future child rapists, the current epidemic exponentially expands accordingly. With generational ritualized abuse perpetrated and passed down by Illuminati families, further exacerbated by covert partnership with CIA-military MK Ultra/Monarch programs, the cycle of child sexual abuse becomes exponentially self-replicating. The 73.8 million children (17 and younger) in the US[clxii] and 1.9 billion kids in this world today (14 and younger)[clxiii] remain unprotected by the elitist system that shields those pedophiles in power from any and all consequences.

Compounding this children-at-risk problem, out of the near half million registered child sex offenders living amongst the US population, 9 out of 10 child sexual predators remain unregistered and still at large.[clxiv] Additionally, over a dozen years ago then founding president of the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children Ernie Allen stated on national TV that:

> An estimated 80 to 100,000 of them [registered sex offenders] are missing. They're supposed to be registered, but we don't know where they are and we don't know where they're living.[clxv]

What we do know is that 12 years later a lot more offenders are currently missing from the registered rolls and that child rapists most often rape again, so with that many dangerous molesters on the loose, thousands of more children are being sexually assaulted by registered child predators. And again, that's not even counting the powerful pedos who have all along customarily lived above the law. That's why it's so crucially imperative that this blight on humanity finally be properly addressed and no longer conveniently swept under the rug, pretending it's not really happening or it's simply too ugly and awful to deal with and face. Looking the other way or remaining ignorant is anything but bliss, and only adds to this gargantuan problem, permitting it to spread further like the diabolical cancer it is.

Though valid in limited cases, the strategic broad stroke brush behind promoting False Memory Syndrome, calculatingly put forth by an impeccably credentialed foundation of covert CIA mind control scientists as "ideal" pushback authorities designated to impede and squelch evidence of pedophilia and Satanism, unfortunately achieved the overall desired effect, muddying up the waters, making victims' claims - both young and old - far more suspect, automatically less credible and much more arduous to prove in a court of law.[clxvi] As a consequence, countless guilty child rapists have used this get-out-of-jail card as a successful legal defense strategy and thereby manage to escape justice. The CIA's counteroffensive intended to thwart "satanic panic" from spreading worked like a charm to protect pedophiles and child sex slave rings, effectively subverting and covering up the very real satanic ritual abuse in the 1990's that undercover has been flourishing to this day, by simply dismissing the very real satanic ritual abuse as overreaching, hyped up "satanic panic" based on false memory.

Prominent APA member since 1973 and notable psychologist Elizabeth Loftus, who serves on the advisory board of the False Memory Syndrome Foundation,[clxvii] the proven CIA front,[clxviii] a couple decades ago was brought up on charges of willful deception and unethical conduct before the APA ethics board prior to Loftus' APA resignation a month after two women filed complaints against her.[clxix] According to APA by-laws, this was a clear violation as the APA ethics committee stipulates that complaints filed while an APA membership is still active ensures that any existing claims against them will be reviewed. Yet the APA committee chairperson tasked with reviewing the complaints happened to be a fellow expert co-witness at the time testifying for the same defense team representing an accused abuser in a repressed memory case, which is also a clear conflict of interest. So even the APA "ethics" committee actions proved unethical, especially when the committee quickly refused to investigate already filed charges. Plaintiffs in the two repressed memory cases where Loftus had been witness and later wrote in publications misstatements about the two lawsuits were the same two women who later felt compelled to register ethics complaints about Loftus. In a Psychology Today interview, Elizabeth Loftus chose to pontificate distorted, disparaging remarks against the two women who in a court of law had successfully proven their cases against incest abusing parents. As a research psychologist never having any clinical experience treating sexual trauma victims, Loftus overstepped her boundaries, deceitfully coming off sour grapes after her testimony in both cases had failed to either disprove the veracity of the victims' abuse memories or win over either court. Loftus' black and white position that all repressed memories are suspect, unreliable and to be disbelieved is simply wrong as each case needs to be judged on its own merit.

A closer look at this CIA front organization – the False Memory Syndrome Foundation (FMSF) – has founding members themselves as pedophiles and CIA MK Ultra mind control research scientists.[clxx] And with CIA tightly controlling the Mockingbird press to this day, it has wielded phenomenal power over both America's media and the court system to minimize public awareness of satanic ritual pedophilia and its extensive worldwide trafficking rings, all part of the insulated, protective apparatchik long in place, as yet more child predators guarding the henhouse. An article from the Columbia Journalism Review two decades ago states:

Rarely has such a strange and little-understood organization had such a profound effect on media coverage of such a controversial matter. The [False Memory Syndrome] foundation is an aggressive, well-financed PR machine adept at manipulating the press, harassing its critics, and mobilizing a diverse army of psychiatrists, outspoken academics, expert defense witnesses, litigious lawyers, Freud bashers, critics of psychotherapy, and devastated parents.[clxxi]

The FMSF founder, Ralph Underwager, as an admitted pedophile proclaimed in an interview that it is "God's Will" that adults partake in sex with children.[clxxii] The former Lutheran minister was forced to resign in 1993. Before his downfall, he was so esteemed in the courtroom defending those accused of pedophilia that Woody Allen's attorneys employed Underwager to testify on Allen's behalf when actress Mia Farrow, Allen's common law wife at the time, accused the director of raping their 7-year old adopted daughter Dylan Farrow, who later in her own words publicly outed Woody Allen as a sexual pedo predator.[clxxiii]

Then there’s the scandal exposing FMSF executive directors, psychologists Peter and Pamela Freyd. Their daughter Jennifer went public years later disclosing that her alcoholic pedophile father sexually molested her.[clxxiv] Peter Freyd was then defended by his wife who attempted to sabotage their daughter’s career as a psychology professor in the 1980’s. Despite this despicable truth, these pedophiles hiding behind their “scientific” façade and credentials as “expert witnesses,” have committed irreparable harm to thousands of actual child abuse victims in courts of law when their charges and testimony fell on deaf ears and legions of perps like Woody Allen have never brought to justice.

From the late great investigative reporter and author David McGowan comes his 2004 seminal breakthrough Programmed to Kill: The Politics of Serial Murder:

> It should come as no surprise, then, that long-time CIA and intelligence complex operatives turn up on the FMSF Advisory Board. Perhaps the most public member has been Dr. Louis Jolyon "Jolly" West, a legendary figure in CIA mind control circles operating out of UCLA. Another is Dr. Martin Orne, an authority on torture who currently works at the University of Pennsylvania's Experimental Psychiatry Lab. Still another false memory luminary is Margaret Singer, professor emeritus at the University of California-Berkeley. [clxxv]

Thus as Pedophile Empire gatekeepers, the CIA controlling both mainstream media and America’s court system functions to protect the powers-that-shouldn’t-be, helping to spread their sex trafficking tentacle reach to every corner of the globe. A November 1987 San Francisco Chronicle article covering the Presidio scandal noted that San Francisco police intelligence officer and nationally recognized cult expert Sandi Gallant specified that at least 60-70 “solid” cases of satanic ritual sexual abuse existed nationwide at that time.[clxxvi] From that same article another expert, clinical psychologist Catherine Gould, who counseled dozens of children claiming they’d been ritualistically abused, is quoted, “Independently, the victims are describing incredibly similar circumstances.” In stark contrast to the power establishment’s false reality dutifully promoted by MSM’s “satanic panic” and FMSF, totally denying the existence of child raping, sacrificing Satanists, a growing consensus of actual legal, medical and psychological professionals working directly with victimized children from around the world have maintained that thousands of children and adult accounts gathered from multiple continents all corroborate to a stunning degree the same basic Satanism practices that have survived since Babylonian times.

Therefore, it is more than predictable that the MSM truth suppressing machine would drag out its old 1980’s “satanic panic” vintage tagline as renewed defense against last October’s incriminating WikiLeaks’ dump of Podesta emails[clxxvii] prompting thousands of internet citizen sleuths to jump on the pedo-trail, piecing together dozens of circumstantial clues to the Pizzagate story,[clxxviii] linking both Podesta brothers, both Clintons, Obama, the DNC, the Seth Rich murder[clxxix] and of course Comet Ping Pong pizzeria to the satanic worshipping Washington DC branch of the global child sex trafficking network. To head the citizen journalists off at the pass, the shrewdly calculated strategy of concealing pedophilia operations by waging a widespread disinformation media campaign[clxxx] and reintroducing dismissive, negative buzzword labels like “satanic panic” is reminiscent of another earlier CIA fabrication, branding those daring to challenge and debunk deep state’s official false narrative lies, starting with the JFK assassination cover-up, as tin foil hat wearing “conspiracy theorists.”[clxxxi]

But with a vast majority of Americans now fully convinced that mainstream news is completely “fake stream news,” with near zero credibility,[clxxxii] over time their “conspiracy nut” label has worn mighty thin and fast becoming null and void. Same with their “Russians did it” meme.[clxxxiii] In spite of the facts, it hasn’t stopped deceivers desperate to withhold their massive child raping operations from the public into utilizing their “fake news” label as weaponized censorship to feebly defend themselves. Thanks in large part to the internet, as pedophile Hillary[clxxxiv] admits, her pedo establishment is “losing the information war.”[clxxxv] Hence, its truth silencing agenda.

What’s conspicuously absent from the one-sided MSM hit pieces are the actual cases where Satanists have in fact committed horrific violent sexual crimes against small children. In addition to the already cited mid-1980’s study, just to further prove the point, scores of confirmed documented convictions in US criminal cases throughout the 1980’s and 90’s alone involving satanic ritual abuse have been compiled on one website.[clxxxvi] But by select omission, the MSM propaganda articles are purposely misleading, remiss in their gross failure to acknowledge the very sobering, disturbing reality that satanic cults and networks are operating worldwide,[clxxxvii] [clxxxviii] abducting, harming and murdering kids, cutting them up,[clxxxix] drinking their blood, eating their flesh,[cxc] and ritualistically burning young victims alive on satanic altars,[cxci] just as their ancient forebears practiced millenniums ago before the same child sacrificing god Moloch.[cxcii] After all, it’s not like Moloch worshipping satanic secret societies ever went away.[cxciii] Today they’re more apparent than ever. All through the ages, Satanic worshipping pedophiles never ceased committing vile crimes. Right at this very moment, at the top of the predator food chain, they’re still getting away with ritualized torture, rape and murder of our children.

Unspeakable crimes involving the near 1 million US children and 8 million kids globally gone missing each year is happening at the astounding rate of every four seconds, every single day 24/7,[cxciv] just to feed the insatiable appetite lust of the demonic forces wreaking ever-more havoc on this planet in these increasingly dark, turbulent times. But according to today’s demonically controlled MSM lie machine, fully complicit in covering up the widespread egregious atrocities, PedoGate’s merely the figment of a bunch of whacked out conspiracy nuts’ imaginations. But from the avalanche of confirmed evidence,[cxcv] we now absolutely know that’s not true.

Because six oligarchs are in charge of every aspect of the corporate controlled media,[cxcvi] a cultivated, programmed amnesic short attention span is exactly what the pedophiles who run this world are counting on - out of sight, out of mind, especially in the wake of the PedoGate floodgate. Suppressing the news that an unprecedented number of pedophile arrests and trafficking rings have been busted in 2017 just since Donald Trump’s become president is part of the elite’s hidden agenda to keep pedophilia out of public awareness at all cost. The planetary controllers have never wagged their dog tail so hard, using every sleight of hand diversion, chicanery, fakery and false flag deception, like the recent Charlottesville fiasco promoting race war [again],[cxcvii] or Europe’s ongoing Gladio-like terrorism,[cxcviii] or the WWIII ultimatums in response to North Korean missile launches,[cxcix] and the virulently engineered killer hurricanes attacking America and Caribbean,[cc] using anything and everything in their formidable arsenal to divert and distract the public eye away from the elephant in the global room - the elite’s child rape trafficking rings exposed like never before. From the Vatican[cci] to Iceland,[ccii] pedophiles stay in the daily headlines, and the Illuminati emperors are without their clothes, having been caught in the criminal act, bare-boned and grotesquely naked, after centuries of uninterrupted defiling of childhood innocence, the panicking, demonic, subhuman cockroaches are desperately on the run now.

To counterpoint and negate the emerging Pizzagate turned PedoGate scandal, irresponsible, blatant falsehoods and denials typify the MSM spin factory working overtime to crank out propaganda like last October's Vox article.[cciii] Bottom line, in case after case a consistent widespread pattern of sexual abuse and cover-up graphically illustrates the official policy of the US government/military to look the other way as standard operating procedure, while criminally committing obstruction of justice to ensure that rampant torture, rape and murder of innocent children stretching to every corner of the earth continue ad nauseam. With those running this deadly freak show members of the same Satan worshipping, child sacrificing tribe, their crime cabal system's been meticulously set up so that the same pedo club foxes are always in charge "guarding" the pedo club henhouses.[cciv] Satanists have strategically stacked the deck, infiltrating and saturating the communications media, child welfare, education, religion, law enforcement, the courts and political system from the global to the national, down to state, county and local municipal levels, all making sure that the elite's mass consumption of young flesh and blood is secretly kept business as usual. But those days are forever gone now. The cat has been let out of the bag and there's no turning back. The people are finally finding out the sick truth and the pedophiles ruling this world are finally now in the process of going down. But frantically engineering world war and imploding the global economy, in desperate self-defense, they're determined to strike first and take us all down. It's now do or die time on planet earth.

Sadly there is plenty more disgusting evidence of rampant pedophilia within the military ranks yet to be addressed in coming chapters. For many decades raping children is common amongst members of the US armed forces, as well as private military contractors[ccv] and the United Nations’ so called “peacekeeping” forces deployed around the world.[ccvi] In all these settings and domains, both domestic and abroad, the so called “security forces” that are supposed to be protecting the people are abusing them, and granted carte blanche immunity by child raping superiors in their chain of command. Their role is hugely critical in global human trafficking. Hence, rampant worldwide sex crimes allow our most vulnerable population to be repeatedly preyed upon, always avoiding arrest and prosecution due to the same systemic, blanket-wide policy of complicity and criminal protection from the scum atop the power pyramid, globally operating extensive, interlocking child sex slave trafficking rings with total impunity. But “times are a-changing” as the original troubadour who made his own Faustian deal with the devil once admitted on 60 Minutes.[ccvii]

The next chapter analyzes the CIA and military intelligence role in the Empire’s MK Ultra Monarch mind control programming generations of super soldier assassins, sex slaves, and spies deploying ritual sexual abuse, torture and sacrifice of children on a massive systemic globalized scale. Pedophile Lt. Col. Michael Aquino as a satanic mind control programmer and career psychological warfare officer again plays a key, front and center role in this demonic matrix.

Scratch the surface history of US military intelligence and CIA covert operations to their so called black projects and pedophilia rears its ugly head at every turn. But it wasn't until the 1970's that their grotesque human rights violations were unveiled in a book authored by State Department insider John Marks called The Search for the Manchurian Candidate: The CIA and Mind Control based on then recent declassified CIA documents.[1] Other disturbing, firsthand accounts emerged with CIA whistleblowers Vincent Marchetti and Philip Agee[2] in combination with sobering revelations arising from the Senate Church Committee investigating CIA improprieties and overreaches.[3] Because so much of the CIA's dubious atrocities committed around the world have already been covered extensively elsewhere,[4] the briefest chronology of the infamous intelligence agency should suffice here.

Typically any national leader in this world who wants to do right by his or her people and be independent of America's raping and pillaging by the likes of parasitic World Bank and IMF loans[5] along with invading Western multinational corporate giants is targeted by the CIA for subversion and insurrection by CIA-paid and trained opposition, and removed from power by coup, assassination and most often replaced by CIA backed military dictatorships.[6] This horrific pattern across the globe is history endlessly repeated. US Empire has overthrown scores of sovereign governments[7] and against all international law imposed its imperialistic death grip on virtually every country on this planet. Only two nations on this earth are still holdouts refusing to succumb to the Rothschild central banking cabal[8] - Iran[9] and North Korea.[10] No surprise they're both targeted as longtime US enemies that Empire's constantly threatened to bomb into oblivion, which would be the second time for North Korea.[11] [12] Now you understand why. This telling fact speaks volumes, revealing everything you need to know about New World Disorder and the CIA's primary function to bring it about.

The fact that the Rothschild cartel maintains central banks in every country on earth but two, means that it controls or minimally partners with all other nations including both Russian and Chinese oligarchs, dispelling the entire myth of the West versus East dichotomy. Despite the brainwash since World War II that the Russians are eternal enemies of the United States and Europe,[13] the ultimate truth is the New World Order encompasses Illuminati elite busily pushing Oz-like levers of control from behind both the Western and Eastern "Curtain." These artificial political divisions have always been conveniently manufactured false props promoting two "opposing" ideologies along political-military lines (i.e., Western "free enterprise" "democracies" vs. Eastern "Communist" "totalitarian dictatorships"). The reality is these two opposite systems never existed beyond the abstract and are largely homogenized into one and the same, run by the same global elite. The elitist power structure owning and controlling our planet transcends arbitrary geographical borders, making this so called West vs. East factionalism into two enemy camps forever implanted in our brains pure bullshit, perpetrated by the same usual suspect - the Luciferian, war making, pedophilic elite just to keep ongoing "order out of chaos" tensions alive and well. After all, the masses are far more easily manipulated and controlled when indoctrinated into always fearing and hating the vilified “bogeyman.”[14] The same can be said for “Islam” being the Christian enemy. From the get-go Middle Eastern “terrorists” were secretly created and supported by the Western elite.[15] All our so called enemies are fabricated inventions of the planetary controllers to propagate their endless war of terror in order to keep their polarized, divided and conquered world into fixed enemy camps fighting each other.[16] We’ve all been lied to for a very long time.

But rather than focus on the elite’s international destabilization agenda as a prerequisite to tyranny of a one world government, this chapter will examine in detail the US government’s trauma-induced mind control program that regularly involves sodomizing, sacrificing, abducting and trafficking children globally. The CIA has been deployed chiefly as a private clandestine army for Luciferian worshipping planetary controllers, i.e., the owners of the world’s private central banking system, largest transnational corporations, and through bribery and blackmail, virtually all the national governments.[17] [18] And from the CIA’s genesis in 1947 to the present, it has exclusively served the interests of its masters - the ruling elite.

There are critics of the US intelligence community that refer to it as the US president’s private army.[19] But because so much of both its CIA and military operations have been conducted in sealed tight secrecy with absolute zero oversight, knowledge or control from either the president or Congress,[20] that view is inaccurate. Though black budget operations appear to be run by an independent rogue force, in reality they’re merely a controlled manifestation of the hidden satanic hand that rules this world.

Take for instance the highly controversial Majestic-12(also called MJ-12, MAJI, the Majority Agency for Joint Intelligence[21]), the government inner circle created by a

President Truman executive order in 1947 after the UFO Roswell crash in order to oversee all top secret space phenomena that includes extraterrestrials and black ops programs.[22] Formed on the heels of the 1947 National Security Act that spawned the CIA, MJ-12 was comprised of a dozen exclusive members, half from top government intelligence and the military, and half from the scientific community. Near a half century apart, two powerful Washington insiders, both MJ members, were likely assassinated for the very same reason - daring to defy MJ-12 secrecy by allegedly pushing too hard on ET disclosure - Secretary of Defense James Forrestal in 1949[23] and former CIA director William Colby in 1996.[24] [25] As early as 1954, MJ-12 began excluding even President Eisenhower from this ultra-secret intel loop.[26] And in his 1961 presidential farewell address, recognizing the growing danger posed by an unchecked military industrial complex, Eisenhower warned America of its grave threat to our future liberties.[27] Unfortunately Americans neither paid heed to Ike's warning nor three months later his successor's prophetic revelation exposing the shadow government[28] that soon enough murdered him,[29] leaving the perps free to usher in Washington's increasing lack of transparency, perpetual state of war and the methodical rollout of their burgeoning New World Order.[30]

Bottom line, for centuries Illuminati bloodline rulers[31] behind the British-American Empire (after all, the US is still a British colony[32]) have been funding both sides to virtually every war, conflict and revolution they instigate,[33] insidiously promoting an ideology of cultural Marxism and anti-free market monopolism,[34] while secretly financing and supporting history's biggest genocidal offenders - Lenin,[35] Stalin,[36] Hitler,[37] Mao,[38] along with smaller scale tyrants - the Shah of Iran,[39] Pol Pot,[40] Muammar Gaddafi,[41] Saddam Hussein,[42] Manuel Noriega[43] and Augusto Pinochet.[44]

Historically, the Council on Foreign Relations as the elite's US foreign policy gatekeeper exercises far more authority over the CIA than the selected figurehead sitting in the White House.[45] In fact, along with the CFR, all the secret societies mentioned in previous chapters - the Anglo-American Pilgrims Society,[46] Skull and Bones,[47] the Jesuit Order, the Malta Knights, Freemasons,[48] Trilateral Commission,[49] Bilderbergers[50] and the entire Illuminati network[51] all work fiendishly together issuing marching orders to the CIA, Mossad and MI6 to wage their fascist global war against democracy, freedom, peace, truth and justice. One cursory look at the CIA's beginning and subsequent track record more than proves it.

Again the CIA was formed in 1947 directly evolving out of World War II's Office of Strategic Services (OSS). What does it tell you when the OSS head "Wild Bill" Donovan and first CIA Director Allen Dulles arranged to protect thousands of Nazi war criminals from all accountability,[52] and with help from the Malta Knights provided our supposed enemy with new personal identities along with high paying jobs heading up America's most top secret agencies? Through Operation Paperclip, they secretly relocated up to 5,000 scientists and engineers from Germany to America as spoils of war in competition "against" secretly funded US cold war enemy the Soviet Union.[53] As the longest running CIA director ever, American traitor Dulles was fired by JFK who had vowed to abolish the agency[54] only to have Dulles since become the prime suspect in JFK's assassination.[55] It's also been determined that 9,000 high ranking Nazi war criminals were also safely transported to South American destinations in Brazil, Argentina and Chile.[56] Through joint CIA-Vatican ratlines extending from the Old to New Worlds, thousands of Nazi criminals were illegally relocated and secretly granted safe haven to escape justice. So with a grand entrance like that, who needs enemies when the CIA already established itself as one to the American people?

So right out starting gate, the CIA has always maintained nefarious intentions. Instead of fulfilling its designated purpose for even existing - serving as an information gathering source to ostensibly benefit the security of all Americans[57] (which it intentionally and consistently has failed [58]), US intelligence services have brutally acted as the world's fascist destabilizer for the ruling elite, promoting worldwide confrontation, conflict and war. To everyone else's detriment over the last seven decades, the CIA has only profited the military industrial complex and the banksters, subversively fomenting nonstop coups and wars. Additionally, as an integral part of the current deep state quagmire and diabolical swamp[59] that Donald Trump was expressly mandated by vote to drain,[60] US intelligence not only continues controlling both news media[61] [62] and film industry[63] as key sources of now legalized mass propaganda,[64] it also regularly orchestrates US state sponsored terrorism[65] [66] against American citizens on US soil.[67] [68] No wonder the war hero president Eisenhower fatefully warned us of our dire future while his predecessor Harry S. Truman who originally signed off establishing the Central Intelligence Agency lived to regret it, confiding in his biographer Merle Miller in the early 1970's:

> I think [the creation of the CIA] was a mistake. And if I'd known what was going to happen, I never would have done it.[69]

Yet another brave one of its own, as agency Angola station chief in the 1970's, John Stockwell is the highest ranking whistleblower to go public before Congress with CIA secret war crimes that he estimated back in 1987 to be the murder of 6 million Third World citizens.[70] Stockwell summarized his former company's M.O. this way:

It is the function of the CIA to keep the world unstable, and to propagandize and teach the American people to hate, so we will let the establishment spend any amount of money on arms.[71]

Speaking of hate, during WWII Nazi doctors had already been experimenting extensively with mind control research at the concentration camps testing barbiturates and mescaline.[72] Even prior to the close of the Second World War, the US busily had designs to harness German scientific “talent” committing the most despicable human atrocities, shielding Nazi criminals from Nuremberg trials by granting them long term job security while placing them in charge of America’s nuclear and aerospace industries as well as covert federal black operations research and criminal programs.[73]

The most infamous, sadistic Nazi doctor of them all, Dr. Josef Mengele, the “Angel of Death,” who killed thousands at Auschwitz as part of his diabolical experiments,[74] underwent a series of colorful name changes concealing his true identity, from Dr. Black[75] to Dr. Green to Dr. Greenbaum,[76] while developing the most heinous methods in North America for brutally stealing young innocents’ minds and souls. Mengele was granted a free pass via the Nazi-CIA ratline to travel at will globally to multiple locations in South America, the United States and even to old stomping grounds in Europe. Using a dozen or so furnished aliases, the antithesis of the good doctor was repeatedly sighted and continued maintaining contact with MK survivors from across the US and Canada, stretching incredibly to Vietnam and Russia.[77] Even his home addresses in Sao Paulo, Brazil and New York State, 30 miles north of the Big Apple were known. Yet for more than three decades, the Angel of Death “mysteriously” evaded capture, no doubt with lots of help from his friends in high places, protecting him well into his golden years, until 1979 when he allegedly suffered a stroke while swimming at a Brazilian resort and drowned.[78] On at least two occasions Israeli intelligence had tracked Mengele down, but “oddly enough” each time the head of Mossad ordered his field agents to drop the case.[79]

Another evil mad scientist credited as the architect of the MK Ultra and Project Monarch mind control programs begun by Dulles in April 1953 was Dr. Sidney Gottlieb.[80] Like Mengele, this monster was also responsible for a number of innocent people’s deaths. Slipping LSD into the drinks of unsuspecting human guinea pigs was his specialty among others. In 1952 an American in Paris, not Gene Kelly, but a year after that film’s release a 22-year old artist named Stanley Glickman whose Canadian girlfriend was away sat alone at a café when he was invited across the street to join a group of Americans. These straight-laced acquaintances shared conservative views that the liberal-minded artist objected to, and an argument ensued. Just as the annoyed Glickman was ready to leave, the American with a club foot insisted he buy a peace offering drink to make amends for the heated irritation that had just erupted. By the time club foot returned, he’d already spiked the drink with LSD. And within minutes the life of the promising young artist was spinning out of control.

Stanley never painted again, suffered from hallucinations, was given electroshock, and ended up telling his girlfriend to leave him rather than be dragged down by his derailed, highly troubled life.[81] Extremely strong circumstantial evidence indicated that the club footed poisoner was Dr. Sidney Gottlieb, a relatively young psychiatrist at the time who within a year would be authorized by the CIA head to officially abuse hundreds if not thousands more unsuspecting victims like Glickman in their MK Ultra drug experimentation. Proving that crime does pay [as long as you’re connected], within no time at all Gottlieb was running the MK Ultra program for the next 22 years, ruining millions more lives. A sad postscript to the former artist in Paris, upon learning years later that it was the CIA that drugged him and sent him spiraling, through family and a friend’s support, Glickman ultimately sought legal representation, especially when he learned that the MK program architect was the club footed culprit who gave him the drink that ruined his life.[82] The evidence against Gottlieb and the government was overwhelming. But then Stanley’s health rapidly deteriorated and at 62 he died in 1992. His family pursued his case against the government, but to no avail. Yep, national security always protects the guilty at the expense of the rest of us.

Yet another hapless victim whose life was tragically ruined by Sidney Gottlieb was germ warfare researcher Frank Olson.[83] The 43-year old civilian Army and CIA employee was attending a company function at a Maryland retreat in 1953 when Dr. Gottlieb provided Olson and four other employees his favorite icebreaker, LSD cocktails. Twenty minutes later just as the psychedelic effects set in, they were informed that they were experiencing an acid trip. Understandably upset, Olson left the gathering a forever changed man. Shortly after the incident, he threatened to quit over the deceptive harm Gottlieb had caused him. The CIA sent him to see a psychiatrist in New York City and while staying overnight in his hotel room, just nine days after the hallucinogen altered his mind, he allegedly jumped out of a 13 story window to his death. Calling it a suicide and claiming that a company colleague actually witnessed Olson jump out the window, the CIA explained away Olson’s ill-fated end as a sudden onset of suicidal symptoms related to severe depression. Olson’s 38-year old widowed wife, left alone to raise their three small children under 10, had no other choice but to reluctantly accept this cruel outcome.

But during the post-Watergate Church Committee hearings two decades later, the family learned that the CIA had unethically given LSD to Frank Olson just days before his suspicious death. Despite the CIA still insisting Olson suicided, the pedophile US president at the time, Gerald Ford,[84] and his pedophile CIA director George HW Bush,[85] both steeped in mind control criminality and satanic sex abuse, decided buying off the family with a $750,000 hush funded bribe would be their best damage control option.[86]

Nearly a quarter century after Olson's death, testifying before Congress in 1977, Gottlieb was still justifying his despicably monstrous behavior evoking "national security" as his entitlement:

Harsh as it may sound in retrospect, it was felt that in an issue where national survival might be concerned, such a procedure and such a risk was a reasonable one to take.[87]

Then in the 1990's a couple decades after that slap-in-the-face lie, Frank's son had his father's body exhumed and learned that blunt force head trauma prior to his fall was what likely caused his father's death,[88] thus confirming either way, that Gottlieb and his CIA in fact killed Frank Olson. With Richard Helms ensuring that the CIA's most self-incriminating evidence was destroyed by 1973 in order to eliminate all liability and blowback, as always the agency's countless murders and abuse were conveniently swept under the rug and covered up.

Projects Bluebird, Artichoke and MK Ultra were early highly illegal, secret forerunners to the Monarch program that PSYOPS expert Michael Aquino and his contemporaries inherited in the late 1960's and massaged with their own demented technological innovations. Artichoke lives on today at Guantanamo and hundreds of illegal secret CIA black site "enhanced" torture chambers around the world still using "truth drugs" and sensory overload.[89] These programs from the 1950's were guilty of misusing LSD and other drugs to exploit and abuse thousands of nonconsenting US adults and children as human guinea pigs, including unsuspecting bar patrons, hooker-lured johns[90] as well as tapping an unlimited supply source of US military personnel, prison inmates and public health populations (with a racist proclivity for victimizing people of color), vulnerable foreign nationals and captured foreign spies throughout North America, Europe and Far East settings.[91] So a longstanding pattern's been in place - the same planetary rulers that secretly finance and support the biggest murderers in human history (Hitler, Stalin and Mao) also sponsor Nazi satanic ritual abuse and mind control experimentation on hapless American citizens.

Of course using fellow human beings in the name of "science" as convenient guinea pigs is nothing new. Minus legal consent, the same evil perpetrators were infecting poor black sharecroppers in Alabama with lethal doses of syphilis for four decades straight in the disgraceful Tuskegee experiment, doing the same with Guatemalans in the 1940's,[92] using racist eugenics laws to force sterilization on thousands of unsuspecting Puerto Rican, Native American and African American and incarcerated women even recently in California,[93] the Army maliciously releasing cancer-causing radioactive gas clouds from black neighborhood rooftops in St. Louis in the mid-1950's,[94] and for decades testing above ground atomic weapons, willfully harming both the native populations in the South Pacific Marshall Islands[95] as well as Americans downwind from sites in Nevada and Utah.[96] In September 1950 when I was a six month old baby living at Mare Island naval base, a stone's throw from San Francisco, from Frisco Bay a Mare Island US Navy vessel sprayed biological warfare microbes into the air just to see how a million of us residents would react.[97] Time and time again, the US government premeditatedly harms its own citizens, killing thousands in the process, yet obviously doesn't give a shit. The list of coldblooded murderous atrocities the racist elite has egregiously perpetrated on us so called “inferior” expendables, has been without limit, conscience or consequence. That pathetic and sad reality must change.

Meanwhile, today’s daily dose ingesting fluoride,[98] vaccines,[99] GMO[100] processed “dead” food[101] and geoengineering metals raining down[102] on dangerously toxic, morbidly obese, unhealthy Americans[103] is no different. From the get-go the elite’s known it’s harming the masses. By design, the planetary controllers want us dying slow profitable deaths for the ghastly bloated, Rockefeller monopolized US healthcare industry[104] comprising 18% of America’s total GDP (one and a half times more expensive than the world’s runner-up the Netherlands).[105] The globalists’ current depopulation agenda has 90-95% of us humans targeted for extermination within the next several years.[106]

As an additional component of this diabolical endgame agenda, innocent victims of US state sponsored domestic and foreign terrorism are increasing.[107] The latest staged mass casualty event in Las Vegas on October 1st, allegedly the deadliest shooting spree on US soil in American history (58 dead and near 500 injured),[108] [109] [110] surpassing last year’s record-breaker the Orlando false flag,[111] provides skyrocketing proof the globalists are fast and furiously unleashing their WMD arsenal - a soft and hard kill combo[112] - on earth’s current population, maniacally causing the planet’s sixth mass life extinction,[113] and the earth’s first known anthropomorphically caused extinction. Seemingly, the behind-the-scenes puppet master controllers are both homicidal and suicidal.

As the elite’s foot soldiers and executioners, the FBI, CIA and military intelligence are the behind-the-scenes engineers and handlers of so much of this senseless carnage.[114] From the globalist POV, mass firearm possession in America as a constitutional Second Amendment right is what's holding up the formal rollout of the long plotted one world government tyranny. So their Hegelian "problem-reaction-solution" formula[115] comes in the form of "too many guns causing too much gun violence," so naturally deep state's ultimate solution is gun control leading to enforced confiscation. In nations where strict gun control laws have been enacted, England, Ireland, Canada and Australia, the homicide rates actually increased immediately afterwards and then generally flatten out, indicating a resounding failure to reduce rates of gun violence.[116] [117] America's problem isn't so much easy access to guns as our culture is so thoroughly saturated, conditioned, desensitized and mind controlled into accepting violence and war as a viable normative option. The elite's longtime willful sociocultural engineering through 24/7 mass media propaganda manipulating and programming Americans towards conflict and violence poses the far bigger problem.[118]

History has shown disastrous consequences when guns have been banned altogether. Immediately preceding every single genocide from the last century, the offending national governments passed laws outlawing gun ownership amongst the soon-to-be targeted genocidal populations.[119] As a result, in Turkey during WWI, one third of all Armenians, a million and a half, were massacred.[120] After 1929 when guns were banned in the Soviet Union, 40 million fellow Russians were purged by dictator Josef Stalin. Up to 13 million Jews, Poles, dissidents and homosexuals were rounded up and murdered by Nazis during the half dozen years following Germany's 1938 gun law confiscation. After gun control was established in China in 1935, up to 60 million dissidents were exterminated by Communist Mao Zedong.[121] The same dire outcomes were repeated in Guatemala after 1964, Uganda after 1970, Cambodia during the mid-1970's, and in 1994 Rwanda.

Further effects of the depopulation agenda involve manufacturing the recent weaponized superstorm hurricanes through Tesla scalar technology destroying our ionosphere while attacking large population centers across America and the Caribbean.[122] [123] Harvey, Irma and Maria arrived also as the vengeful response aimed against Trump for derailing the elite's coveted UN Paris Agreement[124] based on the fake science hoax of a manmade carbon footprint.[125] Recently the globalists are facing defeat on multiple fronts, and with pedophilia its Achilles heel refusing to go away, their proxy war ally ISIS getting wiped out in the Middle East,[126] the Brexit and Catalan vote for independence as prelude to EU's disintegration,[127] [128] with each passing day now the ruling Satanists are growing more desperate and frantic to retain control over both their false narratives and crumbling power, so we're witnessing an aggressive full scale genocide attack against humanity, marking virtually all of us for earthly extinction.

But back to how we got here to this cataclysmic precipice, and the CIA's contributing role with its black operations timeline, specifically the infamous MK Ultra program's early 1950's arrival. MK was bent on honing CIA's clandestine skills collecting research on drug experimentation, working early with Big Pharma to test LSD and a number of other "truth enhancing," mind control substances;[129] also "refining" its massive behavior modification agenda through barbaric torture methods that include sexual trauma, system and sensory overload techniques such as sleep deprivation, exhaustion, isolation, starvation, altered pain thresholds, persuasion, humiliation, use of electroshock, lobotomies, and inducing sickness under deplorable inhumane conditions that violate all international and Geneva convention rules and laws.[130] In recent years a multiplicity of these sick variations of hi-tech torture methods have been developed and put to use all over the world.[131] This has been permitted because back in the early 1950's the precedent was set. The CIA and military intelligence made a secret pact with the US Department of Justice allowing free reign in moral turpitude regarding use of unethical, illegal standards in its human guinea pig experimentation.[132] And ever since it's been lawless gangbusters on steroids.[133]

Thus from the get-go, black ops was born in "shady deal" secrecy that over time has only grown exponentially shadier and darker with little to no oversight or control from any branch of government. This rogue element operating within the US shadow government with zero accountability enjoys complete impunity and concealment.[134] It generates a vast, bottomless pit of funding wealth from various highly illegal, highly lucrative criminal enterprises – international drug trafficking from the 1940's to the present,[135] [136] global child sex slave trafficking,[137] arms trafficking[138] and money laundering. And that's not even counting our hard earned tax dollars brazenly allocated for annual misuse against our self-interests nor the $8.5 trillion the never audited Pentagon has failed to account for.[139]

The British-American Empire originally operating through the East India Company has been history's biggest international drug peddler for a bunch of centuries now starting with 18th century Asian opium trade.[140] The British financed its colonial rule over India through the heroin trade exporting opium from India to China, igniting the Opium Wars of the 19th century that devastated China.[141] And now under similar circumstances, the phony pretext of a war on terror rambles on for 16 years in Afghanistan as American history's longest running, no-win-by-designed war, US Empire is still exploiting the ravaged nation (known as the graveyard of empires) for its bountiful record opium harvest[142] and precious mineral extraction.[143] From one century to the next, Anglo American predators remain an imperialistic drug pushing fixture.

With the CIA-military intelligence-Pentagon operating out of Washington, the Malta-Jesuit-Vatican out of Rome, and the central banking launderers out of the City of London,[144] the controllers' current international crime cabal is the #1 drug pusher, the #1 illicit arms smuggler, the #1 baby sodomizer/trafficker and, with Israel's assistance, the #1 human organ-bone marrow harvester on this planet.[145] These are the simple lowdown facts that confirm Satanists are ruling and fast destroying both us and our world. But fortunately their run is being challenged like never before.

Early barbaric techniques and applications from unethical CIA research were only further developed and enhanced during Lt. Col. Michael Aquino's long tenure as a PSYOPS/mind control expert and Monarch trauma-inducing programmer.[146] Use of hypnosis, electroshock, mental and physical torture, drugs, radiation exposure, and rape are a handful of common brainwashing techniques and trauma weapons used to induce in hapless victims Multiple Personality Disorder, now called Dissociative Identity Disorder.[147]

Throughout his four decade long career as a high satanic priest wearing an Army intelligence officer uniform, Michael Aquino has been at the forefront of the CIA-military intelligence MK Ultra program,[148] although in interviews he smugly reminds us that the illegal CIA MK operation ended while he was still in high school, which "official" records specify was the year he graduated in 1964.[149] But the very same month Aquino graduated in June '64 the head of CIA's MK Ultra program and Technical Services Staff, Dr. Sidney Gottlieb, simply changed the MK name to MK Search.[150] A decade later CIA Director Richard Helms allegedly destroyed all MK Ultra documents by 1973 just prior to his resignation.

[151] What Aquino won’t say is that overwhelming evidence of MK research persisted well beyond 1973, using MK Ultra mind control techniques morphing into name changing sub-programs and projects like Monarch. Yet Lt. Col. Aquino insists that not only was he never part of the MK Ultra program, but has the audacity to claim that Project Monarch is nothing more than an “urban legend.”[152] [153] Bottom line, as a psychopathic propaganda specialist and satanic high priest, lying is a professional skill set that comes with the turf and obviously comes very natural to Mr. Aquino.

In a 2007 Extreme Abuse Survey soliciting respondents who were ritual abuse survivors, 234 from the US and 83 from Canada admitted that they had been used in government mind control experimentation, and of the total 1,471 respondents, over half were born after 1964.[154] The majority of 147 answered “yes” to the survey question asking in 2007 - a mere decade ago - if they were still being abused by mind control handlers against their will. So despite whatever program name changes or alleged terminations, it’s undeniable that the government abuse and its torture and trauma methods to this day remain ongoing, only far more advanced in technology. There exists very strong evidence confirming that MK Ultra mind control and its twin variant, the Monarch trauma-based mind control program, have only thrived during Aquino’s entire tenure as a US Army mind control expert, and unfortunately is still very much active today.[155]

The significance of the mind control program named after the Monarch butterfly relates to its capacity to learn where it was born (i.e., its roots) that generation after generation it passes on through genetics to its offspring.[156] Nazi Illuminati scientists glommed onto prizing genetics as their surefire formula for producing the “perfect” Master race. Since knowledge and intelligence are inherited genetically, the key for mind control researchers was locating parents of the Illuminati persuasion where secret special occult knowledge could be passed onto their children with the ability to dissociate. Occultists from the West sought ancient secret practices from Indian yogis and Tibetan monks where dissociation skills could be learned and passed down through generations. Intergenerational Illuminati families learned to perversely evoke this capacity in their children through abusive torture and pedophilia.

The idea is to viciously and systematically induce such extreme and severe trauma on programmed children from age one and a half up (also applied to adults though not as effectively) in order to cause the personality to have to break off or dissociate from reality, in effect fracturing and splitting it into either a secondary or alternate personas in the slave’s psyche, that’s then programmed and activated at will by the handler’s gestures and trigger code-words.[157] The core personality then becomes unaware of its alters, thus able to pass lie detector tests and for years and even a lifetime trapped as an on cue tool of enslavement serving the diabolical interests of Illuminati Satanists. For survival sake alone, mind control victims must compartmentalize trauma in order to be able to function daily as the torture and sexual abuse otherwise become too much for the fragile human mind to handle. Inducing amnesia becomes the sinister system’s prescribed coping mechanism for trauma overload and shock.

Through dissociation the state of unawareness of other alter personalities benefits and protects abusers from exposure while creating disparate Jekyll and Hyde personalities in victims that can range from saint to programmed monster. While a slave’s front personality displayed daily to the outside world may be all smiles, appearing “normal” and well-adjusted, it hides the altars that bear the brunt of hurt, anger, anguish and fear. But in mind control victims Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD) that typically results from experiencing severe trauma is carefully insulated and masked by systematic programming. And if young victims are driven to complete insanity, i.e., not amnesic enough to sufficiently block out and bury their excruciating pain and suffering, they're simply quietly disposed of as unusable, highly expendable system rejects, either murdered or done away with in ritual sacrifice, or programmed to suicide.[158]

Extensive personality assessment of mind controlled infants has always played a huge role in determining each child's strengths, skills and aptitudes as well as weaknesses and deficits,[159] which in turn determine the specific semi-annual "treatment" goals of the mind control programming and ultimately the professional function the slave will later serve.[160] On the West Coast this early Monarch programming was chiefly developed and led by Dr. Mengele the Angel of Death himself while Dr. Ewen Cameron ruled rollout on the East Coast.

Inherited from Mengele's Nazi concentration camp experiments were scientific records detailing how far the torture and trauma of a child can go prior to causing death. 1950's reports of mind control training at the China Lake Naval Weapons Center near Death Valley California describe batches of babies in the thousands locked in cages that deliver high voltage shocks as trauma used to split personalities.[161] After days of mercilessly being shocked in cages, each young child is then brutally raped to ensure that disassociation occurs. As if that's not traumatic enough, workers in black robes regularly engage in ritual child sacrifice ceremonies in front of the hundreds of caged children forced to witness their young peers being stabbed to death on a marble altar.[162] The government pedophiles hired to torture little kids on such a mass assembly line scale were/are mostly civilian, many of whom come from intergenerational Illuminati families where these despicable atrocities are family tradition.

The science of flashing colored lights as trance inducers intricately timed with the electric shocks inside the cages accompanied by auditory mind control messages such as “Love me, love me not,” imprinting the dualistic, binary messaging that characterizes the mind control process of polarized extremes and life uncertainty from one moment to the next as integral programming components that facilitate forming dissociative alters. Multi-generational Illuminati family member Cisco Wheeler, whose programmer was Dr. Mengele in the California desert, recounted a ritual where the Angel of Death would walk down the row of caged children with a daisy in his hand, plucking the petals in synch with the “love me, love me not” mantra and as the last petal fell to the ground with the “love me not” cadence, he would murder the child in front of him right there on the spot.[163] This perversely sick method was the doctor’s way of “trauma bonding” with the spared children. Though the 5-year old Cisco at the time couldn’t know it, as an Illuminati slave whose great uncle was General Earle Wheeler, the drug pushing commander of the Vietnam War, she was being programmed by Mengele and his assistant her father to also become a mind control programmer.

Three standard torture scenarios are systemically utilized to traumatically create multiple personalities: 1) being literally locked in a small space, pit or cage with spiders and snakes (creatures that universally produce phobias), 2) forced to kill, cut up and eat other children, and 3) forced immersion in feces, urine and blood.[164] These and many other horrific traumas by age 4 or 5 are repeatedly thrust upon innocents to induce DID. Being deprived of food and water, placed in solitary confinement while kept in the dark for many hours or days is also very common. Programmers are big on near death experiences, coming just short of drowning kids in water and burying them alive in sand as a couple more of their favorites. From his concentration camp days, Mengele perfected the “scientific art” of near death torture, suspending victims either in ice cold water or upside down for protracted periods of time causing the brain to reverse pain-pleasure sensory feedback. This particular torture technique - being hung upside down, is used to program beta sex kitten slaves to inversely experience and desire sadistic rape as pleasure.

Sexual abuse is regularly inflicted on a child within the satanic ritual context for more powerful, dramatic effect. For instance, the child rapist’s semen ejaculation is the “black magick” that seals the deal, the climactic ending of that programming session.[165] Another ritualistic aspect is timing the trauma on a child’s birthday so that each and every year thereafter reliving the programmed trauma becomes regularly reinforced. In short, every kind of twisted, sick, sadistic shit imaginable and unimaginable goes into this methodic torture and trauma done to extremely vulnerable young children.

The China Lake MK site is but one remote, secret military installation in the desert much like Nevada’s Area 51, the epicenter “Dreamland” of black ops devilry in the West.[166][167] Though mind control sites range from Ivy League facilities (Harvard, Columbia and Cornell) to Montreal’s McGill University to large state mental hospitals across the US and Canada (St. Elizabeth near DC a favorite CIA assassin breeding ground[168]), the bulk of today’s massive daily satanic ritual abuse and child sacrifice are carried out at scores of top secret underground Military Intelligence locations called milabs. Numerous military posts have long been armed guarded havens for mind control programming.[169] But also every kid’s utopia - Disneyland and Disney World - for years have also been providing the perfect stage set props and cover for afterhours MK programming. Walt Disney himself was an upstanding Illuminati Freemason.[170] Similarly, mob controlled Las Vegas is a hotbed for satanic activity and mind control programming. A few miles outside the Vegas strip slave auctions have been regularly scheduled where blue-eyed 11-year old girls go for over $50 thousand. Overseas centers in Europe that include both a heavy-handed CIA as well as Jesuit Catholic presence where mind control programming is prevalent are located in Germany and Switzerland (also home of CERN, a potential “interdimensional portal”[171]) - the German Black Forest, Frankfurt and Berlin as well as Swiss cities Zurich and Basal, known Illuminati bastions.[172]

In addition to his seminal work exposing the satanic system of bloodline families, Fritz Springmeier and Cisco Wheeler also wrote a book entitled The Illuminati Formula Used to Create an Undetectable Mind Controlled Slave, a comprehensive account of Monarch mind control that specifies in detail how mind control operations are run.[173] Babies and small children were/are transported by plane, train and automobiles to the secret government torture labs. With children recruited from a number of sources, Springmeier’s unveiling the China Lake pedo-torture chamber refers to the unholy partnership between the federal intelligence agencies and the Catholic Church, a running theme of the worldwide pedophilia epidemic:

> The Jesuits were active in this part of the child procurement. Catholic adoption agencies (which are many), nuns who get pregnant, third world parents, and parents who will sell their children were all sources of children for programming. When one thinks about how many corrupt people there are and how many towns and cities are on the West Coast, and how many children are produced by Satanic breeders, illegal aliens and other parents who’d rather have the money than children and the reader begins to realize how procuring batches of 1,000 or 2,000 children was no problem for the Illuminati working through intelligence agencies such as the CIA, NIS, DIA, FBI, and FEMA.[174]

From the vast unlimited pool of the near million missing kids every year in the US and 8 million worldwide[175] - runaway kids from broken homes, vulnerable children trapped in this nation’s long broken and too often maleficent Child Protective Services system that oversees foster care and residential group homes, global refugee centers, children’s relief organizations, Catholic schools, the Illuminati family network, the source list is really endless for the perpetrators to prey on victims for mind control, satanic sacrifice and rape. It’s Big Brother’s Big Business bonanza on the grandest Luciferian stage. A later chapter will be devoted to the global child trafficking infrastructure.

Next we’ll examine one of Michael Aquino’s many specialties - standard operating equipment and protocol in mind control programming. Cattle prods or cattle prod wands ranging from 10,000-20,000 DC Volts as well as stun guns ranging from 120,000-200,000 volts have long been standard issue for Monarch practitioners.[176] The satanic high priest Aquino has even brazenly carried his stun gun cane in public that he used to program and control his slaves. And then Queen Elizabeth’s staff has a stun gun tip mounted on it. Cattle prods are usually applied to the buttocks or other muscled areas like just below the shoulder blades while stun guns during programming are most often used at the base of the slave’s skull for either punishment or dissociative purposes after given instructions. High voltage electrical shocks are employed regularly to erase chunks of memory (short or long term) from the brain for programming/reprogramming purposes.

Yet another piece of standard equipment may include electronic bark collars used for obedience and silence training as well as worn by sex slaves when forced into bestiality with wolves and aggressively trained dogs that typically bite the collar when mounting their victims.[177] Again, very sick shit. And to enhance effectiveness of mind control programming, hypnotic cues and drugs are also regularly incorporated into this demonic procedural protocol. At programming outset, a hypnotic drug accompanies a metal band worn around the slave's head delivering 100,000 volt currency into the brain for 5-10 seconds, causing the body to violently shake similar to electroconvulsive shock therapy. Hypnotic commands are then given and another shock for "good measure" may be applied for 10 more seconds to ensure the programming instructions remain embedded deep into the victim's mind. This entire session may last only 15 minutes and be conducted anywhere the programmer and his/her briefcase goes, containing the electronic band device and the programmer's binder that includes the slave's access codes, triggers, cryptic keys and programs.

In recent years the enormous diabolical MK operation's been vastly aided in the most sinister ways by advancing technology. Be it thousands of internet sexual predators trolling online across the world 24 hours a day for easy access to hunt down their next underage victims, or miniscule microwave chip implants hidden and embedded in mind control victims' bodies,[178] or little known, highly sophisticated psychotronic[179] and electromagnetic weaponry[180] that's augmented and, to a considerable degree, replaced some of the more conventional electroshock techniques as a means of torture and inducing amnesia. Now ELF devices can even plant thoughts in people's minds without microchips. A relative new technology misapplied with demonic intentions is directed energy now being deployed to artificially sodomize victims or apply electric shock torture to men's genitals.[181] Our age of automaton machines replacing human beings is no different in the mind control realm as harmonics has largely made programmers obsolete for implanting codes, keys, cues and triggers into slaves.

Be they Western or Eastern, the-powers-that-shouldn't-be are using microwave radio frequencies to remotely exercise mass mind control over large segments of the global population.[182] [183] How sophisticated and advanced these cutting edge technologies really are, we "mere mortals" may never know. But the general rule of thumb is the leaked info of scraps and tidbits we do manage to attain, is many decades behind what black ops has currently already developed and operationally implemented.[184]

Brice Taylor, a former mind control slave who began recalling her buried tortuous past and lived to write about it after years of healing, was privy to a wholly different world than ours. Her own words from a couple decades ago:

The technology gleaned by the American leaders, medical professionals and scientists was and still is in the form of bio-electromagnetic frequency medicine, genetic engineering, mind control, brain research, near-death experimentation, paranormal/psychic experimentation, remote viewing, time and space travel and other advanced research that make our everyday human understanding look antiquated.[185]

The elite's bloodline offspring undergo extensive multifunctional programming that also includes systematic sexual abuse and torture as well, but with a noticeably different twist and effect. For obvious reasons, physical signs of abuse are less apparent in those groomed to be members of the upper crust elitist strata.[186] Mind control hierarchy often has them employed to help program other slaves in a relentless self-replication to do harm. But be it a low level mind controlled "peon" slave or an elite slave puppet programmed and chosen by controllers to be the next "leader of the free world," satanic Illuminati puppet masters always remain on top and rigidly in control.

From day one in their sick Luciferian world, Illuminati members are hardwired, conditioned and brainwashed to believe that they are so far superior to the human masses of regular everyday ilk, that their purebred “nobility” inbreeding, hidden occult knowledge and special mind control programming places them infinitely apart from the rest of us earthlings. Their dogmatic brainwash holds the delusional (yet sacred to them) belief that they are born to play God on this earth, replete in their “divine wisdom and power” to “do what thou wilt”… [as] the whole of [their] Law” per the preaching of their Illumined idol and fellow Luciferian himself Aleister Crowley.[187] The elite seizes upon cultural relativism and amoral subjectivity as a broad stroke rationalization and license that permit the “anything goes” philosophy, that “ends always justify the means” in the clawing ascent to godly status and hereditary entitlement.[188]

Fashioned to view themselves as members of a special super race, imprinted in them early on is only contempt for the average human life, and really all life forms, always gravitating towards the Luciferian dark side to affiliate with likeminded “special” others. Yet members of the satanic Illuminati network are also typically seen and lauded as “pillars” of the community, both civic and church leaders, successful professionals in law, medicine, and education, the town councilman (or US president), church deacon, the PTA president, the Boy Scout headmaster. The army of Monarch slaves within the intelligence community are provided convincing covers complete with “legitimate” dossiers for each of their alters.[189] Appearances are meant to be highly deceiving as what you see is rarely if ever what you get with them.

Like Lucifer himself, the Illuminati elite are cunning masters of deception and are ultra-skilled and careful at covering their tracks.[190] And while so many may appear to us as upstanding, God fearing, moral citizens, within their dark secret satanic world, they regard the rest of humanity as subhuman, vastly inferior objects to be thoroughly exploited, denigrated, tortured and killed, literally relegated as mere sources for their food and sadist entertainment consumption. Thus, trauma induced mind controlled slaves are meticulously programmed to lead double Jekyll and Hyde lives, no matter where they fit on the elite's totem pole.

Fritz Springmeier asserted that half the therapists in his area in Oregon treating Monarch victims are multiples themselves working for the other side.[191] Fritz also maintains that woman's advocacy groups and helplines along with so called Christian charity organizations offering support for satanic ritual abuse victims in many cases are actually an Illuminati false front. Their interlocking secret network makes it very difficult for mind controlled, satanic cult members to leave and rather than risk secrets revealed to the public, murder is commonplace. Death threats, continued harassment and rape are still weapons the Illuminati cult holds over those strong enough to risk death by leaving.[192]

As expert infiltrators, agent provocateurs are sent out on undercover missions to discredit, smear and create scandals within opposing organizations. And because Satan's hold on mass propaganda is so pervasive, professionally paid shills have notoriously saturated independent and social media to undermine the credibility of alternative news outlets with bogus "fake news" lists. Banning the truth is of highest priority in every demonic totalitarian regime. Like their Luciferian brothers the Jesuits and Freemasons, Illuminists are masterful infiltrators at every level and sector. By their demonic design, imposters have been disbursed everywhere to spread lies, confuse the public and obscure and silence the truth.

Illuminati sodomizers are adept at making their abuse so unbelievable, that even when child victims defy threats and warnings and dare reveal the truth to outsiders, especially if they report they were forced to eat another child's flesh or feces, or drank their urine or blood, and that the abusers were Mickey Mouse or Count Dracula, which satanic pedophiles often will wear outrageous occult or Disney costumes for that very sinister purpose, it's all over for the poor child. High Satanic Priest and pedophile programmer Michael Aquino appeared on the Oprah Winfrey Show in full Vincent Lugosi regalia.[193] Recall from last chapter that "Mikey" Aquino was reported by one of his Presidio victims while abusing her to have dressed up like a woman while his wife was dressed like a man. All too often children's SRA disclosures aren't taken serious, cast aside as the verbal ramblings of "overactive imaginations." The child is then sent right back to the abusers, severely punished with even more brutal rapes and in turn ostracized by their Illuminati family and larger community. Abused children who muster the courage to tell the truth too often learn early on the very harsh lesson that honesty doesn't pay, which in their satanic world is all too painfully true.

As a member of a multigenerational Illuminati family growing up in the small Delaware town Arden, within shadow distance of the infamous DuPont family bloodline (speaking of inbred insanity[194]), the courageous activist Jay Parker rejected his parents' dogmatically insane evil. Parker states that when he grew up in Arden back in the 1960's, 90% of the town's residents were Illuminati pedophiles.[195] Jay describes a common trauma-induced, satanic rite of passage, foisted on him at age six when his best friend was ritualistically raped and died three days later from septic shock in 1963. At great risk to himself, Jay went to a friend's home down the street to his token Christian neighbors to report the traumatizing murder in hopes that they would notify the local authorities. The friend’s father did report the crime to the police, but afraid of the town’s powerful Illuminati majority, the police said there was nothing they could do.

Unfortunately this is an all too common outcome as the tight-knit satanic network has infiltrated positions of authority throughout law enforcement, the courts and government across this nation and world from local to state, federal to international levels. After his friend’s death, Jay’s parents quickly took him to a psychiatrist, of course a fellow Illuminati who electroshocked him into amnesia to clear away all short term memory of his best friend’s death. On another occasion a year later Jay was placed in a deep hypnotic, drug induced Monarch trance, only to be “awakened” holding an axe and told that while unconscious, he had just hacked off the arms and legs of the sacrificed 14-year old girl in front of him fast bleeding to death, gurgling and choking on her own blood.[196]

Jay Parker’s shockingly abusive experiences are the kind of outrageously sick, maniacal torture rituals that mind control victims are regularly subjected to. As mentioned earlier, children are often kept in cages, deprived of food and water for extended periods, forced to drink their own urine and eat their own feces. And standard satanic ritual abuse requires them to participate in the killing of other sacrificed children, cannibalizing their flesh, and drinking their blood, by demonic rite of passage making them one of them.

As a five-year old, Parker underwent the common “buried alive” traumatizing ritual where he was lowered into a pit with a casket while his father looming above him dressed in hooded robe as fire and brimstoned God condemned little Jay as never included in the Book of Life. This particular ritual is geared to convincingly brainwash young impressionable mind control victims to identify with, accept and embrace the dark side as their only hope for salvation. When Illuminati Monarch victims or, for that matter, the human masses as mass mind control victims are programmed to worship a false idol god as their oppressor, as in Lucifer, or mind controlled entertainment superstars from music, TV/film, sports industries, or even political leaders as objects of idol worship, then the elite's already triumphed in its evil-over-good endgame. Seeing through their deception is among our greatest challenges.

Once amnesic memories from their haunting past begin surfacing, and Monarch victims have managed to defy their programmed suicide script, what follows are years of deprogramming and healing of their unconscious mind. After 1999 Jay Parker began his road to recovery and now advocates a particular healing therapy called Emotional Freedom Techniques (EFT) involving what he calls energy psychology.[197] This treatment modality utilizes a combination of acupressure in 9 tapping points from one's hand, head, to breastbone and underarm where past emotional disruptions can be released while acknowledging the negative emotions and crippling experiences but countering them through repeated phrases promoting self-acceptance and healing. This emotive therapy is a relatively simple integrative, holistic mind-body-spirit approach.

According to Jay Parker, at least 34 million Americans are Illuminati Satanist pedophiles, all programmed mind control operatives serving the elite.[198] Arizona Wilder, another victim-survivor gone public, trained as an Illuminati goddess for her psychic ability in satanic occult rituals to draw and manage demonic interdimensional forces, stated over a decade ago that there are likely 10 million mind controlled slaves in the US.[199] In any event, worldwide there are no doubt multi-generations numbering in the tens of millions that have been and are victims of trauma-based mind control, trained as obedient slaves mindlessly carrying out various nefarious functions as controlled and manipulated cogs in the diabolical wheel for the Illuminati elite.

Monarch survivor Paul Bonacci victimized in the egregious Nebraska Franklin scandal (covered in a future chapter), endured nearly two decades of horrific abuse that included drugs, satanic rituals, rape, torture and murder.[200] [201] In 1999 Paul testified in a civil suit that 17 years earlier Michael Aquino had ordered the kidnapping of 12-year old paperboy Johnny Gosch in West Des Moines, Iowa.[202] Bonacci was forced to lure the boy into the getaway vehicle to become yet another MK victim. Along with scores of other Omaha victims that were frequently abducted from the famous Boys Town Catholic orphanage and brought to nearby Offutt Air Force Base for trauma-based programming, Bonacci and his peers were sodomized by high profile politicians that included George HW Bush in a massive scandal that led directly to both the Reagan-Bush White House.

In 1984 Paul Bonacci was also flown from Offutt AFB, making a pit stop in Vegas to pick up eccentric journalist “Gonzo” Hunter Thompson and onto McClellan Air Force Base in northern California, and finally driven to the elite summer camp for powerful pedophiles - Bohemian Grove, where he was forced at gunpoint to participate in a snuff film that included child rape and another young boy murdered.[203] Gonzo may have later also been murdered as a potential threat disclosing what he knew of these systemic atrocities regularly committed in such high profile places.[204]

Nebraska photographer Rusty Nelson, employed by up and coming Republican Party star Lawrence King, the pedophile Satanist kingpin behind the Franklin scandal, reported seeing King hand a suitcase full of cash and bonds over to a man identified as Michael Aquino in a posh Minneapolis hotel.[205] King told Nelson that Lt. Col. Aquino was part of the Contra arms for cocaine operation with Lt. Col. Oliver North run by the then drug pushing Vice President George H. W. Bush.

Aside from Jay Parker, in recent decades a number of very brave, strong women such as Cathy O'Brien,[206] Kathleen Sullivan,[207] Brice Taylor,[208] Arizona Wilder,[209] Carol Rutz,[210] Fritz Springmeier's co-author Cisco Wheeler[211] and many more have also emerged from the dark shadows after reclaiming their horrific long lost memories of years of enslaved abuse at the hands of Illuminati Satanists like Lt. Colonel Michael Aquino and so many famous and powerful VIP's. Two mind control survivors and former child slaves, Cathy O'Brien and Christine DeNicola,[212] provided sworn testimony at a 1995 congressional hearing that demonstrated MK Ultra was active at least until the mid-1980's, and that both victims identified Aquino among their programmers. Christine's testimony states that another of her programmers from 1974-76 was the infamous Dr. Green aka Dr. Mengele.[213] Because at times her mind control henchmen failed to lock her cage at night in a room next to the doctor's office, as a 13 and 14-year old she was able to access Mengele's programming files and used her photographic memory to record and reproduce a long list of Monarch programs.[214]

After recognizing Lt. Col. Aquino on TV after his Oprah Winfrey appearance in 1989 and scores of sexually abused children identifying him as their pedophile rapist in subsequent filed police reports across the country, additionally at least three witnesses under oath provided testimony also singling out the 38-year career Army officer as their notorious MK Ultra/Monarch programmer and sadistic abuser. Dozens of mind control survivors independently describing the same satanic rituals and torture methods perfectly corroborate the CIA's own documents released through Freedom of Information requests. The massive amounts of empirical evidence cannot simply be dismissed nor discounted. Mind control afflicting millions of demonically programmed government slaves doing the dirty bidding of Satanists ruling our planet is an undisputable, cold hard fact.

Government whistleblower Cathy O'Brien teamed with a former CIA officer Mark Phillips credited with arranging her 1988 escape and helped to deprogram the former deep state slave.[215] Sadly, Cathy's hero and life partner Mark Phillips just died this past September 6th.[216] In recent decades both O'Brien and Phillips had boldly gone public disclosing how as a Monarch victim O'Brien was horribly abused as a little girl, starting with her own perverted Freemason, child pornographer father. Circulating naked photos of Cathy through the mail caught the lascivious eye of local Michigan politician and pedophile Gerald Ford, already steeped in drug trafficking, child pornography and the Michigan mob, and later ascending as American history's only nonelected VP and president.[217] Protected by the 1947 National Security Act, Cathy's incestuous father was granted immunity in exchange for selling his own daughter into a life of government-run slavery - the Monarch mind control program. Together O'Brien and Phillips co-wrote the landmark 1995 book Trance-Formation of America detailing her many years of abuse and torture.[218]

Pedo Prez Gerald Ford [219] was surrounded by fellow pedophiles, CIA Director George HW Bush, Ford's Chief of Staff Donald Rumsfeld (if not overtly a child rapist, definitely a complicit enabler)[220] and assistant Dick Cheney, all central figures in DC's "good ol' boys" crime club network. A few years later they would comprise the same neocon nucleus that treasonously committed 9/11,[221] murdering 3,000 fellow Americans as their "new Pearl Harbor"[222] in order to launch their preplanned "endless war on terror,"[223] which of course is still ongoing today. As a young white slave, Cathy endured near three decades of sexual assault perpetrated on triggered cue by the world's biggest child raping powerbrokers, owned by longtime West Virginia Senator Robert Byrd who passed her out on loan to the likes of Ronald Reagan,[224] Henry Kissinger, George H.W. Bush, former Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau[225] as well as the Clintons who O'Brien dually served as both their "presidential sex model" (referring to programmed sex service slaves given US presidents and other top elitists), as well as a Clinton cocaine drug courier. As the lustful lesbo witch she is, hungry Hillary sexually assaulted Cathy.[226]

As mentioned another brave, intelligent former slave and survivor gone public with books about her horrendous experience is Brice Taylor (actual name Susan Ford).[227] Like Cathy O'Brien, Brice's own daughter also named Kelly was also a Monarch program conscript. Brice Taylor's story is told in her autobiographical exposé called Thanks for the Memories (1999) with her owner the "revered" comedic legend Bob Hope and her primary handler none other than Henry Kissinger.[228] Like Cathy, Brice was not only in constant demand as a presidential model, referred to as the "million dollar baby," from early childhood to adulthood as enslaved sex toy to Presidents John F. Kennedy, Lyndon Johnson, Richard Nixon, Gerald Ford, Ronald Reagan and George H.W. Bush.[229]

But Brice Taylor was also a multi-purpose slave, trained to possess a photographic memory. She would be granted access to various secret files and then by rote retain them in her head as a "mind-file," the term her programmer Henry Kissinger used. Long ago the Illuminati pecking order designated Kissinger as its Council CEO, the select group near the top of the power elite pyramid.[230] One example of the brutal depravity and sickness Brice, Cathy and countless others endure involves the "most dangerous game," similarly depicted in the film "Hunger Games," as a naked slave given a head start to then be mercilessly hunted down by a predator and savagely raped and potentially killed. Taylor endured this fate on Bob Hope's Jordan Ranch at the hands of the particularly sadistic and cruel Satanist George H.W. Bush.[231] Taylor's decades of slavery varied from being a presidential model to information courier to drug courier to spy and even assassin.

Within the Monarch mind control slave system, a small rotating circle exists between slaves and their masters. While still in high school in the 1970's on her family's summer vacation to Wyoming's Grand Tetons, Cathy O'Brien was brought along to pacify the sadistic whims of Ford's White House Chief of Staff Dick Cheney, who used his oversized, weaponized penis to savagely rape and bloody her as her turn to "play" the dangerous game. In the Rocky Mountain wilderness the naked teenager was hunted down like an animal only to be raped and tortured by her demented, dick-flogging captor Dick.[232]

Cathy's high school graduation "gift" from her sick father was literally selling her off to her new master, the all-powerful Democratic West Virginia Senator Richard Byrd. Her father's payoff was an enormous defense contract that instantly made him a super wealthy man with his demented criminality securely protected by the old standby "national security interests." Daddy's pimping and selling his daughter off to the most powerful satanic evildoers on earth proved to be a very lucrative enterprise.

A few years later while in her mid-twenties during the early 1980's, Cathy O'Brien's owner Senator Byrd sent her for more mind control torture training at Fort Campbell, Kentucky where she met her newly assigned programmer Michael Aquino.[233] Cathy concurs with longtime Bay area activist Mae Brussell that Aquino is a "professed neo-Nazi" enamored with Heinrich Himmler's occultism so much so as to inspire Aquino’s satanic church named Temple of Set.[234] That said, O’Brien maintains that her programmer’s only displayed “satanic power” came in the form of his high voltage stun guns he used on her regularly. According to Cathy, Aquino’s mind control programming was administered with “high tech” efficiency, quickly erasing her previous handler’s influence. Describing Aquino’s functional role:

> … Programming me according to Byrd’s specifications as his “own little witch” for sadistic sex, covert CIA drug muling, blackmail, and prostitution operations.[235]

There would soon be more programming torture sessions with Aquino on other military posts and a NASA flight center all in the state of Alabama. The NASA indoctrination gave Aquino access to the latest techniques at the time, like “sensory deprivation tanks, virtual reality, flight simulators, and harmonics.” Aquino also began utilizing all the latest mind control modalities on Cathy’s daughter by age two, with sexual assault and stun gun torture shattering her mind prior to her base personality even having a chance to form.[236] To this day both mother and daughter carry the physical and emotional scars of Aquino’s “handiwork,” with her daughter institutionalized much of her life in mental hospitals.

Cathy’s master Byrd showed up at the NASA site to impart more twisted and demented preferences to be programmed into his sex slave. While in Alabama, Byrd and Aquino also collaborated coming up with the idea to use Cathy to make two instructional porno videos for newbie programmers with a pair of local cops moonlighting as film pornographers, one flick entitled “How to Divide a Personality,” the other film called “How to Create a Sex Slave.”[237] Very sick people in charge of our planet.

Because military intelligence officer Lt. Col. Aquino circulated in and out of multiple career assignments amongst a myriad of governmental agencies, universities, military and civilian programs, both secular and sectarian settings, he was the ideal mind control programming expert to act as liaison, pimping mind control slaves through deep state's vast twisted matrix of federal civilian and military criminal organizations and occult groups.[238]

After being prostituted out to the African American country music singer Charlie Pride by her local handler, a country western circuit ventriloquist, upon learning about this her twisted white master Senator Byrd took out his racist wrath on Cathy, as if it were her fault, whipping and bloodying her to a pulp. Finally to stop the bleeding, he ordered her to take a cold shower. But moments later while Cathy lay dazed and injured on the bathroom floor, Aquino then happened to show up with Cathy's traumatized toddler daughter crying hysterically. Jarred instantly alert upon hearing her daughter's frantic screams, Cathy opened the bathroom door to observe the monster Byrd molesting her overly-traumatized two-year old daughter and the other lustful monster Aquino fiendishly disrobing to join in.[239] This is just one episode amongst millions who every single day somehow endure amongst many who don't the endless nightmare of nonstop unimaginable suffering inflicted on victims of high powered government run sex slave trafficking operations.

Several years later after George W. Bush Jr. took his turn thrashing up Cathy's bruised and battered daughter's body so bad while Dick Cheney sadistically raped Cathy again, in a déjà vu of the preceding Byrd-Aquino scenario, on trauma overload, Cathy grew so distraught that she became unresponsive to her handlers' cues, in a non-functional state to "entertain" the visiting Mexican president scheduled the very next evening.[240] With figurehead Reagan the sitting president at the time, the Illuminati crime cabal spearheaded by the George HW and sons' drug cartel,[241] was busy working with the president from Mexico on a joint secret Juarez-El Paso open border drug smuggling, south to north mainline drug corridor. Cathy O'Brien was in such bad shape emotionally, she had to be rushed to the Monarch go-to programmer Michael Aquino again for some last minute emergency repair. He took her to his old satanic pedo stomping grounds at the Presidio and using a few hypnotic cues, put her into deep trance, placed her in a sensory deprivation tank, and essentially patched her up as damaged, yet still usable goods. Cathy was approaching 30, which for many becomes the dreaded drop off point, when their sex slave expiration date as an expendable commodity kicks in, and they're often killed or programmed to suicide. But due to last minute Aquino black magick, the next night in a Malibu, California mansion, Cathy played hostess delivering her scripted welcome message and fulfilled her sexual duty pleasing the Mexican prez, and just like that, Bush's Juarez deal, like his dual-running cocaine Contra affair, was greenlighted.

Cathy O'Brien's shocking claims have never been legally challenged by any of her unpunished, famous pedophile criminals beyond Washington's feeble denial. In the same way CIA directors Bush senior "ended" CIA's Project Mockingbird in 1976 (after being exposed by the Church Senate committee)[242] and Richard Helms "ended" MK Ultra in 1973,[243] after exposure by former slaves, both Mockingbird and MK Ultra only submerged deeper into deep state's underground swamp.[244] The true reality is that the CIA has never stopped controlling the US-Western press since the Cold War 1950's,[245] and along with Mockingbird, mind control slavery and pedophilia trafficking rings are bigger than ever now.[246] Just like Barry Soetoro aka Obama signed an executive order officially outlawing the Cheney-

Bush-Rumsfeld CIA enhanced torture rendition program, it actually continued under an obscure fine print window.[247] Government criminality has an inevitable way of seeping deeper into underground oblivion, out of sight and out of mind, yet remains more active than ever, submerged safely away from public radar beneath the visible tip of the proverbial iceberg.

A longstanding SOP pattern of deception in our Illuminati run shadow government is to publicly and officially say or do one thing, and then covertly, secretly do another. Don't think for one minute that for seven long decades now the CIA's MK Ultra or its Monarch variants hasn't been covertly churning out multi-millions of generational armies of "super soldiers," presidential sex models, brainwashed, mind controlled superstars,[248] child breeders and sacrificial child lambs, be they serving the elite's agenda as unleashed trained assassins,[249] terrorists, shooting spree mass murderers, spies, entertainment propagandist tools or sex slaves,[250] abused, tortured and ritualistically slaughtered babies and young children at one end, and at the other easily discarded, once used up, like onetime allied dictators turned neutralized expendables, all victims under the same controlling twisted thumb of the Luciferian elite.[251]

As a highly organized hierarchical tag team, the CIA is a front for the Illuminati, and historically the CIA in turn is highly proficient at setting up fronts.[252] Military posts including numerous deep underground military bases where perverse, wholesale crimes are far more easily concealed, along with a number of NASA facilities, university research centers and hospitals are common MK Ultra and Monarch programming breeding grounds. A wide array of system operatives recruit children from pedophile parents threatened with prison sentences or send sex slaves as honey traps for blackmailing parents, especially ministers.

For centuries millions more have been born into this demonic world to Illuminati parents.

Mind control victims who’ve outlived their purpose, or regain lost memories and want to leave or risk exposing the criminal operation, are routinely murdered. Also programmers often subliminally insert suicide cues and commands for expendables to self-destruct.[253] With every resource at its built-in fox-guarding henhouse disposal, Satan worshipping planetary controllers literally consume a considerable portion of the world’s 8 million missing kids each and every year. With the pedophile elite’s bloodlust appetite for children so brutal and voracious, it feeds and invigorates not only its own power and strength but also enlivens and supplies surging energy, strength power as well as portal access entry for demonic interdimensional forces seeking human host possession.

Malevolent mad scientist labs or more aptly the underground milabs are Aldous Huxley’s brave new world factories producing alphas (initial programming that includes installing photographic memory), betas (sex slaves), deltas (assassins), thetas (psychic killers able to cause aneurisms), gammas (trained deceivers), and Omegas (suicide programming).[254] Just as the Nazi elite sought to develop the perfect Aryan race, Operation Paper Clip’s Nazi roots still permeate the present Illuminati MK Ultra/Monarch machine,[255] utilizing brutal barbarism with the most scientifically advanced breakthroughs still searching for the master race.[256] Largely unbeknownst to the public, the controllers are deploying transhumanism and AI technology to refine their methodologies and techniques that enhance and maximize human intelligence, strength and a wide array of specialized skills and talents.

In addition to hypnosis, drugs, torture and creating multiples as means of enhancing memory and brain function, a more recent method of brain stem scarring has also been discovered to increase intellectual prowess. Just as weight lifting tears muscle tissues that when mended become strengthened, scarring the reticular formation of the brain stem was found to strengthen and increase brainpower. Though many slaves are injured or die in the process, entire generations of mind controlled, electronically scarred brain stemmed "whiz kids"[257] are now in place employed and conducting high level supercomputer research in universities, hi-tech giants and defense department agencies like DARPA, NSA and CIA, all working to promote New World Order MK Ultra micro-level control over the unsuspecting macro-masses. According to Arizona Wilder, an even darker, far more sinister picture has emerged within the 14-level underground military base underneath Area 51 where she claims to have witnessed DNA from various animals cloned with human DNA to produce tragic outcomes of monstrous mutants.

Vietnam veteran and retired Special Forces Captain John McCarthy once told the late activist-author Michael Ruppert:

MKULTRA is a CIA acronym that officially stands for "Manufacturing Killers Utilizing Lethal Tradecraft Requiring Assassinations."[258]

A brief list of extremely likely MK/Monarch programmed assassins[259] includes JFK "lone gunman" assassin Lee Harvey Oswald,[260] RFK "lone gunman" assassin Sirhan Sirhan,[261] satanic cult murderer Charlie Manson,[262] mobster Whitey Bulger,[263] Reagan's would-be assassin John Hinckley Jr.,[264] John Lennon's assassin Mark David Chapman,[265] Waco cult founder David Koresh,[266] Oklahoma City bombing patsy Timothy McVeigh[267] and Catholic anti-abortion clinic murderer John Salvi[268] comprise the shortlist of MK Ultra/Monarch "super soldier" assassins, trained specifically either to be patsies or to carry out heinous acts of violence for the shadow government crime cabal. Many so called “lone wolf” psychos used as stooges blamed in regularly staged mass killing spree terrorism on both US and European soil are programmed mind control alumni. Recent alleged Vegas shooter senior citizen Stephen Paddock could be the latest programmed assassin/patsy.[269] What’s too obvious is Paddock was not acting alone. Only deep state possesses both the means and motives to carry out these horrific events on such a global scale, as brazenly transparent and sloppily executed these false flag operations are.

An even longer list of suspected MK Ultra/Monarch entertainer slave victims (primarily actors and musicians), many of whom suffer from program-induced Dissociative Identity Disorder, include sex icon Marilyn Monroe,[270] another blonde sex goddess ex-Church of Satan member Jane Mansfield, “Cuckoo’s Nest” writer Ken Kesey,[271] serial rapist Bill Cosby,[272] Truther comedienne Roseanne Barr,[273] and musicians Kurt Cobain,[274] Michael Jackson,[275] LaToya Jackson,[276] Britney Spears,[277] Whitney Houston,[278] Miley Cyrus,[279] Mariah Carey,[280] Beyoncé Knowles,[281] Rihanna,[282] Taylor Swift,[283] Katy Perry,[284] Lady Gaga,[285] Justin Bieber,[286] actress Amanda Bynes,[287] actors Shia Lebeouf,[288] the twinning Corey’s the late Corey Haim and Corey Feldman,[289] comedian Katt Williams[290] and golfer Tiger Woods.[291]

Demonically mind-controlled, sexually-charged female singer “sex kittens” slaves[292] are typically elevated to superstar status (regardless of talent level) if they make for highly influential social engineering pawns[293] to spread to younger generation global masses a scripted lowest common denominator message and theme that incessantly touts sexual promiscuity, gender confusion, chaotic violence and diabolical perversion through subliminal as well as overt satanic imagery and sound, in effect acting as Illuminati transmitters of satanic mass mind control. Media propaganda constitutes mind control on a mass consumption 24/7 basis. Fallen Hollywood kingpin Harvey Weinstein's predatory exploits finally caught up to him. But the rancid smell of pedophilia reeks in Tinsel Town and the layers of hypocrisy unraveling now will lay bare lots of Harvey's to come.[294] After all, Lucifer's been controlling Hollywood[295] long before the CIA grabbed the horny reins.[296] Their marriage made in Hell promises to be the next showstopper. But that topic will have to wait for a future chapter.

Author and scholar Henry Makow makes the astute observation:

> Society is being subjected to the same type of trauma-based programming using constant war and atrocities that include Auschwitz, Hiroshima, the Kennedy assassinations, Sept. 11 and Abu Ghraib. We are being collectively desensitized on the one hand, and programmed to focus on sex, violence, trivia and empty social rituals on the other.[297]

In what's referred to as the 1992 Greenbaum speech,[298] author, researcher and psychologist Corey Hammond summarized the purpose of MK Ultra and Monarch programs:

> My best guess is that they want an army of Manchurian Candidates, tens of thousands of mental robots who will do prostitution, child pornography, smuggle drugs, engage in international arms smuggling, do snuff films, and all sorts of other very lucrative things. These Manchurian Candidates will do the bidding of their masters, so that eventually the megalomaniacs at the top believe they can create a Satanic Order that will rule the world.[299]

A quarter century later, they more than got what they wanted. After delivering his alarming message, Dr. Hammond never pursued research or even spoke of the Monarch program ever again,[300] strongly suggesting death threats likely silenced this shocking reality from ever reaching mass public awareness. The powers-that-shouldn't-be know full well that if the people knew what evil their leaders were committing, as Bush senior once admitted, they'd all be hunted down and strung up on the nearest lamp post. Now that we know, it's time to act.

Amongst the elite, their satanic brainwash has them convinced they're the only ones on this earth entitled to living "the good life," and with access to secret occult knowledge, highly advanced technologies that include transhumanism[301] and nanotechnology, they insist eternal life is in the offing and within their grasp,[302] regardless of how inhospitable or uninhabitable they've turned our ecological habitat at the earth's surface. With luxury living in subterranean cities and highways down below and active space colony havens up above, delusional or not, their long in place survival contingency plans exist whether they trigger a nuclear holocaust for the rest of us or not.

Author of Illuminati in America John Coleman concludes:

> Given the ghastly mind-control experiments constantly being conducted by the CIA, and its past connections to fiendish monsters like Dr. Cameron and Dr. Sidney Gottlieb, it does not take much to conclude that the CIA follows satanic roads.[303]

Investigative reporter Anton Chaitkin maintains that the Monarch trauma-induced program is nothing more than:

> The production of a horde of children in whom the soul is crushed, who would spy, whore, kill and commit suicide.[304]

"Scientifically refined" satanic ritual abuse has been perpetrated for seven straight decades now on generation after generation of our most vulnerable population, we're talking tens if not hundreds of millions of innocent human lives starting in infancy lost and ruined along the way. Every single day our youngest innocents are being fed into this pedophile machine. Systemic victimization of children from every corner of the globe is today's "brave new world" nightmare a la Luciferian-style. As demonic hosts for too many years, the planetary controllers have been parasitically feasting off our kids fresh off assembly line slabs at milab[305] slaughterhouses, compliments of intel USA. Through these CIA-MI mind control factories,[306] the satanic calendar that calls for gorging equinox/solstice holidays ensures a fresh daily batch of our innocents are devoured by power demons living both on and off the planet, only adding strength to their globalized control. Their Luciferian system that's created this Hell on earth for so many must be blown up and the scourge of systemic pedophilia erased before the Satanists completely destroy our precious, sacred, only home we have. The day of reckoning is here and now. We have no choice but to slay the demonic dragon.

Chapter 10: Anatomy of the Luciferian Elite's Global Child Sex Trafficking Pedophile Operations

Chapter 10: Anatomy of the Luciferian Elite’s Global Child Sex Trafficking Pedophile Operations by Joachim Hagopian

Forty-year Monarch mind control sex and spy slave-survivor, longtime CIA insider whose job title was “Special Operations Advisor to the Director of Central Intelligence,” and also a medical doctor, the remarkable Sue Arrigo provides a compelling firsthand account of her tortuous life inside the CIA.[1] Her exposé uncovering the infamous agency’s central role in global child sex trafficking, as incredible as it may sound, is feasibly corroborated by tons of supplemental verifiable evidence. And though her own sister, a psychologist in Taiwan, claims Sue is a paranoid schizophrenic whose stories are not to be believed, coming from a military family and father whose career was in military intelligence, discrediting Sue as mentally ill falls clearly in the self-serving interest of both the sister protecting her own professional reputation as well as the US government. In the same open forum, Dr. Sue refutes her sister’s allegations making the cogent point that they separated in youth when the sister moved with her father to Taiwan and has had next to no contact ever since and that Sue’s long involvement in the CIA by requirement forced her to keep that confidentially hidden even from her own mother.[2] So with that caveat out of the way, here are some of Dr. Arrigo’s extraordinary, yet highly disturbing revelations.

As a gifted young child of three she became a trauma induced multiple and by age 12, Sue Arrigo was sent to have sex with General Westmoreland as a means of learning why he wasn’t winning the Vietnam War. Arrigo was a child sex slave servicing presidents starting from LBJ, then Nixon, Ford, VP Rockefeller (as well as his brother David), Reagan, Bush senior, Clinton to Bush junior as well as every Director of Central Intelligence from Richard Helms to George Tenant.[3] The only president that she was not forcibly intimate with was Jimmy Carter during her forty years as a government slave. Her psychic abilities made her a highly skilled asset as a remote viewer. Thus her unique talent and expertise placed her in constant demand for four decades. From 1993 to 2004 Sue worked in the Office of Naval Intelligence training naval officers in remote viewing. She states that she was able to work with the US Navy brass to keep our naval fleets from participating in the booming global sex slave trade.

Children in war zones susceptibly fall prey to abduction and trafficking every single day. Women are customarily raped in combat zones all the time, often abandoning their babies at birth. Never missing an opportunity, the predatory CIA quickly moves in helping to finance children's orphanages in US Empire war ravaged nations, tapping the fresh supply of "cute" parentless kids for the pedo-pipeline.[4] Dr. Sue Arrigo maintains that masquerading as "humanitarian relief," the CIA funds major orphanages, often working jointly with UNESCO, along with the Rockefeller Foundation and other front organizations to set up in effect concentration camps for homeless kids in nations where the US and CIA provoke wars. In the early 1990's as a CIA operative, Sue witnessed in the former Yugoslavian Republic the CIA construction of three orphanages and Rockefeller money pouring in for four more.[5] A week after the Rockefeller reps left, in came the wave of CIA "talent scouts," explaining to the nuns that they were setting up a comprehensive program with large adoption agencies in the United States to find good homes for children at orphanages bursting at the seams from so many rape babies and dead parents caused by US-NATO bombing raids. Pulled from the rubble, many kids were still suffering from trauma shock, making the job of CIA mind control torturers that much easier and quicker for developing multiple personalities.

CIA scouts would bring along a psychologist to test the orphaned children using the excuse that they were testing for postwar adaptability when they were tapping for special trauma based skills like their capacity to dissociate, their intelligence, photographic memory, psychic abilities, and sex kitten charm. The CIA would take kids out on “special outings” so they could assess how much charm children displayed while forced to give blow jobs to local officials on the pretext that they might “win” a trip to America - as a sex slave of course.[6] They’d grab dozens and even scores at a time, another tipoff they were up to no good. Under the guise of charity foundations posing as CIA trafficking fronts, in cahoots with corrupt officials at the UN, Girl Scouts of America and the Catholic Church, the predatory CIA aggressively recruit victims for their child trafficking rings in the US.

Those that shined in this system are/were groomed to later return to their native lands and take over as readymade puppet leaders of foreign governments.[7] This long term investment has been going on for some time. The OSS and CIA toward the end of World War II and afterwards were pulling Jewish and Slavic kids out of war zone camps even when they had parents just to be mind control guinea pigs in America. The self-replicating, Luciferian system has been built to last for centuries.

Having personal access to CIA archive records, Dr. Arrigo learned of the CIA’s long history starting right after WWII training foreign children to be spies. First as dissociative mind controlled child musical prodigies sent back to Eastern Bloc nations to spy on cold war embassies, then pushed out of airplanes over North Korea and onto infiltrating North Vietnam and back to full circle in the Balkans.[8] Once sent behind enemy lines, these poor kids were never heard from again and because in every instance the CIA cover had already been blown, the enemy quickly scooped them up and killed them. Yet in each case even after the CIA knew their covert operation had been detected, the agency continued sending wave after wave of these expendable children to their sure deaths. The Luciferian controllers wouldn't want their coldblooded private army any other way. And for all their blood soaked failures, these worthless espionage programs produced zero information, just like CIA's ineffective worldwide black site torture operations still going on.[9]

As a CIA operative Sue Arrigo was initially dispatched to Yugoslavia before the war to purchase a plot of land near railroad tracks that would become the Balkan War's Auschwitz for children. She knew it would merely be a holding tank for thousands of kids to be shipped off around the globe as CIA sex slaves, so she purposely returned to the States emptyhanded.[10] A month later her replacement was sent and of course he purchased a 14-acre tract of land where dorm after dorm was built to house 5,000 kids. The brand new facility just sat empty for six months waiting for the CIA to light the match that would ignite the bloody conflict pitting mostly Muslim against Muslim. During the ensuing war, Sue learned that it swelled to holding 12,000 young children. It really was a concentration camp, complete with barbed wire fences and control towers armed with machine gun toting guards. So the big CIA moneymaker for pedophile kingpins like the Bushes and the Clintons became a smashing success. From 1992 to 1999 over a million kids were processed into an international sex ring and sent by rail to the sea where they were packed in inhumane conditions on slave ships sailing to America to their child raping slave-owners. Because they were so abused and neglected, some children would succumb en route across the ocean, reminiscent of the horrific tragedy of the African slaves, except these are thousands of traumatized kids suffering and dying in modern times right up to today. Right now this despicable shit’s still going on! It’s imperative we must come together and stop this brutal human affliction.

Sue Arrigo explains how upon reaching harbor ports, ships carrying human cargo use the code-word phrase “by the way” to signal to dockworkers which ships to inspect and which not. Ships illicitly transporting human slaves are customarily unloaded first. US port authorities across the nation of course have all been bought off to play their accommodating, look the other way role to ensure that child slaves discreetly get unloaded as quickly as possible from cargo containers into dock warehouses, a distance away from the regular cargo traffic loading and unloading areas mainly due to the intense foul stench of urine and feces that are the giveaway to this heinous criminal operation.[11] “Spoiled goods” is code word for dead bodies on board. An expected percentage of child slave deaths is routinely calculated and accounted for, intended to further traumatize surviving children. Most often a few miles out from port child corpses are dumped overboard, often weighed to sink to the bottom of the sea, out of sight, out of mind.

Powerful pedo slave owners have specially built vans waiting at the ports, all Chevrolet manufactured with special specifications in Atlanta to include easy drainage capacity and soundproof insulation. Each vehicle transports anywhere from 20 to 100 children.[12] Kids are routinely drugged before disembarking ships so they can be quietly herded like cattle, transferred and contained from one from one closed off prison to the next, except once on dry land, in transit cattle have the luxury of vents, windows and breathing space on the way to their slaughterhouse.

Arrigo states that the CIA and UN regularly work together in war zones like Bosnia all over the world to “enslave the children and not rescue them.” Because the first assigned UN Peacekeeping Force Commander in Bosnia, Canadian General Lewis MacKenzie, actually was there to try and keep peace, the CIA trained about 30 child soldiers to attack his headquarters.[13] But Sue Arrigo called the general and forewarned him, and because the CIA recorded their conversation, it was called off. Sue was then sent to the CIA basement for a severe beating as her punishment. MacKenzie was complicit in his failure to report the CIA’s criminal operation, cowardly taking the easy way out. When Sue attempted to report what the CIA was doing to kids to the UN herself, they wouldn’t listen, claiming that the protocol required the general to report such illicit activity. Just like the kids she tried to save, Sue was hopelessly trapped and surrounded by evildoers.

Under the fake, overused pretense of “humanitarian intervention,” the CIA-MI-NATO led breakup of the Balkan nation bloodily erupted as the Bosnian (1992-95) and Kosovo (1997-98) Wars with deployment of CIA-Saudi jointly financed US proxy war ally Osama bin Laden’s Mujahedeen terrorists (soon to be relabeled al Qaeda).[14] Fresh off the victorious battlefields against the Soviet army in opium-rich Afghanistan, the CIA created Islamic jihadists were then teamed up with CIA-backed Kosovo Liberation Army to help move drugs through war-torn Eastern Europe to Western Europe and onto America.[15] Together with the drug trafficking, the fellow criminal enterprises of child sex trafficking and organ harvested trafficking[16] was soon flourishing throughout the Balkan region as coveted moneymaking spoils of war. As another partner-in-crime in this Clinton-NATO Balkan operation was the private military contractor, the notorious DynCorp Corporation. Joined by key corrupt State Department personnel, the United Nations peacekeeping forces and organized crime, this unholiest alliance trafficked in young women and as underage girls and boys from Eastern Europe, Russia and Eurasia. The DynCorp-UN collaboration and cover-up in the 1990’s CIA sex trade is covered in thorough detail in the next chapter.

To corroborate what Dr. Sue Arrigo maintains the CIA was doing in the 1990’s - supplying the elite with child sex slaves, CIA whistleblower John Kiriakou who served two years in prison for spilling the beans on the illegal Bush-Cheney-CIA enhanced torture methods, just publicly disclosed how as a CIA agent it was his duty to deliver child sex slaves to pedophile VIPs.[17] So multiple sources are all saying the same thing. Just as with drugs, arms and body parts, the CIA is the main dealer in selling children as well.

Once the new millennium White House shift took over, the Bush 2-Cheney neocons proved “same as the old boss” Bush 1 and Clinton. Right after their preplanned 9/11, US Empire was at it again, exploiting their “new Pearl Harbor”[18] to full advantage using their war machine-on-steroids to simultaneously invade Afghanistan and Iraq while (per General Wesley Clark) “taking down 7 countries in 5 years.”[19] As those costly quagmire wars dragged right into the seamless Obama regime, the CIA and Soros’ color revolutions (otherwise known as Arab Spring) began popping up to spark yet more regime change proxy wars,[20] murdering and displacing millions of mostly Muslims from ravaged homelands in Syria, Libya, Ukraine, Yemen, Somalia, Sudan and beyond.[21]

In Libya in 2011 the same pattern that “balkanized” Yugoslavia was brutally replicated by the same prime suspects with virtually the same results.[22] An aggressive NATO-US bombing intervention, again unleashing al Qaeda terrorists to wreak further havoc[23] to destroy Gaddafi’s plan to unite Africa under his gold backed dinar instead of the US petrodollar, plunging once prosperous, oil-rich, emerging independent regional leader of a nation overnight into violently plundered failed state status…[24] as Luciferian Hillary's mission accomplished.[25] Evidence of collusion involving al Qaeda/ISIS,[26] the Vatican, various "humanitarian" NGOs like USAID and CIA again resurfaced, forcing exploited Libyan migrants into human trafficking rings.[27] George Soros, the global kingpin of US hedge fund speculators, uses his massive billions to fund NGOs that are now directly involved in human sex trafficking as well as financing terrorism.[28]

And the latest bombshell is Soros' top hedge fund manager in the US finance capital New York City has been running a sex slave operation from his own Manhattan penthouse sex dungeon. According to a $27 million lawsuit filed by three Florida models, two of whom were former Playboy bunnies, 62-year old Howard "Howie" Rubin lured the women to New York through two female employees also named in the lawsuit who'd make initial contact on Instagram and Whatsapp.[29] Rubin purchased his $8 million penthouse apartment for the special purpose of raping and beating beautiful women as his very own sex slaves and then go back home to his wife and kids on the Upper East Side. The sexual predator had his two model-type employees do his bidding, both similarly roughed up before being hired to act as his slave procurers. The same brutal tactics are deployed as in any large scale sex trafficking operation, using procurers, money and a high rolling good time as bait and switch to entice and trap the preyed upon, drugged and powerless victims.

Once the slaves were flown to the Big Apple, they'd taxi to the penthouse where one of his accomplices would suddenly confront the women needing to sign non-disclosure agreements.[30] Next Rubin would wine and dine them with polite, respectful conversation at a posh Manhattan restaurant. But once they returned to Rubin's apartment, he'd slip a drug into their drink, gag and bound them and then violently assault them in his secret sex dungeon. Similar to the audio recording making the internet rounds several months ago of a voice identical to alleged pedophile John Podesta screaming at the top of his lungs at a poor traumatized little kid to call him "daddy,"[31] one of the Rubin plaintiffs was so severely beaten by Howie demanding that she call him "daddy" that she passed out.[32] Another sick quote while continuing to punch the woman was, "Howie is the daddy. The daddy has to beat his baby." Just before attacking them, two of the three victims state that Rubin yelled, "I'm going to rape you like I rape my daughter." One of the woman maintains she was raped with a cattle prod. Again, many of the same methods Rubin used to torture his victims come straight out of the CIA Monarch mind control playbook, strongly suggesting the possibility that the billionaire's secret dark side may be rooted in Illuminati upbringing or MK Ultra brainwash programming.

Rubin managed to cover up his reprehensible crimes by paying them $5,000 each time in hush money along with whatever medical expenses were accrued.[33] Though thus far only three women have filed suit, Rubin likely victimized others as well. This alleged sex slave violence that began in 2016 must have occurred just months after Rubin left Soros' Mortgage-Back Securities Fund that he'd been managing during the seven years prior to 2015. Following a few short weeks on the heels of a fellow rapist's colossal downfall in Hollywood, Harvey Weinstein's years of sadistically misusing his raw, brutish power to also humiliate, terrorize, degrade and control his female victims brought about his own self-undoing.[34] And then just days ago perennial A-list actor Kevin Spacey suddenly got brave enough to cowardly hide behind the normative status of homosexuality to come out in his feeble attempt to escape judgment as yet another predatory pedophile.[35] And just like Harvey before him, Spacey's "House of Cards" has fallen as a parade of more victims are emerging from the shadows.[36] Turns out his Spacey Foundation mentoring young children hungry for acting careers may be a cover for his boy toy trafficking gig.[37] Recall that Kevin was also a Lolita Express frequent flyer down to Epstein's sex slave island. The rapists' days of ruling Hollywood are over as the parade of sexual predators become "flavor of the week" karmic payback.

The days when these kind of crimes and atrocities historically perpetrated by violently aggressive oppressors regularly hurting and violating others with lesser power are finally being exposed. This heinous behavior will no longer be tolerated or accepted like it has for so long. Unlike before, those who willfully harm others because they've always gotten away with it will now begin paying a far more serious consequence. And as the wake-up call of truth descends upon the barbarians, the new day that's dawning is empowering the meek and less powerful to come forth and speak up, seeking long overdue justice and accountability, regardless of life position, station or power differential. And this dynamic is no more embodied than in the systematic rape, torture and murder of kids.

But we still have a long ways to go. Victims of US wars fleeing for their lives often wind up as refugees in nearby surrounding nations - especially Turkey (with 2.8 homeless Syrians), Lebanon (over 1 million Syrians) and Jordan (two thirds of a million),[38] but also Egypt, Italy, Greece and the Balkans as massive migratory transit zones. These countries in recent years have absorbed millions of Middle Eastern and African refugees, the largest human migration since history's deadliest war - WWII, and at 65.6 million, currently more people on earth are displaced than any prior time in human history.[39] These desperate, extreme conditions manufactured by the elite are ideal for their hired vultures to have “easy pickings” separating children from their parents.[40] The CIA, US Military Intelligence, Mossad and MI6 typically coordinate these large scale child procurement black ops worldwide. From off the street, the seediest, low life abductors from various NGOs and CIA front company operatives parasitically converge on hundreds of overcrowded, inhumane refugee camps and, for the right price, the predators pluck children from the chaotic crowds and funnel them straight into the sex slave pipeline.[41] Or destitute parents fall victim to the con game that selling their daughters as child brides promises a better life for them.[42] The Islamic State terrorists, also created by elitist CIA design, routinely kidnap and enslave women and children for their brutal debauchery and sadistic torture as well.[43] Rich Gulf State predators openly shop for sex slaves in Syria, Egypt and Turkey. Abduction for child soldiers is another common practice.[44] Nations in south central Asia are nearly just as bad, in India, Sri Lanka, Bangladesh, Pakistan and Nepal.[45] Tourism for pedophiles protected and sanctioned by US State Department and CIA is covered next as another big business taking place in Asia where children forced into sex slavery are servicing scummy foreigners, especially in Myanmar, Philippines, Cambodia, Laos, Vietnam and Thailand.[46]

2004’s day after Christmas tsunami in the Indian Ocean, so catastrophic killing nearly a quarter million people, was seized upon by soulless pedophiles preying on defenseless children. Relief workers reported that an inordinate number of young Swedish boys mysteriously went missing in Thailand’s southern Phuket Province, especially known for sex tourism and human trafficking.[47] Meanwhile, in places like India, Saudi Arabia and United Arab Emirates blue eyed blonde boys are a most sought after preference. In Indonesia’s Aceh Province where the tsunami damage was most severe, police believe orphaned and separated children were abducted and moved by traffickers to other islands and nearby Malaysia. Nearly 100 out of the 565 total people missing were under 13. Similarly, right after Bali's 2002 car bombing, a sudden spike in missing orphaned children again occurred due to suspected foreign pedophiles. Former naval intelligence officer and veteran investigative journalist Wayne Madsen wrote a series of scathing articles examining this phenomenon of missing Asian children amidst an infestation of foreign child sex predators that regularly travel or have taken up residence in the Far East.[48]

Many of these pedophiles from America, Europe and Australia are public servants working within their national government agencies. An official from Australia's Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade was recalled back to Australia after an incident with an Indonesian boy in 1984, but remained an employee with diplomatic immunity and passport for almost another dozen years before he resigned.[49] After leaving his government post, he returned to Indonesia and was openly living with underage boys when he was busted yet again, but this time his government tenure wasn't there to bail him out of trouble. After receiving a 13-year prison sentence the day before, he hung himself in his Bali jail cell. Two Australian teachers who were child rapists were allowed passports to flee Cambodia and Thailand to escape justice. The Australian embassy in Cambodia has a reputation for regularly covering up cases of accused diplomats raping local children.

In his first term in office pedo boy George W. Bush signed into law tough anti-trafficking legislation only to pay lip service to it thereafter. The get tough on pedo-peddling was merely an excuse to pour money into making it easier for child rapists to rape. The State Department embassy in Bangkok, second largest in Asia to Tokyo, has long held a scandalous reputation protecting their predators posing as

State Department employees. The CIA station in Bangkok is also second to Tokyo in size, and closely works together to maintain overseas pedo operations. A 2007 Madsen article profiles the then current US ambassador to Thailand Ralph ("Skip") Boyce, a career State Department diplomat stationed in many Asian countries including serving as the former ambassador to Indonesia.[50] Wherever he was, Boyce repeatedly allowed pedophiles to thrive under his watch despite coming under heat for willfully placing Thai children in harm's way to known predators. Both his consul general and his American Citizens Services chief squelched pedophile investigations of the Bangkok embassy by Thai police. After a multiple decade career, Boyce finally retired in December 2007. But the pedophilia problem in the State Department and US government remains systemic.

Robert Finnegan, former Jakarta Post English editor, maintains he was physically threatened on embassy premises by security officers for asking questions regarding then Indonesian Ambassador Boyce's apparent tolerance towards pedophilia. Finnegan revealed that Boyce hired two Indonesian nationals, one a CIA asset, to procure underage children for sex with embassy personnel.[51] For outing him, Boyce had Finnegan's journalist visa revoked, forcing him to return to the States despite having an Indonesian wife. The State Department uses diplomatic immunity as carte blanche license to break laws raping children all over the world. Jakarta embassy sources anonymously confirmed Finnegan's revelations that State Department policy keeps circulating pedophiles throughout Asian countries. One embassy worker in Phnom Penh openly living with a young boy from Cambodia and another from Laos was transferred to the small Muslim nation Brunei. When the government discovered his living arrangement, the US shipped him off to Dhaka, Bangladesh, another pedo-magnet. Meanwhile, per SOP the CIA maintains pedo dossiers on hundreds if not thousands of State Department personnel for blackmail purposes.

Chief procurer of little boys in Bangkok for the embassy diplomatic corps was John Mark Karr, an American schoolteacher once married to a 13-year old and busted in 2001 for child pornography back in the States, but jumped bail to evade the law and for the next several years floated from pedo haven to pedo haven – Costa Rica, the Netherlands, Honduras, South Korea, until he wound up in Bangkok teaching English at several international schools to foreign and wealthy Thai children.[52] But it appeared his sexual improprieties with children had finally caught up to him when the Bangkok police arrested him in 2006. Then a most bizarre twist of events suddenly, suspiciously freed Karr. The pedophile was sent back flying un-handcuffed on business class to the United States greeted by huge headlines that he was the admitted killer of little 6-year old Jon Benet Ramsey back in 1996 Colorado. In retrospect, it appears that was simply a contrived federal ploy to extricate him from his Thai jail cell but more importantly distance him from the pedophiles he was running amuck with at the Bangkok embassy that Karr was alleged to be supplying with small children. Then in October 2006 since no DNA evidence matched Karr's, he was set free yet again, despite his "false confession" and despite the child porn charges a half decade earlier that made him a fugitive. Miraculously those charges were thrown out because his old porn filled computer confiscated back in 2001 had suspiciously grown legs and disappeared from the Sonoma County, California evidence room.

In 2008 Karr was allegedly arrested for domestic violence toward a supposed girlfriend at his parent's Atlanta home. Then in 2010 he resurfaced as a transgendered woman with a wacky Jon Benet cult he called the Immaculates, cyberstalking and threatening to kill one of 30 alleged procurers of his Jon Benet lookalikes.[53] These days the unpunished serial pedophile is allegedly a woman in order to make for easier access to 6-year old girls as his potential cult recruits. All of this could be smoke and mirrors to obscure the bottom line that Karr back in Thailand was living in a very upscale Bangkok neighborhood (despite foreign media claims he lived in seedy, pimp and drug dealing squalor) in extreme close proximity to the Danish and Austrian embassies, the Thai-German Cultural Center and Goethe Institute and Joint US-Thai Military Assistance Group. Wayne Madsen tracked Karr's residence down and found that he was living amongst foreign diplomats, cultural mission staff and US Special Forces personnel, and most likely being wined and dined by fellow residents that shared his hankering for little kids.[54] Under the auspices of both the CIA and State Department, it's been confirmed that Karr provided children for sexual liaisons with visiting American VIPs that included Congress members.[55] Because John Mark Karr had the damaging goods on so many of his elite clientele, he was whisked away out of Thailand using the Jon Benet lie.

While the CIA, State Department and NGOs are all paid big bucks to ostensibly fight pedophilia and child trafficking, they along with a complicit MSM actually protect child rapists like Karr and engage in character assassination and slander against good people who actually dedicate their lives to protecting at risk children. Madsen extensively covered what happens to the true child advocates on a mission to rid these safe havens from pedophiles when they become too successful, showcasing two American crusaders independently working in pedo-infested Pattaya, an infamous sex resort on the Thai south coast. Each child advocate – Sean Parlaman and Father Ray Brennan were heroes who paid with their lives after being maliciously targeted by the pro-pedophile establishment.[56] Peril befalls the righteous do-gooders including truth tellers from the press wanting to expose this pervasive criminality in the pedophilia empire.

While Wayne Madsen was investigating this story, former editor of the Japan Times Weekly, longtime respected journalist and child activist in Asia as well, Yoichi Shimatsu told him:

Reporters asking too many questions about pedophiles in Southeast Asia are likely to end up with a bullet in their head.[57]

Because so much money is generated through child sex enslavement, the strategy of powerful child raping profiteers is/was accusing activists actually saving children of being pedophiles. This diabolical scheme has tragically proven all too effective. So the elite goes out of its way to protect the guilty slime while destroying the saints most dedicated to protecting children. Though the devil's earthly dominion may seemingly reward the Luciferians, the tables are turning.

But then there's Howard Gutman, Hillary's ambassador to Belgium in Brussels, another pedo paradise, allowed to repeatedly act out engaging in sex with underage boys. But his pedophile boss squelched the investigation of Gutman and his security detail involving 8 separate cases, consistently shielding them from further exposure and arrest, keeping the ambassador on his job till the end of his term.[58] Of course this should come as no surprise, considering word has it Hillary Clinton's sex video with her lover Huma Abedin both engaging in a lesbo threesome with an underage girl at Epstein's Sex Slave Island discovered last fall on the pedo-jailbird Anthony Weiner's laptop[59] is now about to go public via WikiLeaks.[60] For many decades this kind of flagrant government debauchery and cover-ups have been so rampant throughout the world, only confirming a much wider pedophilia trafficking network long held in place by the Washington-London-Rome-Brussels axis-of-evil ensuring child rapists in powerful places continue getting away with destroying children's lives. But it appears those days may be over.

Russian intelligence sources just released breakthrough news that three months ago Trump made a deal with the Saudi Crown Prince Mohammed bin Salman to help remove money laundering backers of terrorism as part of the Bush-Clinton crime family pedophilia scourge purge currently underway.[61] Already 10 Saudi princes and 38 ministers have been arrested, among them one of the richest men in the world Prince Bin Talal.[62] During last month's visit to Russia, Saudi King Abdulaziz is alleged to have informed Putin that Trump ordered the NSA controlled by the US military faithful to Trump and America to gather all evidence against the treasonous deep state that of course includes the likes of the Bushes, Clintons, Obama and George Soros so they can all be rounded up and charged with sedition, plotting to overthrow the sitting US president. Special Forces have allegedly been contacting pedophiles in Hollywood and Washington informing them that their victims are coming forth and will be protected. Thus, we've already seen the first dominos falling, Weinstein, Spacey, perhaps Hillary is next. John Podesta's brother Tony is rumored to be in US marshals' custody after attempting to leave the country.[63] Mass arrests of major Luciferian players may finally be coming. But don't start celebrating "ding dong the witch is dead" quite yet.

Whereas millions of tax-paid dollars are allocated annually to the State Department to combat child sex trafficking, its consistent track record only shows that no action is ever taken to uphold and enforce sodomy laws, apprehend child sex offenders nor protect children.[64] Another big recipient for anti-trafficking funds is the US Agency for International Development (USAID), a longtime notorious cover for the CIA.[65] The watchdog group Judicial Watch just sued to uncover how US tax dollars have been misappropriated by USAID financing multibillionaire George Soros' initiatives whose cultural Marxist agenda and trademark is inciting global insurrection and destabilization.[66] It's hardly a secret that Soros and the CIA represent New World Order wrecking balls covertly promoting Luciferian sodomy against children.

The 1976 founder of longtime favorite USAID NGO Chermonics International, Gerald Murphy, in 1993 was quoted in the New York Times boasting:

I've always wanted a way to do two things: one, have my own C.I.A., and two, be helpful to people.[67]

Though USAID awarded him a half million bucks to support its field missions, Wayne Madsen rightly points out that nothing says it went for its intended purpose to combat trafficking child sex slaves.

A privately owned NGO called Creative Associates working near Soros' old stomping grounds Albania received close to a million and a half from Soros-linked USAID, granting almost another half million ($443,000) to a Swiss charity agency called Terre Des Hommes to also fight against trafficking in Albania.[68] Yet this same outfit was busted for running a children's village in famine-stricken Ethiopia that for years attracted and enabled pedophile employees to abuse their positions of power and trust.[69] Another benefactor of the CIA-USAID funding pipeline, the Asia Foundation, has an anti-trafficking program operating in five pedo-infested Vietnamese provinces. What does it tell you when "following the money" only leads to where pedophilia's actually gotten worse?

A case in point will illustrate how members of the rich and powerful pedo-club gravitate to child trafficking havens set up by the CIA, US State Department and USAID programs, and then if busted get bailed out. Wealthy Russian businessman Alexander Trofimov was caught by Cambodian police on his joint US invested Snake Island resort in Sihanoukville Province in possession of more a dozen child sex slaves, becoming the largest pedophilia case in the nation's history.[70] Domaines Barons de Rothschild owns a Sokha Beach playground down the street on this same island so notorious for child trafficking. Having gained a reputation as the pedophilia hub of Southeast Asia, since 2004 Cambodia's been attempting to clean up its act.

Convicted of raping 15 girls, Trofimov was sentenced to 17 years. But at the behest of the Cambodian king acting on behalf of the Phnom Penh government and increasing pedo club pressure, the child raping slave-owner was released from jail after serving only a 4-year slap on the hand. Wanted for serial raping underage girls as young as 8 back in Russia during 2003-04, Cambodia [and the pedo club] then proceeded to ignore Moscow's extradition requests.

After being spotted still slithering on and around Snake Island, the Russian pedophile was arrested again living with another 11-year old girl's family in June 2012. Only under immense public pressure mounting internationally did the Phnom Penh government finally acquiesce, realizing it had no choice but to deport the serial predator.[71] The actual Stanislav Molodyakov, having used Trofimov as his fake name in Cambodia, was subsequently tried and convicted in Russia for luring and raping dozens of schoolgirls in his Moscow mansion promising them modeling careers. In 2015 he finally was sentenced to 11 years in prison.[72] If anything, this lurid tale shows that Cambodia has hardly cleaned up its act, no doubt succumbing to Washington's "all talk, no action" lead. It also shows that in the secret Luciferian world, the elite goes out of its way to protect its own.

After years of “killing field” terror and war under Cambodian Pol Pot’s genocidal regime during the 1970’s, the poorest nation in Southeast Asia was again victimized by an invasion of foreign national sharks during an 18-month period devouring near half (45%) of Cambodia’s entire land mass in 2007-08.[73] One of these sharks was Stanislav Molodyakov who established his elitist pedo resort on Snake Island. Predatory Russian developers literally burnt the homes of the native islanders to the ground, violently forcing them off their property to construct the Russian rapist’s $300 million palace as part of a sprawling $1 billion joint US resort investment. Where have we heard that before? A la Jeffrey Epstein’s Caribbean sex slave island. Such wholesale raping and pillaging of their homeland had 150,000 Cambodians facing eviction.

While Cambodia was being carved up for sale on a platter to powerful foreign interests, many being rich foreign pedophiles, a telling, very much related incident occurred on November 9th, 2008. A helicopter crash in southern Cambodia in nearby Svay Rieng Province took place killing all occupants on board including the pilot, co-pilot, a Cambodian army general and General Hok Lundy, the nation’s police chief.[74] This “accident” occurred just after General Lundy had told Deputy US Secretary of State John Negroponte that he was no longer welcomed in Cambodia. On the heels of the worst pedophile case in nation’s history, the wife of the former king and mother of current king had pressured Cambodia’s police chief to start cracking down on the rampant child sex trafficking ravaging their country. Up till then the general himself had long been steeped in the human smuggling business. Just 5 days prior to the crash, the Wayne Madsen Report acknowledged that both US and French intelligence operating out of their respective Phnom Penh embassies were aiding and abetting the systemic rape of preteens by foreign pedophile traffickers.

Current special prosecutor, 9/11 cover-up conspirator and NWO stooge[75] investigating the bogus Trump-Russian collusion, Robert Mueller as then FBI director made a late January 2008 trip to Phnom Penh to open up a brand new FBI office in the capital and discuss Cambodia's cooperation with America's fake "war on terror," meeting with his counterpart General Lundy.[76] Previously Lundy had repeatedly been refused US visas for his known participation in trafficking young Cambodian children. But after the FBI director's trip to Cambodia's capital and meeting with Lundy in person, suddenly the general was granted his visa as a VIP Washington guest. No doubt the visa came as a reward for cooperating with USA's rampant pedophile abuse, most notably operating out of the Phnom Penh Embassy by CIA and State Department personnel.

George W. Bush's then Deputy Secretary of the US State Department John Negroponte has a brother named Nicholas Negroponte who is the head of MIT's Media Lab, another CIA front responsible for installing a computer for each child and a satellite link tower at one of the nearby orphanages. US dollars were flowing into the orphanage as long as staff looked the other way when its boys and girls aged 8-14 were made available for sex parties for Negroponte's diplomatic and VIP visiting pedophiles. But when the staff began complaining about the abuse, all funds were suddenly withdrawn and the pedophiles made sure the computers were erased once the money stopped.[77]

The Negropontes in fact were using the orphanage kids for child pornography, uplinking photos and video files through deep encryption back to the US for wider elite distribution. A teacher at the orphanage said:

Nick [Negroponte] was a frequent visitor and one of the orphanage sponsors who arranged the weekend pajama parties in the city whenever foreign VIPs arrived.[78]

These sick fucks heading our government are raping and exploiting in the worst ways children all over the world. The MIT Media Lab, CIA and State Department are deep in child pornography, sodomizing children and trafficking.

Yoichi Shimatsu asked whether 26-year old computer whiz kid-info activist Aaron Swartz' hacking of MIT files and potentially discovering Nicholas Negroponte's child porn and worldwide pedophilia operations in Africa and Asia might have been the actual cause of Aaron's death, or murder, and not the narrative standby "suicide."[79] Certainly it would explain why the feds were gunning for such overkill punishment that didn't fit the crime – 35 years behind bars for simply trying to make information free to everyone in the world. Of course the permanency of the old "suicided" muzzle as a "cleaner" means of preventing the world from finding out about a sick pedo Empire's pussy, demonic Achilles heel seems a far more plausible explanation with what's at stake than suicide.

Yoichi has this to say to MIT's Media monster Nicholas:

> Nicholas Negroponte, you have no place to hide in Southeast Asia or Africa, not any longer. You are under watch and will be relentlessly tracked down, not just for child porn and pimping children but now as an accomplice to murder. Your only way out is to turn over the video files along with the entire list of names, and you had better do it sooner than later because the powerful pedophiles on that list are going to silence you to cover their own tracks.[80]

To keep their Luciferian operations going, the CIA actively pressures local media in this case Southeast Asia to not dare mention, much less publicize, the pedophilia epidemic against their children perpetrated by the US government, even using the National Endowment for Democracy (NED) to provide hush money.[81] As long as the Cambodian orphanages were working with General Lundy in procuring sex slaves for the US Empire’s trafficking network, everything was fine, but once they balked, grave consequences followed. When the corrupt, pro-pedophilia cop Lundy suddenly switched gears and did a 180 while the US-Cambodian sex industry was booming, upsetting the US pedophilia applecart led directly to the general’s November 2008 “accidental” demise, sending a clear message to all in Cambodia they better not mess with Empire’s multibillion dollar sex trade.

As the main perpetrators and protectors of global pedophilia, time and time again both the State Department and CIA have been designated to “fight” against it. The CIA that principally runs child trafficking operations worldwide, the Balkans and Pacific Asia just two blatant examples, is allotted an unlimited funding stream of black ops bucks to “stop” the very crime it most egregiously commits on an epic scale.

How the global pedo network operates is the classic Hegelian Dialectic in action.[82] The Bushes and Clintons took turns publicly acknowledging how the lawlessness of the jungle is out of control and we need to get tougher on crime as their identified problem. Then comes the predictable reaction to their identified problem, the discovery that an increasing number of runaway, missing and unsupervised children falling through the cracks as victim to predators and killers alike. But always the seedy derelicts off the street, local drug pushers and violent gang members are the targeted culprits - not the CIA or State Department - lurking and lingering around America’s bus stops, railway and bus stations, schools and playgrounds. The all too obvious solution is passing even tougher new anti-crime laws and expanding and militarizing police forces to adequately address this urgent crisis needing to “protect our children.” So behind catchy slogans like “leave no child behind” and shitloads of boondoggle programs come hundreds of newly built privatized prisons filled up with persons of color from the barrios and ghettos on nonviolent drug offenses.[83] Additionally, billions of our taxpayer dollars are poured into beefing up law enforcement, violent crime task forces and enacting unprecedented comprehensive anti-trafficking measures and policies, all with the hidden agenda to expand and conceal their raping and trafficking of millions of children.

Following Bush's anti-trafficking law, one among hundreds of bureaucratic creations is the Human Smuggling and Trafficking Center (HSTC). In May 2008 Bush's US Attorney General Michael Mukasey described HSTC as a:

> Joint venture of government experts from the prosecutorial, law enforcement, policy, intelligence, and diplomatic areas teamed to combat trafficking in persons, migrant smuggling, and clandestine terrorist travel.[84]

This state sponsored Hegelian "solution" was designed on paper to appear so righteous as a constructive, much needed intervention to help reduce global child sex trafficking rings. Yet Wayne Madsen explains how its actual purpose is just the opposite - setting up an impenetrable, walled off apparatchik to facilitate expansion of the elite's child sodomy operations, spending ever more tax dollars to effectively safeguard and conceal their already in-place trafficking network from exposure and accountability. After all, Bush junior didn't want on his hands another Franklin scandal that exposed papa Bush as a flaming pedophile. In Wayne's words:

> This center combines U.S. foreign service personnel with CIA agents, the deadly combination that has seen U.S. diplomatic outposts, particularly in Southeast and South Asia, used to provide cover for pedophile VIP visits for purposes of sex tourism and pedophile U.S. diplomats.[85]

An entire boondoggle cottage industry has bureaucratically mushroomed in the last decade and a half at tax paid expense to include not just the Defense and State Departments using CIA fronts, but even the US Health and Human Services, Homeland Security and the Justice Departments all going global, milking the “save our children” gravy train, like a cancer wasting our tax dollars on fine tuning their child trafficking infrastructure through “networking” in nations where enslaved children predominantly originate and transit. Madsen details this massive expanding operation specifically networking with Thailand, Canada, Mexico, Russia, Croatia, Czech Republic, Poland, Malawi, Tanzania, Austria, Bulgaria, Hungary, Nepal, Indonesia, China, Georgia, Latvia, Romania, Kyrgyzstan, Azerbaijan, Albania, Kazakhstan, Senegal, Nigeria, Gabon, Gambia, Uganda, Madagascar and Malaysia.[86] With our hard earned bucks, in the name of stopping trafficking and sodomizing children, their Satanic tentacles have only spread further and deeper to every corner of the globe to increase and strengthen the efficiency and insular impunity of their global child killing machine.

The same CIA covers and USAID recipients keep showing up over and over again with the same dubious players that expose their close-knit system of cronyism, nepotism and criminal corruption. Health and Human Services funds a 24-hour hotline called the National Human Trafficking Resource Center (NHTRC).[87] Its prime contractor is Lockheed Martin, the suspected Vegas child trafficking shooter’s old employer that’s the number one US defense contractor and its subcontractor is the Covenant House. Remember Bush senior and Reagan’s favorite charity? The Covenant House run by convicted pedophile former Catholic priest Bruce Ritter was heavily active in Central America procuring children for the pedo pipeline (covered earlier in Chapter 5). CEOs linked to CIA activities in Asia from such Fortune 500 heavyweights as Lockheed and insurance giant AIG (that US taxpayers bailed out) typically end up board directors of charities like the infamous Covenant House and notorious CIA-linked, “faith-based” aid organization World Hope International (WHI),[88] a $1.3 million recipient of USAID funds for its “anti-trafficking” efforts in Cambodia. The CIA linked WHI was also granted $300,000 from USAID for its “traffic busting” in Laos. WHI is also connected to the infamous Jim Jones and the Jonestown, Guyana tragedy,[89] Cuban refugee camps in the US as well as the Sabra and Chatila Palestinian refugee camps in Lebanon where in 1982 Israeli led forces massacred yet more Palestinian victims[90] with its never-ending genocidal apartheid policy.[91] UK’s Labor Party leader Jeremy Corbin just ruined Israeli Prime Minister Netanyahu’s dinner celebration of the Balfour Declaration centennial, snubbing the war criminal as the latest indicator that despite US Empire complicity Israel is fast becoming a nation pariah within the world community.[92]

Direct links also exist between World Vision and two known CIA Monarch mind control assassins - John Lennon’s Mark David Chapman and Reagan’s would-be John W. Hinkley, Jr. Mark Chapman once worked at a World Vision refugee camp in Arkansas while Hinkley’s dad was WHI’s chairman of the board.[93] And the same day Reagan was shot Hinkley’s brother was scheduled to dine with another of George HW’s sons Neil Bush and his wife.[94] After all, the Bush and Hinkley families go way back as indelible ties that bind both friendship and joint business together. You see in Luciferian circles, it’s a very small world.

Though numerous small humanitarian organizations perform admirable work assisting victims in disaster stricken nations around the globe, virtually all the biggest NGOs and USAID programs, including the Red Cross, AmeriCares (another pedo procurer covered in the earlier Malta chapter), Covenant House, World Vision, Knights of Malta (whose malfeasance earned an entire chapter 5), Catholic Relief Services, CARE International, Save the Children, UNICEF, any UN presence as well as the infamously criminal Clinton Global Initiative are guilty of contributing to the pedo epidemic's global trafficking network.[95]

The parasitic gougers in Haiti after the January 2010 7.0 earthquake while Secretary of State Hillary was busily selling off 20% of America's uranium deposits to Russia[96] and $29 billion worth of advanced fighter jets to Saudi Arabia[97] destined to murder over 12,000 Yemeni civilians (mostly women and children),[98] Bill led the UN Haitian humanitarian relief campaign that made $13.5 billion disappear, lining the Clinton Foundation and friends' coffers while less than 1% actually went to the shattered, poorest nation in the Western Hemisphere.[99] Hillary's US ambassador to Haiti wrote a revealing post-quake assessment declaring "The Gold Rush is on!"[100]

The cash grabbing Clintons mined the desperate impoverished nation for not only dollars but children as well. A year after the earthquake, Bill and Hillary were further incriminated when in 2011 Hillary went out of her way to protect convicted child kidnapper Laura Silsby, caught red-handed attempting to cross the border into Dominican Republic with 33 Haitian kids she tried passing off as orphans that actually had parents.[101] The Clintons immediately retained "a lawyer" for Silsby who turned out to be wanted in Costa Rica and El Salvador for child trafficking himself, freely admitting he'd worked with US Army intelligence, the DEA and Homeland Security. Then while the Pizzagate scandal was blasting the internet world just following Hillary's epic defeat last November, researcher Monica Petersen in her late 20's investigating the Clinton's child trafficking involvement in Haiti, suddenly showed up “suicided” as yet another potential Clinton graveyard casualty.[102] Needless to say, Hillary’s State Department and her over 10,000 NGOs in a feeding frenzy struck gold in Haiti harvesting their bumper crop of little kids to defile.

Over 300,000 Haitians died in the killer quake, placing 32,000 kids in 760 orphanages on the island.[103] Yet 4 out of 5 Haitian children living in an orphanage have at least one of their parents still alive. But poverty, discrimination, disability and lack of social services cause most of the 8 million children in orphanages worldwide to not be united with their living parents, along with Empire’s pedo agenda. Making matters worse is the fact that orphanages are a magnet for pedophiles and trafficking operations. As alluded to earlier, the State Department, CIA, USAID and thousands of NGO “charities” are crawling with child predators that exploit these vulnerable children for obscene profits and perversions. Chief Executive Georgette Mulheir of the London based charity Lumos told Reuters:

> When people hear the word ‘orphanage’, they imagine that it’s a good thing or they imagine that it’s necessary. They do not imagine that so many orphanages are actually trafficking, beating, sexually abusing and starving children.[104]

A case in point in Haiti of another pedophile still at large protected by a corrupt system is Michael Geilenfeld, founder and executive director since the 1985 of St. Joseph Family Homes for Boys in Port-au-Prince. His “calling” had him drifting from one pedo haven to the next in the name of “helping” [himself to] little boys - India, Cambodia, Laos, Vietnam, California, El Salvador. The man leaves a trail of accusations dating back to 1987 in Boston, 1990 in both US and Haiti, 1995 in Detroit, 1997 in UK and Haiti, 1999 in Haiti, 2006-07 in Haiti and US,[105] and in Haiti in 2014 and again in 2015. He finally was detained for 237 days in September 2014 but a judge in April 2015 without even victims' testimony dismissed charges and released him yet again.[106] Based on the latest 2015 allegations, a warrant for his arrest was once again issued in late October that year. A week later in November Haitian authorities closed his 30-year old orphanage and two other of his facilities.[107] But the slippery former brother from the Order of St. Teresa apparently evaded the law and has been nowhere to be found ever since. Despite an army of victims spilling a trail of tears over three decades long alleging Geilenfeld's guilt, the man seems immune from any real consequence, which begs the question who is helping him.

In 2011 Hillary's "Gold Rush" ambassador was given formal notice of Michael Geilenfeld's lengthy checkered past which by authority of the Protect Act of 2003 makes suspected sex crimes committed in foreign countries prosecutable by law in the United States. Yet Geilenfeld was allowed to travel freely back and forth, even coordinating several dance tours across America featuring his Haitian boys, generating additional popular and financial support.[108] Legally appearing to possess nine lives, in 2013 this alleged pedophile even successfully sued and was awarded a $14.5 million settlement by a federal jury in 2015 in a defamation suit brought against a Maine child advocate activist who drew public attention on the internet to the gross injustice of him remaining free.[109] In 2016 the Maine defendant was able to win on appeal that overturned the earlier decision for lacking federal jurisdiction. But with the 65-year old Geilenfeld now a two year fugitive still at large dodging justice and extradition back to Haiti, based on his First Amendment rights being violated, the Maine activist is now seeking to dismiss the lawsuit refiled against him in lower state court.[110]

For years Geilenfeld's primary funding source has been another deep pocketed, faith-based non-profit NGO out of North Carolina calling itself Hearts with Haiti, also a co-plaintiff in the defamation suit. Despite three decades of accusations and Haiti's pending extradition orders, Hearts with Haiti chooses to stand by its pedophile fugitive rather than the dozens if not hundreds of his Haitian victims. Hearts with Haiti has as much heart for Haiti as the take-the-money-and-run Clintons. What a twisted, pathetic world we live in when a chronic serial child rapist not only remains free but nearly became a millionaire as well, while a child advocate having researched the case and interviewed Geilenfeld victims is the one on trial.

Thousands of these slimeballs are out there globally hunting and hurting children leaving lifetime emotional scars and trauma. And because they're high on the predatory food chain, their sins go unpunished. One more case of another American pedophile that raked in lots of dough before getting caught from a location rivaling Thailand as the pedo-sex tourism capital of the world - Brazil.[111] Meet Rick Schair from Atlanta who ran a business called "Wet-A-Line," advertising "ecological fishing expeditions" in the Amazon jungle near Manaus.[112] He catered to the pedophile elite amongst the top tier masonic Royal Order of Jesters, hooking them up with indigenous child sex slaves. Just to show you how entrepreneurial this guy is, Rick has an hour-long infomercial video on Amazon.com featuring his yacht Amazon Santana and his 20 pound "Amazon Peacock Bass."[113]

In July 2011 a Brazilian police sting operation busted Schair when he and 20 of his pedo-patrons, all but one Jesters that included a New York Supreme Court judge and a police chief, were caught with girls as young as 12. Jester molesters had been investigated for running a child trafficking ring in New York State with Brazilian links.[114] One of Schair's defense witnesses at his trial happened to be the federal prosecutor Larry Mackey[115] of MK Ultra patsy Timothy McVeigh from the Oklahoma City false flag bombing.[116] It takes little dot connecting to realize the unholy trinity between the Jesters, their child sex tourism opportunist, and their link to the elite's global child trafficking operation that they share in common with an OKC inside-job insider. And there lies Lucifer's lair.

All of this human tragedy from wars to migration crises to setting up pedo sanctuaries through CIA and NGOs is diabolically planned years in advance by the controllers. Manufacturing Zionist-US Empire wars in conjunction with the likes of George Soros, the CIA and their myriad of on-the-ground supporting players directed from the Washington war room, supported by both City of London's financial control center and Rome's "religious" advisement and vast global resource tentacles, all covertly intersect to make the globalized child sex slavery network their fine-tuned, well-oiled Luciferian machine turned standard international protocol.

Again, it's built in, entrenched foxes guarding the predatory henhouse that permeate all levels of government, military, courts, law enforcement, entertainment and news media, corporate global finance and education. With pedophile puppet masters controlling the pedophile puppet strings of blackmailed, compromised and controlled Western politicians, courts and law enforcement, their diabolical infrastructure has afforded them living above the law continuing to rape and kill our innocents for centuries. Now that they've been exposed like never before, it's past time we finally hold them accountable.

Once a child is kidnapped, abducted or sold, while in transit each financial exchange brings a series of destinations and slave ownerships, some temporary, others longer term, but each abusive station along the way extracts an increasingly devastating toll on the child's health and well-being.

Meanwhile, both the price of the child and the price to the child continue to rise. Using drugs, cages, and methods of psychological and physical torture, handlers and owners brutally rape and torment their child victims into robotic, semi-despondent submission and malleable compliance,[117] a loose facsimile to CIA trauma induced mind control torture programs operating in North America. But a broken spirit and will is the tragic result with death never far behind.

According to former longtime slave Dr. Sue Arrigo:

> A child in the sex slave system has a useful expected lifetime of two years. They fail to thrive in that setting. They die of disease, neglect, abuse and giving up. The kids are killed if they are seriously hurt, refuse to work, or become too jaded to attract customers. They are almost never freed by their owners because they could talk. It is a dead end occupation usually.[118]

If a child lasts two years, from a decade old statistic in a large US city like New York, an owner of a child sex slave can net profit on average about $300,000 per child. The going price in 2007 for a sick, used kid as most expendable damaged goods on the auction block could sell for $500 but a fresh healthy blue-eyed virgin for $50,000.[119] A child picked up by scum artists in war zones runs about $2,000 USD. The fee for buyers just for admittance into these underground auction houses cost $10,000. Similar to its drug peddling business, the CIA level of involvement as pipeline coordinators only deals in the boatloads and trainloads, enormously large volumes for a fast turnover business. The CIA also has long term interests, owning and operating thousands of “safe house” brothels around the globe, pimping millions of child sex slaves for obscene profits. As a sex slave CIA operative with a conscience, courage and finesse, Sue Arrigo would often risk her life shutting down the large volume auction houses. But Sue would have to wait till after the CIA sold the children off to the auction houses before she could intercede in busting their operation because had she dared shortchange the CIA out of its cut, she would’ve promptly been killed. Dr. Arrigo explains that the CIA and its “corporate bosses like the Rockefellers and the Bushes” make about $1,000 off each child’s head sold to auctioneers, $300 allocated to the CIA and $700 to their corporate bosses, about twice their profit share from selling drugs.

Arrigo adds that the kids with the most smarts and/or looks, about 5% are skimmed off the top by the Luciferians in charge like the Bushes and used as either spies or corporate sex slaves or both.[120] They’re typically pimped out on high priced loans to influential politicians as house boy and girls to ensure the puppets in Congress are happy and blackmail-able for control. Congressional house slaves also become convenient spies keeping tabs on the political puppets for the likes of the Bushes and Clintons and their bosses the Rockefellers and Rothschilds. At the highest echelons of power, gifted child sex slaves that possess remote viewing capability and can accurately forecast stock prices can earn their bloodline bosses up to $1 million a day. The high stakes of oil deals worth billions can easily have Saudi sheiks and princes forking over a million bucks for a night with a young presidential model. It’s a status thing knowing their child slave for a night is being regularly shared by US presidents. These kids on the upper rung are the “lucky ones” as they’ve a halfway decent shot at reaching adulthood, though their emotional scars and baggage are typically lifelong.

At the age of three, Dr. Sue Arrigo’s violent father, a career military intelligence officer, allegedly sold his daughter into the CIA Monarch mind control program.[121] Similar to intergenerational Illuminati families, fathers who are career military officers often subject their own children to the horrific abuse of mind control. Military brats are viewed as prized commodities mined for their pedigree status as ideal mind control candidates at age two or three. This fact speaks volumes that a favorite crème de la crème source for slave harvesting is military officer families, since they're engrained with a dementedly skewed sense of duty and hierarchical discipline that apparently absolve fathers of guilt and misgivings despite knowing they're inflicting systematic torture and rape on their own sons and daughters. But then when they are often their kids' first pedophile owner and master, it's no different from the Illuminati breeding operation. Presidential models often are/were recruited from the "fine upstanding" homes and families of military commanders, examples being Brice Taylor and Cisco Wheeler. It's all pretty sick shit but then Satanism has found a receptive home in the United States armed forces. Just ask the Luciferian maestro himself Michael Aquino. Thank God 98% of our servicemen and women are decent folk stuck in a diabolical system.

By sinister design, the planetary rulers have used Empire wars to overrun and flood Europe (and to lesser extent North America) with millions upon millions of refugees, fomenting religious and race war tensions as part of its control agenda to create such extreme havoc and global upheaval in order to systematically take down the West as a precondition to their one world government totalitarianism.[122] The influx of 50,000 unescorted Latin American children suddenly flocking to Obama's open border doorstep[123] a couple years ago was also the result of a covert CIA-DHS-globalist operation for the same purpose, ultimately to stir up ethnic divisions within America and reap the bountiful harvest of thousands of helpless, vulnerable children sucked into the pedophile pipeline. Border Patrol agents were ordered to stand down while constitutional states' rights in Texas and Arizona were usurped and rendered powerless to police their own borders.

An unending cycle, a schematic flow of unfolding events is unleashed - CIA engineered wars beget engineered migration crises beget engineered spikes in child trafficking beget engineered ritualized orgies of Luciferian sodomy beget engineered earthly demonic takeover - all part of the elite's arsenal of weaponized tools turned spoils of war serving the dual function of child flesh and blood supply and demand while through nonstop crises and war tightening the tyrannical grip of absolute control over a haplessly trapped world population. This is their endgame and it's up to us to spoil it by making their end our endgame for them.

In each of the Empire's military occupied countries, major interlocking child sex trafficking rings form the global network supplying the pedophile elite with fresh shipments of foreign child slaves in addition to the homegrown, "test tubed," Monarch-bred Illuminati type already locked and loaded inside North America. By the way, around the globe 2 to 4 million kids each year are trafficked internally within a nation's border.[124] This colossal system is structurally held together and maintained by every integral working part, from the crucial intergovernmental to the inter-military to the legal, financial, religious, educational to the media, transportation and organized crime components, all are actively participating in this massive planet-wide Luciferian operation. A relative small handful of demonic psychopaths in charge of each of these interlocking spheres of international power, wealth and control are actually running this massive day-to-day global trafficking network that serves children on a platter to an even smaller number of ruling puppet masters sitting atop this planet's predatory food chain.

Again it periodically bears reminding that there are good guys within the intelligence services, the military ranks and even a few sprinkled across governments and Hollywood, though few to none are found at or near the top of this power pyramid. Clearly not everyone in the CIA, FBI or Pentagon is a serial pedophile killer or complicit enabler/supporter, though the higher up on the pecking order, the more they are. All these hierarchical organizations are purposely structured to compartmentalize to the nth degree, so that the bigger picture and information flow is only privy and disseminated to those on a strict need to know basis. Just as there are lower level Catholic priests and Freemasons who are good, decent people, same applies across the boards to those in government, the military, intelligence and law enforcement communities. No doubt many in these professions caught in bad situations suffer cognitive dissonance whenever they encounter reality that contradicts their own conscience, internal belief system or schemas. They'll either repress ensuing internal conflicts, deny reality or gradually come to realize continuing to work in settings where they're merely a complicit cog in the Luciferian wheel can no longer be acceptable. The lower one is on the power pole, the easier it becomes to remove oneself. The corollary makes it extremely difficult with far more at stake. Whistleblowers bravely take their own life into their hands.

The next chapter will continue the overview analysis of the CIA-military end of pedophilia and the child trafficking network that includes exposing private US civilian contractors' and the UN's supplementary but critical roles in this gargantuan planet-wide criminal operation.

One Brave Marine Colonel’s Wife’s Disturbing Observations Confirm the Luciferian Network

Seemingly without end, pedophilia in the US military constantly keeps resurfacing. In addition to exposing the CIA and US State Department embassies across the Far East for their blatant abuse of Asian children servicing visiting American VIP pedophiles and hosting US diplomatic perverts, former naval intelligence officer Wayne Madsen also uncovered a vast network of his fellow naval officers in the 1980’s running a stateside child pornography ring, extending from San Francisco and Oregon to Chicago and DC that Secretary of Navy John Lehman covered up.[1] This naval pedo-operation occurred on George HW Bush’s watch as VP and president, in addition to the infamous Franklin scandal (to be covered in Chapter 13) that trafficked in children from Nebraska’s world famous Catholic Boys Town orphanage for “midnight tours at the White House.”[2]

Not to be outdone, when it came Junior’s turn at prez, George W. had his own version of White House “midnight tours” in gay prostitute and multiple internet porn site operator Jeff Gannon whose real name is James D. Guckert. While posing as a fake White House reporter from 2003 till he got busted in 2005, Gannon clocked in over 200 White House appearances, at least 14 sleepovers and 32 visits on days when no press conference was even scheduled.[3]

Among Gannon’s numerous gay sites and personas (aside from Bush lover), “Bulldog” was invented to cater to homosexual US Marines.[4] Bush’s intimate link to Gannon and convicted lobbyist Jack Abramoff as procuring pimps in an AIPAC sponsored child trafficking and prostitution blackmail ring carried out at DC’s finest hotels - Watergate, Ritz Carlton and the Sheraton[5] provided more than enough evidence to confirm that Washington’s child sex trafficking remained active throughout the entire four decade long Bush-Clinton crime family dynasty right up to today’s Pizzagate-turned-Pedogate scandal. In December 2006 Bush fired eight US attorneys to ward of his own pedo scandal from going public. As a backdrop to all this sordid criminal activity and cover-up comes the disturbing testimony of a wife married to a US Marine Corps colonel who confessed to her his and his nation’s countless dark, down and dirty sins that fortunately for us his patriotic, God-fearing wife could not keep secret.

Kay Griggs, former spouse of retired Colonel George Raymond Griggs, exposed the plethora of perversions and multiple illegalities of US military intelligence operations around the globe through her ex-husband’s criminal exploits as part of the elite’s assassination squad.[6] Colonel Griggs disclosed to her his intimate ties to Henry Kissinger, both Bush senior and junior, Caspar Weinberger, William Colby, Paul Wolfowitz, Dick Cheney and Donald Rumsfeld, as well as dozens of America’s top military brass. In 1998 Kay Griggs described in detailed interviews totaling near 8 hours in length the dark inner world of US Empire’s dirty politics, including the illicit gun running, international drug smuggling, illegal money laundering, systemic pedophilia and rampant homosexuality that goes on regularly at the highest reaches of the US government.[7] Much of Kay Griggs’ bombshell disclosures are verified by either history or subsequent confirmed research, dovetailing consistently with how the Illuminati secret societies operate at the highest echelons of power in government geopolitics, military, banking, education and the corporate world.

Kay’s personal story as a member of an upstanding prominent Virginia family in the Virginia Beach-Norfolk area has deep connections to the US military, military intelligence, her Protestant Christian roots and her local community. Griggs’ first 20-year marriage was to John Garland Pollack III, grandson of a former Virginia governor. Her son from that marriage wed into the wealthy Blum family, a known member of the Pilgrims Society that runs regularly with the Rockefellers.[8] This is the “high society” that combined with her second marriage, Kay continued peripherally circulating and rubbing elbows with all her life, though she would never identify herself as an elite per se, more a traditional-minded, old fashioned patriotic gal who loves Jesus Christ, her family and country above all else in this world… all three longtime targeted enemies of the Illuminati gang[9] her Marine Corps husband was so closely associated with and took direct orders from.

The Pilgrims Society, an American-British elitist organization in which the US branch was founded in 1902, is considered the Eastern Establishment closely related to the most prominent banking families whose members are always educated at the top Ivy League institutions Harvard, Yale and Princeton.[10] Throughout its existence the Pilgrims Society has financed a number of fascist regimes, including such reigns of terror as Spain’s Franco, Italy’s Mussolini, Germany’s Hitler, Soviet Russia’s Stalin and Red China’s Mao, as well as the Japanese Imperial Empire. Under the misnomer of the free enterprise system, its anti-competition, globalized monopoly is anything but free, and true ideology more akin to British Fabianism, Cecil Rhodes and Marxism. A largely unknown globalist New World Order secret society, the Pilgrims possess deep state ties branching out from London, Washington and Brussels.

Notable past and present US members include the likes of David Rockefeller, Henry Kissinger, Zbigniew Brzezinski, current CFR president Richard Haas, Generals Alexander Haig and David Petraeus, former Reagan and Bush Defense and State Secretaries Caspar Weinberger and George Schultz, Vietnam War architect Robert McNamara, Clinton’s former CIA director James Woolsey, and former Federal Reserve chairman Paul Volcker. As an old wealth bastion of Anglo-American Empire Establishment, the Pilgrims Society operating on both sides of the Atlantic is especially steeped in deep state intelligence and shadow government neo-conservatism. For well over a century concentrated wealth, global power and control are synonymous with the Anglo-American Pilgrims Society.[11]

In her interviews Kay states that her husband Colonel Griggs, a practicing daily alcoholic, used his wife as his confessional during the first three years of their 11 year rocky marriage starting in the late 1980’s. While under the influence, he openly would regularly admit to all his past sins in the name of dutiful service to his country as a military intelligence officer deployed in covert operations around the globe working for the ruling elite.[12] George Griggs’ early military career had him honing his assassination skills in the deadly CIA Phoenix Program during the Vietnam War,[13] the same one that Lt. Michael Aquino cut his teeth (or fangs) on.[14] A few years later Griggs participated in Operation Gladio, the US-NATO joint terrorist operations conducted in Western Europe, Turkey and Lebanon.[15]

Kay learned how the inside world of elite cronyism politics and perverse secret society networks brutally rule this planet through US-NATO Empire’s foreign policy trademarks

- neocolonialism, war and terrorism.[16] She names three consecutive top US Marine Corps generals who served as Joint Chiefs of Staff members from 1987-1999 who were also leaders of her ex-husband's covert homosexual-bisexual brotherhood – Generals Alfred Gray, Carl Mundy and Charles Krulak.[17] Kay Griggs also reveals by name a handful of other mostly bisexual generals and government dignitaries who regularly participated in orgies, pedophilia and homosexuality around the world. Kay even outed Illuminati chairman Henry Kissinger for forcing anal sex on young American soldiers in Cambodia during the Vietnam War, then threatened to have his victims killed if they told.[18]

Kay Griggs spoke of the very same rites of passage for initiates amongst both the Marine Corps officer ranks earning full bird colonel status as well as the Cap and Gown secret society at her husband's Princeton University alma mater, Yale's counterpart to Skull and Bones.[19] The initiation ceremonies of all three secret societies are purposely designed to humiliate and degrade fresh newly selected inductees each year, forcing them to take turns from inside an open casket performing acts of fellatio and be on the receiving end of anal sex as part of their sworn to secrecy ritual in return for fast track Faustian keys to the kingdom that catapult their careers as Empire movers and shakers.[20] Those refusing to undergo this Luciferian designed for blackmail control program don't receive the same favor up the ladder to success, in the same way that one must be a compromised if not a pedophile killer to end up as a top tier puppet to the planetary controllers. The common theme in all these occult, dancing-with-the-devil inductions, be it members joining the elite military brotherhood or Eastern Establishment or 33 degree Freemasonry as future presidents and puppet heavyweights, all are sworn to secrecy (or death) for the same perverse, blackmail-able acts and reasons to ensure lifelong control, loyalty and elitist cohesion.

The military brotherhood ceremony starts off with downing oceans of booze to loosen up initiates for what comes next. Alcohol as an inhibitor-breaker and the intense pressures of obedience within the US military hierarchical chain of command effectively induce submission and acquiescence, breaking down whatever personal moral or repugnant resistance to anal sex and homosexuality one may initially pre-possess.[21] It's both an act of intimate male bonding as well as experiencing the humiliation as initiates assuming the weaker position to anally accept raw male power and control literally and brutally thrust upon and in them by their "superiors." It likens back to Nazi Germany with many gay officers in the SS. Like Aquino, sometimes the ceremonial leader even wears a Nazi uniform.[22] When all is said and done, inductees become both controllable and controlling automatons, part of a secret brutal government killing machine. Kay states her belief that these grown men's emotional development is stuck in adolescence, never quite maturing to adulthood.[23] Though there is probable truth to her supposition, the power and control differential lies at the root of this ritualized male intimacy and closeted, humiliating degradation.

Also keep in mind that many of these initiates have undergone similar ritualized mind control experience occurring at various earlier stages in their life, often beginning in childhood as Illuminati's "chosen" preppie super soldiers, traversing upwards through the ticket-punching process to the top of the Illuminati food chain.[24] But instead of pledging loyalty and allegiance to God, country and Constitution, which all who serve in government and military must do, even if merely going through the motions, very early on they are engrained and conditioned to strictest loyalty first and foremost to their secret

Luciferian, all male, elitist membership[25] promising lifetime power, money, speedy promotion and lifelong protection and impunity from all accountability.[26] The idea is they are so special that their secret membership guarantees them living above the law throughout their lifetime. As a side note, while Yale's Skull and Bones Society broke tradition a quarter century ago accepting females into its inner circle,[27] elitist schools like Harvard as well as the US military "brotherhood" remain holdout bastions of male bonding.

For the sake of compliance in all their state-ordered bloody transgressions committed throughout their high powered careers, all under "national security" protection, elitist members are assured their sins will always remain secret and go unpunished, a primary perk that's an absolute necessity for their inner club sanctum's very survival. It begs the question how many of America's top leaders are completely controlled by blackmail through secret acts of pedophilia and homosexuality?[28] Be it volitional or chemically induced through deception, alcohol or drugs, insiders maintain that to reach the top, every single leader must submit to this Luciferian rite of passage.

This process, minus the sexual perversion component, to a striking degree parallels the rigorous four-year military leadership training program offered at the three US service academies - West Point, Annapolis and the Air Force Academy. As a West Point graduate from the Class of 1973, I was a onetime roommate[29] of two current CFR members[30] who were both Army rising stars, Generals John Abizaid,[31] the longest running commander of both the Iraq and Afghanistan Wars in charge of CENTCOM from 2003-2007, and Karl Eikenberry,[32] Ambassador to Afghanistan (2009-2011) immediately following his stint as Afghanistan War commander (2005-2007). In the West Point class directly behind me were three more luminaries, General David Petraeus,[33] [34] also a regular Bilderberger attendee and onetime CIA director (2011-12) until his fall from grace in November 2012 resulting from his exposed extramarital affair with his young biographer and fellow academy grad from 1996 Paula Broadwell.[35] Also hailing from the Class of 1974 is recent retired Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff (2011-2015) General Martin Dempsey,[36] and architect of today's Orwellian surveillance system,[37] US history's longest tenured NSA Director General Keith Alexander (2005-2014).[38]

Having been educated and trained in leadership at the same military institution of higher learning as all these Empire warlords, as firsthand witness I can attest to the piss poor quality leadership that's emerged from West Point for over half a century, bemoaning an abysmal track record of losing all of America's nonstop wars.[39] But that's not due to just poor leadership but also by the globalist design to always maintain a manufactured enemy for the benefit of the military industrial complex.[40] With the agenda of global destabilization the priority, perpetual unwinnable wars remain good business for both profit and global control.[41]

West Point as the Brass Factory on the Hudson takes the supposed "best and brightest," and "cream of the crop" (oft heard expressions) from America's high schools and prep schools (and to a limited extent, from the world), systematically strips them of their previous identity through a dehumanizing mind control disciplinary hazing system, then begins incrementally rewarding them based on demonstrated compliance and rule enforcement.[42] In effect, this system is predicated on building egos back up shaped and controlled by a rigid authoritarian hierarchy that merely churns out the "best" followers as Machiavellian robots who for X number of years are evaluated and promoted simply based on how well they do what they're told as order followers.[43] This mechanical, corrupted, by-the-step seniority system both rewards mindless mediocrity and generates psychopathy producing only the best followers - not leaders, strategically and ambitiously navigating up the ladder playing the amoral game of cutthroat politics, ass kissing ingratiation and paper-pushing bureaucracy. Because the rules of today’s monolithic power matrix are identical throughout every corrupt institutional domain, leadership across the boards - not just the military but in government, finance, business, law, law enforcement and education, by design produces only psychopaths. To gain entrance to this exclusive club at the top, you must be a fellow psychopath.[44] This morally bankrupted Luciferian system wouldn’t have it any other way.

Ultimately those who have minds of their own, who may still retain some semblance of inner conscience, integrity, creativity, a natural humane capacity for dynamic quality leadership, either by choice leave the academy during their first two years or their first chance five years out upon completing their post-grad commitment.[45] In recent decades after receiving their half million dollar free ride on tax paid scholarship, the officer retention rates or return on federal investment amongst “the best and brightest” is abysmally low because of horrendous attrition rates,[46] by default, leaving only inferior leaders as “superiors.” Hence, this psychopathic game of seniority spawning today’s admirals and generals is generally devoid of either conscience or morality. With universal principle of “like attracts like,” psychopaths at the top will only allow fellow psychopaths to join their private elitist club. The story of Kay Griggs’ ex who spent almost forty years following orders as a well-paid, highly protected, mind controlled assassin exemplifies these soulless sub-humans atop America’s power pyramid. Only Col. George Griggs as a used and abused assassin must have had at least a tinge of guilty conscience, since he was compelled to drown himself in liquor every day and compulsively use his wife as his confessional.

George Raymond Griggs came from a family of modest means, likely an MK Ultra victim at pubescence separated from his two parents who moved from New Jersey to California, placing young George under the care of his uncle, a military intelligence officer. Griggs would not see his parents for another eight years. In the meantime, he was enrolled in Hun School, a wealthy private prep academy located in Princeton, New Jersey. It was there that Griggs met his lifelong mentor Charles Caddock, the assistant headmaster who George would retain close correspondence with until Charles' death in 1985. Charles Caddock was a homosexual who became the bodyguard and mentor to three royal House of Saud princes, Mohammed bin Faisal (1937-2017), Saud bin Faisal (1940-2015) and Turki bin Faisal (1945-) on loan for US education from Saudi Arabia during the 1950's.[47]

It was at Hun School that George, along with the royals, may have been first introduced to pedophilia by their pederast mentoring headmaster Caddock, all reputedly playing male bonding games running naked in the woods together. Interestingly, based on Kay Griggs relayed account from her husband, two of America's premier scientists of the 1950's were invited to the local Princeton parties.[48] Albert Einstein apparently took time off from calculating his relativity and quantum physics theories to show up and blow off steam sexually victimizing young Hun schoolboys. And J. Robert Oppenheimer, the father of the atomic bomb, was known to frequent the Princeton Cap and Gown sex parties.[49] Kay Griggs' husband also confessed to later running naked through the redwood forest as a Marine Corps officer at Bohemian Grove,[50] engaging in homosexual pedophilia "games" where known child sacrifice takes place as part of a decadent, elitist, Satan worshipping tradition.[51]

Among Charles’ high powered fellow gay friends was a student advisor/programmer Alexander Robinson who also had a US Marine military intelligence background and acted as liaison to the Saudi royal family.[52] Wealthy, oil-rich families from Saudi Arabia have held a longtime tradition engaging in pedophilia, linked directly to the massive global child sex trafficking rings operating today that transport enslaved young children captives from Europe, North America and Asia to the Middle East for pedophile sheiks and princes to use up and throw away.[53] Though questionable whether the Hun experience was the first time that either George or his schoolmate princes were sexually molested by homosexual predators, what seems certain is that Griggs was an MK Ultra mind control victim sexually abused by his programming handlers Caddock and Robinson.

Kay Griggs points out the parallels between alleged Kennedy “assassin” Lee Harvey Oswald and her husband, adding how they even look alike. Like Oswald while still young, George Griggs had been targeted for mind control training to become a government super soldier assassin.[54] Even Presidents Clinton (Masonic sponsored Order of DeMolay in youth,[55] Rhodes scholar, CFR, Bilderberg, Trilateral Commission),[56] Bush Jr. (Skull and Bones)[57] and Obama[58](CIA bred[59] Bilderberg attendee[60]) as young lads were very likely mind controlled and groomed to assume top puppet power positions as adults.[61] The colonel’s wife believes that those who control the government are grooming emotionally weak boys with strong attachments to their mothers and weak or absent fathers as future power pyramid occupants, carefully profiled individuals who will most easily be brainwashed and controlled.[62] This system that spawns puppet leadership funnels an inordinate number of Ivy Leaguers through its mind control factory, methodically shaped and molded for top government posts.

George Griggs entered Princeton University on full scholarship in 1955 where he was a school cheerleader, soon enough invited into Princeton's secret Cap and Gown society. Among his fellow Princeton grads also selected to join the Cap and Gown society and attending the same sex parties as Kay's husband were:

Murdered CIA director (1973-1976) William Colby,[63] [64] Knight of Malta CIA deputy director (1978-1981) and Secretary of Defense (1987-1989) under Reagan-Bush as well as Carlyle Group chairman (1992-2003) Frank Carlucci.[65] [66] [67] It was insiders Carlucci and George H.W. Bush, former CIA director (1976-77), VP (1981-1989), first "out of the closet" NWO president (1989-1993)[68] and member of virtually every major Illuminati society,[69] who were both meeting with their partner the Saudi bin Laden family on the very morning of 9/11 at DC's Ritz Carlton Hotel.[70] Another active Cap and Gown-er on that fateful day was Bush Junior's fellow co-conspirator and Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld, a '54 grad who Col. Griggs especially admired.[71]

An earlier infamous Princeton alumnus and US traitor was co-founding CFR member Allen Dulles, also a Knight of Malta and Freemason, US history's first and longest running CIA director (1953-1961) and prime suspect in the JFK assassination after being fired two years earlier.[72] [73] Two more recent CFR-Pilgrims Society-Bohemian Grove attendees"[74] currently still peddling the carbon tax based on the bogus "manmade" CO2 climate change hoax are Reagan and Bush senior's Secretaries of State (1982-1989) George Schultz[75] and (1989-1992) James Baker.[76] Back in the day they're also said to have partied down at Col. Griggs' Cap and Gown pedophile gigs. Schultz was considered a "close friend,"[77] and also a Bechtel president[78] and career company man predatorily neck deep in CIA, chemical weapons, and Saudi oil with his fellow Princeton princes. The Ivies, CIA/military intelligence and Illuminati as a common thread stay constant.

Whether collegiate George knew it yet or not, as an ROTC student on scholarship majoring in the French language, he was being systematically programmed for a career in military intelligence, graduating from the prestigious elite institution in 1959 when he accepted a second lieutenant commission in the US Marine Corps.[79] Under the umbrage of his ROTC training as a French major, 19-year old Griggs was sent off to Rome in 1956 to attend NATO Defense College. Decades later, Col. Griggs would be in charge of NATO PSYOPS in the Mediterranean. Marine Intelligence officer Griggs was a carefully groomed, highly skilled assassin in US Special “black ops” Operations, in wartime first in 1966-67 as a captain deployed in Vietnam’s Phoenix [assassination] Program and later sent to kill repeatedly on every corner of the globe. When his wife questioned him about murdering others for a living, like every brainwashed henchman Griggs insisted it was not murder, not when simply obeying an order from superiors to kill the designated enemy and not when it was professionally executed with complete emotional detachment.[80]

Years later in the early 1980’s as Chief of Staff of the US Task Force in Lebanon, Col. Griggs allegedly assassinated a British double agent spy who happened to be American University in Beirut’s President Malcolm Kerr, because Kerr allegedly objected to US undercover operations taking over and residing in Kerr’s university dormitories.[81] Kay went on to explain that throughout Griggs’ tour of duty in Lebanon, he was cheating on his first wife involved in an affair with an American CIA double agent married to an Arab man who fatefully became Kerr’s successor as university president. Col. Griggs was also part of the covert Bekaa Valley operation in Lebanon, alleged to be privy to pre-knowledge of the US Marine barracks explosion that killed 241 US soldiers in 1983.[82] Other corroborative evidence supports the contention as Mossad apparently knew of the preeminent attack but chose to let it happen in order to enflame US-Arab relations.[83]

Kay Griggs also explained in 1998 that the US was currently waging covert military operations in the Balkan War in Bosnia to train assassins, illegally sell weapons, move drugs and launder money.[84] Covered later in this chapter is the criminal collaboration between the Clintons, NATO, the UN, US military, DynCorp[85] and the mob conjointly trafficking in children and women from other countries into sexual bondage as well as setting up the burgeoning black market trade for organ harvesting and trafficking. Brutally cutting out organs from live, often involuntary war zone donors is the heinous dirty business of prime culprits Israel and the US.[86]

Another key aspect of Col. Griggs' specialty was profiling and training young boy assassins that involves pedophilia, blackmail, and promises of US citizenship in 5 years along with steady "super soldier" employment. The US Special Ops possess training sites around the globe preparing teams of boy assassins undergoing mind control brainwashing as Empire's robot killers.[87] Innocent young foreign nationals primarily from poor Third World countries are typically profiled, recruited and "groomed" to psychologically "turn" targeted boys into coldblooded killers. Robert Kennedy's alleged assassin - the Syrian born Sirhan Sirhan, is believed to have been a programmed Manchurian candidate, set up to take the rap in 1968 for neutralizing RFK as yet another deep state threat,[88] like his older brother, Martin Luther King Jr. and Malcolm X before him. All have been proven to be inside jobs committed by the same Illuminati forces complete with their FBI/CIA handlers and targeted stooges. Little has changed in the power base that runs this world since.

Lake Pontchartrain in Louisiana where expatriated Cubans involved in the Bay of Pigs operation and JFK assassination were trained[89] is a major covert training camp in the US for manufacturing these boy assassins. But US Empire possesses these type training camps worldwide in places like the Philippines, Indonesia, Colombia and Panama. During the 1970's the infamous Cheney-Bush neocon Paul Wolfowitz is said to have worked with Griggs training young assassins in the Indonesian jungle. And Kay Griggs met several of these young boys from places like India, Romania, Dominican Republic and Haiti who were pedophile rape victims under mind controlled contract to the US government for contract killing, in exchange for dutifully sending money to impoverished mothers back home.[90] These boy assassins also fit the same formulaic dynamic - possessing a strong maternal bond minus a paternal influence that's then paternally fed the surrogate, mind control brainwash as "special and gifted" members of an elite force whose work is deemed critically important for national security interests that will always remain shielded and above the law. She loops her husband in with these vulnerable foreign child victims along with the likes of Lee Harvey Oswald, Timothy McVeigh and Jeffrey Dahmer who she maintains were all preyed upon by this perverse government assassin program. In Kay's words:

> [The military profiles for] strong mother, weak father, no father, poor. Because these guys are looking for security, so they will stay in the military and do anything for that security.[91]

Another key point that Kay repeatedly emphasizes throughout her interviews is that so much of the government's international movement of drugs, weapons and money laundering (though not stated, organ and child sex trafficking as well) involves a joint partnership between US black ops and the mob. Typically upstanding Yale and Harvard grads become crooked owners of the largest US ports that with mafia ties control the cargo gateways as an integral part of the international crime syndicate.[92] Recall how Dr. Sue Arrigo similarly described the US ports' illicit trafficking operations.

Kay Griggs cites longtime shapers of US foreign policy brothers Eugene and Walter Rostow, and Eugene's son Nicholas in charge of the Boston Port Authority as pivotal in bringing in drug shipments.[93] Kay implicated Walter Roscow and former Massachusetts Governor Bill Weld (1991-97) in "drug business" in Mexico for years while Weld was once a Bill Clinton nominee for ambassador to Mexico. Having served in virtually every presidential administration since Eisenhower, the Rostows provided the reputable Eastern Establishment cover for trafficking in drugs to the US and outgoing arms to Middle Eastern countries and beyond. Since Walter and Eugene were both aggressively strong Vietnam War proponents and considered international trade experts,[94] and since the CIA and US military both played such a key role during the war in the drug trade from Southeast Asia, Griggs' assertions seem plausible. While acting as Bush senior's chief legal advisor on his National Security Council, Nicholas Rostow gained a reputation for ultra-guarded secrecy, withholding documents from Congress and the public pertaining to Bush's clandestine Iran Contra scandal and illegal arms sales to both Iran and Iraq.[95]

Much of the cabal's global crime network not only involves organized crime, but its assassination tactics, its blood sworn secrecy oaths (or face blackmail or death), and the pure parasitic psychopathy that doesn't flinch an eye committing wholesale slaughter of countless human beings comprise one big happy crime family empire run by the likes of the Bushes and Clintons. After all, Luciferians actually get off on the blood and guts they cause to be spilled worldwide.

And so it should come as no surprise that virtually all our world government leaders (politicians, top cabinet and ministry posts, high court judges), and the higher-ups in the military, the CIA/FBI, Mossad and MI6 all work hand in hand with the drug cartels and mobsters to conduct their day-to-day criminal operations throughout the globe. It's one big, elaborately run, filthy cesspool operation controlling virtually everything on this planet, perpetrated by a miniscule handful of soulless, Lucifer worshipping aficionados who place themselves as gods entitled to live above all human laws as elite members of the same private secret pedophile club. In case you haven't figured it out, which by this point no doubt you have, that fact is the singular running theme throughout this entire book.

But since Pizzagate broke late last year, their cover has now been busted wide open and their high crimes can no longer be kept secret. President Trump and Attorney General Jeff Sessions have both repeatedly vowed to lock up pedophiles. Within several weeks after GOP House Whip Steve Scalise, the third most powerful Republican in Congress, also stated in a public announcement that he's coming after the pedophiles, he likely took a bullet for it last June.[96] All three now appear to be targeted for assassination as deep state threats. This explains the 2-year desperate DNC and media obsession[97] over the false Trump-Russian meme[98] as their transparent "wag the dog" distraction[99] away from their Achilles heel – their age old pedophilia empire. Sabotaging a potential Trump-Putin alliance and any further exposure of the Clinton-Wasserman-Awan criminal operation[100] are also motives for the DNC "Russians did it" mantra. Meanwhile, another avoidance at-all-cost is uncovering the murderer(s) behind Seth Rich's untimely death[101] that could implicate John Podesta who's on record wanting "to make an example" of whistleblowers leaking DNC documents to WikiLeaks[102] that started the Pizzagate ball rolling. But clearly exposure of the crime cabal’s full culpability and cover-up of pedophilia as the scandal of the millennium is deep state’s worst nightmare come true. And right now the walls of lies are rumbling, crumbling and tumbling down on the pedo-perps like never before.

Back to the Griggs’ revelations, in the late 1980’s the divorcee Kay quickly became enamored with the handsome, intelligent Marine colonel she rented part of her Virginia home to, who happened to drive the same model Saab as she, also was fluently bilingual speaking the same French language, and appeared to lead an exciting life as a debonair world traveler in vitally important service to his nation.[103] Plus like George Griggs, Kay’s uncle was also a Princeton grad turned ROTC Military Intelligence Marine officer. With love for men in uniform as her family tradition, and convinced by her faith that it was the divine hand of God that had interceded in bringing them together, after only two months of knowing each other, the divorced pair Kay and George both impulsively opted to take the marital plunge together.

But once she became Mrs. Griggs, George’s alcoholism and loose lips plunged her into his dark sinister world of criminal debauchery and sexual psychopathy. Not only did she begin learning all the sordid details of his dirty business as a mind controlled government assassin, but as a bruised and battered wife and victim of her husband’s episodic domestic violence, Kay Griggs also suffered broken bones, repeatedly had guns pointed at her and her life threatened.[104] Her eventual 1999 divorce and medical records confirm the roller coaster ride of terror through her near dozen years trapped in marital hell.

As a wife of a career military officer who ran in very high circles with all the top generals and Washington VIP’s, and a woman who never took her marriage vows lightly, Kay embarked on playing the dutiful, loyal Marine colonel's wife. While becoming the repository of shocking secret information that reveals the inner workings of a ruthless, criminal and diabolical US Empire, Kay had also fallen for the common marital illusion that despite her husband's highly visible warts and flaws, she desperately believed her love could change and heal him, curing his violently deranged torment by bringing him to Christ, and away from the Satanic Illuminati clique that controlled him.[105]

A critical turning point in their marriage occurred while dining with her husband one night at the Camp Lejeune, North Carolina officers club. Kay became the unwitting witness to a bunch of topless dancers as the club's hired entertainment (at taxpayer expense) for the mostly married male patrons.[106] After observing one of the girls escorting two married officers out of the club, Kay Griggs boldly grabbed her camera from her purse and captured the scene for posterity in photos that accompanied a letter to the officers club manager and commanding post general's wife. Trying to destroy the evidence, her husband beat her up that night but her quick thinking had safely hidden the camera. Kay's courageous act to confront the local military establishment on its moral depravity proved successful in removing the topless dancers from the officers club. But amongst the generals within her husband's brotherhood, it also flagged Kay as a serious "troublemaker" and potential threat to their fiercely guarded status quo perversions and dark deadly secrets. Worst of all, it deemed her the enemy.

Not only did her husband step up his violent abuse after that incident, but over the next several years the weaponized military intelligence apparatchik began relentlessly targeting her for harassment. Frequently her car was tampered with, her home was broken into with items moved about, just enough to play mind games but not enough evidence to prove any actual crimes. Local police would always send a detective who was a 20 year ex-Marine out to Kay's home, only to condescendingly conclude that she was crazy in attempting to "falsely" report the military's subtle acts of intimidation and terror.[107] But her persistent fight for justice only led to death threats.[108] Then in December 1995 her husband vanished altogether, though as a military spy-assassin, it wasn't the first time.

With her life in grave jeopardy, for life insurance leverage, Kay wisely secured her husband's diary, full of detailed incriminating secrets revealing his longtime involvement in nefarious government crimes and sexual perversions. At one point frantically searching for her husband, she ended up notifying General Jim Joy that she had the full lowdown on both him and his sick brotherhood.[109] Under severe duress and overt attack now, she fled her home for Washington DC under the protection of senior White House correspondent, the legendary Sarah McClendon (1910-2003),[110] who for the next six months took her under her wings as an emergency house guest. According to Kay Griggs, the savvy, feisty veteran White House reporter since FDR ultimately saved Kay's life, advising her to go public in 1996 with her shocking story as the best means to stay alive. In 1998 this led to the two hour edited version "Sleeping with the Enemy" (though a later YouTube posting compiled near 11 hours of Griggs interviews with that same title[111]) and the near 8 hour unedited series of interviews[112]with Rev. Rick Strawcutter in Michigan.[113]

The following year Kay managed to divorce Col. Griggs.[114] But the divorce court was stacked heavily against her from the start, presided over by a civilian judge who was a former Army Judge Advocate General (JAG) lawyer. Kay explained that the US courts have been infiltrated by ex-military JAG's assigned military divorce cases to ensure that "dirty government secrets" remain concealed, especially in nasty divorce court proceedings with axe-to-grind wives against abusive husbands and the military. Kay explained that the government was bent on ruining her financially and psychologically, and revealed how anyone - either military personnel or their spouses, who dare publicly object to evildoing and pose a risk to disclose damaging secrets, are customarily done away with - committed to insane asylums or literally murdered. Kay is certain her Marine Corps hubby assassin bumped off his first wife.[115] We know from the past that even high powered whistleblowers who threaten to blow the lid off crime cabal government secrecy - like JFK or Defense Secretary James Forrestal,[116] are assassinated. In Forrestal's case after being involuntarily committed to Bethesda Naval Hospital mental ward, he was violently thrown out of his 16th floor hospital window in 1949. His only "crime" was insisting on sharing the UFO truth with the American public.

After the inside job of 9/11[117]perpetrated by these same Zionist criminals that her ex-husband lauded and worked for, assisted by Israeli and Saudi governments, it had become more than clear to Kay that if the same evil cabal is willing to cold-bloodedly murder thousands of fellow Americans, we are all in their crosshairs. So in 2005 Kay Griggs resurfaced, deciding to do an interview update with Jeff Rense,[118] naming more criminals in the Bush regime responsible for 9/11 that her ex-spouse intimately knew and was friends with. The courageous whistleblower wife, now in her mid-70's is living a quiet life in seclusion in the same Virginia home she shared with her Marine colonel husband, who as of 2005, was retired from the service, remarried and residing in New Hampshire.[119]

More recent requests attempting to interview Kay apparently have gone for naught.[120] Now in her golden years, she may be choosing to stay private, having already unloaded all she knows. In the past she learned firsthand that telling the truth automatically places one's life in danger. So at this point she may be done with taking on more risk. Perhaps she may have also been told that if she continued disclosing Empire crimes, she'd definitely meet with an untimely violent end. Fortunately for us, two decades ago she laid bare the naked ugly truth, bravely leaking an extremely vividly dark yet extraordinarily clear picture that's been subsequently confirmed over and over again by overwhelming corroborative evidence. Her warnings urgently compel us to take action against the planetary controllers. If not, the child raping and killing Illuminati bloodlines[121] and their legions of pedo puppets and hired guns are turning our earth into a living hell, centrally controlled by their one world government, one world religion (worshipping Lucifer) and their New World Order's absolute tyranny.

And Those Military Perversions Continue…

In keeping with this Satanic brotherhood of influential US military officers who more than dabbled on the dark side, and long before Col. George Griggs or for that matter young Satanist Lt. Michael Aquino entered the Army officer corps in 1968 to spread his Luciferian brand throughout the armed forces, there was Office of Naval Intelligence officer L. Ron Hubbard of Scientology infamy who, prior to founding his own bizarre cult in 1947, teamed up with NASA rocket scientist Jack Parsons as fellow disciples of Aleister Crowley's Ordo Templis Orientis (OTO).[122] They both reputedly signed on as firm believers in Satan's power, complete with using Crowley's prescription for drugs and black magick to evoke dark spirits in occult rituals to help do their bidding. And it was Crowley who openly advocated pedophilia as a means of channeling demonic forces to increase one's personal power and earthly strength.[123]

And if our military higher-ups and their lame now former commander-in-thief Barry Soetoro haven't been diddling children themselves, they possess a lengthy record of covering up pedophilia and condoning those who do. Case in point - in 2012 a Pentagon-issued 75-page Army manual was made mandatory reading and compliance for all American soldiers serving combat tours in Afghanistan while specifically blaming them for the violent attacks being committed on them by supposed friendly, US trained Afghan security forces for being “too insensitive” to their Islamic culture.[124] The manual prohibits US troops from bringing up certain taboo topics like pedophilia, much less criticizing or opposing it. Because the practice of Afghan adult males engaging in sex with little boys apparently has been a common cultural norm and custom there for centuries, US troops are supposed to look the other way in deference to “multiculturalism” tolerance and acceptance should they encounter pedophiles abusing children in Afghanistan… more blatantly blurred wrong vs right boundaries from apologetics rearing their ugly globalist head.

It should be noted that retired Marine General John Allen, Trump’s current Homeland Security chief, was the top US military commander in Afghanistan at the time and to his credit, refused to sign off on that pro-pedo Army manual, unlike Obama, his Secretary of Defense (Jesuit educated former CIA director) Leon Panetta[125] and my West Point Class of ’74 peer, then Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Irish Catholic Malta boy Gen. Martin Dempsey.[126]

That 2012 Army manual was issued just after Marine Lance Corporal Gregory Buckley Jr. phoned home from Afghanistan for the final time before he was murdered by another green-on-blue attack,[127] the term used to describe the influx of Afghan security forces turning their weapons on the US troops training them. During that particular year 2012, 44 Americans in uniform lost their lives by that very method, accounting for 15% of 2012’s combat deaths among coalition forces in the Afghanistan War.[128] According to

Gregory Buckley Sr., shortly before his son’s death, the anguished corporal complained to his father, making direct reference to little boys being sodomized within earshot:

> At night we can hear them screaming, but we’re not allowed to do anything about it.[129]

Acclaimed professor and author Amitai Etzioni criticized both the George Bush and Barack Obama administrations for “continuing to ignore massive pedophilia in Afghanistan.”[130] He noted that in 2001 when the US illegally invaded the graveyard of empires, “pedophilia had been largely suppressed” by the then Taliban government. Yet under the 16 years of America’s imperialistic military occupation propping up Kabul’s ineptly corrupt US installed puppet government, pedophilia’s been allowed to flourish (just like the opium bumper crops[131]) for over a decade and a half now.

In an April 2010 PBS Frontline episode entitled “The Dancing Boys of Afghanistan,” Afghan journalist Najibullah Quraishi stated:

> In an Afghanistan ravaged by war and poverty, an ancient tradition has been secretly revived: Young boys sold by their families to wealthy merchants and warlords, taught to dance and entertain, and used for sex.[132]

Wealthy pedophiles in Afghanistan typically either abduct young homeless boys off the street or prey on the poorest families buying them from destitute parents. The underage boys are forced to dress up in women’s clothing, providing entertainment, copulation and social status for status competing molesters. If a child should resist, he is simply killed by his master. After covering last chapter’s despicable pedophilic practices of the US government in its mind control program and Washington’s long operating massive child sex trafficking network, a striking parallel exists between powerful elite pedophiles in Afghanistan and their pedophile counterparts in North America and Europe… birds of a feather.

Though the practice of “bachi bazi” (translated “boy play” being anything but play for the boy) has always remained unlawful on the Afghan books, since US removal of the Taliban government from power in late 2001, it has never been enforced because Washington is fully complicit in its pedophilia endorsement since so many of the child rapists are among America’s puppets serving as either US trained Afghan security force commanders and government officials in Empire’s constant lost cause of trying to keep territory from Taliban control. And with at least a third to near half in Washington practicing pedophiles themselves, of course it’s no surprise that US policy encourages sodomy of boys as young as 11 in Afghanistan when they’re busily committing the same egregious atrocities en masse against kids right here in America.

Etzioni wrote:

My review of numerous dispatches from Afghanistan found no sign that U.S. diplomats and generals are doing anything to get the Afghan government to protect these children.

In vain Etzioni urged psychopath Obama[133] to deliver the following ultimatum to the Kabul government:

We shall neither finance nor protect a regime that refuses to act against large-scale sexual abuse of children.[134]

Yet in the end the Obama regime only enforced its unethical, spineless non-intervention policy.

A couple years ago, Washington’s complicit support of Afghanistan’s pedophilia strictly prohibiting US soldiers from interceding came to a dramatic head when it was revealed that West Point graduate Green Beret Captain Dan Quinn and Sergeant 1st Class Charles Martland were punished for paying a visit to confront an Afghan police commander after he brutally sodomized a local young boy.[135] Additionally the boy's mother was beaten by that same Afghan pedophile after she initially reported to the Americans that her son had been abducted, chained to the pedo's bed and kept as his sex slave for two weeks. When Quinn explained how the US trained Afghan police commander must adhere to a higher standard of conduct and in response the child rapist kept laughing in their face, the two Americans shoved the pedophile to the ground, roughing him up, bruising his ego more than slight marks left on his wretched, sorry-ass body.

But nonetheless when the Afghan commander reported the incident to US authorities, the captain and sergeant were promptly picked up the next day and relieved of their duty. When an officer is relieved of his command, his career is essentially over. So Cpt. Quinn was in effect forced to leave the Army while the Special Forces sergeant had to fight to remain in the service. The civilian Quinn asserted a very poignant observation about US hypocrisy:

The reason we were there is because we heard the terrible things the Taliban were doing to people, how they were taking away human rights. But we were putting people into power who would do things that were worse than what the Taliban did - that was something village elders voiced to me. [136]

Had public outrage over news that the military's shameful response was to kick Sgt. Martland out of the Army not created such a public relations nightmare for Obama and his Pentagon, the bronze star decorated warrior with a conscience who'd honorably served his nation for 11 years would've been involuntarily discharged. But last year after spending the last half decade in total limbo since that incident, the Army finally was compelled to reverse its position.[137]

While US government and its mainstream media whores desperately continue covering-up the global pedophilia epidemic, pretending it doesn't exist, an internal memo within the Ottawa government obtained by the Canadian Press earlier this year paints a far more honest and sobering picture. An internal briefing note to Canada's public safety minister openly admits that the nation's law enforcement agencies are unable to keep up with the skyrocketing online child pornography industry of "epidemic proportions" (memo's words).[138] With insiders essentially alluding to their inability to protect vulnerable children north of our border, you can bet the situation in America is at least equally dire or likelier even more out of control.

Look at the Pentagon alone. Not only do they issue pro-pedo orders to its troops, but our supposed top military leaders acting as our nation's first-line defenders are pedophiles themselves, vast numbers busted consuming and downloading on their government issued computers "unbelievable amounts" of child pornography. As far back as over a half dozen years ago, a whopping 5,200 cases were initially uncovered and then to this day remain systematically covered up.

In addition to busting the Catholic Church pedo scandal wide open in 2002, the Boston Globe broke the Pentagon story in January 2011 determining that the Defense Department had failed to complete its internal investigation of 1,700 more cases out of the total of 5,200 initially submitted by the Immigrations and Customs Enforcement (ICE) agency way back in 2006.[139] The DoD Inspector General in early 2011 assured the Globe that its ongoing, "very thorough" investigation would leave no stone unturned regarding the 1,700 still uninvestigated "stonewalled" cases. We're talking hundreds if not thousands of Pentagon employees, all with above top secret clearances paying with our tax paid dollars during their work hours to gawk at their government issued computer screens graphically displaying children getting raped, additionally setting themselves up as easy blackmail targets while risking our national security. And what does the Inspector General do but sit on this shocking reality for over a half decade. For all the IG's "thorough work," when everything was said and done, all of two DoD employees, both private defense contractors at that, were prosecuted.[140] There's something horribly wrong with this picture.

So you may ask has the Pentagon porn problem finally been fixed? As recently as last year, the Pentagon's Defense Security Service Director Daniel Payne proclaimed, "The amount of porn I see [on government devices] is just unbelievable."[141] So with that disturbing confession 10 long years after 5,200 cases of Pentagon porn were discovered, the Pentagon security director himself admits the amount he's still finding is "unbelievable." What does that tell us? It clearly confirms that Luciferian worshipping pedophiles in the seat of US military power are hardcore pedo addicts still getting their sick jollies off at the expense of thousands and thousands of ruined children's lives, and still getting away with their sordid, unaccountable, felonious crimes. This is but a symptom of the demonic perversions in Washington and indeed the criminal satanic cabal running this entire world.

And it's no different in Rome, Brussels, London or Hollywood either. The scandalous United Kingdom government long involved in pedophilia up to its Savile-loving, oversized royal ears, and "accidentally on purpose" lost over 100 enormous sized files on its "ongoing" child rape investigations.[142] All the major Western governments including the Vatican have been repeatedly proven guilty as sin sodomizing little kids on an epic scale and then proven equally guilty engaging in nonstop cover-up. The dark ugly truth is that the Luciferian elite controlling this planet is comprised of child rapist-murderers despite whatever feeble cover-up and denial attempts they continue to spin. But these diabolical gatekeepers will never fully stop exposure of their horrendous crimes against our children and humanity. The earth controllers' atrocities have now reached critical mass, the point of no return with too much gaping, overwhelming evidence oozing forth daily for the perpetrators to effectively sweep under public radar anymore. Their Achilles heel is now staring us in our face and it's past time we finally do something about it.

While more than a few noteworthy cases of mid-level officials entrusted with defense of our nation have been busted as criminal pedophiles, the power behind global child sex trafficking still remains untouchable. But as more low to mid-level arrests are made, especially once a Truth and Reconciliation Commission materializes, ferreting out those at the top in charge of the global operations is now within our grasp. In the meantime, last year the US State Department's Director of Counterterrorism, Daniel Rosen, was caught and convicted twice committing sex crimes, first for stalking and voyeurism targeting his female neighbors and then in 2015 for soliciting sex and sodomy from a Fairfax County police sting operation officer posing as a 14-year old girl.[143]

In another case America's top nuclear scientist, Dr. David O'Brien, responsible for monitoring global nuclear activity at Patrick Air Force Base's Technical Applications Center, was convicted of using his Air Force computer to download videos of children as young as 3 being sexually abused and tortured.[144] Watchdog investigator Lori Handrahan writing regularly for Medium.com compiled a slew of serious cases involving armed forces personnel convicted of pedophilia crimes that raise a threat to our children as well as both our national and international security.[145]

Though insider voices from within the matrix drop occasional truth bombs, America's MSM scarcely if ever covers them in its vain effort to keep America's "silent majority" forever silent, kept in the dark and the last to know. One such rare display of honesty arrived in a 2015 BBC interview when the assistant director of the FBI's Criminal Investigation Division, Joseph Campbell, openly admitted:

The level of pedophilia is unprecedented right now.[146]

Over two years ago, well before the Pizzagate/PedoGate scandal captured the internet world, a high level FBI insider was stating that America's problem of child pornography and child sexual exploitation was reaching an "almost epidemic level." At this point, only those still stuck in the dinosaur age watching their nightly fake stream television news remain oblivious to what's going on. The rest of us are awakening or already wide awake in the clear light of day recognizing that child raping Luciferians control our planet and that our greatest responsibility is to protect and bring overdue justice to our children – past, present and future. It's not an exaggeration to say that survival of both the human species and our earth hang precariously in the balance.

Another shameful black mark on the US military - as of 2015 there are more convicted pedophiles sitting in military prisons than rapists of adults as child sex offenders now constitute the largest inmate population.[147] When asked to comment on why so many child rapists are behind military bars than any other type criminal, the pat Defense Department answer is because the military judges and juries find pedophile crimes so intolerable they systematically enforce much longer sentences.[148] Yet the exact opposite is true, compared to civilian courts, far longer imprisonment time is imposed on civilian child molesters than soldiers who rape kids.

State and federal laws for sex crimes against children carry mandatory minimum sentences while the military courts walled off from public scrutiny grant pedophiles in uniform secret plea bargain deals often resulting in a far briefer prison sentence. Also, whereas convicted civilian sex offenders once out of prison are routinely monitored on state and federal registries publicly posting their home addresses, child rapists in the military have their privacy tightly guarded as if more important than public safety. The standard military response to Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) requests is to customarily deny information. The US Constitution permits any citizen free access to public courts and requests for legal files in order to maintain open accountability. But in stark contrast, the military court system is cloaked in guarded secrecy where even if FOIA information is granted, it takes months or even years to obtain.

In short, without any oversight, the military justice system appears to go out of its way to protect the rights of its pedophiles far more than their own child dependents in military families. A reminder that in the military daycare scandals at both West Point and the Presidio, not one perpetrator was ever prosecuted and served time for molesting and raping hundreds of children attending those facilities. The confirmed higher incidence amongst military veterans of compulsive sexual behaviors that include pedophilia,[149] combined with increasing rates of child abuse in military families observed since 2008, including a 14% spike in 2014 alone,[150] underscores the rising risk of children growing up in military families falling victim to increasing military pedophiles in its ranks.

Another case in point to illustrate how the military justice system favors pedophiles over the well-being and safety of military kids, especially if the pedophile's a full bird colonel. Meet Col. Daniel Hunter, the Camp Lejeune, North Carolina operations officer till last summer and highly decorated 36 year active duty Marine Corps officer, accused in July 2016 of sexually assaulting a six-year old daughter of one of his subordinates four times in a two week period.[151] A civilian or even a soldier of lower rank charged with such a serious offense would normally be locked up in prison while awaiting trial, but not Colonel Dan. Known to be a heavy drinker with his own wife admitting he's an alcoholic, the colonel was even accused of offering alcohol to his 6-year old victim, her twin sister and their 10-year old sister. After a four month investigation, in November last year Hunter was formally charged with sexual assault of a minor. But it wasn't until an adult female friend of the colonel and his wife reported in January this year that a drunken Hunter allegedly sexually assaulted her before the colonel was finally sent to the brig. The 10-day court martial trial in September found him guilty of sexually assaulting the six-year old girl, discharged him from the service and sentenced him to only five and a half years in prison. Obviously that's an extremely light punishment compared to the mandatory minimum of fifteen years if he were a civilian.

Yet another US Marine Corps lifer (24 years on active duty status) and not-so-dandy Dan was caught directing dozens of live online videos of children forced to engage in sex acts with each other. A couple years ago 44-year old Chief Warrant Officer Daniel E. DeSmit, father of three, spent $36,000 during a six year period viewing and producing vast amounts of internet child pornography for fellow pedophile consumption.[152] The Naval Criminal Investigative Services (NCIS) found DeSmit's emails describing his preference for prepubescent girls as "the best experience" and bragging of his vacation exploits in Thailand having sex with 8 and 9-year olds. Despite the military judge sentencing him to 144 years in prison for multiple counts, the child rapist will only do 20 behind bars thanks to a secret pretrial plea-bargained agreement that military law kept hidden from even the judge. With good behavior, DeSmit could wind up serving just a third of his sentence – about 7 years. In civilian court, the judge can override too lenient pretrial arrangements but not so in the military. On top of that, the US Air Force even with FOIA requests, does not release pretrial agreements. When AP requested the investigative report from NCIS, as is typical in military cases, it was turned down. Only after appeal was the report made available.

While in recent years the Pentagon’s been busy trying to put out fires raging with its sexual assault epidemic amongst our fighting men and women,[153] most of the adult-to-adult sex crimes are homosexual rape of men (though it’s not so much about sexual preference as vicious raw power and rageful, violent control).[154] The fact remains 14,000 out of the 26,000 reported sexual assaults within the military in 2012 involved male victims, which is pretty remarkable since male victims report rape even less frequently than the one in three women who do.[155] I’ve written extensively on this ugly topic exposing rape in the military, and no more is it out of control than at our nation’s prestigious, “cream of the crop” service academies like my alma mater West Point, though the Air Force Academy spawns more rapists (per student population) than any other institution of higher learning in the entire United States, more than Penn State and more than West Point and Annapolis combined.[156] That’s a very telling, very grim reality when so many of our leaders in charge of fighting our nation’s wars are actual rapists.

Speaking of West Point, it's recently come under a wave of harsh criticism for its apparent corruption and lowered moral standards, triggered by a controversial social media photo posted by an Army second lieutenant. The pic shows the defiant 2016 West Point graduate as a cadet holding his hat to the camera with the words inscribed "Communism will win" as a supposed gesture of support for the defiant NFL football kneelers over the national anthem protest.[157] In response, a West Point instructor's scathing letter to the WP superintendent then went viral enflaming even more controversy. Adding insult to injury, my alma mater has now just disgracefully rewarded war criminal and pedophile George W. Bush with the Sylvanus Thayer Award, "given to a citizen… whose outstanding character, accomplishments, and stature in the civilian community draw wholesome comparison to the qualities for which West Point strives."[158] Does that make you puke or what? But then when virtually every US president in the last half century have been accused of being pedophiles by a number of credible Monarch sex slave victims, the lack of moral standards in the US military and West Point should come as no shocker at all. Case closed - our government and military are run by Luciferians.

In recent years the Pentagon has had its hands full facing increasing pressures from Congress to fix its rape problem or else turn over its military justice system (aka the good old boys club) to civilian jurisdiction and authority, which would instantly inject a modicum of currently nonexistent transparency and no doubt produce more equitable and just outcomes. In 2013 the vice chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff blatantly lied in his Senate testimony causing the crucial vote to change the system to fail by only a few votes.[159] A bipartisan Senate majority is actually in favor of modifying existing reporting procedures but not quite enough for the needed 60 votes.[160] Currently victims must report crimes to their chain of command boss who then decides whether to prosecute or not, rather than to an independent body of qualified legal experts of military lawyers. For years now the top military brass has resisted change, scrambling feverishly to implement cosmetic changes in massive gender education and sensitivity training programs to project the illusion that its self-policing efforts have paid off and improved its despicable track record. But with the military sexual assault rates still remaining high and nearly the same, in recent years even less victims are now willing to come forth due to the largely condoned hostile recrimination. Just as the Pentagon unethically enforced its "look the other way" policy amidst rampant pedophilia in Afghanistan, its pedophilia epidemic now raging within its own ranks eclipsing the number of rapists of adults with even more child rapists appears to have caught both Congress and the Defense Department off guard, and once again looking the other way. This current situation is horrendously unacceptable.

Again, this pathetic reality cumulatively just adds more mounting evidence that the US military is an infested cesspool sanctuary not-so-secretly brimming with protected pedophiles. Just ask another infamously unpunished pedophile colonel - Luciferian high priest Michael Aquino.

As Church of Satan founder Anton LaVey's onetime "left-hand" man,[161] Michael A. Aquino proudly boasts that his open worship of Satan never once posed any problem or threat to the equal opportunity US Army.[162] In fact, hailing as the Army's own prince of darkness leading and recruiting fellow servicemen and women into his own Temple of Set coven,[163] as the go-to expert on satanic dark forces and occult religions, in 1992 the US Army requested Aquino to literally write the book on his brand of Satanism he calls Setism. That book is the official Department of Army Handbook for Chaplains, and listed under "other groups," Aquino authored the “Temple of Set” section,”[164] widely circulated to every Army chaplain and Army base on this planet for the sake of educating, fostering and promoting acceptance of all officially designated religions, extending respect, equal status and legal religious rights to those openly worshipping Set aka Satan as an alternative option. Of course in addition to Setism, also officially included are Satanism and Wicca whose founding principles are also largely rooted in rejection of monotheistic religion. Just like the Vatican, is it any wonder that our armed forces and Pentagon are also rife teeming with satanic pedophiles, lustfully jerking off to children being sodomized and ritualistically sacrificed in snuff film porn? Sorry folks, this is our sad, pathetic reality we must squarely face today if there’s ever going to be a child-safe tomorrow.

The fact is the FBI, CIA and military intelligence (in cahoots with Mossad, MI6 and other foreign intel agencies) are the Luciferian elite’s principal handlers – per their marching orders busily destroying America and Europe while orchestrating both state sponsored global terrorism[165] as well as state sponsored global child sex slave trafficking,[166] in addition to the other highly lucrative international trafficking of illegal weapons,[167] body parts[168] and drug smuggling operations.[169] War zones are always ripe, fertile ground for providing the predatory, bloodthirsty elite enormous moneymaking opportunity through these illegal demonic enterprises. Just behind counterfeit, pirated goods that include illicit arms ($923 billion-$1.13 trillion USD annually), drugs ($426-652 billion) and human trafficking ($152.1 billion of which at least $99 billion come from the sex trade) rank as the world’s most profitable, diabolical businesses.[170] As another shady partner-in-crime in these Luciferian cesspool operations, the underworld mafia always skims its cut off the top, but our corrupt governments, the CIA and world’s largest Rothschild owned money laundering banks are the primary cabal players illicitly divvying up the trillions of dollars made every single year. Yep, that trillions. After all, war means easy money and increasing power for soulless planetary controllers – both in profits made and bloodshed spilled.

Since the Vietnam War drug smuggling and stolen oil provide sufficient profit motive for nonstop US war. As an example, America is still fighting its longest running war in its history in Afghanistan where 90% of the world's heroin is now produced, 40 times the amount prior to US invasion.[171] That's why the US and British coalition forces are still deployed in that "cash cow" war zone in order to safeguard the poppy fields that annually generate an added $50 billion surplus bonus.[172] So what if they're causing an unprecedented epidemic of opioid deaths around the world?[173] All the better say the Luciferians in charge. In addition to the $59 billion already on the 2015 books allocated as the annual black ops budget paid for by US taxpayers,[174] by far the largest source of its unlimited spending revenue comes from the illicit global drug and slave trade markets financing such black ops programs[175] as DARPA research, top secret DUMBs, milabs (as sacrificed children killing zones), and the covered up trauma-torture mind control, aerosol geoengineering and secret space programs[176]… all using highly advanced, other worldly technologies as pure evil military WMD's threatening the survival of every life form on this planet.

Generating $100 billion worth in obscene annual profits is the wholesale trafficking of almost one million babies and children across international borders each and every year.[177] In this postmodern slavery age, sadly there are far more slaves now suffering in this world than any other time in human history, up to 46 million,[178] near four times the total number of African and their descendant slaves from 1525-1866.[179] And at the epicenter of all these most heinous criminal operations on earth is the owning, sodomizing and systematic slaughter of countless innocent children as Lucifer's favorite, crown jeweled Big Business.

Even the much maligned (deservedly in some cases, most not) President Trump gets it:

You go back 1,000 years, where you think of human trafficking, you go back 500 years, 200 years, 100 years, human trafficking, they say -- think of it, what they do - human trafficking is worse now, maybe, than it's ever been in the history of this world.[180]

And Trump's head of Homeland Security General Kelly got it back in 2014:

Tens of thousands of sex workers, in many cases adolescents, come into the United States every year through these [international criminal] networks to serve the sex industry.[181]

What they both know but aren't ready to publicly admit is that shadow government factions like the CIA and Kelly's own military are at the forefront of these international criminal operations.

Regarding the Vegas massacre, after all the multiple shooter eyewitness accounts at different hotels, always changing timeline discrepancies, mysterious witness deaths, all cell phones and IPads taken on the night of 10/1 wiped clean by FBI and massive pre-event MGM (parent company of Mandalay Bay Hotel) stock selloffs (not unlike 9/11) are among the way too many anomalies clearly pointing to yet another flagrantly staged false flag.[182] With unfolding developments ever since the "suicided" patsy Stephen Paddock allegedly did his damage, the shooter is now said to have been a CIA operative, after confirmation emerged that he was a licensed pilot and owner of two planes. In Florida he also was a Morton Thiokol employee from 1985-88 when the company responsible for the faulty O-ring on the shuttle booster rocket failed causing the infamous deadly 1986 Challenger disaster.[183] Afterwards Morton Thiokol shares flatlined and was subsumed by America's largest defense contractor Lockheed Martin. Years later Paddock went back and purchased a home in a gated community in nearby Melbourne, Florida in 2013 and sold it two years later. Paddock moved on to work as an accountant also at Raytheon and several other DoD black budgets.[184]

But the current internet buzz now in overdrive is fueled by evidence the so called "lone gunman" flew to Phoenix where he's speculated to have arranged a gun cache pickup that he transported in a credit card rental back to Nevada days prior to the shooting, earlier than reported.[185] Further conjecture over his Paradise Ranch business in nearby Henderson, Nevada being a front organization that flies children from the Philippines to "transitional homes" on the West Coast is leading an army of online sleuths to the overhasty conclusion that Stephen Paddock was a CIA/ATF gun running/drug smuggling/child trafficker.[186] According to many so called conspiracy theorists, the man who lavishly paid hookers to indulge his rape fantasies was deemed a loose cannon knowing too much about clandestine government operations… becoming the perfect Oswald patsy. As Paddock's only company on record started in 2004, Paradise Ranch is claimed to be "a joint venture with the Philippine Children's Fund of America," a charity headquartered in Sacramento, California. PCFA historically supplies disaster relief to needy children in the Philippines, originally opened in 1991 serving Amer-Filipino child victims left behind after the Mount Pinatubo volcano closed US Clark Air Force Base in Angeles City.[187]

Like so many districts adjoining US military bases, Clark had gained a seedy reputation for prostitution and child trafficking. However, Paddock's Paradise Ranch in Nevada may have zero connection with the Philippine Paradise Ranch that actually does partner with the PCFA. But news has now broken that Paddock's brother Bruce was arrested on child pornography charges in North Hollywood, California a few short weeks after the October 1st massacre,[188] the apparent culmination of an ongoing FBI investigation begun prior to the Vegas shooting. Bruce Paddock is said to be singing like a jailed songbird, disclosing that brother Stephen was running "a child trafficking empire,"[189] vindication for the conspiracy crowd. Bruce is seeking immunity for squealing like a pig in exchange for all he knows. This development comes weeks after the VOAT folks had already concluded that Paddock was a CIA child trafficker… especially since his life partner grew up in the Philippines. Internet dot connectors are going hog wild, though the alleged Paddock Paradise Ranch link to the Philippines may still be a bit premature and tenuous.

With 1.3 million United States armed forces occupying over 90% of the world's nations (177 in all),[190] US Military Intelligence, CIA, organized crime, State Department and Defense Department along with a relative small minority of US soldiers, UN troops and private military contractors all collectively run massive child sex slave trafficking operations in and around many of the near 1000 US military bases worldwide.[191] And they're most active in abducting, abusing and moving massive numbers of children across international borders where US troops are most concentrated in deployment. These entail the active war zone hotspots[192] like Syria, Afghanistan, Iraq, Libya, Yemen, Somalia, South Sudan and Ukraine, along with longtime traditional Euro-allies Germany, Italy, UK and Spain as well as South Korea[193] and Okinawa Japan. Other smaller yet sizeable US military contingents are dispersed in Poland, Kuwait, United Arab Emirates, Qatar, Jordan, Israel, Bahrain, Turkey, Saudi Arabia, Djibouti, Guam,[194] and the Philippines, that is until its gutsy, politically savvy President Rodrigo Duterte recently had the nerve to order “Yankee go home!”

Apparently the Philippine leader had enough of the CIA supporting ISIS in his southern island of Mindanao aimed at a regime change and drumming up drug business in Duterte’s antidrug war.[195] After drawing closer ties to China and Russia, in November 2016 the Filipino maverick said he wants all remaining US troops numbering about 600 removed by November 2018.[196] With not many foreign leaders daring to stand up to the US Empire as the world bully-policeman-executioner, CIA assassination is always not far from Rodrigo’s mind.[197]

… With a Little Help from their NWO Friends - Private Civilian Defense Contractors and UN “Peacekeepers’” Perversions

An exponential number of unscrupulous private civilian contractors busily bilking billions in recent years from American taxpayers, replacing the now outsourced US military, thanks largely to Bilderberger Pilgrim himself General David Be-Tray-US-Petraeus,[198] have also repeatedly been caught red-handed trafficking and raping child slaves in their global orbit. One such notorious hired mercenary company is Blackwater aka Xe aka Academi,[199] owned and operated by Erik Prince who’s become an unofficial backdoor Trump foreign policy advisor[200] and brother to his holy roller rich sister who’s our Secretary of Education - Betsy DeVos - currently destroying the once constitutionally secularized public education system.[201] But rushing off to fight secret wars to illegally kill unarmed civilians in foreign countries isn’t Blackwater’s only crime, the infamous company has long been implicated in child sex trafficking as well.[202] Similar to allegations made by respected journalist Seymour

Hirsh,[203] a former Blackwater employee seeing for himself firsthand asserts that Erik Prince fashions himself:

A Christian crusader tasked with eliminating Muslims and the Islamic faith from the globe.

The former private contractor contends that Prince willfully dispatched likeminded zealots to the Iraq war zone to:

Take every available opportunity to murder Iraqis.

Recall back in 2007 that four Blackwater guards (deployed in Iraq to protect State Department personnel) cold-bloodedly massacred 14 Iraqis. Those four are currently doing serious time (30 years to life) for their crime.[204] But after two years in appeals court, in August 2017 a three judge panel recently overruled on a technicality their 2015 sentences, ordering a new trial for each of the murdering convicts.[205] As if killing unarmed civilians en masse wasn't enough, charges that Blackwater regularly engaged in gun smuggling and child trafficking and child prostitution were contained in two affidavits filed in 2009 by ex-employees who maintain anonymity due to their lives being threatened.[206] They claim that others prior to testifying in previous grand juries against Blackwater were murdered. Despite such serious and highly likely true allegations, the US government continued rewarding Blackwater with a new million dollar contract the following year.[207] But Washington paying only lip service to anti-trafficking laws is nothing new,[208] especially since it's been the very same Western government cabal that's been guilty of regularly committing child trafficking and systematic raping and murdering of innocent children all along.

Halliburton, Dick Cheney's former company renamed KBR (Kellogg, Brown and Root) shortly after he became vice president,[209] as if a name change would hide the fact that nobody noticed that once Illuminati Cheney[210] went from

CEO to this nation's VP suddenly Halliburton was riding high on multibillion dollar, no-bid gravy train contracts in all the US war zones - near $40 billion in Iraq alone[211] as well as Afghanistan and soon enough America too, converting old closed down US military posts into future FEMA concentration camps for US citizens.[212] But there exists one too obvious reason why all these shady global mercenary predators keep changing their names. It's no different from why Mujahedeen became al Qaeda that morphed into ISIL, ISIS, Islamic State and Daesh,[213] and Jabhat al-Nusra suddenly became Jabhat Fatah al-Sham,[214] to confuse and obscure the truth that they are all doing Lucifer's work, wanting to avoid constantly getting busted for their massive maiming and killing, raping and enslaving children and women, and wreaking destructive havoc everywhere on earth that they operate.[215] [216]

The old expression "you can change your name, but not your stripes" comes readily to mind. Again, it's a matter of perspective as to who the real terrorists are. The terrorists behind the terrorists are always American[217] – as much as the US military occupiers waging secret wars around the world in over 134 nations are,[218] or the drone attackers safely sitting in offices half a world away[219] or the American bombers always dropping their lethal payloads,[220] or the private US contractors who on foreign soil are also doing far more harm than good. The up to 30 million dead at the hands of US Empire just since WWII,[221] the even more wounded and millions more family victims of those dead and wounded, all too painfully know exactly who the real terrorist is, having slaughtered over a million times more humans than all the so called Islamic terrorist groups the US ever created combined, despite delivering more than enough incentive to becoming US hating terrorists. But then that's all part of the demonic globalist agenda, not only to keep the "war on terror" going indefinitely by recruiting a constant fresh supply of avengers seeking payback, but ultimately to spread as much instability, conflict, hatred and violence to every corner of the earth as satanically possible.[222]

Aside from the likes of Blackwater and Halliburton, there is one US private contractor that in particular stands out as the worst worldwide offender that we so far know about, bringing repeated terror to women and children in every distant land it’s been deployed - the pedophile-will-travel cavalcade known as DynCorp. And as tag team partner-in-crime, the Rockefeller globalist creation the United Nations has proven just as perversely guilty as the so called UN “peacekeeping” forces are anything but. Like Col. George Griggs and his ilk, men trained in arms to kill tend to be the biggest child rapists and global trafficking murderers on earth, especially in unstable war zones where the US Empire carries both a sick wartime culture and tradition of “anything goes.”

DynCorp International began in 1946 as an aviation company evolving and expanding over the decades into operations support and training, security and intelligence, international development, and maintenance of both aerial and land vehicles,[223] generating 96% of its $3 billion a year revenue from the US government.[224] In recent decades its infamous theatre of operations include such global hotspots as Afghanistan, Angola, Bolivia, Bosnia, Colombia, Haiti, Iraq, Kosovo, Kuwait and Somalia. Everywhere DynCorp goes, it seems its pedophile employees have played a hand in raping young children in operation of global sex slave trafficking rings.

After Bill Clinton’s NATO bombs obliterated parts of Bosnia, Serbia and Kosovo in the mid and late 1990’s in the globalist fracture and destroy method of “balkanizing” the former Yugoslavia (a favorite US Empire pastime as well as Greater Israel Project divide and conquer strategy, replicated subsequently in places like Libya, Iraq and Syria among others[225]), by 1999 DynCorp was fully entrenched in Bosnia, ostensibly to provide security and aircraft maintenance services. A DynCorp aircraft mechanic with a moral conscience named Ben Johnston reported that his co-workers were raping girls as young as 12 as victims of a child sex trafficking ring.[226] [227] A DynCorp supervisor even made a video of his raping two women. Johnston was soon fired for his whistleblowing but countered with a RICO racketeering lawsuit. In June 2000 an internal investigation was finally launched. When all was said and done, a handful of DynCorp child rapists were quietly fired and sent home but not one arrest or prosecution followed.

The reason is obvious. Should any of the guilty face prison time, for shorter sentences they would certainly make plea bargain arrangements that would implicate what they know of their higher-ups' involvement. And these global networks of pedophile trafficking rings are overseen and operated by some of the most powerful people on the planet – like the Rothschilds, Rockefellers, Clintons and Bushes. Thus, pedophiles even at the lowest levels, if connected to the elite and their governments, remain protected from punishment and the guilty invariably go free. But as some of the bigger players fall from the tree such as Hollywood's barbaric mogul Weinstein, more will be exposed and humanity will ultimately turn the corner. And that day is fast approaching.

After Nebraska police officer Kathryn Bolkovac went to work in Bosnia as a contracted UN International Police Force human rights monitor whose position was arranged by UN contractor DynCorp, she also independently brought this same depraved crime operation to her supervisors' attention and was unlawfully canned by DynCorp.[228] Kathryn had discovered that high ranking officers within DynCorp, the US military, the UN peacekeeping forces and the US State Department were working hand in hand to forge documents and facilitate with Serbian mafia the illicit transport of sex trafficked young women and underage girls into Bosnia.[229] At great risk to her own safety, Kathryn Bolkovac also courageously filed a successful wrongful termination suit, and after co-writing a book,[230] her story was featured in the 2010 film "The Whistleblower" starring Rachel Weisz.[231] Directly related in this same region is the booming illegal operation of organ harvesting and trafficking. Predatory child and organ trafficking rings flourishing in all the global war zones translate automatically into Illuminati Big Business.

Kelly Patricia O'Meara delivers a powerful indictment against DynCorp and the UN in her incisive account for Insight Magazine:

Dyncorp forged documents, trafficked women, aided illegal cross-border transports and tipped off sex club owners about imminent raids. Bolkovac also described how UN police, NATO troops and humanitarian, NGO employees were "regular customers."] Bolkovac uncovered evidence "of girls being beaten and raped in bars by their pimps while peacekeepers stood and watched." Even one UN policeman who was meant to be investigating the sex trade: "paid £700 to a bar owner for an underage girl who he kept captive in his apartment to use in his own prostitution racket." Ultimately, the company fired the eight employees for their alleged involvement in sex trafficking and illegal arms deals. Madeleine Rees, the head of the UN Human Rights Commission office in Sarajevo, was: "… in no doubt that trafficking in women started with the arrival of the international peacekeepers in 1992.[232]

Again Dr. Sue Arrigo's revealing observations (detailed in the last chapter) of how the CIA and UN peacekeeping forces from the 1992 Bosnian get-go were in total collusion - trafficking children out of the Balkans - provides strong corroborative testimony. In the face of President George W. Bush’s lip serviced “zero tolerance” policy against human trafficking issued in 2002, amidst the child sex abuse scandals in Bosnia and around the world by the likes of DynCorp, Halliburton and Blackwater, and the continued contracts brazenly granted to these most guilty offenders, finally in 2005 the Pentagon was pressured to develop a proposal prohibiting private defense contractors from engaging in sex trafficking.[233] But then the military industrial complex lobbyists promptly squashed it, in effect, giving the greenlight to resume business as usual continuing US government sponsored child sexual slavery trafficking rings.

Status quo means child rapists and traffickers working for DynCorp, the UN, the State Department and any USAID NGOs as foreign nationals all enjoy diplomatic immunity[234] and therefore a license to continue sodomizing and trafficking child and women sex slaves. Once exposed, the criminals at worst get sent home. Not one child rapist was ever jailed or prosecuted. These sad, telling facts only prove that powerful pedophiles are running the global child sex network with complete impunity.

That also explains why in 2005 when the heroic former Georgia Congresswoman Cynthia McKinney grilled then Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld on why the US continues to award multibillion dollar contracts to known pedophile companies like DynCorp, the flabbergasted war criminal Rummy hemmed and hawed unable to answer.[235] Despite all the horror stories surrounding DynCorp through the years, it remains among the top dozen defense contractors to this day, and as recently as last December, was awarded a new $94 million contract with the US Navy.[236] Cynthia McKinney also nailed Rumsfeld on his $2.3 trillion admission of unaccounted for taxpayer dollars on 9/11 eve[237] ($1 billion of which DynCorp lost training Iraqi police[238]; but the all-time unaccounted for waste total has now risen to a whopping $10 trillion[239]) whose records were conveniently lost the very next day when false flag insider WTC lease owner Larry Silverstein gave the order to "pull" Building 7 for a preloaded demolition.[240] That decision to pull led to a $4.6 billion insurance payout for "easy money" Larry[241] after his barely-on-fire, 47-story WTC 7 collapsed at free fall speed in an unbelievable 6.5 seconds,[242] a full 23 minutes after the BBC reporter had already jumped the gun on her scripted pre-announcement.[243] The Washington cabal's house of card crimes just keep free falling under the crushing weight of its own ceaseless lies.

Yet another shameful incident involving DynCorp occurred in June 2009 when the boss in charge of DynCorp training Afghan police recruits hired underage Afghanistan boys to engage in lap dances for drug-taking DynCorp employees at a company soiree.[244] As previously noted, in this pre-Islamic Afghan tradition bacha bazi serves underage boys 8-15 years old dressed in scantily clad girls' clothes wearing makeup to dance for older men who then take bids buying the boy for anal sex.[245] But in this case instead of the pedophiles being Afghan men protected by an age old custom, the pedophiles were once again more American mercenaries from DynCorp protected by Hillary, caught engaging in pedophilia only because WikiLeaks released a cable exchange between the Kabul interior minister and the State Department confirming the scandal and cover-up. Again, the sexual perversion was allegedly videotaped, and again, a few hands got slapped and ordered to go home without arrest.

In an intercepted email to Hillary from her chief of staff and go-to scandal fixer Cheryl Mills, she describes some of the action:

DynCorp employees putting dollar bills in the boy's waistband, just as a stripper would a stripper's garter.[246]

Secretary of State Clinton and Mills, who defended Bill against impeachment, actively downplayed to conceal the incident as they customarily do. Of course worthy of another reminder as fellow pedophiles the Clintons rescued convicted child kidnapper Laura Silsby in Haiti in 2010, arrested for attempting to traffic 33 Haitian children across the border.[247] Laura now works for the company that issues Amber Alerts for missing children. Again, all bread crumb trails lead to the same perps guarding the children's henhouse each and every time. That's how they've managed to get away with raping and trafficking kids for so long without a real consequence. But times are-a-changin'.

Take for instance, a notable recent DynCorp vice president from 2012-2015 - one James Grazioplene, a West Point grad from the class of 1972 (a year ahead of me) who later earned a couple stars as a general, was charged in April 2017 with six counts of repeatedly raping at least one minor in 1983 and 1989.[248]After retiring from the Army in 2005, he worked in the Pentagon as director of force development in the Joint Warfighting Capabilities Assessment. For this high-up Pentagon pedo to suddenly 30 years later get arrested, he had to have pissed off somebody even higher up on the power food chain since he's a retired general and because record shows everyone who rapes at DynCorp or in the US Army always gets a free pass, much less face prosecution for a three decade old crime.

DynCorp and the US Army just can't seem to keep their hands off children. In addition to harming the public health of the Colombian people with poison aerial spraying, 54 underage girls in one town near the post where both US military and DynCorp workers were stationed from 2003 to 2007 were gang raped by both private contractors and US soldiers.[249] Additionally, the sexual assaults were filmed and disgustedly sold as pornography. Though the Army claimed an investigation would take place, they lied as diplomatic immunity/impunity was once again the outcome with no arrests nor punishment ever handed down to the dozens of pedophiles.

Another horrific offender that goes around the world regularly raping children with impunity is the United Nations as an integral part of the global child trafficking system. In April 2017 AP reported that 134 UN "peacekeepers" from Sri Lanka were busted for operating a child sex trafficking ring between 2004 and 2007 in Haiti with the only consequence that they too were sent home otherwise unscathed and unconsequenced.[250] Between 2004 and 2016, over 150 allegations of sexual assault in that same Clinton raped nation were committed by UN troops from Bangladesh, Brazil, Jordan, Nigeria, Pakistan, Uruguay and Sri Lanka. Records show that UN soldiers imposed "transactional sex" on 225 Haitian women and children, meaning that for the needy to obtain food, medicine and clothing, they must submit to rape.[251] UN peace-destroyers from Pakistan even sodomized a young mentally handicapped boy for five years.

We've repeatedly seen how the Clintons, the State Department, the CIA, companies like DynCorp (also heavily present in Haiti and every war zone) and swarms of predatory NGO "charities" work together with corrupt local government officials and organized crime elements to run their global, well-greased, sodomizing machine. With so much buffered protection, these heinous crimes virtually always go unpunished and, just like hordes of pedophile priests, the monsters remain free to violate more defenseless victims elsewhere around the globe. For many decades the pattern has been a pervasive constant.

UN whistleblower Anders Kompass has uncovered horrific abuses by UN troops forcing victims into bestiality, raping children as young as nine and engaging in mass murder in the Central African Republic. In 1987 a large pedophile ring and child pornography photo studio in possession of over 1000 photos were discovered in the basement of the Belgian UNICEF headquarters in the pedophile paradise Brussels.[252] In that scandal the UNICEF Belgian office head Jozeph Verbeek and 13 other derelicts were arrested including a former British Justice Ministry official.

A 2005 UN internal report listed the following nations where UN abuse scandals were observed - Sierra Leone, Liberia, Bosnia, Cambodia, East Timor and the Democratic Republic of the Congo (DRC).[253] A cursory look at just one of these war zone hotspots reveals the same global dynamic in all of these ravaged nations. With decades of ongoing war in the embattled DRC, a multitude of notorious perpetrators, among them USAID and UNICEF tasked with reintegrating child victims while UN mission peacekeeping forces ostensibly support the Congolese army against neighboring invading Ugandan and Rwandan militias covertly led by CIA and DIA operatives.[254] But both sides are rampantly guilty of raping children and women as a weapon of war and equally guilty of child trafficking for both sex and child soldier labor. The root of these longstanding hostilities is over Congo’s mineral rich turf filled with blood diamonds and gold, copper, col-tan and cobalt, and powerful Western parasites greedily, violently stealing natural resources from another poor, thoroughly exploited Third World nation victimized by the elite’s artificially induced cover of divide and conquer conflict amongst a host of competing diabolical players and interests. But all of these brutal actors share one thing in common – by design they are all predatory foxes playing out their sinister roles as mere cogs incessantly caught raiding the Luciferian pedo-wheel henhouse.

In the dozen years since the 2005 UN report, there have been over 2,000 more documented cases of UN soldiers sexually abusing children and women.[255] In an Ivory Coast town a Save the Children poll determined that 8 out of 10 girl minors stated that they were regularly raped by UN troops.[256] Just like the US offenders in and out of uniform stationed abroad, neither the UN nor the rapists' nations of origin hold the violent criminals accountable due to diplomatic immunity. So there exists zero incentive for these horrendous sex crimes to abate much less cease. These heinous atrocities perpetrated by UN peacekeeping missions worldwide just keep going on and on without an end in sight. And it's all because a very corrupt globalist system continues to support, cover-up, protect and perpetrate rampant global pedophilia and sexual exploitation of women and children on a global scale.

In July 2016 the insidious infestation of the elite's multipronged globalized strategy to normalize raping children took another giant step closer to fruition. The United Nations "Human Rights Council" is first of all led by Saudi Arabia, the most egregious human rights offender on the planet,[257] still practicing the stoning of women[258] to death for adultery,[259] raping trafficked child sex slaves galore,[260] and honor killings for rape victims.[261] And women are put in prison for leaving their home unescorted by a male chaperone,[262] or running for their life out of a burning building without their "headscarves and abayas."[263] Saudi women are just now for the first time being allowed to drive a car.[264] But last year led by Saudi Arabia the UN Human Rights Council voted 23-18 (with 6 nations abstaining) in favor of appointing a UN czar[265] to globally enforce the normalization of homosexuality, transgenderism and pedophilia as human rights.[266] The globalist UN agenda pushing radical sexuality as an international human right is designed to subversively preempt religion. It’s ludicrous since the LGBT cause has never been an international human right whereas freedom of religion certainly has been a universal right for many years. Though this “new age” crusade is being promoted under the guise of protecting LGBT rights, in actuality its covert objective is clearly to demonize and outlaw traditional sexual morality as a “hate crime.”[267] Through the Rockefeller-created United Nations, the elite’s institutionalized power being overtly misused to nefariously promulgate pedophilia as a simple victimless, adult life choice has come to represent yet another among countless deceitful ploys to justify and protect its systemic sacrifice of the innocents.

Meanwhile, fortunately for humanity thousands of victims and whistleblowers have been courageously exposing this demonic, twisted yet intricate interlocking dynamic behind these widespread sex trafficking operations at the highest reaches of global power. The cabal’s most guilty culprits include international governance by the UN, national and continental governments (US, EU, UK and virtually every other nation’s governing leadership), military forces from the US, NATO, UN and many other countries, the international intelligence community led by Mossad, MI6, CIA and FBI (now operating globally under counterterrorism domain), international organized crime, international and national law enforcement and judicial court systems down to state/provincial and local municipal levels as well as child welfare systems, top Fortune 500 energy and arms industries, and of course all the biggest central banks for illegal money laundering. All these most prominent pedophile players parasitically feed off missing children’s flesh and blood as bloodthirsty, insatiable Illuminati monsters controlling our planet. Keep in mind that these same governing entities control all illegal international arms and drug smuggling industries as well as the enormously lucrative globalized organ harvesting-trafficking trade. Though there may be countless good human beings serving in all these organizations, far more than the relatively miniscule Luciferian minority in control, only the demonic puppet soldiers at the top and the powerful family bloodline puppet masters behind them comprise the scourge that’s committing wholesale slaughter of our children while fast destroying both us and our planet. Now that we know the dark truth, it’s time to take action to protect our children and mother earth while we still can.

Chapter 12 explores what happens to the throwaway children falling through the cracks in this diabolical system when the CIA’s Finders scandal is dissected from the late 1980’s just a few short miles away from the Boys Town rape victim midnight tours at the pedophile Bush White House. The Franklin scandal will then be covered in Chapter 13.

Little is known or been written about an enormously significant event that took place just over three decades ago involving a bizarre cult called the Finders. This presentation will examine all available documented evidence that includes recent, never before released public records from the police and US Customs investigations.[1] Other than a couple conspicuous mainstream media articles from February 1987 and a final follow-up in 1994, the critical importance of this “mysterious” group sometimes called “Finders Keepers” and its operation have largely been lost to the public. Despite the name - Finders Keepers - denoting procurers or finders of children kept as pedophile slaves, the CIA front that trafficked children for the elite has by careful design remained an obscure, strange footnote in history. But this gross omission conveniently disregards the compelling evidence acting as tangible proof that the Finders was a CIA front organization caught in the act of abducting and moving very young children across both US state lines as well as international borders, functionally serving as a first conduit link to the highly organized child sex slave trafficking pipeline controlled by the most powerful evildoers on earth. And it’s no accident that this scandal centered in Washington DC was operating at the exact same time and place as the very much related Franklin scandal occurring throughout the Reagan-Bush years of the 1980’s. The Franklin scandal is directly linked to the Vice President and President-to-be, pedophile drug lord and international child pusher George H.W. Bush,[2] and will be taken up in full detail in Chapter 13.

Both of these two scandals, the Finders and Franklin from 30 years ago, along with the temporally co-occurring high profile daycare scandals already covered in Chapter 8, are the pedo-forerunners having direct relevance and connection to today’s Pizzagate turned PedoGate scandal. During the ensuing three decades the worldwide child trafficking network at least in the United States simply submerged a little more underground, but never ever stopped flourishing. Chapters 4-7 dealt with the centuries old sodomy committed regularly by the Catholic Church that willfully kept their sex crimes tightly under wraps until this century. Chapters 10 and 11 further exposed the ongoing globalized child trafficking network typically entrenched in combat zones during the 1990’s Bosnia and Kosovo Wars as well as the more recent CIA-State Department-USAID run pedophile havens for the booming child sex tourism industry most blatant in Pacific Asia. And of course this century’s nonstop Empire wars in the Middle East and Ukraine provide yet more fertile ground for illegal movement of guns, drugs, body parts and children around the globe.

So be mindful that to this very day the global pedophile Empire has never ceased operating but as the cancerous blight it is has only spread its expansive predatory tentacles to every corner of the globe, every year abducting more missing children, and raping, torturing and killing yet more innocents every single day. But thankfully 2017 is the pivotal year that the world population is finally beginning to catch on for the first time the absolute urgency of challenging this mammoth criminal enterprise. Mass awareness offers humanity the chance to not only further expose the puppet master pedophiles and their puppet minions, but also finally hold their cabal accountable for their continual atrocities. With our growing collective effort to shine light on this dark scourge now beginning to pay off, we finally have our best chance to reduce and purge the elite's sexual slavery and Satanic ritual abuse of our innocents off the face of this earth.

A Chronology of Irrefutable Hardcore Evidence

On February 4th, 1987 two white men in their 20's, each dressed in coat and tie, were seen at a Tallahassee, Florida park playground with six white children aged 2 to 6 covered with insect bites and appearing very unkempt and improperly cared for.[3] An anonymous tipster contacted the city police to report the apparent child neglect and potential abuse. The police officer dispatched on the scene questioned the two men who claimed they were teachers traveling to Mexico to start a school for brilliant children. When asked about the children's parents, the one adult willing to respond became evasive after stating the children "were being weaned from their mothers."[4] When the police officer informed the two men that they were under arrest for suspicion of multiple counts of child abuse, the man refusing to answer questions fell to the ground feigning unconsciousness. At that point, after tentatively identifying themselves as Michael Houlihan (whose real name was later determined to be James Michael Holwell[5]) and Douglas Ammerman (who had no ID on him), both failed to cooperate any further in answering police questions. Later at the station Holwell pulled out two business cards with each of his two names on one side and the statement written on the other alluding to know his constitutional right to remain silent. In the park their nearby 1980 blue Dodge van displayed Virginia license plates. Upon closer inspection, police found a foul-smelling mattress in the back of the van along with maps, books, letters, 20 floppy computer disks, a device that can be hooked into a telephone line for computer transmissions,[6] a US passport and a pack of condoms. After all eight persons were taken into police custody, a spokesperson described the half dozen kids as “hungry… and pretty pathetic.”[7]

A female witness alleged to have carried on a 5-7 minute conversation with one of the men at the park later came forth and testified that she believed the man she spoke to was on drugs. In the middle of winter in northern Florida she said that he had asked her if she knew of another local “park with a swimming pond,” presumably to bathe the visibly filthy children.[8] After the oldest child, a six-year old girl named Mary Houlihan, possibly Michael’s biological daughter, reaffirmed that they were being transported to a school in Mexico, informing the police that they had been living at a commune in DC later determined to be the Finders, and that the cult leader referred to as “the game caller” (later identified as one Marion Pettie) would not allow the children to sleep in the house with the adults but relegated to living in outside tents.[9] Mary claimed that they were only given food as a reward. They were also kept out of school and appeared unfamiliar with such basic household items as television sets, telephones, typewriters, staplers and even toilets. This anomaly stands in stark contrast with the adult Finders. In early 1987 prior to the internet and private citizens even owning personal computers, the Finders members possessed numerous computers, and were highly skilled at utilizing the latest state of the art technology. This night and day difference between adults and children clearly attests to the lowly status of the young kids as subjugated, abusively exploited sex slaves. Though Mary was the only child able or willing to verbalize responses to police questions, the children were inadequately able to even identify themselves by name or the names of their two male custodians, which increased law enforcement suspicions that the two adults had kidnapped the children.

One day after the arrest the Tallahassee Police Department contacted US Customs and the Washington Metropolitan Police Department (MPD) to assist determining both adult abusers' and the children's identities and learn more about the Finders group that they represented. US Customs was included due to the expressed intention of crossing the international border into Mexico as well as suspected violations of the Child Protection Act of 1984.[10] And since within the US Customs Department a Child Pornography and Protection Unit was already in place, that federal agency along with the FBI also became involved. Based on initially seized evidence, the two men were suspected of "supplying children for the production of child pornography." Adding weight to these charges, an examining physician found that the two eldest children - Mary and a five-year old boy named Max - had been sexually abused. Additionally, Mary had become somewhat agitated prior to the physical examination when asked if she'd been inappropriately touched by adults.

The joint US Customs-intercity police investigation not only centered on the already firmly established physical evidence of gross neglect, sexual abuse and crossing state lines with abused trafficked children, but also sought to determine if the children had been kidnapped and reported missing.[11] The Florida arrest gave probable cause to attain search warrants for two Finders locations in Washington, a duplex townhouse in NW DC where members lived and a nearby warehouse where alleged Finders' businesses were conducted in NE DC that apparently also doubled as a place of lodging for some. Search warrants were also secured to inspect a number of Finders' properties (totaling 600 acres) that included a 90 acre farm owned by leader Marion Pettie located 90 miles outside DC via state highway 666 in the sleepy, little quaint town of Culpeper, Virginia in rural Madison County.[12] Also true to demonic Illuminati-like organizations, a local attorney in town representing a former Finders member in a messy divorce case received threatening, profane letters of harassment from Finders, had his tires slashed, and was forced to obtain a legal restraining order just to get the cult to cease aggressions.[13]

Assigned US Customs special agent Ramon J. Martinez joined the Washington Metro police lead detective James Bradley who had already begun investigating Finders in December 1986 and with fresh search warrants they inspected the two DC Finders' properties.[14] Two months earlier an informant had divulged that the Finders cult regularly engaged in "blood rituals and sexual orgies involving children, and an as yet unsolved murder."[15] Officer Martinez conducted a search of the Finders residence in NW Washington (three short miles from the future Pizzagate epicenter Comet Ping Pong) and found several individuals on the premises but only one a Finders member – Stuart Silverstone, located in a computer room filled with computers, printers and Finders documents that all proved very incriminating, confirming suspicions that the cult was in fact directly involved in global child sex trafficking and sexual abuse of children. Straight from Martinez' US Customs report:

Cursory examination of the documents revealed detailed instructions for obtaining children for unspecified purposes. The instructions included impregnation of female members of the community known as Finders, purchasing children, trading, and kidnapping. There were telex messages using MCI account numbers between a computer terminal believed to be located in the same room, and others located across the country and in foreign locations. One such telex specifically ordered the purchase of two children in Hong Kong to be arranged through a contact at the Chinese Embassy there.[16]

Also found were papers expressing an acute interest in:

> 'Bank secrecy' situations… high-tech transfers to the United Kingdom, numerous properties under the control of the Finders, a keen interest in terrorism, explosives, and the evasion of law enforcement.[17]

Also hugely significant is the fact that within hours of the Tallahassee incident, Martinez discovered the confidential arrest records of the two Finders and six children taken into custody the night before.[18] This unequivocally proves that intelligence insiders (i.e., the CIA) privy to on-the-ground actions in Florida tipped off the Finders in real time that instantly relayed warnings around the globe. A sophisticated worldwide computer network immediately had broadcast instructions advising "participants to move 'the children' and keep them moving through different jurisdictions, and instructions on how to avoid police attention."[19] In the immediate aftermath of the Tallahassee arrests, Lt. Lee Hart from the Culpeper police department where the Finders leader Marion Pettie owned real estate, stated that Pettie "would go to Andrews Air Force Base and get a military plane flight to China."[20] This telling statement reveals that Pettie enjoyed an intimate relationship with intelligence forces that included both the CIA as well as the US military and was doing business with Red China procuring two children in Hong Kong at that time.

The Finders was definitely not the operation of some 1960's, pie-in-the-sky, hippie commune holdout as initial press had concluded based on the government's official false narrative[21] but a highly advanced CIA government proprietary criminal operation. The Finders' mastermind Marion Pettie also rented rooms out in his house to foreign nationals, one allegedly a Tianjin, China born grad student at Georgetown University[22] (the same school that longtime CIA operative Dr. Sue Arrigo refers to as CIA U[23]). Was this

Chinese national residing at Finders' residence and the Finders' purchase order of two kids in Hong Kong arranged through the Red Chinese embassy a pure matter of coincidence? Seems highly doubtful.

On the next day February 6th, Martinez joined Metro detective Bradley at the Finders warehouse location. There they found loads more documents describing "explicit sexual conduct between members," including an enormous collection of photos believed to be both nude Finders adults and nude children, at least one depicting "a child 'on display' and appearing to accent the child's genitals." A photo album exhibited "a series of photos of adults and children dressed in white sheets participating in a 'blood ritual.'"[24] Apparently photos taken on Pettie's Madison County farm showed two goats - often the symbol for Satan[25] - being ceremonially executed, disemboweled, skinned, dismembered (including a male goat's testes and a female goat's womb containing dead babies), and one photo of a crying, traumatized child being presented the goat's head by an adult Finder.[26] Throughout ancient occult history, the goat's head has long represented Baphomet, yet another Satanic practice symbol for the devil.

Similar to the computer room at the residence, the warehouse also stored stacks of documents and files pertaining to Finders activities around the world. To name just a few that Martinez noted: Costa Rica, the Bahamas, London, Germany and other European locations as well as the Soviet Union, Japan, Hong Kong, China, Russia, North Korea, Malaysia and Africa.[27] Other file labels observed were named according to project, members' names and locations. A couple of notable examples were labeled "Palestinian" and "Pentagon Break-In." Intelligence files were gathered on individual private families seemingly unrelated to Finders members other than the Finders would answer ads for babysitters and tutors and glean "as much information as possible about the habits, identity, occupation, etc., of the family." Immense amounts of data on various childcare organizations was also collected. This massive intelligence gathering data only makes perfect sense for a CIA front whose primary mission is child victim procurement and global child sex trafficking. Pettie was the "Game Caller" calling the shots on his trafficking network graphically displayed not only in countless documents but also on wall maps of the world in every Finders location.

Back in 1987 both the Northwest residence and the Northeast warehouse had installed large sophisticated satellite systems. Each location also included a hot tub Jacuzzi and sauna,[28] no doubt for "relaxing" with the kids (not unlike the WikiLeaks release of last year's Podesta/DNC emails[29]). The Finders warehouse contained a large library, two kitchens and a video room that served as a "training area for children" and "indoctrination center." The organization possessed the capacity and equipment to make their own videos, and based on volumes of nude photos, their own child porn videos as well.[30] Additionally in the residential section of the warehouse there was also an altar set up for occult rituals. Several more US passports were collected during the search. Bizarrely in this same section were stored jars containing urine and feces,[31] disgustingly popular ingredients for satanic rituals with children. Recall that in both mind control torture as well as the satanic rituals at daycare facilities, kids were forced to eat shit, drink piss and have excrement smeared on them as standard occult operating procedure. Over the next three to five days the Washington Metro Police Department was tasked with sorting, reviewing and logging all the confiscated evidence.

Apparently through a leak at the Tallahassee Police Department, the press in both Florida and the nation's capital were tipped off and snooping around asking questions as Martinez left the warehouse location.[32] As the authorities carried scores of large plastic bags out of the warehouse as gathered legal evidence, reporters were quick to notice all the:

> … Color slides, photographs and photographic contact sheets. Some showed naked children involved in what appeared to be 'cult rituals,' bloodletting ceremonies of animals and one photograph of a child in chains.[33]

And the very next day on February 7th, just three short days after the Tallahassee arrest, while Ramon Martinez was signing his 5-page US Customs report, the Washington Post was also breaking the big sensational story with the following headline "Officials Describe 'Cult Rituals' in Child Abuse Case." Unlike nowadays with WaPo's blind denial and conspicuous silence on any pedophile ring still operating in our nation's capital,[34] three decades ago the CIA owned and controlled MSM rag[35] openly asserted that something satanically sinister was lurking within the Finders confines. The 1987 article reported that prior district court records indicated that a police source reported that the 40 adult membership of the Finders cult conducted "brainwashing" techniques at the warehouse as well as at the duplex. The source claimed that cult recruitment promised "financial reward and sexual gratification" as well as "explore Satanism." A court affidavit from the source also maintained that members of the group used children in "rituals" and that "the children's grandparents feared for their safety."

But despite all this clear evidence of child pornography, Satanic ritual child sexual abuse, and global child sex trafficking, from the get-go the writing was already on the wall because less than a week after the two pedophile traffickers were in custody in Florida, the CIA controlled DC Metro Police Department and CIA controlled Washington Post were declaring that the Finders were not criminals. WaPo's February 10th headline read "D.C. Police Finders Odd, not Criminal."[36] The day before at a press conference the DC Police Chief Maurice T. Turner, Jr. told the world the boldface lie that:

> The lifestyle of the so-called Finders organization may differ from the societal norm, but so far the Metropolitan Police Department has not uncovered any evidence of criminal wrongdoing by members of the group.

Again, what we have here are the complicit stooges readily in place simply doing what they're told - reading from a preplanned script written by the perps in charge of the worldwide trafficking network conveniently covering up their own heinous crimes. And lo and behold, those "three to five days" that the DC Metro Police would purportedly analyze the piles of confiscated evidence turned into more than three to five weeks. Not until March 31st, 1987 was Customs Officer Martinez contacting MPD's lead detective Bradley to assess evidential findings and presumably resume the joint investigation with a meeting arranged for April 2nd or 3rd. But when Martinez showed up, that lead MPD investigator was nowhere to be found. Instead his surrogate was instructed to only "discuss the case on a strictly 'off the record' basis."[37]

Martinez was told that after all the Finders members' passports were handed over to the State Department, the DC police were told that they were all legal and that since no improprieties warranted any further action, they were returned to the Finders. Incredibly, this whitewashed response belied the fact that the Finders passport records showed that they had made frequent trips to Moscow, North Korea, China and North Vietnam throughout the cold war era from the late 1950's through the mid 1970's.[38] In other words, despite Finders being allowed to freely travel behind enemy lines during wartime years fraternizing and making business deals with America's so called Communist enemies, the State Department [and CIA] obviously had no problem with their espionage activities. This fact indicates yet more blatant evidence the Finders was a covert CIA operation. This unbelievable turn of events was just the beginning. Officer Martinez' final report described what the Washington Metro Police spokesman told him next:

The individual further advised me of circumstances which indicated that the investigation into the activity of the Finders had become a CIA internal matter. The MPD report has been classified secret and was not available for review. I was advised that the FBI had withdrawn from the investigation several weeks prior and that the FBI Foreign Counter Intelligence Division had directed the MPD not to advise the FBI Washington Field Office of anything that had transpired. No further information will be available. No further action will be taken.[39]

So just like that, the Finders investigation was suddenly closed. Once again evoking the "national security" card, the Department of Justice ordered the immediate shutdown of the joint police-Customs-FBI investigation and was conveniently turned over to the CIA as a sensitive "internal security matter."[40] All the blatant crime evidence was suppressed and denied, the half dozen abused children were returned to their two freed adult perps and the CIA-Finders operation was back in business.

Despite the indisputable proof that the Finders was an obvious CIA front trafficking and abusing children worldwide, because they were pawns serving the likes of pedophile kingpin George H.W. Bush[41] and his evil ilk, the Finders were allowed to go scot free and resume operations as if nothing had ever happened. Despite angry protest by the Tallahassee police, the pedophile kidnappers in custody were promptly released from jail.[42] That is simply the power of the pedophile Empire in action that existed in 1987 as it still exists today.

But because in this last year the pedophiles have been stripped naked again, caught in the act against children like never before, simply whitewashing tons of evidence surfacing daily under the MSM carpet and pretending the Luciferian mob running this planet isn't raping and killing our children en masse will no longer wash. The guilty this time around are finally paying for their crimes. With all the sexual predators now falling one by one from their no longer safe perch,[43] the Weinsteins, Spaceys, the Charlie Roses, John Conyers and the Al Frankens are all going down.[44] This is just the beginning - debaucherously hardened pedophiles atop their crumbling, wretched crime cabal will undoubtedly be next.

Because rumors of the foul truth surrounding the Finders as a CIA pedo-front lingered on for years afterwards, one more mainstream media attempt to gain full closure to put to rest any vestige of what actually occurred arrived seven years later in a 1994 article from US News and World Report designed to finish the job suppressing the ugly inconvenient truth once and for all.[45] No sooner did the piece admit the litany of evidential findings of child sexual abuse years earlier, albeit cloaked behind the qualifier merely suggesting abuse may have taken place, the next sentence delivers the entire message payload:

None of the allegations was ever proved, however.[46]

Of course it wasn't – all evidence was immediately squelched and forevermore sealed tight from any further public exposure. But again, the pedo-cat had already been let out of the bag, no matter how hard the pedo-power-crazies try to gloss over their crimes ever since. Like it always does, the corrupt and totally controlled Washington Metro Police Department predictably followed its marching orders, “admitting” that Marion Pettie and his gang may appear a bit “eccentric,” but they were never criminals. The article goes on to explain that a couple of Congress members in 1994 wanted to reopen the case, believing that criminal evidence had in fact been overtly covered up.[47] But of course nothing ever came of their inquiry. US News reported that Pettie in 1994 described the Finders as a “communal, holistic-living and learning arrangement,” all harmlessly benign. After the 1987 fallout that resulted in many of the women and mothers leaving the group, by 1994 the number of Finders had fallen by half to 20.[48] Pettie stated his members did “freelance journalism, research and ‘competitor intelligence’ for a variety of mostly foreign clients,” but never for governments. And despite admitting that his late wife was a CIA employee and his son worked with the CIA front Air America, notorious for smuggling opium into the US from the Golden Triangle during the Vietnam War,[49] Pettie insisted he had no ties to the CIA, claiming he sent his wife in to spy on the CIA.[50] Recall also that the Finders were actively doing business with North Vietnam. And Pettie also has stated in his interview that over the decades he rented rooms out to intelligence and counterintelligence personnel, including foreign operatives. And law enforcement has disclosed that a number of Finders members have been listed in the FBI’s classified counterintelligence files.[51]

The CIA has even admitted that “a few Finders members” were employed by a company that trained CIA personnel in computer software. However, standard CIA protocol calls for CIA or one of its numerous proprietary companies to customarily provide the agency’s in-service training, rarely if ever outside private entities with “no ties” as Pettie claims.[52] Despite the CIA and Pettie’s feeble denials overtly attempting to distance each from the other, far too glaring proof has shown that for many decades Finders was an active CIA front operating a global child sex trafficking network.

Per US Customs in the US government's own conclusive words:

> During the course of the [Finders] search warrants, numerous documents were discovered which appeared to be concerned with international trafficking in children, high tech transfer to the United Kingdom, and international transfer of currency.[53]

Again the London link to central banking is alluded to in the financing of a worldwide child sex trafficking operation as documented by US Customs Special Agent Ramon Martinez 30 years ago. But most importantly, this confirmed reality was the US government's own foregone conclusion based on initially available, highly incriminating and increasingly overwhelming evidence that clearly demonstrates the CIA-Finders' criminal guilt.

An incisive Voxfux article with unnamed author drew this all too accurate conclusion:

> The story of the Finders cult is the story of the development of child/assets to be used to entrap politicians, diplomats; corporate and law enforcement officials; to sell child/victims to wealthy perverts to raise money for covert operations, to train some of the child/victims to be professional operatives and assassins of a totally cold, multiple personality, mind control nature.[54]

Longtime mind control sex slave, spy, remote viewer and CIA operative Dr. Sue Arrigo's knowledgeable, credible contention is that the Finders kids were the throwaways of the CIA throwaways from its MK Ultra mind control program.[55] Murdered CIA director for his "loose lips" William Colby once explained to Sue Arrigo that Finders was a CIA front program recruiting and training expendable children as targeted procurers of peers to push CIA drugs, arms and fellow sex slaves as a cost-effective measure designed to cut down liability of an inordinate number of CIA KIA's.

Career G-man and Memphis, Dallas and Los Angeles FBI station chief Ted Gunderson had this to say about the "eccentric" cult:

The Finders are a CIA front established in the 1960's. It has top clearance and protection in its assigned task of kidnapping and torture-programming young children throughout the US. Members are specially trained government kidnappers known to be sexual degenerates who involve children in Satanic sex orgies and bloody rituals as well as murders of other children and slaughter of animals.[56] They are then used in their Satanic Ceremonies for body parts, as sex slaves, and some are auctioned off.[57]

To further expound on what Ted Gunderson, post-FBI private investigator, found in the evidence of the Finder's criminal operation, educate-yourself.com editor Ken Adachi adds:

The kidnapping of children for purposes of prostitution, pornography, high tech weaponry experimental abuse, mind control abuse, child slave labor for underground alien-controlled facilities, white sex slavery, and the satanic ritual murder of untold thousands of American children snatched from the streets and playgrounds of America by agents working for the CIA is the principle reason for the existence of a covert CIA operation called 'The Finders.' The Finders is one of the most alarming and despicable covert operations against America's children that Gunderson's investigations helped to uncover, but it's only one of many covert Gestapo-like acts committed against American citizens by government agents under directives issued, not by Congress or the President, but rather by international Satanists collectively known as the Illuminati, who control the Secret or Inner government of the United States as well as every other major government in the world. The ‘Finders’ operation began in the 1960's and continues kidnapping children to this very day.[58]

Finders was nothing less than a CIA front organization caught red-handed specializing in international terrorism, worldwide child procurement and global child sex trafficking while practicing Luciferian ritual sexual abuse, mind control and systematic torture of children… all highly illegal, nefarious criminal activities independently confirmed and corroborated by hundreds of other well-documented sources. The child victims were supplied by both childbearing Finders breeders as well as through global abduction and the clandestine slave trade. The Finders delivered readily disposable children to be sodomized by the pedophile elite as well as those serving the elite. Beyond any question or doubt, Finders was protected by Washington’s powerbrokers, including US presidents and Congress, financed by the City of London and as such, enjoyed globalized outreach support, protection and concealment in virtually every State Department embassy throughout the world.

The same names keep popping up ad nauseam – the CIA, the FBI, the Bushes, the Clintons, the royals and their same secret societies, the CFR, the Pilgrims, the Skull and Bones, the Knights of Malta, the Freemasons, and on and on it goes. The dots are no longer dots needing to be connected but emboldened ratlines spread from Washington to London to Brussels to Rome, literally from one end of the earth to the other. The so called ruling elite are cannibalistic, Luciferian worshipping sodomizers and soulless child killers and that sadly is neither sensationalized exaggeration nor more internet fear porn. Time to face the cold hard reality of how the planetary controllers have both maintained and increased their earthly power.

Still not quite convinced yet? Next comes the biggest pedophile scandal ever recorded in American history - the infamous Franklin scandal that operated a trafficking ring straight from Omaha’s Catholic Boys Town orphanage directly to the pedophile Bush White House during the 1980’s and early 1990’s, fully covered in the next chapter.

The most thoroughly documented evidence proving America’s global pedophilia network operating at the highest levels of the US government is the infamous Franklin scandal, uncovered in a June 29, 1989 mainstream newspaper article by the Washington Times,[1] also reported by Tom Brokaw on NBC’s Nightly News,[2] and fully exposed in the truth revealing British documentary “Conspiracy of Silence,”[3] despite it being literally pulled at the last minute from its original scheduled Discovery Channel airing on May 3, 1994.[4] After it was listed in the TV Guide for a 10PM viewing, it was abruptly cancelled and all copies of the Yorkshire Television video were suddenly bought up with a half million dollar production company payoff.[5] Had it not been for a single rough-cut copy anonymously sent to attorney John DeCamp a year after all videos were supposedly destroyed, the powers-that-shouldn’t-be would’ve successfully blacked out this explosive documentary from ever being seen by anyone. That’s how pervasive and absolute the sinister controllers’ power at the top is. And as it is, its television broadcast ban has persisted to this very day, but thanks to DeCamp and the internet, it’s still widely available.

A just deserts irony rings true here - after the government’s own top secret Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency (DARPA) invented the internet,[6] among other reasons as a potential tool for controlling the masses, similar to pedophilia, the internet has now fast become the elite's international crime cabal's own self-undoing.[7] Thankfully for us, truth can never be erased, at least not completely.

The Franklin scandal was also thoroughly chronicled in two very well-researched bestselling books, the first in 1992 called The Franklin Cover-up: Child Abuse, Satanism, and Murder in Nebraska written by the same aforementioned attorney, the late longtime Nebraska state senator John DeCamp,[8] and the other even more detailed account published in 2011 entitled The Franklin Scandal: A Story of Powerbrokers, Child Abuse and Betrayal by journalist Nick Bryant.[9] Even CIA Mockingbird controlled propaganda ministry[10] rags like the Washington Post[11] and the New York Times[12] back in 1989 and 1990 ran articles covering the momentary blip on the public radar screen, documenting American history's biggest, all but forgotten pedophile scandal. Of course the only reason for this amnesia is the massive top-down textbook cover-up.

Despite this brief wide exposure by a diverse array of MSM outlets, Bush senior ensured that within a month in the summer of '89 the entire story got buried and ever since over the next three decades was hardly ever heard from again. Yet its uncovered, incontrovertible facts remain irrefutable and undeniable, once again illustrating how the most powerful people on this planet as Lucifer worshipping child rapists and murderers consistently get away with the most ungodly, egregious, shockingly despicable crimes in the history of humankind. Yet despite Trump's victory last November "ending" the dynasty run of the Bush-Clinton-Obama crime family spree[13] as outed international drug lords[14] [15] and pedo-pimps,[16] [17] [18] Washington remains a fortified, entrenched deep state pedophile-saturated swamp currently committing treason against a sitting US president.[19]

While Trump’s military buildup, warmongering rhetoric and Zionist move to Jerusalem debacle may disastrously plunge humanity off the Armageddon cliff,[20] all the while the deep state against him has committed treason many times over.[21] Why Trump’s enemies have attacked him with such unprecedented vengeance may well be because, unlike all his predecessors, Trump could actually be going after the pedophile elite.[22] All the latest buzz of sealed indictments numbering well over 4,000 (as of late November 2017),[23] Trump’s Winter Solstice signed executive order arresting and freezing assets of human rights/trafficking violators[24] and Gitmo expansion to make room for plane loads of new inmate arrivals suggesting the Podestas, Clintons and Bushes are next,[25] have lots in alt-news happily celebrating the new year, but seeing is believing. But if true, it explains why deep state’s been so desperately determined to destroy Trump before he destroys deep state.

In any event, during the course of this last year, criminals both in and out of government have been stripped naked, exposing their grotesque orgiastic debauchery and predatory bloodlust, and God willing, they’ll all finally be paying for their treasonous high crimes against both humanity and our children. But their criminal accountability depends entirely on you and me to first accept this vile sickening reality of what they’ve been doing and then resolutely take constructive action to remove this long embedded, festering cancer. Never before have we the citizens of the world ever possessed such great opportunity and power to rid the planet of the monsters who’ve singlehandedly hijacked and arrested the very evolution of our human species.[26] And prior to the .01% of the world’s population of evildoers completely destroying the earth’s eco-system as our only home,[27] the time to take action has also never been more urgent than right now. With no exaggeration, survival of our planet literally hangs in the balance.

Focusing on the basic historical facts behind the Franklin scandal as perversely tragic as they are, Chapter 13 will serve as the classic eye-opener to understanding the anatomy of the US child sex trafficking network and pedophilia in high places’ prototypical cover-up. It’s been operating unimpeded and growing for nearly four straight decades now, but only recently has it been unveiled like never before. The Franklin truth bomb only demonstrates that despite its earlier exposure, during the ensuing decades the ruling elite puppet masters behind the child sex trafficking network have only stepped up their global criminal operation. At 46 million and counting, both human slavery and child sex slavery today shamefully stand at an all-time high in the history of Homo sapiens walking this earth.[28] Likewise, the pedophilia Empire has never been more gargantuan a beast and a metastasized worldwide epidemic than it is at this very moment. That’s why the light of truth exposing this dark, demonic and perverse world in our midst can instantly become the fully lit beacon that effectively unites humanity and sets us free to purge once and for all this age old blight of bloodsucking, soulless sodomizers from their too long entrenched earthly power and control. Only until we successfully eliminate this pedophilia scourge and its Luciferian blackmail system of political and economic control and deception can humanity usher in anage of transparency, peace, prosperity and justice on a never before seen scale. But let’s first learn the very important, harsh and bitter pill of a lesson from the pedophilia primer of the ages - the Franklin scandal.

Before proceeding, at the outset a distinction must be made that media accounts of this scandal invariably use inaccurate, misleading terminology to describe child sex slaves as call boys and child prostitutes, and instead of identifying these pedophilia crimes as a child sex trafficking operation, it’s typically referred to as simply child prostitution. By definition, prostitution connotes a mutually agreed upon transaction of financial gain for one party in exchange for volitionally provided bodily services to another. Conscripted, abducted, drugged and tortured abused child sex slaves who earn virtually zero money as rape victims, criminally and brutally exploited by both pimps and perpetrators alike, through sexual trauma and financial profit going near exclusively to adult criminals - not the child victims, should never be misconstrued as child prostitution, even when a monetary exchange between pimp and perpetrator does occur. Unfortunately to this very day, law enforcement mistreats trafficked child victims of sexual slavery (“trafficked” meaning forced without consent) as criminals and so called child prostitutes, and even worse is still in the business of incarcerating child victims for extended periods.[29]

Thus, too frequently police only further tack on yet more abuse and both they and the media are still rampantly guilty of causing added damage and suffering by using words that cruelly mislabel victims as criminals. Even a 17-year old minor who “by choice” engages in sex for money is a victim, especially when economic and cultural factors so often present are considered. Young homeless runaways on the streets who are hungry for their next meal may feel forced to use their body as their only way to survive. Another common example typically encountered abroad is an orphaned eldest child facing the burdensome responsibility of taking care of younger siblings where few options exist amidst hordes of adult Western male predators hungrily on the prowl for sex with children, especially in pedo-sex tourism havens like Thailand, Philippines, other Asian countries and impoverished Third World nations around the globe.[30] Improving economic conditions, implementing and enforcing child rape laws, cleaning up government corruption, and providing education and understanding the larger context and the important distinction between child victimization and child prostitution[31] all would go far towards eliminating both this prevalent, unacceptable condition and distortedly inaccurate, unjust bias and unfair misperception.

With that caveat out of the way, let’s begin examining the Franklin child abuse scandal up close. The central adult figure is decorated Vietnam War veteran, 17-year Nebraska state senator, author and longtime attorney John DeCamp who represented several of the child victims in court as a well-intentioned protagonist. Years earlier after meeting his Vietnamese wife while serving as a Green Beret captain in Southeast Asia, as a Nebraska state senator in 1975 John was responsible for airlifting 2,800 orphaned children out of the war ravaged nation and finding homes for them in North America.[32] Initially as the Franklin story broke and rumors surfaced of child abuse in the late 1980s, DeCamp was highly skeptical. But the more he learned, the more he grew committed to ferreting out the truth in support of the child victims, eventually agreeing to legally represent several of the abused. The husband and father of four managed to traverse the high stakes minefield at great risk to both himself and his family, enduring death threats and on more than one occasion forced to relocate his wife and children out of harm’s way. But until his recent passing this last July at age 76, the inimitable John DeCamp persevered, ultimately unveiling the horrific abuse and grossest injustice perpetrated on hundreds of Nebraska children through his hard fought and not always successful quest for justice along with his blockbuster exposé, summarizing the Franklin debacle this way:

It’s a web of intrigue that starts in our holy of holies, Boys Town Nebraska, one of the most respected institutions in the United States, and spreads out like a spider web to

Washington DC right up to the steps of the nation's capital, steps of the White House. It involves some of the most respected and powerful and richest businessmen in this country - and the centerpiece of the entire web is the use of children for sex, drug dealing, drug couriers, and the compromising of politicians and businessmen in this United States of America.[33]

The Franklin scandal centered in Omaha, Nebraska and in particular on the famous now 100-year old Roman Catholic orphanage Boys Town.[34] This is the same orphanage idyllically featured in the 1938 film classic "Boys Town," starring Mickey Rooney as the angry, rebellious juvenile reformed by the spiritual wisdom and righteousness bestowed on him by Boys Town founder Father Flanagan, played by Spencer Tracy in a saintly Oscar winning performance.[35] But less than four decades later, Boys Town was anything but saintly, becoming the primary pipeline source for abducted child sex slaves trafficked to Washington DC[36] and elsewhere to be sodomized by the likes of Vice President turned President George H.W. Bush and sexually exploited by other sick political big wigs like Dick Cheney and former New Hampshire Governor-US Senator John Sununu.[37] Yep, big Dick's scandalously caught up in yet another coldblooded Luciferian scheme more than a decade before his masterminded signature devilry of 9/11. But more on Dick and the infamous Georges later.

Speaking of fellow demons, the main character in the Franklin drama was Lawrence E. King Jr, the charismatic ringleader that ran a vast child trafficking network exploiting hundreds of orphaned boys and local Omaha youth of both genders, some even younger than 10,[38] to VIP parties in Omaha, Washington, Chicago, New York City, New Orleans, Dallas, Des Moines, Kansas City, San Francisco and a number of other locations across the nation. The once young African American Democrat and George McGovern supporter from Omaha who everyone affectionately called Larry King strategically and opportunistically switched political parties to become a rising GOP star singing the national anthem at both the 1984 and 1988 Republican Presidential Conventions.[39] Lawrence King placed all his marbles in running with the 1% haves from the GOP elite, tirelessly participating in countless party fundraisers and, as the entertainer-charmer of the first order, he hosted social gatherings big and small, singing his way into the pocketbooks of the wealthiest, most powerful circles in Washington DC, his home state Nebraska and entire country.

His meteoric ascendancy from his humble roots resulted from his psychopathic charisma and ostentatious flair for ambition, hobnobbing not only with the rich and powerful Omaha-Lincoln crowd but branching out and expanding nationwide to even well beyond the capital. Networking with likeminded others within a secret satanic brotherhood of fellow derelict pedophiles while on the surface appearing the benevolent, do-gooder man about town, a pillar in both the Omaha community as well as nation, King ensured he was on the board of directors of some of the largest children's organizations like the Head Start Foundation, on the executive committee of the Camp Fire Girls and president of the Girls Club.[40] For all he brought to the GOP table, King was rewarded with the position of vice chairman of the National Black Republican Council (NBRC) a direct subset of the GOP. And of course the "child lover" was selected as NBRC's Youth Advisor.[41]

Philanthropically embracing children became the Kingpin's cover for abusing them, supplying fresh young innocents to defile for insatiable consumption by wicked, dirty old rich white men attending Lawrence's fancy soirees that only added to both his appeal and demand. Throughout the 1980s King grew so cozily chummy with the likes of Ronald Reagan and George Bush that he'd call them up just to ask

America’s presidents for friendly favors. Never brought to justice for his countless sadistic child sex crimes and murders, this devil worshipper was granted more than his share of Luciferian favors by the nation’s Luciferian elite – and still is.

In 1970 the brand new 25-year old general manager Larry King took over the failing Franklin Community Federal Credit Union and managed to nurse it back to life, making inroads connecting with Omaha’s wealthy establishment that provided the necessary funding to keep the struggling financial institution afloat, mostly catering to local lower income African American families.[42] During his first decade at Franklin, Larry King worked toward cultivating a close working partnership with nearby Boys Town, holding a number of the famous charity’s amply endowed accounts. Employing a number of Boys Town residents in his credit union to do various odd jobs like filing or sweeping the floor seemed like a natural win-win for everyone involved.

But King’s trailblazing path to materializing his all-American success story was not what it appeared, paved with satanic pedophilic ritual, murder, sodomy, torture, blackmail, fraud, extortion, embezzlement and a subsequent White House protected cover-up. Yet for all his felonious crimes, Larry King never served even one day behind bars for his diabolical enslavement, trafficking and brutal, sadistic rape and torture of his hundreds of child sex slaves over the years, nor for pimping them off to the US president and other Washingtonian elite. It was only after years of living obscenely above his means on his $16,200 Franklin Credit Union salary per year[43] that any legal action was finally taken against him. While the flamboyant King’s best buddy George HW was making his successful bid to become the next president of the United States, the “rising star” sang the national anthem a second straight time at his convention, taking more photo-ops with the fellow pedophile president-to-be.

But just like how the “Conspiracy of Silence” doc disappeared, Bush conveniently pulled all his arm-in-arm photos with King off the internet and to this day are still nowhere to be found. Bush senior tasked longtime GOP dirty trickster Karl Rove with removing the King stain from the Bush family crime business. Rove in turn deployed the late Michael Connell (who later died suspiciously in a plane crash) to expunge all photographic trace of the King-Bush nexus from the internet.[44] A few years later the high level GOP consultant and IT guru Connell was subpoenaed and set to appear in court over a couple of George W. Bush Jr’s scandals; Connell’s part in rigging the outcome of W’s second stolen presidential election in 2004[45] [46] as well as W’s cover-up of his own shady pedophile blackmail sex ring (i.e., like father, like son) where junior fired a bunch of US attorneys hot on the investigative trail to uncover it.[47] Connell was believed responsible for thousands of missing emails pertaining to the eight terminated attorneys closing in on Jr’s sex ring[48] and, just prior to showing up in court to answer for his role in his boss’ sins, he too was suddenly met with an untimely fate flying home to Ohio for Christmas on December 19, 2008 just two miles from the Akron airport. Karl Rove is actually on record threatening Connell shortly before his death and twice Connell as the diehard loyal Bush consultant and pilot thrown under the Bush crime bus was warned not to fly his recently tampered plane.[49]

In just under two decades at Franklin Credit Union, Lawrence King had embezzled $40 million and on the very same day his buddy Bush was elected 41st US president in November 1988, the FBI and IRS raided King’s office arresting the garish pedophile. Upon discovering two discrepant accounting book records, fraud and embezzlement charges were levied against the general manager.[50] This led to a

Nebraska state senate probe that in turn opened up questions that had been swirling for years around Larry King over accusations he was running a secret satanic child sex slave trafficking ring. Rumors and reports lingered for half a decade stemming from children courageously coming forth to disclose King's pedo-crimes being perpetrated against them. Eyewitnesses reported that King was directly involved in at least one satanic child sacrifice murder.[51] But like virtually every other pedophile scandal, victims' initial charges of satanic ritual abuse are invariably dismissed as too bizarre, disturbing and unbelievable to take seriously, especially when children are verbalizing that they're being forced against their will to board private jetliners to Washington to attend plush parties to be served on a sexual platter for some of the richest, most famous and powerful pedophiles on the planet.

Among the first children to report Larry King to the authorities, describing in detail his sexual abuse operation, was 14-year old Eulice "Lisa" Washington (who also went by adopted foster parents' name Nelly Webb) whose testimony was independently supported by her twin sister Tracey (Kimberly Webb). Both girls were placed in the abusive foster care home belonging to Jarrett and Barbara Webb, Jarrett a King employee on the credit union board of directors and his wife Barbara, King's cousin.[52] The physically and sexually abused Lisa and Tracey kept running away from their foster home, bringing them to the attention of child protective services. Eulice began opening up in 1985 disclosing that on multiple occasions their foster parents and Larry King would force her sister and her along with a large number of children from Boys Town to board private planes headed for Washington, Chicago and numerous other municipal destinations. Lisa said she was ordered to sit on top of a table either completely nude or wearing a scantily clad negligee "looking pretty and innocent,” forced to perform sex (sans penile penetration) with party-going perverts, all prominent politicians and businessmen.[53] Younger bodyguards with openly displayed handguns escorted the older pervs.

Lisa said she met George HW Bush attending several of these functions, starting at the Dallas 1984 GOP convention, as well as affairs held in DC and Chicago. On a pre-election campaign swing to the Windy City in October 1984, Lisa stated she observed then Vice President George Bush handing money to Larry King, and then leave with a Boys Town African American boy named Brent.[54]

In 1985-86 Boys Town child welfare worker Julie Walters interviewed Lisa several times compiling a highly incriminating, explosive 41-page document sent to Andrea L. Carener of Nebraska Social Services. Lisa and Tracey reported that Jarrett Webb began sexually abusing them at age nine and ten.[55] Despite Lisa subsequently passing all four lie detector tests and every child protective agency from the county to the state level finding the girls’ accusations fully credible, the Washington County Nebraska judge dismissed all sex abuse charges against the foster parents Jarrett and Barbara Webb.[56] Blindly tossing out mounting, clear-cut evidence would become the pervasive signature trademark of this scandal-ridden cover-up.

With the vast majority of King’s victims in his sex ring from Boys Town, the Omaha police never took the child allegations seriously, merely going through the motions to inform only the head of the famous orphanage Father Val Peter, who failed to loop anyone else at Boys Town in on the alarming scandal.[57] Later Val Peter would claim that he conducted his own internal investigation and was unable to find any evidence of abuse, insisting that interviewed alleged witnesses denied any and all wrongdoing.[58] What’s all too obvious is that Father Val Peter and perhaps a few selected individuals within the Boys Town administration were minimally guilty of complicity as scores of their children for years would regularly go missing for days at a time while King trafficked them to DC and at least a dozen other locations around the nation. That in and of itself would immediately raise a red flag of utmost concern for responsible adults mandated to protect and care for their children. Yet even though the Boys Town-to-DC sex slave pipeline was ongoing throughout the decade, no further inquiry was ever pursued by orphanage officials. This glaring fact appears as overwhelming evidence that Val Peter who was close friends with Larry the Kingpin knew exactly what was going on. But in keeping with the traditional Catholic Church crime history through the ages, pedophilia has always been allowed to flourish unimpeded within its unholy ranks.

President George Bush welcomed Father Val Peter to the White House promoting his so called faith based initiative,[59] the same one that fellow pedophile and convicted sex offender Father Ritter embraced with his CIA front the Covenant House that was alleged to have been part of the trafficking of children, drugs and arms from and to South and Central America during this same Iran Contra era (see Chapter 5 on Knights of Malta). The CIA, Knights of Malta and AmeriCares worked hand in hand with Bush and his brother Prescott Jr., Cheney, Peter Grace and Ritter along with the likes of their obedient grunts Oliver North, Michael Aquino and Larry King. From DeCamp's Franklin Cover-up:

> Direct ties of Larry King to persons and institutions active in the Iran Contra are a matter of public record. In 1987, according to the World-Herald, King donated $25,350 to Citizens for America [CFA], a group that sponsored speaking tours for Oliver North and the Contra leaders. CFA was a key public relations group for Iran Contra; King was a founding member and one of its largest contributors.[60]

King himself was interviewed on Omaha radio station KKAR claiming that he “was trying to bring North to Nebraska.” Additionally, one’s of Larry King’s security guards has sworn that he witnessed Lt. Col. North attending at least one of King’s parties with children present. DeCamp goes on to state:

> The first investigative reporter to ever look at Franklin, the World-Herald’s James Flanery, told associates that King was “running guns and money into Nicaragua,” and that the CIA was heavily involved. (Flanery was soon taken off the story and shipped out of state for a year.)[61]

It’s always been a small satanic circle that runs and operates the global child sex slave network in every scandal through every decade, always the same guilty handful of players, from pedo-presidents and pedo-Congress to pedo-CIA operatives and pedo-military officers to pedo-priests and pedo secret societies - the CFR, the Maltese, Skull and Bones, Freemasons and Illuminati among others. This tight knit crew represents one big child-raping Luciferian crime family operating from out of its DC-New York Wall Street-Hollywood US headquarters in conjunction with the City of London Corporation-Brussel’s EU/NATO-Rome’s Vatican nexus to its far reaching, child-preying tentacles extending to every single corner of the globe, all guilty as sin.

In 1986 Paul Bonacci had also been registering complaints to school authorities and the Omaha police about the rampant sexual abuse at the hands of Larry King and company.[62] At the age of 3, Paul had been placed into the sinister CIA MK Ultra mind control program, and beginning in the early through mid-1970s endured systematic mind control training at Omaha’s nearby Offutt Air Force Base, ending up with well over a dozen known alter personalities as a diagnosed Dissociative Disorder victim induced through sexual trauma and torture.[63] A conscripted sex slave by age

8, as is always the case from DC to Hollywood, Paul Bonacci became one among countless boy toys passed around by lascivious pedo club members, for Paul starting in Omaha.

MK Ultra had targeted Omaha multimillionaire businessman Alan Baer for blackmail sex with their fully trained 11-year old mind controlled sex slave Paul. Baer immediately seized the bait, laying claim to Paul for frequent acts of sodomy. Bonacci described how at lavish drug-sex orgies he was forced to have sex with Baer, but soon after was farmed out to Harold W. Anderson, CFR member[64] and former editor turned CEO of Nebraska’s largest daily newspaper, the Omaha World-Herald owned by multibillionaire Warren E. Buffet, and a year later to World-Herald entertainment journalist Peter Citron. Citron would soon be arrested for his violent pedophilic acts and subsequently “suicided” after drinking drain cleaner.[65]

Though Buffett’s newspaper men were rabid pedophile offenders shielding their King led criminal operation from all accountability, not surprisingly Larry King was also close friends with the famous Omaha mogul who happens to be one of the richest men on earth - Warren E. Buffett. Much to the powerful globalist’s regret, Warren Buffett hosted the tenth year anniversary wedding party for Larry King and his wife Alice in 1979.[66] Buffet’s wife Susie was even a volunteer at Franklin. Larry held a fundraiser when their son Howard Buffett ran for Douglas County Commissioner. Of course Buffett’s mutual interests with Larry weren’t just limited to their shared social circle. Through his World-Herald the multibillionaire’s media prowess fiercely protected the pedophiles while viciously slandering the child victims. Finally, Buffett’s financial investment ties to King’s Franklin Credit Union also ran indelibly deep. First Tier Bank as Franklin’s parent company was not only the financial institution that co-laundered King’s dirty drug and child trafficking cash flow business, but was also the morphed creation of its emeritus board of director Mr. Buffett.[67]

By December 1980 Paul Bonacci met CIA-GOP affiliated slave master Larry King who Paul claimed was holding satanic rituals sexually abusing and murdering children.[68] Paul asserted that both King and Baer were Satanists[69] who soon began trafficking Bonacci and other children as drug couriers moving Bush-CIA Contra cocaine picked up on the California's West Coast to bring back to America's heartland for wider distribution.[70]

Paul Bonacci specified how Larry King classified selling his young boy victims as two separate slave commodities to his mouth-watering degenerates based on their particular sexual age preference:

> One is called Bodies by God and they had the call boys. And there was another group that was started by Larry King which is called the Golden Boys which was kids that were usually under the age of approximately ten .[71]

After reporting sexual abuse to her therapist while undergoing psychiatric hospitalization, another child victim Loretta Smith was interviewed in June 1988 by dispatched Omaha Police Officer Irl Carmean.[72] Loretta said she was first photographed nude at the age of nine by child pornographers. Invited to a party by her older friends, she met an adult male who convinced the prepubescent to come back to his place for "a modeling shoot." As a friend of the Webb foster children Lisa and Tracey Washington, Loretta attended events at the local Omaha Girls Club chapter where Larry King was the predatory president. Loretta explained that she and the Washington sisters would go on Girls Club field trips to professional photography studios escorted by both male and female Girls Club adult staff that threatened her and her family if she did not pose nude.

Loretta disclosed that by age 10 and 11, she was forced to participate in devil worshipping rituals with both minors and adults present, identifying Larry King as the Luciferian cult leader using drugs and sex as part of the satanic ritual activities.

Despite promising Loretta he would return to ask more about her pedophilic victimization, Officer Carmean never had any further contact with Loretta whose psychiatrist spoke to Carmean's supervisor also assuring that Officer Carmean would be interviewing Loretta again. But because the Omaha Police Department was compromised and corrupted with its police chief part of King's inner pedophile ring, no further Omaha police investigation ever took place. However, as Loretta Smith became more comfortable with the hospital personnel, she went into greater details about how the satanic cult run by King operated over a period of many months using marijuana and heavier drugs to manipulate their child victims into first trusting the perpetrators before introducing them to the hardcore satanic ritual abuse that in addition to child pornography, rape and sodomy also included animal mutilation, human sacrifice and cannibalism.[73] With such astounding criminal depravities revealed, a number of mental health professionals repeatedly contacted the Omaha police department for further investigation but to no avail.

By 1988 the number of minors and young adults boldly coming forth to disclose widespread abuse had grown to seven victims accusing Larry King of years of systematically raping, torturing and drugging them, hooking victims on cocaine and heroin, while trafficking and pimping them out for sodomy at King sponsored political functions and afterhours orgies across the country. Additional allegations were made accusing King of buying and selling child sex slaves on the black market at slave auctions around the country. According to Larry King victim Paul Bonacci, one was held inside a barn in Lincoln, Nebraska and others are outside Las Vegas as well as in Toronto, Canada.[74]

One underage girl described her horrifying experience at one of the King orgies where she was forced to stand naked while being auctioned off as a piece of meat to the highest bidder who would soon be raping her.[75] Another victim recalled in 1981 or 1982 being taken to a farm in Elkhorn, Nebraska where a 10-year old boy was witnessed being repeatedly beaten and sodomized by King's Satan worshippers.[76] While the boy lay screaming and bleeding from his rectum, one of the men picked up a pitchfork, ultimately plunging it into the victim and killing him as spectators busy laughed throughout this heinous slaughter. Moreover, the Franklin sex ring perpetrators and their satanic blackmail operation often shot snuff films of both their sex abuse and murders. One King client took a young boy out of state and forced the victim to give him oral sex. Just as the pedophile reached orgasm he shot the boy in the head, captured on film to be distributed for profit amongst more sickos.

Denver's National Center for the Treatment of Dissociative Disorders published its findings from a 1991 study in The Journal of Child Abuse & Neglect. All 37 Franklin scandal victims responding to the study's survey diagnosed with Dissociative Disorder that had been tortured and sexually abused as children in the 1980s revealed that they also received death threats, witnessed animal mutilations, and were forced to ingest drugs. Additionally, 83% of them indicated that they had witnessed at least one adult or child sacrifice.[77]

By 1987 head of the Nebraska Foster Care Review Board (FCRB) Carol Stitt, prominently featured in the British documentary "Conspiracy of Silence," had gathered more than convincing evidence of rampant sexual abuse involving

King’s national sex trafficking ring, sending letters and reports to alert Nebraska state Governor Kay Orr as well as the state Attorney General Robert Spire, expecting them to launch a major investigation to correct this shameful blight on the state. But all her reports appeared to fall on deaf ears. Carol also forwarded reports to the Nebraska legislature in hopes that state senators would take the initiative to look into the shocking matter. But they too were slow to respond, mobilizing an investigative committee only after King’s November 1988 arrest. Finally the following month on December 19th the FCRB was able to present its mounting evidence to the state committee. Afterwards committee chairman Loran Schmit responded:

The information brought tears to my eyes. I do not cry easily and I was not the only person that was moved.[78]

Decades later as a longtime fierce protector of abused children in the Nebraska state foster care system, after 29 years as the director of the state’s Foster Care Review Board, suddenly in January 2012 Carol Stitt was forced out of her job by a corrupt board of directors.[79] Using a bogus technicality, she was ousted for attending a political rally back in 2006 for revered former University of Nebraska football coach Republican Tom Osborne, a supposed violation of the Hatch Act that prohibits federal employees from engaging in political activity. Though a state employee, technically the federal government partially funded her office through Health and Human Services (HHS). Her removal was nothing short of a subversive plot to rid a staunch pedophile watchdog from potentially running unwanted interference against Nebraska’s still notorious child sex ring trafficking operation.[80]

As to perhaps why after the Franklin scandal the state is still the pedophile capital of America’s heartland, a closer glimpse at Nebraska’s current junior Senator Ben Sasse may go far in explaining. Only by using his amply endowed out-of-state coffers was Ben Sasse able to beat Tom Osborne in the primary for the 2012 US Senate seat. Sasse's primary outside funding source, the Club for Growth, is an extremist group keen on eliminating private sector regulations governing parochial schools and child protective services, two domains especially in the Cornhusker state where lack of accountability and pedophilia are notoriously off the charts.[81] Plus in 2006 Ben Sasse was working as the HHS undersecretary for planning and evaluation when Stitt attended that political rally for Osborne who ended up Sasse's primary opponent in 2012. On top of that, before his HHS stint, from 1996-98 then Rep. Sasse was in charge of the pedo-scandal-ridden House program hiring and supervising young underage boys as Congressional pages while now convicted pedophile felon Dennis Hastert was Speaker of the House and fellow pedophile Rep. Mark Foley was caught sexually hitting on boys and Rep. Jim Kolbe was taking them on three day camping trips down into the Grand Canyon.[82]

Sasse actively helped cover-up Hastert and his colleagues' out of control pedo-abuse that finally forced the program to be shut down in 2011. Thus, Sasse's own established political record has made him fair game for being labeled a "pedophile enabler."[83] Additionally, according to a member of the Sasse family, the clan has a known history of physical and psychological abuse[84] and as Attorney General Ashcroft's chief of staff, without even a law background, the Nebraska politician helped rewrite the illegal, inhumane CIA torture renditions for the war criminal Bush-Cheney administration. After WikiLeaks released its CIA computer hacking vault in March this year disclosing more invasive CIA improprieties, Senator Sasse called for Julian Assange's immediate extradition and life imprisonment. Despite being a Republican, Sasse remains a diehard fanatic forever pushing the Trump-Russian fabrication.[85] To the T his past behavior consistently fits the nefarious deep state profile immersed in the Nebraska-to-Washington pedophile pipeline. So with a current senator like Sasse, is it any wonder Nebraska still has a major pedophilia crisis?

Returning to the Franklin scandal, from the very outset of Carol Stitt's sexual abuse reports, the cover-up was already well underway. State Attorney General Spire obviously lied telling Stitt his office was already looking into the matter. Clearly all the Nebraska prosecutors were part of the cover-up, following orders to withhold evidence to protect the guilty. Despite overt suppression of the growing complaints against King and his criminal child sex blackmail operation, in August 1989 Senator Loran Schmit heading the state probe appointed two new investigators after a lackluster first one.[86] The chosen new lead investigator was former state police trooper Gary Caradori, whose most recent investigative work at the time involved finding missing children.[87] His assistant Karen Ormiston was a colleague at his private investigation firm. They interviewed scores of suspected victims and began presenting their findings to the senate committee which led to a special state grand jury in Lincoln, also in part prompted by the committee's legal counsel John DeCamp after submitting a 1990 memo naming the five most prominent Omaha citizens outright as pedo-perp prime suspects – Larry King, Alan Baer, Robert Wadman, Harold Anderson and Peter Citron.[88]

Just before the newly formed state grand jury even scheduled Larry King to have to testify, and one day prior to President George Bush's arrival to speak at an Omaha fundraiser that King had purchased a ticket to attend, no doubt in compliance with White House demands, on February 7, 1990 US Magistrate Judge Richard Kopf suddenly ordered King to be taken out of state to a federal medical facility in Springfield, Missouri for psychiatric evaluation, in effect, killing two birds with one stone.[89] Of course predictably Judge Kopf ruled King mentally incompetent to stand trial and another judge whisked him away again out of state to the Minnesota Mayo Clinic for treatment for the next five months as a “pretrial detainee.” King obviously meets diagnostic criteria as a classic psychopath and full blown pedophile likely among other mental diagnoses, but the convenient label given him was “probable paranoid delusional disorder.” Thus, the fixed system protecting him ensured that at no time would the pedo-kingpin have to answer for his rape, torture, murder and interstate child sex and drug trafficking, that all ran too close for Bush’s comfort.

Little more than a year after the Washington Times’ “call boy tour inside the White House” headline, in July 1990 the lead Franklin investigator Gary Caradori flew to Chicago with his 8-year old son to ostensibly catch the major league all-star baseball game at Wrigley Park, but more importantly to pick up critical photographic evidence that would be the smoking gun to effectively convict the powerful pedophiles caught in action on camera by Rusty Nelson, King’s hired personal photographer and blackmail evidence procurer.[90] From Chicago after taking physical possession of the photos from Nelson, an elated Gary Caradori excitedly phoned both his wife and his co- investigator informing them:

I got what I came after. I got ‘em by the balls. I've got pictures. I will take them to the game and bring them back to Nebraska.

But just when the case was about to be blown wide open causing dozens of the most powerful pedophiles in America including the sitting US president to go down in murderous flames, the FBI assassination squad ensured that it was the courageous father and his son holding the crucial evidence that would go down in murderous flames.[91] Per on-the-ground eyewitnesses, their twin engine plane was blown apart in midair caused by a bomb planted by the FBI, resulting in wreckage debris strewn across Nebraska cornfields for miles. And of course the murdering FBI agents on the ground quickly rushed to their crime scene in order to remove all the evidence that included Caradori’s briefcase and a bunch of incriminating photos… however, not before the local sheriffs at the crash site spotted the scattered child pornographic photos. The FBI in Lincoln swiftly invaded Caradori’s office along with forcing his childless widow to turn over investigative files at their home, thus stealing all incriminating, smoking gun evidence linking the sitting US president to his murderous pedophilia-drug network.

Painstakingly reviewing all the taped Caradori interviews of the victims that the Nebraska state committee and state and federal grand juries had viewed, John DeCamp caught legal authorities having tampered with evidence, editing out specific key portions of interviews where victim witness accounts corroborated each other. That’s how criminally low into the depths of the gutter that America’s morally depraved, conniving justice system had sunk.[92] Yet despite DeCamp’s proof-positive revelations exposing the state’s cover-up criminality, the hordes of guilty pedophiles from Omaha to Washington to this day remain either free men still operating above the law or silenced as cover-up liabilities by suicide and/or suspicious death.

In the aftermath of the tragic Caradori setback, a move to hire DeCamp’s mentor the former CIA Director William Colby to head the investigation was then quashed by a 4-3 senate committee vote.[93] Colby had been a longtime close friend and boss of state Senator John DeCamp when they first worked in the Phoenix program together in Vietnam. DeCamp went to his friend Colby’s Maryland home for advice when the cover-up was stymying the investigation at every turn. Colby’s advice to his anguished friend:

> What you have to understand, John, is that sometimes there are forces and events too big, too powerful, with so much at stake for other people or institutions, that you cannot do anything about them, no matter how evil or wrong they are and no matter how dedicated or sincere you are or how much evidence you have. This is simply one of the hard facts of life you have to face.[94] Sometimes evil does triumph, and there's nothing you can do about it, at least not the way you want to. You're dealing with something too big, too powerful. It goes too high, involves too much, and if you keep playing around with it, you're going to get yourself killed. Get away.[95]

After John DeCamp replied that he couldn’t just walk away knowing such evil was being perpetrated with complete impunity from Washington to Lincoln, Colby then advised:

> The only thing I can tell you then, is to tell the story. Write it up. Get the national and international press interested in it. Maybe they will do something.[96]

So DeCamp set forth writing his powerful exposé indicting the murderous pedophiles in power. But in recent decades while the pedophilia epidemic has surged, the complicit mainstream media has remained silent, sweeping everything under their filthy fake news carpet. A few years after William Colby uttered these chilling sentiments about what he knew too well, in April 1996 his mysterious “drowning” death is speculated to be the result of Colby’s reported plan to expose the CIA for sexually abusing and misusing children for political and diplomatic blackmail as part of its mind control program.[97] And in 1990 Nebraska, instead of placing the ex-CIA director as the next lead investigator after the Caradori murder, a central figure in the investigation stated that the state legislative committee grew cold feet and couldn’t have selected a more incompetent choice as the next replacement chief investigator, local attorney Kirk Naylor.[98]

Incredibly, a week after investigator Caradori’s murder, the Nebraska state grand jury in Lincoln soon followed by the federal grand jury in DC completely disregarded the mountains of evidence, never even calling King to the witness stand, dismissed the inquests calling the entire Franklin affair “a carefully crafted hoax.”[99] Senate committee chairman Loran Schmit was extremely disheartened that the forces of evil were able to defeat his mission to uncover the truth and lay out all the evidence for the grand juries to indict and prosecute the guilty parties, concluding that the justice system is so corrupt where truth becomes falsehood and right becomes wrong.[100] Sadly, that is exactly the objective of Luciferians, through cunning deception and pure evil they are extremely skilled and adept at inversely twisting everything around.[101] We can clearly see that with the Bush-Clinton-Obama dynasty’s New World Order.

According to Veterans Today editor Gordon Duff, Satanist George HW Bush ordered his National Security Advisor Donald Gregg “to silence those involved,” turning to the usual suspects - assassination squads within the US intelligence community - the CIA and FBI to neutralize all threats to seal the truth in an airtight cover-up under the familiar excuse of “national security.”[102]

So rather than use the Caradori hit as the driving force propelling the probe to dig deeper to uncover the real culprits behind this gargantuan skullduggery that nearly three decades ago would’ve blown this entire lid off the pedophilia scourge, perhaps out of fear the majority within the Nebraska state committee purposely undermined the Franklin inquiry, succumbing to the powerful, corrupt evil cabal successfully obstructing the truth from ever being revealed to the American public. And as a result, how many more millions of innocent kids’ lives have since been ruined and cut short because the Franklin cover-up was allowed to go forward, remaining intact right up to this day. As always, the same old evildoers once again got away with a slew of coldblooded murders sewing up yet another highly effective pedophile cover-up. This worn out scenario always carries the same sad outcome… till now! There is no turning back, no matter how much deception is spun by the fake news liars, we now know what the Luciferian controllers are and have been doing to our children.

In his search to follow the money, Gary Caradori had also learned that King’s Franklin Credit Union was being used by the White House and CIA to launder dirty money during George Bush’s notorious Iran Contra scandal.[103] Photographer Rusty Nelson later gave sworn testimony that he witnessed at a plush Minneapolis hotel Larry King handing off a briefcase full of cash to Monarch mind control programmer and fellow pedophile ringleader - the Luciferian Lt. Colonel Michael A. Aquino.[104] Nelson stated that King admitted that King and Aquino were involved in the Iran Contra affair, the same notorious scandal run by another Bush stooge named Lt. Col. Oliver North. Private investigator Roy Stevens corroborated that “there is reason to believe that the CIA is directly implicated” in the Franklin scandal.[105] From the Bush unauthorized biography:

> King provided the CIA with information garnered from his alleged activities as a "pimp" for the high and mighty.[106]

As addressed in previous chapters, Michael Aquino of course is the same Army military intelligence officer implicated in Johnny Gosh's 1982 Iowa kidnapping disappearance per Paul Bonacci[107] as well as the government's go-to supreme mind control programmer per former sex slave Cathy O'Brien and the central culprit behind the Presidio military daycare's satanic ritual sex abuse scandal (see daycare and mind control chapters 8 and 9). As a typical example of how King fudged his bank books for Reagan and Bush, King hosted a $1 million reception for then Housing and Urban Development Secretary Sam Pierce at the 1984 Republican convention in Dallas. Though the lavish political fundraiser actually cost $300,000, another $700,000 was used as slush money laundered through King's credit union for the CIA's Central American guns-for-cocaine operation.[108]

Author Nick Bryant pointed out in his book just how corrupt the US legal system in this case was:

> With access to thousands of documents that were sealed by two grand juries, as well as the sealed testimony of one, I demonstrated that state and Federal grand jury processes in Nebraska played an integral role in the cover-up.[109]

Just when it appeared dozens of the guilty parties in this lurid sex ring that ran straight to the White House were identified with overwhelming evidence to indict and prosecute the offenders, with lethal vengeance a weaponized wall of violent opposition was unleashed. Loran Schmit was threatened in an anonymous phone call to not proceed with his investigation, told that it involved the nation's top level Republican establishment that won't tolerate any inquiry moving forward.[110] Later Schmit confessed:

I have gotten phone calls threatening me. I've been told to leave it alone or my kids were going to be orphans.[111]

The child victims as key witnesses were also aggressively targeted, intimidated, harassed and threatened with bodily harm by Omaha police, the FBI, the FBI proxy intimidators recruited from the Kansas City mob and various anonymous enemies of the truth.[112] Ultimately ratcheting up pressure to silence all the young witnesses once and for all, several suddenly began showing up dead.[113]

Another major pedophile villain in this tragic story was Omaha Police Chief Robert Wadman and his criminal OPD henchmen who threatened child witnesses outright with lengthy jail time should they persist in exposing their abuse.[114] Years after DeCamp's Franklin Cover-up book came out, in Ogden, Utah the Mormon Wadman had the audacity to sue John DeCamp for libel but lost his case because the known truth was law enforcement comprised both the sexual predators as well as obstructionists of justice in their aggressive crime cover-up.[115] Used to being threatened with lawsuits, DeCamp was definitely not in the least bit intimidated but fully confident that everything he'd written about the case was factual, sharing with a friend his pat response to all previous hot-air threats:

Go ahead and sue me, because if it's in that book, I can prove it! And I long for the day to expose all or any of you in any bigger way than I already have…[116]

It was Wadman as the Omaha police chief who impregnated 14-year old Alisha Owen who bore his child (initially raped at age 12),[117] then subsequently endured four and a half years of wrongful imprisonment suffering a reputation as the community Jezebel for being the sexually abused victim who insisted on telling the truth, never once recanting her remarkable yet totally honest, steadfast claims against Omaha's most powerful pedophiles.[118] Aside from Alisha who also called Wadman a Satanist,[119] three other young people accused Wadman of sexual abuse.[120]

In addition to rungs of law enforcement and mafia thugs heavily stacked against the child victims, the local media viciously launched a potently wicked publicity campaign also attacking the victims, smearing their reputations as unstable, sexually promiscuous, drug addicted, trailer trash delinquents who were never credible witnesses to begin with.[121] Once the adult intimidators harassed, terrified and manipulated the scorned, betrayed young people to begin retracting their earlier allegations, the media had a field day incessantly driving home its fixated bone of contention that none of these kids could be trusted and that the entire affair was their made up hoax and witch hunt against innocent "pillars" of the Omaha community. These same malicious, deceitful weaponized M.O. tactics are repeatedly deployed against child victims in virtually every pedophilia scandal, always to undermine and destroy credibility. Also recall that in the aftermath of all the "satanic panic" sex abuse scandals of the late 1980s came the pedophiles' answer - the False Memory Foundation (covered in an earlier chapter). A bunch of pedophile CIA mind control psychiatrists provided pushback promoting their bogus "false memory syndrome" designed to plant seeds of doubt in the profoundly disturbing accusations leveled against America's powerful pedo-elite.[122]

In 1990 as Gary Caradori taped solid corroborating evidence from witnesses, suddenly "anonymous sources" began leaking to the Lincoln Journal and the Omaha World-Herald how victim witnesses Troy Boner and Danny King had failed their polygraph tests, which was untrue.[123] The FBI was the primary source illegally sabotaging the case against the pedophiles. And as if all these extreme, over-the-top, gross injustices and smear tactics weren’t posing a severe enough threat, fear and warning to the young victims, the two last remaining witnesses who stood their ground refusing to back down from their initial charges, Paul Bonacci and Alisha Owen, were both slapped with false perjury charges, then promptly prosecuted, convicted and imprisoned.[124] It proved highly effective as in the spring of 1990 the two other key witnesses to the case, Danny King and Troy Boner both recanted their earlier testimony,[125] especially when Troy’s younger brother who wound up with a bullet in his head was ruled an “accidental suicide.”[126]

Franklin victims Bonacci, Owen and Boner are shown in interviews throughout the “Conspiracy of Silence” documentary. Sadly the tortured Troy Boner, with his accusations wavering back and forth throughout the film, was thoroughly plagued by malicious persecutors within law enforcement and organized crime. A decade later Troy frantically checked into a New Mexico hospital screaming, “They’re after me, they’re after me because of this book!” referring to DeCamp’s Franklin exposé.[127] That night Troy was sedated but when nurses checked on him early the next morning, they found him sitting lifeless in a chair bleeding from the mouth already dead. Despite being promised the autopsy report, neither former FBI career man turned PI Ted Gunderson nor did anyone else ever receive any public information about this young man’s cause of death. Chalk it up to yet more withheld evidence indicating another Franklin casualty amongst dozens as foul play victims of the killing pedo-elite machine.

The Nebraska grand jury ignored hardcore evidence against the perps, and went after Paul Bonacci and Alisha Owen, indicting them for perjury. Alisha was held in solitary confinement for nearly two years,[128] placed on trial as an adult and falsely convicted of perjury, receiving an unheard of 15-year sentence as the pedophile rape victim who remained resolutely brave and strong enough to never stop telling the truth. Astoundingly as the innocent victim, Alisha’s punishment, a decade and a half prison sentence, equaled that of the Luciferian child sex ring-leading monster himself. Child raping, torturer-murderer Larry King served only 9 years.[129] Enslaved rape survivor Alisha Owen ended up egregiously losing her childhood and her virginity as well as more than four long years of her young life wasting away inside a prison cell in one of the most unjust and shameful travesties of justice ever committed by the US judicial system. The diabolical power players went out of their way to make an example out of her, letting other victims know what will happen if they refuse to bend or break. But Alisha’s integrity and perseverance outlasted the evildoers’ excessive, inhumane persecution. As an exemplary prisoner, she was paroled and freed in 2000, near the same time as King.[130] She and Paul Bonacci along with their lawyer John DeCamp are the courageous heroes in this sordid, heinous, very dark chapter in American history.

Another mini-scandal within the larger Franklin debacle was the secret firing of the University of Nebraska (U of N) President Ronald Roskens.[131] Investigator Caradori learned that he had been terminated in July 1989 because of his pedophilic activities inside his Nebraska state owned residence. Prior to becoming U of N president, pedophile Roskens was president of University of Nebraska at Omaha, where Larry King sat on the advisory board while Roskens had accounts at Franklin. The birds of a feather theme is rampant in pedo scandals. A few months later in early 1990 fellow pedophile Bush quickly offered Roskens a prestigiously powerful new gig as president of the US Agency for International Development (USAID). Like Bush, just a year later Roskens became a 33rd degree mason,[132] and as were a number of the Omaha pedophiles sodomizing children in King’s slave ring, Ronald Roskens was an upstanding member voted the 1980 King of the Ak Sar Ben, the Nebraska masonic organization whose name is derived from spelling the state backwards. Warren Buffet who owns 21 million shares in satanic-pedo-linked Disney Company,[133] is also a longtime Ak Sar Nen member.[134] It all fits with the satanic ritual sex abuse reported by the Franklin victims.

From earlier chapters we’ve learned that USAID often acts abroad as a CIA front,[135] guilty of either funding front companies involved in the child sex trade or directly pimping child orphans to American VIPs and foreign dignitaries throughout State Department embassies as well as funneling child sex slaves into the international trafficking pipeline. What better setup than to have the pedo trafficking CIA prez George Bush rescuing a nearly outed closeted homosexual pedophile from academia at the height of the Nebraska scandal by strategically placing him as head of USAID to help the Bush crime agenda to move drugs, guns, body parts and children around the globe. But at USAID the CIA linked Ronald Roskens couldn’t keep himself out of trouble there either, caught dipping his greedy little dirty fingers into the Enron and other companies’ cookie jar bribes while engaged in official business travel, committing federal conflict of interest violations.[136]

Again like fellow Nebraskan Warren Buffet, Roskens is a New World Order globalist pushing the NWO population control-eugenics agenda, under Bush and Rosken’s watch caught illegally sterilizing 20 million black women in Brazil.[137] What we find time and time again throughout these scandals is the reality that the worldwide sex slave network’s success of never being held accountable for its crimes rests on fellow pedos guarding their global trafficking henhouse. All these interlocking agencies headed by cherry-picked fellow pedo clubbers are prime crime players critical to the day-to-day pedophilic operations, collectively serving as a buffer shielding the sex slave network from potential exposure and accountability. But in Roskens' case, his blatant habit of living above the law kept catching up to him despite the US president bailing him out.

Also in keeping with another longstanding pedo-pattern, there existed multiple warning sign cracks pre-dating the Franklin scandal that something had gone terribly wrong in Omaha's Boys Town. Back in the early 1970's, right after Lawrence King took over at Franklin, Monsignor Robert Hupp reported to his superior at the time, Omaha's archdiocese bishop, that sexual abuse at Boys Town was prevalent, including a priest's actual child murder and cover-up.[138] Recall the sergeant at West Point murdering a boy prior to that daycare scandal and then given a discharge as his get out of jail card. Later to shut Hupp up, he was assigned to head Boys Town himself until 1983. His successor Father Val Peter was at the least complicit in the abuse and seemingly neck deep in the cover-up.

Forced to resign and leave the Boys Town premises, a longtime orphanage patron invited the retired Hupp to move into his cottage in Wisconsin. A reporter for the Omaha World Herald, the same paper that protected the pedo-perps and slandered the innocent victims, volunteered to drive the monsignor to the out-of-state cottage. Upon arrival, the journalist prepared what was to be the last supper for the one Catholic Church official that originally broke the silence on the Boys Town abuse as Hupp allegedly died peacefully in his sleep a few hours later during that first night away from his beloved Boys Town.[139]

All evidence proves unequivocally that Lawrence E. King systematically tortured, raped and drugged kids for years, on his privately leased jet planes regularly making hundreds of trips to the nation's capital and numerous other cities, pimping dozens of enslaved children in tow, each time providing trafficked in sex for high powered pedophile orgies attended by top members of both Republican and Democratic parties alike from the late 1970s throughout the 1980s. Per the Washington Times, Larry King's DC point man and chief pimping partner-in-crime throughout was onetime ABC Vietnam War correspondent turned GOP lobbyist-homosexual pedophile Craig Spence.[140] It was Spence who was caught as the infamous after midnight White House tour guide. Both King and Spence would stop at no expense to lavishly "entertain" the Beltway elite at drug-filled parties hosted at both King and Spence's private luxury DC residences. King rented a $5,000 a month townhouse on Embassy Row. Pulitzer nominated journalist Paul Rodriguez for the Times' call boy investigation was able to locate pedophiles using the services run by King and Spence by tracking down credit card vouchers. Rodriguez discovered a number of notable Beltway VIPs having sex with mostly underage boys:

> Among the client names contained in the vouchers - and identified by prostitutes and escort operators - are government officials, locally based US military officers, businessmen, lawyers, bankers, congressional aides and other professionals…[141]

Unprecedented were Secret Service agents accompanying Washington Metro Police in the raids of male escort offices, and as such, the Secret Service made sure that a box containing the names and phone numbers of the highest level Bush administration officials was withheld from the rest of the collected police evidence in order to protect Bush and his higher-up pedophiles. However, the Times did publicly out two of the 200 prominent DC players amongst the johns using the call boy services. According to journalists-authors Webster Tarpley and Anton Chaitkin’s unauthorized Bush biography:

> The Number Two in charge of personnel affairs at the White House, who was responsible for filling all the top civil service posts in the federal bureaucracy, and Secretary of Labor Elizabeth Dole’s chief of staff, were two individuals publicly identified as patrons of the call boy ring.[142]

Craig Spence lived a lavish lifestyle with running cameras installed in every room of his blackmail mansion. His bread and butter fortune had been built on enticing unwitting others into sexual blackmail and extortion. When pressed about who gave him the White House key, Spence hinted that the tours were authorized by “top level” White House officials, including President Bush’s National Security Advisor Donald Gregg,[143] who Bush had placed in charge of the Franklin cover-up. Though Gregg denied any connection with Spence, he lied. Just a couple months prior to the Washington Times article, Spence had hosted an extravagant dinner affair in honor of Gregg at the ritzy Four Seasons Hotel. Spence’s guest list that night included Attorney General John Mitchell, CIA Director William Casey and ABC News broadcast journalist Ted Koppel.

Just over a month after the Times outed him as the midnight tour guide, Craig Spence’s fate already cast doom. He was arrested in August 1989 on weapon and drugs charges. Spence’s CIA dealings ran deep. While in prison Spence started talking, admitting he’d been working for years in high level espionage and sexual blackmail operations with none other than George Bush’s longtime CIA buddy, the infamous Bay of Pigs veteran Felix Rodriguez.[144] It was agent Rodriguez who is alleged to have accompanied the Bolivian Army in the hunt and murder of Che Guevara.[145]

Needless to say, Spence's dirt on top Washington VIPs could have brought down the entire cabal and that level of liability equates to an automatic death warrant. Spence even boasted that his past sins prior to the Franklin scandal made his DC pedophile operation look like child's play. Predictably for knowing and telling too much, in November that same year Spence was found "suicided" in his hotel room at the Boston Ritz Carlton, laying on his bed still wearing his tuxedo. Days prior to his demise, he told a friend:

I may be disappearing soon. It will be sudden. It may appear to be a suicide, but it won't be.[146]

With the blatant Franklin cover-up's wholesale murder of well over a dozen innocent kids and the guilty's dead men don't tell tales piling up, and the Nebraska state inquest losing whatever legitimacy it had once chief investigator Caradori was out of the way, the Bush pedophile ring indelibly forever linked to his presidency got buried in all the murdered corpses. America's biggest, most shameful pedophilia scandal ever exposed in its history was already history, fast morphing into complete obscurity during the decades that followed. But last year's Pizzagate turned PedoGate changed everything, raising the specter of unresolved injustice begging for renewed scrutiny on this sordid unfinished business that directly connects to today's pedo-epidemic. But this time with the George Bushes and the Clintons' mile high body count,[147] [148] and their Luciferian death and destruction machine in our face, there's no turning back.

Though the most egregious crimes imaginable all went unpunished, in 1998-99 Paul Bonacci was represented in a Lincoln, Nebraska federal courtroom by the tenacious attorney John DeCamp in a civil suit filed against Lawrence King charging him with violating Bonacci's civil rights. Judge Warren Urbom awarded Paul a million dollar settlement in damages[149] based on highly credible, convincing testimonial evidence that included the abducted Iowa paperboy's mother Noreen Gosch's riveting court disclosures.[150] It was vindication for Paul as the truth was finally heard in a federal court of law despite the evildoers' previous victory at totally suppressing all consequences for their horrific crimes.

Judge Urbom rightfully concluded in his decision:

> Between December 1980 and 1988, the complaint alleges, the defendant King continually subjected the plaintiff to repeated sexual assaults, false imprisonments, infliction of extreme emotional distress, organized and directed satanic rituals, forced the plaintiff to 'scavenge' for children to be a part of the defendant King's sexual abuse and pornography ring, forced the plaintiff to engage in numerous sexual contacts with the defendant King and others and participate in deviate sexual games and masochistic orgies with other minor children. The now uncontradicted evidence is that the plaintiff has suffered much. He has suffered burns, broken fingers, beating of the head and face and other indignities by the wrongful actions of the defendant King. In addition to the misery of going through the experiences just related over a period of eight years, the plaintiff has suffered the lingering results to the present time. He is a victim of multiple personality disorder, involving as many as fourteen distinct personalities aside from his primary personality. He has given up a desired military career and received threats on his life. He suffers from sleeplessness, has bad dreams, has difficulty in holding a job, is fearful that others are following him, fears getting killed, has depressing flashbacks, and is verbally violent on occasion, all in connection with the multiple personality disorder and caused by the wrongful activities of the defendant King.[151]

Author of the Franklin Betrayal Nick Bryant has stated:

> Given the unbelievable amount of abuse that Alisha Owen and Paul Bonacci have endured from perpetrators and also law enforcement, I find it truly astounding that they've been able to forge lives for themselves.[152]

Unlike so many other Franklin victims, Alisha and Paul have both managed to forge happily married family lives that include gainful employment.[153] They and other survivors are the true heroes out of this dark, abominable chapter in American history. Now 50 years old with harsh wounds behind him, today Paul is living a quiet life with his wife and children in a state far outside Nebraska. Despite Paul Bonacci never collecting a single dime from Larry King despite King's release from prison not long after the legal judgment was filed, that in itself is appalling considering King has been a free man for many years now.

Upon release from prison, the guilty multiple felon reportedly went right back to work for powerful Republicans that continue protecting him to this day.[154] The now 73-year old pedo-trafficking Kingpin, responsible for the biggest pedophilia scandal in US history, currently resides in the DC suburb of Reston in northern Virginia. For her part in the illegal Franklin operation, King's first wife Alice served time for tax evasion and now resides in Texas along with their son who runs a car dealership. Lawrence E. King has since remarried and been employed at a couple local DC car dealerships, enjoying a comfortable retired life now, incredibly sitting on the board of directors at a nonprofit charity called Opera Nova that brings opera and the arts to local children.[155] It's as if his sordid criminal past never even happened or ever really caught up to him. Recognized as a standup guy in the DC swamp community, King additionally serves as a board member atop a number of other distinguished DC civic and social organizations and foundations. Despite the federal court ruling against him and never serving time for his heinous pedophile crimes, this child raping Luciferian never ever had any of his wages garnished and even worse, has been allowed to work with children all these years. Amazingly enough, to this day this demon continues to be well-protected by the same Bush-Clinton-Obama deep state crime cabal guilty of torturing, drugging, sodomizing, and murdering children en masse around the globe every single day. To ad nauseam, the pedophile elite never fails to protect its own monsters from hell.

The tragic, all too common globalized pattern of the elite preying on our most vulnerable population has a majority of victims residing in orphanages (most often Catholic), group homes, foster care placements, the streets, war zones and refugee camps, exploited by deceitful procurers (frequently deploying already enslaved peers to lure them as in the waiting van from the 1982 Iowa Johnny Gosch case). The pedophile network has become so concentrated that within 48 hours, 2 out of 3 runaway youth in America are approached by child sex traffickers.[156] All over this world it's the parasitic foxes preying on and guarding their child pipeline henhouses, easily gaining access and trust of highly susceptible at-risk victims. As mentioned in previous chapters, there exist numerous so called charity organizations around the globe working closely with children from within CIA front companies, the child "protective" welfare system, international adoption agencies, to global war zones and refugee camps collectively feeding off the innocents. Predatory wolves dressed in sheep's clothing may look like you and me – from UN, USAID, Red Cross, "White Helmet"[157] charity workers to our local schoolteachers, coaches, priests, social workers, scout leaders, babysitters, upstanding "community pillars" by day and Illuminati Luciferian killers by night, as in the Omaha case, a fast-talking “benevolent and beloved” community leader who always enjoyed lending a hand helping [himself to] the local orphans.

Sadly, the Nebraska Franklin scandal is just the tip of the iceberg, momentarily laying bare pedophilia in the highest places. But taking orders from President George H.W. Bush and his shadowy minions, the complicit media, law enforcement, and the courts all quickly fell in line and the Franklin story died. Yet numerous other accounts provide corroborating testimony exposing pedophilia amongst the elite. The Omaha-to-Washington pipeline was/is but one among countless conduits pumping children to the pedophiles in Washington. Stew Webb,[158] a respected Veterans Today colleague of mine while I was a featured VT columnist, has a 32 year history as a federal whistleblower exposing the high crimes of the Bush-Clinton dynasty machine. His digging led to breaking the S&N, HUD and Denver airport scandals and contributed supplemental evidence to the Iran-Contra affair.[159] With his former father-in-law Leonard Millman, a longtime Daddy Bush partner-in-crime and Denver Illuminati kingpin, Stew was able to access the crime filth up close and personal on the globalized cabal. Based on his own firsthand experience, Webb repeatedly calls the Bushes out as practicing pedophile Satanists.

Intel from insider sources informed Stew Webb that as both vice president and then president George HW Bush ran a Congressional pedo-blackmail operation called the “Brownstone Operation and Operation Brownstar.”[160] Just one angle of it is referred to as the Franklin scandal. But again that’s just addressing one pipeline source among many. Bush finagled a taxpayer funded program that brought children in droves for daytime tours to the White House. Orphanages from all over the country, not just Boys Town, would arrange public visits to the White House. So children from group homes across America were regularly funneled into the waiting pedophile hands belonging to scores of sleazy compromised politicians. According to his sources, Stew wrote:

> Daddy Bush, Dick Cheney, John Sununu would be standing in line to greet the children and their caretakers as they came to the Vice President's Home and or the White House for their specially invited tour at US Government expense. Bush, Cheney and Sununu would ask, "What's your name", and later just before dinner time, a call from the White House came into the hotel where the children were staying to the Caretakers inviting Little Billy, Mary, Johnny, Timmy, and Pam to the White House State dinner that evening.[161]

Once permission was attained from the child caregivers, selected kids would be escorted to a waiting limousine, be given a Coke laced with what's called a Voodoo drug, a shrub plant extract from remote areas of South America in powder form called Scopolamine.[162] A person under its influence becomes hyper-obedient and memory of events once its effects wear off tend to be erased. The limo would then transport the kids to various locations where parties were being held. It might be Larry King's house or Craig Spence's home or the openly gay Massachusetts Congressman Barney Frank's Brownstone. As Congress' first openly gay representative, Barney was among influential Democratic regulars partaking full bipartisan advantage of DC's unending flow of underage boys. Frank was ultimately outed living with a house boy who operated a gay prostitution ring right out of their shared residence.[163] Craig Spence once tried in vain to recruit Frank's entrepreneurial "call boy" to his own blackmail operation. The already-in-progress political shindigs would always arrange high class call girls furnished by another likely murdered DC Madame (for also knowing too much) supplying attending partygoers from the House and Senate and foreign dignitaries with Voodoo laced alcoholic beverages to ensure they were sufficiently intoxicated and manageable for what would come next. About that time Bush, Cheney and Sununu would arrive escorting the targeted children. The prostitutes would then leave and the pedo-party would begin. The kid's caregivers would be contacted at their hotels and told that the children had fallen asleep and that they will be staying overnight at the White House and returned before lunchtime the next morning.[164] Thus as drugged captives, the defenseless children were helpless little prey while the cameras were rolling to catch notable politicos also falling easy prey under Bush's Luciferian control.

Apparently the Voodoo drinks weren't foolproof enough as several months later kids back at their orphanages happening to watch the 6 o' clock news recognized President Bush on their television screens and, pointing to their private parts, informed staff that "he put his thing in me."[165] At some point shortly thereafter, People Magazine was contacted and a team of journalists were dispatched to follow up with investigating the orphanages that participated in the federal program, investing a million dollars on this bombshell story that confirmed pedophiles Bush, Cheney and Sununu were responsible for raping and sodomizing them. Stew Webb stated that he spoke to People Magazine journalists who confirmed the story's veracity, but that Bush and company had once again ensured it would never make it to print.[166] Media blackouts suppressing and censoring the truth are always standard fare as MSM upper management acts as complicit whores in virtually all pedophilia cover-ups.

As is typical of pedophilia sex rings, the Brownstone aka Franklin operation served the dual function of both catering to the perverse debauchery of sick Luciferian pedophiles at the top of the predatory food chain as well as serving as a convenient means of attaining blackmail control over powerful puppets at top levels of the government, the military, law enforcement, the judicial system, Wall Street, mainstream media and entertainment. From the 1950s right up to the 1980s in cahoots with gay pedophile FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover's COINTELPRO, Donald Trump's ruthless mentor - the gay powerhouse attorney Roy Cohn - also led an East Coast pedo-ring blackmail operation.[167] CIA agent Edwin Wilson began partnering with Cohn on these child homosexual pedophile blackmail rings as early as the 1950s, expanding their turf operation to DC in the 1970s.

Former CIA agent Frank Terpil confirmed Wilson's agency role in domestic child sex rings:

> Historically, one of Wilson's Agency jobs was to subvert members of both houses [of Congress] by any means necessary... Certain people could be easily coerced by living out their sexual fantasies in the flesh... A remembrance of these occasions [was] permanently recorded via selected cameras.... The technicians in charge of filming… [were] TSD [Technical Services Division of the CIA]... The unwitting porno stars advanced in their political careers, some of [whom] may still be in office.[168]

So using children as pedo-bait for blackmail operations has been around at least since the early 1950s and no doubt earlier. These various sex rings are not unlike the more recent Jeffrey Epstein-Ghislaine Maxwell Sex Slave Island operation of the 1990s up till Epstein's 2005 arrest (covered in next chapter). From Paperclip to MK Ultra mind control, the US government CIA-FBI pedophilia trafficking network has been an established fact for a very long time in the United States, Europe and many parts of the world. And again, going public with how the CIA has been misusing children as pedo-bait is most likely what got John DeCamp's close friend former CIA Director William Colby bumped off.

Credited founder of the Illuminati - Adam Weishaupt - with full Rothschild backing in 1776, touted sexual blackmail and covert infiltration as secret weaponized cornerstones of Illuminati's future success and demonic rise to world power.[169] And with an estimated one third of those in the US government today guilty of engaging in pedophilia as sexual blackmail,[170] the global child sex trade/trafficking network has only exponentially skyrocketed during this century. Government scientist insider Dr. Pete Peterson claims that 86% of US Congress are members of the North American Man-Boy Love Association (NAMBLA).[171] If true, then obviously way more than half our nation's so called top leaders are cabal-controlled pedophiles.

Keep in mind that led by this same Bush-Clinton family dynasty, none of these past scandalous events and developments are ever truly isolated, random or independent of each other but solely the causal, common-threaded consequence of an ongoing diabolical, centralized mechanism exercising increasing tyrannical power and absolute Luciferian control over this planet. Massive abuse and sacrifice of our innocents are simply their means to an end. But as their Achilles heel, we now have the opportunity to make it the means to their end as sexual predators increasingly face the wrath that comes from their ugly truth being exposed like never before, followed immediately by their karmic payback as ultimate belated justice delivered.

Vox News succinctly summarizes Bush 41's child slavery operation and his less than perfect cover-up this way:

It is a fact that during the 1980s, child sexual services were provided by top Republican officials to key bureaucrats and diplomats but most importantly, there is a chilling proximity of all of these events and personalities, to the President of the United States at the time, George H.W. Bush. And there have been victims who claim that the President himself engaged in the activities. It is a tale of child sex, murder, espionage, blackmail, and huge payoffs. And all the players are involved. From the White House to the CIA to the media barons to the Republican elite - right down to the orphanages where they procured their victims.[172]

Right where senior Bush left off, the global operation was seamlessly handed over to the Bill and Hillary White House and their raping and plundering first in the 1990s Balkans, more recently in the Caribbean on Epstein's St. James Island and then in earthquake-Clinton ravaged Haiti. Obviously the child sex slave pipeline has only flourished as each pedophile president took figurehead turns as Pedo-Empire CEO, Inc. The global child trafficking network never for a single day ceased operating all these years from one decade and president to the next but only expanded to every corner of the globe, with more child abductions yearly, more wars, more victims, more trafficking venues and more perversions at the top of the predator food chain.

Next stop on board Satan's Lolita Express is Sex Slave Island from the 1990s to 2005 pedo-slave master Jeffrey Epstein and his Mossad-CIA version of sexual blackmail operation trapping big names that might soon fall… if any of the Trump hype on his deep state countercoup is at all true.

Pedophilia & Empire: Satan, Sodomy, & The Deep State

Chapter 14: The Jeffrey Epstein Scandal - Anatomy of the Zionist-Illuminati Sexual Blackmail System

Chapter 14: The Jeffrey Epstein Scandal: Anatomy of the Zionist-Illuminati Sexual Blackmail System

Whereas the painful lesson from the Franklin scandal graphically demonstrates how pedophiles at the top can bury their most heinous crimes from any real consequence, the Jeffrey Epstein story reveals how agents from a foreign government can hijack and control the US government. What will be presented here is the anatomy of a sexual blackmail operation orchestrated by Israel's Mossad as a means of gaining and maintaining control over America's foreign policy and top leaders so that the US Empire ultimately fights Israel's wars for the Greater Israel Project.[1] Through AIPAC bribery and Mossad blackmail, virtually every US politician in Congress including the president is and has been a puppet of the Zionist Jewish State.[2] The evil international cabal made up of Zionists and various Illuminati elements including the Vatican, all worship the same anti-God Lucifer, and have been misusing and abusing our children as blackmail bait for centuries. Again, back in the 18th century, the credited founder of the Illuminati Adam Weishaupt knew that infiltrating high places and sexually compromising VIP puppets through blackmail would be a central strategy in expanding its power and control over the devil's earthly dominion.[3] And based on today's power politics, Weishaupt more than attained his prophetic vision.

This chapter will focus on how Israel invested in a complete unknown, a Jewish American college dropout, overnight granting him the title of hedge fund mystery man as promoted in the Zionist controlled New York Magazine,[4] owning multiple mansions for the covertly licensed purpose of pursuing both his own kinky perversions raping young underage girls while enticing notable puppet figures to indulge in their pedophilic fantasies as thoroughly compromised and subsequently owned tools for Israel and the Zionist Khazarian mafia.[5] The Rothschild's central bankster system funding this Illuminati mafia scheme wouldn't have it any other way.[6]

This perfectly explains why Jeffrey Epstein was given a sweetheart's slap on the hand after getting caught red-handed raping scores of female victims as young as 12 and 13 over a period of many years. It also goes far in explaining why the current White House occupant is a Zionist puppet wrecking ball himself,[7] currently being used to plunge humanity off the Armageddon doomsday cliff moving the Jewish State capital to Jerusalem.[8] So sit back and take in this adulterated story of the cabal's political blackmail machine and how one Jeffrey Epstein and his child sex slave trafficking ring has played such a significant role in the ruling elite's global control apparatchik, unfortunately changing human history none for the better.

The early family background on Jeffrey Epstein is rather sparse. Born near Brooklyn's Coney Island in 1953 to a middle class Jewish American family with a father who worked for the city's parks department, Epstein and his younger brother Mark were indoctrinated that "their way out" of their "lowly" middle class Jewish working class affluence and relative obscurity was through education.[9] So what does the young Jeffrey do? He becomes a college dropout - twice, never finishing at either Cooper Union or NYU's Courant Institute of Mathematical Sciences. Yet without so much as a college degree, from age 20-22 Epstein somehow procured a job as a 7th grade math and physics teacher at the posh private elitist Dalton School in Manhattan. From the get-go, such early rapid upward mobility without a degree to transcend his humble Brooklyn roots strongly suggests an elitist “who-you-know” operation.

According to his propaganda fluff pieces as Wall Street’s “billionaire mystery man” propped up by both Vanity Fair[10] and New York Magazine shortly before his pedophilia arrest, the legendary urbane genius is said to have bedazzled one of the Wall Street parents at Dalton to refer him to a well-connected friend Ace Greenberg, CEO of the high-end Manhattan investment company Bear Stearns.[11] So the 23-year old Brooklyn whiz kid suddenly rose from preppie schoolteacher-college dropout to a top firm hedge fund investment broker and by age 27 was promoted to partnership at Bear Stearns. His legendary status as magic money man aka tax evasion expert had him a mere year later boldly quitting to start up his own J. Epstein Trust Company in 1981. At about that time it’s been reported that Epstein was recruited and given an estimated $1 billion advance to form his shell company by clothing retail magnate (L Limited and Victoria’s Secret) Leslie Wexner working directly with the Mossad’s so called Clothing Retail Network to set up a sexual blackmail operation.[12]

Over the next few years, Epstein’s image would be crafted as the maverick Manhattan mystery man, the King Tut of financial strut, still in his 20s braggadocio proclaiming it beneath him to accept clients who weren’t billionaires. This carefully fabricated hype surrounding this secretive billionaire charmer had him allegedly making billions for the rich and famous through his purported genius with numbers. Yet his success was never linked to more than one known customer. Turns out all the hype was nothing more than “a carefully crafted hoax” (ironically the exact same words used to obscure and bury the very real Franklin scandal). In actuality, back in the early 1980s Jeffrey Epstein met his only known client - sugar daddy Leslie Wexner and the rest is history. As Gawker boldly pointed out a decade ago:

Epstein's wealth is built on a "bizarre relationship" with single acknowledged client, Abercrombie & Fitch creator Leslie Wexner, one of America's most successful retailers.[13]

Persistent rumors swirled around Epstein’s meteoric rise from out of nowhere stemming from a protracted secret tryst as Mr. Leslie’s young bootlicking lover.[14] And before long, Wexner was converting an unoccupied private school in Manhattan into the largest private residence in all of New York City and then virtually gifting it to the young Brooklyn upstart for giving Les such good bootlicks. And it was only after the grooming Wexner had already created his protégé Epstein as the “mysterious,” high flying, overnight billionaire financial advisor and close friend to Bill Clinton and Ghislaine Maxwell, socialite daughter of media mogul-Mossad-MI6 double agent Robert Maxwell, did Les Wexner finally settle down and marry a woman at the ripe old age of 56.[15]

Wexner’s ties to Israel and Mossad became more than apparent when a document entitled “Wexner Analysis: Israeli Communication Priorities 2003” was uncovered, outlining a PR campaign promoting the Iraq war invasion demonizing Saddam Hussein - dead or alive - as the false link to terrorism with emphasis that Israeli foreign policy interests are identical to US foreign policy interests.[16] The report serves as confirmation that Wexner and his charity organization called the Mega Group provided the cover as a Zionist Mossad front actively influencing and dictating US war policy in the Middle East. Wexner’s Mega Group consists of about 20 fellow Jewish American financial titans who use their Zionist power to manipulate and control Washington into fighting illegal wars for Israel against the Islam religion and people in Iraq, Afghanistan, Syria, Libya, Yemen, and eventually Iran, using their US-Israeli creation of al Qaeda/ISIS terrorists as proxy war allies to justify their prefabricated US “endless war on terror.”[17] Wexner and company worked hand in hand with the neocons and Israeli first dual citizens behind the Project for a New American Century calling for their “new Pearl Harbor” 9/11 to justify US-Israeli global hegemony.

And in May 2008 George W. Bush rewarded Zionist Wexner by inviting him as an official member of his honorary delegation accompanying the US president in a state visit to Israel to celebrate its 60th anniversary.[18] For years prior Wexner had been providing Epstein with the Mossad link that included introducing Ghislaine Maxwell as his sometime girlfriend and blackmail operation pimp while the hedge fund magician ostensibly “moves Wexner’s billions around the globe.”[19] As chief Mossad blackmailer, it wasn’t long before Epstein found his way to invited memberships in such exclusive elitist private clubs as the powerful Trilateral Commission and Council on Foreign Relations.[20] Thus, in large part through the Zionist Mossad-Epstein sex ring operation, blackmail control over US politicians and US Empire foreign policy was ensured for their “endless war on terror” on the multiple warfronts to come.

Another puff piece from the London Sunday Times quoted a New York social observer trying to wittily describe the “complicated” Jeffrey Epstein:

He’s Mr. Enigmatic. Nobody knows whether he’s a concert pianist, property developer, a CIA agent, a math teacher or a member of Mossad.[21]

Obviously all smoke and mirrors, except his literal, right-on-the-money CIA-Mossad connection. Additionally, veteran former CIA case officer and US Marine Corps intelligence officer Robert David Steele has gone public emphatically maintaining Epstein was/is a Mossad operative set up as a “made” financier to work on behalf of Israel in a global blackmail operation.[22] Seemingly overnight Jeffrey Epstein possessed massive amounts of real estate properties that included the largest residence in America’s largest city as well as a shoreline estate in Palm Beach, Florida a mile from Trump’s Mar-a-Lago, his notorious 70-acre “Virgin” Island getaway compound, a sprawling 7,500 acre New Mexico ranch and a Paris apartment.[23]

By far the two biggest targets in the scandalous Jeffrey Epstein blackmail operation were former President Bill Clinton and his presidential wannabe wife Hillary who, according to flightlog records, flew on Epstein’s private Boeing 727 - the “Lolita Express,” Bill on 26 confirmed flights[24] and Hillary at least a half dozen times.[25] Also the fifth in line to the British throne - Prince Andrew - was yet another high flying frequent Lolita flyer.[26]

Three years ago Gawker obtained flightlogs dating back to the late 1990s through the mid-2000s,[27] placing Bill Clinton repeatedly after ditching secret service on board Epstein’s jets, always flying with a bunch of underage girls listed in Epstein’s infamous black book under “massage.” The Clintons both separately and together flew on Epstein’s planes with several girls determined to be as young as 12 providing sexual favors for the financier’s most powerful and influential friends.[28] Among the more notable Clinton trips around the globe with Epstein, in 2002 the former president traveled with an entourage for an entire week to Africa on a so called anti-poverty/anti-AIDS mission, also accompanied by the recently disgraced pedophilic predator actor Kevin Spacey.[29] Among the women on board for that African tour were key Epstein employees serving as handlers of his sex slave victims - Ghislaine Maxwell and Sarah Kellen, along with soft porn actress-masseuse Chauntee Davies.

Because of this additional incriminating evidence indicating that yet another American president has turned out to be another private pedophile club member, in conjunction with an already long trail of mysterious deaths surrounding scores of suspicious “suicides” and murdered associates connected to the endless Clinton scandals,[30] in vain the Bush-Clinton-Obama Deep State has gone to desperate, flimsily executed lengths to conceal and ignore both this political dynasty and power couple’s massive criminal history.[31] Yet to this very day there exists volumes of documented proof high up in both the Justice Department and FBI obstructing justice at every turn by dismissing and destroying the overwhelming evidence to persistently let these guiltiest of treasonous offenders off the hook,[32] only administering a token punishment to their fall guy buddy Epstein. After his 2006 arrest and 2008 conviction, the so called billionaire financier as the child molesting ringleader of a major sex trafficking ring set up as a Mossad blackmail operation was granted the sweetheart deal of a lifetime. To this day high stakes cabal money and power have bought Epstein and his slew of accomplices complete impunity from any real justice ever being served.

Despite Jeffrey Epstein’s 2008 conviction on just two felony counts soliciting for prostitution of an underage victim and despite avoiding prosecution for committing hundreds of felonious crimes that would land anyone else in federal prison for twenty to life, Epstein was allowed to freely leave jail for 16 hours a day six days a week and only return for overnight sleepovers at his plush private Palm Beach County jailhouse wing for a mere thirteen months of an eighteen month sentence.[33] To avert prosecution and serving hard time in either state or federal prison for his conviction, the plea deal ensured that Epstein’s sleepovers at his cushy local jailhouse - unheard of throughout the annals of law history - would provide minimal discomfort and disruption for the pampered, silver-haired pedo fox. Testimony of up to thirty-five of his hundreds of underage victims willing to provide eyewitness testimony against Epstein and his powerful pedophile pals were all conspicuously denied their day in court – by Luciferian design.

The ruling criminal elite behind the US government instead made certain that all the child rapists and pimps got off Scot-free. And ever since 2008, per his plea bargain agreement, Epstein has always escaped both prosecution and any real punishment by being allowed to simply pay hush money to at least thirty more of his victims as his army of well-paid attorneys right up to this very day are still busily negotiating lawsuit settlement after settlement, handing out millions to his rape victims in some cases dating back a quarter century after the crime fact. This blanket-wide, most reprehensible policy of completely shielding both the pedophile and all his pedophile customers from all prosecution has successfully protected worldwide clandestine Mossad-CIA pedo blackmail operations globally and, as a result, allowed them to flourish to this day.

Though through the Mossad and CIA the pedophile elite used Epstein as their point man as far back as the 1980s, it wasn't until a Florida stepmother contacted Palm Beach Police in 2005 reporting that her 14-year old daughter had been forced to have sex with the 52-year old financier before sparking a yearlong investigation culminating in his 2006 indictment.[34] Under the auspices of providing massages, Epstein was paying teenage procurers to drive underage girls to his Palm Beach mansion where he ordered them to strip down to their panties while giving him his three daily massages. The majority of girls reported that while they massaged him, he would regularly masturbate, and some maintain he penetrated them with his penis, fingers and/or vibrator. In spite of the devious Epstein prior to even being investigated making frequent $100,000 donations to the Palm Beach Police Department as attempted bribery insurance,[35] once the yearlong police investigation turned over its incriminating evidence, the state attorney’s office was caught stonewalling the case. As early as 2006, the Palm Beach police chief accused the state’s attorney’s office of preferential treatment when seeking lesser charges and dragging its heels to arrest Epstein. That’s because from the outset it was all too obvious that the hidden Illuminati-Zionist hand was busily at work dictating from behind the scenes what would unfold at every twisted, sinister turn.

In late December 2014 then 31 years old underage victim Virginia Roberts-Giuffre filed a lawsuit against not only Epstein but also accused Epstein’s lead attorney, close friend and frequent Lolita Express flier Alan Dershowitz of having sex with her a half dozen times in various settings,[36] on board the 727 as well as on sex slave island among the sex offender’s other stateside owned estates.[37] All Dershowitz would admit was once vacationing with his wife at Epstein’s Florida mansion. But the fact that Dershowitz’s name appeared numerous times on the infamous flightlogs to the Virgin Island mansion[38] had the notorious powerhouse attorney who’s turning 80 this year scrambling to defend both his reputation and legacy. Despite Giuffre’s attorneys dropping a defamation suit against Dershowitz in 2016, his sex crime accuser and her lawyers steadfastly dispute Dershowitz’s feeble denials, and a heavy dark cloud of controversial doubt still hangs over the aging lawyer so famous for his aggressive courtroom tactics.[39]

And strangely enough, the diehard liberal Dershowitz who’s always been such a loyal Hillary-Obama supporter has suddenly switched gears and been fiercely defending Trump during Deep State’s “fake Russian collusion” inquisition to overthrow the sitting president.[40] Why? Because Trump certainly has the dirty goods on Dershowitz who wants to avoid going down in Trump’s alleged pending major pedo roundup. But more on that later.

Virginia Roberts-Giuffre filed charges, bravely going public with her detailed account of how in 1999 Ghislaine Maxwell recruited her as a 15-year old Trump Mar-a-Lago employee, over the next three years pressuring her into a life of sexual bondage as one of Epstein's sex slaves, forced to not only have sex with Epstein but his high roller friends like Alan Dershowitz as well as British royal Prince Andrew.[41] Virginia Giuffre stated in her court papers that she had sex with Andrew three times in New York, London and on Epstein's Caribbean Island. In 2015 fear of reprisal from the billionaire and his crime cabal friends had her fearing for her life.[42] According to Virginia's aunt, just prior to the court allegations in Florida, Virginia fled to hide out in Colorado. Giuffre is reportedly happily married to an Australian man with three children now.

Roberts-Giuffre's court filing specified that Jeffrey Epstein made sure his underage sex slaves provided detailed descriptions of all their sexual encounters with the world's most famous and powerful politicians, businessmen, foreign dignitaries and world leaders in order to potentially blackmail them.[43] This of course along with collected hardcore evidence from the hidden cameras has long been the Modus Operandi deployed by the planetary controllers to buy insurance for longevity in getting away with their most despicable, vile crimes on earth while totally controlling their puppet slave class that remains forever under their dictating thumb.

Prior to Epstein, among other US slave masters deploying this same shady, despicable, Luciferian game misusing children as pedo bait to entrap and compromise duped puppets were none other than the half century G-man pedophile transvestite himself - J. Edgar Hoover and Trump's mentor ruthless attorney Roy Cohn… two early diabolically intertwined kingpins, each running their sexual blackmail schemes with Israeli links.[44] [45] Of course for decades the Cohn and Hoover perversions were kept under thinly veiled wraps.[46] Hoover himself was controlled by the mob that made sure to keep tabs on the FBI director's kinky little, not-so-secret habits. Hence, Hoover in turn protected the mafia by pretending and denying that it ever existed. And America's cesspool that's been growing for a very long time has morphed into today's Deep State swamp.

Right after Politico published its 2014 New Year's Eve bombshell making Virginia Roberts-Giuffre's Florida lawsuit public,[47] from the World Economic Forum in Davos, Switzerland, Prince Andrew vehemently denied having sex with underage girls. Flanked by the President of the Royal Academy of Engineering Professor Dame Ann Dowling, the Earl of York was loyally defended, called a "true beacon as an ambassador for UK trade and enterprise."[48] Because a photo in 2010 had surfaced of Andrew accompanying the registered sex offender soon after Epstein's release from his Palm Beach jail cell, the prince's association with the convicted pedophile embarrassed the royal family enough to force Andrew to step down from his official role as ambassador for UK trade and publicly cut the child sex trafficker off. But the prince's close ties with his pimping procurer and pedophile herself Ghislaine were never severed and they remain the best of friends.[49] No charges have ever been brought against her or any British royals because their pedophilic ways have always allowed them to live comfortably above the law.[50]

Whenever public figures are caught in scandals, their mantra is always to simply deny, deny, and more deny, ensuring they bring out all their heavy guns vilifying the accusers while accolades of greatness get showered on the "unfairly maligned" accused. Similar to the Vatican, for decades the royals of the British Commonwealth and European aristocracy have busily fought and suppressed exposure of their connection to global child sex slavery trafficking.[51] Case in point - as far back as 1964 10 Native American children attending an abusive Catholic school in British Columbia disappeared, last seen in the charge of Queen Elizabeth and husband Prince Philip that they have yet to answer for.[52] Just prior to their murderous hit on Diana,[53] it's been speculated that Princess Di was planning to expose the British royal family for being the Satan worshipping pedophiles they are.[54] So it's no surprise that the queen's second, less ugly looking son would remain immune from all consequence.

Returning to the "good" Harvard law professor, when Dershowitz' name surfaced as a frequent flyer on the Lolita Express, in an immediate interview with American Lawyer he insisted he's always been a faithful husband of 28 years to his wife who he claimed always traveled with him.[55] Yet while flying with Epstein, the flightlog records clearly show his wife not once ever accompanied him. Another blatant discrepancy was his statement that Epstein was a mere "professional" acquaintance, nothing close to being a personal friend. Because the philanthropic Epstein was a financial donor to Harvard, and since Clinton's former Treasury Secretary, yet another Lolita flyer Larry Summers,[56] was such a close personal friend of Epstein's, while Summers was Harvard president, Dersh claims his only "job related" association with Epstein was raising money for his and his boss' venerable Ivy League institution… such a blatant pack of CYA damage control lies!

Records totally contradict this bogus contention indicating that Dershowitz knew and flew with the billionaire pedophile on numerous occasions as early as 1997. The fast talking lawyer when interviewed by Gawker explained that he suddenly recalled in 1997 flying to Epstein's friend's birthday party also attended by (Mossad linked) former Israeli Prime Minister Shimon Peres and ex-astronaut-Senator John Glenn. Such sharp selective recall proves he didn't teach at Harvard all those years for nothing. Yet the Dersh unequivocally lied again denying he ever had sex with any young woman. Sounds vaguely familiar to yet another infamous frequent Epstein flyer named Bill.

Regarding that brief, "strictly professional" acquaintanceship between Epstein and Dershowitz, during Epstein's "pre-pedophile" arrest days back in 2003, attorney-author Dershowitz in a Vanity Affair interview unabashedly boasted:

I'm on my 20th book… The only person outside my immediate family that I send drafts to is Jeffrey.[57]

That first name basis sounds not nearly so professional as personal and chummy. Yet when Gawker confronted him on this apparent discrepancy, Dershowitz backslid, admitting:

Epstein was a friend with whom I talked about ideas. We never discussed women or his social life.[58]

Yet they flew together a bunch of times surrounded by scantily clad little girl sex slaves on board while en route to Orgy Island. But like "honest" Bill, Dershowitz "never did have sex" with any of those girls, say Jeffrey's favorite pedo-pals.

Despite such strong evidence that he too participated in Epstein sex crimes, Alan Dershowitz was allowed to lead the best legal dream team Mossad blackmail money could buy. Despite all the proven facts surrounding this case, the Dershowitz dream team successfully "convinced" the US Attorney for the Southern District of Florida to neither charge Epstein nor any of his pimp co-conspirators with sex trafficking underage girls across state lines, and of course nor dare prosecute any of the other frequent flying VIP child molesters.[59] Through the notorious non-prosecution deal, Dershowitz, Prince Andrew, the Clintons and the rest of the famous pedophiles in effect were all guaranteed legal immunity. Though Dershowitz' name was conspicuously absent from all sweetheart deal documents protecting all above-the-law perps, the civil case that victim Virginia Roberts-Giuffre filed did accuse Dersh-bagging his own immunity, a blatant conflict of interest violation.

In revenge against Roberts-Giuffre's accusations, Dershowitz promptly countersued vowing to have her attorneys disbarred. Amidst all the controversy, in defense of Mr. Pro-Israel, a Times of Israel gala in NYC including Shimon Peres rewarded Alan Dershowitz with the "Defender of Israel" award.[60] You can see how the Zionist-Mossad wagons were circling to desperately defend their own… criminal operation. But Virginia Roberts' attorneys Brad Edwards and Paul Cassell beat Dershowitz to the punch, firing off a defamation suit of their own.[61] In the end, both sides agreed to drop their litigation against each other in April 2016.[62]

However a short time later, Giuffre and her legal team were at it again, filing another lawsuit this time against only Ghislaine Maxwell for defamation of character against Virginia for Maxwell publicly calling Giuffre "a liar" after outing Maxwell's criminal involvement in the Mossad blackmail operation.[63] As Epstein's longtime girlfriend and closest partner-in-crime, Maxwell recruited Giuffre at age 15 as a Trump Mar-a-Lago $9 an hour towel girl. For the first time, the judge in the case even ruled that Epstein would be required to take the witness stand, testify and answer questions under oath from his victims' attorneys.[64] Though the Virginia Roberts-Giuffre case against Ghislaine was set to go to trial in May 2017, as so often occurs at the last minute, an undisclosed, out of court settlement was reached, [65] confirming more Mossad-Epstein-Maxwell-Deep State hush money effectively silenced the now somewhat wealthy Virginia Giuffre. Of course after all her years of trauma and stress trying to seek justice in a broken, unjust system, no amount of money can compensate for what she has endured. And so on and on this corrosively corrupt legal game goes, the pedo-perps continue dodging every bullet, never paying for their crimes but only for their continued freedom at only a drop-in-the-bucket price to them and their unlimited coffers.

Ghislaine Maxwell, Sarah Kellen, Lesley Groff, and Natalya Malyshev are among the handful of women that the jet setting financier employed from 1997 to 2006, working to recruit underage girls as the victims' pimping handlers. Maxwell and Kellen were also accused of having sexually abused their sex slaves but the infamous federal plea bargain granted them full immunity from all charges. Additionally, Maxwell allegedly forced victims to engage in lesbian acts with her as well as stored child pornography photos of her victims on her computer.[66] Yet apparently due to the Maxwell family name and its deep Mossad connection, she was given a free pass and to this day remains a free woman never held accountable for her major criminal role in the Mossad blackmail operation.

Taking a closer look at that family name and Ghislaine's father in particular, considerable circumstantial evidence suggests the heavily indebted billion dollar pension swindler faked his own death and fled to unknown parts somewhere in South America.[67] To avert complications resulting from an autopsy showing a murdered victim in November 1991, most likely Maxwell's paid double found floating in the Canary Island water without saltwater in his lungs (ruling out drowning as cause of death), the irascible clever crook could have arranged through his high-end ties with Israel a quick Jewish Mount Olive burial. Daddy Maxwell also mentioned on more than one occasion just prior to his alleged death how he was planning to pull a disappearing act in order to escape the fraud charges and debtor's prison fast closing in on him. With his stolen fortune and new identity, ample speculation portends that double agent Maxwell smart may have helped fund his daughter and Epstein's perverted criminal Mossad operation.[68] His larger-than-life Jewish State funeral reflected his Zionist importance.

Another Epstein victim turned employed victimizer and criminal accomplice is Nadia Marcinkova, who at one time worked as the sex trafficker's Gulfstream G-H pilot. Epstein refers to Nadia as his own "Yugoslavian sex slave" [69] after having literally purchased her at age 14 from her parents in the Balkans.[70] Pedo-boy also hired Nadia as his sometime plaything used for lesbian dildo strap-on entertainment while Nadia raped underage girls, per one graphic legal affidavit, all for masturbating boss' perverse pleasures.[71] It turns out that Nadia and the Hebrew speaking, alleged 9/11 lead terrorist Mohammad Atta were both trained to fly airplanes at the same time and place - Lantana Airport near Palm Beach, reportedly used for CIA and Mossad operations including drug smuggling from the nearby Bahamas and Caribbean into Florida.[72] Like all of Epstein's hired hands, Nadia was never ever questioned by the police, receiving full immunity with Epstein's plea bargain. Going by her other surname Marcinko and holding FAA licenses, Nadia has since reinvented herself as a clean-cut, wholesome internet aviatrix active on YouTube and Facebook as a flight instructor pilot with quite a celebrity following.[73] She's still flying free as a bird because she knows too much as both victim and perp about the Mossad blackmail game.

Another major scumbag in the Epstein child sex trafficking ring is one Jean-Luc Brunel, the model agency owner of MC2. According to a former bookkeeper at Brunel's agency, young underage girls from South America, Europe and the former Soviet republics were personally delivered to Epstein as MC2 models via Brunel who was a frequent guest at Epstein residences.[74] Per the flightlog manifests, Brunel and his underage girls, many of whom did not speak English, often traveled on Epstein's planes. The MC2 bookkeeper confirmed that in 2005 Brunel and his model agency received a million dollars from Epstein. Though holding an 85% share of the agency, Brunel works mostly in the capacity as a model scout for MC2 around the world. Jean-Luc Brunel has a longtime criminal reputation in the fashion industry for drugging and raping underage girls as featured in a 60 Minutes segment from 1988.[75] Even then he was known to be a procurer of underage girls for the right price. Despite all his known predatory crimes, Epstein's longtime French friend has never been arrested nor been subpoenaed to testify in the Epstein case. His "charmed" life flagrantly living above the law also strongly suggests pedophile protection from the planetary controllers.

The lawsuits against Epstein just keep coming. Three of his sex trafficking rape victims known in their recent litigation against the registered sex offender as L.M., E.W. and Jane Doe, just last October 2017 were awarded a settlement of $1 million, $2 million and $2.5 million respectively.[76] But for a whole decade two other plaintiffs represented by the same attorney Brad Edwards, have also been trying to challenge Epstein's impunity in a lawsuit charging the federal prosecutors led by Trump's current Secretary of Labor Alexander Acosta for violating the Trafficking Victims Protection Act.[77] It was Acosta in 2007 who allowed the plea bargain agreement for the human trafficking kingpin without informing the plaintiff victims. Their civil rights were violated when prosecutors chose not to try Epstein nor his accomplices for human trafficking and committing hundreds of despicably heinous sex crimes.

Former Epstein chief prosecutor and current US Secretary of Labor Alexander Acosta as the southern Florida district US attorney from 2005 to 2009 oversaw making that sickening sweetheart deal for convicted pedophile Epstein.[78]

Subsequently when the then two underage minors learned of Epstein’s virtual non-sentence nearly a year later, they took Epstein and his prosecutors to federal court charging that their rights had been violated under the 2004 Crime Victims’ Rights Act that requires prosecutors to inform victims of any plea bargained arrangement prior to conviction and sentencing.[79] Obviously had they been lawfully looped in, they never would’ve agreed to Epstein’s cushy deal. Uncovering letters between Acosta’s US Attorney’s office and Epstein’s legal defense team, the victims’ lawyers accurately contend that a conspiracy to conceal vital information not to prosecute took place between the government and Epstein attorneys.

After signing off on such a sweet arrangement for a sex slave trafficker and child rapist hundreds of times over, then reacting to the flak once word of the ridiculous deal publicly caught traction, attorney Alexander Acosta defensively wrote in a 2011 letter:

Our judgment in this case, based on the evidence known at the time, was that it was better to have a billionaire serve time in jail, register as a sex offender and pay his victims restitution than risk a trial with a reduced likelihood of success.[80]

Acosta’s bogus rationale claiming the risk that Epstein might walk if brought to trial is at best a feeble attempt to justify his accomplice role while willfully subverting justice to let Epstein do exactly what Acosta claims he was most afraid of - letting the pedophile trafficker walk. The wimpy Alexander described the many months of negotiations prior to the September 2007 non-prosecution agreement as:

A yearlong assault on the prosecution and the prosecutors. I use the word assault intentionally, as the defense in this case was more aggressive than any which I, or the prosecutors in my office, had previously encountered.[81]

The pit-bullish Dershowitz gang included Kenneth Starr, chief investigator from the Clinton-Lewinsky soap opera who when self-advantageous never fails to evoke the religious high moral ground yet in the next breath claims he's more than happy to have gotten a pedophile-trafficker off.[82] [83] Other hotshot aces in the hole were Florida trial lawyer Roy Black and star attorney Gerald Lefcourt among others.[84] Dershowitz and Lefcourt's letter to Acosta's office prior to their successful plea bargain emphasized Epstein's super close ties to Bill and Hillary Clinton, touting how the billionaire pedophile "co-founded" the infamous Clinton Foundation,[85] accused by philanthropy law expert Charles Ortel of being "the largest unprosecuted fraud in history."[86] Speaking of which, a whistleblower at a Swiss bank has revealed that Jeffrey Epstein used his Swiss bank account to send Bill Clinton $3.5 million shortly after his pedophilia probe began in 2005.[87]

When presidents are outed in any blackmail pedophile operation as Clinton's predecessor Bush senior was in the Franklin scandal a decade and a half earlier, powerful pedophiles always get away with raping their child sex slave victims. Not once have they been properly charged or prosecuted. And for his part as a good little lawbreaking Deep State robot, less than a decade later Alexander Acosta would be rewarded with an invitation to join the Trump administration cabinet as America's labor secretary. It appears obvious that Acosta was ordered by the powers-that-shouldn't-be to accept the plea bargain deal authored by Epstein's infamous lead lawyer Dershowitz.[88]

Aside from dictating the detailed terms of this plea bargain agreement in this complete mockery of justice, the billionaire defense team also explicitly instructed Acosta to break the law by not notifying the victimized plaintiffs about their dirty little secret deal. So a compromised Acosta knowingly violated existing laws as it was almost a year later before the two girls finally learned of this gross travesty of justice. Per the Palm Beach Post, Acosta's lame excuse subsequently given for not informing the victim plaintiffs was that the "prosecutors feared Epstein and his high-powered attorneys were trying to circumvent the deal."[89] That absurd nonsense makes absolutely no sense at all if you're literally gifting the rapist a get out of jail card. No doubt the Luciferian pedophile elite, the smugly protected Epstein and his dream team were gloating over their victory.

Current prosecutors set to defend Acosta's sweetheart deal have introduced argument that the two victim plaintiffs were complicit in the Epstein crimes since they were later paid by Epstein as still teenagers to procure other underage girls, thereby disqualifying them from protection under the Victims' Rights Act.[90] The morally wrong side of every court motion always seizes upon and exploits any and all legal loopholes rather than consider and weigh both legal as well as ethical perspectives together. Their fake god Lucifer wouldn't have it any other way.

Was Acosta's crucial criminal role in the Epstein case rewarded ten years later by the planetary controllers when sworn in as secretary in charge of all labor that includes forced sexual labor involving global human sex trafficking? Was his selection given his dominion over child sex slavery just more evidence of foxes guarding the henhouse? To this day the ruling pedo elite's nexus of placing controlled puppets in the highest places incudes Epstein's web of intimately tied connections between the Mossad, the CIA, the Clintons, the British royals, Hollywood, President Trump, his labor secretary and countless other far-reaching tentacles. But more on Trump's undeniably close link to Jeffrey Epstein a little later.

The presiding judge in another three year old current pending case - Palm Beach County Circuit Judge Donald Hafele, unsurprisingly also appears to be protecting Epstein. In 2015 a lower court dismissed attorney Brad Edwards' case against Epstein on a technicality that later was overturned by a Florida Supreme Court decision in February 2017.[91] Edwards is charging Jeffrey Epstein with "malicious prosecution" stemming from Epstein's 2009 lawsuit that Edwards contends was intended to intimidate him and his two clients who were victims in the 2008 Epstein conviction.

But in December 2017 Judge Hafele not only agreed to delay the trial until March 2018 in order to give Epstein's attorneys more time to prepare, in and of itself a decision favoring the pedophile, the judge also announced that when it comes to:

> … Graphic, sexual questions, the likelihood is that I will not allow them into evidence.[92]

To not permit evidence of a graphic sexual nature in a case involving an already convicted pedophile's crimes is totally absurd. But then justice not once has ever been served when it comes to the world's most powerful pedophiles ever receiving fair punishment for their countless sordid crimes against children… never. That pathetic reality must change.

Trying to appear fair and objective, the Palm Beach County judge rationalized the trial delay till spring 2018 with the following statement:

> Under the circumstances of this unusual and relatively complex case, the court finds that there are simply too many significant, lengthy motions that are pending and need to be heard prior to December 5, 2017, the date that the trial was originally scheduled to commence.[93]

On the positive side, the Palm Beach County courtroom with Judge Hafele presiding will be the trial setting where for the first time in his criminally perverse, wicked life, the now 65-year old, kiddie diddling senior citizen might actually have to answer for his crimes after all.[94] Additionally, Judge Hafele is permitting evidence and testimony from not only the three victims from last October's settlement but also from Virginia Roberts-Giuffre and others that Brad Edwards has also represented in previous lawsuits.[95] Additionally, the jury will hear about the infamous 2007 plea bargain deal, the contents of which have never been released. Though Bill Clinton, Prince Andrew and even Donald Trump are listed as potential witnesses, Edwards's lawyer said they likely will not be called in to testify.[96] Strangely, Alexander Acosta's name has yet to come up as a witness, yet he was responsible for breaking the law that permitted Epstein to go unprosecuted resulting in the subsequent miscarriage of justice. That alone may be both telling and troubling although the unlawful Acosta deal is at the heart of the other current pending case.

Existing federal laws then and now specify that human traffickers who commit aggravated sexual abuse, which the Epstein guilty parties repeatedly perpetrated, stipulate a lifetime prison sentence.[97] Aside from child sex trafficking, engaging in sex with girls aged 12-17 falls under federal offense codes that normally carry minimum sentences of ten to fifteen years in prison. Yet when sexually abusing underage girls gets the US gymnastics team doctor up to 175 years in prison while the Mossad operative gets his hand slapped,[98] something's definitely wrong with that picture. Despite enslaving and raping hundreds of child victims, if you're an elitist 1%-er financed by Mossad, the Greater Israel Project and US Empire,[99] you get off completely and are issued a standard get-out-of-jail card. The mere slap on Jeffrey's wrist a decade ago allowing all his perps involved in his criminal operation to walk away Scot free is the grossest, most obscene travesty of justice imaginable.

The current pending case in Florida Southern District federal court involving the original two victim plaintiffs' civil suit initially filed by attorney Brad Edwards back in July 2008 upon learning of the secret non-prosecution deal will award no financial damages to the victims but will determine if the victims' rights were violated. And if the judge rules in favor, it could reopen the criminal case for long overdue prosecution. Ten years after the fact, by design shamefully stonewalled in a quagmire of the corrupt legal system always aiding, abetting and protecting high profile pedophiles, through tenacious attorney Brad Edwards, these same two longstanding victims are still awaiting justice against their virtually unpunished abuser.

In retaliation for their lawsuit, Jeffrey Epstein filed a 2009 countersuit against Edwards,[100] [101] bogusly claiming that Edwards was attempting to exploit an easy funding source for Edwards' law firm founded by the infamous Fort Lauderdale attorney Scott Rothstein who in November 2009 was caught operating the state of Florida's biggest Ponzi scheme ever.[102] The now disgraced and barred multi-felon Rothstein is serving a 50-year sentence for fraud after conning a slew of investors out of $1.4 billion claiming they could buy into Rothstein's wealth of phantom settlements from supposed whistleblower, sexual harassment and other cases.[103] [104] The scam operation resulted in over two dozen convictions of fellow attorneys, bankers, cops, mobsters, friends and relatives. In 2012 Epstein was forced to drop his vindictive suit against Edwards for lack of evidence that Edwards himself had any involvement whatsoever in Rothstein's mega-criminal enterprise.[105]

Also ensnared in the Rothstein scandal was former Florida Governor Charlie Crist in an apparent biofuel company scam he partnered with the Ponzi kingpin, according to investigative journalist Timothy Holmseth.[106] Moreover, back in 2009 Holmseth began unearthing a major international baby sales and child sex trafficking operation in Florida involving Rothstein and his seedy associates, in criminal cahoots with the FBI, CIA, the Florida Department of Children and Family Services, Florida Attorney General Pam Bondi, US embassies abroad using fake church dossiers and medical records along with a host of other major players.[107] So one has to wonder, is it purely a bizarre coincidence that in 2008 while Brad Edwards represented the two underage victims who were never informed of Dershowitz and Acosta's illicit secret deal to protect Mossad operative Epstein that Edwards for a brief time happened to be working at Scott Rothstein's law firm in view of Rothstein's criminality that include Rothstein's own direct links to child trafficking? Food for thought.

So the stage has been set. Edwards' current lawsuit against Epstein for malicious prosecution is scheduled for trial in March 2018 with the claim that the billionaire pedophile sought the bogus earlier lawsuit against him out of revenge for Edwards filing the 2008 case in federal court seeking prosecution on behalf of the two plaintiffs for violating the Crime Victims' Rights Act.[108] This is the separate case that Brad Edwards and Paul Cassell have been pursuing in federal court for a decade on behalf of Jane Doe's 13 and 14 once they learned they weren't consulted prior to Epstein's sweetheart deal made back in September 2007.[109] Last August 2017 the two attorneys Edwards and Cassell submitted their final pleas to US District Judge Kenneth Marra in hopes that the 2007 plea deal will be thrown out so that a new investigation can be launched and the case reopened for prosecution. Last September the federal prosecutors got their chance to defend and justify Acosta's actions ten years earlier. The stakes in this rare case against the federal government are sky high. In their argument to uphold the 14-year old Crime Victims' Rights Act, Edwards and Cassell wrote that if the judge dismisses their lawsuit:

> … Then the government will never have to give any information in any case to any victim.[110]

And that would render the Crime Victims' Rights Act null and void. Yet if the law was upheld by Judge Marra's decision, Miami hotshot lawyer and member of Epstein's dream team Roy Black insists that his former client's due process would be robbed.[111] How about the virginity and innocence of childhood that scores of underage girls had violently robbed by the rapist who hardly paid for his crime, and the stolen rights of the two victims who were shut out of the secret shady deal that Black and company illegally made with Acosta? How about their rights Mr. Black?

Strengthening the case, previous plea bargain deals have been tossed out later for the exact same reason, failure to inform the victims, except those cases were the result of oversights. Epstein's case was premeditated as Dershowitz explicitly directed Acosta to not let the victims know. Again, per Edwards and Cassell's written court papers:

> The undisputed facts of this case prove that, rather than forthrightly discharging its obligations to numerous child sexual assault victims, the government chose to enter into a secret deal with the man who had victimized them.[112]

Acosta's prosecutor team even flagrantly lied in a letter sent to the victims in January 2008, four full months after the plea agreement was signed, bogusly claiming that the case was still under investigation. With the sweetheart deal of a lifetime already a done deal, Acosta's team wrote:

> This can be a lengthy process and we request your continued patience while we conduct a thorough investigation.[113]

If Judge Marra makes the only moral and legal correct decision to order federal prosecutors to reopen the investigation and potentially move the case finally to prosecution and trial, correcting the feds' egregious behavior over a decade earlier, it would establish a national precedent but most importantly be a fatal blow to the international pedo crime cabal. Apparently still stalling for time, Judge Marra has yet to make his momentous decision. Meanwhile, the world is watching and waiting.

If the so called US justice system was actually a real justice system, it would throw out the horrendous 2007 non-prosecution/immunity deal and finally try Epstein on child sex trafficking charges as well as raping and sodomizing hundreds of young girls in addition to throwing out the immunity deal to Epstein's pimping accomplices and the dozens of powerful pedophile patrons caught on camera and prosecute all of them for their countless child sex crimes. And then go after the Mossad, Israel, and the CIA-Vatican-Rothschild deep state alliance that essentially runs the global pedophilia trafficking network. But in all of human history, the ruling elite's puppets have never been brought to justice, much less their ruling handlers. Trump's so called war on the pedophilic deep state must produce results. Again the mantra "seeing is believing" comes readily to mind.

The fact remains that not one big name pedophile has ever been historically indicted, much less ever served serious time. The worst child sodomizing offenders at the top of the pedo-food chain are chronically allowed to live out their long lives till their natural deaths despite the tons of incriminating evidence flimsily concealed protecting them. Their years of Satanic beastly crimes are simply tolerated so that the Sir Jimmy Saviles[114] (biggest pedophile in UK history as celebrated legendary entertainer and pimp for the royals) and Sir Edward Heaths[115] (former UK prime minister) of the world don't have to be bothered with facing any real consequences for all their ungodly sins during their lifetimes. And in the case of Epstein, the Podestas, the Clintons and Bushes, if this longstanding unbroken status quo prevails, those monsters will never be held accountable either, despite repeatedly raping, murdering and destroying millions and millions of children's lives.

The pedophilia cabal that from the get-go financed Epstein's Mossad-CIA linked blackmail operation continues into a second decade merely paying off dozens of his underage victims in order to avoid prosecution that would ultimately force full public exposure of the Illuminati-Zionist elite's diabolical machination that maintains absolute global control over all its pedophile puppets in high places. Because far too much is at stake here, the planetary controllers' Luciferian strategy is to simply keep feeding unlimited hush money to continue successfully silencing Epstein's never ending supply of past victims - anything to prevent the dark ugly truth about their massive global blackmail control system from ever seeing the full light of day. So it's up to us citizens of the world to get informed by arming ourselves with the truth and quickly reach critical mass demanding that justice finally be served. The pedo crime cabal has gotten away with it for way, way, way too long now.

In October and November 2016 just prior to the presidential election, psychiatrist and longtime intelligence operative within the US State Department Steve Pieczenik publicly stated that both Bill and Hillary Clinton are pedophiles having made multiple trips on their buddy's Lolita Express to his Caribbean sex slave island.[116] Pieczenik explained that both the FBI and NYPD possess the necessary evidence discovered on disgraced ex-congressman and fellow convicted pedophile Anthony Weiner's laptop that fully exposes the Bush-Clinton-Obama Deep State perversions, corrosive cronyism and treasonous high crimes long embedded in Washington,[117] since JFK's assassination over a half century ago. Weeks prior to the election, Steve accused Obama and Clintons of pulling off a tyrannical coup and Pieczenik's group of insiders countering it with a "soft coup" of their own via the information war on the internet along with all the WikiLeaks' releases.

His second appearance on YouTube comments on the then breaking Clinton sex scandal as further evidence of their counter-coup's success. Weiner, his wife and longtime Hillary aide Huma Abedin, and Clintons all made trips to Epstein's "Orgy Island." In addition to her plethora of high crimes, turns out Hillary has a well-documented history as a sexual predator of underage girls as well.[118] She was caught on video with her longtime lover Huma having sex with a young girl. Law enforcement officials investigating serial rapist Bill Clinton also have the goods on Bill's pedophilia proclivities. For months if not years reports have maintained that authorities are fast closing in on the former president and his partner-in-crime wife. Yet the world still waits for their turn behind bars.

Epstein is the most infamous case in recent years incriminatingly linking the Clintons, Anthony Weiner, his estranged wife Huma[119] and our current president. After Epstein was investigated in 2005, indicted in 2006, illegally granted the deal of the century in 2007 and convicted in 2008, the sex ring ringleader was forced to register as a sex offender.[120] His compound on his private Caribbean island Little St. James was the getaway destination for countless high profile pedophiles who "partied" having sex with child slaves with hidden blackmail cameras always running in every room. In addition to the Clintons and Weiners, Alan Dershowitz, Prince Andrew and Oscar-winner Kevin Spacey are all known to have traveled on Epstein's private Boeing 727.[121] Other notable Lolita Express-Sex Slave Island partakers include a motley crew of former Israeli Prime Minister (1999-2001) Ehud Barak, physicist Stephen Hawking, rocker Kurt Cobain's widow Courtney Love and actor Chris Tucker. Just one year after his legal hand slap, in 2010 Epstein and his girl Maxwell were both invited to daughter Chelsea Clinton's wedding.[122] So much for the disinfo propaganda insisting that the Clintons abruptly cut off all contact with the registered sex offender once he was arrested in 2006. Like Prince Andrew, old pedo ties to Jeffrey Epstein die hard.

With more lawsuits still showing up on the books, yet another new civil case was filed against Epstein and his fellow child sex traffickers that was scheduled for a pretrial conference on March 9th, 2017.[123] But that case likely faded from the media resulting in yet another sleazy quiet undisclosed payoff. Police and judicial records document that Epstein had unlawful sex with at least 40 or more girls under age 18 and has been allowed to simply pay dozens of them off with confidentially sealed financial out-of-court settlements.[124] Estimates including Epstein's teenage victims who have chosen to forego legal action number into the hundreds. But the insulated systemic protection supplied by our morally bankrupted legal system shielding Epstein and his high powered pedophile friends like the Clintons from justice for decades on end may potentially be coming to an end.

Recall that Trump promised at the second 2016 presidential debate that when he was in the Oval Office, he'd put Hillary Clinton behind bars, receiving highest marks from millions of debate scorekeepers.[125] On another occasion, Trump alluded to "a lot of legal problems coming up" for Bill over his past Epstein liaisons.[126] Yet once winning the election, the president suddenly backed off, claiming that Hillary "has been through enough."[127] There can be no disputing the fact that Donald Trump and the Clintons were both in tight with the same convicted pedophile buddy Epstein, and clearly ran with the same highbrow New York-Palm Beach crowds.

A 2003 New York Magazine article reported that Trump attended a dinner party at Epstein's Big Apple mansion honoring Bill Clinton.[128] Both Trump and Epstein are on record financially donating on more than one occasion to the Clinton machine. And Trump has taken a series of chummy photographs together with the Clintons, one on a boys club golf outing with Bill that included former NYC mayors Rudy Giuliani and Michael Bloomberg,[129] as well as other choice family album pics with the Trumps and Bill Clinton arm and arm and the Donald yukking it up with the Clintons appearing the best of friends not all that many years ago.[130][131]

If President Trump drops the ball on his promise to drain the swamp, starting with the two biggest swamp rats of them all - Bill and Hillary Clinton, we will all definitely know whose side he's really on, and that he's nothing more than a compromised fellow swamp rat himself. And if the Clintons' shady, murderously treasonous, criminal pedophile past doesn't finally catch up to them and land them both in jail, of course it will only mean that "birds of a feather flock together" and status quo continues to permit the earth's most powerful evildoers to enjoy their entire lifetimes living above the law. Trump loyalists will be hard put to defend and explain their crowned champion should he fail to hold the Clintons and their Deep State crime cabal bent on destroying both him and the United States fully accountable.

But also since becoming president, in recent months rumors are a-buzzing over Hillary and McCain often pictured wearing boots and leg casts, allegedly concealing their law enforcement issued ankle bracelets while under house arrest.[132] Meanwhile, one or both of the Podesta brothers are in ill health and reported to be in custody, possibly already awaiting a military tribunal at an expanded wing of Guantanamo Prison.[133] Per last year's Trump signed

December 21st executive order[134] declaring a national emergency, the president is said to have declared an all-out war against the army of Deep State traitors, allegedly rounding up and arresting countless suspects on treason, human rights violations including trafficking while seizing their assets.[135] All this speculative hype including the thousands of sealed indictments has given renewed hope to millions of Americans praying that the rottenest, baddest apples at the top of the predator food chain are fast being delivered to their long-awaited prison cellblocks with their names on them on the newly expanded Guantanamo Row.[136]

But before we get too carried away with our fantasies and wishful thinking, a closer look at the personal history between President Trump and Jeffrey Epstein might explain and even determine the outcome of whether the swamp is actually getting drained. It's public knowledge that the current president was a longtime close friend of pedophile Epstein. In a 2002 New York Magazine issue, Trump gave this glowing report on his pedo-pal:

I've known Jeff for fifteen years. Terrific guy… he's a lot of fun to be with. It is even said that he likes beautiful women as much as I do, and many of them are on the younger side. No doubt about it - Jeffrey enjoys his social life.[137]

From this brief but highly revealing account, it's pretty obvious the Donald knew back in 2002 that his longtime bud was in fact a pedophile three whole years before Epstein ever got caught.

What we do know from both media and police records, Epstein's infamous black book contains 14 personal phone numbers belonging to Donald Trump, including his ex-wife Ivana and daughter Ivanka as well as his then future wife Melania.[138] The list of names in his phone book reads like a who's who amongst the mega-elite. To name drop a few:

Prince Bandar of Saudi Arabia, war criminal Tony Blair, former Utah governor and GOP presidential candidate Jon Huntsman, Senator Ted Kennedy, globalist guru-war criminal Henry Kissinger and major political donor heavyweights David Koch and Pepe Fanjul. Under the bizarre heading "Jeffrey" were more power players: Lolita Express flyers Ehud Barak and Alan Dershowitz, John Kerry, former senator turned lobbyist George Mitchell, another VIP lobbyist Thomas Quinn and the late globalist kingpin David Rockefeller[139] as well as another Lolita Express flier Naomi Campbell, Richard Branson, Michael Bloomfield and Dustin Hoffman.[140] Queen Elizabeth, Saudi King Salman as well as Edward and Evelyn de Rothschild are also listed.[141] No doubt the Mossad and Greater Israel Project would love to have all these top-end elitists in their back pocket.

Also records demonstrate that Trump has made phone calls to Epstein, dined and partied at both of the pedophile's Florida and Manhattan mansions, that Epstein has been a regular visitor at Trump's Mar-a-Lago, that is until Trump learned that Epstein sexually assaulted an underage girl at Trump's resort, according to attorney Brad Edwards.[142] Also per a 2009 deposition, Jeffrey's younger brother Mark stated that Trump has also flown on Epstein's infamous plane.[143] The Donald and pedo-pal Epstein of course are mutual friends with fellow alleged pedophile Prince Andrew. From a January 2016 Vice News article:

> Epstein and Maxwell were repeat guests at Mar-A-Lago. In 2000, they hung out there with Prince Andrew, who arrived for vacation on Trump's private plane. That same year, the Palm Beach Post reported that Trump, Epstein, Prince Andrew, and Maxwell were all at a tennis tournament/celebrity event at Mar-A-Lago.[144]

But the Donald-Jeffrey association may go far deeper, darker and more incriminating than just that. Another bizarre twist hit Trump in the run-up to his 2016 election when yet another alleged underage victim going by the pseudonym Katie Johnson first filed an April lawsuit in California that was thrown out. But then a few months later in June she filed another in New York against both Epstein and then presidential candidate Trump. Johnson accused Trump of raping her repeatedly when she was only 13.[145] One of Epstein's recruiters of underage girls calling herself Tiffany Doe also claimed that there exists corroborating evidence that Tiffany not only furnished Oklahoma runaway Katie Johnson as barely a teen aspiring model fetched fresh from 42nd Street Port Authority to a Trump attended Jeffrey party at the Wexner soon-to-be Epstein's sex mansion where Katie alleges she was raped in violent sexual roleplays by Trump at several of his pedo buddy's soirees in 1993 and 1994. Her account of events from her lawsuit states:

The recruiter suggested that she might become a model if she met the right people at a fashionable party. That was a typical approach used by Epstein's recruiters, who leveraged his high-level contacts with fashion, modelling, photography, travel, political and entertainment figures to entice girls, tweens and teens, according to court records.[146]

Johnson contends that Trump knew she was 13 in 1993 when he raped her at four different parties she attended.[147] At the final party, again an extraction from her lawsuit describes the encounter:

Defendant Trump tied Plaintiff to a bed, exposed himself to Plaintiff, and then proceeded to forcibly rape Plaintiff. During the course of this savage sexual attack, Plaintiff loudly pleaded with Defendant Trump to stop but with no effect. Defendant Trump responded to Plaintiff's pleas by violently striking Plaintiff in the face with his open hand and screaming that he would do whatever he wanted.[148]

At two of these four parties Katie Johnson alleged that Jeffrey Epstein also raped her, once after Trump did his damage. From her lawsuit account Johnson maintains that Epstein penetrated her:

> … anally and vaginally despite her loud pleas to stop. She stated that Epstein attempted to strike her on the head with his closed fists, while he angrily screamed that he [Epstein], rather than Trump, should have been the one who took the girl's virginity.[149]

Pettily and egomaniacally enraged over ending up with "sloppy seconds," pig Epstein's sense of entitlement thinking nothing of callously and brutally destroying children's lives provides a psychopathic glimpse into the elite's monstrously demonic, pathological world. As is standard treatment in child abuse cases, per the Johnson lawsuit, both Trump and Epstein separately warned her that if she ever revealed what they did, she and and her family would be "physically harmed if not killed."[150]

Of course when the Katie Johnson bombshell surfaced briefly in 2016 along with all the other charges of sexual harassment from alleged victims, Trump categorically denied any and all sexual impropriety accusations. His spokesman Alan Garten's initial claim was that Trump had no relationship with Epstein, then when confronted with conflicting evidence, Trump "barely knew" him.[151] But with sex allegations still lingering over Trump during his first year as president, in light of an alleged 2016 hush money payoff over a 2006 affair with an adult film actress while married, in October 2017 his White House Press Secretary insisted:

> All the women who have accused President Trump of sexual harassment are lying.[152]

With the pretrial hearing of the Katie Johnson case scheduled in mid-December 2016, New York City US District

Judge Ronnie Abrams asserted that she would require both Trump and Epstein to appear in person to testify in her courtroom. But just four days before Election Day, Katie Johnson's sex suit was suddenly dropped, allegedly because she had made up the story.[153] Of course all along the Trump supporters claimed that Johnson was hired by Hillary while the Hillary crowd immediately suspected that Johnson had been secretly paid off or that her life had been threatened. Word subsequently has it that the true reason the lawsuit was cancelled was Katie Johnson's life was indeed threatened by Trump operatives.[154]

Based on a long shared history, we also know that both Trump and Epstein are sexual predators who are sue-happy litigants that do not hesitate to use aggressive threats and the legal system to intimidate and neutralize their adversaries. And it was during a television appearance on The View in 2006 that the Donald with his then 24-year old daughter Ivanka claimed if she wasn't his biological kin, he'd be dating her.[155] That along with countless other lecherous statements[156] such as speculating in 1994 over his one-year old daughter's future breasts[157] or the numerous provocative photos of teen Ivanka sitting on daddy's lap,[158] suggesting latent incestualized leanings regardless of whether ever acted on. All of this together seems to indicate and fit a sexual predator profile of a man who habitually and automatically sexualizes females as mere play objects.

Then the plot recently thickened when in response to the Alabama Senate election where sexual allegations of pedophilia were levied against the GOP candidate Roy Moore, Ivanka stated:

There's a special place in hell for people who prey on children.[159]

Then in a December 2017 Vanity Affair interview, the feuding White House sacked Steve Bannon poignantly retorted:

What about the allegations about her dad and that 13-year-old?[160] [Referring to Katie Johnson]

Meanwhile, investigative journalist Wayne Madsen chimes in offering the perfect way for Trump to make good on draining the swamp after declaring January human trafficking awareness month:

Trump should start his anti-trafficking campaign by seizing Jeffrey Epstein's planes and Little St James Island. But then, Jeff may release the pics, audio & video of the Wexner mansion from 1994.[161]

Of course Madsen and Bannon are both referring to the civil lawsuits filed in 2016 against both Epstein and then presidential candidate Trump. Aside from the Katie Johnson case, another alleged victim known in court documents as Maria has also accused both the notorious registered sex offender and sitting current president of sodomizing and raping her at the tender age of 12 in 1993 at that same Wexner owned, soon to be Epstein owned pedo party property.[162] Several months earlier Maria had been kidnapped at age 11 on March 19, 1993 in front of a Waterbury, Connecticut pizza shop. Confidential witnesses who knew the Puerto Rican preteen believe that her abductors were part of a child sex trafficking ring supplying children to wealthy pedophiles [like Epstein], a stone's throw away in nearby New York City.[163]

When Madsen attempted to gain a copy of the Waterbury police report on Maria's abduction, the police department referred him to the city's administrative gatekeeper who denied both an interview and access to police records. In 2003 the arrest and conviction of a former mayor for pedophilia caught abusing a pair of Puerto Rican cousins 8- and 10-years old (not unlike Maria in both age and ethnicity) apparently has caused town officials to become extremely guarded and uncooperative regarding inquiries into past cases involving Waterbury and child sex crimes.[164] Turns out the current Waterbury mayor was the pedophile mayor’s police chief. The mafia connections and steep corruption in both the city and state led to conviction of the former Connecticut governor also from Waterbury in 2004. The local politicians’ link to pedophilia and child sex trafficking spooked city officials from even talking about Maria’s disappearance and subsequent victimization as an abducted and trafficked child sex slave. It was the FBI and federal authorities that busted the crimes committed by Waterbury politicians while the city attempted in vain to hide and cover-up its rather long criminal history of pedo skeletons in its closet.

At the time that Katie and Maria filed their lawsuits in 2016, despite initial interest from major media outlets to cover their critically important stories, Madsen contends that MSM was intimidated by Trump Organization legal threats and chose not to report.[165] Of course MSM is in deep with deep state pedophilia and that in and of itself would sufficiently explain why virtually no coverage was given. Whatever the reason, silence descended on the media and the Trump pedophilia issue.[166] But Madsen maintains that Trump henchmen were able to identify Maria and her location and both Maria and Katie received death threats should they pursue their lawsuits against the president-to-be.[167]

For many decades in America lack of moral courage and integrity at the corporate mainstream Mockingbird level has always prohibited any real serious investigation when the media is highly complicit in the pedophilia epidemic itself. The power to harass and destroy the reputations and lives of victims, whistleblowers and honest journalists in order to at all cost conceal the truth from public disclosure is both life threatening and foreboding in a nation that once guaranteed in its Constitution the First Amendment rights of a free press. But in this Luciferian Deep State swamp, sadly those days appear long gone.

Upon release from his jailhouse sleepovers and house arrest, back in the Big Apple in early 2011 a flippant, cocky Jeffrey Epstein wanted to inform the world that he's not the demonized sick pervert he's been made out to be, in his mind he's simply a misunderstood, much maligned victim of society's ignorance. In a transparently warped attempt to reeducate us about him being a harmless "Level 3 sex offender" (deemed highest at-risk to reoffend) who never presented a serious threat nor damaged any of his scores of accusers, Epstein insists that he is not a sexual predator:

I'm not a sexual predator, I'm an 'offender.' It's the difference between a murderer and a person who steals a bagel.[168]

After his sordid criminality, to dare maintain the brazen audacity to pretend his atrocious rape crimes with girls as young as 12 and his child sex trafficking blackmail operation was nothing but the harmless indiscretions of a bagel thief is the epitome of psychopathic arrogance and delusional grandiosity characteristic of a privileged and protected prince among his Luciferian masters.

During the ensuing decade since Epstein's conviction, the seedy truth has continued slowly trickling out, exposing the dark, twisted, perverse sex slave trafficking operation that Epstein and his bevy of co-conspirators recruited child victims as sex slaves from poor neighborhoods in Florida, New York, South America, Europe and Russia, including three 12-year old girls from France as a birthday gift.[169] Incredibly, his procuring pimp co-conspirators and scores of powerful pedo patrons were all granted immunity.[170] For well over a decade Epstein and his hired handlers freely trafficked victims to his sex slave island and his other residential palaces to serve the elite's pedophile crowd listed in the billionaire's infamous black book.[171] Contained therein are names of scores of the most powerful politicians from presidents to prime ministers, royalty, judges, CEOs, bankers and entertainers, all for blackmailing purposes so that the Luciferian planetary controllers through US Empire and Israel could continue unchallenged their absolute authority and control over the geopolitics chessboard. But their reign of terror and destruction is fast coming to an end now that the truth - piece by piece - has been more fully exposed than at any previous time in human history. The crime cabal is going down! Hollywood as its cultural media brainwashing epicenter of the predatory Luciferian cesspool is covered in the next chapter.

Rod Serling was the early television pioneer and visionary who created one of the best television shows in history - “The Twilight Zone.” His creative thread starting in 1959 through the early 1960s brought to American families glued weekly to their television sets plentiful philosophical food for thought to ponder our mysterious universe until next week’s equally evocative episode. One show in particular divulged how suburbanite America can easily be taken over by planting seeds of fear and suspicion that quickly morph into extreme paranoia and murderous violence by an unseen outside invasive force targeting America in an episode entitled “The Monsters Are Due on Maple Street.”[1] The underlying theme and message are delivered throughout the show’s half-hour plotline but summarized in the imitable, wise and sobering afterthoughts by the series creator himself:

The tools of conquest do not necessarily come with bombs and explosions and fallout. There are weapons that are simply thoughts, attitudes, prejudices - to be found only in the minds of men. For the record, prejudices can kill - and suspicion can destroy - and a thoughtless frightened search for a scapegoat has a fallout all of its own - for the children - and the children yet unborn. And the pity of it is — that these things cannot be confined - to the Twilight Zone.[2]

This incisive morsel of truth offered the public nearly six decades ago during television's golden age can just as easily speak to and be applied to the humans living today. But instead of the unseen alien invaders insidiously destroying us, preying on our vulnerabilities, fears and vices, it's the planetary controllers, the ruling elite bent on dividing and conquering us in every way imaginable to the point of utter self-destruction.[3] Deceptive manipulation of staged world events as presented through mainstream media's sleight-of-hand lens,[4] with carefully coordinated collusion from the Hollywood propaganda machine, is busily shaping and determining our very values, beliefs, and perceptions of reality, now on a global scale. But a dark and demonic Luciferian worshipping elite is our invasive alien enemy currently out to destroy us, and there's no more powerful weapon being used against us than the barrage of movies, television, music, and video game filth and garbage spewing out of the entertainment capital of the world - pedophilia controlled Hollywood. This presentation will unveil the child raping wizard known as Hollywood, frantically pulling the levers and strings behind the Oz-like screen, in a vain attempt to keep us ignorant in the dark, distracted, possessed and controlled by Lucifer's earthly power and dominion.

And no single person has been more instrumental in his persistent efforts to inform and educate the public about the current Hollywood pedophilia crisis than the former child star and victim-survivor Corey Feldman. Though rumors and public awareness date back to the entertainment industry's founding studio moguls as full blown Satanists, complete with their "casting couch" and sordid array of stories depicting powerful predators sexually exploiting women and children in Tinsel-Town for more than a century,[5] Corey

Feldman has hardly been noticed or listened to since he first began sounding the alarm over a decade ago. He has remained virtually a lone voice in the wilderness, drowning in a sea of open secret perversions, smug contempt and narcissistic iniquities.

Only when heavyweight producer and belligerent sexual thug Harvey Weinstein's chronic history of bullying and raping finally caught up to him late last year, enjoined by the industry's longtime hypocritical, shameful complicity,[6] vomited all over world headlines did ears finally perk up to pay slight more attention to Corey as the lone voice in the Sodom and Gomorrah wilderness. Just as last chapter's notorious pedophile Jeffrey Epstein has avoided prosecution and actual real prison punishment for his hundreds of egregious sex crimes, until last fall Weinstein has also slithered out of facing accountability for all his countless predatory sex crimes[7] by also simply paying off his multiple victims with hush money and signed non-disclosure agreements.[8] Similarly, the sex crimes committed by US Congress members have also come under the gun recently for its blatantly shameful policy of silencing victims with tax paid secret payoffs and nondisclosure protection.[9]

Last October Emmy award winning writer Jack Cashill pointed out that while it took over 13 years to expose the Weinstein crimes in Hollywood, the media has been sitting on the fact that for a much longer time powerful Tinsel-Town men have been preying on young boys with MSM's complicit silence "for fear of offending the LGBT lobby."[10] But that's just the surface layer excuse. The much deeper one cuts to the Luciferian power structure core that's been controlling this world while feasting off babies and small children for centuries with complete impunity, and maintaining its above-the-law status quo by ensuring that its public face puppets installed in high places are compromised through sexual blackmail.

As an encapsulated microcosm revealing the perverse dynamics of the surrounding macrocosm that is and has always been the Hollywood cesspool, the Corey Feldman story reveals the sad and pathetic reality of literally thousands, perhaps millions of innocent young victims who’ve been sexually exploited and abused in Hollywood by the creepiest parasitic Cretans on earth over the past 100 years. The fact that it’s forever remained an unchallenged “open secret” is atrocious, but not unlike the sins of the church, government and royalty that have also been swept under the rug for eons.

The child actor starring in some of the biggest teen films from the 1980s - “The Goonies,” “Gremlins,” “Stand by Me,” “License to Drive,” “The Lost Boys” - for years has been warning us about “the problem.” Feldman sounded off on a 2011 ABC Nightline episode:

I can tell you that the No. 1 problem in Hollywood was and is and always will be pedophilia. That's the biggest problem for children in this industry... It's the big secret.[11]

And he and his best friend the late Corey Haim should know. They met at 14 years of age when they co-starred together in “The Lost Boys.” While making the film “Lucas,” a 13-year old Corey Haim was approached on the set by an adult male claiming that the Hollywood norm was older guys always showed the younger boys in the business the sexual ropes, rationalizing that “all guys do it” as some sort of twisted Hollywood rite of passage. According to a number of inside sources including former actor Dominick Brascia last November 2017, that “older man” who sodomized Corey Haim was 19-year old perennial “bad boy” Charlie Sheen, who costarred with the young Corey Haim in “Lucas.”[12] With the rape said to occur in a bullying, pressured way initiated by Sheen, Haim submitting at 13 can hardly be considered consensual, and obviously both illegal and predatory in nature. Of course the now HIV infected Sheen categorically denied the original National Enquirer headlines.

It was reported that right after the sex in 1986, Sheen coldly rejected Corey Haim. Years later prior to his death Corey told friends that when Haim was in his 20s he and Charlie Sheen had consensual sex a second and final occasion. But by that time Corey Haim was already over Charlie the big star calling him “a loser.” Though Corey Feldman has never publicly confirmed that Sheen was the pedophile who first raped his best friend, he did admit it was “a Hollywood superstar,”[13] which of course Charlie went on to becoming before his own reckless fall from grace, and Feldman has never had anything positive to say about Sheen, alluding to causing harm to Feldman’s close associates.

When Corey Feldman and Corey Haim were later starring in a reality show together in 2006, Feldman asked his best friend:

Why don't you just tell them the truth finally and get it out?

Feldman said that the 34-year old Corey Haim’s torturous reply was:

Because he'll kill me. He will kill me.[14]

Corey Haim was convinced his rapist, most likely the notorious HIV infected sex-aholic train wreck Charlie Sheen, would place a professional hit on him to have him murdered. This very sad and telling statement explains why victims historically don’t publicly identify their perpetrators in this insulated, who-you-know town where local police departments are bribed into protecting the most powerful local criminals. As is this book’s running theme, pedophilia among the elite is simply accepted business as usual and all victims be damned, after all they’re expendables with no power at all. That’s the way it’s always been… until perhaps now as the tide appears to be finally turning.

But pedophilia, barely hidden in plain sight, has been peddled and practiced from the earliest days of Hollywood's silent and talking pictures. The name "Hollywood" itself originated with the Druidic tradition of the holly tree as the witchcraft wand that casts its occult spells on the public through the magical motion pictures projected off the big silver screen.[15] Much has been written about the early 20th century founding Hollywood studio moguls being Cabbalist Jews and closeted practicing Satanists.[16] Satan, sodomy and pedophilia go together as this book title alludes, and no more have they been blended into one permanent fixture than in Hollywood. An anonymous studio executive has referred to pedophilia as "a time-honored tradition in this town."[17]

A brief look at the career of the industry's most famous child star in movie history - Shirley Temple - epitomizes how pedophilia has long been embedded as a transparent constant. Starting at the age of 3 in 1931, Shirley's little assets were mined for the prurient interests of middle aged pedophiles who quickly became her most rabid fans while she was featured as a pint-sized harlot in a 3-5 aged all-child cast series of "Baby Burlesks" films from 1931-33.[18] A revealing 13-minute documentary plumbs the plethora of pedophilic themes permeating Shirley Temple's earliest productions.[19] And the exploitive pornographic elements followed her subsequent feature films when she emerged as Hollywood's biggest box office star for four straight years during the 1930s Depression era. Later Vladimir Nabokov's #1 bestselling novel and popular film "Lolita," depicting a pedophilic obsessive love affair as its central plot, directly stole scene after scene from the child prodigy's earlier sex-laden filmography. Like Disney Pictures,[20] the Shirley Temple products also transmit a subliminal yet not-so-secret, hidden-in-plain-sight sexual agenda designed to contaminate and warp the formative, impressionable unconscious minds and values of generation after generation of children in both America and the world while primarily intending to appeal to the titillating perverted interests of lurking pedophilic predators.

Shirley Temple Black recounted in her autobiography a meeting in 1939 at MGM Studios with producer Arthur Freed when he exposed himself to the 11-year old star while MGM head Louis B. Mayer was simultaneously groping Shirley's mother in his office.[21] Ostensibly the one-on-ones had to do with casting Shirley Temple as Dorothy in "The Wizard of Oz," which of course went to Judy Garland who later blamed Mayer as the pedophile who molested her repeatedly and ruined her life.[22] Shirley Temple Black admitted that on multiple occasions in her youth, she encountered pedophilic advances from the biggest producers, directors and actors in Hollywood, among them David Selznick, Samuel G. Engel and George Jessel.[23] Likely she withheld her darkest Hollywood tales from public disclosure. Then at the invitation of NWO globalist Henry Kissinger, Shirley Temple Black worked in the US State Department in various capacities from 1967-1992 while married to a former naval intelligence officer. Shirley was the subject of much speculation as a mind controlled Illuminati operative and in 2014 at age 85, no doubt she took countless pedo-cabal secrets to her grave.

Fast forward to anti-pedophile crusader Corey Feldman and his family roots coming from a highly dysfunctional Jewish American family. Corey's two narcissistic parents parasitically bled their young breadwinner dry since he was 7, stealing millions from him so that the emancipated youth had to start from scratch with no money at age 15. Beginning in a McDonald's commercial at age three, for the next dozen years Corey Feldman quickly grew into his parents' conveniently exploited cash cow, failing to either protect or love Corey as every child needs from his parents.

Instead Corey’s mother was a narcissistic former Playboy model who suffered from depression and drug addiction while his father was a musician who got high with his young son.[24]

Former child star Alison Arngrin who played Nellie on the iconic 1980s TV hit series “Little House on the Prairie” has stated:

In Hollywood, there are parents who will practically prostitute their kids in the hope they can make money and get ahead. It is a horrible trap that the kids are in.[25]

Deprived of a normal childhood and healthy adult role models who truly cared for him, Corey Feldman fell increasingly susceptible to outside family influence. A two bit actor in his 20s named John Grissom hired by Corey’s father as the child star’s personal assistant began sexually molesting Corey at age 14, regularly supplying him with alcohol, marijuana and pills.[26] As the sexual abuse increased and became more widespread, Grissom soon introduced cocaine and heroin to the troubled teenager. Amongst the predation network of Hollywood hangers-on, Corey Feldman and Corey Haim were passed around as boy toys to the pedo shark friends lurking at every turn within the entertainment community. Since his book publisher required the use of pseudonyms to prevent potential lawsuits and in so doing, protect the guilty, Corey referred to Jon Grissom in his autobiography as "Ron Crimson”:

I had taken some pills, some concoction that Ron had made up… Ron came over and sat down next to me, a triple-X magazine in his hands … Ron started touching me, reaching across my thigh to the crotch of my pants… When I woke up, he was on me, touching me, tugging on the zipper of my pants. I realized it was happening again.[27]

Feldman stated that pedophile Grissom still displays photos of two Coreys as sex trophies on his Facebook page, adding:

He still taunts it and flaunts it.[28]

Pedophilic predators in Hollywood never choose their prey randomly. Again Alison Arngrin specifies that:

They are typically very careful when choosing. They look for kids whose parents are maybe going through a divorce, are very naïve, suffering with addiction problems, or are simply crazy stage parents who will look the other way.[29]

From a Fox News article a half decade ago:

There are also parents who don't want to rock the boat, even after finding out their child was abused. A source told FOX411 that a member of a well-known band recently found out that his underage child was having sexual relations with another successful industry figure 25-30 years her senior. The incident was brushed under the rug out of fear of ruining the reputation of the perpetrator and his colleagues.[30]

Amidst the Weinstein scandal last fall, as a guest on the Dr. Oz Show, Corey Feldman outed two other pedophiles as his sexual tormenters - convicted pedophile and child talent manager Marty Weiss who was among the perps exposed in the acclaimed 2014 documentary “An Open Secret.” Marty Weiss’ job was searching for boy talent for both Nickelodeon and Disney and besides Feldman, he found 11-year old Evan Henzi to sexually abuse 30-40 times from age 12-15.[31] Finally after years of trauma, Evan bravely pressed charges resulting in the Weiss conviction. However, a plea deal meant upon sentencing (one year and five months), the serial pedophile was immediately released from prison after only serving 6 months given credit for time awaiting trial. Such travesty of justice only doubles the victim’s suffering whose reaction was:

I’m angry at the legal system. I blamed myself and felt guilty. Going back to the beginning, I realized that was not the case and it was just me trying to believe that everyone was good in the world and knew better than me. Now that I’m older, I know it was just sick. You don’t have sex with an 11-year-old kid.[32]

Feldman’s other outed perp on the Oz show was Alphy Hoffman, son of a major casting director at a top Hollywood studio who happened to run an informal teen club for child actors called Alphy’s Soda Pop Club.[33] Hoffman’s teen parties were largely adult unsupervised and a magnet for slimy industry pedophiles taking full advantage of an “easy pickings” situation.

Because Corey Feldman for all his courage and fortitude has received multiple death threats, including one from an A-lister who notoriously uses his threats as his calling card, this perp remains one of three other individuals that Feldman alleges are major pedophiles whose identities are still withheld.[34] Feldman clarified that he knows of the A-lister’s abuse but maintains that he never himself was victimized by him. Corey has chosen not to disclose his name fearing the safety of both his wife Courtney Anne Mitchell and as his 13-year old son Zen Scott Feldman who Corey as a protective parent will not permit his kid to be in show business.

At one point Corey Feldman reached out to Michael Jackson who also had his childhood robbed and the two quickly bonded. Corey insists that Michael never took advantage of him and that Michael provided the healthiest adult male relationship Corey ever had while growing up. But when Jackson was misinformed that Feldman was planning to release a negative portrayal of the superstar in Corey’s upcoming autobiography, hounded by sex abuse charges, the paranoid Michael Jackson abruptly, prematurely severed their once close friendship.[35]

Because from age 16-18 Feldman was arrested on drug charges while struggling with addiction and sexual abuse, his acting roles as an adult began quickly drying up. Once Corey Feldman cleaned himself up, reinventing himself to form his own rock band, eventually he began talking about pedophilia in Hollywood. But no one took him seriously. Repeatedly on national television even in recent years such mainstream media mainstays as Barbara Walters in 2013 accused Corey of denigrating the industry[36] and last year Matt Lauer badgered him over never releasing his pedophiles' names.[37] Of course like fellow sexual predator Charlie Rose, Lauer himself was soon outed and dismissed by NBC for what turns out to be years of his sexual harassment against women.

Corey Feldman wanted to name names in his 2013 memoir Coreyography, but his publisher refused. Matt Lauer also kept chastising Feldman for not going to the police when in fact Cory has repeatedly reported all the crimes and perps' identities to the police, as early as 1993 when interviewed by the Santa Barbara police regarding the Michael Jackson witch hunt investigation. Corey stated that he gave every pedophile's name to law enforcement but to no avail as nearly all his perps are still walking around as free men employed in an industry that doesn't care about abusing children as long as it's allowed to continue operating with complete impunity.

For years Corey Feldman disclosed that there exists a not-so-secret club of pedophiles that have remained untouched and still working regularly as producers, directors, actors, publicists, managers, casting directors, photographers, assistants and in virtually every trade capacity within the Hollywood industry, forever preying on children and adolescents. He maintains that a child sex ring has long flourished in insulated secrecy protecting the sodomizing power players from any and all consequences, exactly the same way that so many pedophile politicians, priests and royalty have also gotten away with their egregious crimes.

After Feldman’s buddy Corey Haim was sodomized at 13, Haim never fully recovered, taking to alcohol and drugs while very young to numb himself from the ongoing pain, shame and trauma, tragically dying at the premature age of 38 due to complications from pneumonia, but undoubtedly more so from his years of sexual abuse as a once teen actor heartthrob.[38] Decades later in 2006 while nearly broken and already considered over-the-hill in their mid-30s, “The Two Coreys” were once again reunited and featured as an A&E reality show series that turned into a zoo-like public spectacle. In one memorable episode each pathetically accuses the other of never supporting or coming to his aid when they were both being passed around and horribly abused.[39] Though sadly each’s claims had never been taken seriously and their pedophilia ring of known sodomizers were left unimpeded to continue abusing the next generations of Hollywood kids, despite their anguished public plight increasingly still “an open secret,” few within the industry dared to back up the Coreys’ disturbing contentions. As mentioned earlier, a former child actress who boldly did was Alison Arngrim, stating on Fox News in 2011:

This has been going on for a very long time, it was the gossip back in the ‘80s. People said, ‘Oh yeah, the Coreys, everyone’s had them.’ People talked about it like it was not a big deal. I literally heard that they were ‘passed around.’ The word was that they were given drugs and being used for sex. It was awful - these were kids, they weren’t 18 yet. There were all sorts of stories about everyone from their, quote, ‘set guardians’ on down that these two had been > sexually abused and were totally being corrupted in every possible way.[40]

Yet the ugly truth in plain sight was ignored. While the epidemic of pedophilia perps committed by Catholic priests was showcased in the Oscar winning 2015 film “Spotlight,”[41] depicting how the sensational Boston Globe headlines initially broke the horrendous sex abuse scandal within the Catholic Church in 2002,[42] the same egregious crimes committed in Hollywood were always met with a “ho hum” response in the jaded, sexually promiscuous, “anything goes” entertainment industry. But to the actual victims, it was never ho hum but an indelibly imprinted, lifelong torture plaguing them right to the end. Addicted for years to both prescription and illegal drugs, Corey Haim made the other Corey promise should Haim die first that Feldman would expose the scourge that afflicts so many vulnerable young actors and entertainers in Hollywood.[43] And since his best friend’s death in March 2010, Corey Feldman has made it his personal mission in life to publicly reveal this shameful epidemic that’s long gripped the entertainment capital of the world. But unfortunately his warnings were never properly heeded, nor given their due diligence to eradicate this despicable blight, that is until the Weinstein disclosures revealing the widespread victimization of adult women. But in contrast, today no adult woman disclosing she’d been raped would ever be subjected to the same level of ridicule, doubt and scorn heaped upon Corey Feldman.

Corey Haim’s death at such an early age typifies the hapless fate of so many former Hollywood child stars. The myth that they fail to adjust and thrive past their youth because they somehow cannot transition to adulthood is what Hollywood’s powerful pedophiles who used and abused them as children would rather the public believe. Drug and alcohol abuse invariably becomes a symptom of those suffering from child sexual abuse. The notion that child stars in their heyday are bursting with talent and star power but when they grow up suddenly lose all their acting skills and creative talent to continue earning a living is ludicrous. The Hollywood pedo-machine by its very brutal nature exploits children, after using and abusing them, simply chews them up and spits them out as has-beens at 18. Co-founder Anne Henry of the BizParentz Foundation that assists and protects children in the entertainment industry estimates that at least 75% of those child actors who “went off the rails” suffered from child sexual abuse.[44] And the list grows longer of former child stars who tragically die far too young.[45]

Revelations of the #Me Too crowd are rushing in droves to publicly out powerful male predators like Harvey Weinstein who never held accountable for decades because female victims knew they’d never be believed and their careers would come to a crashing halt. In the prevailing age of deception where total lack of transparency and rampant corruption rule, it was never safe for victims with lesser power to dare accuse their perpetrators of their monstrous crimes. But fortunately those days may finally be over. Now that the culture of silence has ultimately been lifted protecting powerful predators in the form of serial rapists and chronic sexual harassers routinely victimizing adult women, the next phase of disclosure and tip of the iceberg currently being ushered in is confronting the hordes of guilty destroyers of children’s lives who’ve forever gotten away with the most heinous crimes of all, predation on our most innocent and defenseless population. In this emerging age of truth and accountability with 15 accusers, Kevin Spacey was among the first big pedophile stars to go down,[46] of course already blemished by his part in the exposed Epstein scandal. While attending his fellow pedos Bill Clinton and Jeffrey Epstein’s Lolita Express African AIDS tour in 2002, Kevin Spacey subsequently bragged in his social circles how he paid off parents of African boys he defiled, even writing it off as a tax deduction.

In the wake of the Harvey Weinstein exposure, sex abuse victim Corey Feldman gained 30,000 more followers on Twitter overnight, imploring him to identify his perpetrators and emboldening him to pursue his lifelong crusade against child molesters in Hollywood.[47] At the crest of the Weinberg controversy last November, Corey Feldman once again submitted his own abuse report based on direct observations and personal experience to LAPD decrying the longtime existence of an established pedophile ring operating within the entertainment community. Corey's words on a 2011 Nightline:

> I was surrounded by them [pedophiles]when I was 14 years old. Surrounded. Literally. Didn't even know it. It wasn't until I was old enough to realize what they were and what they wanted, and what they were about. … Oh my God, they were everywhere, like vultures.[48]

Upon receiving Corey's report, the LAPD pretended to initiate its first inquiry ever into Feldman's charges but a mere day later stated it was closing its mock investigation due to statute of limitations running out on Feldman's claims, i.e., business as usual pretending an organized child sex ring does not exist in Hollywood. And once again, powerful predators at the top of the food chain get protected at more children's expense. Corey has publicly lamented in prior interviews how unlike other states such as New York, the pedo-elites ensure that existing California law on statute of limitations applied to the world's entertainment pedophile epicenter conveniently shields the criminals when pedophilia victims age out at 40.[49] Despite turning 47 in July 2018, Corey Feldman is currently spearheading a petition to eliminate statute of limitation laws across America for pedophilia crimes. Of course that would represent an enormous breakthrough against the pedo-cabal. So don't hold your breath.

A week later Newsweek interviewed Corey with the sensationalized article title that seems designed to intentionally further undermine his growing credibility: "Corey Feldman: 'Demonic' Force Motivated Him to Expose Alleged Pedophiles in Hollywood."[50] Yet his explanation of why he must do what he is doing is very much grounded in an all too credible reality:

> I believe that pedophilia in Hollywood is the symptom of a huge network motivated by dark forces. People cover up stories like this for power, for greed, and they choose to ignore victims because they don't want to have to think about what they did or didn't do that led to kids being in harm's way.[51]

Corey has also launched a campaign funding drive to raise $10 million in order to produce a fictionalized feature film that tells his story exposing the sickos in Hollywood like never before. Feldman did not want to do a documentary partly because an excellent, emotionally heartfelt portrayal of pedophilia in Hollywood has already been covered by Oscar nominated Emily Berg in her 2014 documentary exposé "An Open Secret."[52] The film profiles five victimized former child actors and their litany of perpetrators, documenting the untold damage incurred by suffering victims, immersing the audience in a rarified agonizing glimpse into the permanently scarred lives affected by child sex abuse. Of course those in power in Hollywood led by the guilty attempted at every turn to sabotage the film's success from ever getting released and distributed in theaters, film festivals, cable networks as well as the internet. While Emily Berg had earned an Oscar nomination for her 2006 documentary "Deliver Us from Evil," exposing pedophilia within the Catholic Church, when she dared exposing pedophilia in Hollywood’s own backyard, she got the cold shoulder of overt censorship and couldn’t even find distribution.[53] Co-producer Matthew Valentinas makes the poignant argument:

Animals have more protections and rights on a film set than children do.[54]

While child victims have no rights, child rapists remain protected. Likewise, a truth teller faces lawsuits from the guilty. Emily Berg was threatened with lawsuits by the trade union SAG-AFTRA because the film demonstrates how convicted pedophiles in the Hollywood industry are regularly allowed to continue working with children.[55] In light of the Harvey Weinstein scandal, the film’s producers of “An Open Secret” made it freely available on the internet but again were met with open resistance from the “Hollywood Elite,” (i.e. the pedo perps who own and run the entertainment industry). Another of the film’s producers Gabe Hoffman explained that with a 94% approval rating from the film critics website rottentomatos.com,[56] the film was openly welcomed by the Cannes, LA, Toronto and London film festivals. But after the greenlight was given by mid-level festival executives, two weeks later the higher-ups reneged on the invitation at every festival, because the Hollywood pedophile machine pressured officials to refuse showing “An Open Secret” or else.[57]

Through interviews with abuse victims, Berg’s film exposes the network of working homosexual pedophiles thriving in the film industry while exploiting and preying on underage boy actors, focusing on the criminality perpetrated by the three founders of the Digital Entertainment Network (DEN). The company was led by tech entrepreneur Marc Collins-Rector, his younger boyfriend Chad Shackley and Disney child star (The Mighty Ducks, First Kid) Brock Pierce, who as one of DEN’s VPs at 17, was earning a quarter million dollars a year.[58] In a remarkably short time they raised $65 million to begin providing streaming online content featuring the fictional exploits of a sexually confused teenager who moves in with his older brother and his boyfriend into their mansion in the hills that in real life was the DEN trio’s Encino residence.

In “An Open Secret” the former child stars explain in cringing detail that throughout the late 1990s and early 2000’s Rector and his well-connected Hollywood friends were gaining quite the reputation for throwing huge pool parties predominantly attended by industry homosexual pedophiles and targeted underage male actors. As is predatory standard operating procedure, the adult perps would heavily drug the teenage boys before committing sexual assault.

The biggest name associated with these child raping orgies was the director of such acclaimed blockbusters as “The Usual Suspects” (starring fellow predator pedophile Kevin Spacey) and the “X-Men” series - Bryan Singer.[59] But as long as this A-lister bigwig kept churning out multimillion dollar box office hits like the first two X-Men grossing over $700 million, somehow offering enough wiggle room for Singer to weasel out of lawsuits from multiple victims he allegedly wined and dined, then drugged and raped, which once again only proves that if you live in high enough places, you stay unreachable. With a number of accusers, Singer reputedly has a habit of brutally sodomizing teenage boys on a regular basis. Bryan Singer’s most publicized case was pursued by former child actor and model Michael Egan featured in “An Open Secret.”

But in December 2017 yet another lawsuit has been filed against the famous director for forcing a 17-year old boy to perform oral sex on him prior to anally raping the minor aboard a yacht party in 2003.[60] The usual threats were made should the victim ever come forth. Once the litigation was announced, the volatile director was promptly fired from his current project “Bohemian Rhapsody,” a Freddie Mercury biopic. This came after Singer reportedly threw an object at the lead actor while another actor quit over tense conflicts with the high-strung, oft-accused predator who clearly has a problem keeping his dick from boys’ orifices. Like Spacey, his success went to his head thinking he was too important and powerful to go down. Like Kevin, he was wrong.

Despite the once bigtime director Bryan Singer being a regular on the shameful druggie-boy toy pool party circuit,[61] hosted by the likes of convicted pedo Marc Collins-Rector, lawsuits piling up against him have barely affected his career nor his unlawful predatory compulsions. However, it was proven in a court of law in Hawaii that his buddy Rector wrecked the rectum belonging to Michael Egan amongst other boys. Along with several other victims Egan sued Rector claiming that Rector forced him to have sex at gunpoint threatening to shoot him in the head if he continued resisting.[62] Rector was a fugitive for a while before being caught in England and extradited back to the US to face trial and conviction.

Even though two fellow DEN investors and fellow boy lovers both named in Egan’s lawsuit having widely known reputations within the industry for child sexual abuse, in the end neither Bryan Singer nor producer Gary Goddard were prosecuted. Instead, rather than Singer going to jail, it was Egan who went, branded with a 2-year prison sentence over an unrelated fraud investment charge.[63] Punishment for daring to attempt to hold powerful child rapists accountable? You be the judge. Meanwhile, well known actor Anthony Edwards bravely wrote an emotional piece at medium.com last November outlining how Gary Goddard posing as his mentor, teacher and “friend,” sodomized him at age 14.[64]

You may be asking yourself is pedophilia in Hollywood getting any worse. BizParentz Foundation’s Anne Henry says that the problem that Feldman alluded to has only grown more alarming in recent years:

Pedophiles and predators in Hollywood are just as rampant today, if not more so. The entertainment industry is much larger than it was in their [Feldman and Haim’s] day. Think how many cable channels there are. In Corey's day, there were channels 2-13. We also have the Internet today, which allows predators to virtually stalk and contact child actors in a more personal way.[65]

Corey Feldman’s current assessment concurs, pedophilia is becoming more rampant in Hollywood:

It’s more now than ever because nowadays you can use the internet to create fake profiles and fake accounts. They reach out to little kids on Twitter, they reach out to little kids on Facebook, and they say, ‘I’m a big producer and I can help you.’ With social media we have more access than ever to everybody. It’s a growing problem, not a shrinking problem.[66]

As another example of how the industry notoriously and chronically looks the other way, meet convicted pedophile writer-director Victor Salva, who in 1988 three full decades ago, was found guilty of five counts of oral copulation with a child under 14, lewd and lascivious conduct and procuring a child for pornography.[67] A 1986 Salva film short had so impressed famed director Francis Ford Coppola that he produced the pedophile’s first feature length film that same year - “Clownhouse.” It was then that Victor Salva began sexually abusing Nicholas Winters, the 12-year old boy starring in Salva’s film. The director prohibited the boy’s mother from the set, claiming Nicholas couldn’t work with his mother watching. The mother grew suspicious and confronted her son, who admitted:

I have a secret and I can’t tell anyone.[68]

Police raided the pedo-director’s home and found pornographic material that included a homemade video of Salva engaging in oral sex with his child star. Despite the earlier conviction, Salva served only 15 more months of a three year sentence before being released in 1989 and weaseling his way right back into business with an industry welcoming him again with open arms. The Winters family sued Coppola’s production company for $5 billion and wound up with only $100,000. From prison, Salva had written a screenplay that he later was greenlighted to direct - the 1995 film “Powder” distributed by Disney’s Hollywood Pictures.[69] Despite Disney knowing yet hiring this criminal pervert and now twice convicted pedophile, Salva was never in any way hindered from the project, regularly hanging out with underage children hired as extras, allowing them to sit in his director’s chair and frequently lunching with them [and likely on them]. Thus, for three straight decades in Hollywood, this child rapist’s career has remained untouched by his criminal past and been allowed to continue prospering while working nonstop directly with children, directing his latest feature “Jeepers Creepers 3” released in October 2017.[70] Bottom line, if perps make money for the Hollywood studios, they stay employed regardless of how many children’s lives get destroyed in the process.

Another shameful story is Hollywood casting director James Murphy, responsible for scouting and hiring children in some of the most successful films in the last 15 years including “School of Rock” and “Super 8.” Before his career in Hollywood, while living in Seattle, an obsessed Murphy “fell in love” with a little boy in a nearby elementary school, kidnapping him disguised as a woman in 1996 and taking him to New York City where he was spotted by a hotel clerk who recognized him from “America’s Most Wanted.”[71]

Murphy was arrested on kidnapping and molestation charges and did time as a convicted pedophile. But just five years after the Seattle abduction, he was at it again, this time working as a Hollywood casting director choosing child actors for big movies. Eventually his sordid past caught up to him, again no help from an industry caught looking the other way to allow another serial predator access to working with hundreds of vulnerable kids.

Bob Villard became Leonardo DiCaprio and Toby Maguire’s manager along with scores of other child actors over the years. Yet prior to those two even beginning their careers, in 1987 Villard was arrested for child pornography but the prosecution blew the case and the pedophile was set free.[72] For the next 14 years Villard continued working in Hollywood until his criminal pastime, collecting photos of underage boys, finally did put him behind bars in 2001. But an incredibly short time later, in 2005 the molester was caught yet again sexually assaulting a 13-year old potential client he’d been lusting after. Hollywood shamefully allowed this pedophile to sexually act out and get caught three times after damaging countless victims prior to finally prohibiting him from working again in the field.

A final case in this ever-so-brief sampling of working pedophiles in Hollywood who fall into the “catch and release” file, comes Jason Michael Handy. But keep in mind that hundreds more convicted pedophiles are also “handy” even today, still lurking at every level of the business to molest, rape and sodomize more kids every chance they get. And even worse is the fact that perhaps a thousand times that number are/were/will be working in the entertainment industry but their sex crimes have yet to be noticed or caught… or if deemed big enough, they simply continue secretly buying off their victims with hush money and non-disclosure agreements.

But back to Mr. Handy, who in his private journal identified himself as a “pedophile, full blown.” Using a telephoto lens, this peeping pedophile snapped over a thousand pictures of little girls frolicking at an elementary school across the street from his home.[73] As a Malibu church volunteer, he worked regularly with 6-year old kids. But as a production assistant at Nickelodeon, one of the biggest producers of children’s television programs, he was granted unlimited access to children both on and off the set. Introducing himself as a bigtime Nickelodeon producer to underage girls both off and online, Handy promised two girls stardom with careers in television that he soon molested, forever shattering their hopes and dreams if not lives. In 2004 the predator was convicted on two felony counts, a lewd act on a child and distributing child pornography as well as a misdemeanor for child sexual exploitation. After his prison time, in 2009 Jason Michael Handy moved east to North Carolina where he was forced to register as a convicted sex offender.[74] But a decade after his first conviction, the serial pedophile was again charged with three more counts of indecent liberties on a child and two sex offender violations. You have to wonder how many lives this pervert ruined of victims who never reported his crimes.

Turning to long overdue rude reckonings revisited upon two aging A-listers, Roman Polanski and Woody Allen have yet to legally pay for their alleged sex crimes. Prior to Weiner or WeinGate’s sea changing wave, or more like still breaking tsunami, an amnesic minute ago hypocritical Hollywood was busily rallying behind the “gross injustice” for decades hanging over the “much maligned” filmmaker Roman Polanski for his “indiscretion” so many years ago when the then 44-year old director admitted to drugging and raping a 13-year old American girl that ever since has him living as a fugitive on the run from US law.[75]

Of course the Hollywood community may also have extended sympathy for the director for 8 years earlier losing his 8-months pregnant actress wife Sharon Tate in the tragic bloody 1969 Laurel Canyon murders at the satanic hands of the CIA-linked Charles Manson clan.[76] While Sharon and her unborn child and others were being brutally stabbed to death, the pedophile A-lister was still filming what would become a horror classic about the devil growing inside Mia Farrow after Church of Satan founder Anton LaVey playing Satan himself had impregnated Rosemary in “Rosemary’s Baby.”[77] Veteran journalist Randy “Rocket” Cody emphatically claims that Roman Polanski was a member of the same Hollywood satanic coven he asserts Warren Beatty and Jack Nicholson were the “shot callers” that stabbed Polanski’s wife and unborn child to death in a satanic blood sacrifice.[78]

Right after pleading guilty in 1977 to raping Samantha Geimer (formerly Gailey) at Jack Nicholson’s house (who was away at the time), the infamous director Polanski fled America before he was issued a lengthy 50 year prison sentence, after the judge had changed his mind to renege on an extremely light plea bargain deal.[79] As both a French-Polish dual citizen, over the next four decades the admitted pedophile has successfully evaded the law and been allowed to freely work, travel, accept accolades from a pedo-friendly, pedo-saturated industry and live unobstructed in luxury in various homes in Europe. But worst of all the serial pedophile was free to rape more minors.

Then just when it appeared he too was completely immune from the law, after Polanski’s arrival in Zurich, Switzerland in September 2009 to accept a distinguished international award for outstanding lifetime achievement in the film industry, under US pressure the Swiss police suddenly arrested him.[80] While awaiting a decision from Swiss authorities on his US extradition, Polanski was briefly jailed though soon allowed house arrest in his Swiss chalet home while the Bern government decided whether or not to comply with the US extradition request. Ultimately in July 2010, the Swiss justice minister announced that Polanski would not be extradited back to America.[81] So the child rapist dodged yet another bullet.

Just as the Weinstein headlines were surfacing, Polanski smugly told The Hollywood Reporter last October that his 1977 rape case was "over," claiming he paid for his crime serving time briefly in 1977 and again in 2009.[82] But the truth of the matter is, Roman Polanski not only illegally avoided years behind bars for his admitted US pedophilic crime, he also escaped added time as an international fugitive and has never faced any other subsequent charges or prosecution as a serial pedophile. It's come out that he allegedly raped a number of other underage victims. In the meantime, no doubt mindful of this, in August 2017 the presiding Los Angeles judge is keeping the 1977 Geimer case still open despite the victim's request to dismiss it, for her merciful sake pleading the judge to leave it behind.[83]

Immediately after his brief detainment in Zurich in 2009, over 100 film industry notables including alleged fellow pedophile Woody Allen, Martin Scorsese, David Lynch, Alejandro Gonzalez Inarritu, Wong Kar Wai, Harmony Korine, Stephen Frears, Alexander Payne, Michael Mann, Wim Wenders, Tilda Swinton, Julian Schnabel, and Pedro Almodovar all signed a petition demanding Polanski's release from custody.[84] Meanwhile, despite five more women coming forth in recent years to accuse Roman Polanski that they too were sexually assaulted as underage girls, with one exception all occurring during the 1970s, and one claiming to be only 10-years old at the time, other than his high profile 1977 conviction, Roman Polanski denies he molested any other victims.[85] British actress Charlotte Lewis who made a film with Polanski in 1986 claimed in 2010 that in 1982 (a half decade after he admitted raping the 13-year old) at age 16, the serial pedophile forced himself on her as well.[86]

Last year a former German actress accused Polanski in 1972 (prior to his California case) of bringing the then 15-year old back to his chalet outside of Bern on the promise of an acting role in his next movie prior to proceeding to rape her.[87] After apologizing for his crime, he cast her in a small role in the film "Che?" but then allegedly raped her a second time at a house in Rome. In November 2017 the victim's hopes of her day in court were thwarted, again due to statute of limitation laws, this time in Europe. So once again due to the unbroken history of a broken legal system that globally protects powerful pedophiles, all investigations into this director's serial sex crimes have been dropped and the 84-year old Polanski remains a free man to live out the rest of his days on earth outside America in peace and serenity, unlike his multiple victims.

Regarding the other high profile pedo-case involving another famously renowned octogenarian director, the 2014 open letter confession of Woody Allen's alleged victimized daughter Dylan Farrow in the New York Times[88] and a recent CBS interview weighing in with her side of the 1992 molestation incident[89] both took a New York minute to hardly make a splash before too soon forgotten. Dylan graphically disclosed her father's sexual abuse perpetrated when she was 7 inside her Connecticut home:

I was taken to a small attic crawl space in my mother's country house in Connecticut by my father. He instructed me to lay down on my stomach and play with my brother's toy train that was set up. And he sat behind me in the doorway, and as I played with the toy train, I was sexually assaulted. As a 7-year old I would say, I would have said he touched my private parts. Which I did say. As a 32-year old, he touched my labia and my vulva with his finger.[90]

To dodge this legal bullet over a quarter century ago, Woody Allen opportunistically used his celebrity clout and sequence of events to categorically dismiss his longtime partner Mia Farrow's original molestation claims. Allen labeled Mia as the scorned wife reacting vengefully upon discovering nude Polaroid photos of another Farrow daughter - then 21-year old Soon-Yi with legs spread apart sitting on a couch taken by Woody at his stepdaughter's suggestion.[91] And the epic battle over custody of their three shared children was launched. The judge not only gave full custody of their three kids to Mia but prohibited contact between all of them except monitored visitation with his son Ronan (then named Satchel).

It's also noteworthy to add that in 1993 the Connecticut state attorney's office lead investigative prosecutor believed that Allen did sexually abuse Dylan with "probable cause" to prosecute. But Mia Farrow and he did not want to further impose more trauma on the 7-year old with a trial, sadly giving Allen a free pass with the decision not to prosecute.[92] To this day Dylan Farrow still lives with the sex abuse trauma and laments and regrets that she too was denied her day in court. Meanwhile, the 82-year old director continues making movies with full backing of the Hollywood elite, box office audiences and adoring loyal fans. But from Dylan's POV, witnessing decades of her father's consistent lying and denials has hurt her to the core. With young children of her own, today Dylan Farrow is working tirelessly to help prevent child abuse in her support of other abuse victims.

Her brother Ronan Farrow has come to his sister's defense, believing his father Woody Allen did sexually assault his two year older sister.[93] As the journalist instrumental in breaking the Harvey Weinstein story,[94] Ronan personally knows from his own painful family history how his father’s PR spin machine used historically by powerful male predators as a weapon against courageous young victims daring to speak the truth, are always put through the fire of relentless campaign smears, character assassination and a hellish nightmare of judgment and condemnation. He witnessed this firsthand with both his mother and sister when branded “crazy, coached, and vindictive” Jezebels.[95]

As a journalist in recent years while covering the Bill Cosby cover-up just prior to Cosby’s denial bubble popping, Ronan encountered the complicity and collusion of the mainstream media shielding and protecting big name pedophiles and sexual abusers in MSM’s good ol’ boys [and girls] network.[96] Access to stars depends on the symbiotic partnership between the star machine and the press. Thus delving into too personal or controversial ground is considered taboo and off limits. A typical example is his own sister’s story. The New York Times limited her “confession” to 936 words within Pulitzer Prize winning journalist Nicholas Kristof’s article full of caveats that initially ran on Kristof’s blog site. In contrast, shortly afterwards the NYT provided the accused twice as much print space centrally positioned in prime section without caveats.

Journalist Ronan Farrow initially opposed his sister going public with her story, reviving old painful memories, but something he would later regret. In a May 2016 Hollywood Reporter article, he wrote:

I believe my sister. This was always true as a brother who trusted her, and, even at 5 years old, was troubled by our father's strange behavior around her: climbing into her bed in the middle of the night, forcing her to suck his thumb - behavior that had prompted him to enter into therapy focused on his inappropriate conduct with children prior to the allegations… I've approached the case as an attorney and a reporter, and found her allegations to be credible. The facts are persuasive and well documented… The only final legal disposition is a custody ruling that found Woody Allen's behavior 'grossly inappropriate' and stressed that 'measures must be taken to protect [Dylan].'[97]

With all the commotion stirred up by the Weinstein #Me Too movement, Woody's old pedophilic tendencies came back to once again bite him in his scrawny little ass. Stars from Woody Allen's past movies including Colin Firth, Greta Gerwig and Mira Sorvino have lined up to publicly apologize and distance themselves, expressing regret over ever working with the infamous director.[98] Meanwhile Timothée Chalamet, the star of Allen's current film "A Rainy Day in New York," announced all his earnings from the movie will go to women's advocacy groups. But Allen's closest allies and friends like Diane Keaton have recently rushed to his defense. In a late January 2018 tweet Keaton says she still believes Allen and urges watching an old 1992 60 Minutes interview where Allen publicly defends himself.[99] Another tweet from controversial actor Alec Baldwin cruelly likens Woody's incest victim Dylan to the character in To Kill a Mockingbird who makes up the lie that she was raped by an innocent man.[100]

Yet another rich and famous entertainer who escaped paying for his long buried pedo-crimes is the seminal rock n' roll legend and Eagles front man Don Henley. Back in his heavy drug days amidst his many mind-altering stupors, Henley made it a regular habit to repeatedly rape teenage girls. On a November night just before Thanksgiving 1980, Don called up his procuring madam to round up some new young flesh for his illegal carnal addiction.[101] With an unlimited supply of cocaine, Quaaludes, marijuana and alcohol, the rocker drugged and raped a 15-year old runaway and a comatose 16-year old who shortly afterwards went into violent convulsions. Henley kept taking Polaroids throughout the night’s debauchery that the 15-year old smartly managed to slip under her clothes in spite of the arriving parade of paramedics, assigned order followers in suits and follow-up detectives. Just another rock n’ roller’s drug-infested orgy gone bad… all neatly cleaned up by his well-paid accomplices - entertainment handlers and legal fixers, spending lots of money colluding with corrupt law enforcement officials to effectively cover-up another batshit rocker’s messy crime scene.

After the convulsing 16-year old victim was released from the hospital and detoxed off of drugs at a local shelter, a year later she was found dead near the 101 freeway. Her friends and staff from the shelter claim that her demise was not caused by an accidental suicide as authorities so quickly ruled. The famous drummer boy even had the nerve to later pen a get-even song against the “bubble-headed beach blonde,” aka LA’s KABC channel 7 anchor Christine Lund for snooping into his “Dirty Laundry” business where newscasters seeking the ugly truth don’t belong, incredibly making himself richer as the self-proclaimed “victim.”[102]

In the meantime, the 15-year old runaway given cash and a one way bus ticket to leave town also ended up getting clean and in northern California went off to college, graduated, eventually married and now has children. Her husband, an up and coming state politician, is supporting the former runaway with the Polaroids’ plans to take Henley, his former manager Irving Azoff and former record label mogul David Geffen to court in 2018 allocating all future court settlement proceeds toward assisting sexually abused youth.[103] Don Henley of course joins hundreds of egomaniacal, high flying drug- and sex-crazed musicians, actors and politicians whose royalty lifestyle went to their heads always enabling them full impunity to destroy countless, nameless young lives sent to their early graves. But the dawning age of truth and accountability may just also be the age of karmic comeuppance for some of these heavy hitting aging pedophiles.

Another dark, lurid tale hidden deep in the Luciferian crime vault also from over a quarter century ago comes none other than the coke snorting, Mena Airport smuggling former governor[104] and pedo-prez Bill Clinton[105] (whose name somehow creeps into every chapter of this A-Z pedo-encyclopedia). Turns out that the late great comedian from the mid-1980s to early 90s, the notorious screamer comic Sam Kinison was assassinated, not the chance victim of a 1992 highway mishap on the way to Vegas as the media would have us believe. Nope, Sam and his wife were growing awfully nervous and agitated knowing that Bill and Sam’s drug habit was responsible for the overdose death of yet another underage statutory rape victim after Sam partied hardy with the Arkansas guv just prior to Bill’s POTUS run.[106] Uneasy over the Kinison liability, the demonic evildoers came up with their solution, get the dead girl’s teenage boyfriend to believe Sam supplied the drugs that killed her before raping her, and then sic the revengeful ex as the “killer on the road, his brain squirming like a toad” to avenge and neutralize Sam Kinison. And just like that, unencumbered by another potentially “messy” situation to interfere with their ambitious future lives, in November that same year Bill and Hillary were given the nod to merrily traipse off to the White House and the rest is their criminal history. And hapless Sam’s still alive, terrified widow who survived the crash has kept her mouth shut ever since.

On a positive note, as of late largely thanks to the Weinstein scandal, Corey Feldman has been joined by a small but growing chorus of fellow truth-telling actor whistleblowers openly talking about their own observations and encounters with pedophilia. Perhaps the most well-known former child actor turned adult actor now 37 who has helped expose pedophilia in Hollywood is Elijah Wood. In May 2016 in a

Sunday Times interview he made major international headlines. Fresh upon arrival from Iowa and starring in his first role at age 8, the protagonist from the “Lord of the Rings Trilogy” whose acting career now spans nearly three decades reflected on his work environment as a child actor in the 1990s:

> Clearly something major was going on in Hollywood. It was all organized. There are a lot of vipers in this industry, people who only have their own interests in mind. There is darkness in the underbelly… From my reading and research, I’ve been led down dark paths to realize that these things probably are still happening. If you’re innocent, you have very little knowledge of the world and you want to succeed, people with parasitic interests will see you as their prey. What bums me about these situations is that the victims can’t speak as loudly as the people in power. That’s the tragedy of attempting to reveal what is happening to innocent people: they can be squashed, but their lives have been irreparably damaged.[107]

Wood explained how he avoided Tinsel-Town’s dark pedo-underbelly thanks to his mother focusing more on his being raised “a good human” than making it at all cost as a child star:

> I never went to parties where that kind of thing was going on. This bizarre industry presents so many paths of temptation. If you don’t have some kind of foundation, typically from family, then it will be difficult to deal with.[108]

After catching heat for being so rudely bold to suggest UK’s Jimmy Savile scandal is comparable to Hollywood’s child sex scandal, Elijah Wood was forced to retract some of his earlier comments, admitting that he never directly had experience in his career with pedophilia but was merely responding to the emotionally gripping documentary he’d recently viewed,[109] “An Open Secret.” Writer Jack Cashill conjectured that

Wood may have abruptly changed his tune in order to have saved his own career.[110]

Child actor Todd Bridges who starred in the 1980s sitcom series “Diff’rent Strokes” went public in 2010 disclosing that his manager who also was a family friend sexually abused him at the age of 11 on four occasions.[111] Todd managed to resist the fifth attempt and later physically attacked his molester when he showed up at his family home, joined by his mother, a child abuse victim herself, who ran to the kitchen for a knife after hearing her son yell, “He touched me!” Bridges was abused while his sitcom was highly popular, but as is so common, never told a soul. In 1983 a controversial two-part “Diff’rent Strokes” episode took on the topic pedophilia that brought up intense feelings of seething anger, shame and pain in Todd who kept it bottled up inside, later battling drugs as well.

In 2012 both Bridges and Feldman teamed up as outspoken child actor advocates to successfully campaign for California legislation requiring fingerprinted background checks for all child talent managers, photographers, and publicists that regularly have unsupervised access to children in the entertainment business.[112] During a November 2017 appearance on the Dr. Oz show, the now 52-year old discussed how Hollywood predators routinely groom their targeted prey in order to gain victims’ trust prior to moving in for their kill.

Actor James Van Der Beek, a young star from the 1990s “Dawson Creek” series, took to a couple of revealing tweets last October describing his encounters with older established Hollywood predators:

I’ve had my ass grabbed by older, powerful men, I’ve had them corner me in inappropriate sexual conversation when I was much younger. I understand the unwarranted shame, powerlessness & inability to blow the whistle. There’s a power dynamic that feels impossible to overcome.[113]

In response to Weinstein, respected two time Oscar winning writer-director Paul Haggis suggested that Hollywood does indeed have a major pedophilia problem in its midst, believing that insiders are and were covering for pedophiles too.[114] And last October another Oscar winner Reese Witherspoon disclosed that she was sexually assaulted as an underage girl but alluded to it being just the beginning of more predatory encounters to come:

[I feel] true disgust at the director who assaulted me when I was 16 years old and anger at the agents and the producers who made me feel that silence was a condition of my employment. And I wish that I could tell you that was an isolated incident in my career, but sadly it wasn’t. I’ve had multiple experiences of harassment and sexual assault and I don’t speak about them very often.[115]

In the last couple years Jon Robberson has emerged from the Hollywood snake pit as a whistleblowing insider that has intimately worked within all facets of the entertainment industry that includes feature films, television and commercial programming at all the major studios and networks for 16 years.[116] Like actors Feldman and Wood, he has gone on public record asserting that a satanic pedophile ring controls Hollywood. He concludes that pedophilia is “running rampant in Hollywood,” which he refers to as a “satanic death cult,” remarking that:

The highest upper echelons of Hollywood, executive VPs of development, producers, mega-power agents and the international bankers fund all this stuff.[117]

Robberson has stated that the Hollywood pedo-cabal hooks child and adolescent aged actors on drugs and then involves them in parties with cameras rolling to engage in decadent activities like “multi-partner homosexual [orgies], bloodletting, and animal dismemberment” for blackmail purposes (not unlike the Epstein operation from the last chapter):

Once they’ve got the goods on you on video, they own you.[118]

Jon Robberson maintains that the ruling Hollywood pedophiles then use their leverage to force compromised, blackmail-able, hungry actors into being owned and controlled by their Luciferian masters. Though homosexuality and pedophilia have long been embedded in Hollywood, during his time working in Tinsel-Town over the past 16 years during this 21st century, Robberson has witnessed a homosexual pederast pedophilic takeover of the entire entertainment industry.[119]

In order to get where they are today, pretty much all the male stars in show business must obediently submit to literally taking it up the ass by the ruling Hollywood devils.[120] The obligatory “casting couch” extends today to virtually every man, woman and child as their only path to the top. This corrupt and vile system also explains why the creative talent rising to the top of the heap in recent years has suffered and fallen off to a new low because those who sell their soul for fame and fortune no longer require talent as their strongest suit. They must simply play their submissive roles as malleable, totally manipulated and controlled Satanic tools transmitting their industry’s prevailing perversions and debauchery to a waiting audience of adoring, highly influenced fans around the world.

The price of Hollywood superstardom is selling your soul to the devils that run Tinsel-Town, calling upon interdimensional demonic forces while participating in Satanic ritual sodomizing, cutting up and eating the hearts of innocent sacrificed children. In order to make it really big, virtually all the most famous stars in the movie, television and music industries must submit to the most disgusting and degrading acts of perversion and sleaze imaginable. That's why they all tow the line. And if one dare speak the truth to expose this demonically controlled system, they're immediately thrown to the wolves. All of a sudden their careers and reputations are ruined with bad publicity, deemed "crazy," "on drugs," "gay," amidst sudden brushes with the law, or even suicided or premature death, rarely if ever heard from again. Just ask comedians Kat Williams[121] and Dave Chappelle,[122] or Will Smith and wife Jada Pinkett[123]… "step out of line, the man come and take you away."[124]

Bob Dylan, Katy Perry, Rihanna, Beyoncé,[125] Jay-Z,[126] Lady Gaga[127] and other famous luminaries are on record one way or another copping to making their unsacred deal, signing their Luciferian contract. Jon Robberson articulates the two deal option for entertainers who more than anything else desire unlimited fame and fortune, the 10-year agreement most common to the rock star crowd and the popular 20-year plan typically opted by movie stars. Without Robberson alleging that high profile musicians on the dead 27 Club list[128] (among them Amy Winehouse, Kurt Cobain, Jimi Hendrix, Jim Morrison, Janis Joplin) all made pacts with the devil, nor the many famous celebrities who died less than a year from their 37th birthday (Princess Di, Marilyn Monroe, Bob Marley, Vincent Van Gough, Corey Haim, Sam Kinison, John Kennedy Jr.),[129] but the sheer, inordinate number within these "died too young" clubs reaching such urban legend status should not be entirely ignored. The Luciferian dealmaker may not always be the one who dies as a blood sacrifice of close kin is perhaps more common as alluded to in the Polanski-Tate case.

The bold Hollywood insider Robberson also addresses the disturbing topic of baby breeders who give birth to infants for the sole purpose of being murdered in satanic ritual sacrifice. Jon asserts that parents from multigenerational Illuminati witchcraft families enter into a covenant with a Luciferian priest who impregnates their 12-year old daughter who then is quietly relocated to where a Wiccan midwife helps birth the child leaving no paper trail or birth certificate.[130] When the baby is but a few days to a couple months old, expendable newborns are then tossed on to a heated stone Moloch altar only to sizzle to death in satanic ritual just like the days of ancient Babylon. Robberson disclosed that he is aware of these Hollywood Luciferian murder sites in secret locations in Malibu as well as the California desert.

Related is the Illuminati-CIA-military nexus also reputedly possessing a myriad of underground facilities and tunnels beneath a number of key mind control-sex trafficking centers like LA west side's Getty Museum,[131] nearby Disneyland and Florida's Disney World[132] as well as scores of DUMBs like under Area 51 in the Nevada desert.[133] At these top secret locations the ruling elite deploys black ops research to further develop super advanced technologies (some through back-engineering of alien spacecraft)[134] as well as conduct diabolical experimentation that at times carry disastrous results, all of course withheld from public disclosure for sinister purposes. Moreover, much of today's big budget sci-fi films coming out of Hollywood feature technology that the ruling controllers already secretly possess.

Currently a converted Catholic, the former "High Wizard" of the World Church of Satan for 26 years, Zachary King recently spoke to a packed audience at a Toronto conference on spiritual warfare.[135] The veteran of many Satanic rituals performed for the Hollywood elite says he “lost count” of the number, but points to the sheer hypocrisy when:

> You see these celebrities and these movie business executives thanking Jesus at the Oscars, but it’s all lies. What you don't see is them drinking the blood of an infant they've just raped and sacrificed while they were begging Lucifer to ‘bless them’with more fame and riches .[136]

Zachary King maintains that the vast majority of the Hollywood superstars are in fact “child killing pedophiles who worship Satan,” explaining that most have either “killed or raped children” during a “Satanic sacrifice.”[137] Having been sexually abused himself at age 11, prompting him at age 13 to join a satanic coven and sell his soul to the devil, King is now motivated to fully expose the pedophilia epidemic running rampant throughout the entertainment industry. He said that the war against pedophilia can only be fought with spiritual warfare and cannot be defeated by physical means alone, specifying that:

> If the people work together, they can put an end to the misery so many children are going through. Perhaps some may be spared altogether from the life myself, and so many others, have had to endure at the hands of Satanic oligarchs that control our world.[138]

The Luciferians running the entertainment industry not only are out to micromanage and control their world famous actors and musicians to do their demonic bloody bidding as powerbroker puppets just like their owned politicians, but they’re also out to control the global masses consuming their mass produced, sleazy entertainment faire. As a propaganda machine Hollywood has been churning out a product that is an integral brainwashing mind control vehicle to increasingly manipulate, influence and shape the global masses’ values, mores, beliefs, behaviors and perception of reality. Through largely an unconscious process of osmosis, worldwide audiences subliminally absorb constant underlying messages subtly or unsubtly embedded in amoral and immoral thematic lessons calculatingly crafted and projected by Hollywood. Through relentless 24/7 repetition comes belief and credibility, however false or sinister the content of the message might be.

More so than at any other time in human history, the planetary controllers have malevolently exploited the ill effects of mass media in this push-button, multimodal, electronic age as an effective means of exercising ever-expanding influence, centralized power and increasing control over the digitally addicted global population.

For numerous decades the mental health community has definitively proven beyond any doubt that:

Music videos [TV, films, video games] socialize young people by communicating ideas about expected behavior, relationships, and male and female roles.[139]

Glorifying violence to willfully make it not only an acceptable norm but a desirable form of masculine expression as a tangible measure of male prowess and brute strength has been used as the mass media industry constant to successfully condition and entice multigenerational misguided young men (and now women) to sign up, fight and die in endless elitist wars perpetrated by Wall Street bankers and the military industrial complex for as long as Hollywood's been creating movies.[140] Similar to the CIA's Mockingbird control over MSM[141] relegating it to its current role as a national propaganda "fake news" ministry,[142] a brigade of CIA, NSA, FBI and MI operatives are deployed in Hollywood to control the studio production line that ensures the truth exposing the lies, corruption and evil is effectively censored and fails to reach the people while only Deep State approved disinformation and false narratives get disseminated.[143]

On the topic of CIA's control over Hollywood, the always brutally honest fireball comedienne Roseanne Barr told RT back in 2013 that CIA rules Hollywood:

Hollywood is the one that keeps all of this power structure. They perpetuate the culture of racism, sexism, classism, genderism and keep it all in place. They continue to feed it, and they make a lot of money doing it. They do it at the behest of their masters, who run everything. It's a big culture of mind control, MK Ultra rules in Hollywood.[144]

Hence, the government owned YouTube, Facebook, Twitter and Google resort to increasing censorship[145] to ban the most honest and accurate online news outlets and videos on McCarthy-like "fake news" lists[146] as the New World Order's thinly veiled cover for suppressing the truth that by process of elimination leaves only the MSM presstitutes and Hollywood propagandists as the exclusive purveyors of Deep State lies and deception. The Hollywood propaganda machine propagates a divide and conquer strategy based on racism, sexism and bigotry, fear and deception.[147] Totalitarianism is achieved only after a controlled citizen populace is completely denied access to the truth. Welcome to the Orwellian world where "in a time of universal deceit, telling the truth becomes a revolutionary act"[148] and a truth teller an enemy of the state.

As one very revealing example of this ongoing global crisis targeting truth tellers, journalists around the world who expose what's really going on today have never been at greater risk of incarceration and assassination than right now.[149] The internet as the only venue left where an open and free press still exists for the people, is fast coming under what ex-spy Robert David Steele calls Google Gestapo control as Deep State desperately moves in for its kill, suppressing the dissident voice.[150] But fortunately alternative solutions are currently in process and we the people's access to the truth will never be hut down.[151]

Hollywood's overly excessive, obsessive focus depicting such negative, dark themes of supernatural, occult and demonic evil forces is no accident. It's by calculated NWO design not only to generate big box office bucks, the horror genre also lowers the masses' sense of morality and ethics.[152] According to the cathartic theory, the appeal of scary flicks is derived from vicariously offering emotional discharge of pent up fear that on an unconscious, deeper level would otherwise pose too threatening and overpowering anxiety for any average individual to consciously bear. The moviegoer's sense of relief is the hook.[153]

The controlled titillation emoted while passively watching suspensefully engineered horror movies as escapist entertainment may seem harmless and mundane at the surface level. But a deeper analysis conveys a relentless stream of hidden subliminal messages propagating distorted and depraved values within a larger, increasingly dangerous world controlled by power demons pushing their supernatural occult agenda. A steady 24/7 diet of debaucherously filthy sleaze and blood and gore saturation is intended to desensitize and numb humans to extreme levels of violence, perversion and the pain of others.[154] The evil power structure, long hidden in plain sight, constantly normalizing gratuitous sex, death and slaughter of innocent life, is designed to brainwash and condition the global masses into wholesale acceptance, submission and fear as further means of seizing absolute control over the earth's entire human population.

Furthermore, the increasing overtly demonic messages and images transmitted 24/7 from the Hollywood film, TV, music and video game industries spearheaded by MK Ultra Monarch mind controlled sex kitten superstars date back to blonde goddesses Marilyn Monroe[155] and Satanist Jane Mansfield.[156] But with today's parade of jaded lost souls exemplified by the likes of Cabalist Madonna, sex slaves Britney Spears, Lady Gaga, Katy Perry, Miley Cyrus, Rihanna and Beyoncé and so many celebrities in tight with Pizzagate spirit cooking Luciferian priestess Marina Abramovic,[157] the elite agenda is crystal clear.[158] These beta programmed Monarch sex kittens all directly market their songs and videos straight to children, oozing with sexual Luciferian overtones and [porno]graphic imagery.[159] An over-the-top example is former Disney star Miley Cyrus' video for her song "BB Talk," with her legs spread wide open while wearing a diaper and baby bonnet sucking on a milk bottle nipple singing "fuck me."[160] With a role model like that idolized by countless little girls across this planet, any imitation at all and they instantly unwittingly become pedophilia bait. But then that's the whole idea behind it.

A presentation exposing Hollywood's penchant for pedophilia and perversion wouldn't be complete without historically recognizing the enormous diabolical contributions of such Illuminati luminaries as Walt Disney and Hugh Hefner. Disney was another Masonic-Illuminati pedophile fanatic with a split public vs. private Dr. Jekyll and Hyde personality. Beginning in the 1920s when the cartoonist first established his fledgling company, Disney worked tirelessly to fashion a positive outer image to the world that evolved into the benevolent "Uncle Walt" who "loved" children through his legendary masterful storytelling, providing a "safe, wholesome" place for the creative imaginations of children throughout the world with both his famous animation classics and family fun theme park playgrounds Disneyland and Disney World. But underneath this masquerading warm and fuzzy exterior persona resided a troubled, tortured, conflicted, hardened soul immersed in the dark energy of subliminal perversion and fascist New World Order elitism.[161] Because he had so much to hide, even those who knew him well claim they hardly knew him at all.

Born the bastard son of a washerwoman in a 1901 Spanish village that called the unwed mother “La Bitcha” impregnated by a married doctor who died soon after Walt’s, or more accurately, Jose’s birth.[162] The mother took her illegitimate son to Chicago to live with her brother where a priest promptly arranged a shadow adoption. So from the very beginning of his life, Disney was prone to hiding skeletons in his family closet. At the age of one, Walt was adopted by a stern Midwestern couple Elias Disney, an especially cruel, physically and emotionally abusive father and a distant and cold mother Flora. As a result, young Walt grew up liking animals and trains more than people. As a way out of his painful childhood, Walt Disney immersed himself in the secret ancient teachings of Rosicrucian Gnosis,[163] as a teenager joining the Order of DeMolay, a fraternal organization sponsored by the Freemasons.[164] Recall from Chapter 4 that Jacques DeMolay was the final grand master of the Catholic secret society the Knights Templar before his arrest in 1307 and burning at the stake in 1314 for his Order’s renouncing betrayal of Jesus.

The heralded animation pioneer was deeply steeped and schooled in both Babylonian and Egyptian occultism, Druidic witchcraft tradition, the masonic doctrine as well as Edward Bernays’ art of deception, power of propaganda and mind control.[165] Ever notice the obsessive preponderance of potions and witches’ brews, hexes and spells and reverent deference to occult rituals as a recurring theme in so many of his Disney movies? Much has been written about his other trademark, promoting sex through masking sexualized pedophilic imagery and messages embedded subliminally throughout his films. For instance, in “The Little Mermaid” the castles are clearly phalluses and in a cartoon Mickey Mouse's girlfriend Minnie is seen snorting cocaine.[166] Analytical observers have pointed out literally hundreds more of these not so hidden examples of disturbingly inappropriate content being absorbed by children.

Commencing in the 1930s all male employees at Disney were required to wear ties, be clean shaven with no facial hair, and strictly prohibited from using profanity or they'd be fired on the spot. While Disney enforced legalistic morals, cleanliness and soberness for his workforce, the boss always wore his trademark mustache, drank booze daily at the office and compulsively washed his hands many times a day on an hourly basis (psychologically from guilt over being unclean).[167] The prevailing dark Illuminati forces and Disney's own masonic leanings resonating within him merged to form a mutually self-serving Luciferian pact. As the ambitious head of his burgeoning empire, Disney nurtured a cozy working relationship as an FBI paid informant with America's top law enforcement kingpin and fellow pedophile J Edgar Hoover, helping name names on Hoover, attorney Roy Cohn and Senator Joe McCarthy's Commie blacklist.[168] Disney was also very close friends with pedophile prez Ronald Reagan and Illuminati jester Bob Hope, owner of presidential sex slave Bryce Taylor.

Filmmaker and author Kenneth Anger has called Disney a "dirty old man,"[169] writing in his book Hollywood Babylon II:

> Some animators stated that the boss [Walt Disney] seemed to have fallen in love with the boy.[170]

"The boy" was child actor Bobby Driscoll. "Uncle Walt" took a particular pedo-fetish hankering for his young "Treasure Island" star, maintaining a convenient local apartment for secret trysts to regularly sodomize the young adolescent.[171] Disney's owned boy toy was reportedly used and abused, then discarded, plunging Driscoll down the worn-out pathway to former child star oblivion replete with drug addicted homelessness and by age 31 his final RIP unmarked gravestone as yet another Hollywood pedophile casualty. Driscoll himself remarked:

> … Dropped like garbage when I was no longer a cute little kid and I didn't appeal to [Walt] anymore.[172]

Both Disney and the Illuminati establishment went to great lengths to create and maintain the myth of the legendary man that in reality was based on lies. But woe any truth tellers popping the Disney bubble. Walt's biographer Leonard Mosley wrote:

> The Disney flacks were capable of exerting heavy pressure on editors and proprietors or, through the advertising pages, against anyone who inferred Walt Disney was not the epitome of well-scrubbed and benevolent perfection.[173]

Additionally, CIA MK Ultra mind control programming found a likeminded home remaining alive and well to this day in the world of Disney, be it through underground tunnels built below all its global theme parks to the hapless children who go missing each year from them, undergoing trauma induced dissociative disorder through drugging, torturing and raping (covered in Chapter 9).[174] During the 1960s antiwar movement, US military bases were coming under increasing scrutiny and the decision was made to use Disneyland as a major Illuminati base of mind control operations for all its sordid clandestine criminal activities. 13 Bloodlines of Illuminati author Fritz Springmeier wrote:

> Under the disguise of entertaining the world, they carried out money laundering, child slavery laundering, and mind-control.[175]

The Disney-Deep State nexus that Uncle Walt established with J Edgar Hoover and the CIA led to MK Ultra programming at all the Disney Theme Parks around the world where CIA contractors built an extensive underground world of tunnels, torture chambers and mind control programming centers beneath Disneyland and other parks but especially under Florida’s much larger Disney World.[176]

Plus the Disney films proved a perfect CIA mind control fit. Again Springmeier in his book Illuminati Formula to Create a Mind Control Slave:

… Disney movies and the other shows are so important to the programmers. They are the perfect hypnotic tool to get the child’s mind to dissociate in the right direction… Most of the Disney films are used for programming purposes. Some of them are specifically designed for mind control.[177]

After the man awarded the most Oscars in cinematic history at 22 died at the age of 65 in 1966, the accolades poured in. Journalism professor Ralph S. Izard contended that the values depicted in Disney films are “considered valuable in American Christian society,” which include “individualism, decency... love for our fellow man, fair play and toleration.”[178] That of course is the common public image of Disney’s legacy of work. But contrast that with Walt’s core reality. Per Springmeier’s account devoting a chapter to Disney in his 13 Bloodlines of the Illuminati:

Behind Disney’s good front lies hard porn, snuff films, white slavery, Illuminati mind-control, and the seduction of several generations into witchcraft.[179]

Needless to say, Disney the conglomerate only continued to expand its level of nefarious operations into establishment media, buying the ABC television network and ESPN sports channel and establishing its own Disney Channel. Revenue from Disney’s current media empire nearly equals its profit from its theme parks, resorts and film studios combined.[180] Disney has also acquired a number of film production companies in its growing list of subsidiaries that include

Touchtone, Weinstein’s Miramax, and Hollywood Pictures.[181] With Disney Company indisputably the largest media-entertainment conglomerate in the world now, with the 2017 Forbes Fortune 500 rank at #52,[182] the latest proposed acquisition is Twentieth Century Fox for $52.4 billion.[183] Thus the Disney power to influence, shape and control the minds of millions if not billions across this planet is undisputable.

But the pedophilia and hidden Illuminati agenda have also become increasingly evident, starting with the inordinate number of steadily employed pedophiles that Disney hires who keep getting busted in record numbers. 35 Disney workers have been arrested in Florida alone for various pedophilia crimes.[184] A prominent Disney executive and longtime director of Disney music publishing, 58-year old Jon Heely, was arrested in December 2017 on three counts of child abuse.[185] One of the victims abused for four years was first molested at age 11, another at age 15. And just like his Uncle Walt, the pedophile’s lives the lie, claiming on his Twitter bio that he is all about “Disney concerts and living to glorify God in all things.” Still another eye-opening fact that belies the fake wholesome image is that one of Disney Company’s subsidiaries happens to be America’s largest producer of adult porn films.[186]

It is also no accident that from its Mouseketeer factory The Mickey Mouse Club (starting with the 1950s Annette Funicello),[187] Disney’s been cranking out an endless parade of CIA mind controlled superstars, particularly since the 1990s delivered the bumper crop of Illuminati puppet favorites such as singers Justin Timberlake, Britney Spears and Christina Aguilera, and on a lesser scale heartthrob actor Ryan Gosling and actress Keri Russell.[188] Meanwhile, from the Disney Channel comes a prolific stable that’s spawned the likes of good girl Hannah Montana turned bad girl Miley Cyrus[189] followed by Selena Gomez and Demi

Lovato. Other notable Disney child star alumni gone bonkers, drugged and MK'd are Lindsay Lohan[190] and Shia LaBeouf.[191]

The standard Disney formula covertly grooms Illuminati sex kitten operatives starting as aspiring showbiz kids eager to project the Disney brand of squeaky clean, God-fearing goodness, only to morph overnight into Illuminati sex nymphos perennially in heat just as their adult careers get catapulted to new heights of fame and notoriety. The Disney assembly line machine manufacturing this ongoing stream of wayward pied pipers first hooking then leading the multitudes of impressionable young children as gushing loyal fans around the world into NWO's hedonistic underworld is achieved through Hollywood (and CIA's) magic wand of mass mind control. After all, success of the Luciferian controllers' endgame is essentially contingent upon breeding a docile, dumbed down, celeb worshipping, pleasure seeking human species devoid of intelligence, and especially devoid of any spiritual foundation or moral compass. In the New World Order, only dehumanized, controllable robots are allowed; humans who still think critically will be the first to be purged.[192]

And from the opposite end of the Illuminati spectrum comes the king of soft porn, another dark side occult magician and NWO designated pied piper granted the Luciferian mission to lead America's (and world's) descent into deeper sexual decadence and pedophilic perversions - Playboy entrepreneur Hugh Hefner.[193] From his orgy-stained Playboy Mansion nestled in the hills a stone's throw from Hollywood, for well over a half century Hugh Hefner has been a sex icon entertaining celebrities, Hollywood pedophile moguls, politicians and finance titans, peddling through his media empire promiscuity, hedonism galore, pedophilia and all the debauchery of ancient Rome and Sodom and Gomorrah combined.

A brief look at Hefner's pedophilia past will shed further light. Hugh Hefner in the 1970s published a lesser known magazine called Sugar and Spice. In 1975 when Brooke Shields was just 10 years old Hefner featured nude photos of her in his pedophile magazine.[194] Hef was also personally present for a nude photo session with 11-year old French actress Eva Ionesco. Sexualizing prepubescent girls in photos and distributing child pornography are pedophile crimes. Yet no legal consequence ever took place. These facts reveals that from way back, over 40 years ago, Hugh Hefner exposed himself by his own unlawful actions that he is a pedophile.

As if that's not revealing enough, Hefner's 1953 launching of his Playboy Magazine was financed by the CIA (similar to Gloria Steinem's Ms. Magazine nearly two decades later).[195] From Chapter 9 we learned that the CIA through both its MK Mind Control operations and its systematic child raping as an integral component to manufacturing a multigenerational army of dissociated child sex slaves and its pimping role as chief handlers in the global child sex trafficking trade, and Hefner's lofty Hollywood perch as a pedophile and "free sex" guru for over six decades, and it all begins to make a lot more sense.

A valet that worked for the Playboy entrepreneur for a couple years in 1978-79 stated that Hefner always had cameras installed in his mansion for potential blackmail purposes.[196] And with all the orgies that were so commonplace over the years inviting so many celebrities and VIPs, Hefner got the dirty goods on countless high profile individuals captured on film in debaucherously compromising situations with not only hookers but mind controlled child sex slaves. In this regard, his Hollywood Playboy Mansion became a West Coast version for the CIA as Jeffrey Epstein's "Orgy Island" was for the Mossad.

Since the CIA helped Hefner found Playboy Enterprises, MK Ultra sex slaves were part of the Mansion agenda and blackmail operation as well. As an MK slave handler, the perverted pedophile got involved in deep shit with lots of heinous activities. While performing research on the Hef and his mansion's history, Playboy publishing staff stumbled upon some blueprints and photo archives. It turns out that "the Rape Mansion" as it came to be called, has an entire underground tunnel system built in the 1970s running underneath the property to other famous actors' homes such as Jack Nicholson, Warren Beatty, James Caan and Kirk Douglas among others.[197] A staff member stated that Hefner sealed the tunnels in 1985 after marrying Playmate Kimberly Conrad. The CIA, Hefner and his famous Hollywood pals like Nicholson and Beatty are alleged to have trafficked young women and underage girls, many of whom over the years disappeared, likely sold into slavery or snuffed in snuff films.[198] Other higher profile Hefner commodities like Playmates Dorothy Stratton and Paige Young and Playboy model Anna Nicole Smith were MK sex slaves who were either murdered or suicided for becoming unruly threats.[199] But once again with the Illuminati-Freemason-Luciferian network long in place in Hollywood, owning and controlling all levels of law enforcement both local and national, police serve to provide the necessary cover for their murderous operations.

Former-CIA operative and whistleblower Laurel Aston stated that Hefner was very much connected to the CIA:

Hefner is a CIA programmer, CIA sex slave handler and pimp. Hefner was also a part of running MK Ultra super assassins and ops.[200]

Also a number of Hef's women have admitted he was homosexual and regularly had sex with men and rarely with women.[201] Hefner could only relate to women as exploited sex objects that bolstered his playboy image but was closer to men. Often the world's most famous sexually liberated playboy would watch others have sex.

Implicating the hedonist prince of darkness further, like the traceable genealogy of most US presidents, Hugh Hefner's family also links back to one of the 13 Illuminati bloodlines. It turns out that Hefner directly traces his lineage back to the ancient Dionysian Cult from the Aryan-Anglo-Saxon Dragon Illuminati bloodline.[202] Moreover, Playboy Mansion murals have openly displayed his close association with his Dionysian Cult. The Playboy Mansion's biggest yearly shindig celebrates "A Midsummer's Night Dream" (linked to the pagan satanic summer solstice holiday) that evolved straight from the elite's Royal Luciferian Circle that includes Hefner's Archdruid Dragon bloodline. Like Uncle Walt, Hefner also partook in the secret Rosicrucian doctrine fashioning himself as the modern day Puck, a mythological medieval demon figure. The Rosicrucian cult has an ancient tradition of heavy involvement in mind control and trance inducement akin to the CIA MK Ultra mind control methodology. Since 1953 Hefner has covertly used his Playboy Empire as a CIA mind control base of operations.

That Hefner died last fall at the age of 91 just as law enforcement was purportedly closing in to arrest him while he frantically sought immunity in exchange for singing like a songbird naming big name pedophiles for a plea bargain deal raised speculation he may have been murdered.[203] It's also been reported by a number of sources that a plaintiff named Sheri Denise Allred back in 2009 filed a lawsuit accusing Hefner of sexually molesting her when she was only 5 years old.[204] Sheri alleged that Hugh Hefner was deep into a Hollywood pedophile sex ring. It's recently been reported that in August 2017 (the month before Hefner's death) that the case was reopened due to other complaints against the late playboy. Sheri's garbled Los Angeles

Superior Court complaint for damages is poorly drafted and contains seemingly off the wall, at times unintelligible references.[205]

Sheri Allred repeatedly mentions a hat covering her head “where everyone in the world can hear her thoughts and transfer thoughts to her hat from god.” MK Ultra have EEG skull caps that do in fact detect one’s brainwaves. Considering she is most likely an MK Ultra mind controlled sex slave victim subjected to powerful drugs like LSD, systematic torture and sexual abuse, resulting in dissociative disorder, her accurately identifying Hefner as the leader of the Dionysian Cult and referencing herself as Venus de Milo from Greek mythology, doesn’t seem so farfetched.[206] Additionally, given the context that she was indoctrinated with MK’s standard Walt Disney themes and occult dogma, undergoing recovery of repressed memories with the typical amnesic gaps, all trademark indicators of the Illuminati MK brand of programming, her bizarre written account may not be so bizarre after all. Recall also that the MK torturer-abusers purposely count on a child or adult victim’s seemingly wild-eyed nightmarish claims to be misconstrued as purely fabricated fantasy or delusional psychosis. And with the CIA False Memory Foundation and the “Satanic Panic” label well in place since the 1990s, the Deep State criminal denial machine has easily deflected and dismissed the ramblings of seemingly non-credible accounts as pure fictional imagination (See Chapter 2).

Yet the more we learn of the diabolical Luciferian plot and the very real mind control apparatchik operating on a global scale, together with the worldwide child sex trafficking network orchestrated largely by the CIA using front companies involving human rights charities, State Department, USAID, Red Cross, UN, US military and private contractors, all the Luciferian secret societies, the Catholic Church, the mafia, family adoptions, the broken child welfare, educational and legal systems… and how global war zones provide both the cover and resources for international trafficking of illegal weapons, drugs, money laundering, body parts, and small children, the more tangibly real this massive level of evildoing manifests. The notion that “benign” Uncle Walt and perennial playboy Hef were occultist pedo-ringleaders in a global system gone rotten centuries ago suddenly seems highly plausible.

The fact that Hugh Hefner has been deceased since late September 2017 no doubt provided sufficient cause to suspend an apparent police investigation, particularly in view that the Hollywood pedo-elite historically owns and controls all Southern Californian as well as federal law enforcement agencies. Rather than inquire into an ultra-messy murderous affair implicating their own complicity and the international crime cabal perpetrators, once again in the interests of protecting the elite, predictably it appears authorities have chosen to let sleeping dogs lie.

Incidentally, according to rock journalist Randy “Rocket” Cody among others, last year’s suicided rockers and close friends - Chris Cornell and Chester Pennington - were both assassinated as celebrity ritual sacrifices by the satanic MK Ultra killing cabal for daring to expose the cabal’s pedophilia trafficking network headquartered in Washington and Hollywood.[207] [208]

Even world renowned director Steven Spielberg has shown telling signs that he too may be part of this sinister Hollywood pedophile cabal. Spielberg’s original “Raider of the Lost Ark” screenplay had his Indiana Jones character raping an 11-year old girl with the final film cut modifying their age difference to Jones’ 24 and his rape victim 15.[209] Actor Crispin Glover has directly accused Spielberg of being a pedophile with a penchant for little boys, even winning a lawsuit against the director. The notorious pedo organization

North American Man Boy Love Association NAMBLA has posted numerous links to Spielberg, particularly in connection with the famous director's Peter Pan version called "Hook." By age 21 Spielberg was given finances to write and direct his first movie, a 27-minute short without dialogue filled with a homosexual pedophilic theme called "Ambin'," later the name of his first production company, jumpstarting Spielberg's career with an unprecedented 7-year television contract, making boy wonder the youngest director ever given a long term Hollywood contract. Since Tinsel-Town has been taken over by Luciferian homosexual pedophiles,[210] it might explain his meteoric rise at that tender young age.

The ruling elite's obvious agenda is to keep the citizen masses uniformed and ignorant while its Hollywood media machine continues polluting, warping and contaminating the minds of younger generations in order to completely obscure right from wrong, embrace and spread perversions as diabolically manufactured social engineering, relentlessly pushing the in-our-face LGBT agenda[211] promoting mass gender bending, blurred gender confusion and massive sexual identity chaos amongst our children as young as toddlers.[212] At the same time, the planetary controllers' concerted efforts through their political and media puppets working to lower children's legal age for sexual consent is another blatant ploy to make pedophilia a legalized lifestyle choice and societal norm (See Chapter 2). And in that same vein, the pedo-elite through movies, TV, music and mandatory sex-ed disinfo propaganda are fiendishly toiling overtime to satanically sexualize and pervert our youth.[213] Had Hillary Clinton been elected president, documented evidence in Obama's Attorney General Lynch's Justice Department confirms that pedophilia and bestiality were set to be made legal on the heels of gay marriage after the first known gay president.[214] [215]

Meanwhile, also by Illuminati design, the Luciferian elite has been insidiously undermining and relentlessly attacking, with the ultimate aim of destroying, the nuclear family along with parental rights, Christianity as America's dominant religion, the freedoms guaranteed under our no longer upheld Constitution and our sovereignty as a strong independent nation, replacing them with a fascist one world government and one world Luciferian religion as their longtime agenda.[216] To accomplish this dire sinister end, a false flag intended to ignite World War III[217] (like the recent failed missile attack on Hawaii[218]) and collapsing the global economy are in the works.[219] In wag the dog fashion, the Illuminati are then counting on the pedophilia epidemic necessarily take a backseat when humanity is forced into a 24/7 war crisis survival mode, thereby permitting the international pedo-crime cabal to retain its power and control. We must continue to expose to dispose the pedophilia empire.

Through his vast research and meticulous preparation for his final film "Eyes Wide Shut,"[220] the late great Hollywood director Stanley Kubrick caught the true essence of the planetary overlords' destructive agenda,[221] and by revealing their inner secrets like never publicly displayed before, it may have cost him his life.[222] Just four days after the writer-director's final cut, a full hour longer than the film's eventual theatrical release, an otherwise very healthy 70-year old Kubrick suddenly died mysteriously of an alleged heart attack.[223] The bold Oscar winning actress Nicole Kidman just recently opened up about the renowned director, disclosing in her revealing words that while working on the 1999 film, Stanley Kubrick taught her:

… How the world works and who is really in control behind the scenes. Stanley told me the world is run by pedophiles. He studied secret societies his whole life, he was fascinated by them, and he said the elite, the top secret societies, they are full of men with a certain predilection. They are tied together, sort of bonded, by pedophilia. They all know each other's dark secrets. There is no way out for any of them. It's a lifetime bond. Even if one of them wanted to go straight, repent, so to speak, he can't. His peers will bring him down. They are in it until death, driving the world to ruin. That's how Stanley explained it.[224]

Nicole Kidman gave even more reason for a Kubrick assassination:

Stanley's next film was going to be about psychopathic pedophiles. He said he was going deeper down the rabbit hole.[225]

So nearly two decades before the Pizza-turned PedoGate phenomenon, the world public learning about the pedo-elites via the filmmaking genius of our time had to be stopped… not unlike the abrupt end of another genius from comedy George Carlin whose dark revelations may have gotten too close for elitist comfort.[226]

No doubt an essential component to the "psychopathic pedophiles"' "driving the world to ruin" is through man's rapid descent into utter moral degradation. The elite's grand scale mind control strategy is manipulating the world population to degenerate into living a Sodom and Gomorrah lifestyle guided by no moral or ethical standards, compass or conscience at all. Then not a single soul will bother objecting to Luciferian adults' ritualistic torturing, drugging, sodomizing and sacrificing our youth on a massive scale. Owned and controlled by powerful pedophile kingpins as the world entertainment epicenter for portraying and peddling such extreme levels of sexual debauchery and Luciferian sleaze,[227] Hollywood has long been the ruling elite's most potent propaganda weapon for decriminalizing sodomy against small children. And as much as the DC swamp needs draining, so does this entire filthy cesspool known as

Hollywood, free from the parasitic maggots bent on bringing us all down sooner than later.

Applying the pedophilia epidemic to yet another branch of escapist entertainment - the multibillion dollar sports industry - the next chapter examines how child sexual abuse and global sex trafficking permeate the field of sports at all levels, and how links between Hollywood, the sports industry, governments, Fortune 500 corporations, banking and religion all work hand-in-hand in interlocking criminality of the highest order.

Pedophilia & Empire: Satan, Sodomy, & The Deep State

Chapter 16: The Penn State Coach Jerry Sandusky Saga - Anatomy of a Grooming Pedophile Predator

Section 4: Pedophilia Saturates the World of Sports

Where big money and power rule, so does pedophilia. No human arena on this earth is immune, the multibillion dollar industry of Big Sports of course no exception. From complicit owners, financiers and governing bodies of both professional sports worldwide as well as amateur sports at all levels, from Olympics to college football to national team sports like soccer (football outside US), and girls/women’s gymnastics and swimming, one by one all have been rocked by unprecedented major pedophilia scandals in recent years. And by far the biggest single sports event in the United States, the NFL Super Bowl, also offers child sex traffickers their busiest moneymaking day of the year. What does all this say about America’s favorite pastime, from their living rooms across the nation fixated on the boob tube, passively spectating the bread and circus gladiators, while Luciferian elitists raking in billions are ravenously raping hundreds of children for their after-game dessert? It’s a sick world that literally feeds off children to provide such demonically controlled decadence when our most defenseless population is being savagely served on the elite’s hedonistic pleasure menu. Just as in Hollywood, politics, religion, and the military, Lucifer’s diabolical machine knows no limits extending its unthinkable perversions to every avenue of human commerce, endeavor and amusement.

This section of the book will detail how pedophilia has corruptively invaded the world of sports, in a plethora of venues, beginning with the pedophilia scandal that painfully shook and shattered Happy Valley, still dividing Pennsylvania State University and the State College community today.[1] How the school’s beloved head football Coach Joe Paterno and top administrative officers covered up the pedophilia crimes of his assistant coach for decades with absolutely no regard for countless child victims is fully laid bare and exposed in this chapter. Also uncovered is how the Coach Sandusky scandal maintained ties connecting the New York-Philadelphia-DC pipeline that extends to the most prominent political elite operating the Eastern Seaboard child sex trafficking network.

Previous chapters have explored the inner workings and dynamics of the global child sex trafficking network, chiefly orchestrated by CIA pimps operating covertly through CIA front organizations like the US State Department, USAID and hundreds of charitable organizations, aided and abetted at every turn by top government officials like pedo-presidents and pedo-prime ministers along with secret societies from Freemasonry and Illuminati to those belonging to the Catholic Church led by the pope and his fellow Vatican Luciferians. We've caught glimpses of how this mammoth worldwide pedophilia operation is used as a blackmailing machine vis-a-vis the Zionist-Mossad Epstein Orgy Island operation selecting, grooming and ultimately owning and controlling the Luciferian system's most powerful leaders… and how these most powerful leaders like the demonic worshipping pedophilic families the Bushes and Clintons and their criminal cabal directly oversee the global sex trafficking operations.

And now through the crimes of longtime Penn State University football Coach Jerry Sandusky, we will delve deeper down the rabbit hole to glimpse the anatomy of how individual pedophiles carefully select and groom their child victims and how they are subsequently able for decades to continue getting away with heinously preying on defenseless children. But lastly, in each of this section's two chapters, our focus on pedophilia within the sports world will explicitly illuminate how each institutionalized scandal is neither randomly isolated nor operates in a vacuum independent of each other. Each and every one of them are part of the larger interconnected, systemic Luciferian whole that interlocks top levels of international and national governing bodies, organized crime, corporate media, religion, central banking and private industry.

Chapter 16: The Penn State Coach Jerry Sandusky Saga - Anatomy of a Grooming Pedophile Predator Enabled by a Legendary Head Coach, a Powerhouse Football Team and Respected University that Shamefully Values Winning over Children’s Safety

74-year old Jerry Sandusky is now the life imprisoned grandson of Polish immigrants and a Polish American father who was the director of a children’s sports center for over 30 years in the family’s hometown of Washington, located in southwestern Pennsylvania not far from America’s steel capital Pittsburgh. Unless he lives to be 98, Sandusky is destined to die in prison for his diabolical sins against children. For his father’s contribution to providing recreational sports activities to local youth for multiple generations in Washington, Pennsylvania, likely enhanced by his son’s coaching stature as longtime defensive coordinator for the prestigious Penn State Nittany Lions football team, Arthur Sandusky was voted into the Pennsylvania Sports Hall of Fame in 1989,[2] seven years before his death. With Jerry Sandusky’s mother an Irish Catholic homemaker from a small coal mining town, by all appearance sake, Jerry enjoyed a wholesome, clean-cut upbringing within the quintessential all-American small town suburban setting, though in Sandusky’s 1999 autobiography Touched,[3] the convicted serial pedophile described himself growing up “an awkward, shy” kid. Residing upstairs on the second floor of the Brownson House, the youth center run by his father constantly supplying a wide array of sports for local children, in high school Jerry Sandusky exceled at football, basketball and baseball before attending nearby Penn State University where he emerged as the starting defensive end from 1963-65, nurtured by then assistant coach Joe Paterno.[4]

Other than a brief stint in the Army at the tail end of WWII, Jerry's longtime boss Coach Joe Paterno never held a job outside of football. The ex-Brown University quarterback straight out of the Ivy League took to coaching America's most popular game. In 1950 at the behest of his former Brown turned Penn State Coach Rip Engle, Paterno arrived in Happy Valley as a 24-year old assistant coach.[5] While Sandusky played under him in the mid-60s, in 1966 new head coach Paterno made Sandusky his graduate assistant. With the exception of yearlong stints as assistant coach at Juniata College and Boston University in 1967-68, the famed Penn State head coach hired the young Sandusky in 1969 as his assistant linebacker coach, officially commencing Sandusky's 32-year tenure as Paterno's longest running assistant coach.

Joe Paterno's legendary record at Penn State piling up 409 wins from 1966-2011 distinguished "JoePa" as major college football's all-time winningest coach in US history.[6] With a total of 61 consecutive years as a Penn State coach, and the longest running coach of a single team with the most wins ever as a head coach that included 5 undefeated seasons, two national championships, 24 bowl wins and roughly two of his every three years rankings in the top 10, Sandusky's boss for over three decades, is indisputably recognized as America's greatest college football coach in a rich history of the sport dating back to near a century and a half.

And as the right hand assistant to America's greatest coach ever, Sandusky enjoyed Emeritus status after his official 1999 retirement seemingly right up to his November 2011 pedophilia indictment, able to freely utilize all Penn State athletic facilities in post-retirement.[7] Ostensibly this privilege was granted to Jerry Sandusky as recognition for playing such a crucial role in Penn State's gridiron prowess for all but two seasons of Paterno's near half century mark as the Penn State head coach, perennially ranked among the nation's top five teams in defense, in large part due to Sandusky's defensive specialty and expertise. Known as "Linebacker U," with Penn State's dominant success came multiple head coach job offers to earn millions elsewhere - at Marshall, Temple, Maryland[8] and a final offer at Virginia in 2000.[9] But Sandusky's loyalty to both his Penn State home and his legendary boss compelled the defensive specialist to turn them all down.

Though loyalty to his home State and a football legend sound admirable, the bottom line, real reason Sandusky remained at Penn State is far more sinister. As a serial pedophile and chronic sexual predator, the years that Coach Sandusky meticulously invested to establish his familiar hometown roots and glory offered him a much needed, protective safety net and convenient steady stream of victims with his founding the charitable nonprofit organization the Second Mile in 1977 to help at-risk youth.[10] But instead of providing a safe nurturing home environment for troubled kids as a vital social service outsource, the constant flow of foster care placements at Second Mile were systematically targeted, only placing kids at further risk of abusive harm as the renowned Penn State coach's easy prey. At its height with an annual budget into the millions servicing tens of thousands of disadvantaged children,[11] Sandusky carnivorously used his Second Mile group home residents and its numerous programs and camps to help himself to seconds, thirds and fourths, plucking child after child from his very own pedo-pipeline feeding his diabolically insatiable appetite for younger boys.

Sandusky also strategically ensured that Penn State as his heavily endowed employer merge its mutual interests with his own Second Mile charity in a convenient marriage that facilitated Sandusky’s full access to funding resources, university athletic facilities and ongoing co-sponsorship services leading ultimately to compromised corruption and soon enough a built-in mutually self-serving interest to conceal child sex crimes. Countless honorary board members, top officials and wealthy donors were indelibly affiliated with both.[12] [13] Sandusky and his “invisible” crime boss partners still-at-large engineered their pedophilic enterprises whereby should the pedo-coach ever become exposed and go down in flames, so would Penn State, paralleling the typical sexual blackmail dynamics of compromised public politicians, thereby guaranteeing Sandusky’s protection and assured cover-up.[14] And as the pedophilia operation played out for decades, Penn State’s top brass headed by compromised, coaching god Joe Paterno would have to follow suit, pretending Jerry wasn’t sodomizing little boys while looking the other way for nearly a half century, protecting the pedophile in order to preserve both the school’s venerable reputation and football program’s continued success and national dominance.

Over the ensuing years at Penn State, child rapist Jerry Sandusky and his wife Dotty raised six adopted children (all boys but one) and countless foster kids at State College.[15] Misusing his own children as yet another easiest available source for victims, for years the Penn State coach incestually abused at least one of his own sons Matt[16] and likely another Jeffrey arrested in 2017 on 14 counts of child sex abuse and, like father, like son, is currently serving a 3.5-7 year prison sentence (only his son’s sexual proclivity is underage girls instead of little boys).[17]

Matt Sandusky was born in 1978 to an alcoholic abusive biological father and a mother that divorced when he was six, living then moving with his mom Debra and younger brother and sister into his maternal grandparents' home with a physically abusive grandfather.[18] As disadvantaged youth 7-year old Matt and his year younger brother Ron Heichel were referred to Sandusky's charity Second Mile. But it wasn't long before Matt was quickly snatched up from the predator coach's pedo-pipeline. Sandusky singled out Matt and began stalking and grooming him, at first wining and dining him with gifts and invitations to attend both home and away Penn State football games and practices, given so much positive attention from the famous big man on campus.[19] Those were the grooming months leading up to the sexual abuse that began at age 8.[20] Without his mother's permission the celebrity coach would often show up at will and take Matt out of school.[21] Matt suffered in silence through seven more years of rape and molestation at the hands of Jerry Sandusky.

The severely abused, troubled 16-year old teenager ditched school one day with a friend and headed for their usual hangout, an old barn where inside they encountered a parked truck. They got in and while smoking cigarettes, for childish kicks, impulsively foolishly placed a lit piece of paper inside the glove compartment that caused a fire to spread and burn down the barn.[22] After the unintended arson incident, while Coach Sandusky was in California preparing to play Oregon in the 1995 Rose Bowl, he personally phoned the juvenile court judge requesting Matt's placement in his foster home, separating Matt from his biological family. Sandusky also sent a former Penn State player Matt knew to personally present the juvenile court and sexual predator's ultimatum, forcing Matt to choose between juvenile lockup and adult prison at 18 or the Sandusky foster home. Trapped between a rock and a hard place, Matt chose the hard place – his abuser's home.

What's extraordinary is that while her son was yanked ("stolen" from his mother's point of view) from her home, Centre County Children's Services authorized Matt's mother to become a foster parent for her nephew placed inside her home.[23] So Debra Long was deemed a fit enough parent to take care of a child not hers, yet unfit to take care of her own biological child she'd raised since birth, all because a famous, stalking control freak-pedo-predator pulled a few strings to gain closer, easier access to his child prey. According to Matt's brother Ron, up till the barn burning incident, the two Heichel brothers were extremely close and inseparable, though Ron always knew the renowned coach favored Matt while totally ignoring him. But once Matt was sent to live in the Sandusky foster home, everything changed. In 1995, just four months after living with his abuser, Matt attempted suicide. Jerry Sandusky's first words out of his mouth to Matt at the hospital taunted:

You couldn't even kill yourself right.[24]

Matt's school based probation officer Terry Trude grew so concerned about Matt's safety while briefly living under the Sandusky roof that she was prompted to write a letter to the judge recommending that Matt be transferred to a different foster home:

The probation department has some serious concerns about the juvenile's safety and his current progress in placement with the Sandusky family.[25]

After raising her son the first 16 years of his life only to lose him to a pedophile who'd been abusing him from age 8 to 15, while living with the predator coach, Matt's biological mother Debra Long was permitted only a half day visit per month with her son. She vociferously fought and clashed with Children Services that never bothered to listen to her concerns. As the lone voice and first to express worry over Sandusky's predatory nature as far back as 1994, even prior to Matt's failed suicide attempt, Debra accused Jerry Sandusky of stalking and controlling her son.[26] One day she point blank asked Matt if Sandusky ever touched him inappropriately and Matt told her he "didn't want to talk about it." When his brother Ron would call the Sandusky house to try and speak to Matt, Dottie Sandusky would answer telling him he was no longer Matt's brother.[27] In response to the opposition from both the boy's biological mother and probation officer, the predator next seized opportunity to cement his relationship with Matt, effectively cutting him off from his own biological family by permanently adopting him upon reaching his 18th birthday to become the youngest of Jerry and Dottie's six adopted kids.

Years later even when his adopted father was being investigated and Matt was questioned by police as well as the 2009 grand jury, he kept his chronic victimization secret, denying he was ever abused in order to protect his abuser. While still a young boy, Matt had long resigned himself to being the chronic rape victim as a necessary tradeoff to being accepted into an otherwise esteemed, stable, affluent family household where plentiful food was always on the table.[28] During the 2012 trial, Jerry Sandusky was still preying on Matt's conflicted sense of family loyalty, pressuring and rehearsing with the then 34-year old married father of three, this time being "groomed" as a key defense witness to deny any and all abuse charges against his adoptive father.[29] It wasn't until Matt was sitting in the courtroom right there with his unified Sandusky family all in loyal support of their perverted patriarch observing the emotional testimony of Victim #4 (whom Matt knew) bravely reporting his horrendous abuse identical to Matt's own, that he finally decided he could no longer live the lie.[30]

Matt's reticence to disclose his long term abuse is extremely common amongst young victimized boys and adolescents.

Sexually abused male victims frequently are so traumatized with shame, guilt and confusion, for years they often avoid telling others, even their mothers. Gender roles for young males in American culture does not equate to being a victim.[31] Manhood and victimhood simply do not intermesh. Males also are far less apt to seek help out of fear of being stigmatized as weakness. When boys are perpetrated by an adult male, it often brings up feelings that threaten their sexual identity, i.e., fear of being gay. Homophobia is still rampant despite the LGBT movement, and being judged gay by peers often keeps young male victims locked into going it alone, suffering the abuse in silence.

But at 33 with a family of his own, for his own survival Matt Sandusky had come to realize that he must come clean and begin finally telling the truth. So he defected, approaching the prosecution team halfway through the trial to admit he'd lied in he past but was now willing to disclose his painful, tortuous history in court, in effect checkmating his infamous, abusive dad from taking the witness stand in his own self-defense. News by way of a recent police recording of Matt's sexual abuse was released to the public the same day the jury began its twenty hour two day deliberation. And once the defense attorneys learned Sandusky's own son was willing to testify against his father, the serial pedophile's fate was sealed with a guilty verdict on June 22, 2012.[32]

Switching sides to dare speak the truth instantaneously estranged Matt from his adoptive mother Dottie and his five siblings, all still feebly claiming Jerry's innocence.[33] And ever since, Matt Sandusky's credibility and honor have been challenged and attacked to the point that he and his immediate family have been harassed and threatened numerous times, incurring the venomous wrath of legions of diehard Paterno Penn State supporters. During an hour long Oprah Winfrey interview in 2014, Matt expressed regret about disclosing his seven years of abuse, because it put his wife and kids in danger:

> I can handle people attacking me; I handled the abuse… I can take it. My wife is an innocent. My children… they're innocent. [34]

Matt said that one of his adopted brothers even admitted to him that he too was molested, and encouraged Matt if he were a victim to go to the police. But that brother later turned on Matt, accusing him of lying and betraying the Sandusky family. Betrayed first by his predator father, Matt felt betrayed a second time by the Sandusky family, yet on Oprah still acknowledged his loyalty and indebtedness to them:

> They cared about me, they loved me. I owed that family everything. Everything I was and am I owed to them.[35]

This is the kind of torn ambivalence he has lived with for most of his life. As both therapy as well as delivering to the world his inside story as an abuse survivor, Matt authored the book Undaunted.[36] He has become a courageous public advocate using his own harrowing experience to speak out against the rampant child sexual abuse epidemic gripping both this nation and world and with his second wife Kim today heads the child advocacy foundation called Peaceful Hearts.[37]

In retrospect, in December 2011 a vindicated Debra Long lamented:

> If they'd have listened, these boys [Sandusky Victims 1-10] didn't have to be abused. They would have found the problem back then, and a whole lot of kids wouldn't be victims now. We couldn't get anything done. It was Jerry Sandusky. He started The Second Mile home. He could've done nothing wrong.[38]

The pedophile coach’s total number of rape victims may never be known, but with virtually an unlimited supply of kids spanning four decades at his disposal, and the final toll of pedo-casualties perhaps into the hundreds, no wonder Coach Sandusky chose to stay put in his insulated PA comfort zone, safely shielded by a famous boss and administration that valued winning football games over vulnerable children’s lives. Between taking refuge within the enabling Penn State University system and his readymade Second Mile charity programs delivering a constant fresh supply of young meat to ravage, behind his cultivated, saintly, altruistic image, the devilish Sandusky created a pedo-farm paradise for himself, that is until his despicable crime spree bubble finally popped in November 2011. Meanwhile, firmly ensconced and adoringly embraced by his State College community, the pedo-monster also made sure he was a “faithful” church-goer every Sunday at his local St. Paul’s Methodist Church,[39] describing his family as “old-fashioned” led by his always “stand by her man,” supportive wife.[40] The worst perverts so often hide behind religion and their “wholesome” Americana roots.

Jerry Sandusky calculatingly used his “big goofball” persona as the coach who never quite grew up to strategically grant him a license to regularly engage in roughhouse, “boys will be boys” horseplay in order to lay the initial grooming groundwork to establish increasing level of physical contact with his too many to count susceptible victims.[41] Sandusky and fellow pedos of his ilk, be it in Hollywood, State College, DC or anywhere, purposely hone in to carefully select kids without involved parents, either divorced or in process of divorce, or troubled youth already institutionalized within the child welfare system, having been abused and neglected as the most vulnerable child population to parasitically feed on. The next formulaic step as a sexual predator is to methodically shower targeted youth with positive attention, affection and gifts, in Jerry’s case taking them to Penn State or Steeler or Eagles football games, meeting the teams’ players, offering them a once in a lifetime childhood dream. Befriending and mentoring disadvantaged youngsters became this predator’s public face and persona, attending their sporting events and gaining both their trust and confidence in order to set the stage to transgress beyond the legal threshold of physical contact, into the dark taboo world of criminal child sexual exploitation.

If the intermediary steps to increase level of contact cunningly prove effective without a glitch, the coach’s standby M.O. after working out with his young victims at his always available Penn State athletic facilities was to introduce taking showers together where he would move in for his kill, either on campus regularly committing sexual assault and sodomy or once abused within the comfort and confines of his basement home, “hiding in plain sight” in what’s come to be a most familiar theme in virtually every predator’s dirty lowdown playbook. It became common knowledge within the athletic department and around campus that Coach Sandusky was mighty cozy and intimate with his underage male youth from Second Mile as a number of Penn State “staff members and football coaches regularly observed Sandusky showering with young boys.”[42] Getting naked and showering with young boys from his charity apparently was perceived as no big deal due to his “goofball knucklehead” image and prominent longstanding position as Paterno’s right hand man. For years at a time it safely shielded him from all accountability. And incredibly, apparently no one ever saw any urgency to notify superiors about Sandusky’s highly disturbing, inappropriate behavior, though sealed records of victims’ depositions indicate some staff and coaches over the years did take notice and reported it to Coach Paterno.[43] But he never failed to just sit on it. That all-important issue will soon be addressed.

In similar vein as suspected sexual predator Charlie Sheen coaxing 13-year old actor Corey Haim on their movie set to being sodomized as a perverse rite of passage with older guys "breaking" in the younger Hollywood boys, the "big kid" coach who never grew up opportunistically most often made his sexual advances within the safe, familiar confines of the university locker rooms. Should any of the boys he abused mention to parents or concerned adults about improprieties taken in the showers, the coach and his complicit cover-uppers (i.e., Paterno and Penn State's top administrative officers) would invariably resort to the "boys being boys" cover story, evoking "innocent horseplay" as Sandusky's apologetic fallback line and then thereafter cool any further efforts to sexually abuse those particular kids. Sandusky was highly skilled at not only preying on children but also preying on adults responsible for those children.[44] He became just as adept at confusing, deceiving and charming his way out of potential criminal entanglements that arose when kids did talk about their bizarre shower episodes with the "touchy, feely" predator coach.

In Sandusky's own autobiographical words from his 2000 book Touched,[45] the big prankster readily admitted:

> I live a good part of my life in a make-believe world. I enjoyed pretending as a kid, and I love doing the same as an adult with these kids. Pretending has always been part of me.[46]

Playing make believe as an adult came in extremely handy for Sandusky being able to live with himself, pretending for decades at a time that he wasn't really a predatory monster shattering countless young lives with his molestations and brutal anal rapes… quite the make believer he was and still is. In fact, true to his form, he proudly declared:

> I'll never regret being called a 'great' pretender.[47]

And to this very day the “great pretender” is still pretending that he’s innocent… talk about living in a make believe world! The court of appeals judge didn’t buy it as the convicted pedophile’s request for a new trial was soundly rejected in October 2017.[48]

If little Jerry himself was traumatically abused by his own father or another adult male inducing dissociative disorder, his “pretend world” hypothesis might make a little more sense. But no concrete evidence has ever come forth indicating that Sandusky was a sexual abuse victim as a child. Exploiting to full advantage his elevated celebrity status within the State College community as well as his playful, accepted “big kid” persona to all who knew him, on multiple occasions the serial pedophile found himself routinely talking his way out of potential legal trouble.

Journalist Malcolm Gladwell in the New Yorker along with others has asserted the irony that Joe Paterno actually disliked his longest running coach Jerry Sandusky, barely tolerating the “impulsive knucklehead” and constantly perturbed by his right hand man always surrounding himself with a parade of young kids.[49] As the no-nonsense disciplinarian who 24/7 walked, talked and thought football, workaholic Coach Paterno wanted to fire Sandusky on numerous occasions. But according to Paterno’s biographer Joe Posnanski, JoePa eventually learned to accept Sandusky’s softer, more emotional, bear-hugging, goofball approach as providing a much needed counterbalance to his own stoic, crusty, hardball taskmaster exterior.

Again, writer Malcom Gladwell points out:

What could be better, for his [Sandusky’s] purposes, than a boss with eyes only for the football field, who dismissed him as an exasperating, impulsive knucklehead? Pedophiles cluster in professions that give them access to vulnerable children - teaching, the clergy, medicine. But Sandusky’s > insight, if you want to call it that, was that the culture of football could be the greatest hiding place of all, a place where excessive physicality is the norm, where horseplay is what often passes for wit, where young men shower together after every game and practice, and where those in charge spend their days and nights dreaming only of new defensive schemes.[50]

Respected and admired by sports fans and journalists across the nation, Jerry Sandusky was mistaken for a saint instead of the monster he is. Fellow pedophile monster President George HW Bush paid homage in 1990, awarding Sandusky's Second Mile charity as the 294th of Bush's bogus 1000 Points of Light.[51] Afterwards the always opportunistic clownster coach grabbed the microphone yelling, "It's about time George!"[52] Explaining the incident in his autobiography, Sandusky wrote:

> I had reverted back to the days of my mischievous youth. I had always professed that someday I would reap the benefits of maturity, but my lifestyle just wouldn't let me. There were so many things I had done in my life—so many of them crazy and outlandish. . . . My time on this earth has always been unique. At the times when I found myself searching for maturity, I usually came up with insanity.[53]

Now we know where his book tile originated, the "touched" child predator knew his criminally destructive actions were that of an out of control, insane madman masquerading behind his cultivated "good natured knucklehead," deceitful saintly image.

Presidential wannabe, 1980 PSU grad and Catholic secret society Opus Dei linked Senator Rick Santorum[54] also kissed pedo-monster's ass, rewarding Sandusky in 2002 with the "Congressional Angels Adoptions" award for all his tireless charity work.[55]

A book extract from the sexual predator's own son Matt Sandusky reveals the classic grooming methodology of this serial pedophile:

> Jerry [Sandusky] groomed children in a textbook way. He grew close to them, gaining their trust and even gaining their parents' trust, by being nice, helpful, and giving. The touching started in seemingly innocent ways: a little horsing around (as Jerry was to call it), a little wrestling, an arm slung over the shoulders, hugs, a hair wash or soap fight in the showers, swatting the rear end, giving the stomach raspberries that make children laugh so hard, and tickling (Jerry always claimed he was The Tickle Monster). At first it would be a hand on the knee while seated next to him in the car, and then it would be a hand on the thigh.... Child sex offenders are masters at grooming children for sexual purposes, leading them like the Pied Piper down the slippery slope that starts out with seemingly normal human affection and nurturing.[56]

To gain even a closer glimpse into this dark pathological world of the master groomer himself, exposing how Sandusky's pedo-assembly line operation worked, a cursory examination of public records is all that's needed. We need look no further than the investigative findings of a 162-page report compiled by former FBI director Louis Freeh's law firm, hired by the Penn State Board of Trustees just after the coach's arrest in November 2011.[57] On the afternoon of May 3rd, 1998, Jerry Sandusky placed a phone call to the home of one of his Second Mile clients. As of late the stalking predator coach had taken an acute interest and been courting this underage lad as yet another potential victim, known years later at the coach's trial as Victim #6 among 10 that finally put the rapist away for the next 30 to 60 years.

On that May day in 1998, Sandusky invited the 11-year old boy to the Penn State athletic facilities to work out on the exercise machines. After picking the boy up that night, during their workout in his characteristic roughhouse manner, Sandusky wrestled with the boy as a male bonding gesture, then kissed the boy on the top of his head, uttering the words “I love you.” At this critical juncture in Sandusky’s grooming operation with this targeted victim, the pedophile was boldly probing and literally testing the waters, asking the youth if he wanted to take a shower. The boy agreed, initially turning on the showerhead several feet away from Sandusky who then instructed him to use the same warmed up shower. Again the boy complied. With each incremental step, the predator was emboldened to take it to the next level, just to see how his targeted victim would react. The Freeh report details what happened next:

> While in the shower, Sandusky wrapped his hands around the boy’s chest and said, ‘I’m gonna squeeze your guts out.’ The boy then washed his body and hair. Sandusky lifted the boy to ‘get the soap out of’ the boy’s hair, bringing the boy’s feet ‘up pretty high’ near Sandusky’s waist. The boy’s back was touching Sandusky’s chest and his feet touched Sandusky’s thigh. The boy felt ‘weird’ and ‘uncomfortable’ during his time in the shower.[58]

Sensing the boy’s awkward reaction to the shower encounter, Sandusky laid low over the next several days, leaving a phone message three days later asking the boy if he wanted to work out again. After not receiving a call back, persistent Sandusky the predatory stalker came around showing up at the boy’s home nine days later to sniff out and further assess the situation.

But on the night of the May 3rd incident, noticing her son’s hair was still wet upon arrival home, the 11-year old’s mother inquired and after learning of the suspiciously bizarre shower sequence, she promptly contacted the boy’s therapist who recommended she report the incident to the University Police Department. So when Sandusky arrived at the boy's home on May 12th, as part of an impromptu sting operation set up by the Centre County district attorney, listening in from a nearby location just 15 feet away was university police detective Ronald Schreffler as well as a State College police detective. Again from the Freeh inquiry:

Schreffler overheard Sandusky say he had gone to the boy's baseball game the night before but found the game had been cancelled. The boy's mother told Sandusky that her son had been acting 'different' since they had been together on May 3, 1998 and asked Sandusky if anything had happened that day. Sandusky replied, 'we worked out. Did [the boy] say something happened?' Sandusky added that the boy had taken a shower, and said 'maybe I worked him too hard.' Sandusky also asked the boy's mother if he should leave him alone, and she said that would be best. Sandusky then apologized.[59]

A few days later, the mother asked Sandusky to come by the house again; the police were once more in the next room. She questioned him more closely about what had happened in the shower. Sandusky asked to speak with the son and the mother replied that she did not feel that was a good idea as her son was confused and she did not want Sandusky to attend any of the boy's baseball games. Sandusky responded, 'I understand. I was wrong. I wish I could get forgiveness. I know I won't get it from you. I wish I were dead.'[60]

When the boy's mother asked Sandusky directly if he had touched her son's "private parts" in the shower, the perv's answer was "I don't think so… maybe."[61] Yet listening intently a few feet away, apparently all the two detectives heard was what appeared to be a genuine apology from a "remorseful" coach due to an apparent misunderstanding. And the "wish I was dead" statement was simply taken as deeply felt regret over unintentionally alienating the boy and his concerned parent. Despite Sandusky's admission that he "maybe" touched the boy's private parts, it wasn't deemed strong enough evidence to indicate sexual abuse had occurred. So we're supposed to believe that the two detectives' agreed upon conclusion was that no abuse took place despite the pedophile's confession that he may have touched the 11-year old's penis? To actually buy that their interpretation of said conversation is "reasonable and understandable" based on the perceived heartfelt charm of a cunning, deceitful predator successfully extricating himself from further criminal suspicion is absolutely ridiculous.

Yet in hindsight [and possibly CYA regret] 13 years later, detective Schreffler stated on record that he believed he did have enough evidence at the time to charge Sandusky minimally with corruption of a minor.[62] But after presenting his findings to then Centre County District Attorney Ray Gricar, the DA concluded that the case against Sandusky lacked sufficient evidence to prosecute and that was that. Incidentally, seven years after the DA said "no case," Ray Gricar went missing in 2005. And now with his body never found, his case still remains an unsolved mystery.[63] But the 2011 arrest and 2012 prosecution of Sandusky has triggered a wild resurgence speculating over the DA's fate, compounded when his laptop and ruined hard drive found separately in and near the Susquehanna River along with a book on how to remove hard drive data recovered from his home. Otherwise all leads in the case have gone cold. And one month after the 30-60 year prison sentence was issued for the notorious pedophile that the missing DA for some unknown reason let off the hook 14 years earlier, Ray Gricar was declared legally dead.[64]

In actuality in early May 1998, Coach Sandusky was caught red-handed in the early stage of victim selection, concluding that his target was not vulnerable enough to pursue any further. But had that 11-year old youth not opened up to his alarmed mother but chose to keep the incident to himself, within weeks Sandusky would have crossed the line upping the ante to molest the child in the shower that would ultimately lead to sodomy. Oral sex and sodomy were always the predatory coach's common endpoint objective and unfortunate fate befalling the vast majority of his victims who remain unnamed and unknown because they never reported their abuse to adult authorities and were left to suffer through their trauma in silence. Typically these are the victims who end up most severely damaged, often self-medicating in a failed attempt to bury their past, in the process turning into drug addicts only to live out their conflicted, unhappy, self-destructive adult lives that all too frequently send them to early graves. Experiencing sexual abuse as a child too often becomes a lifetime curse that shortens lives by at least two decades.[65] Child victims are so guilt-ridden with shame and confusion, they invariably blame themselves, believing they aren't worthy of positive outcomes in life. As a licensed therapist who worked closely with a number of pedophile victims for many years in Los Angeles, I can attest to child sexual abuse victims' hardship and suffering.

But fortunately due to a caring, inquiring mother in May 1998, this particular 11-year old was saved, both getting the police involved as well as first calling the boy's therapist, psychologist Alycia Chambers, for a session the very next day after the shower incident. Alycia reassured the nervous parent that she was not overreacting at all. The Freeh investigation noted:

Later that day, Chambers met with the boy who told her about the prior day's events and that he felt 'like the luckiest kid in the world' to get to sit on the sidelines at Penn State football games. The boy said that he did not want to get Sandusky in ‘trouble’ and that Sandusky must not have meant anything by his actions. The boy did not want anyone to talk to Sandusky because he might not invite him to any more games.[66]

Chambers wrote a report on the case and gave it to the University Police Department and Child and Youth Services. She thought that Sandusky’s behavior met the definition of a ‘likely pedophile’s pattern of building trust and gradual introduction of physical touch, within a context of a ‘loving,’ ‘special’ relationship.’ But Jerry Lauro, the caseworker assigned to the incident by the Department of Public Welfare in Harrisburg, disagreed. He thought that the incident fell into a ‘gray’ area concerning ‘boundary issues.’ The boy was then evaluated by a counsellor named John Seasock, who concluded, ‘There seems to be no incident which could be termed as sexual abuse, nor did there appear to be any sequential pattern of logic and behavior which is usually consistent with adults who have difficulty with sexual abuse of children.’ Seasock didn’t think Sandusky was grooming. Someone, he concluded, should talk to Sandusky about how to ‘stay out of such gray area situations in the future.’[67]

Later Lauro would claim he never had access to the Chambers report and had he read it, he stated he would not have stopped the investigation.[68] In May 1998 detective Schreffer and caseworker Lauro met with Coach Sandusky who admitted to showering with other boys in the past. Another boy was subsequently interviewed who relayed the exact same come-on sequence in the shower, demonstrating a clear predatory pattern of more than suggestive sexual deviance.

For the founder of a multimillion dollar children’s charity organization in his 50s to regularly get naked and shower with his organization’s clients and it not raise a red flag for police detectives and child abuse professionals alike seems highly implausible, especially when a well-qualified psychologist accurately suspected he was indeed a pedophile. Once again the charming sodomizer appears to have worked his deceitful black magic, assuring Schreffer and Lauro “Honest to God, nothing happened,” that “there was nothing sexual” about his hugging or showering with the boy.[69]

Or on a whole different level, perhaps the bigger picture and real reason no one was willing to make waves in 1998 was the daunting challenge to dare upset the Penn State “football is king” religion proving too formidable and intimidating an obstacle for both the local police and the DA to tackle. Additionally, there’s plenty of evidence that bigger forces were at play, like ties to an Eastern child sex trafficking ring headed by an organized crime-political machine nexus serving the New York-Philadelphia-Washington DC pipeline.[70] When this larger context of how the global child sex abuse network operates is taken into account, and that Sandusky and company were also being aided and abetted by both current and former Pennsylvania state governors directly linked to East Coast child sex trafficking,[71] which will be further explored later in this chapter, seems a far more plausible explanation as to why the Sandusky pedo-operation was given the go-ahead to continue flourishing for another 13 years. But more on this all-important angle later.

In any event, by Sandusky’s own admission that he “maybe” touched young victims’ genitals while bear-hugging little boys from behind and picking them up so that the aroused pedophile’s likely erection was merely centimeters from each boy’s butthole, and repeating this lewd act as a regular shower ritual with other little defenseless boys in his charity, how could all this possibly not be ruled sufficient evidence of corrupting a minor, minimally mandating further investigation leading to a most probable prosecution outcome? To accept this unbelievable hypothesis that this red herring could be so misconstrued by a team of supposedly well-trained and experienced child sex abuse investigators as just inappropriate boundary issues by a big, well-meaning goofball jock who simply doesn’t know any better is totally ludicrous and preposterous. To believe that these so called professionals were fooled by the lovable, charming serial pedophile in birthday suit disguise seems an incredible stretch. Daresay there was a cover-up from the outset because much bigger pedo-fish were pulling the strings at every turn behind the scenes.

So in all, two male police detectives and two male professional mental health counselors, all assessing the exact same case facts unanimously concluded the incident fell safely into the “gray area” without sufficient cause to warrant further concern or investigation, despite the opposing, astutely accurate conclusion drawn by the most qualified PhD level female psychologist Alycia Chambers. She presented the lone dissenting but correct clinical conclusion way back in 1998 identifying Sandusky as a “likely pedophile” over a dozen long years ahead of dozens more victims being harmed prior to the child rapist’s eventual arrest.

Throughout this entire investigative process, all the Penn State higher ups were closely kept abreast of each phase of the inquiry.[72] And after Sandusky met and passed his final interview “probe” with Schreffer and Lauro, the 130-page

PSU-State College joint police report was apparently deemed lacking sufficient evidence to move the case forward. News of Centre County District Attorney Ray Gricar's decision not to indict was instantly relayed to the Penn State University police chief who supervised the investigation. Never mind the obvious conflict of interest that the lead investigator happened to be Sandusky's friend and neighbor. [73] Needless to say, when the campus police chief notified Penn State President Graham Spanier, his senior vice president for business and finance Gary Schultz, the university athletic director Tim Curley and Coach Joe Paterno that the investigation was officially closed, the PSU head honchos collectively breathed their sigh of relief.

Amazingly, it turns out that neither Sandusky's boss nor the admin trio ever spoke to Sandusky about the 1998 incident, nor about his "poor boundaries," nor prohibit him from bringing Second Mile kids on campus to shower with him at the school's athletic facilities.[74] Nor was even Penn State's Board of Trustees ever informed of the 1998 incident.[75] Instead their "do-nothing" culture of silence no doubt sent the direct message to their pedophile coach whose office was right next to Paterno's that JoePa and his boys had the perp's back, blatantly granting the derelict full license to continue showering with and abusing underage boys on the Penn State campus. But the admin foursome weren't done looking the other way just yet, in the years ahead they had much more enabling, lying and criminal protecting to do.

All four of Penn State's top leaders including Joe Paterno would later perjure themselves under oath years later while giving grand jury testimony, unanimously to a man pretending they were unaware of the 1998 incident.[76] The grand jury investigator explicitly asked Coach Paterno in 2011:

Other than the [later 2001] incident that Mike McQueary reported to you, do you know in any way, through rumor or direct knowledge or any other fashion, of any other inappropriate conduct by Jerry Sandusky with young boys? [Paterno replied] I do not know of anything else that Jerry would be involved in of that nature, no. I do not know of it. [77]

And right to the bitter end, preoccupied over his legacy, merely a week prior to his January 2012 death, Joe Paterno's last public statement he took to his grave was yet another boldface lie, uttering:

I had 'no inkling' that Sandusky might be a sexual deviant. [78]

Even before the May 1998 shower incident, Paterno informed Sandusky that he was no longer in the running to become Penn State's next head football coach, and according to the Freeh report, the 1998 shower incident and Sandusky's retirement a year later had nothing to do with each other.[79] Skeptical sportswriters point out the extreme unlikelihood that the longtime defensive coordinator responsible for coaching two national championship teams to suddenly retire at only age 54 after a 32-year career paved with such glory seems most unlikely. The speculative word has it that Sandusky's reputation as a serial pedophile was wide enough known in the inner circle of the college football world that when Penn State imposed a forced retirement on him, other than a University of Virginia offer in 2000, no other job offers came through because the pedophile had already been labeled too great a liability.[80] Meanwhile, the Freeh report cites Paterno's handwritten notes reasoning that Sandusky's continued commitment to his Second Mile activities (which Joe obviously knew included pedophilia showers) precluded him from serious consideration.[81] After all, the pressing demands of a Penn State head coach as successor of the winningest coach in college football history entrusted to uphold the "win-at-all-cost" Penn State tradition would be a 24-hour a day, 7 days a week job that Paterno realized Sandusky the knucklehead could never adequately fulfill, not to mention knucklehead's not-so-hidden pastime liability as a serial pedophile.

Instead, Paterno and Penn State leaned over backwards making a series of more than generous concessions in negotiating Sandusky's retirement package that included an exceptional, unheard of severance of $168,000, plus Emeritus rights to continual lifetime use of all athletic facilities including his own office and uninterrupted access to all showers, as well as continued Penn State partnership with his Second Mile.[82] In short, pedophile Jerry was granted carte blanche privileges that the higher-ups all knew would inevitably result in Penn State's continued misuse as a safe haven for raping more of his Second Mile throwaway boys. As recently as 2009, right up to when a grand jury was finally convening to investigate Sandusky, the former coach was still allowed kids as young as 9-years old to attend his overnight football camps on the Penn State campus.[83] Months after the four Penn State bigwigs' lying testimony before that same grand jury, as late as October 2011, a mere month before his arrest, Sandusky was still permitted to work out at Penn State facilities. He was also still listed on the university website as "assistant professor emeritus of physical education" right up to his November 2011 indictment.[84] And then even a month after his arrest, he was still in possession of all his campus keys. So much for safeguarding the at-risk children in the serial pedophile's crosshairs.

For Paterno, Spanier, Schultz and Curley not to realize that their one-sided arrangement with the pedophile's overly generous retirement package as much as guaranteed heaps more trouble ahead for both Penn State University as well as each of them, carrying 100% certainty it would lead to all four mighty men's downfall, they must've felt overly confident and absolutely secure that unholy powers greater than them would most assuredly shield and protect their cover-up crimes from all future accountability. After all, every major pedophilia operation in this world never, not once, has failed to protect the guiltiest at the top. We've observed this exact same nonstop pattern as the constantly repeated theme throughout this book. This entrenched, built-in pecking order impunity goes far to explain why Sandusky and his PSU foursome grew so recklessly careless and arrogant, believing their pedophilia cover-up was a done deal, misjudging that their cover-up, protected by their elitist friends at the top of the power pyramid, was impenetrable. All five were likely counting on the pedophile-saturated Bush-Clinton-Obama crime family dynasty to protect them right to the end as well.

But let's not get ahead of ourselves. Despite appearing totally oblivious to the 1998 incident that the Penn State leaders should have heeded as a grave, foreboding warning sign that something diabolically afoul was criminally lurking right under their noses [as if they didn't already know], two years later in 2000 a shocked janitor named Jim Calhoun told a co-worker and his supervisor that he walked in on Sandusky giving a blow job to a little boy in the same Lasch building showers, but neither university officials nor law enforcement were ever notified.[85] Penn State's culture of silence permeated up and down the chain of command as the janitors were afraid to tell their bosses for fear of being fired. Then less than a year after that, still another shower room incident in that same Lasch building surfaced yet again, except this time it proved both far more incriminating and problematic for Penn State. On February 9th, 2001, former Nittany Lion quarterback turned graduate assistant Mike McQueary on a Friday evening at about 9:30PM walked into the Lasch building athletic facility and claimed that he witnessed in the showers Sandusky sexually abusing a young boy about 10-12 in age.[86]

McQueary's June 2012 courtroom trial testimony as star witness for the prosecution was vehemently challenged not only by Sandusky's defense attorneys but forevermore by the corps of hardcore Paterno-Penn State disciples still grieving their beloved JoePa's death several months earlier in January.[87] McQueary's account of the 2001 incident maintained he heard slapping sounds as in skin-to-skin contact but also contended that he observed in a mirror Sandusky standing directly behind a young boy whose hands were braced against the shower wall. The rabid army of McQueary attackers have had a field day, first seizing upon the initial erroneous date of said incident being more than a year off on March 1st, 2002.[88] Next they cite the testimony of defense witness Dr. Jonathan Dranov, a State College medical doctor and close McQueary family friend who insisted that Mike told him just hours after the incident that no sex had occurred, only that Sandusky and a boy were seen in the shower together, that it sounded suggestively sexual and made Mike feel very uncomfortable.[89] A couple days later in a meeting with a dozen of his players, McQueary allegedly disclosed that as a child sexual abuse victim himself, Mike knew what he heard and saw in that locker room constituted criminal child sex abuse.[90]

For more than a half dozen years the legendary coach’s loyal legions from Penn State Nation have been on the warpath fanatically defending their hero JoePa to the ends of the earth. They’re quick to point out that McQueary’s description of the 2001 event radically shifted over the years, from nonsexual in 2001 to - at both grand jury and trial - witnessing both visually and auditorily full blown sodomy, convincing skeptics that McQueary was heavily coached and encouraged to embellish his original story from a decade earlier.[91] Known around campus as “Big Red” for his bright red hair, Mike McQueary received multiple death threats, his personal life and character scrutinized and harshly judged, and his assistant coaching job at Penn State abruptly terminated, which under the whistleblower act, he later sued for damages, receiving a $12 million dollar settlement.[92] Critics of the 6’5” athlete question why in 2001 he didn’t just try and stop the then 57-year old Sandusky from abusing the youth. At the trial McQueary insists that he did stop the crime by loudly slamming his locker shut, prompting Sandusky to cease his assault, reportedly causing both criminal and victim to separate and establish direct eye-to-eye contact with him.[93] Diehard Paterno loyalists also throw in the question if McQueary was so certain he’d witnessed a pedophile in action, why a few months later would he attend a charity golfing event sponsored by Sandusky. Others crucify McQueary for not reporting what he witnessed immediately to the police. Yet in the same breath, those same Paterno fanatics conveniently excuse their hero-god of never, not once, ever contacting the police, and over the decades he repeatedly heard and knew that his right hand man was a boy lover.

After a sleepless night, the following morning on Saturday February 10th, McQueary called to arrange an emergency meeting with his boss. According to Mike McQueary, he told the head coach that what he saw firsthand was “way over the lines and extremely sexual in nature.”[94] Upon learning the shocking news, a dismayed and dejected Paterno slumped back in his chair, hands partially covering his face while “his eyes appeared to well up with tears.” A 2011 state police report citing McQueary’s recollection of that conversation in Paterno’s kitchen that early morning specifies that Joe told Mike that “this was the second complaint of this nature he had received about Sandusky.”[95] This telling remark no doubt refers to the 1998 incident and confirms that Paterno knew about Sandusky’s shower habit with young boys long before his denying it under oath at the 2010 grand jury, reconfirming once again that Paterno was a liar trying to save his own skin and legacy. The police report also stated per McQueary that Joe told him that his wife Sue Paterno shared with Joe that Sandusky’s wife Dotty once confessed to her that “Jerry doesn’t like girls,” again proving Paterno knew about Sandusky’s deviant sexual appetite for little boys.

Testifying before the grand jury in 2011, and contradicting McQueary’s far more explicit testimony, under oath Head Coach Paterno expressed ambiguous language stating that McQueary had reported that he had seen Sandusky fondling or “doing something of a sexual nature” to a boy.[96] Paterno insisted that he had followed proper protocol by reporting the incident to his immediate supervisor, athletic director Tim Curley, who with VP Shultz then met with McQueary and Paterno. Mike McQueary answers his critics maintaining that his meeting with Shultz, who oversaw campus police operations, automatically took him off the hook from notifying local police, presuming that Schultz would contact them, which of course he never did. Curley and Schultz then notified Penn State President Graham Spanier. The excerpt below from the Freeh report explains how the top Penn State leaders formulated their own bogus story to save their own lying asses:

> Spanier said that the men gave him a ‘heads up’ that a member of the Athletic Department staff had reported to Paterno that Sandusky was in an athletic locker room facility showering with one of his Second Mile youth after a workout. Sandusky and the youth, according to Spanier, were ‘horsing around’ or ‘engaged in horseplay.’ Spanier said that the staff member ‘was not sure what he saw because it was around a corner and indirect.’… Spanier said he asked two questions: (i) ‘Are you sure that it was described to you as horsing around?’ and (ii) ‘Are you sure that that is all that was reported?’ According to Spanier, both Schultz and Curley said ‘yes’ to both questions. Spanier said that the men agreed that they were ‘uncomfortable’ with such a situation, that it was inappropriate, and that they did not want it to happen again.[97]

Funny how these men less than three years earlier learned the pedophile was caught showering with two other Second Mile kids, yet they never said anything about “not wanting it to happen again.” Only after this far more serious, incriminating shower accusation by an assistant coach is made do they finally get around to taking a slightly firmer stance to “not want it to happen again.” To protect themselves, Paterno, Spanier, Schultz and Curley, the four stooges and great enabling pretenders for the greatest pedo-pretender of them all, repeatedly lied through their teeth using their same old worn-out “horseplay” excuse. Bottom line, their total inaction and nonstop silence the first time around in 1998 led directly to the 2001 incident along with many more never exposed. Ultimately the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania's legal system was compelled to convict the three Penn State leaders of their longtime habit of looking the other way, criminally sacrificing innocent kids by allowing a known pedophile to continue showering and sodomizing them at their facilities.[98]

Moreover, and this is the biggest incriminator of all outing Paterno's heartless criminality, the Freeh investigation uncovered emails that demonstrated that the Penn State administration was ready to report this 2001 incident to the police. But after athletic director Curley met with Joe Paterno on February 26th, 2001, the following day they changed their minds. Freeh stated at his 2012 press conference:

> As Mr. Curley consulted with Mr. Paterno, however, they changed the plan and decided not to make a report to the authorities. Their failure to protect the February 9, 2001 child victim, or make attempts to identify him, created a dangerous situation for other unknown, unsuspecting young boys who were lured to the Penn State campus and football games by Sandusky and victimized repeatedly by him. Further, they exposed this child to additional harm by alerting Sandusky, who was the only one who knew the child's identity, about what McQueary saw in the shower on the night of February 9, 2001.[99]

It was Curley's 23 word email below after meeting with Paterno on February 26th that prompted the Penn State honchos to uphold their vow of silence and not go to the police:

After giving it more thought and talking it over with Joe yesterday, I am uncomfortable with what we agreed were the next steps.[100]

"Next steps" being not reporting the incident to law enforcement nor the Board of Trustees but like always keeping it their dirty little secret. Just over two months prior to Paterno's death from lung cancer, after Sandusky's November 2011 arrest and Paterno being fired as head coach in a phone call from Board of Trustees vice chairman, knowing Paterno was forever in deep shit, a lamented Joe finally admitted on November 9th, 2011:

With the benefit of hindsight, I wish I had done more.[101]

Instead, Joe Paterno's interventions were always minimal to none, merely once reporting allegations to school administration, and never to law enforcement. But taking into account the fact that he willfully talked others out of reporting the McQueary accusations to the police, in retrospect, was Paterno's wish to have "done more" to save innocent kids from further abuse or simply to save himself and his own legacy? His consistent actions clearly speak far louder than any regretful, apologetic words. The cold hard facts remain that neither JoePa nor his three stooges who followed his lead ever did bother to contact any police department despite multiple complaints strongly implicating Sandusky' guilt as a serial pedophile from way back. And for all their proven complicity and willful, premeditated, conspiratorial cover-up, all three admin officers were only charged and convicted with mere misdemeanors - endangering the welfare of children,[102] each serving a token of roughly two months jail time. Had Joe not been dying, he too would’ve likely been charged and found guilty as well, especially since he was caught convincing others not to notify law enforcement.

All four of these less than honorable men knowingly permitted dozens more child victims to be abused and further sacrificed over the ensuing years in order to protect the reputation of both its legendary coach and prestigious public university. After all, it was far more important to preserve the wealthy university’s $4.6 billion surplus,[103] or the godlike status and pristine honor of America’s winningest coach, or his uncompromising academic standards (in both 2009 and 2011 ranked #1 academically out of top 25 football teams)[104] or the school’s outstanding academic standing (with a 90% student-athlete graduation rate always among nation’s best),[105] or last but certainly not least, protecting Penn State’s staggering $73 million annual revenue generated by its storied, gloriously all-important football dynasty[106] that JoePa singlehandedly built (albeit with a little help from his longtime pedo-friend Jerry).

On another level entirely, there’s sufficient evidence indicating that this scandal’s tentacles reach far bigger and wider than the pathological acting out of one sick assistant coach. In the same vein as the Mossad engineered Epstein honey trap, this case could well be yet another sexual blackmail operation designed to compromise and gain absolute underhanded control over prominent public figures’ every action. But more on this scandal’s dark-sided underbelly later.

If the preceding facts haven’t convinced you yet that Joe Paterno was calling the shots with his CYA top buddies in his back pocket, and that they’re not all guilty of a longtime criminal cover-up, more recent evidence has emerged to indicate that “PapaJoe” was shielding and suppressing his assistant coach’s child rape crimes as early as 1971. Independent of each other, revelations of two more alleged victims have surfaced to reveal that when they were minors back in the 1970s, Sandusky was sexually assaulting them too, one in 1971 and another in 1976.

A 2013 civil lawsuit was filed by Penn State against its former insurance company - Pennsylvania Manufacturers’ Association (PMA)[107] for only reimbursing the school $29.9 million out of the $93 million that Penn State has already been forced to pay out to rape victims thus far.[108] PMA has withheld funds from Penn State since evidence has emerged showing that Paterno and his administration were already well aware of Sandusky’s liability as early as the early 1970s but never reported it to PMA. However, the presiding Judge Gary Glazer has ruled in favor of Penn State, insisting that the earliest cases were never reported to Penn State’s top management,[109] though there is growing evidence that Coach Joe knew about them. Other contested issues in this complicated case between the university and its past insurer will likely go to trial.

With the current litigation initiated by Penn State to determine who will end up footing the costly bill (approaching $100 million in damages), PSU or its insurer, millions are still being paid out for the multitude of lawsuits filed thus far by at least 33 (and counting) alleged Sandusky victims.[110] In response to PSU filing its suit against PMA, the insurance company used sealed depositions by alleged victims to mount its defense evidence against Penn State. The judge in his filing used footnotes citing these depositions as evidence of abuse allegations.

Judge Glazer wrote in the order:

> PMA claims… in 1976, a child allegedly reported to PSU's Head Football Coach Joseph Paterno, that he (the child) was sexually molested by Sandusky.[111]

"Exhibit I" is a 13-page Q&A transcript of an October 2014 deposition regarding an incident that occurred in 1976 when Coach Sandusky sexually assaulted an alleged victim named "John Doe 150" while the 14-year old attended a football camp at Penn State.[112] John Doe 150 asserts that Sandusky stuck his finger up his rectum in the showers with several other boys present. After informing adults and drawing little to no response, the underage kid bravely approached Coach Paterno and explained what had happened to him the day before. Paterno's coldhearted response to this sexually traumatized child was:

> I don't want to hear about any of that kind of stuff. I have a football season to worry about.[113]

And Paterno just walked away without uttering another word, not caring a rat's ass about the poor kid who kept this shameful secret to himself without telling another soul for the next 20 years. This document shows that the Penn State head coach knew back in 1976 that he had an assistant coach who was sexually abusing children and did absolutely nothing about it. This document pertaining to the civil lawsuit was released in July 2016 as evidence that clearly supports PMA's decision not to reimburse Penn State for damages in settlement suits since the head coach was fully aware of abuse but didn't even lift a finger to stop his rapist's finger fucking little kids. The two child victims from the 1970s both claim that after Sandusky molested them, they informed Coach Paterno who without hesitation viciously rebuffed them.

Further, as implicit admission of guilt, to date Penn State has doled out $93 million to the near three dozen victims as of 2017,[114] among them an alleged 1971 victim who received an undisclosed amount of hush money in his out of court compensation settlement. This most revealing transaction is a matter of public record. The accuser now in his early 60s as the oldest known Sandusky victim also has a witness he told shortly after he was raped who in support of his friend went public on CNN backing up the victim's claims. The child abuse survivor from 1971 states that when he was a 15-year old foster kid, the 27-year old Jerry Sandusky anally raped him in a Penn State bathroom.[115] Prior to the assault, Sandusky had picked the State College teenager up hitchhiking, bought him beer and gave him marijuana to smoke. The victim-survivor stated that the sexual attack was initiated while he was pissing in a urinal:

I felt his presence behind me. I felt his left knee on the back of my knee, and his arms went around me, grabbing my … He said, 'Let me help you with this.'[116]

As a reflex, the victim's head snapped backwards hitting Sandusky in the jaw, causing both of them to fall to the floor where the larger predator grappled to overpower the adolescent and forcibly sodomize him. When the boy's foster mother saw his bloodied head, he reluctantly told her about his sexual trauma. His parents owned a local bowling alley and knew some high level Penn State officials with whom his foster dad insisted that the boy disclose the details of his sexual assault. After the victim explained what had happened, he says all hell broke loose when the two Penn State men who introduced themselves on the phone as Jim and Joe abruptly launched a blistering attack, accusing the hapless teenager of making the whole story up.

They were asking me my motive, why I would say this about someone who has done so many good things. Stop this right now! We'll call the authorities.[117]

Though he had no idea who Jim was, right away he recognized the other voice belonged to the legendary head coach, having heard him a million times with his distinctive, embedded Brooklyn accent. As a direct or indirect result of his sexual abuse at the hands of Jerry Sandusky, over the years the victim has struggled with anger issues, alcoholism, survived a heart attack and other serious health threats, but decided to bravely step forward to anonymously talk to CNN about his plight for justice. He states that he has lost friends in the Sandusky aftermath still embroiling his community, and becomes visibly upset with JoePa fanatics vehemently defending his unjustified honor, and bitterly resents how his hometown has mistreated child victims like himself. After going public with his rape disclosure and Paterno’s cold, dishonorable, aggressive response, he anticipated major blowback:

State College is a disgusting place, the way they treat crimes against kids. We are living in a very sick atmosphere... I am looking for a wave of s to come down on me like I've never seen before. I know that's going to happen. It's going to be a very bad outcome for me. That's just the way Penn State fans are.[118]

So it appears that within the first two years of Jerry Sandusky’s 32 year run as a Penn State coach, i.e., from the virtual get-go, Joe Paterno and company were well aware that they were dealing with a bona fide pedophile on their staff. Over the next 40 years, nearly Paterno’s entire reign of power as head coach, he and Penn State premeditatedly permitted this monster to continue destroying hundreds of innocent boys’ lives in perhaps yet another example of selling your soul to the devil for fame and glory.

In addition to these two cases from the 1970s, the contesting insurance carrier PMA also alleges that records show that in the 1980s Sandusky continued abusing children, citing cases in both 1987 and 1988 when two different assistant coaches witnessed the pedo-coach engaging in sexual contact with children.[119] Penn State graduate assistant Matt Paknis on that same ’87-’88 coaching staff went public claiming it was common knowledge that Sandusky was sexually abusing children as well as inappropriately touching even the players and that Head Coach Joe Paterno was most definitely aware of it.[120] In November 2011 Paknis stated on a radio sports talk show:

> Joe knows everything, Joe knows everything — everything that goes on at that campus, everything that goes on clearly in the football program… Not only did he cover it up, but there’s no way that this wasn’t apparent.[121]

Paknis went on to explain that potentially scandalous news stories involving the Nittany Lion football program were routinely covered up by Paterno. In answer to the big question over whether JoePa knew of Sandusky’s longtime criminal behavior, without hesitancy Matt Paknis responded:

> Absolutely! I mean, fights, behavior problems, anything like that never reached the local paper. It was a controlled environment. There’s no question.[122]

Further corroboration supporting the veracity of Paknis’ accusations is illustrated in a separate 1988 Sandusky sexual assault incident that was detailed in a child abuse report submitted to the Penn State athletic director.[123] Clearly this court documented evidence from 1987-88 when Paknis was on staff demonstrates that both Coach Paterno and at least one member from the school’s top level management did in fact know that “goofball Jerry” was a raving, out-of-control child rapist, which means the university’s insurer at that time should not be held responsible for reimbursing the school. Yet strangely, Judge Glazer asserted in his order that these earlier allegations from the 1970s and 80s never “went further up the chain of command at PSU.” Considering Paterno ruled the roost at Penn State for 46 years and the athletic director as clearly a higher-up was also privy to the ongoing Sandusky sexual abuse, that in and of itself seems high enough up the chain of command flagpole to make Penn State liable.

After dodging two notorious shower scene bullets from 1998 and 2001 that would’ve ultimately exposed the pedophile and his powerful enablers years earlier, finally in late 2008 another Victim (#1 at the trial) named Aaron Fisher emerged that eventually led to Sandusky’s downfall triggering his 2009 grand jury investigation.[124] Aaron met Sandusky at one of his Second Mile summer camps when he was 11-years old, the prime age of boys Sandusky typically targeted for abuse. The pervert coach often became obsessed with his victims, initially showering attention, gifts and invitations on them prior to literally showering with them to claim his next predatory kill. Soon Aaron was spending weekends at the Sandusky home. But gradually Sandusky’s pursuit for more young flesh turned obsessively aggressive.

When Aaron was a high school freshman, the predatory Paterno assistant decided to volunteer as a part-time football coach at Aaron’s Central Mountain High School in Lock Haven, 30 miles from Penn State University, just to gain access to routinely pull Aaron out of class. Because of his revered celebrity status, the pedophile could show up at any time and leave campus with his targeted victim without so much as letting his mother know. Identical to the aggressive antics used to groom Matt Sandusky, Aaron was also brutally victimized in the Sandusky basement that abused boys have claimed to be soundproof. It was in the basement where all of Jerry Sandusky’s fun and games were. But eventually Aaron Fisher would claim:

Fun and games turned to horror.[125]

Aaron found himself hiding in school bathrooms in desperation to avoid the stalking pedophile. One time the sicko was trailing the boy’s school bus on the way home, when Aaron was dropped off, Sandusky told him to get in his car but the boy took off running. The madman drove his vehicle on the opposite side of the street into oncoming traffic in hot pursuit of his young victim who ducked down a nearby alleyway to escape.[126] The stalker then parked his car in front of his house waiting. Though his mother Dawn Daniels Hennessy knew her son was being tormented by this perverted nutcase, as is typical of sexually abused boys, the teen resisted disclosing his trauma. When he began acting out and she grounded him as much to keep Sandusky away, the coach showed up demanding that he’d “take care of it.” Dawn’s immediate response was, “No way, he’s my son.”[127] Aaron’s mom grew more frantic, convinced that the high-powered, beloved coach in her community was sexually abusing her son. Finally when the anguished boy asked her about looking Sandusky up on the internet website that lists sex offenders or “sexual weirdos” as Aaron described his abuser, she then contacted his high school on November 18, 2008, reporting that she’d become more than suspicious of Sandusky’s abusive relationship with her 15-year old son. In her words:

> I called the school principal and the guidance counselor and said, if nothing else, he’s taking my son out of classes. He’s leaving the school with him… So I asked them to call him into the office and ask [my son] how he felt. They did call him to the office that day and I remember the principal was in tears and she said, ‘You need to come here right away.’[128]

Actually it was two full days later when they finally got around to speaking with Aaron who at last broke down, informing them that Sandusky had been sexually abusing him for the last two or three years.[129] But the teenager’s worst fears materialized when, according to Aaron, the guidance counselor and principal's response was:

They said we needed to think about [reporting the allegation], that he has a heart of gold and wouldn't do something like that. So… they didn't believe me.[130]

When his mom got there, the tormented kid kept screaming:

See, they don't believe me!

Aaron Fisher and Dawn Daniels Hennessy were extremely devastated that his school was so reluctant to report the abuse, violating the mandated child protection laws.[131] Yet three years later state Attorney General Linda Kelly would go out of her way repeatedly commending the school for complying with the reporting law.

Like virtually all pedophilia scandals, initial allegations of abuse by child victims are rarely if ever believed or taken seriously, particularly if the accused is a well-respected man of position and clout. Again, the pedophile was protected by his benevolent, do-no-wrong image within the greater community. Pedophiles, especially if they're celebrities, never fail to take full advantage of exploiting the given that their victims are never initially believed.

As another example of not seeing reality for what it is, one evening during the 2006-07 wrestling season the high school wrestling coach walked in on Sandusky and Aaron laying suspiciously close together on the floor facing each other in the weight room.[132] A startled, surprised but quick thinking Sandusky passed it off like he was showing Aaron a wrestling move. The high school coach thought it quite odd since the large wrestling room was right next door but thinking to himself on the way home:

Well, it's Jerry Sandusky. He's a saint, and what he's doing with these kids is fantastic.[133]

And another clue in plain sight was conveniently brushed aside and missed that could have revealed the darker unholy truth.

In November 2008 right after Aaron told his school principal that he was sexually abused by the famous Penn State coach, the Central Mountain High football team held a meeting and banned Jerry Sandusky from the campus.[134] It was leaked that Aaron was the cause, and suddenly students and parents were cruelly accusing him of lying about Sandusky in order to cash in at Penn State's expense. He was harassed and overnight became the town pariah. But by the time news came out that the pedo-coach was under grand jury investigation in March 2011[135] and then later that year in November indicted, followed by Coach Paterno losing his job, Aaron was the scapegoat being viciously blamed, his life threatened by the Lock Haven lynch mob mentality. Central Pennsylvania is Penn State country and to this day Aaron Fisher is still not believed and vilified in his own hometown.

Unhappy with his school's response in 2008, fortunately that same day Aaron's mother took her son to Clinton County Children and Youth Services and in 2009 a determination was affirmatively made that sexual abuse was "indicated,"[136] prompting the Center County District Attorney Michael Madeira to call for a grand jury investigation into the allegations. But because the DA's wife is a biological sister of one of Sandusky's adopted sons, and still maintained cordial relations with the Sandusky family, Madeira recused himself.[137] This move positioned the then state Attorney General Tom Corbett busily running for governor at the time to take over, transferring the grand jury proceedings to the state level. In November 2010 Republican candidate Corbett was elected the new Pennsylvania state governor. Of the eight victims that provided testimony at the 2012 Sandusky trial, Aaron Fisher was the youngest witness as an 18-year old brand new high school graduate and among those testifying, the most recently abused victim.

Aaron Fisher was also the first tip of the iceberg abuse, prompting the DA office to finally call for a grand jury investigation. Recall the 1998 incident was closed by then DA Gricar. However, as apparently the sole witness to come forth while subjected to increasing harassment over the next 42 long months, with the upcoming November 2010 gubernatorial election, state politics shamelessly hung the boy out to dry. Aaron was told more victims had to emerge as the Attorney General's office kept promising Aaron's therapist psychologist Michael Gillum from Clinton County Children & Youth Services that any minute the axe would be falling on Sandusky but year after year it didn't. For political reasons, Aaron had to wait another 18 tortuous months as his Lock Haven turned into locked in Hell.

Only after Pennsylvania Attorney General Tom Corbett (1995-97; 2005-2011) morphed into Gov. Corbett in January 2011 were seven other victims along with Coach McQueary's long lost allegations finally, "suddenly discovered," ultimately moving the case closer to indictment.[138] Another anomaly that sticks out like a sore thumb, from the time Corbett professed first learning about the Sandusky investigation in March 2009 all the way to his sworn-in ceremony as state governor in January 2011, his AG office boasted in 42 different press releases how his commissioned Child Sex Predator Unit resulted in hundreds of pedophile arrests, yet in all that time not one mention is made of Jerry Sandusky.[139] Also worth noting is virtually every one of Sandusky's 10 victims were being sexually molested while Corbett was attorney general yet during his entire decade as the state's top prosecutor, only Aaron Fisher surfaced as Victim #1. These two very revealing facts are the basis for Wayne Madsen justifiably tagging Corbett as a "pedophile enabler.” More on the high-powered PA politicians that allowed Sandusky to continue abusing boys later.

Finally on November 4th, 2011, the 23-page grand jury presentment was “leaked” to the media, leading to Sandusky’s arrest and prosecution.[140]

Without referring per se to Aaron Fisher’s near four years of post-disclosure mistreatment, his therapist of four years Michael Gillum stated:

> The victimization of this young man, with the way he was groomed and set up for the betrayal, is the worst I’ve seen in 20 years of practice.[141]

The abuse heaped on Aaron while waiting so long for the case to finally get prosecuted amounted to double punishment for committing no other crime than being an innocent kid victimized and betrayed by a monster disguised in saint’s clothing, and then re-victimized and betrayed all over again by a hostile community growing more hostile and threatening every passing year. Aaron said the years after reporting the crimes were much harder and far worse on him than the years he endured Sandusky’s abuse.[142] Growing more anxious and desperate, the boy began cutting on himself and contemplated suicide:

> I thought maybe it would be easier to take myself out of the equation. Let somebody else deal with it.[143]

Just as in the Omaha, Nebraska scandal where the victims were singled out and severely punished, the same pattern of re-victimization is always a constant in every single pedophilia scandal. Victims’ initial allegations are never believed by authorities, especially when powerful figures are accused.

But just four months after the June 2012 Sandusky conviction, Aaron Fisher revealed his personal identity beyond central Pennsylvania to the rest of the world with the release of a book he co-authored with his mother and therapist called Silent No More published by a division of Random House.[144] Both the Sandusky legal defense team and the statewide pro-Penn State-Paterno crowd viciously attacked Aaron in the press as a complete fraud, claiming his repressed memories of abuse were falsely procured by his opportunistic therapist,[145] and that their civil suit against Penn State and sensationally timed book were solely motivated by "out to make a quick buck" greed.

After receiving financial compensation in the millions, then posting on his Facebook page two separate ill-advised photos of his girlfriend and him laying on a bed covered with cash bills, Aaron in his pic was defiantly flipping the bird, only adding fuel to his critics' venomous fire, undermining his reputation and cause for justice.[146] That said, a portion of his book's proceeds allegedly went to child sex abuse charities and like Matt Sandusky, Aaron has become a public speaker on the infamous Pennsylvania pedo-scandal drawing much needed attention and awareness to the worldwide child sexual abuse problem.[147]

Throughout this long, drawn out legal process, the GOP AG Corbett turned Gov. Tom Corbett was justifiably accused of intentionally stalling the case for political purposes until January 2011 after he was safely sworn into office in the governor's mansion. Meanwhile throughout this lengthy process, he had assigned just one state police investigator to the biggest scandal in college football history while deploying a platoon of 15-20 investigators to take down opponents in his state legislature.[148] Moreover, after AG Corbett was grandstanding during a 3-year delayed grand jury investigation, Gov. Corbett sat on the PSU Board of Trustees creating a serious conflict of interest breach. After allowing the serial pedophile coach to remain free for years hurting more youngsters, the shameless pedo-enabling governor had the gall to tell to the PSU trustees just before voting to fire Coach Paterno:

Remember that little boy in the shower…[149]

The gov’s hypocrisy and duplicity is boundless. His flagrant mishandling of the Sandusky scandal cost him a second term in office. Speaking of boundless conflict of interest involving Tom Corbett and yet more board members, over the years The Second Mile board members padded Corbett’s election campaign coffers to the hefty tune of $640,000 in exchange for granting a $3 million state grant to Second Mile just four months before Sandusky was arrested,[150] clearly bribe money aimed to go lax on the charity while self-servingly delaying its founder’s prosecution.[151] Corbett’s voted in replacement - State Attorney General Kathleen Kane agreed, claiming politics played a role in how the outgoing AG used the Sandusky case as a political football to his full advantage while more kids were being raped over the Luciferian Pennsylvania coals.

Also evidence of more GOP conflict of interest – the Republican magistrate judge, a Second Mile donor and volunteer, granted an arraigned fellow Republican Sandusky charged on 40 child sex abuse counts to walk without coughing up a penny on a $100,000 unsecured bail, living freely back home next to an elementary school without so much as an ankle bracelet. This ultra-lenient judge also benefited from a fundraiser for her 2007 election sponsored by the Second Mile chairman.[152] This deeply pervasive pattern of conflict of interest corruption and rampant cronyism committed by both donors and recipients alike at Second Mile and Penn State as well as by state politicians served to tactically circumvent both truth and justice.

Once the headlines of the grand jury indictment, arrest and subsequent prosecution of Joe Paterno’s onetime heir-apparent successor circulated around the globe, every organization remotely connected to Penn State attempted to distance itself, slamming both the pedophile coach as well as his powerful enablers, starting with the school's own Board of Trustees that had allegedly been kept in the dark over both the 1998 and 2001 shower room incidents. After the Board of Trustees held an emergency meeting immediately followed by a press conference on November 9, 2011, four days after the grand jury report was made public, the board's vice-chairman and CEO of US Steel Corp. read his dramatic script declaring Coach Joe Paterno retroactively fired and wouldn't finish the season, negating JoePa's previously announced retirement at season's end,[153] 2,000 students spontaneously poured out into the streets - not to grieve the many long suffering child victims - but in supportive protest, solidarity and grief for their beloved, now unemployed but very complicit coach. The demonstration turned violent when two television vans were overturned and police in riot gear moved in to unleash tear gas into the angry mob.[154] While Joe led his adoring crowd gathered in front of his home that night in a Penn State football cheer, he and his family's hearts were sickened, betrayed by the backstabbing trustees that they had considered their lifelong friends.[155]

But then less than four months earlier, knowing his shit was about to hit the fan, the "honorable" Joe Paterno transferred full ownership of his home to his wife for only $1 just to keep it away from being devoured by future lawsuits over his criminal part in the pedophile cover-up.[156] If the legendary coach was truly honorable and honestly never knew his assistant was a raping beast, why would he resort to such extreme measures in such close time proximity to his beast's conviction? Knowing he had so much to hide and fearing his coaching legacy couldn't be saved, six months before the cancer then spreading through his lungs would kill him, pragmatic Joe figured he at least would save for his family heirs his home purchased in 1966 for a mere $9,000[157] that had skyrocketed in value to near $600,000.

University students were reacting in shock and horror over Paterno's abrupt termination after 61 years of dedicated service to winning Penn State football, only made more vitriolic when realizing how they lost their precious JoePa coldly let go over a phone call.[158] When such a short time later Joe Paterno was diagnosed with lung cancer and died within weeks, his sudden passing so soon after he was rudely canned turned him into a martyr. And ever since his loyal legions have desperately clung to his dying words of vowed innocence, claiming his blue blood ignorance never quite grasped the fact that his assistant was a sexual deviant. But blind faith loyalty to a false god rarely produces happy endings… though the PapaJoe loyalists were out in full force worshipping their hero at 107,000 Happy Valley strong on September 17, 2016, a half century to the day after the legend coached his very first Penn State game.[159] Meanwhile, all the critics were appalled by PSU's gall.[160]

In a transparently desperate plea for leniency to avoid the death penalty, in anticipation that the nation's governing collegiate athletic body, the NCAA, would any minute be coming down hard on the university, Penn State removed the Joe Paterno statue at the Beaver Stadium entrance in July 2012, a month after Sandusky's conviction.[161] The interim Penn State President Rodney Erickson justified the Paterno statue unceremoniously placed in mothballs, believing it would be an impediment to the healing process of sex abuse victims everywhere.

And two days later the NCAA issued its unprecedented sanctions. While PSU avoided the "death penalty" of the football team disbandment, it was hit with a $60 million fine with an additional $13 million more going to the Big Ten Conference, both to be allocated for child abuse charities.

But by far viewed as the lowest blow came complete erasure of Paterno's last 111 Penn State victories after the 1998 season. This penalty also automatically removed the coaching legend's title as America's winningest coach, although after a settlement was reached in January 2015 following two Pennsylvania politicians challenging the severe NCAA sanctions, JoePa's wins were restored.[162] But not before NCAA President Mark Emmert took his swipes charging the school with placing "hero worship and winning at all costs" over and above "integrity, honesty and responsibility," as if these virtues actually exist in the NCAA. Capped as a passing footnote, with George HW's youngest son Marvin P. Bush sitting on the board of directors of both the NCAA[163] and the twin towers security firm on 911,[164] and the Bush crime family's confirmed history as overlords of the global child sex slave trafficking trade,[165] the NCAA can hardly be viewed a bastion of "integrity, honesty and responsibility." But Emmert's holier-than-thou performance under the circumstance called for his pious indignation:

> The fundamental message here, the gut-check message is, do we have the right balance in our culture? Do we have, first and foremost, the academic values of integrity and honesty and responsibility as the drivers of our university? Or are we in a position where hero worship and winning at all costs has subordinated those core values?[166]

Additionally, the university was initially banned from postseason bowl games for the next four years, placed on probation for the next half decade and forced to reduce its annual scholarship awards from 25 to 15, leaving it till the end of the decade to regain its full 85 man scholarship roster. But per the later negotiations, these measures were also softened. The NCAA encouraged Nittany Lion football players without punishment to jump ship and go elsewhere, which 15 of them did.[167] On a significant related note, while Paterno's assistant coach was convicted of 45 counts of child abuse, 163 of Paterno’s players from 2002-2008 were also convicted or pleaded guilty to 45 criminal counts.[168] So one might fairly conclude that under the Paterno and Penn State leadership, a culture of moral laxity permeated the football program that was rightfully crippled with harsh consequences.

But in recent years under new leadership, the Penn State football team has exceeded all rebounding expectation with 22 victories over the last two seasons alone, making it a national championship playoff contender and a ranked top 10 team again.[169] The gridiron powerhouse is obviously back. But the battle over the Paterno legacy still rages on with unanswered moral questions still lingering. Has the 99,000 student university population really learned its lessons when its alumni consistently vote in only new board of trustee members as unanimous Joe-bot reconcilers fervently rejecting the Freeh investigation findings?[170]

Upon release of his investigative report on the Sandusky scandal, Louis Freeh held a press conference in July 2012, a month after Jerry Sandusky was found guilty on 45 of 48 counts of victimizing children over a 15-year span from 1994-2009. Aside from supporting the mountains of criminal evidence gathered against Sandusky by both law enforcement and the state attorney general’s office grand jury presentment, the most significant other Freeh report finding was the fact that the top leadership at Penn State University, including JoePa himself, operated with complete criminal disregard, lack of support and lack of protection for Sandusky’ countless victims. In Freeh’s words:

Spanier, Schultz, Paterno and Curley never demonstrated, through actions or words, any concern for the safety and well-being of Sandusky’s victims until after Sandusky’s arrest.[171]

As of June 2017, Penn State announced that 45 alleged Sandusky victims have laid claims, again matching the convict's numerical criminal count, with at least 33 of the abused already having been financially compensated. To date, Sandusky crimes have fiscally cost Penn State a whopping $220.2 million.[172] In November 2016 federal officials fined Penn State another $2.4 million for failure to report campus crimes and warn children eminently in danger.[173] Conducting its own investigation, a US Department of Education report concluded that the university ignored numerous legal obligations under the 1990 Clery Act, summing up the stipulated violation:

> In short, a man who was about to be charged with violent crimes against defenseless minors was free to roam the Penn State campus, as he pleased.[174]

Another troubling facet of the Penn State scandal was the legally protected secrecy and complete lack of transparency resulting from the institution's exemption to release public records. A free press cannot gain access to public records of a public state university that maintains zero public oversight. This fact totally contradicts both first amendment free speech rights as well as the Right-to-Know Law. Journalists requesting reports, emails, and documents pertinent to the Sandusky investigation were met with a wall of resistance, claiming that neither the school nor its police department are subject to the Right-to-Know Law.[175] Out of 50 states, only one other besides Pennsylvania allows universities receiving public funding to be exempted from open records laws and that legalized concealment must cease if Penn State's inbred culture of secrecy and silence is ever to be eradicated. On top of that, as is notoriously common in scandalous criminal cover-ups, suddenly key documents, files and records went missing at Sandusky's Second Mile Foundation.[176] Apparently documentation from entire years mysteriously disappeared from 2000-03, which coincides with the critical 2001 shower room incident when no police contact was ever made.

Despite the standard wall-of-resistance cover-up protecting the guilty in every single known pedophilia scandal throughout history, per radar.com even after the Sandusky conviction corrupt federal agencies that normally cover up the elite’s sex crimes, like the FBI, in addition to the US Postal Service, were still conducting ongoing investigations into the scandal, having interviewed at least one eyewitness maintaining that he observed both the pedophile coach and a prominent Penn State donor on a plane having sex with an underage boy.[177] Even MSM giant CBS News reported that investigators were interviewing 6-7 more potential victims that may have received the coach’s seductive letters crossing state lines with promises of trips and gifts.[178] Additionally, since at least one of Sandusky’s computers was found containing child pornography, a determination of whether the pedophile shared kiddie porn with others was also in process. As of August 2012 these two federal agencies were continuing to follow leads, interviewing other potential witnesses to dig deeper into more incriminating evidence pointing to a larger child sex ring. Yet CBS, Radar, nor any other news agency has followed up with any of these investigative results, which strongly suggests it has been suppressed by the powers-that-shouldn’t-be… or that no further evidence was found. Yet based on so many solid source connections, all confirming the existence of a larger sex ring operation, that latter outcome is highly implausible.

These developments only add further credence to the testimony supporting the bold allegations of one former child sex slave named Greg Bucceroni that not only were child victims trafficked across state lines, they were being shared and sexually assaulted by other adults besides Jerry Sandusky, specifically by other powerful pedophile boosters in exchange for sizeable donations to Second Mile and Penn

State endowments.[179] Bucceroni specifically refers to a tristate child sex ring that trafficked underage youth like himself across state lines, in this case pimped out at Sandusky fundraisers to the coach's wealthy charity donors. It's also worth noting that during Sandusky's trial, Victim #4's testimony disclosed that Sandusky trafficked him across state lines to Florida's Outback Bowl in 1998 and again the following year to the Texas Alamo Bowl for the coach's final game[180] before his alleged forced retirement.[181]

Moreover, Greg Bucceroni asserts that the trafficking network involved known pedophiles, child pornographers and traffickers working conjointly with known mafia figures and well known political elites.[182] Greg's 2012 revelations have since been substantiated by a number of credible sources that include WikiLeaks' emails, other media accounts, FBI documents and a 1982 New York State Select Committee on Crime hearing.[183]

Many Penn State supporters have faulted excessive blame targeting their university that by conspicuous omission permitted Sandusky's Second Mile nonprofit to remain largely off the hook, absolved from its own criminal misconduct and reckless endangerment with its gross failure to protect its child clients from its founder's sexual perversions.[184] By legal and ethical mandate, Second Mile was responsible for the care and well-being of the disadvantaged youth it was entrusted to protect and serve, yet it failed miserably. Outside of its psychologist CEO Jack Raykovitz's forced resignation after 28 years on the job less than a week after Paterno was fired, unlike Penn State, Second Mile was largely spared from any further scrutiny, inquiry or investigation.[185] The charity's board of directors learned that Sandusky was under investigation in 2009 but chose to publicly remain silent while Sandusky was forced to retire from the charity he founded 32 years earlier.[186] AP reporters Matt Moore and Michael Rubinkam on May 25, 2012 wrote:

Longtime CEO Jack Raykovitz came under fire for failing to inform the charity's board about 2001 [McQueary's] and 2008 [Aaron Fisher's] abuse allegations against the retired coach. Infuriated board members told AP in December that had they been kept in the loop, they could have taken steps to better protect children a decade ago.[187]

Like the top Penn State personnel, reason and motivation that the Second Mile CEO would knowingly allow more children from his organization to be further victimized is if he's a mere cog in the larger pedo-operation wheel. Prosecutor Joe McGettigan's opening statement at the trial makes the point:

The Second Mile, no matter what its reported purpose, was a victim factory for the defendant, an assembly line for adolescent children to be abused, sodomized, and anally raped.[188]

Pittsburgh radio talk show host and sports journalist Mark Madden wrote an article in April 2011 more than a half year ahead of the coach's arrest accurately predicting the November 2011 grand jury revelations. But during that first week in November 2011 as a radio guest on a Boston station, Madden had even more astounding information to relay:

I hear there's a rumor that there will be a more shocking development from the Second Mile Foundation — and hold on to your stomachs, boys, this is gross, I will use the only language I can — that Jerry Sandusky and Second Mile were pimping out young boys to rich donors. That was being investigated by two prominent columnists even as I speak.[189]

Similar to the Franklin scandal’s victimized Boys Town residents, when piecing together all available evidence from so many corroborating sources, it seems indisputable that the Second Mile child sex “factory assembly line” wasn’t just to service the charity’s founder, but to traffic and pimp Second Mile victims to wealthy donors, VIPs and high class friends at Second Mile, Penn State, the Pennsylvania state house and beyond.

On November 28, 2011 veteran journalist William Keisling wrote:

> When the pedophile sex scandal becomes public, the case is quickly referred to Pennsylvania Attorney General Tom Corbett. Corbett and his close allies would time and again obstruct and cover up the sex ring—for more than fifteen years … A prominent figure [Sandusky] would be sacrificed, but the VIP sex and prostitution ring would be concealed and protected for years. This was done not only to protect Corbett’s political allies, but also to protect Corbett’s own political fortunes and ambitions.[190]

By elitist design, Joe Paterno became the next public victim to be sacrificed in order to divert media attention away from the Second Mile sex ring and its pedophile club members. Keisling boldly exposes the operation:

> Over the coming years, at every turn, [York County Police Commissioner Grofcsik] and others would say the Pennsylvania Attorney General’s office, and Tom Corbett, stood in the way of stopping VIPs from having sex with children. Later, court officers would openly boast of enjoying sex with children, and praise Corbett for protecting their illicit activities.[191]

In a June 2012 interview right in the middle of the Sandusky trial, William Keisling had this to say:

Corbett was the obstacle. These are the worst sorts of people doing the worst sorts of things. These are not good people. Tom Corbett got money from TSM, plus he gave money to them. What does it say that Corbett's attorney general's office had the case for three years and did nothing about it? It's systemic corruption. These people are morally bankrupt.[192]

As a natural consequence to being so closely associated with the infamous pedophile coach playing the elite's fall guy role, and despite the charity's free pass from any further inquiry, the Second Mile eventually folded in July 2016,[193] but all sordid criminal activity perpetrated by its employees, board members, donors and officials virtually went both unexamined and unpunished.

Again, the caveat bears mention here that most of the foundation's workers through its four decades are decent people and many youth have been helped by the organization. But the multimillion dollar charity that onetime boasted the likes of pedophile Monarch mind control slave owner Bob Hope[194] and fellow pedophile President Jerry Ford[195] as its honorary board of directors possesses a long history of criminality extending far beyond either both professional neglect, careless disregard for children or obstruction of justice by withholding "lost" records. Evidence has also been uncovered that Sandusky and his Second Mile were both deeply involved in a child sex trafficking ring, with the derelict coach pimping out his Second Mile youth to his charity's wealthiest donor friends in high places, with direct links to the Harrisburg state government all the way to DC and beyond.[196]

Because this scandal is no different from the rest covered in this book, you can safely believe that every effort's been made by the powerful diabolical forces responsible for the global child sex trafficking network to keep the Sandusky scandal localized and contained, exclusively limited to the Penn State University-State College area as if this was merely a one man freak show operation, a mere isolated anomaly and fluke. But like every other major pedophilia scandal on record, it’s always just the tip of an exposed, mostly covered-up iceberg. But when mainstream media sources like CBS and the Huffington Post link Sandusky’s Second Mile to a larger child trafficking ring, even if cloaked behind “rumor mill” speculation, this all important lead is worth examining further.[197] But when corroborated by multiple other reliable sources, along with an elementary understanding of the elite’s pedophilia cabal based on documentable proven past history, a crystalized bigger picture emerges exposing how our most vulnerable kids in the child welfare system (and around the globe) are systemically thrashed and trashed as expendable pipeline throwaways for Luciferian sickos at the top of the planet’s demonic food chain to both literally and lustfully feast on and destroy.

Though with his 30-60 year prison sentence, for all intents and purposes, Jerry Sandusky the serial pedophile is finally out of commission for the rest of his life, there’s no doubt that some of his most powerful Second Mile donors that bought, sold and sodomized young children were and still are part of the larger child trafficking ring operating in the tristate Pennsylvania-New York-New Jersey to Washington DC area as part of the global trafficking pipeline.

It was by calculated design that Sandusky’s Second Mile Foundation virtually avoided any negative publicity while so much was dished on Penn State and its complicit enablers, by both the grand jury and Freeh investigations for obvious reason - to protect exposure of the larger globalized pedo-network. Just as the over-lenient judge at Sandusky’s arraignment cut the dangerous serial pedophile loose to remain a free man because she was connected financially and was a volunteer at his charity, and thus compromised due to her conflict of interest, a number of dual serving high level Penn State operatives were also closely affiliated with the Sandusky foundation. And like Jerry, his rich donors from the elitist pedophile class also share a vested interest in their philanthropic foundations and endowments as a viable means of gaining both shielded and easy access to vulnerable children.

It appears that this covertly intertwined nexus between Sandusky's university and his charity sheltered an insulated private pedo-club of fellow child rapists and assorted pedo-enablers serving on the board of directors as both foundation and university higher-ups as well as major charity donors. Other club members linked to Second Mile and Sandusky's trafficking ring are powerful judges, prosecuting attorneys, state and federal legislators that includes virtually every Pennsylvania governor, as well as organized crime bosses, all directly tied to their child trafficking network. Yet by careful meticulous design, their active participation in the pedophilia operation that Sandusky played a minor but pivotal role in as a cog within the larger demonic global machine was never adequately investigated. Penn State ensured that its records were legally shielded from public access while years of Second Mile records were conveniently removed and eliminated to protect the most guilty, powerful pedo-players. This systematic cover-up of the larger pedophilia network servicing VIP sickos on the Eastern Seaboard has yet to be made fully explicit to the public. But for many years evidentiary pieces to this crime cabal puzzle have remained in place, and over time, fewer missing pieces are removing any speculative guesswork to form a far more completed, clear, confirmed picture.

A mini-Penn State pedophilia scandal at a famous elite prep school a couple hundred miles away from Happy Valley in Brooklyn known as Poly Prep was running its sinister course in lockstep with the Sandusky scandal.[198] This incredible parallel horror story started unfolding when another serial pedophile football coach named Phil Foglietta began coaching at Poly Prep the same year Paterno took over as head coach at Penn State - 1966. And just like at Penn State, for decades (a quarter century), school administrators knowingly tolerated and routinely covered up the coach's beastly crimes abusing hundreds of underage boys in order to protect the elitist prep school's reputation and funding sources where Meryl Streep and Jon Bon Jovi send their kids.[199] The same year Sandusky's grand jury investigation was launched in 2009, a federal lawsuit was filed against the complicit prep school for sweeping the sins of its deceased Coach Foglietta under the rug. And the same year Sandusky was finally convicted in 2012, a court settlement was ultimately reached at Poly Prep. But 2012 was also the same year that child abuse survivor Greg Bucceroni made allegations connecting the dots between Sandusky's Penn State trafficking ring and Foglietta's at Poly Prep, laid out in detail in an explosively revealing September article in the New York Daily News. At the height of the Sandusky debacle in 2012, Greg Bucceroni wrote in an email to the Poly Prep administration:

> (Between) 1977-1980 I was a child prostitute associated with a tristate (NYC-NJ-PA) pedophile ring. (During the) summer of 1979 I was brought to the State College area by Ed Savitz for the purpose of child prostitution with Jerry Sandusky at a Second Mile fundraiser. Due to time constraints, Sandusky became unavailable and I was introduced to Phil Foglietta by Ed Savitz and Jerry Sandusky. Foglietta was introduced to us as Coach Phil who coached youth football in NYC. Foglietta agreed to pay $200 for child sex and followed us back to a Philadelphia hotel, myself (sic) and another child prostitute then engaged Coach Phil in child sex.[200]

Greg Bucceroni also said that a friend of his who was raped by Sandusky, later committed suicide, which especially motivated him to divulge his own story outing the longtime predator and his part in the child trafficking network once the 2011 news broke of the coach's arrest.[201] Bucceroni maintains that he was a trafficked child victim in a sex ring involving the late Philadelphia businessman Ed Savitz, who died of AIDS in 1993. Greg also outed several other influential participants - University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School of Business Professor Lawrence Scott Ward, still serving a lengthy prison sentence for trafficking child pornography, Philly philanthropist and slumlord Samuel Rappaport who died in 1994,[202] currently incarcerated Coach Sandusky and never charged Coach Foglietta who died in 1998.[203]

With far more evidence gathered on international pedophilia trafficking operations emanating from Washington DC's Pizzagate turned PedoGate scandal in late 2016,[204] last December Disobedient Media journalists Elizabeth Vos and William Craddock interviewed the now 52-year old Greg Bucceroni, posting a stunning in-depth piece tying the Sandusky trafficking ring to the national Franklin scandal,[205] and further illustrating one of this book's key points - all of these interconnected pedo-operations are financed, supported and overseen by the same invisible Luciferian forces, from the local ground level up to the massive movement and victimization of millions of sexually abused children ongoing every year throughout this world. Tragically, more slaves on this planet exist now than ever before in human history,[206] and the vast majority are sexually preyed upon young women and children.[207]

Greg Bucceroni reported first meeting Ed Savitz, “a youth advocate,” at his old stomping grounds, a community event sponsored by the South Philadelphia Boys Club.[208] Savitz was a well-connected businessman from an upper crust family, an Ivy League U. of Penn grad and a regular Democratic Party donor bigwig frequenting political campaign rallies in 1976 for the future Democratic Philadelphia Mayor turned Governor Ed Rendell, then running for the “lowly” steppingstone office of Philadelphia District Attorney.[209] As a City of Brotherly Love native, Greg Bucceroni said that Savitz and his cohort, the filthy rich city slumlord-fellow pervert Samuel Rappaport, were regular pedo-partners-in-crime, recruiting their underage prey mainly through their favorite charity - the South Philadelphia Boys Club.[210]

Invariably influential pedophiles select troubled youth that are the most vulnerable, accessible, and least in a position to provide potential blowback or credibility to any future claims. At-risk youth from lower socioeconomic backgrounds are always fair game to prominent derelicts who predatorily entice their victims through money and drug offers most often under the auspices of charity organizations. Bucceroni has consistently stated that Philly DA and later Mayor Rendell was well-aware of Savitz’s perversely sick habits, like paying Greg and other underage boys to defecate and urinate in his mouth just for his deviant kicks.[211] During the late 1970s and early 1980s, Savitz had the means to pimp young boys out to the perverted likes of Sandusky, the coach’s high-end patrons and powerful political luminaries like soon-to-be congressional House Speaker Dennis Hastert.[212]

Pimp Savitz’s pedo-cohort Samuel Rappaport was also a business partner of notorious Richard Basciano, the Times Square pornography titan specializing in child pornography and snuff films catering to heinously sick habits of the pedo-elite. Basciano was also a known crime partner to mobster Robert DiBernardo, a 1986 murder victim for crossing infamous New York City crime boss John Gotti.[213] Porno king Basciano ran DiBernardo's Star Distributors out of the Big Apple that supplied child pornography nationwide. The Washington Metropolitan Police Department investigated Star Distributors and determined that child pornography and child sex trafficking were two closely linked, moneymaking mob enterprises.[214] Savitz, Rappaport and Basciano were simply the middle men between organized crime and corrupt politicians peddling child pornography and trafficked child sex slaves. Additionally, a number of press releases established an enduring friendship between high powered politician Ed Rendell and child porn/snuff film distributor Richard Basciano who of course was also a frequent contributor to Rendell's various political campaigns.

Greg Bucceroni also told Disobedient Media that high-powered, suspected pedophile lobbyist Tony Podesta of Pizzagate infamy was friends with Savitz and Basciano, seen together at various philanthropic events.[215] And to come full circle, per a four part fluff piece in the Washington Post's Arts & Living section, as Rendell's chief election strategist for his 2006 gubernatorial campaign, Tony and his wife Heather Podesta are very close friends with Ed Rendell.[216] Bet their common interest in child sex slave trafficking won't be featured any time soon in the CIA owned and controlled WaPo.[217] And to complete the bigger crime circle linking Rendell to the pedophile Clintons, Ed's ex-wife Midge was appointed by Bill as a federal district judge in 1994.[218]

The Clintons assisted convicted child kidnapper and would-be trafficker Laura Silsby caught attempting to smuggle 33 Haitian children at the Dominican Republic border right after the devastating 2010 earthquake.[219] At the same time Ed Rendell was implicated in a similar incident illegally trafficking 12 more children from the poorest nation in the Western Hemisphere.[220] Even Secretary of State Hillary’s fixer and scandal-suppressor Patrick F. Kennedy had to intervene to reel in “Fast Eddie” who was getting too much public notice in his zest for personally escorting kids from Haiti. Recall that at the same time Hillary had her hands full sending Kennedy to call off an FBI investigation of her US Ambassador to Belgium Howard Gutman for his pedophile crimes with young boys in Brussels[221] while she was busy giving away one fifth of our nation’s supply of uranium to Russia.[222]

With his dirty little fingers in too many pedo-pies, amidst yet another scandal, Governor Rendell had to resign as a board director of the Hong Kong based company Imperial Pacific operating in the Pacific island of Saipan, known for money laundering and trafficking underage girls.[223] The bottomless rabbit hole pit that is the oozing deep state swamp surrounding the Clinton-Bush crime family,[224] the Podesta brothers, Wasserman (and her Awan brothers),[225] Rendell and his Democratic National Committee,[226] which incidentally Rendell was chairman of from 2008 to 2009, is so steeped in global pedophilia operations, an entire book can be written on it. Come to think of it, one already has.

Further clues incriminating former DNC chairman (1999-2001), Democratic governor (2003-2011) and diehard Clinton supporter Ed Rendell link to pedophilia comes from Greg Bucceroni. Recall that convicted pedophile and Greg’s pimp Ed Savitz was a major donor and friend of the governor whose tough guy appearance and language resembles more a Mafioso figure than a polished public servant puppet. But then perhaps that rough edge came from his longtime close association with organized crime. He made no bones about his close friendship with mobster Louis De Naples, Jr.[227] Also lending credence to Greg’s claim that pedophile “Fast Eddie” Savitz ran with high profile politician “Fast Eddie” Rendell, Savitz’s brother Sam and Rendell are or have both served on the same Philadelphia board at the Kimmel Center for the Performing Arts[228] and in 2006 the governor honored Sam Savitz's wife Selma for her "Volunteer of the Year" award.[229] Bucceroni has stated consistently that as Philadelphia District Attorney (1978-1986), Rendell was well aware of Savitz's disgusting criminal habits. In fact, during Rendell's first year as Philadelphia DA, he cut "Fast Eddie" Savitz a sweetheart deal after his first of three pedophilia arrests in exchange for a visit to a rehab center, expunging the derelict's criminal record that freed Savitz to go out and do more damage.[230]

What clearly emerges from police investigations, the Franklin scandal as well as Bucceroni's firsthand accounts is that a well-organized national network of child trafficking operations existed 40 years ago. Also consistent with other verifiable records, the CIA, Mossad, KGB, MI6 and the entire global intelligence community has long been actively deployed in sexual blackmail operations using minors as kiddie bait to gain control over public figures and government assets (for the textbook anatomy of blackmail operations, see Chapter 14 the Jeffrey Epstein scandal).[231] The veracity of Greg Bucceroni's far reaching claims as a child abuse victim, part of a tristate sex ring operating in the late 70s and early 80s, is overwhelmingly backed by subsequent confirmed police and state government crime force documentation, more recent pedophilia scandals as well as a plethora of other solid media sources.

In 1979 the trafficked 13-year old Bucceroni was being regularly abused by his well-connected pimp Ed Savitz who knew Jerry Sandusky through his Second Mile fundraisers and sporting events.[232] Greg stated that his stepfather a year later in 1980 filled out a Second Mile application for services that Greg and Savitz hand delivered to Sandusky, but the instant that Greg later beat up Savitz after an attempted rape, his chance of program enrollment vanished.

After three sex crime arrests, serial pedophile Savitz would eventually get busted in a sting operation on multiple counts of child sexual abuse, precipitated by soliciting oral sex from two 15-year olds, and subsequent confiscation from his homes in 1992 of 5,000 photos of his child victims (including nude pics of Greg) and a fetish collection of 312 trash bags of soiled boys’ underwear and carefully stashed away pizza boxes literally full of boys’ shit.[233] But just 9 days before his scheduled trial, a year later in 1993 the perverted wacko died of AIDS, and as a public health menace nearly caused an AIDS panic in his City of Brotherly Love.[234]

A month after Sandusky’s conviction while the Penn State scandal was still blazing across international headlines, Greg Bucceroni was also interviewed by the courageous late journalist-author Victor Thorn of American Free Press who also further exposed the larger pedo-network connection.[235] Rare to nil was any news coverage showing the direct linkage of Sandusky’s Second Mile Foundation to the greater tristate and national pedophile trafficking network. Even the Louis Freeh report published that same month in July focused its exclusive blame on Sandusky and his Penn State enablers, staying overtly clear of implicating powerful politicians, judges, CEOs, bankers, law enforcement officials, doctors, and lawyers who are and were card-carrying pedo-club insiders affiliated with Second Mile, Penn State and the internationalized pedophile network. Invariably in scandal after scandal, child rapists from this insulated upper crust, elitist strata on the predator food chain remain anonymously immune from any and all accountability. Case in point - aside from the chronic buzz of alt-right wishful thinkers,[236] have any members of the most notorious pedophile crime family dynasty - the Bushes and Clintons - ever been arrested?… despite the never ending predictions.

At the time of his 2012 interview, Greg Bucceroni was employed as a school police officer by the Philadelphia school district as well as a volunteer at the city’s District Attorney’s office. He expounded on his trips to The Second Mile (TSM) fundraisers:

> In 1979 and 1980—when I was 13 and 14 years old - a well-connected pedophile named Edward Savitz took me on trips from Philadelphia to TSM fundraisers. I knew the minute I got there it was a breeding ground because of Savitz’s involvement. While [Jerry] Sandusky interacted with wealthy donors, the other men were sizing-up kids. I felt like a cheap whore because I was in these naked pictures that Savitz was passing around. Savitz [had] talked about taking kids from Philly to the Second Mile and introducing them to men - soliciting them to ‘his friends.’ They exchanged and swapped kids like baseball cards. It was a feeding frenzy. I felt like a prostitute or a go-go dancer at a bachelor party. I felt dirty, used and cheap.[237]

The parallels are too striking to ignore between the Sandusky scandal and America’s largest pedophilia scandal, the Franklin-Omaha Boys Town debacle (Chapter 13) that directly linked the Bush Senior White House. First and foremost, throughout the 70s, 80s and into the early 90s they were both simultaneously co-occurring, both preying on an unlimited supply of underage children from two highly praised charity organizations - Boys Town in Nebraska and Second Mile in Pennsylvania. And equally significant is the fact that both longtime perps Larry King and Jerry Sandusky were covertly tolerated, supported and covered-up for far too long by powerful criminals at both federal and state levels protecting the elite’s larger pedophilia operations.

One common link of an alleged protector in both the PA and NE state scandals is one Graham Spanier. Is it coincidence that Spanier as the president of Penn State from 1995-2011 knowingly let Sandusky abuse underage boys for decades and that his last job prior to arriving at PSU was chancellor at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln from 1991-1995, a stone's throw from the Omaha epicenter during the Nebraska scandal's final years.[238] So we have Spanier moving from one statewide pedophilia ring to the next. Coincidence? I don't think so.

But here's the kicker. Spanier was also a very close friend and associate with another U. of Nebraska-Lincoln chancellor turned president, the disgraced Franklin scandal player Ronald Roskens after being fired in 1989 for getting caught entertaining naked young underage boys at his state owned residence. And then fellow pedophile President George HW Bush, also steeped in the Nebraska scandal, even deeper in its cover-up, immediately hired Roskens to run USAID, a frequent CIA cover for the global child sex trafficking network.[239] Is all this coincidence? Again, hardly. And as long as we're on the subject of Daddy Bush, yet another common linkage between Nebraska and Pennsylvania pedophilia is the pedo-prez himself GHW Bush, who ran with and paid homage to both scandals' beastly protagonists, major GOP fundraiser Larry King[240] and Jerry Sandusky whose pedo-foundation was #283 on Bush's 1,000 Points of Light.

Just two days after the Sandusky scandal broke, having done his investigative homework, on November 7, 2011 former US Naval Intelligence and CIA field officer as well as private investigator Brent Goodwin had this to say about Penn State President Graham Spanier and his former University of Nebraska friend and colleague Ronald Roskens:

Spanier and Roskens are both 'closeted' gay men who are sexually aroused by young boys. They are classic pedophiles. Ronald Roskens has ties to former Franklin Credit Union president and convicted felon/child molester

Larry King, as well as a long list of known pedophiles throughout the United States. Several of Spanier's 'military friends' were recently charged in an international pedophilia scandal at the Department of Defense. Spanier and Roskens were also close friends and longtime associates of convicted child molester Dr. Daniel Schrein.[241]

Only after all the evidence of Sandusky's monstrous crimes were made public knowledge did Spanier finally admit he was "troubled" by the scandal at his university. This man's personal history explains exactly why his understated response throughout his 14 year PSU tenure was one big non-response.[242] With human sexuality the banished Penn State prez's chosen academic career focus, his 1973 PhD sociology dissertation featured topic was premarital sex that included a subsection on wife swapping. He later wrote another paper embracing wife swapping as a healthy interpersonal choice.[243] Yet the so called sex expert claims he never knew Sandusky was a pedophile. Not only did Spanier tolerate child sexual abuse but it's been proven in a court of law that he went out of his criminal way to shield the predator coach.

Additionally, in November 2000 Spanier officially endorsed several days of frolicking decadence on his campus with a Penn State festival called "Cuntfest," complete with large banners draped from academic buildings broadcasting "Cuntfest."[244] When asked by incensed legislators if it was immoral for a publicly funded university to sponsor such controversial events, Spanier's smug answer was:

It depends on what your definition of immoral is.

Again by sinister design, the notion of moral relativism is intended to blur the lines between right and wrong[245] as the New World Order's strategy is to normalize pedophilia (see Chapter 2).[246] If the Luciferian elite can make sex with little kids seem normal and okay, who’s going to complain if anyone knows they’ve been doing it for millenniums?

Then there’s the case of child abuse victim Paul McLaughlin, sexually molested from age 11 to 15 in the late 70s and early 80s by noted Penn State child development professor John “Jack” Neisworth, famous for writing the encyclopedia on autism.[247] As part of his therapy in 2001, McLaughlin taped a phone conversation confronting his abuser who admitted to performing oral sex on him. But when he took the recording to Penn State President Spanier, Paul reported:

> [Spanier] told me that as far as he was concerned it was hearsay, [explaining] ‘Neisworth has an impeccable record. He has never been accused of anything.’ They were more interested in protecting the school. They didn't seem to have any interest in protecting children at all.[248]

Five years later the “impeccable” former Penn State pedo-professor was charged with multiple counts of child abuse in the state of Maryland. Not that that would make any difference in the mind of pedophile enabler Spanier. His actions have always been consistent - protecting the pedophile.

And then after Spanier was fired from his Penn State gig in 2011, he took a top secret job covertly working for the US government as a national security consultant.[249] What is it with these fired, pedo-scandalous ex-college presidents from notorious child trafficking states immediately getting scooped up by Washington in high powered federal positions of such clandestine importance? Or as the always astute journalist-writer Jon Rappoport reasons and questions:

> Because Spanier kept his mouth shut about Sandusky’s crimes against children, this proved he was no snitch and the government could trust him to keep its secrets, too?... Is there an agency we’ve never heard of, whose job is to protect high-level pedophiles from investigation and prosecution?... Was Spanier brought to PSU because of his close ties to a far-reaching pedophile network in Nebraska?[250]

One last bombshell of a fact to ponder, during Joe Paterno's final coached Penn State game on October 29, 2011 - just days from away his oust, guess who was sitting cozily next to the soon-to-be terminated Penn State prez in his plush private press box watching the game with various PSU board of trustees?[251] The already grand jury investigated, less than a week away from indictment - the pedophile coach himself Jerry Sandusky. Clearly this telling scene is the giveaway outing Spanier, Sandusky and their implicated, closest trustee buddies as part of a larger national pedophilia network.

Bridging the Franklin-Sandusky national network made graphically clear is child abuse survivor Greg Bucceroni's eyewitness testimony, confirming the broader scope of the existing pedo-network that was most definitely flourishing four decades ago. Greg maintains that he met the Franklin scandal ringleader and GOP superstar Lawrence (aka Larry) King when the infamous child trafficker hosted:

… Taking kids from the South Philly Boys Club to Washington D.C.[252]

Bucceroni recalls a Ronald Reagan fundraiser where Ronnie wasn't present (kind of like his entire vacated presidency after his VP nearly assassinated him barely a month into office),[253] [254] but with other big names showing up, Greg was served with the other kids as after party dessert:

[It took place] in a townhouse somewhere in Washington DC [likely at the White House "midnight tour guide" Craig Spence's pad]. When we got there, there were kids from other areas [like Nebraska]. There was food, watching porn and alcohol and marijuana. We were introduced to guys, like a meet-and-greet. [Remember Cheney's meet-and-greet?] Afterwards, there was a post-party. Certain people were there... we negotiated a price, did whatever we did, then would go back in and do other sexual deviant acts.[255]

Numerous overly familiar themes run deep throughout Bucceroni's firsthand accounts. Greg stated that Ed Savitz gave him $40 that night to service the future, third-in-line to the US presidency and longest running GOP House Speaker Dennis Hastert (1999-2007), who always was a stayover regular for after-party kiddie sex, in between mingling with his two high profile child sex traffickers Savitz and King. Of course in recent years the disgraced ex-congressman has done some time mingling with fellow prison inmates for attempting to bribe $3.5 million worth of hush money to his past pedophilia victims he abused while a high school wrestling coach.[256] Gotta watch out for those coaching pervs. In December 2017 just three months out of prison, the presiding Illinois judge who called Hastert a "serial child molester" barred the 75-year old from ever being left alone with minors.

Also just like the few honest Nebraskan state legislators such as John DeCamp, Loran Schmit and Ernie Chambers who at every turn were stymied, outnumbered and mostly defeated by the formidable conspiracy of guilty players bent on maintaining their criminal cover-up, led by President Bush himself, neutralizing and even assassinating truth seeking investigators who got in their way,[257] it appears as though the same ugly tactics and unfortunate outcome are unfolding in the Pennsylvania scandal as well.

In 2012 the first party Democrat and woman elected as Pennsylvania's attorney general as well as Corbett's successor Kathleen Kane successfully campaigned and won on the promise to uncover why the Sandusky disgrace dragged its heels so long before bringing the perp to justice, hinting she would go after the guilty, behind-the-scenes players who largely remain unidentified and most responsible, many of whom are linked to Second Mile, Penn State and the Harrisburg state house.[258] In so doing, since taking office in 2013 she threatened to expose the pedophilia operation that extends far beyond the Penn State coach to the notorious interstate trafficking network that's long thrived in the Quaker State. But in Pennsylvania an anti-pedo crusader easily becomes a top priority target to the powerful criminals, hence various corrupt judges, state legislators and prominent attorneys who have so much to hide but even more to lose launched an all-out war to ruin her before she could ruin them and their pedophilia operations.

To add insult to injury, a couple years ago, a Pennsylvania pedo-enabling judge ruled in favor to reinstate Jerry Sandusky's pension allotment of near five grand a month withheld since his June 2012 conviction for sexually abusing 10 boys, so as of January 2016 the jailbird for life was suddenly $211,000 richer with 6% accrued interest.[259] Meanwhile in stark contrast, because the state's top prosecutor Kane was bent on removing pedophiles from power, the state Supreme Court quickly clipped her wings, disbarring her. Next her hidden and not so hidden enemies conjured up a bogus case of perjury and obstruction of justice in a kangaroo court to unjustifiably convict her, forcing her 2016 resignation, while today she still awaits appeal that for now keeps her out of prison.[260]

It supposedly started when Kathleen allegedly leaked grand jury information about the Sandusky grand jury prosecutor Frank Fina's apparent mishandling of corruption charges against public officials.[261] But in actuality, Kane was going after powerful, politically connected, wealthy pedophiles that run the state's child porn-sex trafficking network, protected by the courts and judges that have conspired to destroy Kathleen Kane.[262] The deposed Attorney General outed Frank Fina and a number of her corrupt attack dog adversaries - judges, district attorneys, and state police officials at one time ostensibly assigned to investigate Sandusky and his child sex ring, yet all the while hedging and colluding in massive cover-up.

Kane posted a series of their racist, sexist, scandalously pornographic, pedophilic suggestive images found in their emails, forcing some into early retirement.[263] But as of April 2018, Fina and company are at it again, just receiving the go-ahead from a judge that originally threw their latest libel case out claiming Kathleen merely exercising her freedom of speech was lawful.[264] But the Fina crowd finagled the state appeals court to overrule the judge's decision, forcing him to pick and choose what former AG's statements about her opponents can be contested as libelous in court. After disbarring her, convicting and sentencing her to at least a year in prison, forcing her as the state's top prosecutor to resign, clearly this latest pile-on overkill to kill Kathleen Kane's future is intent on sending the very loud and clear message to anyone else who may dare try to expose and bring to justice members of the powerful pedo-cabal club.

Several years ago even fellow Democrat Governor Tom Wolfe joined the enemy camp, pressuring her to resign. Pedophiles and their complicit enablers have always included both Democrats and Republicans, especially in the state of Pennsylvania. Investigative reporter Wayne Madsen has exposed a number of key state politicians, judges and attorneys with active membership in this pedophile enabler club determined to ruin Kathleen Kane.[265] Madsen also lists all the state's pro-pedo peddling governors, starting from the 1970s to the present, from Republicans Richard Thornburgh, former Homeland Security Director Tom Ridge, Mark Schweiker, and the biggest pedo-enabling governor of them all, former AG Sandusky "prosecutor" - Tom Corbett to Democrats Milton Shapp, Bob Casey, Sr., pedo-trafficking-linked Ed Rendell, to today's Tom Wolf, all are or were pedophile-friendly and highly protective of prominent child rapists operating inside Pennsylvania.

In a state where the historic body politic has been in bed with very young boys for a long time, an anti-pedophile public servant like Kathleen Kane hardly stood a chance, and the post-Sandusky era only confirms that. Sadly just like in Nebraska, outnumbered and overpowered, it appears as though Pennsylvania is following suit, where the bad guys self-protecting their personal stake in the larger pedo-cabal are again outgunning and outlasting another honest public servant daring to challenge the evil status quo.

Another over-the-top sign that Pennsylvania lawmakers are either pedophiles or minimally compromised pedophile enablers is the state senate's defeat of HB 1947 two years ago that would have abolished the statute of limitations for child sex abuse crimes in all criminal cases and extended the statute for civil cases from age 30 to 50.[266] Clearly the pedo powerbrokers in the Harrisburg government along with protecting the ecclesiastical pedo-interests of Catholic archdioceses do not want pedophiles to be held accountable for their egregious crimes. The bill's righteously angry yet resolutely determined sponsor Rep. Mark Rozzi, a child sexual abuse victim himself, had this to say:

Today I want my message to be clear. I don't care who you are. I don't care what institution it is. I don't care when the abuse took place. If you abused children, we are coming for you. If you're an institution that protected and actively managed predators, we are coming for you. If you're a legislator who decides it's more important to protect pedophiles and the institution that protected them, we are coming for you.[267]

Groundbreaking journalist and respected author Nick Bryant (The Franklin Scandal) concisely summed up the common linked essence of both the Nebraska and Pennsylvania scandals:

> The reality is that many perpetrators are not shady men in dirty threadbare trench coats living in seedy hotels, but are in fact, 'pillars of our community.'[268]

In recent years Pennsylvania has been riddled with scandal after scandal, many breaking concurrently with Sandusky's in 2011. An example is Milton Hershey School, America's largest and wealthiest free boarding school for impoverished children with $7.5 billion in assets and 1,850 students.[269] One of the school' house parents was caught possessing 700 images and 40 videos of child pornography. The year before in 2010 the school settled a $3 million suit brought on by five abuse victims at the hands of a son of a part-time house parent. And in 2006 and 2007 a male and a female teacher were arrested for having sex with their students.

Then there was the infamous "kids for cash" case where a Pennsylvania children's court judge was slipped a million dollars in bribe money by a builder of juvenile detention facilities in exchange for sending children by the droves passing through his courtroom to fill up his child prisons.[270] In August 2011 Judge Mark Ciavarella was sentenced to 30 years behind bars. The state supreme court was forced to overturn 4,000 juvenile offenders' convictions for violating their due process from 2003-2008. Filling the lockup detention centers with first time offenders as young as 10 turned into a get-rich-quick racket that both Judge Ciavarella and fellow Judge Michael Conahan accepted payments of over $2 million before getting busted.

Another horrific case that played a large part in Russian President Putin's decision to halt all adoptions of Russian children to America[271] was 7 year old Nathaniel Michael

Craver who in 2003 with his twin sister were adopted by a Pennsylvania couple that abused and murdered the boy.[272] To save themselves from the death penalty, the parents claimed the child suffered from Fetal Alcohol Syndrome and Reactive Attachment Disorder, maintaining that the little boy’s self-injurious behavior did him in. Due to brain injury and failure to thrive, Nathaniel died in August 2009 with 80 body wounds, 20 of them head wounds. But instead of homicide, the Cravers were convicted only of child endangerment and released after 18 months of time served with a 3.5 year probation. This outrageous, next to no sentence was vehemently challenged by a Russian Investigative Committee since the Russian adoptee clearly was brutally murdered.

Reputed to be the most prolific child sex offender in US history, a PA pediatrician straight out of Temple University med school practiced his first 10 years in the pedo-friendly state prior to moving to Delaware in 1994.[273] Dr. Earl Bradley was arrested in December 2009 on 471 charges of child rape of 103 girls from 3 months to 15-years old. While parents were in the waiting room, the pedophile was drugging his young patients with chemically laced lollipops while filming his brutal crimes against children, up to 7,000 of them, hundreds becoming victims over a 15 year period. In December 2012 a $123 million lawsuit was settled and he’s serving 164 year sentence. The monster’s office building was torn down so that the townspeople are spared from daily remembrance of his crime scene damage.

Already covered earlier was the strange 2005 disappearance of DA Ray Gricar who threw out the 1998 case against Sandusky. But another prosecutor died mysteriously in Lancaster County Pennsylvania. This unsolved mystery involved the young Baltimore assistant city attorney Jonathon Luna, found dead in a shallow creek with 30 stab wounds to the body in December 2003.[274]

Last but not least, PA and its University of Pennsylvania are the dubious home to the False Memory Syndrome,[275] the pedo-elite's calculated counteroffensive answer to the so called "satanic panic" of the 1980s and early 90s. Founded by pedophile scientists employed by the CIA's MK Ultra and Monarch mind control programs, the False Memory Foundation was strategically launched as a sweeping broad stroke to discredit, obscure and dismiss abuse claims and testimony of actual sex abuse victims, a readymade go-to defense weapon deployed as legal aid in virtually every pedophile courtroom.[276]

The Luciferian elite diabolically behind the vast global pedophilia cabal and sex trafficking network knew it must suppress growing public awareness recognizing the mounting threat of the worldwide satanic child sex abuse epidemic and consigned the University of Pennsylvania think tank (and Hillary-for-president endorsed alma mater of President Trump[277]) to propagate the so called "fallacy" of retrieving buried memories. In 1991, 80% of the media coverage of child sexual abuse cases reasonably accepted the veracity of victims' recovered memories but just three years later once the False Memory Syndrome (FMS) was introduced and propagated by mass media, the PA Ivy League mind control factory churning out the confabulated FMS propaganda by 1994 effectively manipulated 80% of the corporate media coverage to switch sides, thereafter routinely questioning victims' claims as false accusations.[278] Leave it to Pennsylvania to lead the demonic pack of pedo-wolves to suppress the demonic truth.

Right up to this very day Pennsylvania has a major problem. Hiding in plain sight in the sleepy little farm communities across the state are revelations that pedophilia and sex slave trafficking are still ever-so-deeply embedded.[279] The Keystone State possesses a long shameful history[280] of breeding corrupt politicians and judges who overtly go out of their way to protect the pedophiles, who work hand-in-hand with entrenched organized crime and engage in ceaseless cover-up of one sex abuse scandal after the next.[281] Is it any wonder that incisive author and mind control expert Fritz Springmeier declared that:

Pennsylvania has by far the highest number of child-trafficking organizations.[282]

Hundreds of young boys ranging in age from 8 to 15 have withheld telling adults about Sandusky's and his fellow pedophiles' secret sexual advances traumatizing them repeatedly, cruelly trapped in their lonely, confused and heavily conflicted, dark, despairing worlds, often for years at a time. While their celebrated perpetrator and his elite friends remained safely shielded in insulated impunity, egregiously heralded as a children's saint and "pillars of the community," their victims have suffered in silence. Over many decades, countless abuse victims too ashamed or too scared to disclose, resigned to continued abuse, until the coldblooded predators moved on to their next conquest destroying more young souls. The infamous pedophile's grooming system worked to the serial predator's longtime advantage protecting him from all accountability from the 1970s through the first decade of this century, that's 40 long years before the leaky cracks in the "open secret" dam finally began showing gaping holes, eroding, crumbling, and eventually bursting.

Aside from paralleling the Franklin scandal, the Jerry Sandusky case also shares many of the same eerily marked trappings of England's creepiest and most outrageous of all cases – the Jimmy Savile story[283] (taken up in Chapter 18), where famous celebrities are lauded over many decades for their children's charity work while exploiting their positions engaging in the most beastly acts of child rape imaginable, all the while protected by their heroic public image and corrupted inner circle insiders fully aware of the monstrous crimes being perpetrated.

The pretense of conveniently looking the other way for numerous decades was led by the powerful, idolized Coach Paterno himself in collusion with the Penn State president, vice president and athletic director that under their collective watch knowingly sanctioned yet more heinous, unspeakable acts committed against scores of more defenseless children. Similar to Savile's longtime employer the state run BBC that remained complicit over far too many years protecting the Luciferian pedophile in its midst,[284] eventually Penn State's corrupt gatekeepers could no longer keep Sandusky's hardcore criminal habit secretly concealed as more victims kept emerging to confess and collectively implicate their most unholy sins.

Because college football during the modern era has morphed into such unholy Big Business, for all intents and purposes evolving into a mere extension of the professional National Football League, elite schools like Penn State, USC and Alabama supported by millions of dollars' worth of revenue and annual endowments from well-connected Board of Trustees and wealthy alumni associations, conditions have turned overly ripe for corruptively spawning this pervasive unholy culture of silence, brushing continued rapes of children under the proverbial carpet despite overwhelming evidence mounting against Sandusky who, unimpeded, was given carte blanche license to routinely sodomize young boys in Penn State locker rooms for virtually Paterno's entire near half century head coach career at State. Just as pedophilia in Hollywood has "forever" remained an "open secret," so has Coach Sandusky's predilection for violently preying on vulnerable boys on and off the Penn State campus. The Big Business of winning at all cost simply means that protecting its revered status and coveted reputation as an elitist moneymaking powerhouse automatically takes precedence over protecting and preserving intact the innocence of hundreds of shattered childhoods. Countless young lives became casualties to the monstrous crimes of one parasitic coach, enabled by the criminal complicity of his legendary boss and equally complicit school administration with ties extending to the state government and well beyond to both the national and international body politic.

Thus the domain of higher education within the realm of “professional” sports, like the notoriously tainted institutions of religion, politics and mass media entertainment, has also degenerated and succumbed to the vile perversions so rampantly practiced and operated by the Luciferian club of planetary controllers. Indeed no strata of power on this earth is free from the ruling elite’s ghastly crimes against both children and humanity.

But before moving on to some of the other major pedophilia scandals within the sports industry, it’s worth a reminder that Penn State is just one American university that happens to be the highest profile institution of higher learning out of many thousands in the US and world that was caught criminally enabling and covering up an infamous pedophile employee’s crimes for far too many years. But the bigger reality is pedophilia has been a dirty little secret quietly taking place behind the scenes off the public radar at hundreds of thousands of educational institutions both at the collegiate but especially the primary and secondary school levels where the younger student body populations offer an unlimited pool of targeted children abused by teachers and coaches around the country and world every single day, or are plucked into the deadly pedophilia pipeline. Thousands of lives are forever altered in the worst possible way every day that another innocent child on this planet is brutally violated.

It's currently a global systemic pandemic crisis whether the pedophile is a famous politician, prince, actor, athlete, coach or not. Of course most pedophiles are not celebrities or members of the elite but typically the guy next door (since a significantly high percentage of pedophiles are male) - the local teacher, clergy, policeman, coach, Boy Scout leader, childcare worker, babysitter, nanny, social worker, charity worker, doctor, nurse, Disney worker, father, stepfather, uncle, family friend and on and on it goes. Those employed whose jobs come into daily contact working in closest proximity with kids giving them most access to potential victims are where the pedophiles congregate and are most heavily concentrated. Though the selected focus of this book centers primarily on unveiling the globalized network of centralized, massively scaled pedophilia operations run by the Luciferian elite, it's important to maintain the broader perspective that the vast majority of pedophilia crimes being committed every day may or may not be part of this worldwide network but nonetheless are actively present, hiding in plain sight in virtually every single town, city and country on this earth.

The next chapter will cover the other major sports pedophilia scandals victimizing underage girls in US gymnastics and swimming teams as well as underage boys in UK and European junior soccer leagues. The topic of Super Bowl Sunday as the biggest child sex trafficking day of the year will lastly be addressed in this section before tackling the epidemic unfolding in Europe and every other corner of this earth.

98% of the sexual abuse of underage minors playing sports is perpetrated by their coaches and teachers.[1] One study review shows that anywhere from 2-8% of young athletes are sexually molested with girls more often victims than boys,[2] but then males report abuse significantly less frequently than females and up to 90% of all sexually abused children don't report sex crimes at all.[3] Results from a 2015 US Department of Education study determined that 7% of all middle and high school students were subject to physical sexual abuse by coaches, teachers or other school personnel[4] while a Psychology Today article cites 7% of all minor and young adult athletes are sexual assault victims.[5]

Due to the unique special relationship between a coach and his child athletes, where the power differential is so pronounced with child athletes wanting to impress and please their coach vying for more playing time and successful athletic performance that potentially could lead to future scholarships or stardom, the number of sexually abused children in sports who choose not to report their abuse to parents and authorities is higher than the general population of sexually abused kids. Additionally, blowback for victims who bravely choose to disclose that a popular, respected coach abused them can be highly severe (recall Sandusky victim Aaron Fisher). Teammates, fans and community often reject accuser(s), resulting in being singled out, bullied, ridiculed, harassed and further abused.[6]

For the distinctive reasons applied to the specific context of sports pedophilia, the actual number of abused underage athletes is likely greater than the 2-8% from available reported incidence. Despite these initial research findings, noted lead researcher David Finkelhor at the University of New Hampshire's Crimes against Children Research Center contends that no large-scale studies to date have ever been conducted to ascertain the accurate number of youth and adolescents sexually molested by coaches.[7] With the median age of the abusing coach at 34 years old, upwards of 96% of these pedophilia crimes against children in sports are being committed by men.[8]

Even prior to the 2011 headlines exposing Penn State Coach Sandusky, amateur sports involving children as sex abuse victims were already plagued with a number of increasingly prevalent, well publicized pedophilia scandals.[9] In recent years the increasing influx of underage girls participating in sports, the traditional predominance of male coaches of female athletes typically oblivious or insensitive to understanding their psychological development, especially the fragile self-image of young girls new to sports, combined with the elevated status of coaches within the youth sports culture, all these trending factors have collectively led to skyrocketing rates of child sex abuse scandals within the sports world.[10] By the very definition of the word "coach," meaning to instruct, support, develop and direct, confers authority that rewards obedience. Moreover, athletic performance largely depends on the particular dynamics involved in a close, trusting relationship between athlete and coach.

Executive Director Dan Libowitz of Northeastern University's Sports and Society weighs in on the coach as a powerful mentor:

Isn't that why you choose a certain coach? The thinking is, this coach is better for the child development of your kid. Whether it's at camp at age 10 or college at age 18, these coaches become huge in the development of youth. Everyone’s thinking this is the best place for my kid.[11]

But unsuspecting parents automatically assume that a coach taking a special interest to nurture and develop their son or daughter’s athletic talents naturally has that young person’s best interest at heart.[12] And because the vast majority of youth coaches do, and are deservedly esteemed role models and pillars of the community, child athletes easily fall prey as vulnerable targets to the ones who aren’t, the grooming pedophile coaches like Jerry Sandusky. Predatory coaches often ingratiate themselves to both parents and administrators alike in order to meticulously cultivate the “do-gooder” image as their protective safety net and potential barrier to overpower and weaken victim credibility. Furthermore, coaches feeding both parents’ and children’s lofty dreams of future stardom and athletic scholarship tend to inhibit abuse disclosure to outside authorities, be it law enforcement or to even parents themselves.

Three-time 1984 Olympic gold medal swimmer Nancy Hogshead-Makar, a civil rights attorney and Champion Women (and girls) founder,[13] characterizes the unhealthy, abusive dynamic repeated thousands of times between coach and young athlete when boundaries get blurred and violated:

Power of this magnitude is easily abused and fosters a sickness that can turn victims into pariahs… A coach abuses a young female athlete, and when it is discovered, team members rally to protect the popular coach, upon whom they've hung their hopes of athletic success. The problem > becomes the victim, who is pressured to leave while the coach remains.[14]

Nancy addresses another all too common pattern:

> The abuse is discovered, but the family wants to shield the victim from the shame of exposure or police involvement, and the club doesn't want the bad PR. So the coach is allowed to quietly leave the club, only to be hired again to repeat the abuse.[15]

The third and most common scenario is when sexual abuse goes unreported. When successful coaches (like at Penn State) are so lauded and renowned, buffered and armed with such sterling reputations shared by both their community and athletes alike, underage victims may fear the abuse and rejection that would be forthcoming if they dare unveil the ugly truth. In a state of shock, feeling powerless, alone, overwhelmed, confused, ashamed and scared, child athletes can conclude that it’s their fault, or that their only option is to tough it out, learn to “stomach” the abuse, suffer in silence and otherwise repress their sexual trauma, convinced that abuse is but a sacrificial requisite to being a team sport athlete, or the paid cost of striving to reach their lifelong dream to make the Olympics, achieve professional stardom or earn that coveted, much needed college scholarship. Many withdraw and simply drop out of sports altogether without a word. Or if the traumatic shock is strong enough, the victim’s mind dissociates, forming an alter ego separate from the primary personality.[16]

When coaches focus so much on conditioning young athletes’ physical bodies to peak performance, appreciating the aesthetic beauty and grace of fine-tuned athletic excellence while sharing athletic locker room facilities where undressing and showering are normal daily routines, regularly traveling together for competition, perhaps more than any other single profession, male coaches gain exclusive access spending inordinate amounts of unsupervised time with their underage female and male athletes - virtually every afternoon and weekends for months and even years at a time. This professional lifestyle uniquely grants coaches ample opportunity for shared intimacy between coach and athlete that for pedophilic predators becomes too sexually stimulating and tempting to avoid criminal exploitation. A coach innately possessing pedophilic or hebephiliac tendencies and urges, potentially compounded by lack of moral development and/or unmet sexual needs, combined with a child athlete’s craving for positive attention and approval from a powerful adult authority figure, frequently exacerbated by lack of parental involvement, all these co-occurring factors can compel a coach to transgress professional boundaries and sexually offend. It’s why so many minors participating in sports today are at higher risk of sexual abuse than either they or their unsuspecting parents can even imagine.

As far back as 1995, a Canadian study found that near one in four (22.8%) of the athlete respondents on Canada’s national teams admitted that while under age 18 they had sexual intercourse with their coach or a person in a position of authority within their sport.[17] That same University of Winnipeg study determined that sex abuse amidst the national Canadian teams was pervasive across all sports. Responding to today’s plethora of pedo-scandals that permeate the entire sports spectrum, lead researcher Dr. Sandra Kirby in that Canadian study has stated:

It’s [sexual misconduct] not new, but in sports it seems we are doomed to be shocked and appalled all over again.[18]

The frequency of child sexual abuse in sports in Australia is apparently even more alarming. An Australian study of its national “elite” athletes and its regional “club” athletes under 18 indicated that 41% of the female athletes and 31% of the male athletes as minors have been sexually abused.[19] The fact that near half of Australia's best female athletes and a third of its best male athletes as underage victims are customarily subjected to sexual molestation is astoundingly atrocious and totally unacceptable. With numbers that high operating within national Olympic organizations in so called "civilized, developed" Western nations like Australia and Canada and the larger publicized scandals so rampant in America, the Luciferian reach of the pedo-cabal is once again criminally implicated.

Moreover, studies have determined that the more talented and skilled underage athletes are, the more prone to sexual assault they become.[20] Katherine Starr, founder of the nonprofit advocacy group Safe4Athletes[21] and an underage Olympian swimmer abused by her coach, states that:

> The more you're involved in your sport, the deeper the hooks [of abuse] get. Relationships with a coach are the first relationships athletes have with an adult outside of their parents. This creates deeper pathways, and the hooks go deeper.[22]

The male-dominated, rarified air of elite Olympic coaches already possessing impressive track records for demanding excellence from their athletes are looked upon as authoritarian gods within popular sports culture (i.e., Penn State's Joe Paterno). Pushing their athletes and teams to the limit and demanding total obedience and submission, pathologically controlling coaches can look upon their athletes as mere possessions, telling them what to eat, when to go to bed, dictating their social activities, controlling to the extreme virtually every aspect of their young lives, including prohibiting or limiting access to overinvolved, so called "helicopter" parents. This over-controlling, disciplinarian, micromanaging style of longtime US Gymnastics coaches Bela and Martha Karolyi restricted parents from their Texas Olympic training camp,[23] the now infamous former Olympic training site where sexual abuse on an industrial scale was perpetrated by their team doctor Larry Nassar. Some of the gymnast victims have gone public verbalizing their contention that their “abusive” authoritarian coaching couple that transformed US women’s gymnastics into a powerhouse condoned Nassar’s abuse, though the coaches claim they were completely unaware.[24] But more on the horrendous US Gymnastics Team scandal later.

Researchers Celia Brackenridge and Sandra Kirby found that young athletes are most vulnerable to sexual abuse when they are knocking on the door to bigtime success at higher competitive levels:

> Athletes may be more susceptible to the grooming process which precedes actual sexual abuse when they have most at stake in terms of their sporting careers, that is when they have reached a high standard of performance but are just below the elite level.[25]

Young athletes at the threshold of high achievement competitively striving for scholarships, Olympic gold or reaching the gateway to professional stardom have the most to lose by reporting abuse to authorities. In far too many cases, they risk losing everything in life they’ve worked so hard for as well as risk alienation and harassment from teammates, sports officials and fans alike that remain blindly loyal to powerful perpetrating coaches. So underage victims too often suffer in silence, rationalizing their wrongful violations into normalized acceptance as part of the enduring sacrifice required in order to achieve success at the higher levels in their chosen sport that engulfs their entire world. One former athlete abused from age 12 to 16 described what it was like living with her coach’s abuse driven by their extreme power differential:

> He threatened to take all that away. That my teammates would lose everything, too. Everything would be my fault. He threatened his own life if I wouldn't, in his words, be his girlfriend. And that was kind of, at that point I didn't really resist anymore.[26]

Aside from the Sandusky Penn State train wreck, this early century's biggest sports scandals reflected off the public radar and awareness are the extraordinarily high rates of sexual abuse in Canada and Australia, overshadowed by scandals of Olympic certified male coaches and team personnel routinely abusing underage girls performing at elite levels on both the US Swimming and US Gymnastics national teams. But far more than variation among individual sports, this widespread problem is reaching endemic status in all amateur sports that by its very nature is inherently global and systemically wider in scope than any of us can either measure or know. All we're aware of is that the rate of child sexual abuse appears to be skyrocketing across the entire spectrum of amateur sports.[27]

The Olympic Organization: A Corrosively Corrupt Pedophilia Haven

Prior to delving into the specifics surrounding each of the two humongous sports scandals in women's/girls' swimming and gymnastics, a cursory look at the organizational infrastructure of the Olympics movement sheds much needed light on how a long embedded history of pedophilia and its overt cover-up has been promulgated not just in the US, Canada and Australia, but worldwide within the far-reaching tentacles of the Olympic ranks.

At the apex of this structural power pyramid ruling over amateur athletics worldwide that taps the estimated 44 million child athletes[28] is the top political governing body - the International Olympic Committee (IOC) headquartered in Lausanne, Switzerland. Its executive board members consist of such notorious powerful elitists as IOC's "honor member" - the infamous war criminal-NWO guru Henry Kissinger, the IOC president from 2001-2013-turned-current honorary president - Belgian Count and Jesuit educated[29] former orthopedic surgeon Jacques Rogge,[30] along with 100 active members and 41 honorary members largely comprised of European and Middle Eastern royalty that include Illuminati aristocracy bloodlines, prominent former politicians, CEOs, top level bureaucrats and rewarded past Olympic athletes (about 40%),[31] including infiltrators from such powerfully subversive secret societies as Freemasonry, Malta Knights and the Jesuits.[32] It's worth noting that an inordinate number of IOC members are also career lawyers and judges. Similar to VIPs from the United Nations as a New World Order creation, the IOC is saturated with global movers and shakers fitting the bill indelibly linking them to the global pedophilia cabal that moves the sex trafficking network and violently shakes the innocence out of child victims. It also bears mentioning that although not every IOC member is a pedophile or pedophile enabler, similar to US Congress and other powerful geopolitical organizations, an indeterminable, relative high percentage is.

The Belgian Jacques Rogge relieved Spain's bloody tyrant Franco's onetime Sports Minister, Juan Antonio Samaranch as the IOC president who, like his fascist boss's history-making longevity as Europe's longest-lived dictatorial regime, ruled the Olympic roost for over two decades (1980-2001).[33] As the newly elected IOC president, Rogge's first item of business on his 2001 agenda was implementation of the Youth Olympic Games for children aged 14-18.[34] Intended or not, this enormous expansion subsidizing children's competition worldwide under the Olympics name opened the floodgate to huge pedophilia scandals in the US Gymnastics and US Swimming teams among others.

Meanwhile, credited with increasing IOC revenue from $100 to $900 million, Jacques Rogge's dozen year IOC tenure has been seriously marred by the pedo foothold allowed under his watch to seep into the Olympics Movement with scandal after scandal of criminal cover-ups still rocking national sports teams today.

Rogge's elected successor in 2013 and current IOC president, a 64-year old German named Thomas Bach, retains Europe's monopolizing control over the Olympics as 8 of its last 9 total presidents have hailed from Europe, although Kuwaiti Sheik Ahmad Al-Fahad Al-Sabah apparently held court over a large bloc of IOC voting members responsible for "engineering Bach's victory."[35] Since Thomas Bach's private business catered to his Arab nation customers, seeking a political alliance with a powerful Arab sheikh high-up the Olympics' political food chain proved both personally and professionally lucrative and self-serving for the current IOC president. It didn't hurt also to be the protégée of one Horst Dassler whose father founded Adidas and used his marketing company to bribe countless sports officials, paying out $100 million for the multimedia rights to broadcast World Cup soccer, the World Track and Field Championships and the Olympics.[36] Both the IOC and its affiliate the Federation of International Football (soccer in North America) Association (FIFA) as the world's two largest international sports organizations sponsor the world's two largest international sporting events, the Olympics and the World Cup, both racked by a nonstop history of corruption and pedophilia scandals.

Meanwhile, IOC President Bach's chief Kuwaiti ally, oil-rich Sheikh Ahmad Al-Fahad Al-Sabah was forced to resign in May 2017 as both a FIFA Council member as well as an Executive Committee member of the Asian Football Confederation (AFC) for his criminal role in the international soccer federation's ongoing, deepening corruption scandal.

Straddling atop the world's two largest sports organizations, Sheikh Ahmad continued sitting as President of the Olympic Council of Asia (OCA) and the Association of National Olympic Committees (ANOC).[37] Yet per recent release of US Justice Department documents, Sheikh Ahmad is guilty of making shady bribery deals as a power play to gain control over the AFC.[38] But this is nothing new. A WikiLeaks released US embassy cable stated that he was "widely perceived as being corrupt."[39] But Sheikh Ahmad's lofty leadership position and kingpin dealmaker in both the IOC and the ruling Kuwaiti royal family from US Empire's close Gulf State ally kept him from jail and prosecution. After all, royalty always comes with the entitled privilege of living above the law.

However, the Justice Department also implicated the sheikh's right hand man as yet another bribery co-conspirator - Husain Al Mussalam.[40] While Massalam was already the director general of the Olympic Council of Asia (OCA) and vice-chairman of international relations within the Kuwait Football Association (KFA), this right hand crook was also promoted as the first vice president of the world swimming federation FINA, also rife with corruption and pedophilia scandals. But in July 2017 yet more damaging evidence emerged when a recording of Mussalam proposing an arrangement of his earning a 10% "commission" for bribery deals made with sponsors worth $40-50 million was leaked to The Times of London and Germany's Spiegel online.[41] For the two Olympic honchos' blatant criminality, their nation's hand was slapped, banning Kuwait from the 2016 Rio de Janeiro Olympics and the 2018 World Cup in Russia.

The legal problems for the world soccer federation began in earnest in 2010 when out of nowhere but cash payouts another little obscure Gulf State Qatar suddenly, surprisingly won its bid or more aptly its bribe into hosting the 2022 World Cup. With the favored US so accustomed to bullying its way, the sore loser decided it had had enough.[42] So in 2011 the FBI and Justice Department, neither known for their moral high ground, began looking into years of accumulating evidence confirming the FIFA corruption bonanza along with its gross failure to internally police its own pack of greedy wolves. In May 2015 the US Justice Department collaborating with Swiss police arrested seven senior soccer officials and the FIFA-gate scandal was born, spawning multiple bribery, racketeering, wire fraud conspiracy, extortion, money laundering, obstruction of justice and tax fraud charges indicting 42 FIFA executives in all,[43] incriminating mostly South Americans, but also Americans such as FIFA's North and South American Executive Committee member turned FBI informant Chuck Blazer, along with the likes of Kuwaitis Sheikh Ahmad and Massalam (though neither were ever indicted nor served jail time). Based on the corrupt rags to riches tax evader Blazer's blazingly incriminating evidence supplied to the FBI before dying in 2017, 23 FIFA officials and marketing executives copped guilty pleas over bribes that for many years have regularly determined which nation hosts the coveted World Cup and which television companies were allowed to cover it.[44]

A recent flap over who's going to host the 2026 World Cup flared up when President Trump tweeted on April 27, 2018:

The U.S. has put together a STRONG bid w/ Canada & Mexico for the 2026 World Cup. It would be a shame if countries that we always support were to lobby against the U.S. bid. Why should we be supporting these countries when they don't support us (including at the United Nations)?[45]

The irony of it all when organizations like FIFA school the world on ethics that prohibit governments from exerting “undue influence” on host selection, considering FIFA’s long history of choosing where the World Cup is played based on which country bribes them with the biggest payoff. But apparently FIFA draws the line with bullying presidents threatening consequences against those nations daring to back the only other bidder - in this case Morocco, which happens to already have committed backing from Russia, France, Belgium and Luxembourg, several Caribbean, most Middle Eastern countries and virtually all of Africa.[46] The 2026 winner will be announced on June 13, 2018.

The unchecked hubris, total lack of ethics and insular lack of transparency designed to shield perpetrators from oversight and accountability within the multi-tiered, bureaucratic Olympic organizations are completely over-the-top. Though the 2015 Justice Department charges applied to senior FIFA officials, it could just as easily describe the goings-on at all levels of the Olympic Movement organizations, from the IOC to the US Olympic Committee (USOC), International Association of Athletics Federation (IAAF), regional and continental associations, to FINA, and a host of other world sports federations, the over 200 national Olympic Committees down to each national sports team. From the filed Justice Department charges report, paragraph 75:

The corruption of the enterprise became endemic. Certain defendants and co-conspirators rose to power, unlawfully amassed significant personal fortunes by defrauding the organizations they were chosen to serve, and were exposed and then either expelled from those organizations or forced to resign. Other defendants and co-conspirators came to power in the wake of scandal, promising reform. Rather than repair the harm done to the sport and its institutions, however, these defendants and co-conspirators quickly engaged in the same unlawful practices that had enriched their predecessors.[47]

Same as the old boss syndrome that characterizes the history of the human race.

In February 2018 even a Panamanian import-export company that manufactured uniforms tried cashing in on the gravy train, pleading guilty of fraud after planning to pay a half million dollar bribe to the subsequently arrested Costa Rican federation president.[48] While FIFA boss from Equator was convicted for money laundering in 2016 and is serving a 10-year prison sentence,[49] Brazil and Paraguay’s that were convicted in a Brooklyn federal court in December 2017 still await their sentences, with another FIFA head from Peru acquitted. Additionally, a Swiss banker from Argentina dirty laundered over $25 million dollars to the now deceased Argentine FIFA president[50] who happened to be the right hand man of five-term elected Swiss FIFA President Sepp Blatter, who was forced after 17 gluttonously scandalous FIFA years to resign in disgrace in late 2015, banished from FIFA for the next 8 years (though after appeal later reduced to half a dozen).[51]

From the Zurich headquarters, in April 2018 the current Swiss attorney general announced his office is still open to gathering more corroborative evidence from his counterparts around the world regarding his own ongoing criminal investigation into FIFA. The AG stated that there are still dozens of pending cases that include a probe into 81-year old Blatter’ alleged impropriety of “disloyal management” based on a questionable payment in 2011 made to his then heir-apparent European Association (EUFA) boss that somehow avoided the legal parameter of a criminal bribery charge, despite the exchange of 2 million Swiss francs.[52] Backstage at a 2013 awards show, the then 76-year old Blatter apparently couldn’t hold his “blatter,” impulsively latching onto the nearest sex object, grabbing the ass belonging to Hope Solo, the twice Olympic gold medal World Cup champion US goalie.[53] This of course came two years ahead of his dethroning, which explains why Hope may have waited to disclose this tidbit to the world during the height of the #metoo movement in November 2017.

In recent years these never ending scandalous incidents represent merely the tip of an Olympic glacial iceberg meltdown. The bottom line, the IOC and its entire Olympic Movement that includes FIFA, FINA, FIG (the gymnastics world federation) and all the other governing sports bodies are all corrosively, irreparably corrupt and scandal-riddled on an unprecedented, industrial scale.[54] Prime case in point where shady corporate, sports and politics worlds meet, take South Korean Lee Kun-hee, head of mighty Samsung electronics.[55] A decade ago he was busted for paying off politicians and judges in 7-figure bribes. Convicted of $7.5 million tax evasion and gross fiscal misconduct, he was sentenced to three years in prison and an $80 million fine. But because crime does pay when you're the richest man in South Korea who pays off the right people, the then South Korean president Lee Myung-bak pardoned the corporate criminal in order to use Lee Kun-hee's IOC kingpin status[56] to finagle hosting the nation's PyeongChang 2018 Winter Olympics.

Lee Kun-hee was too ill to participate in the Winter Games pageantry in February, so his son and now head of Samsung Lee jae-yong filled in. But like father, like son, he too was caught buying illegal favors and sentenced to five years in prison. Then lo and behold, less than 24 hours before the South Korean Olympics opening ceremony, he won his get-out-of-jail-card on appeal.[57] What are the odds of that? Right on cue, Lee jae-yong was there in person representing Samsung as the too big a sponsor to be denied, propping up the morally decayed, pathetically shameful Olympic Games. And to come full circle on this thoroughly cruddy, muddy merry-go-round, the Samsung pardoner ex-president Lee

Myung-bak was just arrested in April 2018 on bribery, embezzlement and other charges, taking dirty money from Lee Kun-hee, the country's spy agency and others.[58] Meanwhile, also in April 2018, Lee Myung-bak's successor Park Geun-hye was sentenced to 24 years behind bars for her turn at Seoul's corruption turnstile.[59]

This over-the-top sleaze comes as a result of a near century of US Empire neocolonialism. After all, what can be expected from a US puppet where Empire divided and killed millions of Koreans and to this day holds the two nations hostage in order to gain propaganda mileage, still aggressively occupying a current garrison of 35,000 US troops[60] and a missile defense system aimed directly at not just North Korea but China and Siberian Russia dually perceived as an offensive capability deployment.[61]

In yet another most recent development in this never ending criminal saga of Olympic moral turpitude, an email exchange between son of disgraced ex-president of the International Association of Athletics Federation (IAAF) Lamine Diack and Samsung was recovered in a recent police raid whereby Lamine's offspring Papa Massata Diack requested $9.5 million to secure the 2018 PyeongChang Winter Games bid for South Korea.[62] The IOC ethics committee was already compelled in 2015 to dump Papa's papa Lamine Diack, the Senegalese honorary IOC member[63] after his IAAF was caught accepting bribes to look the other way with dirty drug testing amongst athletes.[64] This came after the Diack senior was deposed as IAAF head in 2011 for accepting millions from the notorious $100 million dollar bribe man himself Horst Drassler.[65] Again, like father, like son, the longstanding Olympic tradition of illicit cash flow giveaways between corrupt corporate generations and corrupt Olympic generations along with political pardons is simply how this cesspool world of the elite works.

With the stench of this moral degradation and decadence oozing throughout the world of politics, business and sport, is it any wonder the Olympic Movement's trying desperately to prop itself up disguised as the shining unified kumbaya world umbrella when in reality it's the Olympic bribery-fraud-pedophilia movement? Where moral corruption begins, criminal corruption follows, and where criminal corruption leads, pedophilia cover-ups are never far behind. So whistle while you work as down the pedo-rabbit hole we go.

As the supreme global sports' governing body, the International Olympic Committee atop the power pyramid overseeing each Olympic sport's world governing federation, each region's governing association and each nation's Olympic Committee, the IOC bears the brunt of responsibility first in turning a blind eye for too many years to both the rampant fraud and corruption as well as for the longest time pretending a pedophilia problem never existed throughout its ranks. The IOC is equally guilty for its long embedded opposition to enacting any anti-abuse policies to protect both its child and adult athletes from further sexual exploitation and harm. To say that those in charge up and down this Olympic crime cartel umbrella have acted with malfeasance, directly contributing to the current global pedophilia epidemic, is a gross understatement. "Olympics, Inc." is an integral part of the international pedophilia cabal, where once again protecting the Olympic brand while generating billions of dollars in revenue from its sporting events and television rights is deemed far more important than safeguarding children's health and well-being - another shameful constant observed throughout this book.

The next rung of criminal negligence and culpability for ruining so many scarred child athletes' lives belongs to the 206 National Olympic Committees (NOCs include every UN member nation plus various territories), chief culprit among them the US Olympic Committee (USOC) that oversees all of America's national sports teams with headquarters in Colorado Springs commanding an average annual revenue of a cool $230 million.[66] Below the USOC are 47 national governing bodies (NGBs) that cover each Olympic and Pan American sport, many of which are also located in Colorado Springs. Two of these 47 NGBs that are the most notorious pedophilia bastions, the US Swimming and US Gymnastics teams in turn fall under their respective world federations FINA and FIG (International Gymnastics Federation, the world's oldest international sport organization founded in 1881).[67]

The near four dozen NGBs operate as fundraising sources lending the status of the Olympics label to offer memberships to thousands of athletic clubs and coaches across the country in order to attract the best athletes from very young ages, groomed to participate in the Youth Olympics in sports where younger athletes tend to excel, like gymnastics, swimming, skating and Taekwondo martial arts.[68] These certified Olympic coaches and their clubs at the local levels make up the bottom rung of the Olympic pyramid infrastructure, working directly with 11 million American kids dreaming of Olympic stardom. In addition to the recent US Swimming and US Gymnastics scandals, because soccer is this planet's most popular international sport and IOC and FIFA govern it, acting in an Olympic guardianship role over all its umbrella organizations on down to the junior soccer leagues, they bear shared responsibility for the hundreds if not thousands of boys in youth leagues in England alone that have been brutally sodomized by predatory coaches taken up in the next chapter. The sheer size and scope of these largest sports scandals are still being exposed today.

While national teams and junior leagues in America and Europe have been shaken to the core in recent years with these major scandals involving Olympic certified coaches sexually abusing underage female and male athletes for numerous decades, the glaring fact remains that their world governing bodies from the IOC, USOC, FIFA, FINA, FIG to the many NGB organizations have been simultaneously engulfed in colossal cases of criminal cover-up of both child sex crimes as well as corruption on an off-the-chart, industrial scale. This rampant lawlessness within all the global sports world's governing entities indicates incontrovertible evidence that the gargantuan Olympic Movement's infrastructure tied so closely to royalty and corporate politics is also tied to the global pedophilia network.

Major Pending Child Sex Abuse Cases in US Taekwondo, US Volleyball and Olympic Sports Scandals Overview

As of May 4, 2018 a brand new lawsuit has just been filed in Denver federal district court, accusing two brothers in Olympic Taekwondo, former coach Jean Lopez and three-time Olympic medalist Steven Lopez, along with the US Olympic Committee and US Taekwondo National Governing Body of "sexual abuse, exploitation, and trafficking" of four female Taekwondo athlete plaintiffs resulting from when they were underage girls and young woman over a span of more than 20 years.[69] Significantly, the civil suit also identifies both the USOC and USA Taekwondo as additional co-defendants for failing to protect the victims from two known Olympic sponsored sexual predators profiteering from international competitions for financial gain. In all 40 women have accused the pedo-defendants of sexual abuse. Court filed allegations specify criminal culpability extending to the two additional defendants:

> Starting in 1996-97 and continuing until 2018, [the] USOC and USA TKD knowingly participated in a venture to transport and traffic plaintiffs … around the globe to be used for the sexual benefit [of the Lopez brothers, along with unnamed coaches and officials who] will be uncovered during discovery in this case.[70]

This unprecedented legal case opens the floodgate for further litigation if the Denver judge permits it to proceed as is, due to implicating the larger Olympic hierarchy that includes both the US national committee and sport NGB beyond the known serial perpetrators as part of an international child sex trafficking ring. The court filed documents contend that:

By 2006, USA TKD had received written and verbal complaints that Jean Lopez and Steven Lopez were routinely sexually exploiting, assaulting, and raping multiple female athletes that were entrusted into the protection… of the USOC and USA TKD. The USOC knew or was willfully blind that the Lopez brothers represented a clear and present danger to young female athletes.[71]

Aside from the two perps and their NGB, the suit cites USOC's liability and complicity for knowingly promoting and bankrolling this criminal operation down to paying the coaches' salaries and all travel costs involved in international competitions over the two plus decade duration. Moreover, the litigation is also calling out the US Olympic Committee for its guilt in effectively covering up the pedophilic crimes:

Ignoring repeated reports of sexual misconduct, the USOC has prioritized commercial success over safety by ignoring and then covering up complaints, deferring and diverting investigations, and continuing to financially support NGBs that tolerate or even facilitate sexual abuse by coaches and others.[72]

The Protecting Young Victims from Sexual Abuse and Safe Sport Authorization Act passed by Congress in early 2018 is geared to holding these sporting institutions far more accountable than in times past for long neglecting child safety in favor of shielding offending coaches and officials, offering victims more legal access to challenging the US Olympic Committee's responsibility to ensure all its personnel are in compliance with Safe Sport specifications and child safety policies.[73] This landmark case opens up liability to the pedo-enabling head honchos atop the massive Olympics organizational pyramid, not just for sex crimes committed by its pedophiles but for exploiting its child athletes as abuse victims within the much larger international crime cabal that operates the planet's child sex trafficking network.

Though the primary focus of this chapter features the two biggest scandals in US Olympic sports - swimming and gymnastics, pedophilia lurks in every sport at every level. The scandal in youth soccer in England will be covered in the next chapter and section that addresses scandals beyond America and around the globe. But it's worth a reminder again that a highly important lawsuit is ongoing charging the US Olympic Committee and USA Taekwondo for child sex trafficking and civil suits over pedophilia scandals are currently pending in other sports as well such as junior US Volleyball.

The volleyball scandal is similar to other sports scandals in that a longtime "renowned and respected" coach accused by at least a half dozen victims[74] by the mid-1990s of criminal sexual transgressions allegedly perpetrated during the 1980s was still coaching and held an elite position in the sport right up until earlier this year. For decades Rick Butler has been considered America's most powerful coach in youth volleyball. But one of his victims, Sarah Powers-Barnhard, a current Jacksonville, Florida youth volleyball coach herself, filed a 2016 civil suit against the AAU for continuing to allow the serial sexual predator to coach at-risk minors.[75] As coaches she even had to face off against her abuser in the 2016 National AAU Youth Volleyball Championships before a nationwide audience at the Wide World of Sports and Orange County Convention Center in Orlando, describing it as “torture.” Sarah’s case is still pending in a Florida court.

Despite the AAU policy that bars coaches accused of sexual misconduct from its membership rolls, until February 2018 in response to Sarah’s lawsuit and increasing public pressure, the AAU finally joined the Junior Volleyball Association as well as US Volleyball NGB in ultimately banning the 63-year old Butler for life.[76] This came after Sarah and other former players have been raising allegations against their abusive former coach for over 20 years, compelling Olympic USA Volleyball to ban Butler in 1995 only to reinstate him five years later in an administrative capacity because he happens to own the Illinois based Sports Performance Volleyball Club that trains elite national players and has won nearly 100 national championships.[77] Under increasing outside pressure from victims gone public and at least two pending lawsuits, finally USA Volleyball has permanently banned him from the sport as of January 2018.

Since the Harvey Weinstein #metoo revelations broke in late 2017, a new age has dawned when powerful sexual predators are being held more accountable by their now more listened to accusers. In May 2018 several of Rick Butler’s victims turned survivors gave their personal testimony before an Illinois Senate panel in support of extending statute of limitation laws in sexual abuse cases, especially where abusers like Butler silence the abused by threatening defamation of character lawsuits against their victims.[78] Also addressed in the hearing was mandated reporting laws and efforts to make the system more accommodating for accusers to come forth and be judiciously heard. Sarah Powers-Barnhard and Julie Romias testified about their abuse, Julie accusing Butler of sexually molesting her while on international trips and, as is typical, threatened the teen with violence if she ever spoke out. Sarah stated Butler began raping her when she was 16, adding that he made her watch porno films so she could “learn” from them.[79] In February 2018 a mother of another Butler abuse victim filed a $10 million class action lawsuit against him, Butler’s wife and his elite sports club.[80] Christine Tuzi claims she was raped at 16, forced to have unprotected sex “hundreds of times” and was impregnated by age 19. Immediately following her abortion, Butler coerced her into masturbating him back at his hotel room.

Among the top kingpins in youth volleyball having coached four Olympic medalists, the child sex predator misused his power and influence to abuse aspiring young elite talent and got away with it for many years through harassment and intimidation threats, all the while avoiding criminal charges to this very day. The class action suit’s attorney told the Illinois legislators at the hearing that the Butler case is part of the much larger “epidemic in youth sports,” alluding to the rampant child sexual abuse raging out of control both nationally and internationally. Additionally, abuser Rick Butler also has longstanding deep ties to the pedophilia enabling Michigan State University, the same one paying a half billion dollars out to its pedophile victims at the hands of former doctor Larry Nassar. Turns out the MSU’s current women’s volleyball coach is a former employee and protégée at Butler’s elite sports facility.[81] MSU Coach Cathy George has also publicly defended the serial child rapist’s reputation. Again, linkage between longstanding pedophiles and pedophile enablers at MSU and Olympic and amateur sports strongly suggest a larger pedophilia network operating amongst birds of a feather flocking together in the same private elitist pedo club. But at least this serial child rapist from volleyball has finally been banned for good and the pending lawsuits will offer financial compensation to a few of his victims. But Rick Butler will likely never serve a day in prison for his hundreds of crimes. Statute of limitations or protection from his pedo club?

Pedophilia cover-ups of operations on a lesser known scale may still yet be exposed showing the pervasive nature amongst countless smaller national Olympic Committees from other countries as well as among the various world sports federations that oversee Olympic sports where underage athletes compete, starting at the local community youth level as well as the international Youth Olympics and on up to the elite national and international levels.

Either abolishing or completely overhauling this gluttonous monstrosity of the global sports criminal cabal from the top on down is absolutely required if corruption and pedophilia are ever to be thoroughly rooted out. Because the US Olympic Committee along with FINA, FIG and FIFA federations are among the largest financially endowed, most powerful and guiltiest of major pedophilia scandal cover-ups abusing thousands of known American and British child athletes over recent decades, the US Swimming and US Gymnastics scandals will be the primary focus covered next in full detail starting with an overview.

At the crest of 2017’s USA Gymnastics Team scandal, a comprehensive article written by journalists Will Hobson and Steven Rich published in the Washington Post last November entitled “Every Six Weeks for more than 36 Years: When will Sex Abuse in Olympic Sports End?” reported that:

> More than 290 coaches and officials associated with the United States’ Olympic sports organizations have been publicly accused of sexual misconduct since 1982, according to a Washington Post review of sport governing body banned lists, news clips and court records in several states. The figure spans parts of 15 sports and amounts to an average of eight adults connected to an Olympic organization accused of sexual misconduct every year – or about one every six weeks – for more than 36 years.[82]

And of course that’s just one newspaper’s review of just several states’ reported cases. Just think how many cases have gone unreported over the years in all 50 states and you immediately come to the realization that the indisputable fact is it must be going on every single day. And this is only taking into account coaches and officials within the Olympic umbrella in the US only, not the rest of the world or the much larger non-Olympic sports venues in public and private school systems, the Little League or Pop Warner, informal pickup games at the local neighborhood playground or community athletic field. The bottom line here is, as you read this very sentence, every single second of every single day on this earth, countless children are being sexually abused in every conceivable life arena. And with that sobering, disturbing thought, let us proceed with the largest known Olympic sports pedophilia scandals and their longstanding cover-ups, beginning with the US national swim team.

Pedophilia and the USA Swimming Scandal and Its Shameful Cover-up

No doubt there have been thousands of incidents of pedophile swim coaches forcing themselves sexually on vulnerable underage athletes. Therefore, to highlight the USA Swimming scandal, a sample of a few of the most publicized, notorious cases along with the governing body's response (or lack thereof) will be presented.

Because throughout human history a certain percentage of the adult population, predominantly male and "guesstimated" to be between 3 and 5%,[83] have always been predisposed to sexual attraction toward children, as a result a minority of children and child athletes have always been victimized by pedophiles and pedophile coaches. In distant times past with nominal public awareness and little to no resources available, child victims were far less apt to report sexual abuse and of course even today far more victims still don't notify authorities than the smaller number that do. This reality should be kept in mind while considering the high profile cases that we do know about.

Among the first accounts of an American swimmer publicly disclosing that her coach sexually abused her dates back to the mid-1960s with long distance record holder Diana Nyad alleging that her International Hall of Fame Coach Jack Nelson raped her in his home when she was only 14-years old in 1964.[84] At least five or six more times over the course of the next several years Diana Nyad maintains that the 1956 Olympian swimmer and onetime world record holder from Fort Lauderdale, Florida attempted to penetrate Diana in his office, his car and hotel room, insisting on each occasion while sexually assaulting her he'd verbalize how much he loved her. At 22 years of age, Diana finally confided in a teammate, who also admitted Nelson had sexually abused her as well. Together they brought the matter to their previous private prep school Pine Crest where their coach first molested them and was still employed. His contract was not renewed at the elite prep school later that same year but the school administrator decided against reporting their allegations to the police, though years later he'd tell the press he stood by Diana Nyad's accusations as a credible source.

But just four years later Jack Nelson was busily coaching the US women's swim team at the 1976 Olympics and during his highly accomplished career spanning over four decades, Nelson coached 30 state high school championship teams, six national championship teams, 40 Olympians, five Olympic medal winners, was named the 1993 Fort Lauderdale "man of the year" and for three decades held a city contract running the instructional coaching program at the esteemed Fort Lauderdale Aquatics Center, home of the International Swimming Hall of Fame.[85] And because he was such a well-liked, famous charmer of a coach (not unlike Sandusky), he managed to dodge Nyad's nagging accusations as his pedo past only began creeping up on him not long before dementia did him in five days short of his 83rd birthday in November 2014. Nelson was never charged with any crime since his do-no-wrong image, impressive coaching record, Florida state statute of limitations and his corrupt, pedophile-enabling US Swimming NGB all effectively shielded him from accountability.

Aside from allegations first publicly aired on a 1989 talk show against her renowned six time hall of fame coach, Diana Nyad found fame in her own right swimming 27 miles around Manhattan Island, breaking the old record by nearly an hour.[86] And until 1997 she was the world record holder as the only person to swim 102.5 unaided ocean miles over a two day period from Bahamas to Florida. Nyad never publicly mentioned the rapes again until her own 2003 International Hall of Fame induction ceremony speech at Nelson's Fort Lauderdale Aquatic Center. As an NPR and ABC sports broadcast correspondent and journalist, Diana Nyad also wrote her autobiographical memoir that Nelson's attorney quickly dismissed as motivation to cash in on her so called “bogus” sexual abuse claims.

Jack Nelson was not only an accused child rapist himself, he also had a history of employing and protecting fellow derelicts and pedophiles as hired swim coaches at his Fort Lauderdale Aquatics Center private school. Brazilian coach Alexandre Pussieldi was both sexually and violently abusive toward underage boys and young men. One of his assault victims filed a police report, claiming that Coach Pussieldi placed a hidden camera in a vent in order to record swimmers taking showers that rented rooms from the coach, even discovering video footage of himself and another young man.[87] Another one of Nelson’s swimmers that he later hired would be publicly defended as a coach in good standing despite previous convictions as a steroid and ecstasy drug dealer who under oath once stated that he had helped a friend incinerate and dispose of a murder victim’s dismembered corpse. Despite his creepy dark past, the late Jack Nelson is still enshrined in Fort Lauderdale’s International Swimming Hall of Shame… oops Fame or more apt Infamy.

To provide a backdrop of how the USA Swimming National Governing Body has become so powerful in recent years, it doesn’t hurt to have Olympic history’s all-time winningest gold medal champion Michael Phelps as its 21st century poster boy capturing gold 23 times over the last four Olympics.[88] And though Michael hasn’t touched the controversial subject of pedophilia in US Swimming, as a victim of depression himself, he has lent his support and clout calling on the USOC to aid fellow Olympian athletes’ transition from their sports careers to life after the Olympics.[89] Thanks in large part to his athletic prowess, US swimmers in each of the last four Summer Games have won over a third of America’s total medal count and at 16 during the 2016 Olympics, the US swim team won more gold medals than the next 10 nations combined in the sport and more than all nations competing in all the Games other than five other countries in the world.[90] With that kind of global dominance in recent years, the corporate sponsors' millions keep pouring in – NBC Universal, Marriott, BMW, Omega, the annual total revenue skyrocketing from $2.5 million in 2006 to near three times that amount at $7.27 million in 2016.

US Swimming currently boasts 400,000 members that include 56,000 athletes joining just within a three year stretch from 2010 to 2013. With golden poster boy Phelps, the sport's popularity has soared to new, never before seen heights, inspiring multiple generations of young American (and worldwide) pool-goers to grow up dreaming of being the next Michael Phelps. From a 2014 report out of the 340,568 athlete members in this US Swimming NGB, 317,103 are children.[91] That's near 80% of this Olympic organization is comprised of children. Clearly the history of this Olympic organization's adult leadership entrusted to nurture the growth of all its athletes, but particularly its 4 out of 5 who are the most defenseless, only goes to show that it least cares about their kids' safety and well-being. If you want proof, look no further than how it spends its money.

With the priority of winning gold and making millions at all cost, the consequence of maintaining a systemic protection policy harboring hundreds of child rapists has raised the fiscal bar on US Swimming's legal fees to $7.45 million from 2006-2016, largely in payouts to hundreds of sexually abused minors even surpassing 2016's total revenue.[92] USA Swimming's legal cost is ten times that of US Track and Field over this same decade. That's because pedophiles in US Swimming will sooner act out against child athletes when they feel confident and secure that their criminal transgressions will go unnoticed and unpunished amidst its culture of sexual abuse cultivated by the notorious NGB that regularly adheres to a policy of shielding perps from all criminal responsibility. The sport's history in recent more than decades confirms this fact.

Way back 15 years ago the head of the US Swimming task force on sexual misconduct, Hall of Fame Coach Richard Shoulberg, wrote in an email in August 2003:

I would hate to see our organization ever in the predicament of the current Roman Catholic Church — protecting child molesters![93]

Three months later after seeing his Zero Tolerance Policy for sexual misconduct watered down by the pedo-enablers by USA Swimming's executive board, Shoulberg lamented:

I am disappointed on the outcome of the Board. I feel that there are too many coaches still coaching who have destroyed kids' lives and there will be more coaches in the future who will destroy kids' lives.[94]

Then in 2005, over a dozen years ago, the then USA Swimming president Ron Van Pool in his annual State of Swimming message urgently and boldly sounded the alarm:

USA Swimming is frightfully behind the curve in this process and there are those who would have us continue to lag.[95]

So many years ago a rare minority of important players within USA Swimming were already fearing the worse, recognizing their sport had a serious problem but leadership in the NGB wasn't responsive. Yet in 2010 a half decade after Van Pool's warning when asked in a deposition if he shared his earlier president's expressed concern to make young swimmers safer from sexual abuse as a shared priority, Wielgus answered:

No, I would not…I would say that has never been our number one goal.[96]

Recognizing the unresolved growing pedo-problem amongst Olympic swimming coaches and their leaders' systemic criminal cover-up, even US Congress then became involved. Senior Democratic House member serving on the Committee for Education and the Workforce George Miller expressed his concerns in a letter dated July 9th, 2014 to FBI Director James Comey:

> US Swimming has failed in a number of instances to fully investigate and take all the necessary steps to protect children when presented with allegations of sexual abuse among its ranks… [urging Comey to] fully investigate USA Swimming's handling of both past and present cases of child sexual abuse.[97]

Of course we know how Mr. Compromised and Controlled Comey's investigations are with his not finding anything in Hillary's thousands of emails "criminal enough " to indict her on,[98] so no surprise that little has been done in the four years since Miller's letter. And then it was a mere year later in July 2015 that Comey's FBI for nearly a year actually sat on knowledge that the US Gymnastics team doctor was molesting young girls, knowingly allowing yet dozens more to be harmed.[99] But then going back to J Edgar's COINTELPRO the FBI's always been steeped in sexual blackmail and pedophilia. And in recent decades its function has been to cover-up pedo-scandals. It was the FBI that assassinated the Franklin scandal Investigator Gary Caradori and his son in order to suppress Bush senior's child raping at the White House (See Chapter 13),[100] not to mention FBI handlers orchestrating all the deadliest false flag terrorism events on US soil.[101] Yet back in 2014 Congressman Miller attempted to seek Comey's help to eradicate the increasing pedophilic plague preying on America's most gifted underage Olympic athletes, after his committee confirmed that:

> Detailed actionable information [about sexually abusive coaches] has been well known to USA Swimming leadership, yet because of inaction, these predators were allowed to prey with impunity.[102]

Speaking of impunity, this nexus between top sports organizations, the FBI and rampant pedophilia exposes how the elite's pedo-cabal essentially operates - with complete impunity. In February on the heels of the 2018 Winter Olympics, the Southern California News Group (SCNG) got its hands on thousands of pages of incriminating documents consisting of court records, depositions, emails, letters, internal memos, and press articles that confirm decades of maintaining a culture of sexual abuse within USA Swimming. Interviews were obtained of hundreds of abuse survivors, former Olympic athletes, coaches, safe sport advocates, and US Swimming officials including a number of the NGB financial benefactors.[103] What emerged was that for many decades top US Swimming executives, board members, officials and coaches refused to stop the rampant sex abuse being perpetrated by renowned successful coaches. The US national Swimming executive director, Chuck Wielgus, who ruled over the US Swimming NGB in Colorado Springs for two solid decades from 1997 until his death from colon cancer in 2017, did absolutely nothing to protect child athletes.

In at least 11 different cases of victims directly registering complaints against sexually abusing coaches, Wielgus and the director of Safe Sport Susan Woessner opted to not pursue investigations or take any action against high profile coaches and officials.[104] Almost a decade ago in response to congressional pressure to clean up its pedophilia act in 2010, USA Swimming instituted Safe Sport to ostensibly adjudicate abuse claims and introduce protective prevention programs to safeguard against continued abuse. With no prior experience, Susan Woessner was hired to run Safe

Sport for USA Swimming in 2013. Three time gold medalist, anti-abuse advocate and Georgetown educated attorney Nancy Hogshead-Makar said:

Susan Woessner doesn’t have the background for the job. She’s not a lawyer. She’s never worked with victims of abuse (prior to getting the job). She doesn’t have the professional background to do these types of cases. Susan was somebody hired from within USA Swimming who doesn’t have the expertise for the job.[105]

Nancy Hogshead-Makar once asked Woessner point blank why her US Safe Sport refused to investigate an accused former US Olympic team coach and pedophile who served on US Swimming executive board member and onetime US Swimming task force member on sexual abuse. Woessner’s sorry ass response smacked reminiscent of another longtime criminal Hillary Clinton:

What does it matter? He’s no longer coaching young swimmers anymore.[106]

Under the woefully worthless Wielgus-Woessner watch, perhaps thousands of wounded children have been needlessly sacrificed, and most incredibly, instead of behind bars where they belonged, while it took Chuck’s death to finally stop him, Susan Woessner shamefully remained in charge making underage swimmers more unsafe all the way until February 2018,[107] the same month US Olympic Committee CEO and fellow longtime pedo-enabler Scott Blackmun was ousted. The flimsy excuse Woessner cites as her reason to resign was her kiss and tell confession with controversial Coach Sean Hutchison who himself is still immersed as the accused in his own pedo-scandal having allegedly had illicit sex with his onetime underage Olympian Ariana Kukors.[108] Even after just one kiss, the pedo-enabler might have had a slight conflict of interest in wanting to protect Hutchison amidst subsequent Kukors allegations (covered shortly).[109] Rather than admit the blatant truth that Woessner was forced out because of her too long a history keeping US Swimming an (Un)Safe Sport, having teamed up in co-conspiracy with prevailing Olympic Swimming leadership, she only pretended she was ending abuse while maintaining a consistent record of protecting the swarms of pedo-sharks in US Swimming waters. Wielgus and Woessner's "looking the other way" is the characteristic trademark common to every pedophilia scandal to date, be it in the sports world or beyond.

But Chuck and Susan aren't alone. Back in the 1980s, three different head coaches from three different US Olympic sports teams along with a US Swimming vice president were all informed that a world famous swim coach began abusing an American swimmer when she was only 12-years old, and did nothing to stop it.[110] During Wielgus' 20-year run in charge of US Swimming, he was looped in on three separate occasions about this same predator's ongoing crimes and also chose to do nothing. But not only did they all look the other way for so many years, but they further rewarded the sick lecher over $40,000 in grants for his owned and operated club, and continued granting him full access to all the USA Swimming facilities, US Olympic and national team events and the Olympic Training Center. Near three decades later only after the serial pedophile pleaded guilty to child rape charges was the Olympic leadership finally forced to ban Coach Rick Curl from the sport… another unsettling reminder paralleling the Sandusky Penn State scandal. Curl's case will be discussed later.

When scandal after scandal gets replayed in the media of yet another pedophile coach getting caught in action, highly paid morons in US Swimming continue to deny, deny and deny, pretending they don't see a problem. Take US Swimming executive board member since 1990, US Swimming president from 1998 to 2002 and FINA vice president – Dale Neuberger. In a January 2011 deposition Dale actually stated with a straight face that he was totally unaware of a single case of sexual misconduct within his US Swimming organization.[111] The audacity to sit and lie through their teeth is the reason the entire Olympics administration needs to either be abolished completely.

No surprise that another core of hardcore resisters to any changes that would flip the switch and protect child athletes instead of the child rapists is the American Swimming Coaches Association (ASCS). The Association's director John Leonard while sitting on numerous US Swimming task forces and committees that determine new guidelines and policies toward sexual misconduct makes his views readily known:

I hate the whole topic.[112]

Because so many longtime coaches have married their swimmers, any reform that restricts coaches from touching or having physical contact with their swimmers has automatically been opposed. Despite coaches so used to having their way with both their sexually exploited athletes as well as their national governing body, under the threat of losing its US Olympics funding (which occurred only because advocacy groups pressured USOC), in September 2013 US Swimming was the last of 47 NGBs to finally make it against the Code of Conduct rules for coaches and even their adult swimmers to date or otherwise engage in romantic or sexual relations.[113] It's no doubt one of those rules put on the books to placate outside interests but never or rarely enforced.

Advocate attorney-Olympian Nancy Hogshead-Makar addresses the longtime normalized practice so accepted in swimming:

When the organization allows for marriages, allows for the 11-year-old to see her 18-year-old teammate who she thinks is a peer, she thinks they are the same, they go to the same

> meets, they're staying in the same hotel, they are working out together, then she sees that (older swimmer) marrying their coach so she thinks this is true love and doesn't recognize what an inappropriate situation this is.[114]

Meanwhile, during Chuck Wielgus' two decade reign of power playing out his delegated role colluding with powerful coaches while providing vigil for shielding their Olympian brigade of child rapists from exposure at all cost, no less than 252 swimming coaches and Olympic officials have been arrested and charged by prosecutors or ultimately disciplined for sexual abuse and misconduct of no less than 590 known child athletes under age 18.[115] Despite their denials, all the while board members were well aware of this infestation of pedo-crimes being committed, particularly during numerous US national team trips at competitions around the globe. It's been uncovered that since 2010 US Swimming even keeps an ongoing list of over 30 "flagged" coaches and officials arrested or accused by police of sex crimes that include child rape and child pornography.[116] Yet US Swimming refuses to ban the flagged pedophiles on its list even after their felony convictions. And then even when their perverts are finally banned, for years US Swimming refuses to disclose to the public their identities on its published list of banned coaches.

Here's more alarming evidence of how saturated pedophilia in the US Swimming governing body has become - four of the last six years at least 20 of its coaches have been arrested, charged or convicted of the following sex crimes: rape, statutory rape, sexual assault of a 3-year old and an 8-year old, child pornography and secretly videotaping swimmers undressing in the locker room.[117] Blatantly greedy acquisition of more gold medals that bring more gold hard cash literally feeding off the flesh and blood of thousands of sexually victimized cash cow kids has proven far more lucrative and important to the monsters who own and operate the coveted Olympics brand.

On a related matter the US Swimming insurance company run by current and former US Swimming officials gives yearly kickback "safety rebates" up to three quarters of a million dollars back to US Swimming based on its non-filing of civil suit sex abuse cases, in effect offering cashback incentives to squelch pedophilia claims.[118] US Swimming has consistently lagged behind in sabotaging safety reforms long accepted by other sports, refusing to investigate athlete claims even when confronted with incriminating evidence from multiple sources. Bottom line, US Swimming and US Gymnastics NGBs as well as both the US Olympic Committee and the International Olympic Committee are all guilty of criminal cover-up of endemic pedophilia crimes.

Founder of the advocacy nonprofit foundation Safe4Athletes and former Olympian Katherine Starr commented on the longtime US Swimming leader Chuck Wielgus who took in a cool million a year[119] to let pedophiles do their damage:

Wielgus was the gatekeeper and had absolute control of the issue of coach-swimmer sexual abuse. As a result, Chuck could have been a hero and been instrumental to change the dynamic that has haunted so many. But instead he (was) a coward and single-handedly allowed sexually abusive coaching to thrive for decades in the sport, leaving a wreckage of pain that has caused great harm to many swimmers that has lasted a lifetime.[120]

In the aftermath of the US Gymnastics scandal where harm caused by one abuser justifies cleaning house in that sport, earlier this year San Francisco based attorney B. Robert Allard who represents abuse victims reasons that US Swimming should follow suit:

… Certainly it would be appropriate for USA Swimming where we have well over 100 [known abusers]. We are hereby demanding the immediate removal of USA Swimming's entire Executive Leadership Team, starting with Chief

Operating Officer Mike Unger, Managing Director Pat Hogan, Executive Director Debbie Hesse, Managing Director Lindsay Mintenko and especially Safe Sport Director Susan Woessner, as well as its Board of Directors. Only then we can ensure that USA Swimming will have leaders in place who take child protection seriously and won't turn a blind eye to childhood sexual abuse because of a desire to preserve image and reputation and consequently monetary interests.[121]

The housecleaning still remains unfinished business as Unger, Hess, Mintenko and the Board of Directors remain fixed in their pedo-enabling positions to this day. Only Woessner and Hogan are gone.

Monterrey, California swim coach, administrator and at one time a leading financial contributor to US Swimming Dia Rianda concludes:

This Safe Sport thing is a complete farce. USA Swimming is all about protecting their brand in any way they possibly can.[122] I can't sell the Olympic dream anymore because it's (expletive). These people are corrupt and anyone who sits there in a leadership position and allows boys and girls to be sexually exploited, to be manipulated, to be exploited in all kinds of ways just to get that gold medal, it's wrong and it has to stop.[123]

That US Swimming brand in 2016 alone generated near $40 million of which a quarter went to the fat cat, pedo-enabling administrators and "employee compensation and benefits."[124] With that amount of hush money at its disposal to plug the ever-widening cracks in the damn from bursting into a full blown scandal that it's been for decades, the Colorado Springs based US Swimming NGB has spent $132,926 on a local Denver public relations firm called Ground Floor Media specializing in "crisis communication and reputation management." For pedo-infested swim clubs reeling from abuse claims, this damage control company puts out the “bad publicity” fire. The NGB’s strategy was laid out by a memo co-authored by Chuck Wielgus:

> Our strategy moving forward will have the ultimate goal of improving the overall local swim clubs dealing with sexual abuse scandals perceptions of USA Swimming’s Safe Sport Program efforts.[125] [Emphasis MINE]

Yet another hefty investment of $212,068 went to DC’s B&D Consulting, a lobbying company also geared to rescuing organizations in trouble, hired for the expressed purpose of “advancing their objectives within increasingly complex policy environments.” In 2013 US Swimming also doled out another $77,627 to a Sacramento lobbying firm in order to defeat California legislators from passing a law that would have allowed extra time for child abuse victims to file civil suits against companies that employ child sex offenders.[126] Longtime former USA Swimming executive board member Mike Saltzstein admitted:

> I think they were well aware that there were a number of swimmers standing in line if (the legislation) went through. It was no small list of people. It would have been financially devastating.[127]

Yet far more devastating is the lifelong damage so callously inflicted on thousands of sexually abused young swimmers over the years. Addressing USA Swimming’s leadership, Saltzstein concluded:

> I’m not sure there’s the institutional incentive, intestinal fortitude, guts, if you will, to do what needs to be done. Their attitude is let’s smooth things over. Let’s hide things.[128]

Rather than attacking the root of the problem - too many child raping coaches and officials in their organization, and invest in proactive measures that would stamp out such widespread abuse, USA Swimming prefers sinking its millions into paying so called experts to cover-up its dirty business, defending the image of Safe Sport as the front company “protector” of child athletes when it actually serves the function of protecting its pedo-business as usual. Just as the Penn State pedo-enablers chose to look the other way for decades at a time, so have the Olympic Swimming honchos, absolutely knowing underage girls and boys are being brutally raped and molested. Still with rare exception, neither the offenders’ nor their enablers’ criminal actions rarely if ever are publicly acknowledged, challenged, or consequenced other than by outsiders. US Swimming leadership has forever ensured that the system is not about to change from the inside.

Implementing another damage control mechanism, in three states the Swimming NGB has arranged to pay damages for abuse victims prior to cases ever being filed in court, thus circumventing the legal process.[129] Less litigation means less media to generate bad publicity. At all cost USA Swimming continues choosing to repair its crumbling criminal reputation while maximizing its damage control efforts. No matter how much money it invests to distort, lie, falsify and try to cover up the truth, this NGB’s reprehensible strategy is doomed to fail. Like cockroaches exposed to light, the pedophiles and their enablers try to run but they cannot hide. Another telling fact revealing the NGB’s misplaced priorities, in 2016 it lavishly spent a million bucks for its self-aggrandizing Golden Goggles gala and in comparison only $345,470 on Safe Sport under the pretense of cleaning up its pedo-act.[130] US Swimming’s higher-ups have only used Safe Sport to placate growing outside pressures to protect child athletes as a mere front in its feeble attempt to remove the stained image of “foxes guarding the henhouse,” another running theme in every scandal cover-up throughout this book. The guilty can only continue getting away with their heinous crimes against children as long as they keep filling their top positions with fellow pedo-lovers promoted on the condition that they turn a blind eye.

And now to gain a fuller understanding of the egregious suffering put upon thousands of kids in Olympic sports, several cases will be covered to illustrate pedophilic victimization of young talented girls who began swimming early on with such promise only to be brutally blindsided by predatory coaches subsequently shielded to do only more harm by an evil system protecting its own criminals at the expense of its underage athletes. Laura Weiss was an Indianapolis freshman when her high school coach Chris Wheat began sexually abusing her. In her own words:

I had never even kissed a boy. One afternoon after practice, he asked me to come to his office. He closed the door and that was the first time he molested me and I was 14. I considered suicide many times and I can't imagine all the other girls that are probably feeling the same way. He told me I would never be allowed to swim again [if she told anyone]. So the blame was heavily put on me to keep quiet.[131]

Frozen in fear, she felt helpless and powerless. Finally, her mother discovered inappropriate text messages sent by her coach. He pleaded guilty to child sexual solicitation and sexual misconduct charges and the registered sex offender was sentenced to a decade in prison but only served 19 months. Light jail time for child rapists in sport is also a very common, big problem. But then that’s also across the boards in Hollywood, Washington DC, Rome, London. Laura Weiss’ conclusion:

I think it’s hard when you see how many girls have been abused and how many coaches have gotten away with it. It’s hard to believe something is going to change.[132]

By age 7 Jancy Thompson had already begun swimming in Bay area pools and with a natural talent and intense work ethic, soon enough she latched on to the American dream hoping to someday swim for her nation's Olympic gold. As a child pool prodigy, her early dedication came at a sacrifice.

When you're growing up as a swimmer and a child you're asked to give up a lot of things. You give up your entire afternoons for training, running, weight training. You're giving up big chunks of time all the time. You give up the normal life of a kid.[133]

By age 11 or 12 she met her swim coach Norm Havercroft who soon began grooming her for abuse by age 15.[134] But first came the promises to make her an Olympian if she followed his strict recipe [she later concluded] for disaster. But both Jancy's mother and father were laissez faire parents believing their daughter was in good hands with her coach showing such acute interest in her innate ability as a swimmer. She was in "good hands" alright, and it wasn't Allstate.

He would touch me, he would put my hands where he wanted me to touch him.

But prior to overt sexual contact, Havercroft began sending pornography, nude photos and videos of himself masturbating, eventually a webcam for cybersex. A full year before her coach began molesting Jancy, a San Jose police sergeant notified USA Swimming that another underage swimmer had reported that Havercroft had sexually abused her.[135] Yet the NGB's silence only allowed the pedophile to harm Jancy and other victims as well.

Her coach was aggressive, denigrating her publicly while sexually molesting Jancy behind closed doors from 1997 to 2002. His brazen power-on manipulation and control over every aspect of her life had her believing the abuse was merely a normal aspect of her athletic training and development as a competitive swimmer. Other than swimming, she had no identity as his enslaved appendage and naïve underage victim. The prolonged abuse took its toll on Jancy:

I was so fearful of him, I would have nightmares at night. [136]

One of her nightmares literally came true. After Havercroft found out that she had dreamed he was pulling her through the water on a dog leash, for Christmas he actually bought her a dog leash and took delight humiliating her, tauntingly laughing as he walked along poolside tugging on her leash. To survive this level of prolonged torment that lasted five years, enduring alone this sexual and psychological trauma, Jancy dissociated, burying the worst of it in her unconscious mind.[137] Like so many chronically abused underage female swimmers trapped in torturously harmful relationships with their controlling pedophile coaches:

It felt wrong but it also felt right. It felt good. Because, I knew it wasn't right but he would tell me that this is good... I love you. I care about you. He would just tear me down emotionally... But then he would build me up at the same time to where I needed him to feel good. I needed him to finish my sentence. I needed him to tell me how I should feel and eventually I was just a shell of a person.[138]

As a sophomore swimmer under scholarship at Arizona State University, Jancy's life had grown so unbearable, she quit swimming altogether, dropping out of college.[139] But leaving swimming and her coach behind was not enough to keep her demons at bay. She felt dead, a walking zombie and shell of a person without an identity, describing it as a deadening death experience. With Post Traumatic Stress Disorder, a floodgate of flashback triggers of past abuse memories surfaced, sending her into deep depression, experiencing anxiety and a psychogenic symptom of excruciating stomach pain. As her next career move in response to the chronic crimes committed against her, Jancy opted for law enforcement, managing to graduate the police academy.[140] But her unresolved past traumas she'd been running away from for so long chased her relentlessly, forcing her to reckon with the years of severe sexual and emotional abuse.

Jancy learned that Havercroft was also accused previously of molesting a girl not even in her teens who later settled out of court. Finally a brave 14-year old's story seeking justice against another longtime predator coach Andy King prompted Jancy's recovery of her past trauma and a committed desire to come clean on behalf of other victims by boldly going public.[141] Through the help of counseling and retaining her attorney Robert Allard, in 2010 Jancy disclosed her accusations against her coach in a civil lawsuit, accusing US Swimming of negligence claiming that the organization's protective policy toward offenders caused her own abuse.[142] Because Jancy had dared to air US Swimming's dirty laundry in public, the Olympic organization went full force opposing her suit, expending $3.8 million to vehemently refute her claims in court.[143] Since the prior police investigation of Havercroft led to no formal charges, at one point, incredibly enough, while on appeal the court had even ordered her liable to pay for her abuser's attorney fees.

However, long before Thompson's 2010 allegations against Havercroft, even prior to her abuse in 1997, ever since the mid-1990s, the US Swimming NGB had received numerous reports detailing this same coach's past sexual misconduct from police, swim parents, other coaches and even a broker from the NGB's own private insurance carrier.[144] Jancy Thompson's story demonstrates the far too common pattern of victims being re-traumatized after acting on their courageous yet painful decision to fight for truth and justice in a court of law, being subjected to having to relive the nightmare all over again at times with disastrous outcomes. After years of re-traumatization, eventually in 2014 Jancy settled out of court for an undisclosed amount. It has been extremely disheartening for her to endure such a stressful protracted ordeal and to this day still not see USA Swimming place her former coach on its public listing[145] of over 150 coaches and officials banned for life.[146] As recent as 2009 Jancy Thompson found out that Norm Havercroft was still allowed to coach swimming in the Los Angeles area.

A notorious, over-the-top case where US Swimming management typically permits prominent pedophile coaches to continue harming children for many decades comes the Rick Curl case. In the early 1980s when Kelley Currin Davies was still 12-years old her Maryland coach, 34-year old Rick Curl, kissed her for the first time, grooming her for the abuse he would perpetrate over the next four years, first befriending her parents to gain their trust, even staying overnight at their family home under the pretext of taking Kelley to early morning practice, and traveling with her across the country for swim meet competitions.[147] The vulnerable little girl was taken full advantage of, falling in love with her predator coach promising she'd become an Olympic star. Finally, while a student athlete on scholarship at the University of Texas, she confided in her three coaches who would all go on to lead Team USA to multiple Olympic Games. One of the coaches, Mike Schubert, said that in 1987 Kelly told him he shouldn't report Curl to the police because she and her parents had signed a nondisclosure agreement as part of a $150,000 court settlement they'd made with the pedophile.[148] The legal action was precipitated only after Kelley's parents read her diary. While rumors of Curl's sex crimes were widely circulating, the known child molester was selected to several national teams and coached Olympic medal winners from four nations at the 2000 Summer Games.

As a rare US Swimming board member vowing to expose pedophiles in his sport, former Olympian insider David Berkoff wrote in a July 2010 email to another board member:

Denying knowledge of Rick Curl, Mitch Ivey and others banging their swimmers! It's a flat out lie. They knew about it because we (coaches and athletes) were all talking about it in late 1980s and early 1990s. I was told by several of Mitch Ivey's swimmers that he was sleeping with (a female swimmer) in 1988… I was told Rick Curl was molesting Kelley Davies for years starting when she was 12 by some of the (University of) Texas guys. That was the entire reason I formed the abuse subcommittee. I was sick and tired of this crap. No one was standing up. No one was willing to take on these perverts.[149]

It took 20 years before former University of Florida coach Mitch Ivey was banned in 2013, only after his misconduct was widely covered in the press. Team USA head coach Mark Schubert alleges that he repeatedly brought Curl's abuse to Chuck Wielgus' attention but as always it went in one ear and out the other. Schubert also reported Curl to the second man in charge, USA Swimming assistant executive director Mike Unger, but again to no avail. Three years after informing Wielgus, the USA Swimming boss was asked at a 2010 deposition if he'd ever heard about Curl's sexual misconduct with any of his swimmers, and of course he flat out lied all the way to his grave:

I have never received any information about that.[150]

Wielgus would use his standby excuse that without a swimmer directly coming forward with a complaint, USA Swimming couldn't do anything. So in 2011 even after Kelley Davies filed a claim against Curl with the NGB that included a copy of Curl's signed settlement agreement from the early 80s, Wielgus and his organization still did nothing. Curl was seen at the 2012 Olympic Trials both at pool deck and VIP section with his issued official USA Swimming credential.[151] Meanwhile, the NGB also saw fit to award Curl's club over 40 grand in grants, three quarters of which came after Schubert notified Wielgus in 2007. In 2012 Kelley Currin Davies even claimed:

> The fact that Chuck Wielgus and USA Swimming allegedly tried to cover up for Rick Curl by forcing Mark Schubert to accept hush money in return for signing a confidential agreement is outrageous. If USA Swimming has any integrity they would fire Wielgus and the rest of the staff that continues to protect sexual predators.[152]

And to think that low-life pedo-protector was about to be inducted in 2014's International Swimming Hall of Fame, but only due to a petition signed and submitted by 19 abused swimmers whose coaches Chuck Wielgus shielded was his name withdrawn at the last moment.[153] It wasn't until late 2012 after a Washington Post spread outlined Curl's abuse that began 30 years earlier that USA Swimming finally banned Rick Curl, at the time being prosecuted and in May 2013 was sentenced to seven years in prison.[154] In her 40s, Kelley stated in court that her motivation to come forth years after the abuse was to show what damage chronic abuse causes, suffering from anorexia, bulimia, alcoholism that caused her 20-year marriage to end and a host of other mental health problems. Sadly, her and Rick Curl's story is common to thousands more unprotected victims and predators shielded by the insulated Olympic umbrella. Though US Swimming's banned-for-life coaches list is now over 150 and counting,[155] for every name on that list, no doubt scores of unnamed monsters each damaging more child victims over the years without getting caught enough times to finally wind up on that list, totaling many thousands of children whose lives have been forever altered, impaired, and burdened by the beasts who've been guardedly protected by this despicable Olympic sport.

Another recent high profile headline of a swimmer accusing her coach of child sexual abuse is the previously mentioned Ariana Kukors vs. Sean Hutchison case. Emboldened by the #metoo movement and prompted to come forth with her own story in the face of the Larry Nassar case, in January 2018 another victimized swimmer Ariana Kukors went to police in her native home state of Washington to claim she was sexual assaulted at age 16 by her decade long coach she'd met at age 13. Investigators searched the 46-year old coach's Seattle apartment in response to Kukor's allegations that he sexually exploited her as a teen and took explicit nude photos of her at age 17.[156] Because of the international swim meets they both attended, Homeland Security is also participating in the ongoing investigation. From the time that the 31-year old Sean Hutchison met the gifted young swimmer, his described behavior fits the classic sexual predator profile, allegedly grooming her from age 13, asking her at 15 if she was wearing underwear as the lead-up to his first physical sexual contact at age 16 that she maintains over time only grew more and more coercively abusive. In her words:

> He began by having me sit on his lap when we were alone, then progressed to kissing me in elevators, and touching me over my clothes. I'd never been physical with anyone before but I now found myself alone with him, engaging in sexual acts and trying to hide my embarrassment when he sat in the women's locker room and watched me shower.[157]

As a young girl she felt overpowered by her Olympic coach's male authority, and with him becoming increasingly manipulative and controlling, and emotionally and sexually abusive, for years she felt a hostage forced into living the lie of denial in constant fear of being exposed and confronted by rumors from her friends, teammates and family. Ultimately the penile penetration arrived as his “gift” to her for her 18th birthday, though before that she says every form of sex had already occurred for several years running. In 2011 after a Washington Post did a gossip piece spreading the rumored couple’s story around the world, USA Swimming finally, reluctantly had a private investigator call over the phone ask 19 questions that of course she denied, quickly closing the half-assed inquiry concluding no sex had occurred. And to this day, the rising star coach of the 2008 Olympic team remains in complete denial, claiming sex never occurred until after she was of legal age.

Despite enduring the shame and horror of a tormented personal life, her athletic talent carried her to a record breaking performance at the 2009 world championship in Rome. Reaching the pinnacle of success three years later earning a spot on the US Olympic team, the years of abuse had her “sneaking” into the 2012 London Olympics. Her lackluster Olympic performance failed to win a medal largely because she was burdened daily by her exiled coach back home in Washington, who remained in constant jealous contact, demanding each day that she send him nude photos of herself.[158] When the swimming portion of the Summer Games was over, Hutchison made certain the now retired swimmer was on the next flight home, only to be locked away in his 21st floor apartment that only he had a key, still paranoid of rumors about their relationship. Fast becoming a desperate, over-controlling “monster,” she attempted to break away as their increasingly strained relationship grew more volatile till she finally ended it at age 24, but not before learning throughout their twisted marathon affair that Hutch had a crutch, maintaining another girlfriend on the side that he claimed was for “public decoy” purposes.

Currently 28 years old, having taken years to recover from her entangled decade long abuse, Ariana Kukors can now look back on her protracted damaging ordeal with an objectivity she never had during those years held hostage:

It is so painful in this moment to look back on the shell of a person he turned me into. Because in that moment, I was programed to think that I trusted this man. And not only did I trust him but I relied on him to help me achieve my dreams.[159]

Ariana says her reason for coming clean finally in 2018 to speak her truth is her attempt to reach out and potentially save others who may be just as vulnerable to falling victim as she once was:

… For the sake of the little girls and boys whose lives and futures hang in the grasp of a horribly powerful and manipulative person. That they may not have to go through the same pain, trauma, horror, and abuse. That their parents, mentors, and guardians are better able to spot the signs of grooming and realize its tragic consequences before it's too late.[160]

Attorney Robert Allard identifies this all too familiar behavioral pattern that pedophile coaches deploy in pursuit of their prey:

The coach normalizes sex with them. And he uses the carrot of Olympic glory to get what he wants. So yes, it's all about manipulation, it's all about grooming, and it's all about controlling the child's brain to get her to eventually agree to a sexual relationship that she might think is normal.[161]

There are literally hundreds of cases out there of known pedophile coaches having abused underage girls and thousands more unknown. Among the most egregious cases involving a coach that was allowed to move from one location to the next for over three decades harming dozens of girls aged 10-17 because the swimming governing body (that certified him back in the 1970s), at least two police forces, children's protective services, and countless swim clubs all dropped the ball.[162] Former head coach at San Jose Aquatics Club Andy King may be among the most horrific of hundreds of these notorious abuse cases.[163] Among dozens of his victims was a 14-year old East Bay girl who had an abortion after impregnated by the predator coach but never told anyone. Years later in connection with another 14-year old's complaint, San Jose police interviewed her after King had serially molested scores of underage swimmers at multiple swim clubs up and down the West Coast covering a span of 31 years. The San Jose DA prosecutor summarized the case:

> The red flags should have gone up when King was only massaging girls behind closed doors, traveling alone with girls to away meets, taking girls to dinner, sailing on his boat and buying them gifts. The warning signs were everywhere… [But] unfortunately, King fell through the cracks in the system: Two law enforcement investigations and suspicious conduct observed by swim coaches, parents or boards who did not adequately supervise the defendant. [164]

For abusing so many girls throughout the 1980s and early 90s in California, in January 2010 the 61-year old King received a prison sentence of 40 years. But because of so many failures in the system that typically protect abusers far better than its victims, the derelict was allowed to relocate to Washington State where in the mid-1990s he continued his sexual assault rampage. Three years into his incarceration, one of his victims from Whidbey Island was awarded $1.5 million in damages in a civil suit brought against her town's park and recreation department after the local police investigation in 2000 failed to make an arrest based on her reported allegations.[165]

Only in the face of the high profile US Gymnastics doctor scandal has US Swimming taken any action against any of its enablers. Along with Safe Sport director Susan Woessner's long overdue forced resignation in February 2018, also announced that same day was Ray Hogan's ouster, another perennial opponent to sex abuse reform.[166] It was Hogan as the managing director for club development who in 2010 removed from the NGB website without approval the US Swimming executive board's 2004 Child Protection Program that included background screening for employees and volunteers.[167] Never intending to implement, Chuck Wielgus didn't bothered hiring a Director of Child Protection as the program was eventually scrapped. At a deposition that same year 2010 when Wielgus was asked who at USA Swimming has the most knowledge about the Child Protection Program, Chuckie boy's bodacious answer was Hogan the very man that killed it.

Pat Hogan was one of the NGB members who married (and later divorced) his child athlete whom he claims he began dating once she turned 18 a year after he began coaching her. Compromised from the start, birds of a feather always flock together. In a related incident that also contributed to Hogan's forced retirement, in 2010 he provided a glowing recommendation for an already accused coach in Orange County California, Everett Uchiyama, to continue working with children at a Colorado Springs country club while the disgraced coach's wife worked for Hogan in Colorado Springs.[168] For all his sabotaging efforts to protect pedophiles, Pat Hogan would retain his job for another 8 years earning a cushy annual salary of $273,653. With that kind of anti-child protection leadership in charge, people like Wielgus, Woessner, Hogan and their ilk (too many still embedded) should've never been hired, much less fired years ago.

Hidden within this Olympic umbrella’s pervasive culture of child sexual abuse is subtle semantic nomenclature habitually and unanimously utilized by officials, coaches and sports personnel, always referring to children competing in their sport as athletes. Longtime sexual abuse prosecutor Victor Vieth tasked with assessing US Swimming’s anti-abuse program articulated this discerning observation:

> Constantly, it didn’t matter who we were talking to… They always called them ‘athletes.’ We really wanted them to focus on, you’ve got 320,000 children in your organization, and you need to see them first as children before you see them as athletes. There really was the mentality of the possibility that this could be the next gold medal winner at the Olympics, and that mentality was not just among the coaches and the people running the groups; it was among the parents themselves.[169]

Another gaping systemic loophole protecting pedophile coaches is the lack of a standardized Code of Conduct between the nation’s NGB sport like USA Swimming and its world sport federation, in this case FINA. Accused of molesting 1972 gold medalist Olympian Deena Deardurff-Schmidt from age 11-15, longtime Coach Paul Bergen is still allowed to not only retain his renowned position in the International Hall of Fame but continue to coach underage swimmers in the US and abroad as long as they’re on other national teams.[170] How can a global sport federation like FINA that governs all international swimming teams not have Safe-Sport Specific Codes or policy guidelines that universally apply to protect all child athletes in all nations? But then as long as these obvious loopholes exist, pedophile coaches - like pedophile priests - can just keep floating from one location to the next doing evermore damage.

Yet another big part of the systemic problem is that the US Olympic Committee and its numerous NGBs operating from their centrally located Colorado Springs headquarters remain so resistant to change is they heavily rely on a single go-to Colorado Springs law firm that worships the legalistic mindset of minimizing liability (i.e., protecting its own Olympic umbrella personnel and organizations) rather than protecting child athletes.[171] As long as both the attorneys and Olympic leadership possess a CYA/damage control mentality and focus as the basis of how Olympic organizations do business, children as a secondary priority will always suffer and remain at high risk of abuse. Like US Swimming's top officials, the notorious legal representation delivered by the highly powerful law firm of Bryan Cave also needs an immediate termination notice.

Nancy Hogshead-Makar points the finger at this international law firm Bryan Cave with an office strategically located virtually next door to US Olympic headquarters and most of its NGBs as a huge part of the abuse problem in Olympic sports. In a nutshell:

The problem with the USOC and USA Swimming and a lot of these other NGBs is they get their legal advice from Bryan Cave. Their eye is all on legal liability, as opposed to what would make it safest for kids.[172]

Instead of working to protect child athletes, the firm strongly defended US Swimming's longstanding policy to keep the banned coaches list confidential until a legal challenge with mounting media pressure forced a reverse in policy.[173] Bryan Cave lawyers were also instrumental in arranging with several states hush money payoff settlements with attached non-disclosure agreements for abuse victims as an unscrupulous ploy to circumnavigate the legal system and thus avoid unfavorable publicity for its pedophiles it so vehemently defends and protects. Still another legal tactic protecting pedophiles is taking full advantage of the fact that the majority of child abuse victims with so much to lose never come forth to report their abuse, providing an across the board Olympic policy to summarily dismiss “suspicions” from accusers and witnesses as merely “hearsay.”

Moreover, the same legal “liability” minds have been regularly employed to represent two thirds of the total 47 NGBs as well as serve as the US Olympic Committee’s longtime independent counsel.[174] Demonstrating just how “independent” Cave attorneys are, chronic pedo-enabling USOC CEO Scott Blackmun is a former law partner at Bryan Cave on its executive committee until 2009 who in 2008 defended US Swimming in a case filed by an abuse victim.[175] Again, it’s another example of the inner club of pedo-foxes placed in charge specifically to guard the defenseless child henhouse, a worn-out theme that keeps child rapists safely raping. Their brilliantly warped “legal expert minds” got it all wrong. They rationalize enacting safeguards to protect kids will be construed as an admission that there’s an admitted problem that will only open up Olympic organizations to more liability rather than understand that they save gobs of their greedy cash flow not paying out so much in damages and defending against so many abuse cases, not to mention the efficacy of simply doing the right moral and legal thing by protecting children. Seems these “bright” legal minds have been touched by Lucifer’s “light,” yet another scandal constant and central running theme throughout this A-Z pedo-book. Those that work to protect abusers instead of the abused are definitely worshipping the wrong god.

Predictably, the biggest and most vocal opposition to making the sport safer for child athletes comes from the coaches themselves. John Leonard, the executive director of the American Swimming Association of Coaches (ASAC) doesn’t mince words voicing his objection to his coaches being required to attend mandatory training on child sexual abuse prevention:

Educate about what? Does anyone need education to know what a pedophile act is? The only education that needs to take place is parents having the courage to go to the police… The statement was made to me that 'Protecting athletes from sex abuse is a core function of USA Swimming.' That's utter nonsense. The core business of USA Swimming is build, promote and achieve… The core business of the family is to keep our children safe.[176]

And finally for some good news, a huge first step milestone finally moving in the right direction to change the culture of abuse was achieved in Washington DC - of all places - when both the Senate last November and the House in January 2018 passed the Protecting Young Victims from Sexual Abuse and Safe Sport Authorization Act.[177] Little more than a week before the start of the 2018 Winter Olympics in South Korea, bipartisan legislation finally made it mandatory for all amateur sports organizations, including the Olympics and college athletics, to report suspected child sexual abuse within 24 hours to local or federal law enforcement, or a child-welfare agency designated by the Justice Department or otherwise face committing a federal crime for failing to report. For numerous decades therapists, teachers, doctors and childcare workers have long been mandated reporters of suspected child sexual abuse as should every person employed in a job, field or profession that works regularly with minors.

Forever worried over risk of liability, protecting undeserved reputations and maximizing gold medals and profits as their bottom line priorities, heartless, psychopathic sports organization executives, administrators and their legal teams have made it their agenda to knowingly shelter and defend hardened sexual predators in their midst for numerous decades, just like at Penn State and Second Mile, protecting child rapist(s) over the health, safety and well-being of thousands of kids. Now the final holdout refusing to mandate reporting laws falls within the “spiritual and moral” realm of the Catholic Church where the Pope and his Luciferians at the Vatican still resist making their legions of priests and bishops mandatory child sex abuse reporters.[178] Another inconvenience the pedophilia scandals in the sports world are causing for the Catholic Church to squirm is a current Michigan bill aimed at increasing the statute of limitations for child sex abuse victims.[179] After passing through the Michigan senate, the Catholic lobbyists have been out in full force successfully stalling the bill in the state house.[180] Again, proof of worshipping the wrong god.

In February 2017 victims from the USA Gymnastics Dr. Larry Nassar scandal met with Senator Diane Feinstein, helping to pass her sponsored bill that President Trump signed within the year.[181] The law makes mandatory implementation of proactive child athlete safety measures, provides supportive legal and psychological services and includes authorizing litigation for collecting both statutory and punitive damages. Rather than force sex abuse victims to report their allegations to the Olympic national governing body (NGB) with its horrific history of cover-up, this law designates an outside, independent entity - the US Center for Safe Sport for investigation and resolution of all child abuse claims.

As an example of the systemic resistance, after US Safe Sport was forced on the USOC by Congress in 2014, dragging its heels, it took the USOC three years for US Center for Safe Sport to be finally operational, opening its Denver office doors in March 2017 as the so called outside independent investigator responsible for all NGB abuse claims.[182] The exceedingly well-financed Olympic Committee’s feeble excuse for the long delay - “difficulty” coming up with the initial $25 million startup funds. Despite the enormous wealth behind the US Olympic Committee, the fact that the US Center for Safe Sport is both underfunded and understaffed to meet its designated, dauntingly ambitious obligation appears just another set-up for intentional failure to keep its child athletes safe.

If the Safe Sport entity created in 2010 by the US Swimming NGB to ostensibly serve the same function with its abysmal track record is any indicator, the US Center for Safe Sport is doomed to failure. By sinister design, selecting pedo-enablers in key top positions like Chuck Wielgus as the NGB's chief executive and Susan Woessner as the Safe Sport director is yet another illustrative example of the foxes guarding the henhouse, and a definite set-up for failure for changing US Swimming and the Olympics' systemic culture of scandalous abuse and cover-up silence. Woessner's half decade tenure proves the very critical point that Safe Sport is only as effective as the leadership running it. Her agency was never independent but completely subservient to US Swimming's CEO Wielgus and his patented culture of pedo-enabling abuse. It also highlights yet another systemic flaw and major hurdle to tackling child sexual abuse. Up to this point the USOC has granted each NGB the autonomy of opting for its own Safe Sport (or not) that invariably always answers to NGB higher-ups. US Swimming demonstrates that this approach has failed mightily. So the big question is whether the US Center for Safe Sport really is an outside, independent entity apart from the Olympic pedo-enabling umbrella? Before child athlete victims and all child athletes can trust this designated investigator, it needs to prove that it truly is an actual objective pro-child protection organization and not just more of the same masquerading sham.

Instead of bringing all sports worldwide under one Code of Conduct umbrella requiring every national Olympic committee, every sports federation and every regional association along with every NGB in every nation to be required to meet the same stringent safe sport standard aggressively protecting all child athletes globally, currently the bureaucratic morass is a nightmare where nothing is systemically coordinated or standardized. And like so much of what’s dysfunctional and destructive today, it too seems by malefic design to protect the status quo that only continues to shield and perpetuate widespread abuse.

Abuse is abuse, be it on a worldwide scale or within one sport in one country or one sports club, and uniformly enforced anti-abuse measures applied worldwide is the only solution to this global pandemic problem. But because the pedo-cabal on a global scale always prevents holding the pedophiles in high places accountable, at this highly corrosive juncture in human history, to implement this remedy takes on a pie in the sky notion that’s out of touch with today’s cold, hard, ground-level reality. Cleaning house can never be accomplished unless that housecleaning takes place on a planetary-wide scale that necessitates removing from power and control the elite rulers that own and operate this entire international crime cabal system. Ultimately that’s the only answer to what’s been plaguing humanity for millenniums. Addressing that all-important, monumental task (outlined in this book’s Epilogue) is every decent human being’s most pressing challenge on this planet.

Returning to the micro-level analysis, instantly resistance across the boards amongst various national sports governing bodies arose when in 2012 the US Olympic Committee spoke of requiring background checks for all NGBs, all club employees, coaches and volunteers in response to external pressures from Congress and child advocacy groups.[183] The pushback from virtually all quarters within the dysfunctional Olympic umbrella was formidable. Intimidated USOG executives claimed that their power was limited in enforcing policies they knew would be openly resisted and not complied with at the local level. Some NGBs insisted that the “one size fits all” approach doesn’t work for them, and NGBs like US Swimming and US Team Tennis opted to develop their own “customized” programs... but “customized” unfortunately for US Swimming meant succumbing to entrenched pedo-interests. Others would evoke the rationale that the cost of imposing background checks at $20 per person on all its clubs and members would lose sponsors and much needed revenue.

Granted, the nature of both bureaucracy as well as individuals used to operating with complete autonomy is to reactively oppose and defiantly challenge virtually any and all pressure to change. But the above litany of excuses are all lame and totally unjustified since status quo means kids continue suffering abuse in off-the-chart numbers. The so called Olympic umbrella ultimately needs to do what’s right by children - period! And it is the responsibility of its leadership at the top of this pyramid to impose its will and authority on all of its stratified tier levels, entities and affiliates down to the local club and coach level to clean up its filthy act and protect its millions of child athletes within its operations. All these years later this problem still persists because the will at the top of the Olympic food chain has always been either too pedo-carnivorous or too pedo-friendly.

Despite the heavy blowback, under pressure from US Congress, the US Center for Safe Sport was created in 2014 ostensibly to ensure that the Olympic NGBs begin complying with stricter standards for child abuse prevention, more effective detection and independent investigation. Based on the March 2012 revised joint USOC-Safe Sport Handbook, criminal background screening checks were delineated as required standard policy for all 47 NGBs that include down to the local level of every athletic club employee, coach and volunteer over age 18.[184] Even though background checks have long been standard practice since the mid-1990s in youth community athletic programs for children participating in amateur sports (outside the Olympic umbrella), apparently it took till 2014 for the USOC to finally see fit to implement background checks amongst all 47 NGBs.[185] Just how strictly enforced Safe Sport policies are remains highly questionable though, based on so many unsafe sports still not operating on behalf of child athletes' best "safe sport" interests.

In any event, leave it to the known pedo-enablers and pedo-perps within the US House of Representatives to pass a bill by an overwhelming 406-3 margin only after it surgically removes funding for the US Center for Safe Sport, leaving it still in need of funding sources, which as previously noted has posed a serious impediment to it even getting off the ground.[186] One cannot help but ask is this the tactical loophole chosen by a pedo-infested, sexually blackmailed, compromised United States Congress to nefariously sabotage the law from actually protecting children? It bears repeating, the US Center for Safe Sport is far too underfunded and understaffed to realistically and independently investigate the high volume of child sexual abuse cases. And we still don't know if it's truly independent.

Additionally, on the positive side, the 2018 congressional bill judiciously extends the statute of limitation laws to 10 years after turning 18 or 10 years after victims realize that they were abused.[187] This latter point is enormously significant since child sexual trauma is so often repressed in childhood and memories of abuse are not fully recoverable until victims reach adulthood (despite what the pedophile-ridden False Memory Foundation purports; see Chapter 2). This child protection act also stipulates the legal precedent of empowering victims of sexual abuse as well as child pornography to hold offenders accountable in both criminal and federal civil courts. Additionally, other than a parent or guardian or in an emergency situation, as an added safeguard, the bill also prohibits an adult employee or volunteer belonging to a youth athletic organization to be in a room alone with a minor unless another adult is present.

In addition to required background checks and mandated reporting, another surefire way to lower sexual abuse rates for underage female swimmers in USA Swimming is to hire more women coaches at the higher competitive ranks. Though the total number of 20,000 coaches in US Swimming are close to an even gender split, the disparity at the national team level (considered Olympic pre-trials) is pronounced, only 12% of the coaches for the most recent 2017-18 team are female.[188] Additionally, at those top competitive elite levels, virtually all the head coaches are men. And since over 93% of the banned coaches are also men (near three quarters of them for sexual misconduct), and 94% of pedophilia crimes are committed by males,[189] it makes total sense to kill two birds with one stone - reach gender parity at the elite levels where child athletes are most preyed upon, and thereby keep young female swimmers safer both in and out of the now shark infested water.

In the lead-up to the House passing the mandated child sexual abuse reporting law in late January 2018, recognizing that the pedo-endemic in sports isn't going away, the US House Energy and Commerce Committee informed current USA Swimming President and CEO (since June 2017) Tim Hinchey in writing that his National Governing Body is under investigation along with its other pedo-riddled cohort:

> The abhorrent abuses associated with USA Gymnastics, as well as allegations in 2014, when 19 swimmers said they were sexually abused by their coaches, may raise concerns about whether your organization has sufficient mechanisms to protect your athletes from abuse and mistreatment. Accordingly, the Committee is seeking information from USA

Swimming because of the role it plays in overseeing swimming and protecting all of its athletes.[190]

Along with letters sent to USA Gymnastics, USA Taekwondo and Michigan State, the congressional committee also requested that Hinchey and his US Olympic Swimming NGB answer the following three critical questions by February 9, 2018:

When was USA Swimming made aware of sexual abuse allegations in 2014, is USA Swimming aware of any other sexual abuse allegations within the swimming community, and does USA Swimming have policies and procedures in place to properly report, handle, and investigate sexual abuse when it has been reported to them?[191]

With so many in US Congress out and out pedophiles or sexually blackmailed pedophile enablers themselves, it's a bit like the pot calling the kettle black for the House of Representatives to summon the top sporting officials in the US Olympic Committee to a May 23rd, 2018 hearing to answer for "the potentially pervasive and systemic problem of sexual abuse across the US Olympic community," the voiced concern of the two congressional subcommittee co-chairs.[192] But if it puts the Olympic umbrella on notice to clean up its pedo-act or face harsh consequences (a good start would be abolishment), then it's a good thing. But my question is, who's going to clean up Congress, or the entire US pedo-government, or for that matter the international pedo-cabal? Truth and reconciliations commissions as a starter perhaps. In any event, the House Energy and Commerce Committee's Oversight and Investigations Subcommittee is questioning USOC's acting chief executive Susanne Lyons and Kerry Perry, the current President and CEO of USA Gymnastics, USA Swimming's CEO Tim Hinchey, chiefs of both USA Taekwondo and USA Volleyball as well as a representative from US Safe Sport.

Aside from Mr. Hinchey directed to respond in writing to Congress' above questions, otherwise, other than a letter professing to be earnest about cleaning up the abuse in his unholy USA Swimming house,[193] and signing onto a brief to-do list that his board members came up with as their plan of action, the USA Swimming chief has kept a pretty low profile since taking over the mess his deceased pedo-enabling predecessor left him. To Hinchey' credit, immediately upon receipt of a letter from attorney for abuse victims Robert Allard demanding the resignation of two notorious members of US Swimming's pedo enabler club - Woessner and Hogan - Hinchey had them resigning in February. Though still early, other than that biggie, little else of any substantive import has changed. But based on a statement Hinchey made about being open to wanting to hear from abused athlete survivors, 49-year old Sarah Ehekircher stepped up for a meeting with head honcho Hinchey himself on May 1st.[194]

Back in the late 1980s Sarah was groomed by her Houston coach Scott MacFarland and sexually assaulted at age 17.[195] After Woessner's Safe Sport blew off Sarah's coach accusations in 2010, after convincing the US Center for Safe Sport to readdress her case, and a meeting with Hinchey under her belt, Sarah Ehekircher will not only be holding US Swimming and US Safe Sport to task, but she's currently been talking also to congressional investigators at the US House Energy and Commerce Committee about "the Olympic sized problem."[196] Incidentally, as an aside further exposing the sexist, pedo-enabling head of the coaches association John Leonard, beyond each time he opens his mouth to put his foot in it, working under Leonard at ASAC in 2004, Sarah Ehekircher maintains he engaged in hardcore sexual harassment toward her.[197] Her meeting with the USA Swimming director was Hinchey's first test beyond the pedo-enablers' resignations and rhetoric to show whether he's for real or not. After his shameful organization has delivered so much abuse upon abuse to so many unjustly wronged accusers, how Mr. Hinchey handled his May meetings with Sarah and Congress and how he proceeds from here on out will go far in determining whether USA Swimming's entrenched culture of child sexual abuse is still entrenched or not.

Longtime advocate Nancy Hogshead-Makar's response to this year's congressional inquiry into US Olympic sports:

We just heard 160 survivors address their abuser, Team USA's doctor in gymnastics. Knowing the true cost, it is gratifying that Congress is looking within the Olympic sports movement and see another sport with over 100 Larry Nassar-types in a single sport; USA Swimming. That's a much bigger scale of abuse, one worthy of inquiry. In my position as head of an organization that advocates for girls and women in sport, I hear the pain too many swimmers have suffered. There are still too many abusive coaches who are still coaching and still in the Hall of Fame. Almost as bad; ethical coaches who have been blackballed for advocating for athletes, for doing the right thing. They're offended by a culture of coaches that regularly go to strip clubs in the evenings after a day of competition, offended by the sexualization of young girls, but powerless to stop it.[198]

San Francisco attorney Robert Allard stated:

It's about time. USA Swimming's leaders have known for literally decades about dozens of pedophiles no different than Larry Nassar who have been roaming pool decks for prey across this country and did not do a damn thing about it because they were blinded by the massive amounts of money they basically extorted from amateur athletes. Countless lives of young swimmers have been ruined as a result of being sexually abused by these known predators. These leaders have redefined what it means to ‘cover up’ for child molesters. Yet, to our knowledge, not one single USA Swimming employee has received any adverse employment action of any kind and no board member has been removed from office. Personally, I hope heads roll and criminal arrests are made. There are a lot of people sitting in Colorado Springs with considerable blood on their hands. It is high time to clean house and insert a totally new leadership core within this National Governing Body which as presently constituted is corrupt to the core[199].

And right on cue, one big head atop US Olympics did roll. In its feeble attempt to symbolically clean up its act, succumbing to increasing outside pressures, 8-year US Olympic Committee CEO Scott Blackmun was finally ousted three days after the February closure of the Winter Games for his pedo-enabling track record failing to protect child athletes from pedophile coaches and Olympic officials.[200] The USOC claimed Blackmun quit his lofty post due to health reasons. But excuses like “health problems” or “desire to spend time with family” are typically given when head honchos resign in thinly veiled disgrace from entrenched high perched positions. But as this dawning age of exposing sexual predators gains momentum, jumpstarted by last October’s Hollywood Harvey downfall, at long last historical pedo-bastions of child rapists and their enablers like the Olympics are piece by piece being dismantled. Since the 1990s Blackmun has been a permanent fixture atop the Olympics Movement to suppress efforts to rid pedophilia, serving as the US Olympic Committee’s general counsel, as acting CEO and law partner in USOC’s go-to “legal department” firm Bryan Cave, all prior to his near decade long run as US Olympics Chief Executive Officer from 2010-2018.

Here’s what Olympic anti-pedophilia crusader Nancy Hogshead-Makar had to say about Blackmun’s downfall:

> Let the Olympic movement take note. The money and USA's total medal count under Scott Blackmun will be forgotten. Blackmun's career will be defined by his unwillingness to protect children and athletes from sexual abuse within club and Olympic sports. Blackmun didn't merely happen to preside during the great Larry Nassar devastation, he created the underlying conditions for Nassar's evil to thrive. Like Blackmun's good friend Chuck Wielgus, Blackmun's legacy will be that he intentionally blocked athletes from getting help when they reported abuse.[201]

Though the US Gymnastics scandal became Blackmun's last straw that broke his pedo-enabling back, even before his long overdue exit, for years the USOC CEO protected a slew of US Swimming NGB pedophiles. Attorney Robert Allard's turn to weigh in:

In 2013, I, on behalf of the countless swimmers who were molested by their swim coaches, literally begged and pleaded Scott Blackmun to get involved in the governance of USA Swimming which had proven to be rotten to the core and utterly unable and in fact unwilling to protect children from pedophile coaches. In essence he smugly told me to go 'pound sand' and that in his view 'USA Swimming is making a sincere effort, backed by real resources and real people, to address the misconduct that exists not only in their sport, but in society at large.' I later learned that he was close friends and had longstanding business relationships with many high level executives of USA Swimming. Right then and there I knew he was nothing more than a member of the 'good old boys' club and could not be relied upon to create a safer environment for amateur athletes. His departure is very much necessary in order for parents to start having confidence that when they entrust their children to the care of amateur sporting organizations, every effort will be made to protect them from pedophiles. With Blackmun now gone, it is imperative that the USOC put someone in charge who places the safety and welfare of athletes as its first priority.[202]

The Larry Nassar Scandal within the Larger USA Gymnastics Pedo-Debacle and Massive Criminal Cover-up

From the damage control files comes another feeble "too little, too late" gesture in the longtime pedo-enabling USOC,[203] USAG[204] and MSU[205] announcements that that they're funding support services to the hundreds of Dr. Nassar victims in the wake of the US Gymnastics catastrophe. Where were they years ago when abused victims' claims were all falling on deaf ears? Behind this newfound pledge to "protect the children" is a self-serving desire to save themselves by rebuilding their tarnished images. As part of this image enhancement strategy, the US Olympic Committee is also doubling its funding for the US Center for Safe Sport as the “independent resource” for Olympic abuse prevention and abuse investigation after Congress elected to un-finance Safe Sport when passing its mandated reporting law. In efforts to appear to be cleaning house, the Colorado Springs Olympics leadership also canned a few “bad apples” in Blackmun, Woessner and Hogan along with USA Gymnastics president Steve Penny in March 2017[206] and his entire USAG executive board in January 2018.[207]

But that’s just scratching the surface. While true safe sport and child abuse advocates laud their forced resignations as an essential first step in the right direction, ridding a few powerful figures within the enormous Olympic criminal cartel still leaves hundreds if not thousands of guilty, likeminded pedophile-enablers and pedophiles still actively and deeply entrenched doing further damage to children within the worldwide Olympic umbrella.

Irvine, California attorney John Manly who has represented many of the US Gymnastics victims echoes this sentiment:

> This is a positive development. It happened because of the courage of the victimized athletes to speak out. However, those responsible for the toxic atmosphere of turning a blind eye to sexual abuse and assault of athletes at the USOC and many sport national governing bodies remain in place. There needs to be a full and independent investigation, overseen by Congress, to hold those responsible accountable for allowing so many athletes to be victimized.[208]

Dubbed as history’s all-time biggest sex abuse sports scandal ever[209] belongs to USA Gymnastics with its malevolently manipulating team physician Dr. Larry Nassar sexually abusing 265 confirmed female athletes (and one known male gymnast[210]) during a disgraceful quarter century stretch prior to his arrest in December 2016.[211] Nassar also treated and abused hundreds of athletes as a sports medicine doctor at Michigan State University. Both US Gymnastics and Michigan State University as institutions including the US Olympic Committee that governs the USA Gymnastics NGB are all more than guilty of criminal misconduct and criminal cover-up, knowing for years that child athletes were being irreparably harmed. Had it not been for the Indianapolis Star newspaper (Indy Star) breaking this horrendous sports scandal on September 12, 2016,[212] along with two brave former gymnasts that contacted the paper - Rachael Denhollander and Jamie Dantzscher, who knows if the biggest child sexual assault case in the history of sports would even be known today if left to the pedo-enabling devices of the Olympics organization or MSU?

A medical doctor entrusted to care for young athletes instead violated their trust for decades fondling and fingering female breasts, vaginas and anuses of thousands of victims while his employers as equally entrusted institutions looked the other way in double betrayal of underage girls and their families. The now 54 year old former doctor turned life sentenced Tucson Penitentiary inmate[213] took full advantage of his own world renowned reputation where families sought him out feeling honored and special just to have a medical expert with such impeccable credentials treating their child... or so they thought.

In 1986 while still a medical student at MSU, Larry Nassar was hired by USA Gymnastics as an athletic trainer. Just two years later as a volunteer Nassar began his longtime collaboration working with youth gymnastics coach John Geddert who would eventually rise to become the 2012 US Olympic Gymnastics team coach.[214] Geddert is now under investigation for his part in the criminal cover-up. But more on that deeply pathological pedo-enabler shortly.

Under the pretense of doing medical research as an MSU med student, in 1992 Nassar sexually molested a 12-year old girl in both a gymnastics facility as well as Nassar's apartment.[215] So it's on public record that the Olympic employee pedophile continued committing sex crimes at a minimum for nearly a quarter century. Yet US Gymnastics and MSU both claim they never knew of their employee's serial crimes until 2015 - one humongously sick lie. With his first known incident of sexual assault violating a prepubescent girl not even out the starting gate as a medical doctor, it wasn't until 1993 that Larry Nassar received his osteopathic medicine degree as a doctor from MSU.[216] A year later in 1994, Dr. Nassar notched his first future Olympic medalist under his pedo-belt in 12-year old Jamie Dantzscher's first among many molestations over the next half dozen years, all because she was referred to him for lower back pain treatment.[217]

In 1996 just prior to the Summer Olympics in Atlanta, Larry Nassar received a promotion as the national medical coordinator for the USA Gymnastics team. Meanwhile, his rising star collaborator and his wife John and Kathryn Geddert opened their Twistars USA Gymnastics Club.[218] Both the Gedderts and their Twistar Club will also later be charged in civil suits for failing to protect child victims.

1997 was a big year for professional milestones as Nassar's two longtime institutional partners-in-crime elevated him to US Olympics Gymnastics team physician as well as Michigan State University assistant professorship. 1997 was also the year that future Olympic coach John Geddert learned from a parent about his friend and partner's questionable medical treatments that included inappropriate sexual touching.[219] This critical information came to light per a 2017 lawsuit contending that Geddert not only refused to investigate the incident but continued recommending Nassar to other athletes. Keep in mind that a full 15 years before Geddert was the US Olympic team head coach, he knew the doctor was abusing his own underage gymnasts.

Coach Geddert and Dr. Nassar were inseparable, both professionally and socially. It was the future Michigan State University women's gymnastics coach Kathie Klages who first introduced John Geddert to Larry Nassar while all three worked at Great Lakes Gymnastics club together.[220] John Geddert was in Nassar's wedding party in 1996.[221] Yep, as is typical, the pedophile married a grown woman who has somehow managed to keep herself out of the headlines.

The Twistar gym owner Geddert's coaching style operates by fear and intimidation, known for yelling, throwing things in disgust and rage, and bringing his young gymnasts to tears, or withholding water until they perform to his liking.[222] Cut from the same abusive cloth as the Bela and Martha Karlokyi old school of hard knocks and insults, creating the ideal dynamic for the softie groomer Larry to flourish in contrast as the girls' seemingly safe, nerdy but nurturing healer-medicine man, offering much needed refuge from the stoic hell on earth imposed by their whip-cracking taskmasters. The smooth pedo-operator was always supportive and consoling, thus easily able to convince so many of his even shy child victims that his "touchy-feely" approach to his medical treatments was standard state-of-the-art medicine from a highly reputable doctor who they automatically assumed "always knows best." The surrounding punitive, authoritarian, cultural milieu in gymnastics confused young girls too afraid of the consequences should they ever dare to speak up.

Together both Geddert and Nassar ascended the same fast track pathway to success in Olympic US Gymnastics, almost as if their dual destiny was guided by fated external forces (i.e., the pedo-cabal players promoting them). While Nassar spent the next couple decades riding the crest of US Olympic success and soaring popularity of the sport, Coach Geddert became the most decorated gymnastics coach in Michigan history, coaching over 50 national team members including one of 2012’s “Fierce Five” Olympians Jordyn Wieber.[223] Despite being selected as the US gymnastics team head coach for the triumphantly successful 2012 London Games, the turbulent months leading up and right after that Olympics threatened to end Geddert’s so called storied career.

He twice had known physically violent run-ins with females, one a young coach that worked in his gym that he accosted in the Twistar parking lot and another an 11-year old gymnast who claims he “stepped on her toe, grabbed her arm and pushed her into the wall.”[224] The “she said-he said” legal faceoff on both cases finagled him from facing any criminal charges. Turns out at least four police reports have been filed on Geddert for assault since 1986.[225] His long record of rage and violence reflects deep-rooted issues of anger and a controlling, volatile nature that instantly turns abusive, regularly lashing out verbally, emotionally and physically toward vulnerable females, creating the safe haven for his doctor buddy to sexually deliver the final kind of abuse with impunity in a one-two wallop of a crippling poison punch.

A prepubescent Nassar victim who trained as a gymnast at Great Lakes gym commented:

> Part of what enabled this is John broke little girls’ spirits and bodies, and Larry was there to fix them.[226]

One of Nassar’s victims treated for back pain in the small training room at Geddert’s Twistar gym stated in the court record:

> All I remember is him [Nassar] doing the treatment on me with his fingers in my vagina, massaging my back with a towel over my butt, and John walking in and making a joke that I guess my back really did hurt.[227]

Even with the towel obstructing the pervert's digital penetration, making light of the situation strongly infers knowledge on the coach's part that he knew exactly where his doctor friend's probing fingers were sexually abusing little girls, especially since a parent in 1997 had already complained to him about Nassar. Coach Geddert was known to walk in unannounced in both Nassar's little training room as well as the girl's locker room while they were changing.[228] He made joking comments that if gymnastics didn't work out, there was always a job waiting for them at a local strip club since they could climb a pole so well. He also remarked about their developing bodies, referencing their wearing pink and black leotards that resembled Victoria's Secret models. His sexually harassing commentary in and of itself was a warning sign that children weren't safe.

Girls coached by John Geddert have attempted suicide, been forced to routinely train while injured, risking permanent damage and even paralysis.[229] His sadistically brutal methods, demands and constant temper tantrums, berating his gymnasts to extreme abuse, though not so flagrantly unlawful as Nassar's, but also severely damaging. Yet he too rose to the pinnacle of success as the bigtime gold medal winning Olympic coach. But it wasn't until Nassar's victim impact statements delivered at his sentencing hearings by Nassar's and the coach's victims in January 2018 that John Geddert's name came up loud and clear that he too was a chronic criminal abuser whose karma had finally caught up to him.

One victim Lindsey Lemke proclaimed to the world during her impact statement that Geddert deserved to be behind bars with Nassar. Another victim Makayla Thrush said Geddert many times told her at age 10 that she should kill herself. After his physical and emotional abuse pushed her while not fully recovered resulting in her career ending injury did she eventually try killing herself.[230] Izzy Hutchins felt excruciating pain in her lower right leg. The coach didn't want to hear it, figuring she was just faking to get out of her workout. When Izzy turned to Geddert's wife saying she couldn't walk, he yelled for her to get out of his gym. He followed her into the locker room, his face inches from hers screaming that she was "a fucking spoiled brat." After wiping his spit from her face, a hospital scan later that day showed she'd been suffering for over a month from a broken fibula.

During an exercise another 12-year old girl Baily Lorencen fell 8 feet onto her head, but the coach insisted it was just a muscular injury, failing to mention it to her father when he came to pick her up that night. Unable to get up from the couch several hours later, she was rushed to the hospital with a C2 neck fracture.[231] Two years after that while in back pain she fell on her face doing a tumbling pass, angering Geddert who ordered her to do wind sprints. Later at the hospital she prayed her back was broken just to prove to her sick coach that her injury was real. Her prayer was answered, and even after a year wearing a back brace her L5 vertebrae still remained fractured.

Another gymnast Brittany Aragon said training under Coach Geddert meant you were constantly insulted and humiliated. If her performance wasn't perfect, he'd yell one of his favorite threats - he was going to "beat her like a red-headed stepchild." At 5'3" and 113 pounds, by his standards, she was too heavy. So he'd have her climbing a rope to the ceiling using only her arms, running lap after lap, and hang from a bar lifting her toes to her fingers. In 2012 she overdosed in a suicide attempt on valium leftover from an old injury.[232] While in the hospital, it was Larry Nassar who interceded, writing her saying she would have to formally apologize to her abusive coach in order to get back into the club.

US Gymnastics received a number of complaints about Geddert's tirades and overly punitive coaching style, prompting the organization to hire a private investigator in 2014 to look into his record of abuse.[233] However, not surprisingly USAG gave him a free pass to continue his terror. Geddert is currently under investigation for child abuse and also facing lawsuits. So closely tied to Nassar and also clearly criminally abusive, once the above Nassar-Geddert victims publicly disclosed the coach's abuse at Nassar's sentencing hearing, finally in January 2018 US Gymnastics was compelled once again by outside pressure to suspend him. Immediately afterwards Geddert announced his retirement and his wife took over running his Twistar gym. The coach's story is a painful, shameful bookend to the Nassar tragedy. The lesson - if US Gymnastics coaches and personnel aren't sexually abusing their underage gymnasts, too many are busily abusing them physically, verbally, emotionally and mentally. Cruel sadism masquerading behind old school discipline is also pathologically embedded in the wider world of sports' culture of abuse and silence.

Aside from becoming an MSU professor and USA Gymnastics team physician, 1997 should have also been a red flag for more of Nassar's earlier sex crimes, supported by his two lifelong loyal coaching accomplices who always had his back. A 16-year old high school student injured at an MSU youth gymnastics event claimed after her medical appointment that she was sexually assaulted, and after informing her high school coach, he instructed her to report it to the MSU Coach Kathie Klages.[234] The molested underage gymnast in 1997 was warned by Klages of "serious consequences" should she insist on reporting it further.[235] So now near two full decades before his arrest, both the Olympics and MSU gymnastic coaches were fully aware and criminally complicit, knowing they had a serious child sexual predator in their midst (similar to Joe Paterno). But Klages and Geddert both chose to continue raving about their medical saint performing miracles on their innocent little girl athletes that they systematically fed straight into the defilers' evil ungloved clutches.

Like Geddert, Klages has much to hide. Again in that same eventful year of 1997, after asking another gymnast who'd seen Nassar at his office if the doctor had performed procedures that included digital vaginal and anal penetration, when the underage girl said yes, per court documents "Klages told (her) that there is no reason to bring up Nassar's conduct."[236] She also is on record speaking to the mother of another abuse victim and trying to convince her that Nassar's vaginal technique was a proven sound medical treatment. And finally, as recently as December 2017, still standing by her pedo-man, the by then deposed MSU pedo-enabling coach told the mother of a current MSU gymnast that the child pornography found on Nassar's computer was actually planted by the FBI. These incredibly incriminating facts alone portend a much larger pedophilia enabling operation than the familiar "lone gunman" wacko theory. Though karma has yet to fully bite Coach Geddert or Coach Klages in the ass, after 27 years as the MSU gymnastics coach, Kathie Klages' mouth finally caught up to her as well, costing her job in February 2017.[237]

A year later in 1998 Nassar began abusing the 5-year old daughter of his supposed family friends, first exposing his penis but the next year came the molestations that would haunt her to this day.[238] Years later when 13-year old Kyle Stephens finally informed her parents, Nassar convinced them to dismiss her version of events, creating extreme conflict and tragic strain on the entire victimized family.

The following year 1999 when an MSU athlete with a hamstring injury was sexually assaulted, she was rebuked, condescendingly reminded by her cross country coach that

Nassar was “an Olympic doctor” who “knew what he was doing.”[239] In 2000 after a sexually abused MSU softball player informed three college athletic trainers and another MSU staff about what she felt was abuse, she heard the same old worn out song:

> She was fortunate to receive the best medical care possible from a world-renowned doctor.[240]

Also in that same year 2000 in Sydney the pedophile would travel for a second of five consecutive Summer Games with the US Gymnastics team abusing his share of underage Olympian athletes along the way, but not before first sexually assaulting 15-year old US Gymnastics team member Rachael Denhollander.[241] Several weeks after the hometown newspaper of the US Gymnastics headquarters, the Indianapolis Star (Indy Star), issued a scathing indictment of the NGB’s notorious history for its widespread sexual abuse in August 2016,[242] it was Rachael Denhollander who bravely went to the MSU police to file her criminal complaint against Nassar regarding the 2000 incident that ultimately brought his pedo-operation finally to a halt. A day later on August 30, 2016, for the final time, MSU suspended the predator from all doctoring duties pending the outcome of the latest police investigation. The following month in September 2016, Michigan State University terminated him as an associate professor of Osteopathic Medicine. Rachael’s action against her abuser is credited with ceasing his near quarter century sex crimes. Rachael astutely understood the toxic dynamic:

> You don't get someone like Larry Nassar, you don't get a pedophile who is able to abuse without there being a culture surrounding him in that place.[243]

Though relieved to have put the abuser away for life, she remains unsettled that the larger institutional pedo-enablers around him have yet to be brought to justice:

I am greatly disappointed that we have finished the criminal proceedings without seeing any responsibility taken by the institutions that let this happen.[244]

As far back as 2004, Nassar was discovered soliciting and receiving child pornography - yet another crime of which the sicko would later be convicted.[245] That same year 2004, when a 17-year old scoliosis victim walked into Nassar's office for treatment and after the predator inserted his ungloved fingers into her vagina and massaged her breasts for a few minutes, she too walked out a PTSD sex assault victim for life.[246] After the mother and daughter reported the abuse to the local Meridian Township Police, the first of several law enforcement investigations, Nassar used a power point presentation to con his slick ass out of legal troubles, explaining how it was a valid medical treatment and no charges were made, freeing him up for the next dozen years to resume abusing hundreds if not thousands more underage girls.

In June 2011 and again in January 2014 the US Department of Education's Office for Civil Rights (OCR) received federal Title IX complaints from two of Nassar's MSU student victims asserting that the university failed to respond properly to their sexual assault allegations.[247] OCR found MSU guilty of violating federal guidelines for failing to respond within specified time limits. The refusal by MSU personnel to take appropriate immediate action upon learning of sexual complaints and confusion over protocol regarding who is mandated to file sexual assault reports to various law enforcement agencies among academic departments also resulted in serious noncompliance issues with Title IX policy guidelines, thus the OCR declared the MSU campus a hostile environment for sexual violence against females. After its lengthy investigation, on September 1, 2015 the US Department of Education charged MSU with failing to respond to multiple sexual abuse complaints in both a prompt and equitable manner, causing and contributing to the ongoing "sexually hostile environment."[248] Yet a federal agency declaring that thousands of MSU co-eds were sexually in danger amidst a hostile, unsafe campus had absolutely zero impact on either the serial predator's ongoing crime spree or the university responsible for protecting its student body.

2011 was also the year that the US Olympic Gymnastics head coach John Geddert heard directly out of the mouth of then 15-year old Olympic gymnast McKayla Maroney telling him and others riding in the car back to their hotel that:

Last night, Larry was fingering me.[249]

By that time two decades into his nonstop serial sex crime rampage, fingering little girls' vaginas had long been the doctor's favorite criminal pastime. Though upon hearing this startling admission, McKayla said "people gasped" in the car, nothing further was made of her Olympic-shaking bombshell, least of all by the pedo-enabling guilty coach Geddert. Also sitting in that car was another sexually abused future gold medal gymnast Aly Raisman, who during an April 2018 NBC Dateline interview backed up her fellow teammate's shocking claim, saying Coach Geddert "just said nothing."[250]

That's because for the previous 14 years before that incident, Geddert had said nothing, knowing all the while his pervert friend was abusing the very same athletes that he was coaching. That's how much he cared about his athletes. Yet he did nothing to stop the beast. Keep in mind that McKayla dropped this truth bomb over a half decade ahead of the serial pedophile's arrest, prior to hundreds more victims that would have been spared from lifelong harm had Geddert or someone in that car with half a conscience done the only humane, righteous thing. Their collective silence constitutes criminal abuse in and of itself and John Geddert and the rest of his pedo-enablers up and down the Olympic predatory pedo-food chain need to pay for their reprehensible crimes against children. The Olympic culture of pedophilic abuse, complicit silence and criminal cover-up once again won out over any momentary shock or pangs of guilt - if any - that anyone sitting in that car experienced for their subsequent criminal non-action.

McKayla Maroney's first sexual assault occurred two years earlier in 2009 when she first competed for a spot on the US national team, training at the legendary coaching couple Martha and Bela Karolyi's Texas ranch outside Houston. As the national team's physician, the predatory doctor instructed McKayla while slipping his fingers inside the 13-year old's vagina for the first time that it was a legitimate and necessary medical procedure.[251] Afterwards the gymnastics MD further brainwashed the future Olympian at the Karolyi Ranch with this king-sized rationalization. Per McKayla's account:

> He said that nobody would understand this and the sacrifice that it takes to get to the Olympics. So you can't tell people about this. I actually was like, 'That makes sense. I don't want to tell anybody about this.' I didn't believe that they would understand.[252]

Like virtually all Nassar's abuse victims, McKayla stayed silently frozen in fear of how to move forward from this heavy burden of sexual trauma dumped on her at the tender age of 13.

In the NBC Dateline interview, McKayla Maroney described training at the Karolyi Camp as highly abusive, with her fellow gymnasts referring to it as "Torture Camp."[253] For decades the Karolyis ran a very intimidating training program whereby if anyone dare object or criticize over the way they were treated, they were immediately banished off the team. Parents and visitors were never allowed.

Withstanding daily verbally and emotionally abusive attacks was simply a built-in part of the couple's old school regimen imported from Iron Curtain Romania where they turned Nadia Comaneci into history's first 10 scoring gymnastic celebrity whiz kid legend. Name calling was commonplace, taking the form of being called "fat" when deemed overweight by the coaches' stringent standards. In this highly touted, legally sanctioned concentration camp, Dr. Nassar would play the role of "good cop" as a grooming counterpoint to the Karolyis' harsh, disciplinary "bad cop" style, again reflecting familiar shades of the Sandusky-Paterno dynamic. To get on the girls' good graces, Nassar would frequently sneak in gifts like food and snacks to the hungry athletes kept "starving" on their strict low calorie diet. But his compassionate, seemingly nice guy persona was part of the predator's grooming process.[254] McKayla stated:

They [the Karolyis and their staff] used to say 'what happens at camp, stays at camp.' And, I mean that right there's a great big red flag.[255]

What Sandusky was to legendary coach Joe Paterno in his fall from grace, Nassar is to the Karolyis, forever staining their once renowned legacy and impeccable reputation. They too were interviewed by Dateline with the chance to defend themselves before their now legions of critics casting dispersions on them. The longtime gymnastics legends are currently being sued by at least two of their former gymnasts.[256] One is Jamie Dantzscher. Years ago the bronze medalist at the 2000 Sydney Games was the first to publicly criticize the Karolyis' cult-like abusive power and caught enormous flak for it, but now completely vindicated.[257]

Another 2005-2010 USA Gymnastics team member abused by Nassar, Mattie Larson, in her lawsuit also accuses the Karolyis for turning "a blind eye to the perpetrator Nassar's sexual abuse of children at the Ranch.”[258] With Mattie’s attorney John Manly referring to the Karolyi Ranch as a “house of horrors,” when the gymnast was 15 dreading to have to leave on a flight the next morning to the official US national team training site, Mattie intentionally bumped her head on the wall to feign an accidental injury just to avoid the abuse awaiting her in Texas by her abusive team doctor and her abusive team coaches.[259] These Olympians believe the Karolyis are less than honest in their denial that they had no clue that a sexual predator was lurking in their midst, given free rein and access to the girls’ bedrooms at all hours of the day or night.

In the same way that the controlling Coach Paterno is said to have known virtually everything that went on with his team and inside the Penn State locker room, allowing his pedo-assistant coach free lifetime access to football athletic facilities (including after retirement) where most of his sex crimes were committed, the same could be said for the over-controlling US Gymnastics taskmasters at their “torture camp” with regards to their version of “good cop” pedophile-employee as well. The parallels between these two horrific scandals are eerily striking. Perhaps that’s because they’re both manifestations of the same global pedophilia network run by the same international crime cabal.

The worst single episode amongst McKayla Maroney’s chronic years of sexual abuse also arrived in 2011, just prior to her disclosing that bombshell to her coach in the car. In fact her telling Geddeck about Nassar had everything to do with the US Gymnastics team’s trip to Tokyo for the world championship.[260] To sleep on the plane, Dr. Nassar gave the 15-year old McKayla a sleeping pill. The next thing she remembers was waking up in the pedophile’s bed in a Tokyo hotel room “getting a ‘treatment.’” It was that incident that McKayla for the first time realized she was not receiving the doctor’s medical treatments at all but was being sexually abused by a highly manipulative, malicious and deceitfully perverted criminal. In her NBC interview she explained:

> I thought I was going to die. He went, like, overboard that night. I was bawling, naked, on a bed. Him on top of me. And I thought I was gonna die.[261]

The discipline of a highly trained Olympic athlete is schooled in pushing all pain aside, be it physical, emotional and/or sexual, in deference to competition and performance. Despite being brutally fingered and savagely violated just hours earlier, remarkably McKayla came through in top form in Tokyo and was crowned the world gymnastics vault champion.[262] Traces of CIA Monarch mind control torture, inflicted child sexual abuse and forced mind dissociation can be found in the experience of these abused elite child athletes. Amazingly, they are able to compartmentalize and thus temporarily store away their psychic pain to the extent that it fails to interfere with their masterful athletic performance.

In the April Dateline broadcast, McKayla Maroney declared that the gymnastics team doctor stunningly molested her “hundreds of times”[263] while over the years also taking hundreds of photos of her to add to his gargantuan child pornography library.[264] In an FBI September 2016 raid on his home, over 37,000 pornographic images were discovered on Nassar’s hard drive depicting children as young as six being raped, molested and digitally penetrated. McKayla believes that Nassar has shared with fellow pedophiles on the internet photos taken of her while the doctor was sexually abusing her.

While for two decades US gymnasts were forced to regularly submit to Dr. FeelBad’s mandatory “treatments” if they wished to remain on the team or compete in the next Olympics, their chronic serial abuser was revered amongst the world’s finest MDs as both an Olympic team doctor and MSU sports medicine expert. Well-insulated and protected for a quarter century by his powerful institutions, the sexual parasite never ran out of fresh young meat to exploit and ravage. Maroney stated every time she ever saw Nassar, he never once failed to sadistically violate her, ending up "hundreds of times" because the monster was granted 24 hour a day unlimited access to her and her teammates' training camp bedrooms and hotel rooms.

And because Nassar's serial pedophile operation was Olympically sanctioned and shielded by three powerful institutions - the USOC, USAG and MSU - for a span of two and a half decades prior to arrest, the fiendish doctor was allowed to continue harming victims into the thousands, mushrooming into the largest known pedophilia scandal in all of sports history. But it wasn't just a one man operation by a long shot, at minimum it was a four major institutional operation (including the FBI's criminal stonewalling of its year plus investigation) that continued indefinitely to regularly promote, feed and protect the medical monster. Like every single pedophilia scandal, only with help from high places was this central antagonist able to inflict so much damage and pain on so many lives for so many years. Typical mainstream media apologists such as the Washington Post carefully frame this scandal as simply "warning signs missed." But that's just another collusive spin to cover up the very real larger pedophilia network operation that involves the planetary pedophile elite.[265]

Speaking of collusion from high places, the heavily edited NBC Dateline piece also conspicuously cut out an interview segment where two-time Olympic captain Aly Raisman called out one top Olympic executive - USA Gymnastics Senior Vice President Rhonda Faehn - for her part in the cover-up since Aly herself knows that Faehn was informed by her teammate Maggie Nichols and Maggie's personal coach in June 2015 about the doctor's widespread abuse.[266] Not to be denied, the next day outspoken Aly took to Twitter to announce NBC's blatant interview omission, soon enough naming the culprit who like the rest of the accomplices did nothing once she was told, other than running to her pedo-enabling boss USAG chief executive Steve Penny. Critics of NBC maintain the censorship took place in order to protect the network's own corporate self-interest as the official exclusive Olympic television sponsor over the years perennially enjoying some of its highest ratings covering US women's gymnastics events. After all in the Luciferian world, you don't offend or bite the hand that feeds you.

This carefully "edited oversight" is yet another example of just how corrupt major cabal players from the corporate media and corporate sports world nefariously are, constantly colluding as symbiotic partners-in-crime. This kind of subtle deception relegates NBC to the status of mere kiddie porn peddler, exploitatively squeezing every last drop of its news media responsibility into flashy, splashy, high rating soundbite headlines… which again reveal the fact that it's never a one man operation but always a much larger, deceptively hidden, globalized pedophilia network.

Last October 2017, the #metoo movement inspired McKayla Maroney to bravely emerge from the shadows to announce that she too suffered from Nassar's abuse from age 13 to near her 2016 retirement at age 20.[267] A mere year after the Tokyo trauma, at the 2012 Olympics in London, during the emotionally charged, most critical time of her young life at age 16, performing and earning silver and gold medals on the world stage for her nation, her team doctor was administering his latest dose of chronic abuse on the Olympian known for wearing the scowl at her medal ceremony. Less than a year earlier she had boldly told her Olympic coach and other officials what Nassar had been doing, but her desperate cry for help fell on deaf ears. In retrospect, with all that she must have been experiencing at the time, it’s perfectly understandable why she would exhibit her iconic look of facial disgust. Incredibly, four of the “Fierce Five” gold medal winners at the London Olympics admit they were all sexually abused minors victimized by their team physician.[268]

As psychologically bruised and battered sexual abuse victims are, primed and polished athletes, even child athletes, have it in them the power to transcend their abuse to reach their young lifelong goal, and neither McKayla nor Aly nor Gabby Douglas nor Jordyn Wieber were about to let a slithering sicko criminal playing charlatan doctor in an equally sicko criminal Olympic organization stop them. It’s nothing less than a testimonial to the strength of the human spirit to triumph over evil.

In January 2018 the latest victim-turned-survivor winner to out the predatory Nassar and his predatory Olympic system is the gold medal star of the 2016 Rio Olympics Simone Biles.[269] A corrupt and evil system that so flagrantly misuses and abuses children as sacrificial lambs in its insatiable lust for medals and money is ill prepared for the truth-exposing strength and courage belonging to this latest class of gold medal winners demanding accountability from the rest of the pedophile enabling accomplices still entrenched in power.

At the height of the #metoo movement in late 2017, 21-year old McKayla Maroney wisely wrote on her Twitter account:

People should know that this is not just happening in Hollywood. This is happening everywhere. Wherever there is a position of power, there seems to be potential for abuse. I had a dream to go to the Olympics and the things that I had to endure to get there, were unnecessary, and disgusting. [270]

What’s also disgusting are the hypocritical responses from the very organizations that for years protected the serial pedophiles permitting them to do such widespread damage against McKayla and so many others. After US Gymnastics said that it admired McKayla Maroney’s courage, its disingenuous statement blabbered on:

We, like so many others, are outraged and disgusted by the conduct of which Larry Nassar is accused. We are sorry that any athlete has been harmed during her or his gymnastics career.[271]

If US Gymnastics was so “outraged,” then why in Hell didn’t anyone from USAG step in and stop the many years of sexual abuse? Oh yeah, I just said it, because they are all in Hell as Luciferians. The fact is, US Gymnastics attempted to silence McKayla as one of its most famous, potentially vocal Olympians, forcing her back in 2016 as soon as she retired into signing a non-disclosure agreement in exchange for her financial settlement to pay for her much needed therapy and legal bills (both compliments of USAG’s criminality).[272] The NGB’s silencing campaign backfired because McKayla spoke out in October 2017 revealing her years of chronic abuse and then in December 2017 she again went on the offensive filing a lawsuit in California against USAG, USOC and MSU for engaging in a cover-up marathon and gross failure to protect her and others for decades after first learning Nassar was a sexual predator.

Additionally in California, it’s against the law for a confidentiality agreement to take place in a sexual abuse case. Her attorney at the time - feminist opportunist Gloria Allred - set up her illegal arrangement. The bottom line, as part of USA Gymnastics’ continued desperation to preserve its systematic cover-up and irreversibly tainted image, the Olympic governing body paid McKayla hush money to keep Nassar and their organization out of the headlines. That’s hardly looking out for child athletes or being sorry for all the harm it caused. McKayla’s attorney John Manly, representing her and scores of other victim athletes against USAG, USOC and MSU, explained her forced predicament accepting the 2016 payout:

> I want people to understand that this kid had no choice. She couldn't function. She couldn't work. They [USA Gymnastics] were willing to sacrifice the health and well-being of one of the most famous gymnasts in the world because they didn't want the world to know they were protecting a pedophile doctor.[273]

It took model Chrissy Teigen to offer paying McKayla’s $100,000 fine for breaking her agreement to stay muzzled[274] before USA Gymnastics finally relented from its threat to legally go after her,[275] realizing the horrendous blowback from all the negative publicity that would result should USAG press the issue in court. Just to show its true colors, while US Gymnastics was expressing how sorry it is for its criminal role harming McKayla and so many other child athletes, at the exact same time it was introducing motions in Michigan’s US District Court to dismiss McKayla’s and 92 other victims’ lawsuits against USAG.[276] The Olympic organization’s hypocritical hubris is beyond words.

Michigan State University was also named as an additional defendant in Maroney and others victims’ lawsuits because it too knew about the pedophile’s long history of serial offending while permitting Nassar to continue seeing (and harming) patients even while the perp was being investigated for 19 months by MSU police in 2014-15.[277] The university knowingly allowed at least another dozen more known victims to be molested while his previous sexual misconduct was being investigated by its own policing agency. This highly incriminating evidence surfaced during a joint MSU-FBI inquiry in the spring of 2017. The university uses as its feeble excuse that inquiry after inquiry failed to produce enough evidence for the Ingham County prosecutor's office to charge Nassar, so each time he was permitted to return to work after an ever-so-brief suspension. That brings up another point in this criminal cover-up of gigantic dimensions from a broken legal system that only demonstrates it protects pedophiles. Again, more help from high places that once again only exposes yet another crack in the pedo-cabal wall… more evidence that pedo-foxes in the legal system guarding the pedo-cabal henhouse is a constant throughout every single pedophilia scandal in history.

Reacting to McKayla's disclosure of abuse last October, another of the many pedo-foxes - the US Olympic Committee - chimed in with its phony concern, claiming it was "sickened" by Nassar's abuse and "heartbroken" by McKayla's account. USOC then proceeds to tell the boldface lie of the century:

Each doctor working with our athletes undergoes background checks including an evaluation of medical licensure actions. Unfortunately this predator was not identified by any organization during the time in question.[278]

Background checks on US Gymnastics club employees weren't even initiated until 2007, a full decade and a half after Nassar's first accuser came forth to report his abuse.[279] Additionally, there's so much blatant evidence of gross liability at both MSU and US Gymnastics on the charge of negligent retention during Nassar's two decade plus employment while they both were aware that a growing record of complaints from dozens of victims and parents were accumulating.[280] Documentation of Nassar's reported crimes can be found in multiple law enforcement agencies, the medical licensing board, child protective services,[281] gymnastics clubs, the MSU athletic department, the university administration as well as within both Olympic organizations the USOC and USAG, all the way to the US Department of Education. Yet not one of these “official” entities designated to protect the well-being of minors did a damn thing to stop the nonstop sexual violence unleashed upon thousands of his needlessly wounded victims.

Aly Raisman was spot on with her no-bullshit assessment of Olympic organization leadership:

> Their biggest priority from the beginning and still today is their reputation, the medals they win and the money they make off of us.[282]

The governing body’s longstanding cover-up of the doctor’s abuse finally began taking a fatal hit on June 17, 2015. That’s when US Gymnastics could no longer ignore the incoming abuse complaints registered by Nassar’s parade of accusers. Former USA national team member and 2015 world champion gymnast Maggie Nichols and her personal coach Sarah Jantzi reported an incident after Nassar sexually assaulted Maggie while treating her for back pain training at the US Gymnastics Karolyi Ranch.[283] Coach Jantzi overheard 15-year old Maggie talking to her teammate Aly Raisman about the bizarre treatment at the hands of the team doctor.[284] On June 17, 2015 Sarah Jantzi took her concern directly to US Gymnastics senior vice president and women’s program director Rhonda Faehn who then immediately contacted USAG President Steve Penny. Coach Jantzi and Maggie’s mother Gina were then called in to meet with Penny, who assured the mother that US Gymnastics would take the matter to the police and that “her daughter’s concern” would be handled judiciously. According to the complaint, Gina felt:

> Steve Penny discouraged [Gina and her husband John Nichols] from reporting Nassar’s conduct to law enforcement and pressured them to keep the matter quiet.[285]

Penny was giving them the classic runaround, lying to them at every turn that his organization was contacting law enforcement. But instead of reporting the allegations to police authorities which is mandated by law in both Texas where the abuse occurred as well as Indiana where the liar was lying, the NGB hired its own private investigator still hoping it could smell things out and “fudge” over the evidence.[286] Finally when the investigator interviewed a third gymnast on Friday July 24, 2015, she recommended USAG contact the police.[287] Always so courteous to not want to bother the FBI over the weekend, the NGB waited till the next business day on Monday July 27th before finally speaking to an FBI agent. Of course the FBI was criminal in its handling of the case as well, waiting nearly a full year before interviewing Maggie Nichols and other victims, allowing Nassar from July 2015 to December 2016 to molest at least another 40 girls and one boy prior to the pedophile’s arrest.[288] Not only is the FBI guilty of criminal negligence, but stonewalling for so much time smacks of yet another sign of major cover-up and coordinated collusion between the federal government and Olympic organizations and MSU to ensure that the larger pedophilia operation had time to tie up loose ends and seal off any traceable bread crumbs. The goal is to always set it up where only one designated sicko goes down so that the larger sicko network remains spared and unscathed.

So the Olympics gymnastics NGB waited a full five weeks before it finally notified law enforcement. US Gymnastics would then be caught willfully lying, claiming it informed the FBI immediately. This disgraceful organization also failed to notify MSU and the Twistar gym where the Frankenstein monster continued seeing and molesting more underage patients. Perhaps USAG working with its fellow partners-in-crime already knew they knew, so why bother. Over a year later MSU finally fired the pedophile in September 2016.[289] USAG defended itself contending that it was not legally obligated to inform his other employers. Tell that to the last abuse victims Nassar was still molesting at MSU in 2016. Attorney John Manly on this issue:

> Who allows that? Who allows a physician to be put back in a clinic treating children while under investigation for sexually abusing children?[290]

A larger, coordinated child sexual abuse network, that's who. In desperado damage control mode, the deceitful audacity of USA Gymnastics seems egregiously boundless, releasing its "conclusive" finding after receiving its hired PI's report:

> The information that Maggie and later a second athlete provided was important, but did not provide reasonable suspicion that sexual abuse had occurred (Emphasis MINE).[291]

So even after the complaints in 2015, Penny and his USOG were still blatantly denying Nassar was sexually abusing athletes. Between the unfolding developments further implicating both the pedophile's guilt and the NGB's criminal cover-up guilt along with more damning articles posted by those pesky Indy Star reporters revealing the rampant damage over many years throughout the sport perpetrated against its underage athletes by an army of US Gymnastics personnel (as well as non-USAG personnel), the pedophilia scandal could no longer be suppressed. By the time Indy Star announced in September 2016 that both former club gymnast Rachael Denhollander and former Olympian Jamie Dantzscher decided to go public, disclosing that each had filed separate lawsuits against both Nassar and USA Gymnastics, the burgeoning scandal was simply too big to continue sweeping under the rug.[292]

After years Jamie Dantzscher's abuse had her suffering from depression, anxiety and self-medicating her pain, in July 2016 for the first time, the 2000 Olympic bronze medal winner finally disclosed her deep dark secret that was behind her painful life. Likewise, ever since her sexual trauma in 2000, Rachael Denhollander felt like damaged goods, like it was all her fault. But ultimately after reading one of the Indy Star exposés, she felt strong enough to courageously step forward to tell her harrowing story.

Amidst concurrent investigations by the FBI, MSU police, Department of Education and the Michigan state attorney general's office, still protecting its own reputation as well as its predator, in September 2015 USA Gymnastics facilitated Nassar's quiet retirement as its team physician. In August 2016 Nassar publicly revealed on Facebook that he wasn't at the Rio Summer Games because he retired from US Gymnastics, using the excuse he was running for a seat on his local school board - that is until a month later word got out via Indy Star again of his MSU termination in view of ongoing multiple criminal investigations. Meanwhile, his long run of managing to avoid jail finally came to an end when arrested in December 2016 on charges of child pornography and sexual criminal conduct against a child less than 13 years old.[293] Six months after Indy Star outed the pedo-monster, his diehard protector who so vehemently had defended him, USAG boss Steve Penny was forced to resign in March 2017, but not before receiving a generous million dollar severance package for all his diehard efforts to criminally uphold the shameful reputation of his Olympic organization.[294] In May 2018 Michigan State University reached a settlement sum of $500 million of which $425 will go to the current 337 claimants of Nassar sexual abuse and the remaining $25 million will be disbursed to any potential future victims.[295]

In the end, when tip of the iceberg child raping scandals ultimately do get exposed, the longstanding pattern is for the same scripted mega-media giants to all quickly place blame exclusively on one sole predatory monster (vis-à-vis Nassar and Sandusky), again to ensure that, by wag-the-dog design, protection of the larger globalized pedophilia crime network remains fully intact, still unknown to the public and immune from all further exposure and accountability. By diabolical design, this systemic one-two policy of non-action and cover-up in turn ensures that the global network of child sexual abuse only continues to grow each year in order to destroy millions more children's lives on an unprecedented, massive, industrialized scale. As interlocking elements, mass media and the sports industry routinely work covertly together in tandem to suppress the deeper, darker truth from ever reaching the light of day, thereby avoiding the risk that their entire evil cabal operation gets exposed wide open - which unabashedly is the explicit aim of this A-Z pedophilia sourcebook. All the glaringly gory details of evidence are there for all to see.

Be it every type of scandal or so called terrorist false flag operation, the official MSM narrative is always deceitfully and formulaically rolled out by the crime cabal to shield the shady truth of its own criminal guilt from the public. But what's making the crime cabal increasingly nervous these days is knowing that on an unprecedented scale, citizens of the world are finally detecting the 24/7 lame-stream news propaganda machine for what it is - the world's largest source of "fake news." The waking masses are coming to realize that for a very long time the planetary controllers, through deployment of divide and conquer tactics deceptively spread through mass media, they manufacture and perpetrate conflict after conflict throughout history, manipulatively and willfully pitting one group against another, bringing war, death and destruction to every corner of our globe. These murderous culprits as members of this same ruling pedophilia cabal are now exposed and frantically running like cockroaches for cover of darkness as we the people shining the searchlight of truth on them are fast approaching critical mass. We will no longer sit idly by in passive ignorance tolerating the wholesale slaughter of our innocents nor destruction of our planet. Now armed with the truth, we're fighting back and they're running scared.

Joined by hundreds of other victim turned survivors, two celebrated insiders are also fighting back - the courageous 22-year old McKayla Maroney and equally courageous 23-year old Aly Raisman, each filing civil suits not just against their molester but also are separately suing the US Olympic Committee, the USA Gymnastics NGB and MSU, for all of them knowing untold numbers of young girls were being systematically victimized for years at a time, yet they chose to do nothing to help or stop the abuse. In Aly's words:

After all this time, they remain unwilling to conduct a full investigation, and without a solid understanding of how this happened, it is delusional to think sufficient changes can be implemented. Meanwhile, thousands of young athletes continue to train and compete every day in this same broken system. I refuse to wait any longer for these organizations to do the right thing. It is my hope that the legal process will hold them accountable and enable the change that is so desperately needed.[296]

Unfortunately in far too many cases, the legal system has been shown to be just as broken. But we are turning the tide. Out of a total of 265 girls and young women victims with 160 having already sued Larry Nassar, 156 of them showed up in person for his sentencing hearings, dramatically confronting their abuser eye-to-eye.[297] It's important to realize that the thousands of Nassar abuse victims each have family members who are also victimized, forced to witness the suffering of their loved ones. One was a mother who lost her daughter to suicide, believing her doctor’s abuse led directly to her spiraling death. From Donna Markham’s testimony:

We got in the car (after a session with Nassar) and she started bawling and I said, ‘Chelsea tell me what's wrong,’ and she said ‘Mom, he put his fingers in me, and they weren't gloved.’ I said, ‘Chelsea I was right there in the room,’ and she goes, ‘You couldn't see what was going on, mom.’ And she said, ‘He hurt me.’ She quit gymnastics the following year, when she was 13, because she went to a meet here in Lansing... and he (Nassar) was there. And she fell off of every apparatus. She did horrible, and she said ‘I can’t do this anymore because every time I see him I just flashback to what happened in his office.’ She made bad decisions. It affected her social life. She started running with bad crowds, she got into drugs, and she never really recovered the person that was my best friend. For my daughter it became a serious, serious bout of depression. So in 2009 she took her own life because she couldn't deal with the pain anymore. It will be 10 years in March that I lost my baby. She was 23 years old. And every day I miss her. Every day. And it all started with him.[298]

Though every victim’s story is unique, sad, gut-wrenching and tragic, confronting the monster face-to-face in January 2018 was empowering for survivors struggling to overcome their years of pain that this wretched little man in an orange jumpsuit cowering before them inflicted. But confronting their sexual predator to verbalize the profound impact that his abuse had on each of their lives was therapeutic for transitioning from victimhood to empowered survivor.

Recall Kyle Stephens, the little girl forced to endure a half dozen years of ongoing abuse that the parents as family friends with Nassar had trouble believing her belated accusations. The family conflict took a tragic turn once the non-believing father ultimately accepted the fact that his daughter never lied to him about Nassar’s chronic abuse. He was so riddled and tortured with guilt that he ended up committing suicide.[299] In the words of his daughter and only non-medical abuse victim:

> Without my knowledge or consent I had engaged in my first sexual experience by kindergarten and had joined an overwhelming statistic of sexual abuse victims. You used my body for six years for your own sexual gratification. That is unforgivable. I've told counselors your name in hopes that they would report you. I have reported you to child protective services twice. I gave a testament to get your medical license revoked. You were first arrested on my charges, and now, as the only non-medical victim to come forward, I testify to let the world know that you are a repulsive liar and that those treatments were pathetically veiled sexual abuse. Perhaps you have figured it out by now, but little girls don't stay little forever. They grow into strong women who return to destroy your world. Your Honor, there is no time that Larry Nassar can serve that will give me back those years with my family.[300]

The fact is no less than 14 Michigan State University officials including the MSU president were informed of Larry Nassar’s chronic child sexual abuse during the preceding 20 years prior to his arrest.[301] After Nassar pleaded guilty to 10 first degree counts of criminal sexual conduct with victims as young as 6 in November 2017, a month later in December he was sentenced to his first 60 years in prison on multiple child pornography charges.[302]

On January 19, 2018, after a 5-hour meeting, the Michigan State University Board of Trustees gave their president Lou Anna Simon their thumbs up,[303] backing her to remain president despite her and over a dozen other university accomplices all caught looking the other way to allow decades of abuse. Their misplaced solidarity of support for child abuse enabling proved short-lived. Less than a week later within hours of Nassar's January 24, 2018 conviction on 7 counts of criminal sexual conduct in the first degree, the first immediate fallout struck their fearless leader with her announced resignation in the face of mounting pressure from students and faculty.[304]

Speaking of enablers, by the end of January 2018, looking to cover its own sorry ass, the pathetic US Olympic Committee demanded that all 21 members of its US Gymnastics board of directors resign (or be disowned as an Olympic NGB) for its "inaction" in the face of the Nassar cover-up.[305]

Meanwhile less than a week later on February 5, 2018, the presiding judge in the Nassar case wasn't buying sicko's claim of remorse after his forced-fed parade of intense impact statements personally delivered by 156 of his victims. Of course Nassar's cause wasn't helped by his 6-page handwritten letter to Judge Rosemarie Aquilina complaining about her forcing him to endure the three day "media show" facing his victims.[306] The pedophile also showed his true colors once again defending his "medical procedures" as true science. So for good measure, realizing he is clueless in recognizing the colossal harm he's done, the judge tacked on another 40-125 years onto his up to 175 year death sentence, punctuated by Judge Aquilina's final comment that his next judge will be God.[307]

In the Nassar aftermath, seems nothing can stop the bleeding as the following month of March saw the twisted pedo-plot only thicken with a second MSU honcho let go, only to also wind up behind bars. Turns out that Larry Nassar's boss who oversaw the MSU sports medicine clinic where he worked so many years is also a flaming sex pervert. Dr. William Strampel was arrested in late March on charges of sexual harassment as well as collecting nude selfies of young women on his work computer.[308] Per the criminal complaint, this 70-year old senior citizen was busily targeting his own female med students barely out of their teens to “harass, discriminate, demean, sexually proposition, and sexually assault,” violating his statutory duty as both a public officer and MSU’s “distinguished” dean of the college of Osteopathic Medicine.

Dr. Strampel came to law enforcement’s attention for his failing to monitor and enforce the stricter protocols imposed on the pedophile Nassar after multiple sex abuse complaints. But discovered on this latest MSU perv’s office computer was at least 50 selfie photos containing a graphic display of university co-eds in the nude, semi-nude, showing their genitalia, sex toys and pornography. The derelict used his powerful position at MSU to coerce targeted female medical students to send him their naked photos online. The now disgraced dirty old man is also accused of grabbing young tail on the dance floor of his school’s annual gala ball as well as at his scholarship dinner. Is this aging sex fiend just part of the larger MSU pedo-society similar to the one found in high academia circles at MSU’s Big 10 rival Penn State? Circumstantial, connecting-the-dots evidence down this pedo-cabal’s rabbit hole seems to indicate yes.

Both MSU and all the US Olympic organizations – USOC, US Gymnastics, US Swimming, US Taekwondo, US Skating, IUS Volleyball, all consistently and repeatedly drop the ball for decades at a time in their gross failure to safeguard thousands of underage athletes because their obvious priority is protecting both themselves and their sexual predators in biggest sports sex scandals in history. Multiple law enforcement investigations also grossly mishandled case after case, allowing hundreds more victims to suffer while preventing more criminals from exposure, and not just coaches or doctors but a pedo club network amongst the ruling elite. Just as in the Sandusky case, when larger institutions flagrantly know egregious crimes against children are being committed for decades yet no action other than protection of pedophiles occurs, the law enforcement-legal system through criminal stonewalling delay tactics further shield the larger network of unexposed, unpunished criminals perched in even higher places. All this speaks volumes confirming the existence of a much larger symptomatic, systemic, cultural plague that historically continues to shield the global pedophilia network from any and all accountability.

The question must be answered - why did they choose to ignore the growing epidemic allowing the sexual abuse to continue so long? Like the Sandusky/PSU/Second Mile pedo-operation that was also permitted to sexually and emotionally scar countless children for decades, besides the one singled out as the Dr. Frankenstein monster, there is also an inner elite private club of VIP pedophile monsters engaging in a far larger Olympic child sex trafficking ring that’s still being covered-up. One pending lawsuit filed as recently as May 2018 deeply implicates the involvement of both the USA Taekwondo NGB as well as the US Olympic Commission in an international child sex trafficking ring operation. Between the two other enormous decades’ long Olympic team scandals in US Swimming and US Gymnastics and the many smaller scale scandals across all the sports, the so called Olympics umbrella is nothing more than a cover for the global child sex trafficking network we already know exists. But even removing Larry Nassar out of the Olympic pedo-equation, USA Gymnastics has always been a safe sanctuary for sexual predators.

It’s important to realize that Larry Nassar is just one sexual predator within USA Gymnastics that harmed many child victims. Unfortunately there are many more Larry Nassars lurking in every Olympic sport. Identical to the other notorious NGB that also harbors countless pedophile coaches in USA Swimming, so goes US Gymnastics. A series of major exposé articles boldly published by Indy Star reveals scores of pedophile coaches working within US Gymnastics in recent decades that have sexually abused up to thousands of underage child athletes in its sport as well. Scanning the nation's police files and court case records along with interviewing 115 coaches, athletes and club owners, in December 2016 the enterprising trio of investigative journalists who broke the Nassar story at Indy Star[309] had come up with a tally of 368 underage gymnasts who claim in the last 20 years they were sexually abused by a coach, club owner or US Gymnastics official.[310] That's another victim every 20 days and we know that it's a gross undercount since the vast majority of abuse incidents never get reported, especially in a competitive sport where so often the victim is the only one punished for disclosing. University of Pennsylvania researcher-advocate and CEO of CHILD USA Marci Hamilton warned that the actual number of victims is at least three to five times higher than the 368 count.[311]

Just like in US Swimming, top USAG executives have willfully withheld and failed to report widespread allegations to authorities while adhering to policies that protect criminal coaches rather than their athletes.[312] Also following the same identical pattern as its other guilty Olympic counterpart, USA Gymnastics customarily dismisses multiple warnings about predator coaches calling them "hearsay," refusing to follow up on either reporting to law enforcement much less initiate internal investigations, but simply allows serial child molesters to continue their unchecked mobility and freedom to harm more victims.

A handful of high profile cases are presented here. But keep in mind thousands of these cases are known and thousands more remain unknown. One of the more notorious cases involving Coach William McCabe in Georgia shows that US Gymnastics discarded four dire warnings as simply “hearsay” over a seven year period while the rabid serial pedophile repeatedly moved from club to club and state to state preying on countless underage girls.[313] He would openly and brazenly brag about his latest abusive exploits in pursuit of little girls. A gym owner in 1998 complained to US Gymnastics that McCabe “should be locked in a cage before someone is raped.” Less than a year later, the predator was caught striking again. All in vain, a number of alarmed club owners reported McCabe’s out of control abuse to USAG but to no avail.

Lisa Ganser, mother of one of McCabe’s potential next victims wisely took her concerns with the coach’s emails sent to her 11-year old daughter to the nearest FBI office. McCabe was subsequently arrested and charged with multiple counts of sexual abuse to minors, in addition to videotaping girls in the shower and posting it on the internet.[314] He pleaded guilty in 2005 and is currently doing 30 years in the state pen. Confronted with USAG’s stonewalling complicity, Lisa Ganser and her daughter also decided to file a lawsuit against US Gymnastics for its criminal part in knowingly sitting on so much overwhelming evidence that needlessly caused a number of more victims to be molested. This chapter’s unifying theme is that every Olympic organization at every level regardless of sport, totally disregards accusers’ and witnesses’ allegations that systematically protect the predators operating under the Olympic brand name label. And despite this shameful criminal history, other than issuing endless empty platitudes and unfulfilled promises, neither US Gymnastics nor US Swimming nor the US Olympic Committee have still not made safety of its child athletes a priority. Nor have they owned responsibility for their criminal actions.

Then there's UAG's 2010 National Women's Coach of the Year Marvin Sharp who coached Olympians at the national level. Within a year after his award, US Gymnastics received a detailed warning that he was touching kids inappropriately and taking explicit photos of them.[315] Four long years and many victims later, in 2015 only after receiving word that he was taking more explicit pictures of a 14-year old gymnast who'd been his student for three years and was caught shaving her public hair did the NGB finally contact the police. After he was charged in federal court in Indianapolis, that same year he cowardly committed suicide inside his jail cell.[316]

A long list of complaints over the years accumulating on Coach Mark Schiefelbein that US Gymnastics kept hidden away was only obtained through a court subpoena after the coach was arrested when his 10-year old victim's family contacted Tennessee police.[317] He's serving 36 years for 7 counts of aggravated sexual battery and one count of aggravated sexual exploitation of a prepubescent minor. Another pervert coach, James Bell, with another thick complaint dossier locked away in the Indianapolis US Gymnastics vault left a trail of police reports across the country. Forcing himself on top of an underage gymnast starting in 1990 in Oregon and the following year sticking his hand inside the shirt to pinch a 10-year old's developing breast, yet out West this guy still somehow managed to avoid arrest. Bell also had other sexual misconduct allegations filed on him five years prior to his 2003 arrest after a former employer reported him to Rhode Island police for molesting three underage girls. In 2004 he then went on the lam until once again apprehended and charged for sexual abuse in 2015. With this serial pedophile on the loose for well over a decade, one can only imagine how many more victims across the country have been marred for life, all because US Gymnastics stingily holds onto its criminal policy of refusing to report crimes to law enforcement.

If you’re thinking déjà vu here, with USA Gymnastics perps no different from the USA Swimming perps, discerning that the exact same shameless pattern exists in each sport, you’re absolutely correct. Long before Dr. Nassar hit the headlines, a whole slew of US Gymnastics coaches were already known to be raping little girls and as fugitives pillaging their way across the nation while USAG headquarters sat back keeping their records confidentially hidden and secret while far more victims were harmed, refusing to share records with law enforcement until years later after their protected hordes of serial sex predators would eventually get busted. And the issue of coaches with mile long pedo-complaints or even child molesting coaches with court convictions somehow avoiding the US Gymnastics banned coach list runs a parallel identical course with the US Swimming debacle.[318] In every which wrong way, these two criminal NGBs demonstrate the same old, same old, serving as pedophile havens for child rapists. The entire criminal Olympic organization needs to be abolished.

Again, Nancy Hogshead-Makar summarizes what’s wrong with the Olympic brand monopoly on international amateur sports:

> The Olympic sports movement is a pedophile’s dream set-up. Families are expected to give complete control over to the coach, often times banning parents from watching practices. Emotional abuse is considered ‘motivation,’ and there is almost no coaching oversight from sport governing bodies like US Soccer. To make matters worse, the US Olympic Committee’s official legal position is that the organization doesn’t protect athletes from sexual abuse, that removing pedophiles from the Olympic movement isn’t their job.[319]

The Chuck Wielgus of US Gymnastics - former USAG head Steve Penny (another forced resignation fatality caused by the Nassar fallout) and his sport have insisted on pretending they're the gold standard of child athlete safety, so full of themselves pontificating how much they care about the well-being of their athletes and the great lengths they go to in order to keep them safe… blah, blah, blah ad nauseam. Their criminal cover-up actions speak much louder than their false, do-nothing words. They too have a long history of using hush money with non-disclosure agreements as a precondition to settling claims and thereby keeping their epidemic abuse tightly under wraps.[320] They too have a long history of engaging in obstruction of justice, withholding incriminating evidence about their army of pedo-predators from both law enforcement as well as at-risk children and their parents as the next potential victims. These longstanding facts belie all their phony hot air bluster. They are the pedo-cabal's guardians at the gate, hired criminal protectors of the Olympic pedophilia network not any different from the rest of the major cabal players.

Here's why Shelley Haymaker, an Indiana attorney representing child abuse victims, says US Gymnastics "sickens" her:

USAG may not have been the hand that ultimately abused these innocent children, but it was [and still is] definitely the arm.[321]

Indy Star won a case in a Georgia court in August 2016 to unseal depositions and release of USAG's sexual abuse complaint files on 54 coaches that the NGB had been protecting.[322] Though USA Gymnastics appealed, in October the Georgia Supreme Court upheld the earlier ruling ordering the documents to be made public. Yet as of the beginning of January 2017, the criminal NGB outfit was still fighting and resisting, still bent on containing the growing scandal that Nassar blew wide open.

Despite its desperate stonewalling attempts to plug up the growing cracks in its cover-up dam, systematically silencing the abused with either hush money or simply ignoring them till they go away, while withholding tons of criminal complaints exposing legions of pedo-coaches’ and pedo-Nassar crimes from both law enforcement and the public (spearheaded by the trio of muckraking Indy Star journalists), US Gymnastics has found itself in a losing battle, overwhelmed and beaten by the rising tide of forces pushing for the truth to come out.

Pedophilia Lurks in Every Sport

Echoes of the exact same dynamics keep recurring ad nauseam in every Olympic sport - disempowered child victims who rarely get heard are being chronically harmed by longtime powerful abusers protected by their governing parent organizations always “caught” looking the other way for decades at a time, never really holding the perpetrators accountable.

And it’s not just Olympic sports riddled with these pedo-scandals, professional sports hold their shameful share as well. The storied franchise of the high-powered Boston Red Sox Major League baseball team knew of its clubhouse pedophile doing decades’ worth of untold damage to countless kids, with longtime owners Tom Yawkey and his wife on down in the organization knowing yet loyally protecting and keeping this sicko gainfully employed, all the while hiding their shameful dark secret from the rest of the world.[323] For three straight decades from the 1960s until 1991, the Red Sox clubhouse manager was raping young

African American boys off the street from the team's spring training site in Winter Haven, Florida to Boston, and no one said a word until finally the horrific truth was quietly exposed in 1991.

This chapter has addressed the pedophilia scandals in the sports world that we know about (with UK's soccer scandal reserved for the next chapter). But sadly there are likely many more remaining hidden in the closet that we still may never find out about. What we've learned is that no sport from the amateur to the professional level is immune. Pedophilia scandals and their cover-ups are the cancerous scourge that's plagued humanity for far too long. Today's light of truth brings opportunity to end this monstrous plague. Next we explore if sex trafficking of children and young women to all the major sporting events is fact or fiction.

Do Major Sporting Events like the Olympics, World Cup and Super Bowl Cause a Surge in Child Sex Trafficking?

In addition to winning lots of medals and protecting its pedophiles along with its Olympic brand reputation at all cost, based on past actions, the US Olympic Commission and its 47 NGBs' true goal is to make lots of money pimping and sexually abusing its little girl-super athletes within its own international sex trafficking ring. Wait, but that's not all. With top world sporting events like the Olympics, FIFA's World Cup and America's Super Bowl drawing millions of sports fans from around the world to host cities and billions more tuning in to watch on television, might the highly organized global sex trafficking network opportunistically move children and young women to these worldwide events as yet another sports industry dirty little secret hidden in its shameful criminal underbelly? A number of anti-trafficking experts, politicians, media accounts and victims themselves believe it's true. After all, behind arms sales and drugs, human trafficking is this world's third largest criminal industry[324] and alarmingly the fastest growing.[325]

First, it's worth redefining what sex trafficking is as a form of modern day slavery:

> The recruitment, harboring, transportation, provision, obtaining, patronizing, or soliciting of a person for the purpose of a commercial sex act, in which the commercial sex act is induced by force, fraud, or coercion, or in which the person induced to perform such act has not attained 18 years of age .[326]

Former 2006 World Cup insider and French national team coach Raymond Domenech expressed his shame connected to a sport so closely linked to human trafficking :

> It is truly scandalous. People are talking about women [and children], importing them to satisfy the base instincts of people associated with football. It is humiliating enough for me that football is linked with alcohol and violence. But this is worse. It is slaves that will come and be put into houses. Human beings are being talked about like cattle, and football is linked with that.[327]

Using tourist visas, traffickers and pimps smuggle their sex slaves into host nations masquerading them in large numbers as sports fans. In the source country where the young sex slaves are recruited, the child procurers for these sex trafficking rings typically either abduct or promise poor, unsuspecting young victims well-paying jobs in the host nation of the sporting event.

Jennifer Rohmhildt, an executive director of a Greek anti-trafficking women's advocacy group offers her insight into this global sex trade that automatically exploits underage mostly female victims for peak profits during major international sporting events:

Trafficking is a trap. And an event like the World Cup or the Olympics is the bait. Pushed by poverty, pulled by hopeful dreams of life in the West, and exploited by opportunists, women suspend disbelief and their better judgment and gamble on a better life.[328]

While these worldwide athletic spectacles that generate billions of dollars' worth of revenue increase criminal opportunity to also exploit and profit from a surging supply and demand market for trafficked in human beings as a coldblooded global commodity, more than one third children, they also create a global platform for raising public awareness and bolstering anti-human trafficking efforts. As an example, the UK based charity It's a Penalty partnering with Cathay Pacific, HSBC Bank, the South China Morning Post and other affiliates in conjunction with major sporting events has launched a sexual child exploitation awareness and anti-trafficking campaign to inform and educate the public.[329] Loopholes in the laws in Hong Kong have exacerbated the human trafficking problem, but in the words of It's a Penalty's chief executive Sarah Carvahlo:

It is a global issue, it's not just happening in Hong Kong. That's why we've got the support of Australia for the Commonwealth Games, South Korea for the [2018] Winter Games and America for the Super Bowl.

Through its initial efforts with a short film documentary shown on airline flights and at Brazil's 2014 World Cup and 2016 Olympic venues, It's a Penalty has expanded its operations to include providing 24-hotline numbers for reporting child sexual exploitation during all major sporting events, receiving 11,252 calls during Brazil's 2014 World Cup and 5,051 during its 2016 Olympics.[330]

The 2004 Athens Olympics and 2006 World Cup in Germany were among the first of these major international sporting events where during the preceding days leading up to the games an estimated influx of 2,000 trafficked in children and young women were anticipated in Greece[331] and multiple media accounts hyped that number up to 40,000 imported sex slaves in Germany to service the voracious sexual appetites of attending sports fans and global tourists, over 75% being men.[332] With prostitution legal in both of those hosting nations, the speculated estimate in Germany proved to be grossly overinflated with German sex workers (including internally trafficked children) accommodating whatever increased demand may have resulted. But then the 2008 Beijing Olympics in China where prostitution is criminalized also appeared to produce no overt or significant spike in sex trafficking. That said, the number of identified trafficking victims in Greece nearly doubled in 2004 from the year before and a 24% decrease was observed the year after the Olympics.[333] Anecdotally, a young Russian woman abducted and trafficked into Greece for the Olympics stated:

> I was worn out, literally used up and spat out… During the games I saw hundreds of men… who thought that a good day was watching sport, drinking and having sex. We [victims of trafficking] were just part of the entertainment. [334]

The 2010 Winter Olympics in Vancouver located so close to the US border along with Canada's less restrictive immigration laws, Vancouver's normally high demand for commercial sex services and an organized crime presence would all seemingly place children at greater risk for sexual exploitation and child sex trafficking during the Winter Games.[335] But again it apparently didn't. A similar outcome resulted at 2010's World Cup hosted by South Africa despite the false predictions ranging from 40-100,000 trafficked in prostitutes, supported by such risk factors as the area's high crime rates, economic inequality, lack of both anti-trafficking laws and experience hosting major sporting events and relaxed visa laws during the event.[336] During the 2012 London Olympics an increase in the trafficking of children and young women from Eastern Europe, especially Romania, was reported in the media but never verified. Another confirmed phenomenon associated with every Olympic and World Cup host city prior to the major sporting events is the displacement of thousands of usually low income families for stadium and infrastructure development projects that both invite human labor trafficking for site construction as well as increase the poverty level of the displaced population that in turn significantly raises the risk of child sexual exploitation.[337]

Brazil's back-to-back 2014 World Cup followed closely by the 2016 Olympics is a case in point. An estimated quarter of a million poor people were forcibly removed from their homes in the slums or favelas to make way for the major sporting events.[338] With well over a million foreigners attending the World Cup and another million tourists for the Olympics just under half foreign,[339] the nation’s widespread poverty in Rio and beyond unfortunately supplied more than enough human resource to meet the swelling pedophilic demand of the visiting sports-sex tourism crowds attending the two sporting event extravaganzas. No need for sex slaves to be flown in from abroad when they’re already embedded in such abundant supply living just minutes away from the Olympic Village and all the sporting venues. Rio’s elite wealth and exotic tourist beach attractions exist in stark contrast literally next door to the bleak world of abject poverty, daily violence and extreme child sexual exploitation already rampant in the country.

At least a half million children are estimated to be sexually exploited in Brazil, considered the second biggest trafficking nation in the world according to the women’s rights group CAMTRA.[340] Poverty has parents commonly selling off their children to pedophiles and little girls being offered to sexual predators as winning raffle prizes.[341] It’s become normalized, especially in small impoverished villages and towns in the countryside. With 43% of the traffickers women, girls as young as 8- and 9-years old are fair game, especially for truckers along the notorious BR-116 highway that runs from Rio to Brazil’s largest city Sao Paulo where the World Cup and Olympic soccer venues were played. Brazil’s rampant corruption of politicians, local mayors and judges are all among the biggest pedo-profiteers having turned Brazil into both a major source as well as destination nation for child sex slavery and international pedo-haven for the sleazy sex tourism trade linked to the larger global pedophilia network.[342]

Yet another sound argument maintains major sporting events do cause a rise in human trafficking, but it’s long before the games begin, pointing to the plight of the thousands of migrant workers turned slave laborers shipped in to Sochi, Russia for the 2014 Winter Olympics and 2018 World Cup and Qatar for the 2022 World Cup.[343] These enormous construction projects required to create the necessary infrastructure for major sporting events built from the ground up invariably attract forced labor trafficking with labor slaves often trapped in inhumane, dangerous conditions over protracted periods of time incurring a significant death toll.

Frequent assertions have been made that sex traffickers’ biggest payday in the United States is the annual Super Bowl, though during the last decade this contention has been hotly debated and empirically challenged. The 2018 Super Bowl in Minneapolis expected a surplus of a million visiting fans to the city of little more than 400,000 residents. In preparation, the metro police beefed up its presence working with 23 other law enforcement agencies, closely monitored online sex sites, introduced online sting operations as well as checked local hotels and strip club hangouts for potential trafficking victims.[344] While the anti-trafficking group Polaris was staffing its 24-hour hotline, its CEO Bradley Myles told Reuters:

> All this is, is a one-day snapshot into what otherwise is a 365-day problem. The same traffickers that are committing trafficking during the Super Bowl [are] going to wake up in the morning on Monday and do the same thing.[345]

Reuters immediately follows this quote with:

> Big sporting events, from the World Cup to the Olympics, regularly trigger a panic over an influx of sex-trade workers, with many being victims of human trafficking (Boldface emphasis mine).[346]

A caveat insertion seems relevant here. Owned, operated and controlled by House of Rothschild money, both Reuters and Associated Press are the two largest monopolizing international newswire services that daily circulate their newsfeeds to thousands of media outlets throughout the world.[347] Since the Rothschilds' central banking system centered in the City of London as well as every central bank located in every nation on earth but one (the so called "pariah nation" North Korea),[348] as chief financier for the global pedophilia cabal,[349] it's highly implausible that Reuters would dare expose the true scope and size of today's global child sex trafficking network. Thus, the above quoted statement could easily be read as a testimonial to not biting the hand that feeds it. Reuters would naturally propagate the "myth" that all major sporting events "trigger a panic" over phantom "skyrocketing" levels of child sex trafficking rather than admit the truth that they do create opportunity for increased child sexual exploitation. And though the trafficking increases may not appear off the charts based on the next to no current means available for accurate tracking, the most watched sporting events on our planet do increase profitability of associated legal as well as illegal businesses. And you better believe that the global child sex traffickers as part of an elite, top tier pedo club network would rather have us think more kids brought in to be abused at the Olympics or Super Bowl is all purely overblown, exaggerated media hype rather than anything real or substantial.

That said, a strong vocal critic of the media driven “hype” alleging the influx of sex traffickers surrounding each NFL championship game comes from the Global Alliance Against Traffic in Women, a nonprofit anti-trafficking coalition group operating out of Thailand that’s published a 2011 report called “What’s the Cost of a Rumor?” used as a primer for not buying into the annual Super Bowl hype.[350] It contends that sporting events become police task force opportunities to squander fiscal and manpower resources primarily invested in online sting operations with undercover officers posing as young girl prostitutes and would-be traffickers looking for johns. Then at the end of the day, using this charade for PR purposes, police departments and anti-trafficking task forces then conduct press conferences boasting about their limited trophy arrests that in actuality has virtually no impact on the global human trafficking network operating 365 days a year. Police representatives from past Super Bowl cities unanimously concur that no sudden spikes are observed either in the days ahead, on or right after the Super Bowl with either adult prostitution arrests or sexually exploited minors.[351]

Right after the big game gloss, the focus is then customarily put away for another year. Also the myth erroneously conflating adult prostitution with human sex trafficking gets misused in the mix as an enormous waste of taxpayer dollars mostly for show and tell purposes, opportunistically exploited by self-serving agendas of politicians, law enforcement agencies, sensationalizing media outlets, prostitution abolitionist groups and a few anti-trafficking organizations eager to get their message out any chance they can.

Just prior to the 2017 Super Bowl, a nationwide trafficking sting operation is said to have netted over 750 suspects in 15 states, 29 trafficking pimps and 723 customers jailed in the largest sweep in the 13 years law enforcement's been keeping track of Super Bowl arrests.[352] Over 100 arrests were in Houston alone where the game was played with a grand total of 6 minors and 86 adults rescued nationwide.

Kate Mogulescu, the director of New York based Legal Aid Society that works with trafficking victims has this to say:

> Police could better spend their resources. Police have other types of investigating resources, including community engagement (and) if the only interaction that victims of trafficking can expect to have with police is by virtue of raids, stings… that creates the biggest barrier.

So when someone in the know working in the trenches is stating that law enforcement's big nationwide sweeps in its sting operation raids pose the worst barrier to actually helping victims and making a difference in reducing the global trafficking operations, she is saying that it's grossly counterproductive in waging the larger battle to end modern slavery. The few saved victims are typically used as trophy statistics at press conferences to prop up and justify widespread sting operations as law enforcement's only M.O. to combat the human trafficking problem. Police sting operations and raids are worthless in terms of their next to no impact on eradicating the planetary-wide slavery epidemic and its gross failure to help the remaining millions globally still trapped as victims as well as purely from a cost-effective analysis. In every way it's clearly the wrong approach. But then like lots of things, it’s more than likely that way by design.

On a personal level for those slave victims still locked in a world of terror, when cops charge in like gangbusters with guns drawn for battle, the criminals only become more prone toward violently acting out against their victims, endangering their lives all the more. When on high alert, pimps/traffickers reacting to aggressive law enforcement interventions like police raids will increase their beatings, psychological torture and sexual abuse toward their held hostage captives, erratically escalating to more severe levels. Plus the Stockholm syndrome is also commonly present where victims, for survival sake, tend to align, identify and side more with their abusers than the police as the so called rescuers. To trafficked underage abuse victims, law enforcement raids in sting operations cast police increasingly as feared, not to be trusted, adversarial, ever-dangerous threats, hence “the biggest barrier.”

The annual drill of hyped up, misplaced priorities in effect diverts both precious and limited resources as well as much needed attention away from the far bigger problems of gender and economic inequality, global poverty, gentrification and population displacement that by elite design pose underlying causal factors at the growing impoverished local levels giving rise to global human trafficking and child sexual exploitation, not unlike the many by design war zones.[353] And that’s not even including the near zero impact it has on the very real epidemic of human trafficking with 4 out of 5 modern slaves being women (51%) and children (28% with 20% girls, 8% boys),[354] and reaching pandemic crisis as more slaves shamefully exist in today’s world than ever before in human history.[355] In other words, the bottom line is the biggest single beneficiary of these hyped up sting raids is the international pedo-cabal itself, because the day after the Super Bowl, it’s largely back to normal business as usual for another 364 days of the year with its massive worldwide operation remaining totally unaffected, fully intact, still remaining hidden off public radar, yet continuing to flourish and grow every year as never before. Since the big Super Bowl winner is the crime cabal itself, it’s very likely the primary force behind this enduringly ineffectual urban legend ritual and its equally ineffectual sting operations.

You may be asking yourself how this so called urban legend got started. According to the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children, traffickers brought in 10,000 prostitutes to Miami for the 2010 Super Bowl to make an easy quick cash payload.[356] That pronouncement then led to the following year when Texas attorney general soon turned Governor Greg Abbott making the bold claim that the Super Bowl is America’s “single largest human trafficking incident,” which ever since set the stage for this ongoing seasonal debate.[357] A number of anti-trafficking advocacy groups initially agreed with Abbott, since basic supply and demand metrics would logically lead to this same conclusion. Plus shining light on this near taboo topic of pedophilia and child trafficking offered an all too rare and important opportunity to pass up for anti-trafficking/anti-slavery groups. But Abbott’s prediction just before his Dallas Super Bowl that according to Forbes resulted in “133 underage arrests for prostitution” out of a city of 1.3 million residents with hundreds of thousands more visitors hardly seems prophetic or true.[358] But just the same, the city was ready.[359]

But wait, if the 133 underage sex slaves arrested as the victims of the bad guy traffickers end up behind bars for prostitution, how would that be then touted as an endorsement of the false notion that the Super Bowl is a slave trafficking magnet? A huge part of the problem is the historically abusive treatment underage victims systemically receive at the hands of America's punitive law enforcement and broken legal justice system that labels them "prostitutes" rather than human and child trafficking victims, methodically thrown in adult prisons or held indefinitely in juvenile detention while awaiting prosecution as adults in what amounts to a horrendously cruel process of re-victimization.[360] Also note the vast difference between the rather grandiose 2010 Super Bowl estimate of 10,000 trafficked in prostitutes compared only a year later to the paltry 133 arrests in 2011. Either way, little good ever ends up the outcome of emotionally reactive, knee jerk responses. Nonetheless, Abbott's pregame proclamation was apparently well-served, like clockwork regularly catching the nation's attention every Super Bowl Sunday thereafter, creating a one day or pregame weeklong national anti-trafficking policy with ineffectual, counterproductive police interventions solely based on a false, never proven hypothesis of one politician's bogus claim. But then that's how corporate media regularly colludes with the international crime cabal to cunningly obscure and shield the global child sex trafficking network from further public scrutiny, accurate awareness and potential accountability.

And every year ever since we hear recurring echoes reverberated at another politician's or police task force press conference that insists on keeping this worn-out urban legend still alive. Just three years ago it was yet another Texas politician's turn to continue propagating the myth when Senator John Cornyn repeated the governor's mantra:

The Super Bowl has one of the highest levels of human sex trafficking activity of any event in the country.[361]

Cornyn’s remark was later clarified by his staff to apply only to the host city. But the latest results from an Arizona State University study released then completely refuted his misleading presumption. The study found no discernable difference between the numbers of sex ads posted at online websites just prior to the 2014 Super Bowl hosted in New York and non-host city Phoenix, the percentages 84% and 80% respectively.[362] Moreover, the myth killer was the number of ads in New York in the host year was less than half of the following year’s total when it wasn’t hosting the game, while Phoenix ads did increase from the non-host year to the host year.[363] Hence, the research results failed to link any connection between the Super Bowl and increased sex trafficking activity. Additionally, this research was methodologically flawed in its attempt to extrapolate a sex ad as evidence of trafficking. Also the saturated presence these days of law enforcement posting online sex ads of would-be traffickers and underage sex workers in its massive nationwide sting operations (that along with sex ads only increase over time) would further contaminate the internal validity of this study. All this shows is that due to the clandestine status and nature of the global criminal sex trafficking network, neither the current measurement mechanisms nor, more importantly, the current political and economic will exists to accurately and precisely measure the increasing population of children being trafficked, raped and murdered around the world. The international pedo-cabal wouldn’t have it any other way.

On a related note, in recent years where so much adult service sex advertising has been widely used online by sex workers, pimps and traffickers in the commercial sex trade, the website Backpage.com was recently shut down by the pedo-enabling FBI in April 2018. At the same time its co-founder was arrested and charged with 93 criminal counts including soliciting prostitution and money laundering.[364] Of course in its abrupt absence, plenty of other adult service websites are busily filling the void.

Linda Smith, a former Congresswoman and president of the nonprofit anti-trafficking organization Shared Hope International[365] was called in as a consultant to assess Indianapolis for its "preparedness" prior to its 2012 Super Bowl. She gave the Indiana capital a D grade, labeling it "a hub city for prostitution" based on the nonstop flow of its transient major sporting event populations constantly passing through.[366] The city is the home of both the NFL Indianapolis Colts and the Olympic pedophilia haven the US Gymnastics national governing body. On top of that, each and every year this apparent trafficking hub is also the host drawing large numbers for the most famous US car racing event the Indianapolis 500 as well as the March Madness Final Four college basketball tournament championship. So if there was any merit to the notion that major sporting events increase child sex trafficking, this busy "prostitution hub" with the D grade would be it. Linda Smith explained:

> When we look at traffic patterns across the county, most of the girls we speak to have been moved in and out of cities for large sporting events. First off, I told them their city was broken.[367]

Linda faulted Indianapolis for its treatment of underage trafficking victims as criminals most often tried in court as adults for prostitution. Appraising the city's legal system, it too left much to be desired regarding its policy classifying and prosecuting the crimes of buyers and sellers of children. Linda Smith worked with the governor and attorney general to fast track tougher anti-trafficking legislation passed just in time for the 2012 Super Bowl.[368]

As an adjunctive aside regarding the state of Indiana, it's worth noting that the global elite's company man for president if and when Donald Trump is impeached, taken out and/or removed from office, native Indianan US Vice President Mike Pence as former state governor has a shrouded, muddy history connected to the crime cabal with all his congressional records sealed until December 2022.[369] He has good reason. Though he wraps himself in red, white and blue Christian fundamentalism,[370] the freshman Indiana congressman was a dutiful Bush-Cheney 9/11-anthrax false flag insider,[371] thrusted years later onto the Trump ticket via a visit from Illuminati president Henry Kissinger.[372] Mike Pence has publicly stated, "I will model my vice presidency after Dick Cheney."[373] Additionally, multiple sources have linked him to the Bush-Cheney-Clinton pedophilia network,[374] including engaging in satanic ritual child sexual abuse and child sacrifice.[375] And as home of the USA Gymnastics, Indiana remains a hub for the pedo-network.

Conclusions

If America's top Olympic officials are in any way involved in organized sex trafficking of its child athletes or pre- and postgame sex slaves at its venues, routinely moving them across state and international borders for numerous decades, with at least one pending lawsuit already asserting this very contention with child athletes, it opens up a much wider examination and scrutiny to determine if the International Olympic Committee, the top of the pyramid monopoly franchise controlling world amateur child athletics, may also be a special subset within the larger planetary child sex trafficking network… only this one wears the coveted elite “Olympics brand” label. The power of this pyramid scheme is just as corrupt and no doubt just as pedophilia-saturated as the sexually blackmailed, thoroughly compromised global political system whereby virtually only pedo-puppet leaders of the world like the Bushes, Clintons, Obama, and Trump are preselected by the planetary rulers to do their evil bidding. Concealing his share of underage sexploits, the prospect that wrecking ball Trump’s just another compromised pedo-stooge figurehead installed and controlled by the same Zionist neocon puppet masters will be taken up further in the PedoGate update chapter.

Meanwhile, thoroughly established, irrefutable evidence confirms that this private pedo club of adrenochrome addicted planetary controllers is comprised of major top players from aristocratic and royalty bloodlines, secret societies, central banking, religion, government, the military, intelligence community, organized crime, high courts, law enforcement, child welfare and global charity organizations, media, entertainment and Fortune 500 corporations. All secretly working in synch together as foxes guarding their global pedo-henhouse, they are the globalized pedophilia cabal.

One common thread shared between the pedophilia scandal in Hollywood and all the sports scandals is the predatory groomers’ promise of fame, fortune and glory to entice vulnerable little kids as their victims by stoking and preying on their biggest hopes, dreams and aspirations. Of course another common thread is that this dynamic in the sports and entertainment industries is worldwide today. The globalized interlocking structure of this massive child raping network has its top level partners-in-crime centrally located in global centers around the world - London (banking), Brussels (continental government EU and military NATO), Rome (Catholic Church), Washington DC (military), New York (global governance UN, media and finance) and Los Angeles (media entertainment) all-encompassing national, continental and international hubs of control containing all of the above cabal players. So why wouldn't the pedo-cabal's worldwide amateur sports branch headquartered in Switzerland (IOC) and Colorado (USOC) tapping into 44 million athletic kids globally not be included? The facts as we move down the rabbit hole all indicate it already is.

Beyond question or doubt on top of what we currently know, deductive reasoning and logic would also conclude that top elite echelons within the planet-wide sports industry as birds-of-a-feather must also be active fellow pedo-participants. After all, what intrinsically binds and bonds all of these intertwining, overlapping, corrosively criminal elements is their worship of the same ungodly, demonic power of Lucifer. At this juncture in human history, evidence is far too incontrovertibly overwhelming to continue ignoring Lucifer's current ownership and control over this earthly dominion. At this late hour, ignorance and blindness continue at our own peril and self-destruction.

This chapter has demonstrated that all the international, regional and national sports organizations from top to bottom, global to local, are also steeped in this pedo-pandemic as well. In short, the elite's Luciferian machine that's been ruling over this earth for centuries is in fact the hidden-in-plain-sight pedophilia cabal. Yet with the Pandora's Box of scandals busted wide open over this last quarter century alone for all the world to finally see, on full display under the spotlight these primetime crime players' guilt has been outed and their savagely grotesque, perverse nakedness exposed like never before. For the sake of our defenseless children, now that we know what's been going on right under our noses for so long, it's high time we begin rescuing children from their slaughterhouses and finally hold these satanic evildoing baby killers accountable. Like their pedophilic overlord George HW Bush once confessed (in so many words), "If the people knew what we've been up to, they'd hang us from the nearest lampposts." By George you're right, you old gizzard lizard widower you! Your New World Disorder's coming after you while your cold blood's still pumping from your puny little heartless heart. You and your kin owe us citizens of the world one huge karmic debt to pay off for your lifelong human genocidal crime spree from JFK to 9/11 and far beyond.

And on that note, get ready UK, Europe, Australia and pedo-rings stretching to all four corners of this earth, because now that we the people are finally onto you, we're coming after all you child murdering rapists as well, starting with unraveling your exposed pedophilia cover-ups operating geographically outside America as this book's next section of chapters.

Though each child victim’s story is uniquely tragic in its own devastating way, in far more ways their stories are the same, regardless of sport, perpetrator, nation or time of crime. Sports pedophilia scandals as depicted by mainstream news always casts one abhorrent deviant predator who for many decades exploits both his authority and reputation to get away with chronically abusing multiple generations of children before ultimately being exposed and spending the rest of his life behind bars. The power differential between each authority figure, most often a renowned coach, and his fledgling underage athletes all eagerly vying for playing time, recognition, approval, and a chance to fulfill their dream of success and fame, is the common dynamic behind every single scandal in both the sports and entertainment worlds. In all cases the brave young souls who eventually do come forth to report their sexual abuse go unheard, dismissed and cast aside, only permitting the abuser to continue to abuse for many, more years.

In every case the larger sports organizations - be they Olympic entities or regional and international associations to all the national governing bodies, they are always guilty of protecting the perpetrator(s) at all cost. And other than one singled out monster, the surrounding private elite club of fellow pedophiles and pedophile enabling system associated with each of these horrifying scandals seems to by design always remain relatively unknown and hidden from public view, unexposed and free of all culpability and accountability. Ultimately at the top of this Luciferian power pyramid, too much power, control and money is at stake, thus saving the undeserved reputations and private identities of other guilty parties and more powerful elite pedophiles become far more important than saving the lives of mere expendable children regardless of their growing numbers. And the media is always there to protect the pedo-interests that would otherwise unveil the deeper incriminating connections to the larger global pedophilia network. And in the end, you can plug in and interchange in any given sport the names of the sole MSM designated child raping monster eventually caught and the multitude of his child victims, along with the times and places of each scandal, and without exception, all are characterized by these same definable constants driving each and every tragedy currently being played out on the world stage.

Since the previous section of chapters laid out in full detail the biggest known pedophilia scandals in sports history, at least in America, the one covered next involves the game of soccer (or football) played at the junior club level at the planet's very pedophilia epicenter - the United Kingdom. And true to form, all the same common features listed above are present in this biggest ever British sports scandal as well. Additionally, this chapter launches the next book section examining the slew of pedophilia scandals uncovered in recent years outside the US in the ever fertile pedo-pastures of Europe, Australia and elsewhere.

Barry Bennell is the designated predatory pedophile coach who is the Coach Sandusky of the UK football world still rocking Britain today. Earlier this year the 64-year old Bennell was finally locked away for good after receiving a 31-year prison sentence following his fourth and final conviction for more than four decades of raping hundreds of little boys with big dreams.[1] For a couple decades Barry Bennell was employed by such hugely successful professional football clubs as Manchester City and Crewe Alexandra as both a coach and talent scout who helped develop the skills of a number of junior players that went onto the professional Premier League. With Premier the world's richest (£4.5bn in the 2016-17 season),[2] most watched soccer league,[3] featuring stars peddled by the pedophile, in recent decades the United Kingdom singlehandedly has jumpstarted the current obsession and popularity for the #1 international game of football. Again, just like the Catholic Church and Olympic US national teams in Swimming and Gymnastics, it was far more feasible for the sport's pedophile enablers at the top busily raking in billions to quietly reassign its pedo-coaches to different locations to do more damage rather than take any serious steps to protect child athletes and stop the tightly-under-wraps, rampant abuse from escalating into today's endemic crisis.

In addition to longtime employment as a scout and coach for junior teams at Manchester and Crewe Football Clubs (FCs), as an important side job from 1979 to 1981, no doubt to hone his predator skills, the serial child rapist worked at Taxal Edge residential school.[4] Historically children's group homes in the United Kingdom are pedophilia havens.[5] Raping and pillaging group homes complete with buried corpses[6] have been servicing the likes of Jimmy Savile,[7] PMs[8] and MPs[9] and the royals[10] for over half a century (topics covered thoroughly in the next couple chapters). In fact, Bennell's Taxal Edge co-worker and fellow pedophile is also currently under police investigation. The now 62-year old Bruce McLean worked at Taxal Edge from 1975 to 1978, and later founded the children's charity Adventure Farm Trust in Cheshire, receiving philanthropic support from actor Michael Cane and musician Phil Collins.[11]

As a volunteer football coach who must've known Barry Bennell, they both shared the same hankering for children down to even sharing the same grooming M.O. - escorting victims to Manchester football games and then abusing them afterwards.[12] McLean was arrested for molesting boys in a Cheshire group home in 1995 and in 1997 began a 9-year prison sentence while his cohort Bennell started his own 9-year sentence a year later in 1998. In 2014 the Derbyshire Police arrested McLean again after an investigation of historic child sex abuse involving a boy attending Taxal Edge dating back to the 1970s. And just like clockwork, a year later it was Bennell's turn to return to prison again. McLean represents an important link between Bennell, Manchester and Cheshire FCs, group home charities and a mutually active participation in the wider child sex abuse ring exploiting soccer lads.

The earliest report of Bennell's pedophilia dates back to 1972 when the derelict was only 18 or 19 years old.[13] Yan Nowacki, now 57 years old as Bennell's earliest known victim, claims he was a 13-year old Manchester City player when invited to a sleepover at Bennell's mother's home. While Yan slept he was awakened by the predator still pretending to be asleep groping his genitals and buttocks. The boy immediately sought refuge on the floor where he spent the remainder of his sleepless night untouched yet frozen in the predator's presence. Yan says that the warning signs were there from the start. In the locker room the young coach couldn't keep his hands off his players, religiously applying ointment on boys right up to their inner thighs just centimeters from their crotch.

Another relatively early and most detailed account of them all regarding Bennell's longtime abuse came from future professional baller Andy Woodward. His sexual assaults by Bennell commenced in 1984 when the shy 11-year old and his working class parents were approached by the eventually disgraced Crewe coach and talent scout.[14] Promising a shot at the pros, Bennell invited Woodward to train at the professional Crewe Alexandra club and spend weekends at his nearby residence to improve his skills. And just like the Penn State abuser's basement game room, this serial predator on the other side of the pond made sure his home was similarly decked out as a "child paradise," complete with a pool table, juke box, arcade games and a live pet monkey and a wild puma for entertainment along with all the football accessories and equipment… the perfect groomer's flytrap.

From the very start little did young Andy and his parents realize that he was being taken in by a coldblooded sexual predator. On his first visit the coach gifted him a pair of soccer cleats. Then on his second weekend stayover, Bennell asked Andy to come to his bed where, at the predator's direction, the game of "follow me" was played where they took turns touching each other.[15] By the third visit, the child rapist escalated his criminal advances quickly leading to rape and sodomy over the next four years.

Bennell regularly had two or three, or sometimes as many as a dozen kids staying with him over the weekend for years at a time. That should have been a red flag in and of itself to both the Manchester and Crewe football clubs. When each organization found out, they feebly told Bennell to stop the sleepovers.[16] But as long as the renowned scouting coach continued sending potential stars to the professional Premier League, the serial child rapist's employment always remained in good standing. Crewe's feeble admonishment is no different from the Penn State honchos telling Sandusky not to shower anymore with his victims over a decade before he was finally arrested.

One of Andy's teammates, Anthony Hughes, disclosed that a mini-bus would pick up 11 or 12 boys at a time and take them back to Bennell's home in Derbyshire:

There was plenty of things for us to play with, pinball, a jukebox, computer games. Then he'd put a video on of us playing football and analyze that. But once that finished, that's when he'd put on the porn, S&M type stuff. He had a great big stack of tapes in his house. He'd get us all sitting round watching it while he sat there stroking the back of your neck or putting his arm around your shoulder and stroking your chest and nipples. Or he'd give you a little tickle.[17]

The boys were too young to realize they were all being groomed as abuse victims. While most of them would sleep in bunkbeds at Bennell's house, the predator would select his favorites to join him in his room where rape and sodomy were on his wickedly twisted agenda.

A complainant who estimated being abused 100 times during Bennell's Manchester City years provided testimony to the police on the monster's bedroom assaults:

He was very clever - it was always lights off, music blaring out. I learned how to shut down. When it happened I could literally shut down my emotions. All I know is every time I was abused, part of me closed down. When the tears came out my face, I shut my body down. He'd abuse me and I'd have tears rolling down my cheeks. He didn't give a shit. That hurt. It didn't stop him.[18]

While on a tour to a training camp in North Wales, victims were taken to a large house in the middle of nowhere that they called "the Haunted House."[19] Another grooming tactic Bennell regularly utilized was to force the boys to watch horror films to obviously frighten them, availing opportunity for the sicko to initiate physical contact and predatorily move in closer for "the kill." Bennell would also mysteriously knock on their doors at night to scare them. To terrorize the lot of them, the demented sodomizer even resorted to placing a sheep's head in the bed of one of the boys.

While coaching and scouting talent at Manchester City from 1975 to 1982, a club director described Bennell as a "star maker."[20] A demo of the star maker's power was evidenced when a boy arrived to see the coach about joining City and was brutally sodomized that night. After "the worst day of my life," when the boy threatened to report Bennell the next morning, the "star maker" smugly replied:

> It wouldn't matter. Nobody would believe you. I've got people playing professional football now that I've done these things to - you're nothing.[21]

Even prior to Andy Woodward's abuse from 1984 to 1988, there was Ian Ackley who Bennell preyed on as his "main target" while at Manchester City, abusing Ian "hundreds of times" from 1979 to 1983. Note Bennell's chosen favorite victim switched at the same time the coach moved from working for Manchester to Crewe. In 1997 Ian Ackley was even featured divulging his horror story about sexual predator Bennell on the Channel 4 documentary Dispatches.[22] Despite boldly speaking out 20 years ahead of Andy Woodward, apparently no one was listening or watching as the British Football Association and the rest of the world seemingly ignored this first whistleblower's painfully shocking truth. Also from the 1997 doc we learn the fact that over two decades ago, before a national audience Charlton first team Coach Les Reed had already recognized there was a major pedophilia problem in the sport and was expressing his dire concerns way back when:

> The FA needs to come out of the towers at Lancaster Gate and really investigate what is going on.[23]

An FA spokesman asked to respond to Reed's statement back in January 1997 stated:

The FA has been a prime mover among sporting governing bodies to get an effective screening process which aids child protection.[24]

Now more than two decades later with the biggest pedo-epidemic in United Kingdom's sporting history blown up in its face, the UK Football Association is still desperately floundering, still vowing to change things around, only making yet more feeble broken promises. Again, if the FA was actually doing its job protecting children all along as it claimed in 1997, we wouldn't be where we're at right now. All these years later, FA's history only shows a complete lack of protecting child athletes, and if anything, it has incriminatingly demonstrated even more convincing evidence of a worldwide pedophilia network.

Britain's #1 sexual predator in football possessed nunchucks, a dangerous martial arts weapon with which he forced his victims to hold a newspaper up that he would use to violently tear in half as an overt demonstration delivering intimidation and bodily threat should any victim dare report his crimes.[25] If any boy resisted or complained, the coach would customarily bench the player or kick him off the team entirely, thereby throwing away the dream to reach the higher level. These all too familiar tactics echoed by pedo-coaches in other sport scandals were drummed into the fearful heads of their victims:

I can ruin your football tomorrow. Keep quiet or you're finished.[26]

Barry Bennell once admitted to police that his ideal target of a victim was 13 years of age because in his own words they were:

Pedigree footballers who were athletes and good-looking.[27]

Though he's on record having abused youth as young as 8 or 9, his preference was for older boys up to 15. Again in a police interview:

Nine-year-olds scared me because they were still attached to the [mothers'] apron strings.[28]

At will, the charismatic, larger-than-life soccer ace was able to get away with sexually assaulting his many victims hundreds of times, taking full advantage of both his sterling reputation as a first class talent spotter and the fact that he was spotting boys far less prone to reporting abuse than girls, much less rough and tough footballers entertaining big dreams in the manly sport where young players rarely admit to the submissive victimization of sodomy.

Moreover, amongst the players and club personnel, it was widely known that Barry Bennell was a child molester. Rumors of Barry Bennell's twisted sexual appetite were widely circulating by the late 1970s and early 1980s, amongst both Manchester City club personnel where he coached for 7 years from 1978 to 1985 and later at Crewe from 1985 to 1992.[29] But in the world of jocks, to be labeled an abuse victim is tantamount to being branded "gay" or a "weak sissy boy." It was no secret around the junior league clubs, the pervert coach's players were taunted as members of "the paedophile club."[30] Amongst the players not abused, it became an insider's secret joke, but fearing loss of their dream to go pro, pedophilia was virtually never spoken of beyond the locker room. Another reason why the abuse went on for so long, like in every pedo-scandal, upon reporting abuse, victims are never believed and are only subject to rejection, ridicule and more abuse.

One Manchester City employee admitted:

Suspicions about him [Bennell] were aired on many an occasion.[31]

A former Manchester City youth coach, Steve Fleet, risked losing his job in the late 1970s when he vehemently complained to the City executives that Barry Bennell was placing young boys in their organization at grave risk.[32] Yet knowing Bennell was a hardcore sexual predator, Manchester was relieved to off the pedophile to rival Crewe Alexandra, of course not saying a word about his criminal habit as a liability.

Police documents show that Manchester's senior staff, among them chief scout Ken Barnes, have been "quite evasive" and hard put explaining why Bennell left their organization, other than citing "irregularities." It was Barnes who defended Bennell, calling him a "star maker" when Steve Fleet sternly warned the directors at City about his deviant proclivities. Then in the 1997 Channel 4 documentary Dispatches, Ken Barnes even made light of Bennell's criminality that at the time had him sitting in a US prison, joking:

What do you call them? Piddyphiles, is it?[33]

Soon enough Barry Bennell was Crewe Alexandra's problem. And in the role of Manchester's Steve Fleet at Crewe was Hamilton Smith, managing director from 1986 to 1990 who maintains that in the late 1980s, he directly warned Crewe's executive board about Bennell's criminal activities but was completely ignored.[34] Like Manchester, all the higher-ups at Crewe also claim they never had a clue Bennell was a pedophile. Obstinate in their denial right to the bitter end, as recently as March 2018, Crewe released a 925 word statement reneging on its earlier promise to conduct a thorough internal investigation to determine if Crewe had engaged in a cover-up to protect both itself and Bennell.[35] In early March the organization had announced that it would forego launching the earlier promised internal review, citing its feeble excuse that the Cheshire Police (not unlike Alice's Cheshire cat) had allegedly concluded that no one at Crewe ever knew that a pedophile employee was in their midst (where have we heard that before?).

Moreover, the deceitful pedo enabling League Two club even made the bogus claim that the current Crewe president John Bowler, a board member since 1979, denied any recollection that Hamilton Smith reported complaints about the child rapist to him, his board or longtime Crewe football director Dario Gradi.[36] Smith's response promptly called John Bowler out as a "lying bastard."[37]

In the wake of Woodward's bombshell and subsequent additional charges filed in November 2016 against Bennell, the FA banned Dario Gradi as longtime Crewe manager for allegedly allowing Bennell to rape boys at will during the seven years under his watch. The Crewe manager and onetime Chelsea assistant manager was also accused of attempting to "smooth over" a victim's sexual abuse complaint back in 1975 at the hands of now deceased pedophile Chelsea scout Ted Heath[38] (note identical namesake of the child raping UK prime minister[39]). Gradi met with 14-year old pro prospect Eamonn Manners and his father at their home to hear Eamonn explain the sexually inappropriate, unwanted advances Chelsea's scout "Eddie" Heath had heaped on him a few days earlier.[40] Gradi brushed it all off, pretending Eamonn had misunderstood Heath's "good" intentions:

> Dario said that Eddie loved the boys and the club, which was his life, and had simply got carried away and gone too far.[41]

With still a CYA Cheshire cat smile on his face, assistant coach Gradi left Eamonn's home and nothing was ever done to stop the serial predator from sexually abusing countless other boys over the next 8 years until Health's death in 1983. Eamonn Manners was expected to turn pro but instead, feeling unprotected and unsafe knowing his child molester lurking about wasn't going anywhere, after several months the disempowered, unheard 15-year old gave up his close at hand achievable dream to play professional football and left the Chelsea team confused, perplexed and angry.

After Andy Woodward's November 2016 confession to The Guardian, 57-year old Eamonn decided to forego his confidentiality rights in order to tell his revealing story to the Daily Mail, how Gradi swept knowledge of his scout's serial pedophilia under the carpet, just as he did for Bennell at Crewe several years later. In fact, Dario Gradi has spent his entire football career as a pedophile enabler. But then with it common knowledge throughout the Premier League clubs that coaches, scouts and football officials were rampantly molesting its underage players, it was every enabler's systemic duty to simply look the other way, just as at Penn State, USA Swimming, USA Gymnastics, USA Taekwondo, USA Skating, USA Volleyball, in fact all worldwide Olympic sports where big money and big power rule.

Gradi even wrote a letter on Bennell's behalf to the Florida court in 1994 attempting to reduce the convicted pedophile's four year prison sentence, all the while knowing Bennell was a guilty pedophile.[42] Gradi even openly knew and allowed Bennell to have boys stay with him overnight at Bennell's home.[43] As if Gradi's despicably scandalous behavior isn't incriminating enough, additionally it's been reported to BBC that an employee at Crewe Alexandra was ordered in 2001 to remove child pornography from Gradi's home computer.[44] Now you know why a complicit UK Football Association exercising damage control, without explanation suspended Gradi as too heavy a liability burden once the scandal broke in late 2016 and has yet to explain its reasons. But they're rather obvious.

Prior to Eamonn Manners’ sexual abuse disclosure, his onetime Chelsea teammate Gary Johnson who went pro also went public with his story. Two weeks after the Woodward interview, the 57-year old former Chelsea first teamer waived his anonymity to talk to the Daily Mail, revealing that one of the richest football organizations in the world paid him £50,000 as hush money to stay quiet over the Heath abuse[45]… just like USA Gymnastics did with Makayla Maroney. Made to sign a non-disclosure statement accepting Chelsea’s non-liability as part of the deal, once Andy Woodward broke the pedo-scandal wide open, Gary defied Chelsea’s agreement and reported that the team’s chief scout Ted Heath sexually assaulted him starting at age 13 three or four times a week totaling hundreds of times in the 1970s. Not wanting the negative publicity generated if Chelsea challenged Johnson on his breaking the confidentiality agreement, again just like US Gymnastics, it opted to back down once he went public. In 2014 Gary Johnson even went to the Metropolitan Police to report the abuse only to be told to go back to Chelsea. But when he did, he was given the customary runaround:

> What makes me so angry is that I went to Chelsea to say I had been abused and they basically said, ‘prove it.’ It made me feel like they thought I was faking it, that's how it felt anyway.[46]

Virtually every elite team in the Premier League, just as virtually every police department in the United Kingdom, has a long running shady history of shielding its legions of serial pedophiles in high places from all accountability. Yet another linkage of the pedophilia child sex ring is the fact that this particular pedophile in question - Chelsea chief scout pedophile Eddie Heath, actually trained the other Premier League pedophile scout Barry Bennell… the ever-familiar, more “birds of a feather” theme.[47]

After victims of Bennell along with Crewe's member in parliament already blasted Crewe Alexandra for its refusal to look into its criminal past (as if its investigation would have been objective), under increasing pressure, the Crewe football organization continues ignoring its complicit role in covering up its widespread abuse for decades. In March 2018 UK parliament member and chairman of the culture, media and sport select committee, Damian Collins, joined this growing chorus condemning Crewe's refusal to examine its cover-up role, calling it "totally unacceptable," and engendering a complete "lack of trust."[48] Collins has subsequently emphasized the double importance of the UK Football Association to leave no stone unturned in its ongoing inquiry into Crewe and the other city clubs over their overt obstruction of justice and complete mishandling of years of rampant pedophilia within its ranks that's led directly to this current epidemic crisis, including revealing specific reasons for Dario Gradi's recent suspension 15 months after he was prohibited from all football activity back in November 2016.

Yet recently in March 2018 after his 14 month exile, Dario Gradi resurfaced, granted an invitation to attend a testimonial for a fellow Crewe Alexandra colleague, and received a standing ovation,[49] sending the blatantly clear message that Crewe deceitfully protecting its own criminality is highly lauded. Hard to say which is more shameful and disgraced, the pedo-enabling organization or its pedo-enabling former manager.

Once Crewe board member Hamilton Smith warned the club that Bennell was a hardened pedophile, the organization decided to maintain Bennell's employment as long as the child rapist ceased his sleepovers and was not left alone with his players,[50] conditions the repeat offender never obviously complied with. Crewe lied when claiming Bennell departed for "football reasons" in 1992 when in fact he was two days away from parents filing a formal complaint against him, corroborated by the sicko himself admitting he left Crewe over a complaint.[51] The bottom line is Bennell was hired by club after club in city after city - Manchester City, Crewe, Stoke City, Leeds United,[52] Derbyshire, Staffordshire, and Cheshire, followed all the while by his not-so-secret reputation as the pedophile with the voracious boy toy appetite.[53]

The truth that Bennell's "nine lives" as a serial child rapist was connected to a larger pedophilia network explains why he was allowed to repeatedly prey on boys for over four decades before ultimately issued his death sentence earlier this year. Similar to Coach Sandusky and Olympic organization scandals, there is clear evidence that Barry Bennell shared victims with other pedophiles within a child sex ring network.[54]

According to the Mirror, Bennell and Manchester based coach and scout Frank Roper and other pedophiles in the soccer world swapped their victims as part of the larger pedo-network.[55] 47-year old Jason Dunford maintains that within an hour after he was dropped from Bennell's squad, his brand new coach-to-be Frank Roper was literally knocking at his door to arrange his turn at molesting the 13-year old boy. After fighting off Bennell's advances at a holiday camp in Wales and then catching the pedo-coach prowling a boys' caravan at a tournament, smelling trouble, Bennell swiftly kicked Jason off his team but not before contacting his pedo-buddy Frank Roper who coached a rival squad affiliated with the Blackpool Football Club and has since been posthumously accused of abusing 31 boys.[56] Jason asserts that:

> Within an hour of that decision he [Roper] had hit the doorbell and the form was there; in those days your parents had to sign a form.[57]

Confirming that Bennell was working with other pedophiles like Roper from other Premier League clubs, Dunford's steadfast claim that his abusers were part of a larger child sex ring has also been backed up by other victims, coaches and football officials.[58]

In addition to sodomizing Jason Dunford, Frank Roper sexually abused another English football star, the now 53-year old Paul Stewart, who like Woodward has stated that Roper sexually assaulted him on a daily basis from age 11 to 15.[59] A week and a half after Andy's November 2016 bombshell, England's former striker and midfielder Paul Stewart emerged from the shadows to reveal to the world his torture endured on the way to professional stardom, keeping his dark secret to himself for over 40 years. As is common for perpetrators to use death threats, Roper threatened to kill Paul's father, mother and two brothers if he ever breathed a word. To normalize the abuse, his deviant coach told Paul that an opposing coach Barry Bennell was also "doing" his players. The 1991 FA Cup winner with the Tottenham Hotspurs turned to alcohol, cocaine and other drugs to later cope with the chronic effects, breaking down emotionally when he admitted the abuse stopped him from even hugging his wife of 29 years or telling his two daughters and son that he loved them. Again, being raped as a child is a lifelong curse. Paul Stewart lamented:

I want to be able to show affection that has been the worst aspect of it, them not being able to get close to me.[60]

Incidentally in 2003 another Roper victim reported his abuse to Liverpool police but no action was taken and two years later, like both pedophile Heaths, Roper also left this earth without paying for his woeful sins.[61] And just like the Chelsea police with Gary Johnson, this non-response may well be more evidence of police once again protecting the larger pedophilia network as foxes guarding the henhouse.

To CYA, Liverpool Police have since reopened a supposed internal investigation of its own oversighted “negligence.”

Still another longtime youth coach whose name keeps coming up since November 2016 in too many abuse victims’ reported incidents is 65-year old Southampton coach Bob Higgins, subsequently charged with 50 counts of indecent sexual assault of minors from 1971 to 1996.[62] At least two dozen of his former players have accused him of sexual assault, one testifying it was a regular twice a week occurrence. Complainants have testified that they were molested in Higgins’ home, his car, on ferries, at tournaments and camps. Accusers at Higgins’ current criminal trial at Salisbury Crown Court have named four teammates who enjoyed successful professional careers, one being Alan Shearer, former captain of England’s national team.[63] These favorites called “Bob’s boys” were allegedly close to Coach Higgins, some staying overnight at the accused pedophile’s residence, though none of the four former pros have yet to publicly comment on just how intimate their relationship with their former coach was.

So far since the Woodward bombshell, at least ten coaches have been charged with historical sexual abuse, one has since died and seven are either convicted as offending pedophiles, or currently on trial or awaiting sentencing. As one of 17 ongoing city police investigations into this epidemic in early December 2016 just two weeks after the Woodward revelations, Manchester police already identified ten suspects based on reported abuse from 35 victims in its jurisdiction alone.[64]

Still another repeat offender, already jailed in 2002 for a string of pedophilic incidents involving pro baller Derek Bell and others, former junior coach and scout for Newcastle United George Ormond is currently back in court facing 36 more counts of indecent assault, one count of indecency with a child and one for sodomy.[65] Back in the 1970s Derek Bell was abused from age 12 to 16 by George Ormond.[66]

In Ormond's ongoing trial, it was learned that former Newcastle United's manager John Carver was informed in the spring of 1997 while Carver was lead coach of Newcastle's youth program that Newcastle United's Derek Bell made accusations against Carver's assistant coach Ormond.[67] Yet Carver chose to do nothing, allowing Ormond to continue traveling with the team working with his underage players. When asked why he did not take action, Carver explained to the Newcastle Crown Court that he first "needed to digest it." Though Carver was Ormond's boss, he never did digest it enough to even bother confronting his pedophile assistant, allowing him to continue to likely abuse more youth until his departure over a year later. Because neither Newcastle United investigated Ormond nor were the police ever notified to investigate, it was Derek Bell himself who reported Ormond to the police finally in January 2001.[68] Obviously this is yet another clear case of another Premier League team caught up engaging in yet another cover-up.

Meanwhile in Ireland and Scotland, still another case making the current headlines involves 72-year old Jim McCafferty who pleaded guilty to seven offenses molesting boys in the 1980s and while a Celtic FC youth coach in the 1990s.[69] His court sentencing is scheduled in June 2018. This ever-widening shameful scandal rocking the United Kingdom seems to have no end.

Just like all the rest of the pedo-sports scandals, for decades nothing was ever done to stop these known maniacal predators. Identical to the serial child rapists wearing priestly garb, protected by enabling bishops, cardinals and popes, influential soccer coaches and scouts affiliated with professional Premier League teams delivering sexually abused athletes to the pros have also been shielded by club owners, club personnel and sport association executives allowing offenders to quietly drift, free to harm yet more victims, apparently protected by a complicit, asleep-at-the-wheel British Football Association (FA) as well as the thoroughly corrupt, scandal-ridden FIFA as the presiding international football governing body (see Chapter 17 on FIFA). History shows that all Olympic sports worldwide are steeped in the same global pedophilia network and child athlete sex trafficking system.

To stem blowback from the unfolding scandal, in late November 2016 UK's Football Association launched an inquiry into many of its clubs guilty of child negligence, cover-up and obstruction of justice, promising to punish clubs in violation of laws and rules,[70] such as providing hush money in the Chelsea case to Gary Johnson. Within a few days of Woodward's eye opening lowdown, the FA announced:

We are working closely with the police to support their lead investigations and must ensure we do not do anything to interfere with or jeopardize the criminal process.[71]

If history is repeated, the above statement in code word encryption means: "With assistance from UK law enforcement, we will do our best to seal off the truth to ensure that top tiers of the global pedophilia cabal remain protected." If the UK Football Association is genuine, its probe will uncover the nation's "institutional failure to protect children,"[72] the very thing it said it was committed to doing 21 years ago. But if platitudes vowing to clean up its act are anything like USA Gymnastics and USA Swimming (see Chapter 17), expect its abysmal track record as this sport's national governing body and chief cover-upper to only continue to fail its child athletes in obedience to the elite's globalized pedo-network.

As an aside, Chelsea FC owner since 2003 - Russian billionaire oligarch Roman Abramovich’s visa extension was delayed by the UK government in May 2018, requiring him to explain how he made his fortune prior to 2003 as, per the global cabal, London-Moscow relations have soured. So due to his visa denial, in late May Abramovich was forced to miss his Chelsea team defeat Manchester City for the FA Cup title and instead acquire Israeli citizenship having already purchased a large estate outside Tel Aviv.[73] Since Israeli citizens do not need visas for short stays in Britain, for now the mogul is forced to spend less time at his three UK mansions. Meanwhile, any actual consequence that the British FA may levy against his Chelsea FC for its illicit hush fund and its other improprieties remain to be seen.

Though mainstream media’s job is to either pretend a global child sex trafficking network doesn’t exist at all, or when another serial pedophile does get outed in the press and cannot be avoided, the across-the-board MSM scripted focus never deviates from its “lone gunman” fake news narrative, concentrating virtually all its coverage on one identified sexual monster, be it Sandusky, Nassar or Bennell as the standardized, formulaic sleight of hand strategy to distract, divert and cover-up the global elephant in the room - the planetary controllers’ pedophilia network that’s always covertly behind every tip of the iceberg scandal ever exposed. And the Barry Bennell scandal is no different.

That said, Barry Bennell’s egregious criminal record is very telling in that the global network cabal has largely been his enabling protector beginning with his earliest known pedophilia in 1972 all the way up to his 2018 death sentence. With a little less help from the power elite - royalty and other planetary kingpins that allowed him to be convicted and sent to prison on four separate occasions only to get out of jail and resume offending ad nauseam, his highly prolific, near half century crime spree to a great extent parallels the infamous Luciferian himself Sir Jimmy Savile's, which is the main topic taken up in the next ever-revealing chapter.

In the November 2016 Guardian article we learned that Andy Woodward and hundreds of others were raped in the pervert Bennell's home, in his car, during tournament trips and youth football camps, even at Andy's own family home whenever the pedophile stayed overnight.[74] His mother would ask Andy why he was always so quiet but the young soccer player couldn't reveal his shameful secret. As if this wasn't excruciatingly insufferable enough, matters quickly turned from bad to worse when, to Andy's horrifying chagrin, at age 14 his wickedly abusive home wrecker began dating Andy's 16-year old sister that the monster over twice her age would soon be marrying in just two years. According to Woodward:

> It was like a double whammy and he would try to abuse me sometimes even with my sister in the same house. Later, when their relationship became public, he would come round for Sunday dinner every weekend, sitting with my mum and dad and my family, laughing and joking. I was so frightened of him I just had to suffer in silence.[75]

Imagine the seething anger, dread and hatred Andy must have felt witnessing his rapist having sex with his barely legal aged sister and then watching her marry the monster in 1991:

> I had to attend that wedding, standing in the church when I really wanted to rip his throat out. It was torture - that's the only word to describe it.[76]

After enduring four long years of his traumatizing nightmare, then adding insult to injury, forced to accept the reality that his evil pedovore brother-in-law was married to his sister, all this caused the young man's world to insidiously crumble from inside out. Despite Andy's innate athletic skills that carried him to the professional league as a Sheffield United and Bury defender among several other teams, his concentration on the field during his decade long career from 1992 to 2002 persistently suffered and his recurring anxiety, depressive and PTSD symptoms had him injury prone, both physically and psychically. To cover up ongoing panic attacks during a game, Andy would resort to faking a physical injury.[77] By age 29, Andy Woodward's professional career was already washed up due to the debilitating lasting effects from his chronic abuse. It wasn't until the predatory beast was well on his way to destroying both Woodward and his family that Andy finally opened up to disclose his protracted ordeal for the first time, after receiving a knock on his door from the police in 1998.

But first let's examine Bennell's nine lives as a most vile career criminal within the international judicial system beginning with his first arrest a near quarter century after he began sodomizing underage boys. In 1994 while still married to Andy Woodward's sister, Bennell was arrested in Jacksonville, Florida after sexually assaulting a 13-year old English boy attending a soccer camp and did four years in US jail for that offense.[78] The Florida police characterized the pedophile as having "almost an insatiable appetite" for brutally raping young boys.[79] With an already established child rape conviction and reputation as a voracious serial predator under his belt, in September 1997 Bennell was deported from an American prison to face more charges in 1998 back in England. That knock on Andy Woodward's door in 1998 resulted in Andy's anonymous testimony, along with five other Bennell victims aged 9 to 15, to once again temporarily put the pedo-fiend out of commission for a second incarceration lasting nine years.

That same year 1998, Andy's sister left her derelict husband ending their 7-year marriage. Her tormented younger brother finally mustered up the nerve to tell his family about his dark shameful past secret. Though it came as a terrible shock for Andy's sister and their parents to learn that Bennell sexually abused Andy and many other boys for years without their knowing, just getting the truth out and helping to send his abuser to prison where he permanently belongs had Andy Woodward playing the best soccer of his 10-year professional career.[80]

Immediately after the pedophile jailbird got out of prison in 2007, Bennell was somehow able to afford a luxury holiday in the Canary Islands where he enticed a married woman vacationing with her family to begin engaging in an extramarital affair.[81] The devastated husband of the woman he'd spent the last 20 years of his life with whom he shared their 9-year old son and 11-year old daughter maintains that once back home in England, his wife arranged a secret rendezvous with Bennell in London under the pretense of Christmas shopping. A short time later she left a note stating, "I've gone and won't be coming back." Her abandoning her family for Bennell left the kids crying under their beds and the husband suffering a massive heart attack and life-saving triple bypass operation. His now ex-wife apparently became the pedophile's loyal living companion. And both she and the daughter continue visiting the derelict in prison, blindly insisting that he is innocent of all charges (just like the Sandusky wife and kids save one). Of course back in 2007 unaware that Bennell was a child rapist, the jilted hubby went to the press earlier this year to bitterly recall his Canary Island creepy encounter with his version of home wrecker Bennell:

> He [Bennell] was there, lounging around, boasting about his money and his cars and his big house, how he'd been a football coach in the US. He was full of himself. But he only told half the story didn't he? He forgot to mention that he was a paedophile who'd done two stints in jail. He loved > sunbathing, tanning himself up, sitting round the pool, watching the kids. I'd take the kids to the beach but my wife would stay chatting with him.[82]

The husband added:

> Before this we were a happy family. I never thought she would go for him. He was an old man, he wasn't even good looking. He had this young lad with him, in his mid-20s, who he said was his career. He'd carry his bags and drive if they went out.[83]

Strange how fresh out of the joint, an aging sicko "boy lover" who keeps getting locked up for rape could afford a lavish holiday vacationing in the islands with a hired boy toy in tow making time with a soon-to-be adulterous wife… unless he was being sponsored by a larger pedo-network shielding him as in both the Sandusky and Nassar cases. Once released from prison, again like the rest of the designated pedo-monsters, every chance they get, Barry and company are at it again, allowed to continue unabated violating hundreds more victims. The pedo-system, with its revolving door policy, grants pedophiles a repeated free pass to seemingly inflict unlimited harm on society, in this case on young English soccer playing aspirants to the Premier League that betrayed both their trust and their dreams.

A third arrest was made in 2015 after charges were raised of raping a 12-year old attending a youth course in Macclesfield in 1980.[84] Yet incredibly, the now three time convicted pedophile received the lightest sentence of his 43-year old criminal career - just two years. Again, invisible protection from above seems the most plausible possible explanation considering over two decades earlier international law enforcement had already become aware of this child rapist's "insatiable [global] appetite." The slap on the hand and resultant little publicity generated from this

2015 case ultimately prompted an incensed Andy Woodward who'd kept his secret hidden from the public for over three decades to decide it was finally time to courageously reveal the horrible truth about his past in a mid-November 2016 Guardian interview.[85]

As if he could simply shed his skin and escape his hellish past, upon release from his third prison stint, Barry Bennell has been passing himself off as Richard Jones,[86] a nondescript name to assimilate into society if there ever was one. But as the expression goes, a pedo-leopard can never change its spots. To this day, Andy Woodward's singular public confession opened up this never ending floodgate of thousands of British men and boys coming forth to report their own sexual trauma as youth playing athletes, similar to the Boston Globe's 2002 scandal-breaking bombshell that exposed the Catholic Church pedophilia on a systemic industrial scale operating worldwide for many scores if not centuries.

By age 43, Andy had spent the prior decade and a half since his pro-career retirement working a dozen years in a police department while psychologically working on himself fulltime to heal the grave emotional scars that have been in his words, "the massive, horrible burden" haunting the previous 32 years of his tormented life:

> I think the main reason I had to do this was because I've gone through hell, I've gone through problems with my relationships, my poor ex-wives have suffered, my children have suffered, they haven't had the dad that they should, I've had nervous breakdowns. It got to the point now where I've had the therapy now that I felt strong enough, and it's always been in my stomach, I knew what went on at the time, I knew how many victims have been involved in this.[87]

Though the untold damage and heavy wreckage the serial predator inflicted on Andy, his sister and parents were devastating beyond words, Andy Woodward suspected that “hundreds” (more like thousands) of other victims just like him were also suffering from decades’ worth of this enormously agonizing, life reducing hardship. And he was right. Because he was strong enough to make sufficient progress in overcoming this lifelong trauma from totally destroying his life, he knew he had to divulge, educate and alert the public of this endemic cancer that has spread throughout both his and his homeland’s beloved sport. For his own salvation and the salvation of so many others struggling with these chronic crippling effects of childhood sexual abuse, from his own harrowing perspective, Andy had to lay bare this scourge of pedophilia. In his words:

> Only now, at the age of 43, I feel I can actually live without that secret and that massive, horrible burden. I want to get it out and give other people an opportunity to do the same. I want to give people strength. I survived it. I lost my career, which was a massive thing for me, but I’m still here. I came through the other side. Other people can have that strength.[88]

Instinctively the parasitic vultures always know who the most vulnerable, defenseless kids are to hone in and prey on. From the quiet one himself:

> He would always pick the soft ones with the quiet parents who were less likely to challenge him.[89] I was soft-natured, too, and it was the softer, weaker boys Bennell targeted.[90]

On at least ten occasions a suicidal Andy Woodward was on the verge of killing himself by hanging, carbon monoxide, pills, you name it.[91] But he was lucky, the overwhelming despair and pain experienced by likely victims of the sadistic sodomizer proved too much to bear for at least four identified former Bennell players.[92] The most celebrated was the Welsh star and Wales national manager Gary Speed who hung himself at the age of 42 in 2011.

Along with suicide, alcohol and drug addiction as unhealthy coping mechanisms for self-medicating the psychic pain, anxiety, depression, recurring flashbacks and nightmares are commonplace symptoms lingering even years and decades after the abuse. In so many cases for victims, it’s a lifelong condition that shortens life by an average of twenty years.[93]

Andy Woodward boldly going public with the horrors that Bennell perpetrated on him was the crack in the wall that ultimately broke this scandalous UK dike as hundreds of victims began calling the established national helpline and local police stations to reveal the pedophilic crimes of not just Bennell as the MSM designated monster but hundreds of other monster coaches, scouts and football personnel. As of February 2018, during the ensuing 15 months since Andy Woodward’s Guardian interview, 293 other suspects (besides Bennell) have been identified.[94] Within 13 months of the interview, 839 victims have emerged reporting 2,094 incidents involving 334 different clubs. We know that many more sexually abused males are far less apt to report incidents than those who do, so it’s safe to accurately conclude that, like the devil-incarnate from the entertainment field Jimmy Savile, this devil-incarnate from the sports field also brutally assaulted children well into the thousands. With Bennell just one sexual predator amongst thousands, and likely millions worldwide, each abusing a number of victims, and today we currently face the plague of the ages that all of us must reckon with and fight against. No exaggeration, it’s literally life or death time for humanity.

Andy Woodward’s confession outed one of the most prolific serial pedophiles in UK history (perhaps right behind Jimmy Savile), triggering the largest police investigation into sexual abuse in Great Britain’s history.[95] Pedophilia saturating United Kingdom soccer as well as its government, entertainment, and aristocracy class is unparalleled, unprecedented, and on an industrial scale. But outside the victims, the perps, and other insiders within the sport, until recently no one actually knew just how colossal this epidemic really is. And this is just in one sport in one nation alone, albeit the pedophilia epicenter of the entire earth.

But pedophilia scandals in youth football are not just limited to the British alone. A current child sex abuse ring has been discovered within the world’s most popular sport in Brazil, where in April 2018 Andy Woodward was invited as a consultant to assist in combatting that nation’s enormous pedo-epidemic.[96] Also in neighboring Argentina a pedophilia scandal is now growing in soccer as well as other Olympic club sports.[97] Clearly the worldwide pedophilia network has long been tapped into and exploiting the seemingly unlimited source of 45 million kids in the US alone playing organized sports.[98] And as of 2007, 22 million registered youth worldwide are playing soccer alone,[99] offering an ever-expanding pool of potential victims to the evil ones.

Because after November 16, 2016, 86 more Barry Bennell victims joined Andy Woodward admitting he violated and destroyed their childhood innocence as well,[100] days later Liverpool Crown Court was compelled to re-charge the pedophilic scout-coach with yet more sex abuse crimes committed against a dozen young boys between the ages of 8 and 15 from 1979 to 1991 from the Manchester City and Crewe Alexandra clubs alone. The five and a half week trial in January and February 2018 led to Bennell’s fourth conviction, this time on 50 counts carrying a sentence of 31 more years behind bars, placing the current 64-year old in prison until age 95.[101] And having undergone cancer of the tongue already, like Sandusky and Nassar in America, Bennell will die in prison.

In a parallel process with the Nassar court, last February intense, emotional impact statements were heard in Liverpool Crown Court from a half dozen of Bennell's victims confronting their rapist during his sentencing hearing. Former Manchester City youth player Chris Unsworth stated that as an adult he was compelled to undergo vasectomy surgery due to the chronic abuse carried out over a hundred times by perpetrator Bennell, leaving Chris with an "overwhelming fear" he could never protect any children he may have from predators like his former coach:

I could not risk the same horrendous abuse happening to them.[102]

When Judge Clement Goldstone QC sentenced Bennell to 31 years, he described the monster as "sheer evil":

To those boys you appeared as a god... in reality you were the devil incarnate. You stole their childhoods and their innocence.[103]

Outside court a vindicated Andy Woodward commented:

No sentence is long enough for that man and right to the death he didn't show any remorse or say sorry to anyone. I'm proud that I did speak out. If I hadn't have done, we all wouldn't be stood here now today.[104]

Due to the sheer volume of Bennell victims, over seven times the dozen that legally put him away for the next three decades, the 17 still ongoing police investigations may result in Bennell's further prosecution. Scores of his abuse victims are also rightfully filing civil suits against Crewe, Manchester City and numerous other clubs for knowingly harboring serial pedophiles in addition to suits being brought against the UK Football Association as the full criminal culpability and criminality of the larger pedo-network get uncovered. It’s no accident earlier this year that gymnastics victims in America and soccer victims in the United Kingdom have been simultaneously fighting back through their respective justice systems. Finally, the pedophilia crime cabal is reckoning with its Achilles heel and is on the run, desperately using its MSM propaganda machine to squelch and deny the truth. But at this point in history, unlike all the time prior on this earth, the truth will not and cannot be stopped.

As in every other pedophilia scandal to date, overwhelming evidence exists indicating that for years the larger pedo-system was in place not only operating to protect the UK’s soccer scandal’s designated monster but also his peers and their higher-ups in this now familiar Luciferian food chain. It confirms the deeper truth behind every pedo-scandal spanning every sport and beyond - that in every instance the elite power structure that runs this world isn’t just a complicit enabler, it is the very source of this planet’s current pedophilia plague inflicting untold damage to every tentacled corner of the globe.

In November 2016 just as America’s pre-election Pizzagate scandal was reaching fever pitch exposing the Clinton-Podesta-Obama connection to Washington DC’s major child sex trafficking ring, the courageous Andy Woodward became the first professional footballer to come out of the skeleton-filled pedo-closet unveiling the rampant scourge long infesting the most prized British sport of all. Despite their life-altering sexual trauma, heroic victim-turned-survivors like Andy Woodward, as well as Makayla Maroney and Jennifer Raisman from US Gymnastics, manage to achieve ultimate success and fame in their chosen sports, then bravely go public with their shocking dark secrets, thus becoming the empowering voice of millions of abused children worldwide, irreparably harmed and even murdered by the Luciferian killing machine. These courageous souls and all victims who bravely report the ugly truth at great peril to themselves should all be exalted as our modern day heroes.

Joining the growing number of voices for justice last February outside the Liverpool courtroom facing the press were three of Bennell's victims from an organization called Offside Trust, started by ex-professional players in November 2016 that serves to end abuse in sports while supporting victims of child abuse. Steve Walters, Mickey Fallon and Chris Unsworth read their statements aloud. The following impassioned passage was delivered by Chris:

Our justice is your justice, your suffering is our suffering. We stand together and together we have this message to all those who abuse children or turned a blind eye or cover up child sex abuse - your time is up. Our case was about abuse that took place decades ago but child sex abuse is happening today and it is destroying lives. Families are wrecked, relationships are poisoned and some wounds can never be healed. But from this tragedy there is hope. The healing journey of survivors is a difficult road, but one we no longer walk alone. Thanks to organizations like the Offside Trust, survivors are supported. Unspoken truths and frightened whispers have turned into powerful voices.[105]

Though the earth is endemically controlled by sub-human pedovores atop the food chain, nowhere is it more deeply rooted than at its very epicenter - the United Kingdom, where Lucifer's hold in Freemasonry and the occult has secretly flourished for many centuries. And no other pedo-scandal connects the demonic dots more illustratively and empirically than the Jimmy Savile case covered fully in the next chapter.

And the designated pedophilia monster of the world [conveniently for him discovered after he died] goes to… [Drumroll please] – Sir Jimmy Savile of Great Britain, the pedophilia epicenter of the earth! He epitomizes the sleazy “charismatic” psychopath who finagles his way into the innermost sanctum of the British royals and top United Kingdom politicians as not only their intimate confidante, but their longtime pimp as well. All the while, via the telly for over half a century recognized as a humanitarian fundraiser for children’s charities, Sir Jimmy Savile played his dutifully deceptive public role of eccentric, clownish showman masquerading as a saint for institutionalized, bedridden British children in order to cover up his hidden-in-plain-sight sick crimes as a twisted sexual predator from Hell, covertly getting his rocks off raping both dead corpses and thousands of the most vulnerable, defenseless kids trapped inside British group homes and hospitals with creepiest, unprecedented 24/7 access of any human alive.

A brief intro to James Wilson Vincent Savile (October 31, 1926-Ocober 29, 2011) offers some very telling clues. Savile was the youngest of seven children (with four sisters and two brothers) born on Halloween to working class Roman Catholic parents in Leeds in northern England. Fitting that he always promoted his Halloweenish, ghoulishly creepy image as the wildly unpredictable eccentric prankster-trickster while a not-so-secret lover of dead corpses, Satanist practitioner of ancient occult rituals at the same time pretending to be a devout Catholic would enter this world on Halloween, with its pagan origin the Celtic new year's eve as well as eve of the Day of the Dead and the later Catholic makeover All Saints Day.[1] His mother Agnes' birthday was the day after his on All Saints Day of the Dead.[2] The Celts believed that their favorite deity, the sun god, during the coming winter months was taken prisoner by Samhain, the Lord of the Dead and Prince of Darkness, no doubt something by misdeed that the shady, dark character Savile would secretly identify with and fashion himself after.

Though relatively little has been written about Savile's boyhood, as the seventh and final offspring born to a financially strapped, large family raised during the Great Depression era of the 1930s, Savile has claimed that his arrival was unplanned and unwanted.[3] His father made meager earnings as a bookmaker clerk and insurance salesman.[4] At the age of two, it's been reported that Jimmy Savile nearly died of a life threatening illness, probably pneumonia, with the doctor fearing the worst, leaving a death certificate at his bedside.[5] But as Savile tells it, suddenly the toddler bounced back from the near dead, his sister calling it a miracle. Their mother had rushed off to pray at Leeds St. Anne's Cathedral where she found a pamphlet introducing the Scottish nun Margaret Sinclair who had died three years earlier at age 25, just over a half century prior to the pope in 1978 elevating her to Venerable status.[6] Per Savile, by the time Agnes returned home, little Jimmy had made a complete and instant recovery, attributing his mother's prayers invoking divine intervention from the Scottish factory girl nun as his lifesaver. Along with others, his testimonial was sent to Rome for review in efforts to enshrine nun Margaret Sinclair as a saint. Perhaps his love affair for would-be saint Margaret spilled over five decades later in his “love” for Margaret Thatcher. Their unholy pedophilia alliance is fully covered in Chapter 21.

The Emergency Powers Act conscripted Savile as a teen during World War II to work as a Bevin Boy in the mines but an alleged spinal back injury caused by a mine explosion apparently liberated him from the drudgery and hard labor as a miner.[7] He went on to try his hand as a pro athlete in bicycle racing and wrestling but soon gravitated to popular music and the burgeoning late 1940s dancehall scene. Jimmy Savile credits himself as the world’s very first Disc Jockey in addition to pioneering the novel idea of placing dual turntables next to each other for nonstop record play, though his future employer the BBC had instructional documents back in the early 1930s predating his self-credited “invention” long before he was even calling himself a DJ. But truth was never quite so important to Sir Jimmy as self-image enhancement and braggadocio for his grandiose self-promotion feeding the bottomless pit of a highly-conceited ego. As a brutally willful, extremely manipulative psychopath and brazen, in-your-face self-aggrandizer, the world seemed destined to revolve around him and his diabolical needs.

As Savile rose to fame throughout the 1960s and 1970s with such long running BBC standard fare as Top of the Pops making its broadcast debut on January 1, 1964 to 2006 and later Jim’ll Fix It from 1975 to 1994 granting children their dream requests come true, at the height of his popularity in the late 70s, the dream magician attracted 20 million viewers and 20,000 letters a week from hopeful kids across Great Britain.[8] Savile quickly became an enduring household name and TV icon in the UK for multiple generations of families. Then using his “tireless” philanthropy for various children’s health causes as a deceitful cover while masquerading as the devoted Catholic saint receiving knighthoods from both the queen and the pope, in actuality all the while he was an evil imposter molesting his way to becoming Britain's most cruel, sadistic child sex maniac of all time, getting his rocks off gravely harming thousands among the most frail and defenseless population of all, the young, infirm and the dead. But he could never have done it without a supporting cast, platform and protective system. But more on that later.

Savile has been quoted casually proclaiming that women "equal brain damage."[9] The perennially unmarried misogynist and violently sexist predator took his hatred predominantly out on the fairer sex, forcing himself on his victims, constantly groping, molesting and raping females his entire adult life, mostly young girls with 82% of his victims reportedly female and 80% children.[10] But he targeted victims of all ages and genders, including boys and adult males as well. Doing Satan's work turned out to be his fulltime preoccupation while his "tireless" charity efforts took a backseat serving as his convenient part-time cover. Savile mercilessly loved inflicting pain on less powerful individuals.

Jimmy Savile's relationship to his mother Agnes was a complicatedly twisted love-hate affair. On the one hand, he projected the image as the devoted son, loyally and faithfully living with and taking care of her at his flat in Scarborough until her death in 1972.[11] He described his mother "the Duchess" as the "only true love of his life, the only woman I ever loved," and the week he spent with her lying dead in open casket was "the best five days of my life," adding:

Once upon a time I had to share her with other people. We had marvelous times. When she was dead she was all mine, for me.[12]

As a necrophiliac, one can only imagine. For the next four decades right up to his own death in 2011, in bizarre, faithful homage, he left his mummy's bedroom unchanged, keeping all her clothes in her closet as is, other than religiously dry-cleaning them once a year.[13]

But on the other hand, in his final, never published interview just three months prior to his death, Savile revealed:

My mother never got round to being proud. If anyone said, 'What is Jimmy like?' she would say, 'I don't know what he's up to, but he's up to something.' She never trusted me as she thought I was going to get nicked and end up in the pokey.[14]

Perhaps his mother's intuition knew that Sir Jimmy was actually a fraud and pathological criminal psychopath who deserved to be in jail. "The Duchess" no doubt saw past his phony saintly facade belying his truly dark and sick nature at his core. It's also worth noting that Agnes Savile apparently raised three sons who later as adults all became sexual predators.[15]

While Sir James Savile became the single, most prolific charity fundraiser[16] at £45million in his country's history,[17] he also degenerated into Britain's most prolific child rapist of all time.[18] By official tally of the UK's largest children's protection charity,[19] the National Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children (NSPCC), at least 500 victims reportedly suffered at the hands of Jimmy Savile.[20] But other accounts project at least 1,000 victims sexually assaulted on BBC premises alone.[21] Considering these numbers include only registered abuse complaints to authorities on record, the actual total of wounded can never be precisely known but undoubtedly reaches into the thousands.

Incredibly for 60 years (1951-2011) while a volunteer porter at Leeds General Infirmary, Savile bragged about volunteering to have unconsented sex with dead corpses and how he made jewelry from glass eyes removed from their bodies.[22] We're talking one extremely demented sick fuck here. More than any other single figure in the history of humankind, Sir Jimmy's six decade long crime spree cavalcade connects all the demonic dots like no other, from the Luciferian royals to the top government movers and shakers to the most infamous serial killers to his far-reaching BBC entertainment pedophile ring.

But on more than a half dozen occasions police actually questioned Sir Jimmy Savile as a repeated child abusing suspect but each and every time let him go. The first incident recorded by police occurred in 1955 in Manchester where Savile managed a dance hall.[23] In 1958 in his hometown of Leeds, while employed still as a nightclub manager, a police inquiry had Savile facing jail time for sexual assault charges.[24] A half dozen years ago according to Dennis Lemmon, a former Savile bodyguard now 80-years old, Savile was in an especially agitated and foul mood one night before he was scheduled to appear in court the next day for "interfering with young girls." But as it turned out, soon afterwards Lemmon was informed that the worried derelict had apparently bribed crooked police officers at the last minute into dropping the case. Other reports say he paid off the girls' families. Another early incident of Savile sex abuse involved an underage victim dating back to 1959 when Savile as a Luxembourg Radio DJ raped a 13-year old girl at Lime Grove Studios in London.[25]

Savile would have been 28 or 29 in 1955 with his first known criminal offense. With such a prolific, uninterrupted history of serial offending, there is near 100% certainty that the sexual predator began molesting children well before the mid-1950s. If he was performing sexual acts on corpses soon after he began working as a porter at Leeds Infirmary in 1951 at age 25, then it was almost certain he was sexually assaulting live underage kids up to a decade prior to his first known case. The bottom line, had English law enforcement done its job way back in either 1955 or 1958, over six decades ago, thousands of lives and undoubtedly dozens of suicides would have been spared the permanent scars from his sadistic marathon of abuse committed nonstop over the next half century. But illegal payoffs to corrupt police, aggressive intimidation, thuggish threats and manipulative blackmail as well as protection from elite living above the law in the corrupt British system kept the flaming maniac out of jail his entire life.

As far back as 1965 his entire hometown police force apparently was well aware of Savile's pedophilic predilections. A young constable on bicycle patrol one night spotted one of the DJ's trademark Rolls Royces parked in a secluded spot near Roundhay golf course, fairly close to Savile's penthouse in Leeds overlooking Roundhay Park.[26] The policeman observed Savile in the driver's seat sitting next to a very young girl. When the constable approached asking "what's the matter?" Savile responded:

I'm waiting for midnight when she turns 16.

It was 11:45PM and at first the young cop appeared bewildered until Jimmy winked at him. The policeman then turned to the girl and asked if she was alright, but she only smiled in silence. The cop realized he had just interrupted Jimmy Savile seducing an underage girl and it obviously did not set very well with the Leeds' leading pedo-kingpin who snapped back irritably:

Piss off. If you want to keep your job I suggest you get on your bike and fuck off.

When at the end of his shift, the patrolman began relaying the bizarre encounter to his sergeant, he was cut off:

Shut up, son, he's got friends in high places. If you know what's good for you, you'll leave it there.[27]

Savile was free to continue sexually assaulting children for almost the next half century.

The serial pedophile brags about his illicit exploits from cover to cover in his 184 page 1978 autobiography.[28] In one such lurid tale also in the 1960s, Savile explained he was visited by a senior female police officer in Leeds who asked him if he'd seen a young juvenile runaway, showing him her photo.[29] His answer was, "no but if I run into her, I'll keep her all night first as my reward," then be sure to turn her in the next morning. That night he did run into her at one of his dancehalls and then did exactly what he said he would do. Upon arrival at the station the next day, the policewoman wanted to book him with a sex crime but according to Savile:

> The officeress was dissuaded from bringing charges against me by her colleagues for it was well known that were I to go, I would probably take half the station with me.[30]

Already in the 1960s Mr. Big Stuff knew all the crooked cops in town, and as a "local hero," was a major player in the blackmail game. Savile's media career started at Radio Luxembourg in 1958 followed two years later at Tyne Tees Television with his BBC professional run commencing in late 1963. His criminal career path as a serial sexual child predator went wherever his career in public life catapulted him. Meanwhile, the more famous he became, the more he brazenly acted out sexually. Throughout the late 1960s and 1970s, police probes into child sex abuse repeatedly had Savile and other BBC employees' names coming up again and again.[31] For two weeks in 1969 police interviewed dozens of BBC staff and musicians over complaints that on a consistent basis underage victims were routinely being sexually assaulted in dressing rooms at all the BBC studios. Yet no charges were ever filed against any suspects - as guilty as Savile and his pals were.

Then came the sad tragic case in 1971 of 15-year old Top of the Pops dancer Claire McAlpine, who via her diary alleged that a number of well-known public figures had taken sexual advantage of her, among them Jimmy Savile, longtime fellow BBC DJ Tony Blackburn, the legendary Frank Sinatra and alleged others.[32] Apparently in early 1971 no one believed Claire, and terrified that she may become pregnant, several weeks after reporting abuse falling on deaf ears, she allegedly committed suicide from a drug overdose.

Among the over dozen investigations into Savile's criminal past launched a year after his 2011 death, BBC's whopping £10 million whitewash conducted by retired magistrate judge Dame Janet Smith failed to pursue Claire's accusations knowing some of her alleged perpetrators are still alive. So 60-year old former fellow dancer and friend of Claire's, Kelly Gold, claimed in 2016 she is ready to name names and work with police to bring belated justice for her fallen comrade.[33] In addition to stating that Savile had groped her as well, after their March 1971 Top of the Pops performance, Kelly Gold also maintains that an alleged "world famous" superstar singer ended up at a hotel having sex with Claire. To this day Kelly feels guilty because that night she lied to Claire's mother stating that Claire was staying at her place. Claire McAlpine was the first in a litany of strange and untimely deaths surrounding BBC employees as apparent casualties in the Savile-BBC pedophile scandal.

Yet more controversial fallout from this unsolved, unresolved McAlpine case was stirred over the February 2016 firing of DJ Tony Blackburn.[34] For the Janet Smith inquiry, BBC dug up a memo indicating Blackburn was interviewed over allegedly assaulting Claire in 1971. But Blackburn insists he is both innocent and that no one ever spoke to him about any accusations or improprieties with any underage girls. Dame Smith believed BBC's contention and after 49 years on the job as a top BBC DJ, the British Broadcasting Corporation abruptly terminated Blackburn’s employment.

From a February 2016 RT article covering the BBC response to the Dame Smith’s whitewashed report:

> On Thursday afternoon, Director General of the BBC Tony Hall apologized to the survivors of abuse, saying the broadcaster had ‘parted company’ with DJ Tony Blackburn after his evidence given to the inquiry had been below standard,[35] [falling] short of the standards of evidence that such an inquiry demanded.[36]

The BBC had the audacity to think that axing one employee never arrested or charged for what he flatly denies, for allegedly lying that he never was questioned on abuse claims put forth by one underage BBC employee near a half century earlier should help absolve this criminal corporation from its mountains of past sins while this same underage BBC employee it failed to protect also accused the most prolific child abuser in Britain’s history but the BBC elected to keep looking the other way for four straight decades has to be the height of hubris and hypocrisy.

In a newspaper interview shortly following Claire McAlpine’s death, Jimmy Savile publicly denied ever seeing or knowing her.[37] Yet a photo clearly shows both Claire McAlpine and Kelly Gold with Savile and others on the March 1971 set. So when blood is on your hands for permitting thousands of the most horrific crimes imaginable against children on BBC premises (up to 1,000 by Sir Jimmy alone),[38] and then firing an employee apparently always in good standing for the past 49-years over possibly not being truthful (but perhaps is) about being questioned on a matter occurring 45 years earlier is then opportunely used by the BBC director general as evidence the company is proactively taking corrective measures to make up for all its past complicit crimes and cover-up is the most profoundly absurd line of shit for any sane, rational person to swallow.

With Savile signing off from Top of the Pops (TOTP) in 2006 after a 42 year BBC run and 35 years after Savile abused Claire McAlpine, obviously the BBC was still choosing to stand by its #1 pedophile. Former appeals court Judge Dame Janet Smith's February 2016 report focusing on Jimmy Savile crimes at the BBC proved to be a half-truth whitewash with its covert agenda to let those BBC senior executives guilty of horrendous crimes off the hook.

Minimally there is more than enough evidence to prove senior BBC officers up and down the corporate ranks are guilty of criminal complicity, knowing rampant abuse was ongoing for years and decades but failed to act to stop it. Moreover, there is plenty of evidence that the BBC higher-ups are guilty of for years attempting to cover-up the scandal in order to preserve its reputation and own criminality. And thirdly, Jimmy Savile and his ragtag crew of fellow pedo-DJs and musicians weren't the only pedophiles committing sexual assault on children. Very powerful BBC VIPs along with MPs, PMs, high court judges, police chiefs, MI5 and MI6 heads, famous entertainers and royalty were and still are all active pedophiles participating in their still flourishing child raping network.[39]

Yet none of them have ever been arrested, prosecuted or brought to justice. A growing number of citizens around the world are very aware of this fact. It's the pink elephant in the UK's world pedo-epicenter war room. This is why the entire dozen post-Savile so called child abuse investigations are an outrageous hoax being put upon all the good people of Britain as an over-the-top assault on their intelligence. The fact is the most vile evildoers alive are still in control still doing the most vile evil to innocent victims. And as long as they remain in control, justice will never be served and children will never be safe. The remainder of this chapter and others to follow will clearly demonstrate the truth about these pedophiles still in power still successfully evading justice.

Where it was "safe" to do so, that Dame Smith report did accurately disclose the sleazy breeding ground for sexual assault of underage girls at the TOTP studio,[40] "in the corridors, canteens, staircases and dressing rooms of every BBC premises."[41] Though led by prolific Savile, he was never acting alone. Rape and assault were commonly committed by many of the BBC performing musicians, presenters, roadies, photographers, you name it, this longtime cultural norm routinely practiced at the BBC studios particularly in dressing rooms allowed criminals to repeatedly get away with child sex abuse on an industrial scale. As alluded to earlier, it grew so out of hand in both 1969 and again in the early 1970s that it even drew half-assed police responses interviewing victims and perps though zero arrests or indictments were ever made. That's clearly criminal neglect by both BBC and the police. For over half a century, the British Broadcasting Corporation kept a lock on routinely ignoring victim complaints that extended to multiple intentionally failed police probes.

Then when an occasional whistleblowing celebrity happened to speak out against Savile crimes, even his shocking disclosure was routinely ignored and negatively consequenced. In the Radio 1 BBC studio during a 1978 interview subsequently suppressed and never aired, John Lyden, otherwise known at the time as Johnny Rotten from the punk rock band the Sex Pistols, having heard enough substantiated rumors about Savile, called him out:

A hypocrite… into all kinds of seediness… that we're not allowed to talk about.[42]

Instead of being taken seriously to warrant investigating the derelict DJ 40 years ago, Lyden claims BBC punished him for trying to honestly do the right thing:

> If you said anything you'd be off playlists, but that didn't bother me as I was doing a good job of that independently. But firsthand experiences were reiterated to me by young girls who went to Top of the Pops and said he was touchy, feely, creepy, urgh... Doctor Death. I told them to report it but it would have been seen as grassing then. I knew all about it and said so and got myself banned from the BBC. Family values, eh? Turns out I was the only one who had any.[43]

Also in the late 1970s a Stoke-Mandeville Hospital nurse also spoke up doing right by her patients suffering from spinal injuries who were being sexually attacked by longtime volunteer Savile, reporting his abuse to detective John Lindsey. But according to Lindsey, his police commander responded that there was "insufficient evidence" to proceed with a case against such a major VIP as Savile.[44] Like the BBC, police consistently looked the other way because they were ordered to give the famous pervert a free pass.

West Yorkshire Police detectives working the Ripper murder cases in the late 1970s also brought Savile in for questioning.[45] He was implicated by members of the public, his Leeds residence was in close proximity to where bodies were found with bite marks on them, thus leading to an order of Savile's teeth imprints to determine if they matched,[46] and during interviews with the prime suspect-turned-convicted serial killer Peter Sutcliffe, Savile's name and activity in proximity to murder did come up.[47]

Then many years later in 2007 Surrey police investigated Savile in response to a claim of sexual assault during the 1970s by a former resident of Duncroft Approved School for Girls. Though at least five girls had made claims that Savile abused them while attending the school under government Home Office control until 1973, an eventual total of 23 Savile victims surfaced from that student body comprised of intelligent teenage girls with emotional problems claiming that Savile molested them.[48] Yet Crown Prosecution Service (CPS) insists that even with all those alleged victims, not enough evidence existed to charge either the perpetrator or the headmistress Margaret Jones. Jones gave the predator his own flat as the only male allowed overnights on the premises (similar to Broadmoor and Stoke-Mandeville).

One of Savile's abuse victims told the press:

Jimmy treated Duncroft like a pedophile sweet shop.[49]

Yet every time police ever investigated Savile, between them and the CPS, never was there sufficient cause to indict the serial offender, which again only shows that he was repeatedly shielded in total whitewashed cover-ups his entire life.

A year after Surrey opened an investigation against Savile abuse charges that led nowhere, in 2008 Sussex Police followed suit questioning Savile over a complaint stemming from a 1970 incident, only to lead to the same abysmally poor excuse - not enough evidence. Whenever constables interviewed Savile as late as January 2009 over past abuse allegations, Savile's intimidating threats and megalomaniacal power put police on the defensive[50] with never enough evidence to dare charge him.[51] Savile called an old West Yorkshire detective buddy of his to arrange for the Surrey police to interview the 82-year old at his living quarters on the grounds of Stoke-Mandeville Hospital, a total breach of standard police protocol. Yet if he wasn't Sir Jimmy, he would've been locked away for life a half century earlier.

In the more than half dozen times that police actually did question the famous entertainer as a possible suspect, the arrogant Savile defiantly mocked his supposed interrogators knowing he was above the law, protected by his loyal royal friends and prime minister allies who always had his back. Even honest cops trying to do their job to protect children were given the cold shoulder by their superiors. Just like the mafia, Savile the child procurer was “a made man” operating freely within the evil cabal system of organized crime called the British establishment.

Right up to this very day UK law enforcement is notorious for neither ever having the balls nor the will to follow through on any serious pedo-investigations of VIPs, invariably failing to find “hard” evidence to indict whenever members of the establishment are suspects. This pervasive police pattern of indifference towards victims while demonstrating total deference towards protected powerful perps, combined with covert orders and instructions from MI5 or government heads to cease any further inquiry is the consistent historical pattern in both North America as well as Europe when the pedophilic higher-ups cherry-pick their pedo-enabling foxes to be in charge of investigations, centrally controlled in Britain by an always pedo-enabling occupant at Home Secretary office.

For over six decades this kind of criminal collusion by submissive, order-following UK law enforcement allowed the demented lunatic Savile to roam freely throughout the Isles, granted carte blanche from the National Health Service (NHS), with the sex savage completely on the loose, he was able to select virtually any criminal insane asylum, mortuary, children’s hospital, children’s group home or school of his choice, along with the sprawling safe haven confines of his BBC conglomerate. Sir Jimmy Savile uniquely possessed at his literal personal disposal an unlimited supply of readymade victims. Dead corpses, debilitated children and adults alike as well as adoring underage fans, mostly girls but boys too, both young and old, as an equal opportunity rapist, no-body was off limits to king predator Sir Jimmy. All were exploited, expendable sex objects filling his ruthless, insatiable need for cruelly satanic dominance and sadistic control, serving his necrophilia-loving, pedophilic carnal desires while fully shielded by diabolical intimate ties to queens, princes and prime ministers, all granting gatekeeper keys to Lucifer’s earthly pedophilia kingdom.

Why? Because Savile supplied child victims to VIPs while working, in his own words, “deep cover” with British and foreign intelligence.[52] Sir Jimmy was intimate with the royals.[53] The DJ opportunistically used his quirky, eccentric, philanthropic celebrity image and persona to amass immense influence and power primarily through ingratiation to royalty and prime ministers, and intimidation, threats and blackmail to everyone else that stood in his way, at will brazenly violating and raping the entire British Kingdom whose ruling masters in return guaranteed him lifetime insurance policy protection and impunity.

The next several chapters unravel the so-vile Sa-vile story in terms of its connecting implications, unmasking his ties to the larger global pedophilia network. As the pimping procurer of child sex slaves[54] raped and murdered by the queen and her princes,[55] prime ministers[56] and parliament members, elite media and entertainment figures, over time the rising fame of the Top of the Pops DJ morphed him into a pivotal player within the ruling elite’s sexual blackmail system. Not unlike the Mossad-made financier-cabalist Jeffrey Epstein, as long as Sir Jimmy continued delivering the sacrificial lambs of UK’s throwaway population of institutionalized children to the earth controlling Luciferian puppet masters, they in turn would guarantee his protection for as long as he lived - to the ripe old age of just two days shy of his 85th birthday.

While Savile's super creepy close relationship to royalty is specifically addressed in Chapter 22, his relations with London government VIPs, security services and taxpayer sponsored British Broadcasting Company as his longtime pedophile enabling employer are exposed in this chapter. But because pedophilia is the central binding nexus between the Windsor family, the 10 Downing Street-Westminster government and the BBC as the UK's false propaganda machine, separate chapters apart from Savile will follow to unveil the still unfolding, tip-of-the-iceberg royalty and government scandals while the crime cabal flounders desperately in vain to keep them covered up. But as the elite's Achilles heel, fortunately enough of the ugly truth's already permanently out of the bag and there's no going back.

Despite the day after Savile's October 29, 2011 death when the famous "larger than life" entertainer was being widely heralded as a beloved "national treasure"[57] with sanctimonious tributes led by Prince Charles, celebrities and the media alike,[58] within months afterwards in response to a plethora of accusations emerging from his victims across the nation, multiple police investigations reactively sprang up ostensibly to look more closely into his "hidden" monstrous past. A horrified Britain was shocked to learn of Savile's countless crimes carried out at 41 National Health Service (NHS) medical institutions,[59] half at children's hospitals,[60] along with countless children's homes and schools, a highest security mental institution, even a hospice for the terminally ill[61] and in every BBC backstage dressing room, victimizing thousands of his defenseless prey ranging from age two to 75.[62] Again, underage girls were his preference with 80% of his victims children and 82% female. In 1976 nearing the height of his fame, with television cameras rolling before a national audience into the millions, Jimmy Savile was allowed to brazenly molest a teenager flagrantly violating the law without drawing any notice or criticism whatsoever other than the poor victim's shocked, flailing on-camera reaction.[63] What does that tell you?

At the 1973 Top of the Pops pre-Christmas show, within minutes after walking off stage still dressed in his Womble costume, back in the dressing room Savile's entourage had just dropped off two of his latest victims excitedly waiting to meet the star. With a sentinel guarding his dressing room door, the pedophile Womble proceeded to savagely rape a 10-year old boy while making a stunned 12-year old girl watch, then the petrified, frozen-in-trauma sodomized boy was forced to witness the girl's turn being sexually assaulted, at the end Uncle Jimmy turned to his prey to say it's "our little secret."[64] After countless episodes like this at BBC studios and confirmed evidence of having sex with corpses or infirmed hospital patients of all ages, it's also been revealed that Savile was very likely a not-so-closeted Satanist[65] engaging in satanic murder rituals as an accomplice or co-participant, if not on his own, befriending the most notorious, coldblooded serial killers in British history.

Beyond the 1980s and long past Jimmy Savile's prime as a regular weekly BBC entertainer, his numerous homes across the British Isles and three or four Rolls Royces and all his accoutrements of wealth supporting his lavishly opulent lifestyle always remained ostentatiously evident throughout Sir Jimmy's life. As a pimp to royalty, prime ministers, MPs and rock stars, and a centrally embedded figure in Britain's sexual blackmail scheme, his lavish lifestyle right up to his end can best be explained by his sordid, highly lucrative criminal enterprise inside the thriving global pedophilia network. Otherwise, whatever legit income he may have still had as a senior citizen during the final two decades of his sicko life could never have afforded living so high-off-the-hog as he'd long been accustomed for six decades. In short, pedophilia was good to Sir Jimmy, "good while it lasted" as his now removed epitaph once briefly displayed on his desecrated gravesite. Despite some members of his family wanting his body exhumed from his huge triple plot overlooking the sea to be reburied in an unmarked pauper's grave, the £20,000 cost and his estate funds tied up in litigation settlements has kept his body in his original burial place though in an unmarked grave at a Scarborough cemetery.[66]

In the end Savile still possessed his prized £160,000 Rolls Royce that he called "the Beast" where he defiled many young girls, plus five other luxury cars including a Bentley Turbo and Mercedes 500 SL along with his reported eight homes[67] and a will leaving £5 million in two charitable trusts.[68] His estate at the time of his death was worth £4m but £2.5m of it went to both his and his plaintiffs' lawyers, leaving only about £1m to be divvied up amongst 78 victims seeking damages exclusively from the Savile estate.[69]

The raw, naked, despicable reality that a UK "national treasure" has turned out to be both a satanic murdering corpse fucker and biggest child rapist of all-time in Great Britain's long "glorious" history[70] speaks volumes in revealing the true nature of this world as it actually is, in contrast to the totally deceitful brainwashing bullshit we've all been led, taught and subjected to. The Jimmy Savile lesson runs deep to the very core of what's gone most wrong on this planet, teaching us that absolutely nothing in this world is as it seems, that the complete betrayal of truth and morality is more than evident everywhere we look, be it by outward appearance, accepted conventional wisdom, so called good deeds, or so called science, religion or revisionist human history, it's all one humongous pack of sinister lies carefully designed and packaged to effectively dupe and control increasingly dumbed down masses.[71]

Over the millenniums the same bloodline planetary controllers have maintained humanity's truth-suppressing juggernaut by cunning deception, willful manipulation and calculated malevolence.[72] But now through the Jimmy Savile saga, the emperor without his clothes can be fully unveiled, exposing the grotesquely vile, pedophilic evil of this still being played out cautionary tale turned urgent wakeup call nightmare for the ages.

Just like every other pedophilia scandal covered in this book, virtually all the media, government and police inquiries conclude that one deranged beast, in this case Jimmy Savile, acted alone in "grooming the nation" as Metropolitan Police lead investigator Peter Spindler claimed.[73] On January 11, 2013, among the largest ever investigations conducted by the Metro Police in conjunction with UK's National Police Chief's Council (NPCC) based on their Operation Yewtree findings released a joint report entitled "Giving Victims a Voice."[74] But only voices of carefully selected victims got heard, generally revealing only tip of the iceberg, lower levels of abuse. This calculated strategy was geared to protect the self-serving interest of the larger pedophilia cabal that Savile freely operated within, comprised of royalty, the national government, the security apparatus and the MSM BBC giant that carefully, collectively shielded him from having to answer for his mountain of heinous crimes while still alive.

As in all pedophilia scandals, by methodically disclosing an incomplete whitewash of half-truths, the elite's pedo-network always remains intact and well-preserved while temporarily appeasing the public's outrage and so called "right to know." This same overly contrived, overused damage control tactic is consistently deployed by the Luciferian planetary controllers who ritualistically torture, sodomize, butcher, drain and drink adrenochrome-filled blood,[75] and eat cut-out hearts of their sacrificial child lamb prey. By satanic design, these pedo-cabal victims never had a chance to either live or have a voice. They were surgically removed from Operation Yewtree-NSPCC's sanitized, incomplete, grossly distorted version of what actually transpired.

As an illustration of Sir Jimmy's power and fame to suppress his ugly sins, in 1994 the editor of the Sunday Mirror Paul Connew had two Savile abuse survivors in their mid-30s who were former residents victimized at Duncroft Approved School for girls in the 1970s, ready and willing to go public with their accusations.[76] Knowing firsthand what a monster Savile was, they were both tired and appalled seeing their abuser receiving such praise and honors from the likes of Margaret Thatcher, the queen and pope, each taking turns bestowing knighthood on their serial rapist. The former editor was certain they were not motivated to seek money as the pair just wanted to set the record straight and see if some semblance of justice could be achieved.

But Paul Connew felt compelled to compassionately warn the two women what they would be up against should their story be published - the ensuing, most certain, highly publicized scandal would result in a contentious libel lawsuit against them, and both a likely non-response from the police as well as a star-struck jury that tends to avoid conviction of enamored celebrities. The husband of one of the accusers convinced his wife to not pursue such public exposure, both to protect her and their children. And with that development, not wanting to move forward alone, for very good reason the other survivor lamented this incisively accurate scenario:

Who will believe me against Jimmy Savile with all his connections to Charles and Diana and Mrs. Thatcher and the Pope? They'll destroy me, even though I'd be telling the truth.[77]

So way back in 1994, a full decade and a half prior to Savile's final known sexual assault, unfortunately the story of his pedophilic abuse never went forward in the press when it came ever so close.

When it was all said and done after six decades of uninterrupted predation against thousands of victims, the detective superintendent from Metropolitan Police's pedophile unit - David Gray, emphasized how Savile must have been mentally preoccupied and obsessed with plotting his next sex offense "every minute of every waking day."[78] But Savile was never operating alone because every 3 minutes of every single day another British child goes missing, totaling 140,000 each year,[79] many of whom wind up in the global pedo-pipeline of enslaved, abused and ritualistically murdered children. And all that cannot be a one man operation.

Yet David Gray went on to bogusly claim that no evidence exists suggesting that the "lone wolf" was ever part of a larger pedophile sex ring,[80] making it out like Savile was some anomalous freak show oddity operating 24/7 365 days a year pedovore for well over a half century completely within his own neatly spun cocoon-like vacuum. Nothing could be further from the truth! This willfully deceitful statement again promotes the constant false narrative of the "lone gunman" syndrome as the standard prototypical cover-up feature present in every single pedophilia scandal as well as virtually every major assassination and false flag "terrorism" event.[81] A favorite tool used in all state sponsored false flags.

Among the pedophilia scandals, think Lawrence E. King, Jeffrey Epstein, Jerry Sandusky, Larry Nassar and Barry Bennell, or Lee Harvey Oswald, Sirhan Sirhan and James Earl Ray as portrayed by the mainstream media. In every single case the press dutifully reports all these high profiled, most prolific pedophiles and assassins always act alone in order to sweep the far bigger reality of a massively globalized, interlocking pedophilia crime cabal network conveniently under the rug. Without exception, every one of their false narratives calls for reading off the same MSM Mockingbird script, just to keep you, me and John Q Public in the dark from ever knowing the far more disturbing, sinister truth.

From the no-brainer file comes the BBC launched £10 million "self-investigation" boondoggle into the Savile debauchery with a specific focus of determining if any BBC culpability accompanied Savile's crime spree. Led by "respected" former magistrate judge Dame Janet Smith, her inquiry insists that beyond widespread rumor and gossip, no one at BBC definitely knew Savile was committing sex crimes,[82] in one fell swoop clearing both all corporate executives and all company personnel that participated in the BBC pedophile sex ring as well as the BBC criminal cover-up, adding salt to the re-traumatized wounds suffered by thousands of Savile, BBC and cabal victims.[83]

Over a dozen major Savile investigations from the Metro-Scotland Yard police to the BBC[84] to the NHS,[85] Stoke-Mandeville,[86] Leeds General Infirmary,[87] to Crown Prosecution Service (CPS),[88] Department of Education, House of Commons, a so called national Independent Inquiry into Child Sexual Abuse[89] and on and on they go,[90] all designed to place zero blame, zero responsibility, zero complicity and zero criminal cover-up on the real pedo-network kingpins. By falsely depicting a virtual one man operation, the most powerful pedovors systemically supporting and shielding Jimmy Savile are allowed to get away with their ongoing brutal crimes. The elephant in all their rooms is the global pedophilia cabal. None will dare speak of this truth. But then what else is new? That’s simply the way this Luciferian system works. But a considerable body of largely overlooked facts totally refuting their feeble claims and bogus conclusions about Savile’s reign of terror will be presented.

We’ll start with the serial predator’s own nephew Guy Marsden who supplies irrefutable firsthand evidence that from relatively early on in Savile’s career he was operating within a larger pedophile ring:

Uncle Jimmy took me to his sick parties, (Marsden specifically calling them) paedophile parties.[91]

After running away with three friends from their family homes in Leeds when Guy was just 13, Jimmy Savile walked in on a London dive where the runaways were staying. Initially Guy figured his parents put his uncle up to busting him in order to send the local boys straight back home. But much to Guy’s surprise, in 1967 Uncle Jimmy began taking his nephew and buddies to wealthy celebrity mansions where Guy believes that men attending the parties were sexually abusing boys and girls as young as 10. For the next year and a half Marsden witnessed his uncle regularly showing up at these depraved soirees in fancy settings, often accompanied by a priest and children from nearby orphanages and group homes.

A half dozen years ago the now 63-year old Guy Marsden explicitly described how back in the 60s Savile the pimp was already operating within an extensive elitist pedophile network amongst members of London’s high society from the British entertainment industry:

The group of runaways ended up in a fabulous house - believed to belong to a famous pop impresario - with a big indoor swimming pool. The celebrity home was one of the party venues. At night you would get about 15 or 20 people turning up. There would be music and tables full of food, we couldn't believe it. There was everything we needed and we just hung around. At first we automatically assumed the children lived there, but we soon realized they didn't. They would be brought there, sometimes by Uncle Jimmy, and would stay for six or seven hours until 3 or 4AM. They were just little kids, boys and girls.[92]

With Savile the procurer working behind the scenes as well as openly with church clergy funneling child victims from care homes into the pedo-elite way back in the swinging sixties while the DJ's influence and power were still on the rise, soon enough the big TV star was pimping kids off to the royal family, UK prime ministers and their Westminster minions working undercover with British intelligence agencies. On behalf of the Luciferian worshipping pedophile cult consisting of English royalty, top politicians and entertainers, assisted by the British MI5 and MI6 security services, (just like their US and Israeli counterparts), all have long been steeped in the business of sexual blackmail operations and pedo-pipeline procurement using the most vulnerable population of expendable, throwaway orphan children from group home charities misused as sacrificial bait and prey consumed by the pedophilic elite.[93]

Sir Jimmy once told Esquire:

The thing about me is I get things done and I work deep cover. I've known the Royal Family for a million years.[94]

That about says it all. Working "deep cover" with the royals and MI5, he pimped British kids to UK's VIPs - royalty, politicians and entertainers.[95] Savile's name has come up in virtually every group home scandal where pedophile MPs have regularly committed sex abuse on mostly underage boys across the nation. A list of some that are further fleshed out later are the Elm Guest Home, Jersey's Haut de la Garenne, North Wales' Bryn Estyn care home where Sir Jimmy would show up in his chauffeured limousine with his older brother.[96] MI5 has long been linked to running a honey trap boy brothel blackmail operation out of Kincora boys' home in East Belfast, Northern Ireland, often escorted to parties at nearby mansions to be abused by politicos on both sides of the IRA conflict.[97] Jimmy Savile as much as admitted working as an undercover agent for the security services and has been linked to Kincora as well.[98] So have his fellow pedo-buddies PM Ted Heath and the royal Lord Mountbatten, credited with introducing Savile to the Windsor family in 1966, further followed up in Chapter 22.

Typically the global intelligence community acts as fellow handlers along with the Catholic Church, secret societies like Malta Knights, Freemasons, Illuminati, and "deep cover" Satanists like Savile. A North Wales abuse survivor, now a barrister, has claimed that many of his perpetrators are Freemasons.[99] Infiltrating secret society members among top tier government (from national to local), law enforcement, the courts, business, medicine, academia and entertainment media typically comprise the pedophile network. The global intelligence community of course also functions as the ruling elite's private army of international mercenary assassins and bully boys to protect and serve cabal interests as well as coordinate the global child sex trafficking network.

Still another scandal reputed to have connections to procuring pedophile Savile involve group home kids from Islington transported to parties where VIPs abused them.[100] In the 1990s in an effort to cover-up the pervasive abuse, the head of the Islington Council - Lady Margaret Hodge (nee Oppenheimer[101]) tried to silence an outspoken victim-survivor turned attorney Demetrius Panton, calling him "extremely disturbed" in a BBC interview. Panton later forced her in a high court to apologize for her slanderous lie. In 1992 when the Evening Standard broke the story behind a hard-hitting series exposing evidence of extensive pedophilia in a number of Islington children's homes, Hodge went on the offensive again calling the article "a sensationalist piece of gutter journalism," for which she again later had to issue an apology. But evil deeds don't go unrewarded by fellow evildoers in power, so in 2003 Margaret Hodge was appointed henhouse guard as minister over all UK children by yet another pedo-enabling, war criminal prime minister Tony Blair,[102] whose government was also heavily infiltrated by pedophiles. And of course Blair was also a friend of both Sir Savile as well as Sir Cliff, and using his convenient D-notices, he protected pedophiles.[103]

Incredibly for six long decades, Jimmy Savile's ties unlawfully procuring victims from group homes for British Establishment VIPs made him privy to the elite's deplorable inside crimes, thus automatically guaranteeing his lifelong protection and impunity to recklessly and arrogantly live above the law, often right out in the open constantly boasting about his powerful protectors.

Savile's explanation on how he was able to acquire documentarian Louis Theroux's home address speaks to his cocksure infallibility:

I can get anything. There's nothing I can't get, and there's nothing I can't do.[104]

After spending the last two weeks with Sir Jimmy filming his documentary in 2000, when Theroux finally led up to pressing him for an answer over the decades of pedophile rumors that had followed him, Theroux began with:

So why do you say in interviews that you hate children when, I've seen you with kids, and you clearly enjoy their company and you have a good rapport with them? [105]

After denying he hates them, Savile remarked:

We live in a very funny world. And it’s easier for me, as a single man, to say ‘I don't like children,’ because that puts a lot of salacious tabloid people off the hunt.

With the door open, Theroux then asked:

Is that basically so the tabloids don't pursue this whole ‘is he or isn't he a paedophile’ line?

Saville’s response:

Oh, aye, how do they know whether I am not? How does anybody know whether I am? Nobody knows whether I am or not. I know I'm not.

Savile’s thousands of victims sure know, so does the BBC and a number of police departments, not to mention his customers in government and royalty. But a more tactful Theroux countered with:

To me that sounds more, sort of suspicious in a way.

A defensive, irritated yet still cocksure of himself Savile retorts:

Alright look, that's my policy, that’s the way it goes and it's worked a dream. Ho, ho, ho.

In plain sight the infamous predator defied his victims, fans, law enforcement and entire nation, devilishly outfoxing his detractors with his brash, thinly veiled word games of denial and mockery.

But as the crime cabal’s go-to pedo-blackmail specialist, like his American counterpart Jeffrey Epstein, Jimmy Savile always remained confident knowing he was able to live above the law as an untouchable fully protected by royalty, governments, courts, security apparatus (both law enforcement and MI5/6/CIA/Mossad) and the MSM propaganda machine, insulated and immune to any and all allegations from abuse victims, whistleblowers and muckraking journalists. After all, his litigious aggression, intimidating threats and thuggish brutishness had his victims rendered invisible, never really believed nor heard. Would-be truth-tellers are typically smeared, vilified, ridiculed, harassed, or otherwise silenced, even neutralized by either overt or covert assassination. Then there's the ultra-popular method of "being suicided." That part of the Savile saga will be explored in detail in Chapter 20.

So there exists bountiful proof that as far back as the sixties, Savile was a card carrying member of a vast pedophilia network preying on underage girls and boys. Aside from the group home-orphanage pipeline, well-known disc jockeys of the day enjoyed free and easy access to legions of British minors, both male and female, willing to innocently and not so innocently place themselves and their nubile young bodies in harm's way. Diehard fans, groupies or fledgling band members in the 60s and 70 would literally fall into the laps of sexual degenerates working in the music, radio and television industry, willing to do anything for an autograph, hug, positive attention or coveted airplay time to seek fame or simply "rub shoulders" with the rich and famous. The rock & roll age spawned generations of enamored lost souls blindly engaging in idolatry worship of creepy celebrities like Sir Jimmy, his fellow BBC and rock star friends all eagerly frothing at the mouth to take full advantage. Apologists for child sexual abuse then chalk it up to the times, an era of sexual liberation on all fronts, the promiscuous, hedonistic "swinging 60s and 70s." Though some teenagers may have been willing, nonetheless they were still kids sexually mauled by a prolific procurer and voracious consumer, forcibly devouring children of every size, gender and age without consent, with a honing preference for the most vulnerable females between 13 and 15.

A man who was once an 11-year old victim of brutal rape perpetrated by Savile and his fellow BBC DJ colleague Alan Freeman in 1964 explained to Scotland Yard a year after Savile died during the 2012 Operation Yewtree probe how German actor Victor Beaumont had lured the boy to the celebrity's ritzy Northwest London home.[106] Once locked in the bedroom, Beaumont called the two BBC tunesmen and the three sodomizing savages pounced on their defenseless prey. Actor Beaumont died 13 years later at age 64 while Australian born Al "Fuzzy" Freeman kicked the bucket in 2006 at age 79. After years of therapy, the traumatized victim-turned-survivor eventually married, emerging from his boyhood trauma to become a successful businessman, garnering the strength to speak out publicly and anonymously for the first time to protect his family as well as other potential victims in September 2013:

[Beaumont, Savile and Freeman] showed me no pity and arrogantly thought they could get away with anything… [Because they could and did].[107]

The Metro Police's half-assed cover-up-their-ass attempt called Operation Yewtree was ostensibly set up to investigate Savile's six decade reign of terror searching out other pedophiles in the Savile BBC network of horrors. Yet it has offered up only a handful of relatively low level, mostly low life pedophiles for the sole purpose of placating national public outrage than actually busting wide open the elite's globalized network Savile belonged to as any real effort to actually bring down the pedophile planetary controllers. The idea is to put behind bars a minimal few, semi-notable, rotten fruit hanging lowest on the pedo-vine food chain in order to save and protect the child raping elite atop this demonic child killing cabal.

That Savile was so well-connected, working “deep cover” (his words) as an operative with international intelligence agencies, high level politicians and royalty, supplying the most vulnerable group home children for the sickest members of the elite in a major blackmail operation that was global is never mentioned by mainstream media. But it’s the elephant in the room that every inquiry purposely omits.

Canadian intelligence insider Roderick Russell analyzing Savile’s relationship with British security services draws this conclusion in Daily Kos:

> With these cozy friendships with top politicians and royalty, no wonder Sir Jimmy Savile felt himself to be above the law in England - and the truth is that he was above the law.... Increasingly it seems that Savile was a protected man. One senses that the real question should be the role of the Intelligence/ Security services [MI5 / MI6 in UK] and establishment elites in the cover-up.[108]

A commenter on aagirfan.com wrote in to recount his experience as a 12-year old schoolboy when Jimmy Savile came to talk about himself and his charity work, but extemporaneously veered off topic to mention his other line of work:

> He [Savile] said it was great cover for his real work as a spy. He said spies have to have deep cover and England would be part of a grand plan and it was so exciting to be part of this and all of us children must help to bring England and Israel closer together.[109]

Hence his many trips to Israel as a security advisor and working closely with Mossad chum Uri Geller. More on Savile’s Israel connection later.[110]

As an undercover agent with ties to royalty and government, it’s easy to understand why Savile’s brutal 60 year crime spree was thoroughly protected by the British establishment and international crime cabal. And only after a year had elapsed since he quietly passed away in his sleep was it finally deemed permissible to begin making public his “open secret” career as a vicious serial sexual predator. Ever since October 2012 when Savile’s posthumously unraveled darker life as an evildoer-on-steroids created such a national shock and public uproar, decent people from the United Kingdom started demanding justice for his countless victims as well as the countless other unpunished pedophiles from BBC entertainment and the British establishment. And as a result of Operation Yewtree’s investigation of a pedophile network hiding in plain sight while insulated within the safe confines of the government sponsored BBC criminal enterprise, a trickling handful of suspected fellow pedophiles have been arrested and a measly fewer actually convicted and imprisoned. But the media focus on Savile’s pervasive abuse and the entire nation being groomed by the most prolific pedophile in its history has remained the prime focus for the last half dozen years, all to obscure and deflect from the real truth that he was simply a relatively minor yet significant cog in the earthly demonic wheel that is the globalized pedophilia network run by its ruling elite. This full exposure becomes the focus of this entire book and in this and coming chapters through unveiling the curtain hiding the world’s pedophilia epicenter in Britain, the horror of the elite’s Achilles heel can finally be laid bare once and for all.

Within days after the Savile bombshell hitting the United Kingdom in the form of an ITV production called Exposure – The Other Side of Jimmy Savile that aired on October 3rd, 2012,[111] in its immediate aftermath and fallout Operation Yewtree was rapidly launched seeking a first round of ready-made suspects from the Savile-BBC pedo-ring featuring the highly publicized arrests of glam rock star Gary Glitter, comedian Freddie Starr, and former BBC producer Wilfred De’ath.[112]

The parade of ensuing arrests by UK police's Operation Yewtree was meant to send the message that the nation's law enforcement was making up for allowing so many decades of Savile abuse to go unpunished. As part of the joint Metropolitan Police probe coordinating efforts from multiple police departments across the nation investigating Savile's connection to the larger BBC pedophilia network, rock n' roll glitter man himself Gary Glitter was the first, most infamous and obvious suspect arrested in late October 2012,[113] although despite several pedo-convictions prior, Glitter was not charged until June 2014. For years Paul Gadd (aka Gary Glitter) had been more than chummy with Sir Jimmy, appearing on television with him a number of times. And Glitter was no stranger to pedophilia, having done jail time in 1999 for possessing thousands of child pornography photos, spent Christmas 2002 in a Cambodian jail after being caught assaulting young boys[114] and deported only to then be rearrested again in 2005 in Vietnam, another Southeast Asian sex tourist paradise, engaging in obscene acts with 10 and 11 year old girls, jailed and deported again back home three years later in 2008.

Paul Gadd's 2012 arrest arose within a few weeks after Savile was exposed, prompting thousands of child sex abuse victims to begin coming forth to report not only Savile but pedophiles associated with him and his BBC sex ring. One key witness and abuse survivor Karin Ward maintains she observed Glitter sexually assaulting a 13-year old schoolgirl in pedo-pal Savile's BBC dressing room while Sir Jimmy groped a 14-year old and another entertainer reportedly still working today was abusing yet another schoolgirl.[115] The crime scene where most of the abuse took place was in the BBC dressing rooms where sickos indulged themselves at the expense of their in-over-their-head, adoring child fans. In February 2015 the then 71-year old Paul Gadd's lurid past finally caught up to him for good.[116] He was convicted on one count of attempted rape of an 8-year old, unlawful sexual intercourse with a 12-year old, and four counts of indecent assault against three girls at the height of his fame during the 1970s and sentenced to 16 more years in prison.[117] Though he never stood trial for it, the beast is alleged to have repeatedly raped his own daughter's best friend starting when she was just 8.[118] Two years prior to his death, Savile actually had the gall to publicly defend his child porn collecting, fellow serial pedophile glittery Gadd-fly friend during an interview, insisting "he did nothing wrong."[119]

Second Yewtree arrestee Freddie Starr was at one time an English singer, a very popular comic as well as actor who rose to fame during the 1970s with Jimmy Savile, also often featured as a regular performer on his programs.[120] The incident that caused his charmed life to come crashing down also was alleged to occur in Jimmy Savile's dressing room after he was a guest on Savile's Clunk Click show. According to alleged victim Karin Ward who was 15 at the time, Freddie Starr's "wandering hands" went up her skirt and pinched her buttocks in what she described as "being goosed." Karin has stated that she would never have even bothered reporting the incident to police had it not been for the Savile revelations and Starr humiliating her immediately following his ass groping, calling her a "titless wonder" in front of a bunch of hangers-on laughing and mocking her in the Savile dressing room.[121]

Decades after the humiliating incident Karin Ward was interviewed for two different documentaries that were produced exposing Savile, one by ITV that opened the reporting floodgate in October 2012 and another by the BBC that was never shown, pulled by BBC senior executives at the last minute in favor of airing two holiday tributes to the dead degenerate.[122] Soon after the ITV doc aired, Karin found herself interviewed by the police as Freddie Starr subsequently became Yewtree's second celebrity suspect arrested and released on bail. As to be expected, Freddie denied ever seeing or knowing this girl Karin but film footage of the program episode in question soon emerged confirming that the victim was present in the audience. Incidentally, Karin also testified that while on a camping trip from her Norfolk children's home to the notorious island of Jersey where kids were regularly used and abused by British VIPs, she reported that savage Savile molested her there as well.[123]

Though Operation Yewtree ultimately concluded that insufficient evidence to prosecute comedian Freddie Starr resulted in no formal charges ever filed against him, based on testimony from other alleged victims, a year later in 2013 Starr was rearrested and again a third time, yet strangely never charged.[124] After his fourth arrest, Freddie Starr vowed to bring Operation Yewtree "down on its knees."[125] Though he successfully evaded prosecution, his reputation was completely tattered. Knowing he couldn't take on and expect to win in court against the Met Police behind Yewtree, a vengeful Starr went on the offensive filing a suit against his prime accuser Karin Ward for libel and defamation of character. But in 2015 the presiding judge ruled in the victim's favor and Starr was stuck with a million pound legal bill to cover Karin's attorney fees.[126] Still claiming his innocence with his career and life torn asunder and his health allegedly failing, Starr promptly sold his English property and moved to Spain without paying his debt. In the end, Crown Prosecution Service decided against charging Starr for any crime at all.

It appears the farcical, on again, off again arrest antics were all for show, amounting to a colossal waste of time and manpower at exorbitant taxpayer expense, not to mention causing further despair to already damaged lives. The question lingers, was Starr ultimately spared from standing trial because he could return the damage on others higher up on the pedophilia food chain?

After skipping out, Starr reported to The Sun that at times he felt like taking his own life:

I was trapped like a dog. So I thought I'm just going to get on a plane and go to Spain. And this is where I'm going to die… Freddie Starr the entertainer is dead.[127]

But at last report in late 2016, an unshaven, pudgy Freddie rose from the dead and came out of hiding to entertain again, singing Elvis songs at his favorite local karaoke bar in Costa del Sol[128]… speaking of pedos named Elvis,[129] apparently Starr reinvented himself as a white-haired version of another bloated Elvis sighting. Though he claimed to be broke and unable to pay his legal fees back home, he had enough cash to plunk down £133,500 for his swanky pad on the Iberian Peninsula pleasure seeking paradise.

Also arrested during the first week of November 2012 was Wilfred De'ath, a BBC producer through the 1960s and 1970s who worked with Jimmy Savile on the radio program Teen Scene.[130] De'ath would later be interviewed in the explosive ITV documentary "Exposure - The Other Side of Jimmy Savile," stating that in phone contact as well as an in-person meeting in 1964, he saw firsthand evidence that Savile was engaging in unlawful sex with an underage girl estimated between 12 and 14, leaning towards 12.[131] But in October 2012 as part of the Operation Yewtree witch hunt, De'ath found himself accused of sexual assault but the alleged teenage victim as an adult would later withdraw her complaint and, as with Starr, the police never did charge De'ath with any pedophilia crime.

As a fresh grad out of Oxford at age 23, the BBC hired Wilfred De'Ath as its youngest ever producer. But in the 1970s the acerbic whiz kid was sued for libel, writing that nine of his contemporaries were “intellectual pygmies.” He lost not only a costly legal battle but his two decade long career at BBC as well, sending him in a downward spiral for the next many years living in France as a homeless person, moving back and forth from the streets to jail cells over a series of petty crimes. Self-admittedly leading a riches-to-rags scoundrel’s life, the 81-year oldie still manages to write a column for The Oldie about his up and down, colorfully checkered life.[132]

Dave Lee Travis and Jimmy Savile were both highly popular BBC DJ colleagues and Top of the Pops presenters, apparently affiliated with the same BBC child sex club from the late 1960s into the 1980s. The irony of Travis’ statement paying tribute to his friend Sir Jimmy proved especially accurate for him:

We are all going to be worse off without him around.[133]

As the fourth Operation Yewtree suspect, the former BBC Radio 1 morning show DJ host Travis was arrested on pedophilia charges and taken into custody for 12 hours after an early morning raid at his home before his release on bail in November 2012.[134] Travis was eventually acquitted of a dozen charges in a first trial in 2014 as alleged underage victims’ claims that he groped them decades earlier were not persuasive enough for the jury to convict.[135]

However in a second separate trial in September 2014, Travis was found guilty of indecent assault on a young researcher in her early 20s working on the BBC production of the Mrs. Merton Show in 1995, receiving a three month suspended sentence.[136] In December 2015 a three judge appeals court panel upheld his conviction,[137] unconvinced that the 1995 victim had lied about her accusation. His victim has explained that the veteran DJ saw her smoking a cigarette in a BBC corridor, and jokingly admonished her, “You shouldn't be smoking. Think about your poor little lungs.” She testified in court that he then walked up to her and proceeded to grab and squeeze her breasts for 10-15 seconds, adding that she was frozen in total bewilderment before retreating to safety.[138]

While the 1995 assault victim - comedienne Lucy Porter - who has worked Travis’ “groping my tits” incident into her standup comic routine after becoming a television personality in her own right,[139] all along the aging DJ claims he’s been a wrongfully accused innocent man and victim of a post-Savile witch hunt leaving him in financial ruin. But as of March 2018 a half decade after his initial arrest, the now 72-year old Travis is once again back to work hosting a two hour weekend spot with the new digital station United DJs Radio.[140] Maintaining all along that he’s the one who’s been a victim, the former BBC shock jock can’t hide his bitterness:

> I do have pretty negative and strong feelings about things people have done that have been totally wrong. The unfortunate thing is that nowadays someone only has to say something and that’s enough to stop a person’s career.[141]

Again, Travis supporters believe the former BBC star has been unfairly maligned as a martyr for what they consider trumped up charges in a mockery of justice, succumbing to pressures to justify Operation Yewtree by finding so called pedophiles to pay for Savile’s crimes in a feeble PR campaign to placate a shocked, incensed public… in effect, hanging from the gallows both innocent victims as well as a few low level offenders in order to shield guilty pedophilia kingpins at the top of the British Establishment. Fellow television presenter Noel Edmonds maintains that the royal family and the Thatcher government have been just as guilty for the Jimmy Savile scourge as the BBC.[142] Facts backing up his claim will be addressed later in Chapters 21 and 22.

If Travis did grope, and he may well have, clearly grabbing a woman's breasts he didn't know without her consent is rightfully a reprehensible act and legitimate crime. But brutally raping thousands of victims - both young and old in hospitals or on BBC premises including sex with dead corpses in the morgue, all with fully complicit knowledge and protection from fellow pedophile top politicians, royalty, MI5/6 and BBC executives, in 180 degree contrast, based on this single incident - even if guilty, Dave Lee Travis' behavior isn't even remotely comparable to Savile and others atop United Kingdom's predatory pedophilia network. And to that degree, he and others like him in the post-Savile witch hunt are victims. Meanwhile, above-the-law unreachables atop government and royalty continue satanically raping and murdering kids in droves. This is a total mockery of justice for all humans on earth. Yet nothing changes.

It's obvious the British police targeted Travis as a designated sacrificial victim to doggedly pursue in order to safeguard the bigger pedo-operation of sodomizing Luciferian cannibals that own the pedo-cabal so that they remain free to continue slaughtering both our innocents and humanity. Rather than bring the planetary ruling monsters responsible for this egregious global crisis to true justice, throwing a few minor "victims" under the bus as a convenient, wag-the-dog, stop-gap measure is nothing short of an insult to our intelligence. The lap dogging Scotland Yard/Metro Police in their Operation Yewtree cover-up are puppet controlled whores, proverbial gatekeeping foxes guarding the elite's satanic henhouse, in obedient protective service to their beastly masters - the earth's real pedophile rapists and murderers that continue destroying countless children with complete impunity. Without exception, the top tier of criminal power on earth has always been allowed to live above the law.

Whereas Travis may be a victimized scapegoat, plenty of other BBC Radio 1 DJs and longtime presenters clearly are not, and aside from Savile, at 77 years old Chris Denning is currently serving a 13 year sentence for his plethora of pedophilia crimes.[143] Police and court records show that during his marathon DJ-pedo-career from the 60s through the 80s, Denning groomed boys as young as 8 and savagely abused dozens of underage victims in his home, even in Savile's home,[144] at BBC studios, on the road, in hotels, even offering his boys to fellow DJs and introducing others to fellow pedophile rocker Gary Glitter, and on and on it goes.

Get the picture? Savile was never a lone operator as portrayed by mainstream media but a procurer amongst an entire brigade operating within a vast ring of fellow BBC and British Establishment pedophiles. Just like Hollywood pedophilia, for decades the BBC has been an open secret cesspit. Inside bystanders within the corporation have long known and said nothing because countless BBC powerbrokers were also actively involved within the larger British Establishment's pedo-network that of course includes prime ministers, cabinet ministers and parliament members as well as black nobility royal bloodlines. But more on their crimes in coming chapters.

Speaking of royalty, aside from Savile and his horde of BBC pedo-pals, another mainstay BBC pedophile employee that the corporation long protected is none other than Queen Elizabeth's 2005 official portrait painting artist, the Aussie born "Tie Me Kangaroo Down Sport" singer-child rapist himself Rolf Harris.[145] After a couple dozen complaints surfaced during the post-Savile stampede identifying him as their sexual predator, in 2013 Harris was arrested and in 2014 convicted and sentenced to almost six years imprisonment for committing a dozen indecent assaults against four underage girls as young as 7 from 1968 to 1986.[146] His most frequently abused victim was his own young daughter’s best friend starting when she was only 13, amounting to 7 of 12 counts against him, similar to the other BBC musician derelict Gary Glitter.[147] But unlike fellow BBC pervert Savile, despite a lenient sentence at least this monster was forced to start paying for his disgusting, shameful sins in this world prior to the next. In the mid-1970s his buddy Savile invited his fellow BBC pervert for a pre-bedtime tour at Broadmoor, the country’s most notorious maximum-security mental-health facility just so the lechers could gawk at the women having to undress in the hallway in front of male and female staff.[148] To make it more bizarrely Fellini-esque, Harris went into an impromptu version of his Tie Me Kangaroo Down Sport.

No doubt as a damage control, PR gesture to distance herself and her royal family from the disgraced convicted child sex offender, in 2015 the queen stripped the 84-year old Harris of his coveted CBE award - the Commander of the Civil Division of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire.[149] Here’s a dot connecting observation – every time the crown bestows knighthood and excellent order memberships on her loyal subjects, you can almost bet they’re pedophiles or pedophile enablers as part of their illicit deviant club. Pedophiles reward their own kind. The queen took her OBE back from Harris immediately after it went public that the vile, remorseless pig sitting in jail had written a vindictive letter containing demented lyrics to a composed song calling his victims whose lives he destroyed “woodworms” crawling out of the woodwork 40 years after the fact to lay claim to his millions.[150] After decades of Rolf Harris also taking devilish delight exploitatively ravaging admiring underage female fans, crawling out from underneath the same BBC predator rock as Sir Jimmy, in May 2017 at age 87, the serial pedophile was released from prison.[151]

With all of Great Britain watching, by 2014 Operation Yewtree was growing desperate and needed convictions in the Savile aftermath following a series of arrests resulting in either no charges or trial acquittals for a number of early suspects. The police scam operation finally struck gold, nabbing its first conviction to bring down UK's biggest publicist kingpin when Max Clifford was found guilty in May 2014 on 8 of 11 counts of indecent assault against seven teenage girls aged 14 to 19 from 1966 to 1984.[152] Ironically early into Yewtree, it was Clifford who was telling the press that dozens of stars were contacting him right and left for protection and advice fearing they'd be arrested next over their past child abuse crimes. Little did the PR spin master know that it would be him who would be next, and the first conviction to boot.[153]

Then once incarcerated, many of those same famous predators worried Clifford would use his plethora of dark secrets to write a tell-all book in prison to pay for his legal fees that would expose all his former pals. But instead, the once PR kingpin used his prison time to purposely bankrupt himself in order to deny victim compensations, liquidating his wealth by June 2017.[154] Though he planned to appeal his case in 2018, he never got that far, as his 8-year sentence was abruptly cut short when he apparently suffered a fatal heart attack in his jail cell in December 2017.[155]

Critics of the 2014 verdict in the post-Savile era insist that Clifford's relative "minor improprieties" haplessly turned him also into a witch hunted scapegoat paying for mountains of unpunished sins of Savile and others. The man who once boasted Sinatra, Muhammad Ali and the Chelsea Football Club as his clients[156] and who current music industry mogul Simon Cowell once attributed "hiring Max Clifford" as the best career decision he ever made,[157] the publicity guru must have also held so much inside dirt on Establishment

VIPs from the royals to Westminster that with his sudden passing at 74, Max Clifford may have been the pedo-elite's sacrificial fall guy used as political grist for the damage control mill in yet another installment of "dead men tell no tales."

Another big UK media star disgraced from what he figured was his untouchable BBC throne is longtime host and presenter Stuart Hall who turned 88 this year. Arrested as a result of Operation Yewtree in December 2012, Hall pled guilty in May 2013 to sexually assaulting 13 girls, one as young as 9, from 1967 to 1991.[158] He was then convicted and sentenced to a paltry 15 months in prison in 2013 before appeals court judges tacked on another 15 months. This unremorseful pedophile was released from prison in December 2015 and prevented from moving to Spain (unlike unprosecuted other ex-BBC fallen star Freddie Starr). And to further demonstrate the aforementioned nexus between Queen Elizabeth and pedophilia, shortly before the perv's arrest, the queen also rewarded yet another "national treasure" turned disgraced BBC pedophile with The Most Excellent Order of the British Empire (OBE).[159]

Yet another low life errand boy in this never-ending saga of filth and perversion comes one of Savile's own chauffeurs - Ray Teret, at 73 sentenced in December 2014 to another 25 years behind bars for luring at least 11 underage girls with alcohol and drugs along with his relative mini-celebrity status to brutally rape victims between 13 and 15 years old from 1963 to 1979.[160] Teret was already convicted of sexual assault of a minor back in 1999 but may subsequently be prosecuted for sexual attacks alleged by yet more victims coming forth during the Savile aftermath.

Another Yewtree semi-notable suspect whose home was raided in December 2012 is 68-year old Fred Talbot, the ITV This Morning weatherman for sexually assaulting boys while a biology teacher back in the 1970s and 1980s.[161] As the number of victims kept growing to at least ten, eight more months were tacked on in November 2017 to his already 4-year sentence in Scotland in May 2017 for abusing seven more schoolboys on top of an original 5-year prison term received from Manchester Crown Court for molesting two more underage victims.

But other than this handful of relatively little known low-life predators, for all its efforts, Operation Yewtree has been an utter waste and complete failure at placing the most powerful pedophiles in the United Kingdom behind bars. To add insult to injury, more than a few of the identified suspects that were publicly arrested for pedophilia were never prosecuted for lack of evidence. To name a few… A month after Wilfred De'ath's arrest, in December 2012 another former fellow BBC Radio 1 producer that worked with Savile in the 1960s and 70s, the then 76-year old Ted Beston was arrested but told in May 2013 he would not face charges.[162] Beston and Savile were close friends collaborating on a series of BBC shows - Savile's Travels, the Jimmy Savile Old Record Club and the Double Top Ten Show. Beston is said to have procured underage girls and young women for Savile and was questioned again by police in November 2015 under "Savile related" crimes.[163] More Yewtree scapegoating harassment against a more or less innocent man in order to make up for Savile sins or guilty of complicit aiding and abetting unlawful sex crimes with minors?[164] The now 80 year old has never been charged with a crime.

59-year old comedian Jim Davidson and 53-year old radio DJ Mike Osman were arrested in January 2013 but after nine months were neither charged nor prosecuted.[165] Next came comedian 73-year old Jimmy Tarbuck arrested in April 2013 and cleared a year later.[166] 65-year old BBC broadcaster Paul Gambaccini was arrested in October 2013 but after a year on bail was also not charged for alleged lack of evidence.

These men's lives and reputations were harmed and if they committed no crimes, justice was not served even with their investigations clearing them of wrongdoing. But if they did engage in sexual assault of underage minors or aided and abetted those who did, and for whatever reason, dodged the prosecution bullet for "lack of evidence," the UK justice system once again failed the victims… which leads to the next question. Are British police investigators that incompetent? Outside of the one case with Wilfred De'ath's alleged accuser backing out on her earlier complaint, no other alleged victims followed suit as reason not to prosecute those initially arrested.

Either these onetime suspects are innocent and wrongly arrested or police are grossly incompetent in putting together solid enough cases that warrant charges that will stick, or perhaps they were spared, granted reprieves by the ruling elite for staying tightlipped under pressure in not implicating their criminal masters, as Savile did his whole life, loyally never outing or biting the pedo-hands that fed him such as royalty, PMs, MPs and BBC heads. In any event, Yewtree's been a horrendous debacle and tremendously shameful waste of time, taxpayer money and personnel, unjustifiably damaging too many people's lives and denying justice for thousands of victims.

In its fourth year alone in 2015 at a hefty price tag of £5m[167] when police budgets across Britain were being cut by 20%, 63 separate police inquiries were probing historic child sex abuse in response to 2,100 victim claims, more than half at over 1,200 committed at one youth detention institution Medomsley.[168] That statistic alone is indicative of how the UK authoritarian state treats its "throwaway" youth as pure expendables used and abused by sickos in its corrosively corrupt child welfare penal system. The massive police operation as a self-serving, face-saving, damage control exercise was nothing more than a grandstanding spectacle and show of force put on by British law enforcement to make up for permitting Savile to freely roam the countryside committing 60 years of, according to BBC's account:

… Over 600 crimes of sexual abuse recorded against Savile in 28 police force areas across the UK.[169]

The National Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children (NSPCC), "the UK's leading children's charity,"[170] claimed an increase of 128% in child sexual abuse reporting from 2009/10 to 2014/15.[171] As of February 2015, a 71% increase in reported abuse cases since the Savile dam broke in October 2012 was cited by the National Police Chiefs' Council (NPCC) as part of Yewtree, released under its own codename Operation Hydrant.[172] The more investigative codenamed operations they have going, the more police chiefs get to stroke their self-inflated importance as empty gestures overcompensating for their gargantuan failures. In that February press conference, the NPCC boasted that 1433 suspects had been investigated, breaking down their numbers to reveal that 261 were classified as "prominent public persons."[173] Of those 261 so called "bigtime" pedo-suspects from the 1433 total, 135 were in TV, film or radio, 76 were politicians, 43 were in the music industry and 7 in sports. No doubt because so few of these 1433 suspects were ever arrested - only 19 in all,[174] much less prosecuted, much less convicted - 6 in all,[175] much less imprisoned for any length of time, the UK police have little to show for all their failed efforts to put child abusers behind bars, all six of them, and make kids in Great Britain safe.

The fact that such a tiny pathetic handful of pedophiles were actually convicted by Yewtree, a few elderly degenerates caught up in Yewtree's umbrella comprising among the UK's largest national police operations,[176] is yet one more disgrace on top of the already unconsequenced Savile-BBC sex ring disgrace. Britain has merely demonstrated good reason to be called the pedophilia epicenter of the world. With rare exception, the tried, convicted and imprisoned pedophile few are minor in prominence and most were handed far too lenient sentences as well. Operations Yewtree and Hydrant proved to be merely a PR stunt turned propaganda circus intended to appease the shocked and outraged nation by dragging on for years at a time pissing in the wind, resulting in millions of wasted tax paid pounds paid in the flesh of thousands of damaged and destroyed lives still waiting for justice.

The Yewtree operations are one colossal scam of the highest order as UK's corrupt law enforcement[177] take orders directly from the so called national security apparatus - MI5/6 and Special Branch, which in turn take orders from royalty and government, which in turn take their orders from the Rothschilds and other subhuman bloodlines ruling the earth through a Luciferian pedo-blackmail control system while unencumbered throughout, they're still daily defiling children across the planet en masse.

Another glaring observation begs this unanswered question. Why has this massive all-nation police probe only yielded a few aging, doddering convicted derelicts who committed damage way back in the 1950s up to the 1980s, as if pedophilia suddenly stopped in the 1990s? Do the authorities think we're that stupid to believe that younger generations of pedophiles ceased abusing children in the 1990s or that pedophilia stopped altogether? Or have their global child raping operations only submerged deeper underground and in recent decades become more tightly insulated and protected? Meanwhile, there is plenty of contra-indicative evidence that child sexual abuse, child pornography and child sex trafficking in recent years have in fact been rising exponentially with an estimated 2 million kids a year being trafficked worldwide[178] amongst 8 million gone missing yearly.[179] Outside North America, the British Isles as a very small nation is the world's largest consumer of child pornography.[180]

It's gotten so out of hand clogging up the British court system that a pilot program has been launched with Sussex police knocking on doors and giving warnings to first-time offenders downloading child porn images so that the police can concentrate more resources on pedophiles posing grave risk of physical contact with children.[181] One police chief is advocating that child porn should no longer be treated as a crime but as a deviant mental health condition meriting treatment. Critics of course slam this controversial approach warning that it may only promote more people turning to child pornography that in turn may set a certain percentage onto the slippery slope leading to physically acting out pedophilic desires on victims. It reflects the current child abuse crisis that law enforcement is overwhelmed to adequately deal with during a digital age that appears to only be contributing more to pedophilia crime.

So why aren't police busting current perps active in pedo-rings in larger numbers? Certainly not because they don't exist. Police will cite lack of resources. At the same time that humans today are being more electronically monitored and controlled than any time in history, one of the very few advantages of this advancing technology is that it should help police more rapidly identify and locate child rapists and murderers. Yet the powerful individuals behind the massive global pedophilia operations are not being arrested and brought to justice, and the reason is all too obvious – they simply are living above the law. That all these child abuse investigations have failed so miserably to catch the more "prominent" pedophiles most responsible in the UK who continue to criminally reoffend without disruption over the last three decades only says that they are all a scam, all for show to placate the angst-ridden public.

The pedophilia order-following foxes masquerading in police uniform and priestly or high court robes are guarding and protecting current pedophile rings still flourishing within the global child trafficking network. Pedophiles and their enablers from the high courts, law enforcement, intelligence services, governments, secret societies, militaries, social services, large charities and MSM have simply walled off the currently entrenched malignancy with “out of sight, out of mind,” sleight-of-hand mass deception. But despite MSM lies, with a growing awareness of Pizzagate turned PedoGate gaining traction in the last couple years finally recognizing the global epidemic crisis,[182] as hard as the cabal tries to cover-up its crime tracks desperate to put the pedo-genie back in the bottle, enough realists with eyes wide open are now seeing through the continuous stream of lies and cover-up, and as a result, in the light of truth, the crumbling pedo-cabal will eventually come tumbling down sooner than later.

By bottom line design, Operation Yewtree was a monumental disaster in terms of exposing and bringing the ruling perps most guilty to justice and attacking the current scourge of worldwide pedophilia afflicting this planet. But then from the very start that was never the intended purpose of this controlled national police operation. Its actual objective was only to obscure and shield the much larger pedophilia network that only on a minor scale includes the BBC and is sadly still operating robustly as ever today.

Even pedo-enabler then Home Secretary Theresa May admitted in July 2014 that her office had previously covered up evidence that MPs and senior government officials committed child sex abuse.[183] But in the next breath May then insists that the late MP Geoffrey Dickens never submitted a dossier to Home Office boss Leon Brittan in 1983 but only written letters. She also added that an earlier Home Office investigator found no evidence that the 114 missing sex abuse files allegedly lost were ever “removed or destroyed inappropriately.” Again, placate a skeptical public by first openly admitting to covering up the truth but then follow immediately by defending and clearing her office and predecessors of all wrongdoing. Here’s a loaded question - whose side is she really on?

To further cast clarity on whose side the current prime minister is really on, at the Savile bombshell outbreak during the first week of November 2012, then Home Secretary May rejected a single overarching, super-inquest that would have possessed the necessary muscle to examine all links and tentacles of abuse to both the national and international pedo-cabal network but instead May chose to endorse the already eight separate smaller investigations launched at the time.[184] While a slew of toothless, watered down, narrowly focused mini-inquiries are obviously aimed at protecting the global pedo-machine, the anti-pedophilia child victim advocate MP Tom Watson prophetically warned:

A narrowed-down investigation is the basic building block of [more] cover-up. Many sickening crimes will remain uninvestigated, and some of the most despicable paedophiles will remain protected by the Establishment that has shielded them for 30 years.[185]

May’s pedo-enabling strategy has obviously worked so far, for years her supposed “independent” inquiry has gone awry. Moreover, Theresa May proceeded to select two women in a row to head her so called national inquiry into how UK government institutions responded to the massive child sexual abuse scandal and both of her choices were forced to resign over blatant conflicts of interest,[186] i.e., more evidence of foxes caught guarding the pedo-henhouse.

Turns out former magistrate high court judge Baroness Butler-Sloss's brother - Sir Michael Havers - as UK's Justice Secretary for Thatcher's first eight years in office (1979-1986) knew the PM's senior diplomat Peter Hayman was abusing young boys yet chose to do nothing but cover it up.[187] In fact, Havers did his best to ensure that pedophilia allegations were never aired in Parliament. Then May's Sloss replacement – Fiona Woolf, the Lord Mayor of London, was outed as a close friend of Lord Brittan, Thatcher's notorious Home Secretary who, oops, lost the 1983 dossier on Westminster child abuse. Of course Theresa May claimed she didn't know about her two selections' biased backgrounds. Yet she and Woolf were caught colluding in a re-write seven times attempting to distance the Woolf from the pack she lived on the same street with, regularly attending the pedo-accused Sir Leon's dubious parties.[188]

Though the press called Theresa May "incompetent" for her pathetic selections to run an "open" and honest investigation into government pedophilia, May is not stupid and knew exactly what she was doing, trying to whitewash another inquiry by stacking the deck with yet more foxes. To answer criticism stemming from her thinly veiled attempts to facilitate yet another government cover-up of past cover-ups, in February 2015 May ended up recruiting a foreign judge from New Zealand to lead the next "objective" attempt at "getting to the truth."[189] The forever British stonewalling to shield powerful VIP child rapists at all cost is proving endlessly exhausting in the nation that is clearly the world's pedophilic epicenter.

Without explanation other than a feeble Dame Lowell Goddard claiming the investigation's "legacy of failure" was simply "too much" for her and she felt "lonely,"[190] so after a year and a half on the job, she abandoned ship and flew home to New Zealand. Obviously there's much more to the story than that. Perhaps she could no longer ethically take part in the Brits' habitual VIP cover-up. What does it say about a country when its chronically failed inquiries never cease failing? It says that Prime Minister May and those with the real power behind her puppet post are never going to come clean with divulging their true crimes against children. It's called self-preservation. The cabal must survive at all costs to humanity.

A fourth chair, Professor Alexis Jay, took over in August 2016 but less than a year later by June 2017 the two biggest victims groups bowed out, asserting that the inquiry was "not fit for purpose," maintaining that victims from the get-go were "totally marginalized."[191] The largest victims group had already pulled out earlier, accusing May's "Independent" Inquiry into Child Sexual Abuse (IICSA) of being a "stage-managed event," like all the rest all for show and no action. While the colossal £100million fleecing of Briton taxpayers in a fake probe lay in disastrous shambles, at this pathetic point in history, the not-so-great Britain knows only shameful shams and anything but the truth.[192] And in the course of empire rise and falls, currently also a has-been, historically America's right behind its mothership England just as mired in moral depravity and criminal cover-up.[193] No wonder, they're both part of the same global pedo-cabal.

Let's face it. If you're a blood drinking sodomizer from a black nobility bloodline still wreaking havoc on children and this planet on a grand scale, for you Operation Yewtree and May's dirty dozen "independent" inquiries have been a smashing success designed to avoid the truth to keep you out of jail and the headlines. Inasmuch as the massive worldwide child raping, murdering network still remains fully operational and still flourishing, to the elite that only means that Yewtree et al have been triumphantly effective. To this day, top tier pedophiles continue living above the law.

But what the pedo-controllers fear the most is the fact that like never before, every single day more of us are learning about their massive criminal enterprise and ultra-destructive agenda targeting humanity for further abuse and sordid atrocities. Enough of a growing minority within the pliable masses are becoming more savvy, refusing to tolerate or accept the bullshit lies and excuses heaped on us daily.

Perhaps the biggest farcical lies coming out of the wave of various Yewtree sub-operations is Operation Newgreen conducted by Savile's very own West Yorkshire Police (WYP), tasked with policing Sir Jimmy's hometown of Leeds where 68 victims have emerged in the post-Savile era. Because psychopath Savile had long been cozy bedfellows with his likeminded local police buddies, establishing "the Friday morning club" where Savile regularly met socially for tea with his closest chums in blue at his penthouse home,[194] it should come as no surprise that Operation Newgreen would be a total cover-up claiming there was "no evidence" that the most famous Leeds resident was ever protected from arrest or prosecution.[195] Moreover, Newgreen insists that the alleged 68 Savile victims never reported abuse to police while Sir Jimmy was still alive. I wonder why. Recall the earlier 1965 incident with Jimmy and his underage victim sitting in his Rolls parked in Roundhay Park and the police sergeant's response. Ever since, that little episode served as a preview of what was to follow. Blindly loyal to their own prodigal son, West Yorkshire Police have always protected Britain's most prolific pedophile who, gladly paying his protection dues, relished running PR and public announcement campaigns for his local boys in blue - a win-win for morally corrupt depravity at its worst.

Another huge reason police have no record of victims reporting Savile crimes is West Yorkshire Police's nasty habit of "losing" [or more like destroying] their own records,[196] kind of like the Home Office does. This fact has come to light repeatedly. After an honest, retired WYP officer insisted that Leeds Vice Squad conducted an inquiry investigating indecent assault allegations made by two girls against Savile in the 1980s but when no records were located on file to back it up, this discrepant matter was turned over to Metro Police to sort out, not that that'll do any good. Additionally, anonymous letters in 1998 sent to Metropolitan Police stating that Savile was "a deeply committed paedophile" were then forwarded on to West Yorkshire Police and again they too got lost in the shuffle. And perhaps the biggest reason West Yorkshire Police lag so far behind in reported sexual abuse cases and pedophile arrests is because more WYP cops turn out to be pedophiles than any other police force in the nation.[197]

The whitewashed Newgreen report also included this tidbit:

Savile offering his services as an intermediary for the police, should the 'Ripper' wish to make contact.[198]

My how neighborly of Savile considering he and Peter Sutcliffe, one of the deadliest serial killers in UK history, were actually buds who may have been partners-in-crime together. One of Ripper's victims' bodies was found at the edge of Savile's property and another attempted murder took place nearby.[199] The police knew Sir Jimmy used local hookers and even ordered an imprint of the pedophile's teeth since kinky Jimmy was a known biter and two Yorkshire Ripper victims had teeth marks on their bodies. But more on that dynamic duo from hell's incriminatingly intimate relationship and prison bonding in the next chapter.

As if not enough evidence has proven Savile was a known pimp and necrophilia Satanist involved in large scale pedophile rings, an October 2012 article in the Express entitled "Jimmy Savile Ruled Paedophile Ring" links Jimmy as the ringleader to the seashore resort town of North Yorkshire where at least two victims allege Savile assaulted them in the late 1960s and late 1980s.[200] Moreover, the article implicates Savile was involved in a child sex ring in nearby Scarborough where the entertainer maintained intimate ties to the repeatedly accused, now dead prominent businessmen and onetime Scarborough mayor Peter Jaconelli.[201] Evidence shows on at least two occasions Savile the child procurer transported underage patients from Rampton without authorization to Scarborough where he and his mayor pal are believed to have sexually abused children.[202] Four years after Jaconelli's death, in 2003 the Scarborough Police were probing the same sex ring connected to Savile and Jaconelli that resulted in the conviction of at least one other offender for molesting two girls aged 9.

Perhaps the most egregiously compelling proof that Savile was a pimping procurer for VIPs arrives as evidence has surfaced confirming that former UK Prime Minister Edward Heath (1970-1974) sexually abused children from the Haut de la Garenne children's orphanage on the infamous island of Jersey. As the planet's top offshore tax haven at $2 trillion with a population of just 100,000 nestled in the Channel Islands just 14 miles off the French west coast,[203] Jersey is the repository of both the world's most hidden wealth and the most horrific pedophilia history of abuse and cover-up – the epicenter of the epicenter. Both Prime Minister Ted Heath and Jimmy Savile were frequent pleasure visitors to the famous tourist island. Heath was a committed pedophile to the extent that he risked his political career attending at least a half dozen meetings of the Paedophile Information Exchange (PIE), the political group in the 1970s and 80s lobbying to eliminate age of sexual consent for children.[204]

Steeped in PIE, child torture, rape and murder, the cabal had Heath by the ca-balls by the time he was made PM in 1970. And within a year Heath was treasonously signing away Britain's sovereignty with a secret mandate kept hidden from British citizens for nearly a half century.[205] Heath simply did what he was ordered by his masters that put him in power as a pedophile controlled puppet usurping English law by subordinating it to the Treaty of Accession to the European Economic Union (EEC), the globalist forerunner evolving in 1993 into the unelected, undemocratic NWO monstrosity called the European Union, the same one that's literally killing nations like Greece, with Italy and Spain not far behind.[206] It wasn't until May 2018 that this subversive deception of the FCO30/1048 document was finally made public, illustrating how for the last 50 years so called national leaders are blackmail controllable pawns assigned to forward the totalitarian agenda of one world government.

Ted Heath's sodomy and killing of missing children that Savile escorted from Haut de la Garenne aboard the prime minister's yacht is supported by dock eyewitnesses that observed fewer boys returning.[207] Pedophilic child killers Savile and Heath have even been outed by a mainstream Newsweek article as raping murderers of ill-fated Jersey kids.[208] Other independent corroborating sources have emerged from abuse victims themselves as well as intelligence and national security consultant, barrister Michael Shrimpton, and investigative author-activist David Icke, a full dozen years ahead of Savile's death and over half dozen prior to Heath's demise.[209] Icke's shocking allegations against Savile and Heath went unchallenged in court while the two powerful sickos were still alive because they were true. During the long decades of abuse that likely go back to the late 1930s on the island, whenever the abused children from Jersey care homes dared to complain, they were severely beaten, further abused and locked in cellars serving as barbaric dungeons.[210] And if they carried on too long about wealthy yachtsmen raping them during their group homes' "recreational outings" at sea, if not killed, they were even more severely beaten and punished.

Shrimpton maintains that the pedophile prime minister couldn't risk victims recognizing him as their abuser and thus had a number of his tortured, sodomized older victims 14 and 15-years of age murdered and thrown overboard.[211] After the Sun ran a series of articles linking Jimmy Savile to the Haut de la Garenne abuse then under investigation in 2008, Savile threatened to sue the newspaper, vehemently denying that he ever set foot on Jersey Island. The Sun then produced a photograph with the infamous sodomizer front and center surrounded by potential victims at Haut de la Garenne.[212] The pedo-kingpin then countered with a super-injunction prohibiting the Sun from publishing the incriminating photo. And to this day the Rupert Murdock owned Sun has removed all its articles pertaining to the photos and court injunction.

Two years ago it also came to light that a Jersey Evening Post article dated July 29, 1967 quoted the disgraced entertainer boldly warning the island's parents to "lock up their daughters" during one of his many visits.[213] Savile had the audacity to boast he was "a villain" on the loose and that Jersey's "sun-bronzed daughters" need to be kept safely hidden away from his perverted evil clutches. Talk about a criminal brazenly not even hiding in plain sight.

Incidentally in a related side note, Jimmy Savile was also in Jersey in 1963, the same year that pedophile politician Lord Boothby thanked his gay lover crime boss Ronnie Kray in a letter dated June 6, 1963:

Thank you for your postcard. I very nearly went to Jersey myself, as I have never been there, and hear from so many people that it is quite delightful.[214]

Is it pure coincidence that two prolific pedophiles Ronnie Kray and Jimmy Savile were both on the same pedophilia infested little island at the same time, one procurer to the next? Back in 1963, aside from a little pedo-R&R, they may also have been expanding their mutual interests in Jersey as prime source for their child sex trafficking pipeline. Historically Jersey had already become Britain's offshore goldmine for VIP abuse. After all, Savile and the Kray brothers knew each other and were friends, attending the same sex parties with DJs, musicians and entertainers going back to the late 1950s.[215] Savile's ties to the mob originated a decade earlier during his dancehall days in northern England. A couple victims claiming to have been onetime girlfriends alluded to Sir Jimmy's underworld ties that even after his death kept them tightlipped.[216] His crude, ruffian Mafioso ways were reflected in his frequent self-reference as the Godfather[217] and frequent reminders how with just a phone call he could have enemies roughed up or worse.[218]

Despite being caught red-handed in a flagrant lie denying he was ever at the notorious Jersey Island crime scene of Haut de la Garenne, nothing further has ever come of the victims' allegations singling out both Savile as well as the murdering prime minister. And at the end of the day, incredulously not enough evidence to indict Savile and company was the false word put out by the corrupt Jersey authorities.[219] But the real reason is all too obvious - Sir Jimmy had far too much dirt on the royals and virtually all the pedophile-infiltrated prime minister governments from Ted Heath, Margaret Thatcher, Gordon Brown,[220] and Tony Blair to David Cameron (pedo-evidence on them primarily reserved for Chapter 23), more than enough to bring down the entire crime cabal in the UK if arrested. His life insurance policy bought his protection for over a half century from the pedos-on high knowing they were supplied a constant flow of fresh victims enslaved in the Luciferian power pyramid blackmail machine.

Per barrister Shrimpton, another explanation as to why Heath was spared exposure and ruin prior to his death in 2005 was that his own Cabinet Secretary Baron Hunt of Tanworth, John Hunt was yet another alleged fellow pedophile whose job was to ensure the PM's high crimes were covered up.[221] That said, Hunt failed to stop David Icke in 1998 from outing the perverted onetime 10 Downing Street resident. But unfortunately back in 1998 not enough people paid any attention to Icke, unable to handle the shocking truth. Due to Hunt's pedo-gatekeeping diligence, like Savile the serial raping murderer Heath and Hunt were both permitted earthly escape in 2005 and 2008 respectively without paying their piper. And for performing his pedo-protecting duty, cabal movers and shakers the queen and pope each rewarded John Hunt the Knight Grand Cross of the British Order[222] and a papal knighthood,[223] as further testimony underscoring the unholy nexus of pedophilia and secret societies, black nobility royalty and the Catholic Church. Of course Catholic Zionist Sir Jimmy was also knighted by the queen in 1990, the same year pedo-enabling Pope John Paul II[224] bestowed papal knighthood on the Satanist as Knight Commander of Saint Gregory the Great.[225] At the height of all the commotion caused by Savile's posthumous 2012 dark side unveiling, talk of the exposed predator as the first ever to be stripped of papal knighthood turned out to be just talk once the initial shock blew over.

For six decades the poor defenseless children of the island of Jersey and Haut de la Garenne were unmercifully preyed upon by powerful Luciferian pedophiles. Because the Jersey government and law enforcement were among the worst offenders in the once WWII German occupied (and heavily influenced)[226] autonomous island nation still a part of the queen's British Isles, ultimately the Jersey head constable Graham Power and deputy police chief Lenny Harper led a police investigation in 2007-08 to finally search for evidence of foul play at the infamous orphanage closed in 1986.[227]

But the local establishment largely consisting of threatened members from the island's pedophile ring hampered investigators' efforts at every turn, including a smear campaign from the Jersey Evening Post,[228] culminating in the island's then home affairs minister Andrew Lewis illegally suspending Powers in November 2008,[229] eventually running them both off the island,[230] but not before bones of five children had been dug up on the premises,[231] along with 65 teeth with roots attached and about 100 charred bone fragments once belonging to murdered missing kids.[232] The only reason more skeletal remains were not recovered at the site was many of the missing abused boys had been murdered at sea by prominent VIP yachtsmen like Edward Heath and his procurer Sir Jimmy. If not directly murdered by their hands, it was at their orders, which is still coldblooded murder.

Among the many powerful men accused by former residents of Haut de la Garenne and other children's homes back in the 1960s and 70s was Jimmy Savile. They never reported the abuse to the Jersey constabulary before because they knew they couldn't trust those who were part of the systemic island pedophile ring. But in 2008 when investigators Power and Harper supported by Jersey senator, health minister and strong anti-child abuse advocate Stuart Syvret were finally listening to victims, a number reported that Jimmy Savile as well as Ted Heath were among their abusers. In addition to high crimes on the high seas, Sir Jimmy also attacked victims at both Haut de la Garenne as well as the Sacre Coeur orphanage run by French Catholic nuns.[233]

Two men also reported that actor Wilfrid Brambell who played "the dirty old man" on the BBC television series Steptoe and Son (American sitcom counterpart was Sanford and Son starring Redd Foxx) sexually molested them in a backstage room at the Jersey Opera House.[234] A notorious local pedo-procurer for visiting celebs fetched the group home victims to attend opera house performances as “a treat.”[235] One was a child from the Haut de la Garenne and both were 12 and 13 years old at that time in the 1970s when Brambell in his sixties was at the height of his fame. Playing Paul McCartney’s grandfather in the Beatles’ Hard Day’s Night, actor Brambell had a criminal record dating back to 1962 for soliciting underage boys in public restrooms. Apparently he was just playing himself as the dirty old man Albert Steptoe, dying friendless and near broke at age 72 in 1985. Both famous BBC entertainers were both frequent island visiting pedophiles in the 70s, so chances are near 100% that Brambell and Savile knew each other. After all, the island has been a pedo-magnet since the WWII German Nazi occupation.

Renovation companies working on the Haut de la Garenne premises through the decades were always customarily instructed by orphanage staff to burn any bones they might encounter.[236] Traces of blood were discovered in the underground dungeon as well as detected in the drainage pipes. It became crystal clear that for many years children had been systematically tortured and killed in the “Jersey House of Horrors,” their bodies incinerated in a large furnace in an effort to eliminate evidence. Yet with all this overwhelming incrimination corroborating well-documented firsthand accounts from nearly 200 victims, the Jersey minister was unconscionably able to shut down Graham Power’s legitimate 2008 probe. Power’s replacement promptly negated all earlier findings, contending that no evidence of abuse was ever found and proceeded to drag out the whitewash for another two years till December 2010 at a hefty tax payer price tag amounting to a £20 million sham.[237]

The Jersey powers-that-shouldn’t-be also harassed and effectively shut down any journalists attempting to uncover the horrific truth as well. Clearly protecting the child rapists, as soon as the Jersey authorities in September 2011 learned that respected American journalist Leah McGrath Goodman planned to write a book about the Haut de la Garenne abuse, they had her immediately deported, later detained at London's Heathrow Airport for 12 hours, in effect under arrest while denying her right to a lawyer or notify family, subsequently banning her from returning to both the UK and Jersey.[238] It took nearly a year and a half later, a submitted petition and assistance from an MP before Leah was finally allowed back into the British Isles. Pretty pathetic, yet that's the sort of absurd extremes murderous regimes resort to when they have so much to hide.

Despite effectively quashing inquiries from both journalists and police alike, the 2008 probe did manage to take 1,776 statements from 192 alleged victims accusing 151 alleged abusers (121 of them still alive[239]), among the 30 dead Savile and Heath.[240] But because so many of the pedophiles are and were such influential wealthy figures high up in both the Jersey and London pedo-filled governments, to date only seven offenders have been successfully prosecuted.

Operation Whistle was the latest Jersey States Police investigation supposedly reexamining the historical abuse on the island,[241] including 13 famous still unnamed pedophile headliners that include celebrities, media personalities, politicians and sports stars.[242] We're still waiting on the outcome of those interested persons due for police questioning back in 2015. If like every other probe, "not enough evidence" and hence we will never hear of any of these high profile pedo-suspects, especially after the recent Sir Cliff Richard case covered in the next chapter.

In a separate inquiry, after compiling testimony for the last three years listening to 200 witnesses describe 553 offenses uncovering island abuse from 1947 to 2004, another £20 million spent on the Independent Jersey Care Inquiry report was finally released after many delays in July 2017. It demanded that the Haut de la Garenne buildings be torn down and warned that children on the island even today are still at risk.[243]

Carrie Modral, the chair of the Jersey Care Leavers' Association, a charity devoted to those who've spent time in the so called child welfare system, raises a poignant observation in October 2012 addressing why the Savile name finally resurfaced on Jersey after he died:

> But why have the States of Jersey only admitted it about Savile now? Because he's dead and he can't talk or bring down all the other big names. Their view would be that we, the survivors, keep going on about celebrities abusing kids at Haut de la Garenne, so OK, 'Here's one, he's dead and he can't talk.' But Savile was just the tip of the iceberg.[244]

Never did hear about what happened to those 13 other prominent players under investigation. Will they all be dead before their names go public like Sir Jimmy's? Clearly there remains a powerful super wealthy elite group of pedophiles and complicit enablers on the island with high connections to fellow pedophiles atop the UK government and royalty that's controlled politics in the Jersey States for many generations, persecuting and destroying careers of children's advocates who've attempted to change a long embedded culture of abuse. Courageous individuals challenging the status quo system in efforts to irradiate both the culture of abuse and its bookend twin that Stuart Syvret calls "a culture of cover-up"[245] have had their reputations smeared by the government funded newspaper, were sued, gagged, terminated from jobs and even imprisoned.[246] The pedo-network at Jersey is just as alive and well as the one at Westminster, mainly because it’s one and the same and its members all live above the law.

So despite mountains of incontrovertible evidence on the infamous Jersey Island, well over 100 identified abusers are still out there roaming free, likely still abusing kids with - outside of the token seven, not a single pedophile more has been brought to justice. Of course it’s no different from America where known pedophile overlords like the Bushes, Clintons and Podestas are still on the loose, and until those British household names of top politicians, entertainers and royal princes go down in pedophilia flames, seeing is believing that anything substantial will ever change. As monstrous as the Sanduskys, Nassars, Bennells and even Saviles are, in the whole scheme of things, all are small fish within a global ocean of pedophile network sharks. The thoroughly corrupt, evil system has always been the protective buffer making the actual Luciferian kingpins behind the world’s child raping machine unreachable and the sorry fact remains that not one dominant VIP pedovor from the political puppet establishment has ever been successfully prosecuted and brought to justice worldwide. And that’s not even including the invisible, planet-controlling pedophiles pulling all the strings who own both this diabolical network and toxic planet.

After Savile had long become a permanent BBC fixture on British television throughout the 1970s and 80s, his growing circle of pedophile friends had expanded to popular soap opera stars from the BBC set of the longtime running series EastEnders ever since its 1985 debut.[247] In 2013 on the heels of the Savile bombshell, it was reported that the Scotland Yard Police began investigating BBC employees who misused their celebrity status to groom potential underage victims engaging in idol worship, seeking autographs at and around the studio. This post-Savile development uncovering an active pedophile ring systemically operating at BBC only further confirms that the media giant institution has been harboring a longstanding continuous history of organized child sexual abuse extending far beyond one designated ringleading monster or his handful of marginal fellow BBC players.

The Sun quoted an inside source:

Police are shocked at what they have unearthed. Arrests are very likely. This is bigger than anyone imagined. A lot of work has been done over the last few months. Top police bosses have been shocked at what they have unearthed so far and are determined to finish the job.[248]

Yet another questionable BBC death among many, a related topic taken up next in Chapter 20, a convicted pedophile who worked as an extra on EastEnders due to be questioned about the BBC pedo-scandal involving the soap's cast and crew ended up dead along with his twin brother found asphyxiated with plastic bags over their heads in Spain.[249]

Speaking of EastEnders' derelict deaths, the latest deceased BBC actor - Leslie Grantham - like his BBC colleague Savile and former UK PM Heath - also escaped this world without arrest or prosecution for his pedophilic crimes to live out his lecherous life of 71 years.[250] But despite his TV stardom peaking in the 1980s, this guy was no stranger to police and criminal court. In 1967 while a young man serving in the British Army in Germany, Grantham was convicted of murder after shooting a taxi driver in a failed mugging attempt and did ten years of a life sentence for that serious crime. While in prison he took up acting and landed his popular role as an early EastEnders villain.

But his kinky lifestyle apparently began catching up to him again when in 2004 he was caught exposing himself on webcam in a lewd sex act.[251] It also was revealed he took drugs on the BBC set purchased from another BBC staffer later arrested for dealing narcotics to fellow members of their BBC pedophile ring. Then in 2009 Grantham was accused of raping an underage girl less than 16 years old culminating in his divorce in 2013 from his Australian actress wife, at which time the former star retreated to Bulgaria. But in recent years he developed lung cancer, and returned to Britain this year to die on June 15th.

The former police officer behind the ITV Jimmy Savile Exposure documentary - Mark Williams Thomas - told the Mirror within hours after Grantham's death that the actor back in 2012 as part of Yewtree was investigated over "compelling evidence" indicating Grantham repeatedly sexually abused a 14- turned 15-year old schoolgirl in 2009-10.[252] Thomas explained that after the girl contacted him "very, very scared," he informed Metro Police but the girl eventually decided not to pursue the case.

Though that March 2013 Sun article claimed that pending BBC EastEnders arrests were pending at any time, as is so often the typical trademark of virtually every pedo-cover-up, no follow-up ever occurred on this notorious BBC cast and crew investigation nor its never reported outcome during the half decade that's elapsed since. But Leslie Grantham's recent death forced the BBC EastEnders pedophile ring once again to briefly resurface in the headlines before the story once again died.

Apparently the longstanding UK history of subservient, order-following police forces and an obedient pedo-controlled, state-owned media corporation acting in cahoots with their higher-up handlers have once again sealed off all information shielding prominent pedophiles at the top as the same old, same old standard outcome in every pedophilia scandal throughout history. Despite the elite effectively burying the BBC pedo-scandal with Savile, Esquire editor and author Andrew O' Hagan took a longer pre-Savile view of BBC pedophilia in a piece published in the London Review of Books:

> Paedophilia is an ethos and institutional disorder that’s thrived in premier entertainment labyrinths.[253]

The BBC claimed that no pedophile ring ever existed at the corporation, concluding that Savile acted alone, claiming that other convicted BBC stars like Rolf Harris, Chris Denning and Stuart Hall committed their sex crimes completely independent of Sir Jimmy. Yet within seven months after the Savile bombshell broke, already 152 more allegations were made against 81 other BBC employees,[254] in part resulting in over 5 dozen known BBC pedophile convictions.[255] Of the over 80 accused, half are current BBC staff or contributors. If those numbers aren’t indicative of a BBC pedophile ring, I don’t know what is. On top of earlier evidence already presented, combined with these astounding statistics all documented and publicly reported, how can any objective observer possibly conclude that Jimmy Savile sexually assaulted 1,000 victims at the BBC studios while operating completely alone without participating within the obvious larger organized BBC network? Yet as the media corporation’s lies of denial and cover-up continue to this day, police are still investigating BBC stars accused of child sex crimes, the latest announced in March 2018 for alleged sexual assault against a child under 16 in the late 1990s.[256]

The BBC director general from 2004 to 2012 was Mark Thompson, who began his career at the BBC employed as a production trainee in 1979,[257] right at the peak of prolific BBC abuser Savile’s fame and power to harm. But just when the shit was hitting the fan bigtime at BBC over the October 2012 Savile pedophilia exposure, after more than three decades at the British Broadcasting Corporation, on November 12, 2012 Mark Thompson safely bailed for greener pastures, starting his new job as CEO of the New York Times.[258] After covering up crimes by Savile and the BBC pedophile ring committed under his watch during the previous 33 years he'd been a BBC employee, upon arrival at his first day of work in New York, Mark Thompson was asked if the pedophilia scandal exploding back home at his last workplace would impact his job at the Times, and Thompson's arrogant and highly revealing reply was:

It will not in any way affect my job.[259]

But a look back at how Mark Thompson ascended to the BBC throne is worth a peek. A major asset to his career has been his wife Jane Blumberg, like him an Oxford grad but also professor, writer, literary critic and daughter of super scientist Nobel Laureate, the late Dr. Baruch Blumberg known for his pioneering work tackling Hepatitis B.[260] The year prior to Thompson's 8-year BBC reign, in 2003 Israel had furiously cut off all contact with the BBC, and Thompson's predecessor was terminated. BBC journalist Orla Guerin not only covered Israeli victims of the Israeli-Palestinian conflict but featured stories sympathetic to Palestinian victims as well. Yet the Israeli Government Press Office (GPO) called her and BBC's coverage in general "anti-Israeli," highly prejudicial reporting.[261] Mark Thompson was brought in to fix the growing tensions. The highly secretive Balen report released internally at the end of his first year in 2004 was never made public and privy only to the brand new director general and a few of his top senior executives. Because the Balen report had found the BBC pro-biased favoring the Palestinians, to this day it remains under lock and key. Hence, within months, director general Thompson and his Jewish wife headed off to Tel Aviv to smooth over relations with then Israeli Prime Minister Ariel Sharon, culminating with the resultant concession to boycott Gaza aid to Palestinians.

When Thompson met with war criminal Ariel Sharon[262] in Israel in 2005, pledging no longer to support Palestinian charities, as head of the British government-sponsored media corporation, that little controversy fomented criticism that he was a card carrying Zionist. Order follower Thompson also promptly axed the fair-minded reporter Orla Guerin as BBC Middle East correspondent, reassigning her to Africa. And under Thompson's watch, the BBC has been relegated to being a mere mouthpiece for the Israeli lobby.[263] It's even been revealed that the BBC maintains a strict glossary of terms of euphemistic words and phrases acceptable to the Jewish State and taboo words and phrases that aren't.[264] The liberal BBC has a history of paranoia that its Middle Eastern coverage has been offensive to Israel and leans over backwards to placate the GPO's constant demands to alter and soften BBC headlines or incur more Jewish wrath.[265] In short, as with MSM and politics in the US, Israel regularly bullies and controls both its Zionist tool Mark Thompson as well as the wimpy, cabal order-following BBC.

That the exposure of the gargantuan BBC criminal cover-up of Savile and his BBC colleagues' multitude of child abuse crimes would "in no way" affect Thompson's new job at the New York Times is disconcerting to say the least. When word came down that Times Company owner Arthur Sulzberger Jr. picked the former BBC boss to be their new NYT boss, several veteran journalists boldly questioned whether Thompson was the right man for the job at the New York Times.[266] Two editors quit in protest for bringing in what more than a few staffers concluded was a pedophile enabler who actively covered up the dark criminal truth hounding the BBC for years.

Back in March 2012 director general Thompson was busily blowing smoke up his and his company's ass when he addressed the Royal Television Society in London:

> The modern BBC does everything possible to report on itself objectively.[267]

In view of his BBC's massive pedo-cover-up including the decision refusing to air the Savile Newsnight episode exposing Sir Jimmy just four months prior, the above statement is obviously a boldface lie. Despite being employed at BBC from 1979 to October 2012 and despite feeble contentions claiming he was never aware of any Savile abuse whatsoever, Mark Thompson was BBC director general when it canned that Newsnight exposé outing Savile in favor of two fluff pieces for Christmas 2011 shortly after the beast's death. Yet it was Thompson's successor George Entwistle who played the fall guy going down in flames less than two months after starting his new job.[268] Just as Thompson had no recall of Savile crimes during his marathon tenure at the BBC, when asked about the suppression of the Nightnews segment, initially he stated he had no knowledge of the program. Then realizing a flat denial might be construed as a lie, he later admitted he had "a chance meeting" about the BBC news program investigating the longtime BBC pedophile, though still hedging later when telling the New York Times:

> I wasn't told any specific lines of inquiry and certainly not anything related to the BBC.[269]

Hard to fathom how the director general didn't even bother inquiring further about the nature of the Newsnight investigation when he first encountered BBC journalist Caroline Hawley at a holiday party in December 2011 telling him he must be worried about the Newsnight Savile story. Thompson maintains he told Caroline he was unaware of the Newsnight investigation. The next day he allegedly conferred with his senior management including head of BBC news Helen Boaden. Meanwhile, journalist Caroline Hawley asserts that she did explain to her boss that the

Savile investigation was about child sexual abuse, directly contradicting Thompson's claim.[270] When pressed on why he allegedly failed to ask why Savile was being investigated by his own news team, he feebly responded:

> You can say it's a lack of imagination.[271]

In a letter from New York in January 2013 addressed to Parliament, Thompson unequivocally insisted that neither the Hawley nor the Boaden conversation:

> …told me what the investigation had been about.[272]

It's preposterous to actually believe Thompson was so blasé faire about the BBC Savile exposé that he "lacked imagination" to bother inquiring any further. Playing dumb to save his own sorry ass so he could successfully escape to New York unscathed from all the flak subsequently heaped upon his successor in order to take over the New York Times only suggests that Mark Thompson is also being heavily protected by his pedo-cabal masters. In the words of the always inimitably incisive journalist Yoichi Shimatsu:

> By hiring a bald-faced liar rather than a journalist of integrity, Sulzberger risked his own reputation against strong objections from veteran editors who understood the ethical liability of having a new boss who's in league with elite pedophile networks.[273]

In his rash of interviews at the time, the flustered Mark Thompson bounced shamelessly all over the landscape, scrambling to cover his ass with what he claimed to know, which he maintained was virtually nothing, playing it safe, later backtracking to cover what he thought he'd said, granting himself just enough plausibility of denial to survive in New York if and when his deception ever came back to bite him in his CYA ass:

> That I might have formed the impression at the time of my conversations with Caroline and Helen that the investigation

related to allegations of sexual abuse, this was speculation on my part in October 2012 about an impression I might or might not have formed after a pair of brief conversations nearly a year earlier.[274]

Incidentally, in addition to his “unimaginative” nature, (after all, by definition order followers are always unimaginative, especially when expressing thoughts of their own), before making his “great escape,” it’s also on record while he still the director general office, his office was warned two more times in May and September 2012 about sexual predator Savile. But no doubt “unimaginative” Thompson deemed it too “irrelevant” to his getaway transition to the New York Times.[275]

Also in September 2012, the London Sunday Times Magazine posed a series of probing questions to Thompson attempting to ascertain how much he knew and when.[276] On September 6 a letter from his lawyers outside the BBC legal department was sent aggressively threatening the Sunday Times with a libelous lawsuit should it even remotely suggest that Thompson and his BBC ever engaged in a cover-up. Clueless Thompson once again claimed he never even read the letter but a legal observer claimed if that’s true, Thompson is “just as culpable.” Of course that same merry month of September was also when the New York Times Company was actively courting the pedo-enabler to fly the British coop for the NYT henhouse just in time to avoid the heat called accountability. And two months later, he fled.

When successor George Entwistle also came up with the same lame identical excuse, also claiming ignorance that he too was never responsible for canceling the Newsnight segment and did not even know the nature of the program, also refuted by others, back in London his lie didn’t quite wash. With MPs hounding him at parliamentary hearings, a floundering Entwistle attempted in vain to pin the sole blame on Nightnews editor Peter Rippon, who apparently agreed to fall on the sword for his company despite merely following his orders from above to cancel the broadcast.[277] Rippon was the first one fired. But as more deception plainly unfolded, somebody high up on the BBC food chain also had to pay the price and since Thompson had already been given his free pass to take flight, it had to be his successor.

When queried on this volatile issue in early November 2012, during his final week in the UK at an Oxford University lecture, Thompson was still playing his "ignorance is bliss" card:

> Like many other people at the BBC and despite what you may have read, I had heard none of the stories about Jimmy Savile.[278]

Even when Thompson's extremely questionable word is taken at face value, he was the head honcho, the leader of a giant government funded news organization that's supposed to project an accurate account of what goes on in the world, much less his company. Any decent leader or director general makes it his job and responsibility to know if criminal activity is being carried out or covered up under his or her watch. When it comes to facing the dark truth about one's corporation, oneself, or an infamous past company icon, it always was met with gross BBC failures to repeatedly report the truth when opportunities availed themselves before Savile's death, right after his death and far beyond to this day. As the leader of the BBC, Thompson chose to consistently lie through his teeth to save his own skin.

Both Thompson and other senior BBC personnel have chosen to continue lying, pretending not to know that Savile and other BBC staff were committing the most egregious crimes against children for decade after decade after decade. The Corporation's across-the-boards deception has never ceased, culminating when they all lied about why they scrapped the Savile exposé pretending it was strictly for “editorial reasons.”[279] Right to the end while director general Thompson was in charge, he and his management willfully buried the truth dug up by their own enterprisingly competent, brave journalists, then despicably hung them out to dry,[280] choosing to this day to continue living the BBC trademark lie.

Nine months after Mark Thompson began his new gig in New York, believing he’d finally shucked his shady past association with his BBC pedophile network, outside his luxury Manhattan apartment he was confronted by a Channel 4 news crew asking him about his part in the Jimmy Savile scandal and how much he knew that the Nightnews exposé was about child sex abuse. Because the CEO had already been outed as a liar trying to deny what it was about, apparently Thompson really lost his cool right then and there on the street with the camera rolling. A witness told the New York Post:

He was tense and angry and was talking very loudly. They followed him around the corner and he lost his temper and shouted at them. It really caused a scene.[281]

An honest man in his position would be far less apt to have a public meltdown especially with a camera rolling if he had nothing to hide. But a proven liar that can’t escape his deceitful past certainly would.

Just as an organization’s leadership can take credit for its accomplishments during the good times, during the rough times when losses, failures or scandals arise, a company’s leader must also take responsibility for that too, even if not directly involved. But instead Thompson deceitfully played his constant denial card, slithered out of town just ahead of avoiding the runaway train wreck, only to seek safe refuge across the pond, both rescued and rewarded $5 million for his first year alone[282] at another pedophile enabling media giant where he insists the enormous scandal exploding back home that he was in charge of will not affect him in the least at his new post. That has to be foreboding to any news organization with integrity. But outside several ethical public protests and resignations, the New York Times demonstrated its lack of integrity.

And lo and behold, it hasn't affected Thompson's NYT job performance at all. In the fall of 2016 in the lead-up to the November Trump election, WikiLeaks published Podesta emails online[283] using a coded language commonly used by pedophiles per FBI documentation referring to sex with children,[284] incriminating the Podesta brothers as well as the Clintons and Obama as well.[285] Of course as previous Lolita Express frequent fliers, Bill and Hillary were already outed as pedophiles at Epstein's Orgy Island with incontrovertibly incriminating evidence reportedly in NYPD possession, stored inside convicted fellow pedophile Weiner's confiscated laptop.[286]

Thompson's New York Times along with all four other oligarch owned giant media conglomerates (down from 50 in 1983[287]) pumping out over 90% of the news propaganda frantically jumped to the immediate defense of one implicated pizza parlor owner, somehow ranked 49th on GQ's DC VIP power list.[288] So when MSM called the ever-louder internet buzz actually exposing Pizzagate's Washington pedophile ring[289] on Reddit (soon shut down) "fake news,"[290] claiming it was inciting violence (i.e., enter the "lone gunman" stooge firing off a couple rounds inside pizza joint),[291] it became the perfectly contrived excuse to roll out the elite's oppressive agenda to crush 1st Amendment free press rights with McCarthy-esque blacklisted news sites to "justify" legislating increased censorship usurping internet control so that the mainstream fake news ultimately ends up the only news in town (or world for that matter).[292]

Every totalitarian regime in history permits only state run propaganda (like the Soviet gulag era or perhaps BBC today) and, minus the internet, that's virtually where we're already at… less than a handful of major news outlets all reading off the same false narrative script. Welcome to today's Orwellian nightmare.

For once, Mark Thompson was true to his word, at the NYT he is the same pedophile enabler engaging in pedophilia cover-up that he was at the BBC, continuing to pretend that top echelons of government, the media, entertainment, the legal and economic system, charity and child welfare are not running a globalized pedophilia network. With a half dozen years now at the New York Times, Thompson is simply another cherry-picked sentinel guarding the elite's pedophile henhouse, rescued from one cover-up scam in UK with valued cover-up experience evading that pedo-scandal to be tactically redeployed to do the same in the US. Remember that in the Luciferian world, the more deception and evil one commits, the more one is rewarded by the earthly powers-that-should-not-be.[293]

The ruling elite controlling this planet are largely comprised of pedophiles and pedophile enablers. Following the money explains why the world's deepest pockets are invariably linked to so much war, trafficking of weapons, drugs, human organs, children and laundered trillions. Illuminati bloodline families like the Rothschilds are notoriously in deep in all of these mot sordid criminal activities.

Meet the only non-executive director of the BBC's new executive board - the Barclay Bank chairman until 2012 and current British Bankers Association head Marcus Agius, married to Edmond de Rothschild's daughter Katherine.[294] Barclays Bank is the most important shareholder in the NM Rothschild bank as well as the Lazard Brothers. Agius is also on the steering committee of the Bilderberg Group and on the advisory board of the City of London, where the queen's Rothschild money is secured. With his extended Illuminati family sharing connections to the Knights of Malta, the Jesuits Catholic Maltese lineage paternally and Jewish Cabbalist roots maternally, Marcus Agius is the Rothschild fixture controlling the BBC and all its director general pawns like Mark Thompson.[295]

Incidentally, in early 2012 when the crumbling cracks of the BBC scandal were rapidly spreading, Agius was caught fixing derivative rates in a separate fiasco of his own making called the Libor fixed rate scandal that led to his Barclays resignation.[296] Hypocrite BBC publishes a headline "Libor Scandal: Can we ever Trust Bankers Again?" while to this very day the scandal's central figure apparently still remains in good standing as the "trustworthy" permanent senior non-executive director on the BBC executive board.[297] The article actually quotes Agius who greedily violated the law but was never arrested. Yet to hear it from him, he was the long suffering victim in all his pretentious moral outrage… unbelievable:

> I was sick to my stomach because I realised just what an appalling thing it was and I realised what a serious implication it would have for the bank[298].

A more apropos question is can we ever trust Agius or the BBC again, because based on their histories, the answer for both would be a definite no, never. After all, they not only represent the cabal, they are the cabal.

Speaking of untrustworthy and also unprosecuted, along with Agius, JP Morgan-Citibank's Jamie Dimon was also among the biggest Libor violating crooks but paid a $13 billion bribery fine to buy off his criminal probe.[299] As a tight-knit crony of both Obama and Rahm Emanuel, Rahm fixed JP Morgan's $16 billion bailout at taxpayer expense during the Wall Street 2008 housing bubble crisis.

Compliments of Agius and Barclays “advisor” Jeb Bush, Lehman Brothers was taken over by Barclays Bank assisted by another $8.5 million US tax dollars padding the Barclays coffers.[300] Of course just like the Americans’ near $29 billion bailout, the UK government had British taxpayers coughing up a staggering £850bn in its boondoggle bank bailout.[301]

You see where all this is going? With total impunity, a predatory inner clique of pedo-vampires and cannibals get to both literally and financially feast off the lifeblood of humanity and their children. And it goes without saying that Mark Thompson and Marcus Agius as two powerful cabal agents serving their bloodline masters are in very tight with one another, not only sharing similar first names and prominent Jewish wives, but both are also Jesuit trained Catholics, thus in boldface connection with every demonic pedo-dot conceivable.[302] See why the cabal saved Thompson’s ass from the BBC shitstorm?

The BBC rot at the top only continued with its Trust chairman Lord Chris Patten from 2011-2014. The former Conservative MP and minister in the pedo-saturated Thatcher cabinet threw his BBC line managers under the bus, describing their behavior amidst the Savile crisis as “frantic faffing about,” claiming they misled him, thus strategically absolving himself of bearing any responsibility despite being Trust chairman since May 2011, a half year before Savile’s death and a full 16 months ahead of the Savile fallout.[303]

The tax paid £3M Pollard report investigated the reasons why the Newsnight segment exposing Savile right after his death was pulled by BBC management (that both Patten and Thompson headed) from its December 2011 airing in favor of a pair of already planned holiday Savile tributes.[304] But the Pollard report was also a whitewash refusing to get to the bottom of who actually pulled the plug pretending it was for bogus editorial reasons when it clearly was not. Instead of revealing the truth, the Pollard report concluded the decision not to run the story was made "in good faith" and that no evidence indicated that BBC management attempted to suppress the story.[305] Rack up another VIP CYA LIE. Every inquiry into every scandal is a vehicle used to let the guilty off the hook while patronizingly pacifying the public.

But in a secretly taped phone conversation with former Sky News executive Nick Pollard who headed the inquiry, journalist Miles Goslett was told by Pollard that he purposely omitted evidence in his report protecting Mark Thompson.[306] What Pollard conveniently left out was the smoking gun, that BBC news director Helen Boaden in a phone conversation with Thompson in December 2011, 10 full months before Thompson's BBC resignation, Boaden explicitly informed the director general that the Newsnight piece exposed Jimmy Savile's longtime child sex abuse. Thus, in order to protect pedo-enabler Thompson, the Pollard report left out confirmation that golden boy kept lying to escape punishment to secure his CEO status at the New York Times, more evidence that the VIP pedo-club protects its own.

When Trust chairman Lord Chris Patten was informed by Pollard that he'd left out the smoking gun against Thompson from his report, Patten proceeded to dismiss it, hedging and even deceiving Parliament, still protecting Thompson and the BBC cover-up.[307] So taxpayers paid £3M for both Patten and Pollard to both withhold crucially incriminating evidence against Thompson and the BBC. As Miles Goslett put it:

If the BBC were an honest organisation, it would by now have insisted at the least that the Pollard report be amended accordingly. Until it does so, the cover-up continues.[308]

And predictably, to this very day the BBC cover-up continues.

With both the two top leaders of the BBC cover-up - Mark Thompson and Lord Patten - remaining unscathed from leading the biggest scandal in BBC's history, Patten's appointed director general and Thompson's successor, George Entwistle was forced to resign after only 54 days, though as chosen fall guy grossly overcompensated with an inflated severance package twice the amount specified in his contract at over £450,000.[309] Using taxpayer money to lavishly enrich outgoing senior management with overly generous parting gifts amidst BBC crisis cuts reflects the corporation's years of unchanged culture of greed. Throughout his 8 year run as director general, elitist Mark Thompson notoriously demonstrated total disregard for British taxpayers, again seriously undermining public trust by greedily signing off on excessive senior executive severances, bilking BBC license payers out of upwards of £369million, while flagrantly violating charter rules.[310] Thompson was the BBC director general during the first six years of an eight year National Audit Office review released in July 2013 specifying that ungodly £369million amount that might even be considered hush money payoffs. When you run with the ruling elite, as Thompson has for decades, you get used to living so high off the hog off the backs of the common people, all the while assured lifetime criminal protection from above.

While Patten's BBC Trust website vowed openness and transparency, the Lord's obscene severance packages were buried in lies and secrecy as was the creation of a new position never advertised in open competition that Patten filled with a former cabinet minister as a standardized cronyism appointment.[311]

After the likes of Mark Thompson and Lord Patten’s gross mishandling of the Savile crisis, the UK government forced the BBC to make some fundamental changes in its governing structure.[312] After Patten stepped down for alleged health reasons in 2014, Prime Minister Cameron brought in BBC’s first woman to chair the Trust. Rona Fairhead was an overt ploy to distance the BBC from its scandalous, male-dominated, sexist past.[313] Though Cameron expected Fairhead to head the Trust over the next four years until 2018 during its restructuring into a unitary board that took over in April 2017, in September 2016 new Prime Minister Theresa May gave her fellow high-achieving female an early boot, selecting former Bank of England deputy governor Sir David Clementi in January 2017 to govern the new unitary board.[314] As anti-child abuse advocate MP Tom Watson said, PM May handed the job over to the very man she appointed to create that position. You can bet that with an alumnus from England’s central bank now overseeing the queen’s BBC charter, and Rothschild son-in-law Agius a senior executive board member, the Rothschild control over the government airwaves in Britain has never been more deeply entrenched and centralized.[315]

In summary, every single one of the dozens of so called investigations associated with each and every pedophilia scandal covered throughout this book, including the plethora mushrooming from the Savile legacy alone, all amount to nothing more than just another systemic cover-up scam after the next. Infiltrating secret society cannibals atop this demonic food chain from government, security services, police, judges and the mainstream media acting as order-following foxes all guarding their satanic henhouse never fail to always obstruct justice, shut down police probes, lose incriminating evidence and otherwise conceal the truth, in order to ensure that their strings attached puppet masters controlling and protecting them are able to continue at will raping and cannibalizing children without fear of further exposure or consequence. That way every scandal to date - bar none - stays only tip-of-the-iceberg and the world's most powerful child sodomizers and murderers continue unimpeded and uninterrupted in their wholesale slaughter of our innocents on an unprecedented, massively globalized industrial scale.

The bottom line for these bottom feeding subhuman predators' very survival is that the cabal owning beasts must in turn feed their own Luciferian masters – the demonic interdimensional forces summoned and released in satanic occult ritual that drive and possess the cabal pedovors to do their catastrophic bidding on the devil's earthly dominion, destroying what's left of our only planet we humans call home. We must fight the evil with the light of truth as our guide bringing justice, peace and planetary harmony.

The next chapter unveils how the BBC, British establishment and their stooge Savile have gone to extreme criminal lengths to ensure that the cabal's pedophilia network avoids full exposure by historically ignoring or smearing victims, whistleblowers and muckraking journalists, and if need be, silencing perceived threats by numerous staged suicides, bizarrely suspicious "accidents" and both covert and overt assassination of more than a dozen BBC employees who've likely paid the price for knowing too much. The powers-that-shouldn't be will resort to no limits in order to prevent the ugly truth from ever coming to light that would threaten to bring down their international pedo-crime cabal.

Chapter 20 Savile: Occult Death Cult Practitioner of Satanic Ritual Abuse, Necrophiliac & Best Friend of Britain’s Deadliest Serial Killers

Aside from a 1972 sensationalized book on pornography that two-time cabinet minister in the Harold Wilson government Lord Frank Longford authored, based on a just completed fact-finding mission with Jimmy Savile and Cliff Richard,[1] Lord Longford and Sir Jimmy also held in common another strange, obsessive fascination - their creepily close friendships with arguably British history’s worst serial killers - Myra Hindley and her partner in crime Ian Brady.[2] Savile’s close ties with Brady dating back to their killing spree were kept mostly on the low while Longford’s public friendship with Hindley once she was behind bars included his “humanitarian” efforts to rescue her from state bondage that backfired with growing negative media coverage on both Longford and Hindley.[3] Unwittingly, Lord Longford singlehandedly torpedoed Myra Hindley’s hope for parole, not that the coldblooded killer deserved it.

But revealed in 2017, back in 1985 accused but unprosecuted pedophile Leon Brittan serving as Home Secretary in Margaret Thatcher’s pedo-saturated government, approved the pedophilic serial killing duo’s possible prison release as early as 1995 for Hindley and 2005 for Brady.[4] Looks like having so many pedophile friends in high places nearly paid off.

For over a half century the entire British nation has been fixated on the horror of how a young couple in Myra Hindley and boyfriend Ian Brady (who died in August 2017) carried out with such diabolical pleasure and bloodlust the brutally sick Moors murders involving sexual assault, torture and death mostly by strangling of at least two girls and three boys aged 10 to 17 between 1963 and 1965.[5] It's recently come to light through a recovered letter to a journalist, Brady boasted of killing five more children and further research has uncovered the names of a total of seven additional victims tallying a dozen murders.[6] One of their victims, a little 10-year old desperately screaming for her mother was stripped naked by Hindley while Brady took at least 9 photos of their traumatized defenseless prey, all the while tape recording her last few minutes alive that was later replayed at their trial.[7] It was Lord Longford's friend Jimmy Savile who already knew and had bought Brady's child porn photos of young children that likely included their victims even prior to the serial killers' 1965 arrest.[8]

Yet leave it to devout Catholic Lord Longford to use his powerful contacts in government and high courts to tirelessly advocate for coldblooded Myra's prison release during the final 35 years of his life till death do him part in 2001 at age 95.[9] Their bizarre friendship is now the portrayed subject matter in a Golden Globe winning 2018 released film entitled "Longford."[10]

Lord Longford began collaborating with yet another powerful figure - journalist and Observer editor Lord David Astor (yep, from one of the world's most famous, wealthiest Illuminati bloodline families[11]) also an avid Myra Hindley freedom fighter. For 20 years Lord Astor and Hindley exchanged letters, and both lords conferred on strategizing ways to help the child killing satanic witch be set free.[12] Her sidekick Brady was the occult alchemist tied to Savile occult rituals at the Moors.[13] Why would two prominent Oxford grad Lords Longford and Astor, the upper crust of upper crust, take up such an unholy cause on behalf of what the press was calling "the most evil woman in Britain?" Like attracts like, that’s why. Despite this odd disparity, the media simply passes it off as two misguided liberals in their senior years seeking redemption through saving one lost soul… hardly. Bottom line, these two serial killers and their beloved, famous, respected friends all likely belonged to the elites’ not-so-secret crime cabal network.

As their loyal friend and supporter, Savile visited each murderer in prison and played songs on his radio show encoded in dedicated message as part of a secret occult system that the three utilized to communicate. A longtime Moors murder investigator has concluded that Brady and Hindley were part of Jimmy Savile’s child sex ring.[14] When Savile was asked publicly about the Moors murders, his outlandishly truthful reply was, “I am the Myra Hindley story.”

As another indicator Myra had friends in high places, her story took a bizarre twist in November 2002, when she likely did not die at age 60 as the media reported. Within a day or two of her so called death, Myra Hindley was spotted and identified by a school nurse after Hindley’s car accidentally bumped into hers.[15] When the nurse exclaimed, “You’re Myra Hindley,” the woman responded, “You can’t say that! You can’t say that!” and jumped back in her car and speedily drove off. Jotting down her license plate number, when the nurse reported the incident to the police, they told her to withdraw her accident report and that it if she knew what was best, it never happened. She went to the local paper and spoke to a journalist who then contacted Lord Longford’s son who also alluded that Myra was still very much alive. No death certificate was ever published and her body was apparently “rushed” to cremation. Then location of her supposed “unknown” ashes several months later were reportedly “found” in - of all places - Saddleworth Moor where all her victims were buried.

Also the same year 2013 was when the Moor was implicated as a longtime satanic site where young boys and girls were ritualistically sacrificed and snuff films were recorded for secret distribution to wealthy Luciferian clientele.[16] Hindley and Brady were part of the earlier cult that was part of the larger satanic pedophile operation that Jimmy Savile, MP Cyril Smith and other British VIPs belonged to, which explains why the pedo-cabal might fake Hindley's death and assist her in assuming a new identity.

Evidence has also emerged that Jimmy Savile was well read in Aleister Crowley's Thelema philosophy that became the cornerstone of Crowley's sex cult OTO. Myra the witch, Ian the alchemist and Sir Jimmy the wizard are believed to have participated in black occult rituals together on Saddleworth Moor, the satanic location where most of their murders occurred and bodies lay buried.[17]

Back in the early 1970s Janie Jones was a singer who ran sex party orgies for BBC DJs and executives out of her home with schoolgirl dressed prostitutes supplied by record companies as bribes to entice DJs to play their records over the BBC airwaves, caught up in the "payola scandal."[18] The police investigation in an early BBC scandal in 1971 must have turned up some pretty explosive incrimination against Savile and others at the BBC because the investigative findings have been sealed for 50 years. With 47 years down and three more to go, more dirt on Savile and the BBC await.

As part of that payola fiasco, in 1974 Janie Jones was arrested for controlling prostitutes and perverting justice, serving three years in prison where she met Myra Hindley and became another member of her twisted flock of devoted supporters.[19] Upon Janie's release, an angry Jimmy Savile demanded a meeting with her to chastise over her favoring Myra over his boy Ian. Lord Longford, Lord Astor and Janie Jones and others were taken in by Myra's false contentions that she inadvertently fell under Ian’s demonic spell to blame him in her bid for freedom,[20] and Savile, who personally knew both serial murderers, realized Myra was just as wickedly guilty and evil, if not more than her boyfriend. But as a misogynist, Savile always favored friendships with male serial killers over females. After carrying on about 13-year old girls actually “wanting” it in his warped need to justify his raping young girls, Jones said that Savile then went into “bragging that he knew Ian Brady well” and that it was he who deserved her favor.[21]

Yet more satanic linkage to Savile and his ties to the Moors have also surfaced. A man described as a High Priest of Satan named Michael Horgan regularly organized satanic ceremonies at Saddleworth Moor where children 2 to 13 years of age were drugged, ritually tortured, sexually abused and sacrificed in the same satanic pedo-ring connected to Savile, Brady and Hindley.[22] The ceremonial abuse was often filmed for snuff distribution. Eventually Horgan was jailed in 1992 for 10 years. His own stepson, Michael Roberts, recounted the painful trauma that Michael Horgan sadistically put him through, recalling his molestation at the pudgy, filthy fingers of prominent MP pedophile fat boy himself - Sir Cyril Smith who was friends with Horgan, Savile and a bevy of other pedo-linked powerbrokers. Lots more on this obese, queen-knighted, scum-faced royal lieutenant tied closely to the Westminster pedophile abuse scandal-cover-up featured in Chapter 23.

Before leaving the Longford-Hindley-Saddleworth connection behind, one more telling fact - the porno-serial killer-infatuated Lord Longford’s niece is none other than the child porn supporter, Paedophile Information Exchange (PIE) advocate, lower-the-age-of-consent-to-10 supporter Harriet Harman, the longtime Labour Party MP and deputy party leader. Recall from Chapter 2 that when she was legal officer for the National Council of Civil Liberties (NCCL now known as Liberty) from 1978 to 1982, she actively lobbied to legalize child pornography unless it could be proven to harm a child.[23] The NCCL admitted PIE members allowing them to speak at its official functions and use the NCCL platform to promote legalization of incest. As the legal officer for four years, Harman signed documents promoting pedophilia and then when confronted in 2013, flatly denied it, refused to apologize, profusely defended herself against any wrongdoing, claiming to be a victim of a vicious smear campaign, and was willing only to regret PIE's status as an affiliate NCCL partner.[24] Moreover, her Labor MP hubby and party shadow police minister Jack Dromey was NCCL's chairman throughout this period in the late 1970s. Also Harriet Harman is a cousin of pedo-enabling former Prime Minister David Cameron who is a cousin of Queen Elizabeth.[25] Pedophilia enabling - if not pedophiles themselves - obviously runs in the family.

Aside from the Moors abuse and killings and occasionally wearing the number 666 on his marathon runs, even more conclusive evidence indicating that Jimmy Savile was a Satanist is a 1975 incident in a candlelit basement room deep in the bowels of Stoke-Mandeville Hospital. Savile is alleged to have worn a hooded robe and mask during a secret satanic ritual ceremony that involved the beating and raping of a 12-year old girl patient.[26] She was led into an out of the way room where Savile and several other hooded, masked adults joined in to participate in the satanic ritual abuse, frequently repeating "Ave Satanas," Latin for "Hail Satan." The victim recognized Savile because of his distinctive voice and blond hair sticking out from the side of his mask.

Similar to arrangements at Broadmoor and Leeds Infirmary, Savile enjoyed his own living quarters at Stoke-Mandeville where he volunteered as a porter from 1965 to 1988 and sexually assaulted at least 60 patients, volunteers and visitors with nine informal complaints and one formal complaint registered between 1972 and 1985.[27] An 8-year old brain damaged girl in a coma suffered abuse at the demon’s hands. Another 8- or 9-year old whose relatives worked at the hospital was repeatedly raped 10 times at the hospital.

Five years later in 1980 another abuse victim at the time 21-years of age reported that Savile dressed in similar ceremonial wizardly garb this time played the leading role in a satanic ritual after an orgy party held at a wealthy private London residence.[28] The victim described her ordeal to the Express:

> I was brought in to a dark cellar and made to stand in front of three men in a circle, with the man in the middle sitting on a throne-like chair in a bright gown with a cigar in his mouth. A man stood on either side in blue cloaks and masks… I was then taken by the man smoking the cigar, who I recognised as Jimmy Savile, to an altar table where I was stripped of my gown and tied to the altar. Savile then climbed on to the table and raped me. Others around him called out Satan’s name and laughed hysterically and were worked up into a frenzy.[29]

Both young vulnerable females witnessing firsthand Savile’s savage participation in satanic ritual torture went to the police afterwards but to no avail. UK’s standard police policy has virtually always been to summarily dismiss all sex abuse complaints against VIPs. Years later each young woman independently contacted the same therapist in 1992 and 1993, both struggling with the long term effects from such an emotionally jarring, scarring, eerily similar experience with Savile’s organized satanic ritual abuse ring.

Once famed pediatrician consultant at Stoke-Mandeville for two decades, Dr. Michael Salmon was also a charity organizer and chief medical director for Dreamflight, a charity renowned for annually sponsoring 300 disabled UK children on a flight to Florida's Disney World and Seaworld.[30] Dreamflight's maiden voyage was a 1985 Christmas flight with children on a jumbo jet accompanied by Sir Jimmy Savile. As a twice convicted pedophile guilty of indecent assaults, Dr. Michael Salmon also worked at the BBC and also sadistically abused at least 18 underage girls and one boy with the youngest victim only eight years old, also at Stoke-Mandeville and other hospitals from 1975 to 1989.[31] At 81 in December 2016 when already serving an 18-year sentence stemming from the two prior convictions dating back to 1990, the disgraced former celebrated doctor was convicted for a third and final time just two years after his last one. As a consequence, Michael Salmon will die in prison.

As is so common amongst youth charities, Dreamflight has attracted a number of child predators, including Savile, Salmon and another BBC entertainer Rolf Harris who regularly attended the charity's pre-flight festivities. One of the doctor's victims specifically recalls a photo hanging on the wall of Salmon's office of his son and Savile posing together after the doctor took him to a Jim'll Fix It broadcast.[32] This confirms the doctor knew Jimmy Savile. Dr. Salmon and Savile shared too many overlapping parallels working at the same hospital during the same lengthy years, linked to the same charity while both were BBC employees and serial pedophiles victimizing underage hospital patients at the same place and time.

Additionally, one of Salmon's seriously ill victims at Stoke Mandeville confined to a wheelchair was drugged and gang raped by Salmon and two other men.[33] The girl remembers afterwards being wheeled back to her room by a hospital porter, more than likely Jimmy Savile. This incident with Savile's satanic ritual abuse involving other hospital staff victimizing yet another Stoke-Mandeville girl, point to Salmon most likely attending that satanic ritual abuse session. These recurring similar events involving both the DJ and the doctor indicate that for years they likely participated in and belonged to the same satanic pedophile ring.

But these uncanny, striking parallels don't stop there. The female face of the BBC, news presenter Jill Dando, aware of the Savile-BBC pedophile ring, and both her and Jimmy's longtime friend Sir Cliff Richard were also both Dreamflight patrons just months prior to Jill's murder.[34] And Queen Elizabeth's dressmaker Lillian Joyce Burfield and the queen honored Dame Yvonne Trueman, sister of Dreamflight creator and British Airways pilot Derek Pereira, were also both Dreamflight fundraisers as well as Stoke-Mandeville volunteers, all running in the same circles socially and professionally. So many common links appear more than coincidental, fueling high speculation that connects all the dots between already established and confirmed nefarious relationships between the royals, Savile, Harris, Sir Cliff and Jill, child charity work and Stoke-Mandeville Hospital.

A final nail in the elite's dot connected coffin exposing the wider Savile-Salmon-BBC-Stoke Mandeville pedophile ring is the fact that the primary funder of Tavistock research on torture-induced mind control and dissociative disorder is none other than a Rothschild who also happened to be a close associate of the disgraced Michael Salmon.[35] Even after he was convicted of drugging and raping children, the late entomologist Miriam Rothschild wrote the introduction to Salmon's 2001 butterfly book. Apparently they both shared an acute interest in butterflies (no doubt over the well-being of children) that extends beyond the Monarch mind control developed at the Rothschild funded Tavistock.

A psychiatrist that studied art therapy practices at Tavistock promoting a style of art depicting sex abused mind control victims called Art Brut happens to run the CrossCurrents Foundation, the major funding source for DC's 49th most powerful VIP Comet Pizza owner (of Pizzagate infamy) James Alefantes's Transformer Art Gallery that along with his pedo-pal lobbyist Tony Podesta collect and showcase this pathological "art."[36] An Art Brut favorite of theirs is former Tavistock abuse victim Kim Nobles whose artwork is prominently featured in both Alefantes' gallery, his Instagram account and Podesta's home depicting sexually traumatized children.[37] For decades the Savile-Salmon-Stoke-Mandeville-Rothschild-Tavistock-DC pedophile network has been globally interconnected through powerful bloodline families, their deep pocket foundations, elitist think tanks, university research centers, major research hospitals and large children's charities as a cherry picked fox guarded pedo-system. And of course all these "benevolent," renowned institutions in turn work hand-in-hand with intelligence services, government institutions, law enforcement, and mainstream media, all heavily infiltrated by secret society membership covertly operating unchallenged and thoroughly protected worldwide as the pedophilia webbed network.

In the 2001 Theroux documentary, Savile the satanic predator even refers to his bed at his Leeds home overlooking Roundhay Park as his "altar"[38] where sacrifices were frequently made.[39] If you view defiling pubescent virgins as sacrificing a child's innocence, then his crime scene bed could well be defined in his twisted, sordid mind as his designated satanic altar. No doubt the Satanist conducted ritual abuse there.

So vile Savile was always planting hide-in-plain-sight clues that only make sense in after-death exposure. He claimed to be Myra's story because they all were practicing the most egregious satanic death and torture rituals that defy every decent human's sensibilities to even fathom much less grasp. There are those who believe he fashioned himself as another demonic wizard like Crowley, utilizing his black magick powers to cast spells on celebrities, BBC bosses, politicians, royalty, fans and the entire nation in order to successfully cheat fate and evade exposure.[40] The megalomaniac valued freedom at all cost and the power to be able to do, say or get away with anything that momentarily pleased his whim or fancy, never worrying about paying a consequence. In his words:

> I am not constrained pretty well by anything. The tough thing in life is ultimate freedom. Ultimate freedom is the big challenge. Now, I've got it. And I can tell you that there's not many of us that's got ultimate freedom.[41]

During World War II Jimmy Savile was a young man working in the mines of northern England. But as a Mensa member and avid reader of Crowley and the occult, he would freak out his fellow miners. During a TV interview in the 1980s, he boasted:

> No-one ever did eight hours down the pit and came back as immaculate as they set off with white shirt and everything like that. They were quite convinced I was a witch.[42]

Jimmy Savile was often photographed in public wearing a wizard's gown, complete with Crowley's 11-pointed star symbolizing his satanic cult.

Yet more evidence that Sir Jimmy the queen's knight was a practicing Luciferian death cult practitioner comes from his activities in Scarborough where he and the former mayor Peter Jaconelli ran a local pedophile ring taken up already in the last chapter. Apparently not all satanic rituals involve the wearing of hooded robes and masks, at least not at the end of certain dalliance rituals. With his likeminded pervs, in an underground chamber Savile is reported to have disrobed and danced naked around a flogging post as part of a secret satanic sex “club” in Whitby, Scarborough, where he lived for many years with his mother.[43] Along with a chamber flogging post, other reported features included a painted pentagram, black candles, restraining shackles and assorted S&M paraphernalia.[44] It’s believed that fellow pedos Savile, Jaconelli and other prominent local figures regularly conducted occult ritual abuse in their subterranean chamber. A local insider stated:

Someone once made a recording of what unfolded and that film is still said to be in existence in DVD form. From what I understand this was not much serious Satanic ritual but celebrities and local dignitaries dancing around naked with a Satanic theme going on.[45]

Serious and hardcore or not, this Scarborough scene sounds awfully familiar, reminiscent of the infamous Bohemian Grove in northern California’s Sonoma County where the elite run around naked in the redwoods at their exclusive, highly guarded summer camp for Luciferian puppet presidents and cohorts. Throughout the world the planetary controllers are bonded by their demonic occult rituals in the form of ceremonial torture, rape and sacrificial murder of children, be it in Scarborough, Scotland’s royal Balmoral Castle,[46] Bohemian Grove,[47] Stoke-Mandeville Hospital or underground milabs.[48]

Another related article from the local publication Real Whitby adds that Savile and “The Club” as the locals called it also partook in satanic ritual abuse ceremonies “on the edge of the moors” just outside Scarborough Borough,[49] perhaps similar to notorious Saddleworth Moor. The four decade run of South Yorkshire Police veteran who retired as acting police chief turned Scarborough Council Leader Councilor Tom Fox is accused of knowing of Savile’s longtime pedo-satanic activities in the area yet turning a blind eye. Of course everywhere the Crowley wannabe wizard went during his confirmed near six decade long crime spree, law enforcement, the BBC, government and royalty always had his back because they're all as guilty as Sir Jimmy's sins in their demonic sexual blackmail cesspit.

Jimmy Savile's intimate encounters with satanic killer friends didn't end with Myra Hindley and Ian Brady. Long before he befriended them, he was close to the ruthless pair of pedophile gangsters - the Kray twins, who ran the Jewish mafia out of London's East End during the 1950s and 1960s.[50] Sir Jimmy also often bragged about having pals who were IRA assassins,[51] northern England mobsters and other paramilitary groups as an MI5/MI6 operative and Mossad asset. An insider Brian Palmer responding to an article on the Coleman Experience commented:

The police took away masses of paperwork after the death of Jimmy Savile, which was said to have been immediately incinerated, it has been said that a lot of correspondence was in the pile from the ex-Israeli prime minister Menachem Begin whom rumour has it was Savile's main protector.[52]

But a decade after Brady and Hindley were convicted, Savile may well have been a co-participant in the crimes of UK's biggest serial killer - the Yorkshire Ripper who murdered and left two of his victims' bodies on or near Savile's proverbial doorstep and another corpse discarded at Savile Park in Halifax.[53] Till the sicko's death, Savile maintained a longstanding, publicized friendship with Peter Sutcliffe, the Yorkshire Ripper.[54] In northern England around Leeds from 1975 to 1980 Peter Sutcliffe killed at least 13 women, bludgeoned in failed attempts another 7, and was questioned in 17 other attacks on women involving hammers, his favorite lethal weapon aside from his trusty knife and occasional screwdriver.[55] This monster was reportedly once cheated out of some money by a prostitute and her pimp, setting him on his self-delusional Luciferian mission to eradicate as many prostitutes from the earth as possible. In 1981 he was convicted of the 13 murders and punished with 20 concurrent life sentences. A 2013 appeals court ruling dictated that he would never be eligible for parole as the now blind 71-year old paranoid schizophrenic is destined to die in prison as one of the worst serial killers in British history.[56]

While Sutcliffe was serving time at Savile's own Broadmoor high-security psychiatric hospital, thanks to Sir Jimmy, the Ripper enjoyed a morosely twisted celebrity status, especially after Savile tricked former heavyweight boxing champion Frank Bruno into a surprise photo-op shaking hands with the serial killing devil himself as the cunning manipulator smugly looked on.[57]

After a suspended mismanagement of Broadmoor in 1987, the following year Britain's junior health minister Edwina Currie "selected" the totally unqualified volunteer Savile as the task force chairman of the nation's highest security criminal psychiatric hospital.[58] His formal Broadmoor documents included his false title "Dr. Jimmy Savile, OBE, KCSG, LLD."[59] For Britain's Health Minister, Kenneth Clarke, accused of sexually assaulting a teenager[60] and confirmed pedophile protector,[61] to assign the serial predator in such official capacity demonstrates Savile's immense power and reach high up into Britain's Thatcher government (fully covered in Chapter 22),[62] further implicating that a national pedophile enabling network within the UK government was fully operational.

Calling himself "Governor," the celebrated predator was awarded his own plush office at Broadmoor, his own sleeping quarters, gold plated keys, and full run of the institution.[63] Ensuring that his friend Sutcliffe's incarceration was a cushy accommodation, even after he killed and left for dead 20 women, Sir Jimmy immediately lobbied for coed access so his buddy could enjoy sex with female fellow inmates.[64] One of Sutcliffe's nearby cellmates for six years stated that Savile would regularly have tea with the Ripper inside his quarters, locked in spellbound conversation for hours on end.[65] Nurses commented that they heard Savile's belly laughs coming from Sutcliffe's room reacting to the Ripper's sick jokes as the likeminded predators were obviously bonding.[66] The serial pedophile would often boast how he was such a big shot at Broadmoor, able to get 60 violent mentally ill patients, some convicted murderers released.[67] Fortunately, two years after Savile's death, the court made certain that was not going to happen for the Ripper.

But it turns out that Savile and Sutcliffe didn't just meet at Broadmoor. Just like the Moors murderers, back in Savile's hometown of Leeds when the Ripper was still a free man on the loose during his reign of terror, Sir Jimmy was already apparently friends with Sutcliffe.[68] When the murderer was questioned by police, Sutcliffe even mentioned Jimmy Savile by name.[69] Because Ripper victims sustained bite marks on their chests and bodies, the Leeds police even sent for Savile's dental imprint for analysis. With two of the victims' bodies discovered so close to Sir Jimmy's penthouse property and Savile known to have liaisons with local prostitutes, the most famous Leeds resident at one time was considered a suspect and possible accomplice.[70] Additionally, both whackos shared an unquenchable obsession for dead bodies.[71]

Former detective John Stainthorpe worked on the Yorkshire Ripper investigation. Based on tips from the public, the lawman not only confirmed Savile was briefly a suspect, but he also stated:

Child perverts soon become child killers.[72]

Professor David Wilson, head of criminology at Birmingham City University and former prison officer, draws a striking parallel between the known serial pedophile Savile and the known serial killer Sutcliffe:

> Both inhabited a world where men were encouraged to take what they wanted by force and where girls and women were seen as things to be used and then discarded. They used sex and violence instead of intimacy to express their inner demons - the need to be powerful and to control girls and women.[73]

The prospect of Savile being a serial killer was so strong that a year after the pedophile’s death another leading criminologist, Dr. Ian Stephen, urged police to investigate Savile as a suspect in cold case murders and missing persons investigations around the nation:

> It is possible that he [Savile] upped the game, that he needed to get that buzz from getting away with it, and the question is does he increase it? There is always that risk with people who are sensation seekers, they sometimes get bored and raise it and the possibilities are there.[74]

In 2001 while agitated over documentarian Louis Theroux’s questioning about his pedophile rumors and secretly recording Savile bragging about his criminal exploits as a nightclub boss in Leeds, Savile threateningly blurted out:

> I mean, he was having a go to try and get a bit of salacious TV so of course I suddenly drop into Godfather mode. If he wants to die, he can die. He won't be the first that I've put away.[75]

This utterance is both an aggressive threat and outright boastful confession to murder. Yet there’s more.

Alleged Savile victim, 46-year old Georgina Martin, maintains that Jimmy Savile began sexually assaulting her when she was just 13, and continued allegedly having his way at least 20 more times over the next three years.[76] Near certain that Savile impregnated her at 16, she contends that her now 29-year old daughter is Savile’s. While the mother and daughter want a DNA test to confirm whether the daughter’s father is Savile, neither claim they seek financial compensation. Georgina stated that as soon as she told Savile she was pregnant, he angrily wanted nothing more to do with her. Another impregnated 16-year old victim was instructed by the infamous rapist to threaten suicide if not granted an abortion.[77]

During Georgina’s three year sexually abusive relationship, Georgina maintains that she learned extremely disturbing information about Savile that police would still find useful:

> He told me so many warped secrets and let me in on things I now realize are significant to detectives investigating what he did. I have tried to blot it out of my mind, but I can’t. I know more about him than the police know. He was obsessed with death and with the Yorkshire Ripper, Peter Sutcliffe. He would always tell me how he had to be careful, especially with the ‘birds.’ When we went out in his car he would point out spots where dead bodies had been found and claim the Ripper had not been working alone*. He told me he had been questioned by police after the body of a young girl was found near his home covered in* bite marks [just like Georgina admitted he gave her]. Jimmy said they had made him hand over a sample bite mark. But he was always bragging about how he was protected and had people who looked after him.[78] [Emboldened text added for emphasis]

In yet another possible murder at the hands of the “national treasure,” in June 2014 a man claiming he was sexually abused by Sir Jimmy as a boy in the 1960s while living at Roecliffe Manor, a convalescent children’s home in Leicestershire, stated that he saw Jimmy Savile dragging off a girl from the group home that turned up the following day dead.[79] Also two alleged suicides of female patients victimized by Savile at Broadmoor in part can be attributed to Britain’s most prolific pedophile.[80]

As the Jimmy Savile scandal broke in late 2012, stories from firsthand accounts of the Satanist’s love of dead bodies also began circulating. Just weeks after the bombshell of the ITV Savile Exposure doc, BBC DJ colleague Paul Gambaccini whose office in the 70s was next door to Savile’s, on a Radio 5 interview declared Sir Jimmy was a necrophiliac.[81] He said he’d heard about the claims in the 1980s. Paul cites certain news outlets as hypocrites for bragging they knew of this disturbing side of his pathology ten years earlier but remained silent. Gambaccini then questions how Savile was knighted by the queen when every sir gets vetted by MI5. That all these insiders were all too aware of Savile’s despicably deviant crimes yet poured accolades on him right to the end only goes to show that the VIP pedos in power were simply protecting one of their own.

In his many decades as a porter at Leeds General Infirmary and Stoke-Mandeville Hospitals, Sir Jimmy maintained unsupervised free access to the morgues, at Leeds from the late 1970s to the mid-1990s[82] and at Stoke-Mandeville as early as 1954, just three years into his volunteer position there.[83] His celebrity status and psychopathic nature ensured befriending the hospital chief mortician so that his inordinate amount of volunteer time spent down there hanging with the dead was never in question. It also came out that he bragged about his necro-exploits to other hospital staff. A former Broadmoor nurse maintains that Savile claimed he performed sex acts with the bodies, performing oral sex on them and placing fresh pre-rigor mortis corpses into lewd positions for sick pics. The nurse expounded:

He [Savile] was saying that they used to put the bodies together, male and female, and he also said that they took photographs and also that he got involved in some of the photographs.[84] (Emboldened for emphasis)

Note the plural pronoun "they," meaning that Savile engaged in these perversions with others, implicating again especially with distribution of photographs, the probability of a wider necrophilia ring. Another witness reported that Sir Jimmy noticed him peering at his bulbous rings on his hand and then boasted:

'D'you know what they are? They are glass eyes from dead bodies in Leeds mortuary where I work and I love working there, and I wheel the dead bodies around at night and I love that.'[85]

A night porter witnessed Savile wheeling a just deceased 4-year old's body into the Stoke-Mandeville morgue. A former therapist said that he had been told that sicko Savile was caught in the act:

Trying to have sexual intercourse with dead bodies in the hospital mortuary.

In a 1990 interview with Q Magazine, Savile spoke of his volunteer work as a Stoke-Mandeville porter:

One of my jobs is to take away the deceased. You can look after somebody, be alone with somebody, who has lived a whole lifetime, and I'm just saying goodbye and looking after him. That is a privilege and an honour. Some people get hold of the fact that Jim likes looking after cadavers and say, 'Aha, Jim's a necrophiliac!' I'm not a necrophiliac.[86]

Famous last words… A vicious satanic ritual abuser of children and pimping procurer to the powerful, serial predator of anything that moves, and even the lifeless that can't move, big or small, young or old, male or female, it never mattered as long as his victims were the most vulnerable, infirm and defenseless. Ever on the prowl, he was always ready to pounce. Savile's rapturous best five days ever were admittedly spent alone with his rotting corpse of a mother he called Duchess.[87] Savile's penchant for partnership-in-crime with his best buddies Ian, Myra and Ripper and their mutual fascination for making dead bodies makes him their likely accomplice and co-murderer.

With the binding thread that runs through Satanism, Luciferianism, 33 or higher degreed Freemasonry, the Illuminati, and the other numerous elite secret societies is systematic ritual child abuse, torture and sacrifice. Not surprising is a revealing photo at Sir Jimmy's funeral showing an inordinate number of freemasons in attendance.[88] Demonic infiltrators cherry picked to occupy enough top positions in government, military, media, law enforcement, judiciary, education, entertainment, religion, business, organized crime and social services guarantee that VIP pedophiles continue getting away with child rape and murder. Jimmy Savile was a unique common link straddling virtually all of these interlocking institutional components to UK's pedophilia network. Savile was also a British intelligence operative.[89] In his words:

I am like a sewing machine needle that goes in here and goes in there, but I am also the eminence grise: the grey, shadowy figure in the background. The thing about me is I get things done and I work under cover.[90]

Psychologist Oliver James points out that Sir Jimmy Savile possessed the dark triad of personality characteristics – psychopathy, Machiavellianism and narcissism.[91] Savile utilized his shrewdly keen intelligence to figure out others' weaknesses in his compulsive need to exploit, shock, control and hurt powerless victims. Devoid of emotion other than anger, he had no capacity to feel compassion or empathy toward others. His world revolved completely around him, and his grandiose need to inflate his own self-importance and ruthless power over others universally drove his every action motivated by a self-serving means to an end, using his "tireless" charity fundraising to predatorily access children buffered by a firewall façade of philanthropic benevolence. Savile's quirky "charm" ingratiated himself to VIP elite, facilitating alliances with prime ministers and future kings, predicated by a Luciferian pact based on sexual blackmail secrecy, a conditional, self-serving loyalty to Lucifer and self-preservation, and insulated, above-the-law firewall protection.[92]

The massive compilation of evidence of his "deep cover" damage and depravity that this monster got away with is incredible. His reign of terror was appalling, a nonstop incriminating history of circumstantial pieces to a nightmarish puzzle that together forms a composite whole - a lifetime substantiation that something wicked and foul this way came. His contribution to the British VIP pedophilia network has wreaked untold damage in the depraved business of torturing, abusing and murdering kids' souls and lives, not to mention those ill-fated victims who crossed paths with UK's most infamous, bloodthirsty serial killers that invariably became Savile's best friends. This creepy court jester performer had next to no real or close friends as many who knew him best hardly knew him at all. The famous showboat, eccentric loner possessed far reaching social tentacles that afforded him unbridled access to the royal palaces, the halls of government and every entertainment stage. But the more one digs into the demented, diabolical Jimmy Savile, the more it appears by his closest company that the nation's most prolific serial pedophile was also a serial killer. As pathologically belligerent and twisted as he was in his psychopathically driven Luciferian marathon of a crime spree, consumed by dead corpses, killing and killers, and compulsively mauling young flesh galore, live or putrefying, from plentiful firsthand accounts, it seems fair to conclude that Sir Jimmy, the national treasure, participated in murder with the Ripper, possibly the Moors duo as well as possibly on his own. After all, he himself proudly proclaimed to the world:

I am the Myra Hindley story.

Next comes what happens to those who know too much. Anyone inside the BBC [or out] that learned of Sir Jimmy's colossal crimes, the pervasive BBC cover-up and Savile's procuring child victims to princes and prime ministers, became a lethal liability threat to the cabal and were silenced one way or another.

In addition to colluding police forces and the government’s gross incompetence investigating Savile by intentional design, Savile’s BBC sex ring, his VIP pedophilia network and UK police are also equally inept at solving over a dozen high profile murder cases and suspicious deaths surrounding BBC personnel. Of course that’s also by sinister design. Again, the explanation is plain to see when heads of UK’s largest police forces and British Broadcasting Corporation are controlled by the pedophile infiltrated British Establishment in government and royalty, secretly bound additionally by demonic brotherhood societies like Freemasonry, Knights of Malta, the Jesuits and Luciferian Illuminati.

The next important endeavor is to delve deeply into scrutinizing some of the mysterious deaths and unsolved murders at the BBC over recent decades that Britain’s law enforcement just can’t seem to crack. Here is a “short list” of the more than dozen known unexplained or highly questionable deaths and murders of BBC employees that repeatedly keep coming up. In addition to the aforementioned suicide of Claire McAlpine from Chapter 18, other more recent cases include Kevin Greening, Kristian Digby, David Smith, Paula Yates, Peaches Geldof, Natasha Collins, Mark Speight, Mike Smith, Rik Mayall, Terry Wogan, Jill Dando and Liz MacKean.

Kevin Greening was a former BBC Radio 1 breakfast DJ whose life was cut short on the eve of his 45th birthday on December 29, 2007.[1] Westminster Coroner Dr. Paul Knapman ruled the cause of death the result of “sexual misadventure” involving drugs and bondage between Kevin and his homosexual partner. The press accounts did not elaborate beyond stating it included gaffer tape and cling film wrapped around Kevin’s torso while wearing a rubber suit suspended in a black leather sling from bedroom scaffolding. It’s either as purported a kinky gay sexual experiment recklessly pushing the thrill envelope beyond the safety zone, or a concocted, bizarrely twisted tale of sinister cover-up designed to offend all conventional sensibilities enough to not prompt further question or investigation. The coroner Dr. Knapman is reportedly infamous as the elite’s go-to cause of death fabricator whose reported primary purpose is to conceal British establishment crimes. But there’s plenty more dirt on him later.

Yet another BBC presenter meeting a similar, equally disastrous fate in the realm of solo gay kink comes the alleged “sexual misadventures” of property development millionaire 32-year old Kristian Digby who died on March 1, 2010 of asphyxiation.[2] He too was a high flying thrill seeker but with his partner out of town, he fatally succumbed after wearing a plastic bag over his head when his apparent “sex game went wrong.” If foul play was involved, it’d be easy to pass this one off as simply another careless joyride into hedonism gone awry.

Taking each so called accidental misadventure at face value, it might be considered a stretch to attribute cause of death to the BBC pedophilia network. But when taken together, the odds of so many high profile, strange, anomalous, sudden deaths afflicting so many relatively young BBC employees seems beyond extremely remote. And knowing that the pedo-cabal has an agenda that reserves no limit to covering up its crimes at all cost, together they cast a long dark, nefarious shadow of suspicion hanging over all these mysterious deaths.

A strong case that fits both means and motive for foul play is another Savile pedophile chauffeur, most likely suicided the day before he was scheduled to face trial on sexual abuse charges in 2013.[3] The 67-year old BBC chauffeur David Smith who drove for Jimmy Savile back in the 1980s was a definite liability to the pedo-cabal as a low rung lackey whose insider knowledge could potentially bring some of the top rung pedo-monsters down… so it seems he was conveniently “suicided” on the eve of his court appearance in late October 2013.

This degenerate suddenly wound up dead on the one year anniversary of Operation Yewtree’s first suspect roundup. But then this is Standard Operating Procedure in high stakes Cloak and Daggery 101, eliminate any and all liability in order for the Luciferian child raping murderers to stay in power, to keep raping and murdering our children with impunity. Granted, there is a slim possibility that Smith acted alone, knowing he was facing more serious jail time, opting to snuff himself at the last minute. But the stronger means and motive slant towards execution-style suicide by the powers-that-shouldn’t-be cannot be ignored.

Protecting the BBC’s criminality as part of the larger pedo-cabal network can’t be emphasized enough, especially when the precedent has been repeatedly in place from time immemorial. It’s already a well-established fact - an inordinate number of BBC employees suddenly drop dead who clearly pose a threat to the wider pedophilia network for knowing too much. By 2013, to silence perceived threats, Deep State political assassination by a “suicided” staged accident or artificially induced heart attack has become all too common.[4] Smith’s “suicide” by foul play is an extremely plausible, realistic explanation, after a long string of “too weird” deaths plaguing BBC staff.

With 22 previous convictions dating as far back as 1966 under Smith’s pedo-belt,[5] and having driven Savile around

London town for years, a sure bet is that this repeat offender took many dark secrets to his grave in another flimsily veiled case of “dead men don’t tell tales.”

But how can the UK legal system drop the ball, allowing a known relentless reoffender continue getting caught raping little boys nearly two dozen times? This creature should have been permanently removed and locked away from society to protect children after his second offence, not his 22nd. Of course if he was protected by a VIP pedophilia network, 22 convictions suddenly make a lot more sense. Another anomaly, the Daily Mail suicide headline states that Smith was the very first pedophile charged out of the Yewtree starting gate in October 2012.[6]

But how could David Smith have been “the first pedophile” charged in October 2012? Despite his 22 convictions, Smith apparently remained a free man not taken into custody until April 2013. Stemming from an alleged sodomy incident involving a 12-year old boy in 1984,[7] the adult victim happened to watch that ITV Savile exposé in October 2012, a full year ahead of Smith’s “suicide,” prompting the victim’s partner to contact police, resulting in Smith’s December 2012 arrest and posted bail. But if the Crown Prosecution Service receiving the case in late December 2012 didn’t charge the prolific pedophile until early April 2013, how could this derelict end up the first suspect legally charged under Operation Yewtree? Recall that derelict rocker Gary Glitter was arrested in October 2012 and was Yewtree’s first suspect. Though a number of early suspects like Glitter were arrested a half year prior to Smith’s April 2013 charge, unlike Glitter, most of those arrested were neither charged nor prosecuted, or later were acquitted at trial.

In 2002 Smith was apparently wanted by the police, but the left hand of UK’s bungling legal system didn’t know what the right hand was doing, failing to realize Smith was already in its system as a prison inmate and not a “fugitive” at all. Also it was the BBC that revealed to the press that this low life had 22 prior convictions dating as far back as 1966. Yet the BBC apparently went ahead and hired Smith in the 1980s as one of its drivers anyway, very likely aware Smith had a reoffending sexual assault record a mile long while BBC insiders from top corporate executives on down either knew of or were active participants themselves in this out of control BBC pedophile ring. In fact, in 1984 after Smith met this victim at a local swimming pool and enticed him back to Smith's residence to sexually abuse the 12-year old, the pervert then allegedly assaulted this same victim a second time reportedly driving him home from touring the BBC studios at White City Television Centre in West London.[8]

This chain of events demonstrates both police and BBC's blatant criminal culpability. Yet there's no mention in this Daily Mail article of any of this police-BBC calamitous collusion that more than enabled this hardcore scumbag to do so much damage from age 20 to 67, nearly a half century of known legal convictions with a number of years operating within the BBC-Savile pedo-network. If you accept all these article statements as fact, then you know why the cabal system might want to eliminate this man before he could potentially blow the lid off the UK's VIP pedo-club.

Finally, the Daily Mail piece specifies Yewtree's three crime investigation categories reported by thousands of victims emerging since the October 3, 2012 airing of the ITV documentary, the first crime category involved Savile himself (three quarters of which reportedly have fallen into this category), the second involved Savile and his associates, and the third, pedophilia crimes unrelated to Savile.[9] But the Daily Mail then states that this particular case is filed under the third "unconnected to Savile" category. That's highly suspect since they were both BBC employees, both serial child rapists, both riding in the same limo for years at a time and no doubt committing the same pedo- crimes within the same BBC child sex ring, not unlike another one of Savile's chauffeurs Ray Teret.

Savile had chauffeurs who were hardened pedophiles like himself and no doubt for security sake, he only hired fellow criminals of the same deviant ilk. From the article we also learn that at least one of the assaults occurred shortly after the victim and the Savile chauffeur were together at the BBC studio where both Smith and his boss worked. So with both Smith and Savile enormously prolific pedophiles working together during the 1980s when many of Smith's said crimes took place, how could this be reported as a crime "unconnected to Savile?" Does the context "unconnected" mean that Savile's penis specifically did not sodomize the boy in the same way that Smith's did? Or perhaps it means they never sodomized the victim at the same time as in a threesome. As order followers, it appears the Yewtree boys in blue have gone out of their way to minimize the pedo-connection between S&S and their connection to the BBC. Hmmm, wonder why? Bet it has everything to do with the same reason that Smith never showed up for his scheduled trial.

In a Mirror article published five months after the Daily Mail post, David Smith's victim - 42-year old Jason Little - went public with a discrepant account from the earlier Daily Mail depiction of police and BBC. Where the Daily Mail version had both police and BBC attempting to distance David Smith abuse from both Savile and the BBC pedophile ring, Jason's disclosures in the Mirror is clearly at odds with the earlier rendition. Victim Jason Little maintains that his abuse lasted almost three years and that not only was David Smith a BBC employee chauffeuring Savile and a number of other BBC stars, but he also asserts that Smith took him on trips abroad to Israel and Amsterdam, provided him with a BBC pass and introduced him to scores of BBC stars at the Television Centre including Jimmy Savile.[10] We also know that Sir Jimmy as an intelligence operative made a number of visits to the Jewish State.[11] Jason also claimed that David Smith sexually assaulted him on a number of occasions inside the BBC studio premises as well. We also know that a favorite crime at BBC studios was Sir Jimmy's dressing room.

At the time of the Mirror article in April 2014, the coroner had just ruled Smith's death a suicide "beyond reasonable doubt" resulting from a drug overdose.[12] Both Jason Little and his friend since childhood, 41-year old Lee Sullivan, another of Smith's alleged sex abuse victims, decided to waive their anonymity rights in an effort to both give hope to other victims and confront the BBC for covering up its own pedophile ring in its refusal to admit that David Smith as a BBC employee was part of it. Apparently David Smith even owned a vehicle with the license plate "372BBC."

Jason shared his angst over the whitewash:

It makes me sick that the BBC won't admit it. They haven't even bothered to speak to me about Smith.[13]

Jason's friend Lee added:

He [Smith] has cheated me of justice by killing himself.

I'd venture to say that the UK Deep State and BBC in particular more accurately cheated Lee and Jason from any justice.

Lending more credence that Savile operated within a larger pedophile network were reports from victims stating that they were abused by both Savile and other pedophiles together.[14] Jason and his friend's account sound identical to other victims and witnesses such as Savile's nephew Guy Marsden as well as boys and girls taken from UK children's homes for weekend pedophilia parties at upscale London mansions:[15]

He [Smith] took me to parties with other men and kids. We were given drugs so they could attack us. Smith also took me to a big house outside Amsterdam where I was abused with other children. At the time I didn't know what was happening to me.[16]

Taking his victim on trips abroad and specifically to pedophilia parties in Amsterdam also implicates Smith and Savile operating within the larger international pedo-network, co-facilitated by intelligence agencies in cahoots with government social services and care home operators. The wider pedophilia network exchanging child pornography, child snuff films and sex trafficking of young boys between the UK and Amsterdam has been confirmed by both Dutch and British law enforcement.[17]

The systematic use of drugs and alcohol given to children as grooming tools to pliably sedate them and blur abuse memories[18] is identical with what routinely occurred like clockwork to trafficked in kids from Nebraska's Boys Town during the 1980s, including Dick Cheney's "meet and greet" escorting victims to plush Washington DC parties attended by the likes of pedophilia overlord President George HW Bush (see Chapter 13). Similarly, the history of exploitive, drug-induced seduction and rape of young boys by British pedophiles within government and BBC entertainment industry is pervasive from the 1960s to the present.

Not only did Jimmy Savile periodically molest underage boys (when not violating corpses and teenage girls), but other notorious BBC and music industry derelicts active in Savile's BBC pedophile ring[19] such as repeating sex offenders DJs Chris Denning and Alan Freeman, 1960s record producer-songwriter-murderer-suicider Joe Meek,[20] and convicted pop maestro Jonathon King,[21] all used drugs to entice their sexual prey. After all, for a very long time, predatory sexual grooming techniques as well as use of drugs for mind control abuse have remained the same the world over. Incidentally, Jonathon King has claimed that the late David Bowie had sex with more underage children than even Jimmy Savile and, as a pederast music insider who likely knows, he accuses the BBC, the music industry and police for their sheer hypocrisy in protecting big name superstars like Bowie who also routinely broke the law.[22]

Let's look at another suspicious death of yet another man employed by the BBC named Smith who was also privy to Savile's BBC pedophilia network - fellow Radio 1 DJ Mike Smith. If the 59-year old had health issues, he kept them tightly under wraps from even his closest friends, like fellow BBC Late, Late Breakfast Time co-presenter Noel Edmonds.[23] As Princess Diana's favorite 1980s DJ, Mike Smith also, like Jimmy Savile, hosted Top of the Pops. In the wake of the Savile BBC scandal, Smith's unexpected, "mysterious" August 2014 passing was the third high profile BBC death that year alone, abruptly dying from so called "complications following heart surgery."[24] Mike Smith admitted that while working at the BBC, he too was sexually hit on by other male DJs, alluding to the BBC's out of control culture of sexual predation.

In 1988 Mike Smith was piloting a helicopter with his fellow BBC presenter soon-to-be wife Sarah Greene on board when it suddenly lost power for some unknown reason and went down, both barely surviving the crash.[25] Their careers suffered after that and they were scarcely seen on television again. In 2002 Mike Smith became embroiled in a major legal battle with the showbiz agent of his wife's sister Laura Greene. The agent in question - Jon Roseman's biggest client was none other than murdered BBC presenter Jill Dando who knew all about the BBC pedophile ring. Like Jill's Crimewatch TV show partner Nick Ross, Roseman took to the Daily Mail platform to promote his version of events surrounding Jill's demise, buying into a bogus Serbian connection to explain her assassination.[26] The question lingers, was Mike Smith's death the silencing of yet another BBC insider who may have known too much?

Then less than two months before Mike Smith was gone, the life of BBC Young Ones co-star and longtime popular comedian Rik Mayall came to a strange and sudden end at only 56 years of age. Both Rik's wife and everyone around him who knew him best maintain he was vibrant, happy and healthy right up to his death, with even a post-mortem report producing inconclusive results.[27] His wife Barbara Robbin stated:

We don't know yet what happened. He had a strong heart, so I don't think it was a heart attack…[28] *At least we know it's not his heart as he's just had a check-up and been given the all-clea*r.[29]

Another young TV presenter, journalist and famous media personality who died tragically in 2014 under suspicious circumstance is 25-year old daughter of famed rock musician Sir Bob Geldof, Peaches Geldof. Having recently written just a few days prior to her death that she was happily married with 1- and 2-year old boys she adored, she also mentioned in her final interview how "heroin was such a bleak drug."[30] The prospect seemed remote that she would suddenly snuff herself from an overdose with ten times the amount of heroin in her bloodstream that was alleged to have killed her BBC presenter mother Paula Yates in 2000.[31] Without a suicide note, a scant 19 minutes prior to dying, Peaches Geldof posted two photos of her baby sons online. And just hours prior to that, loyal to her mother Paula to the end, Peaches tweeted a photo of Paula holding her shortly prior to her mother's untimely death. The biggest anomaly of all was the tweeted caption under Peaches' photo:

I have the heart of a 90-year old gangster.[32]

Where would that incongruent remark come from?

Another major discrepancy - the police dispatched to the scene who found Peaches' lifeless body initially reported to the press that there was no evidence of drugs.[33] But then police changed their story weeks later insisting that nearly 80 syringes were discovered laying around the house.[34] Though police feebly claim “duty of care” compassionately protecting the family as the sole reason for falsifying the official narrative as an “unexplained death” for nearly a month,[35] it seems far more apt to have been subsequently planted as after-the-fact evidence to protect those allegedly behind the decision to sinisterly have her silenced.

During the last several years of Peaches’ life, she embraced love, marriage, family and especially motherhood. Also recently learning she was part Jewish through her paternal grandmother, and married to Jewish husband musician Tom Cohen whose parents met on a kibbutz, Peaches was gravitating towards Judaism[36] and away from her tendency toward cults like Ordo Templi Orientis (OTO) and scientology, leaving her fast lane, reckless drug lifestyle behind. Her past involvement in OTO, pedophile Alistair Crowley’s satanic sex cult that Peaches had paid homage to having plastered an “O.T.O” tattoo on her arm, seemed in her latter days an increasingly remote if already nonexistent influence.[37]

Many superstars like Jay Z, Beyoncé and Led Zeppelin’s Jimmy Paige are said to be faithful OTO followers. A friend of Peaches, Marilyn Manson, has long admitted to be a hardcore, out of closet, proud Satanist.[38] But then it’s more than evident that the music industry is now overflowing with black occult satanic ritualism and in-our-face mind control.[39] It’s grown so bad that to be successful in the industry these days almost precludes one to swear allegiance to Lucifer.

In November 2013, just four months ahead of her death, Peaches tweeted the names of two deranged mothers that conspired to allow admitted pedophile rock star Ian Watkins from the band Lostprophets to sexually abuse their children, one just a year old baby.[40] It’s worth noting that Ian Watkins and his rock group are managed by a company called QPrime owned by Louis Mensch, husband of ex-Tory MP Louise Mensch.[41] Louise used to work under a friend of Bob Geldof's at EMI, a record company linked to Satanism, mind control and military intelligence. Of course Peaches had a prior history to dabble, if not immerse herself into Satanism as a likely mind control victim. In 2012 Louise Mensch suddenly resigned from parliament, moved to New York while pedophile rocker Watkins was arrested in December 2012.

Having recently given birth to a six month old son at the time of Peaches' controversial tweet outing Watkins and his sex ring, as a protective mother she had elected to expose pedophilia through her Twitter account. But due to a victim identity protection law, inadvertently she had potentially violated the confidentiality of the two child victims since she tweeted their mothers' last names. Despite Peaches' claim that the Welsh court had already publicly listed the names and that other websites had also posted them, as soon as she learned of the liability issue, she removed her post from her Twitter account and apologized, though it failed to stop a legal inquiry looking further into the matter.[42]

Peaches' close BBC Radio 1 DJ friend and fellow presenter Fearne Cotton once dated Ian Watkins back in 2005.[43] Fearne's second cousin was longtime senior BBC executive and managing director Bill Cotton. And with both Peaches' mother, her father Hughie Green and maternal grandfather all career BBC employees who more than likely knew of Savile and his BBC child sex ring, Peaches Geldof knew the secret pedo-history and publicly outing a relatively high profile pedophile on Twitter where she had over 161,000 followers demonstrated she was taking a bold stance against pedophilia, exposing the pervasive UK network she undoubtedly had firsthand encounters with in her past. Taking such conspicuous aim against the pedo-epidemic no doubt triggered fear and wrath amongst certain BBC and VIP pedophiles that such an outspoken, devoted young mother and popular celebrity could be launching a public crusade against their entire global pedo-cabal. Boxed into the corner, they likely concluded they had to get her before she got them. So just like Princess Diana and Jill Dando, Peaches Geldof prematurely met her Maker as another casualty in the earth's current war raging between the forces for good and evil.

Due to both Peaches and her mother's drug history, by many accounts her alleged murder could easily have been disguised to appear like just another typical fatal celeb overdose, not unlike her own mother Paula Yates's death. The pathologist in the Paula Yates case alluded to morphine depressing her brain and shutting down her respiratory system that killed her, not the heroin.[44] But it was cabal coroner Dr. Knapman who insisted Paula Yates' death was the result of a "heroin overdose" due to "foolish and incautious" behavior after incongruently stating the amount of heroin she snorted wasn't enough to kill the average person.

Speculation immediately followed the breaking news of daughter Peaches' death suggesting that imprisoned Ian Watkins was a powerful Illuminati member revengefully bent on silencing Peaches Geldof as retribution for publicly slamming him and his sordid, demented activities.[45] Or more likely, similar to Jill and Diana, top echelons of the British pedo-establishment took notice and decided to silence another emerging potential threat for knowing too much.

Peaches' father, Sir Bob Geldof, is not the charity, "save the world" saint he's been cracked up to be in British high society and UK press. The triangular custody war between INXS lead singer Australian Michael Hutchence and Geldof's ex-wife Paula Yates versus rival Bob Geldof over Michael and Paula's own daughter Tiger Lily that Sir Bob used all his knightly power and influence to win, led to such bad blood that many observers conclude that it resulted in murder by two staged suicides.[46] First came Michael's alleged, highly anomalous suicide by hanging in November 1997 followed less than three years later by Paula's "accidental" heroin overdose. Just like Hutchence and Paula, as the outspoken rebellious daughter, Peaches also had a recent falling out in her increasingly strained relationship with Saint Bob in the months preceding her untimely death. See a pattern here?

Meanwhile, knighted by Queen Elizabeth back in 1985 and nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize by unprosecuted pedophile Lord Greville Janner in 1987,[47] in the eyes of the ruling elite, Sir Bob Geldof could do no wrong. And ever since he's been running exclusively in Illuminati circles, surrounded by pedo-cabal presidents, crime-prime ministers and secret societies as a huge fan of war criminals George W Bush and Tony Blair.[48] Even his acclaimed Band Aid, Live Aid and Live 8 series did not serve the poor in Third World Africa as advertised but largely himself as charity funds were misused on militant dictators engaged in genocidal forced migration policies and padding corporate coffers at debtor nations' expense,[49] an earlier variation cut from the same grotesque cloth as the Clintons' Haitian rape and pillage plunder.[50]

In another Clintonesque move, as the supposed antipoverty campaigner, in 2008 Geldof charged an incredible $100,000 for a single speech he made in Melbourne that included his first class airfare and hotel accommodations.[51] With his "rock stardom" on the wane in 2012, when Bob Geldof arrived in Milan, Italy to perform a scheduled concert and found only 45 fans in his audience, the saint left the auditorium refusing to sing.[52] Sir Bob's blatant self-opportunism, bloated self-importance, nouveau elitism, pugnacious, classless arrogance and shameless exploitation of the world's poor for his own personal gain made him an easy target leading to his eventual exposure and fall from knightly grace.[53]

By the time Paula Yates and her rock n' roll bad-boy Michael Hutchence locked horns with Saint Bob, their doomed battle for child custody of Paula's three daughters sired by Geldof and the youngest belonging to Paula and Michael were already lost. As Saint Bob's enemies, they witnessed the dark side of the fallen "angel" emerge, each claiming that Sir Bob boastfully taunted and threatened them repeatedly with:

Don't forget, I am above the law.[54]

… a given privilege that makes for murder by fake suicide against vulnerable, perceived weaker enemies very plausible, fueling speculation suspecting foul play based on the elite's fact-based history, reinforced by the company one keeps.

Speaking of the company Sir Bob keeps, besides pedo- and war-friendly criminals Tony Blair[55] and George W, Geldof is also in tight with his homies Lord Waheed Alli and Lord Peter Mandelson, both gay men linked to the VIP pedophilia ring. As the first openly gay lord and at 34 the youngest life peer compliments of PM Blair, Waheed Alli and his other half Charlie Parsons partnered with Geldof to make a fortune co-owning Planet 24 TV, UK's largest independent production company.[56] Mandelson, a Rothschild steward, was caught downloading child pornography in 2002 under Operation Ore but Labor PM Blair sealed it with a D-notice to protect his two time cabinet secretary.[57] After Parliament, the above-the-law pedophile became an EU Commissioner, a perennial Bilderberger and chief trustee to UK's largest child charity organization the NSPCC (yep, another pedo-fox).[58]

Convicted US blackmailing pedophile felon Jeffrey Epstein listed Lord Mandelson 10 times in his infamous black book.

[59] According to British intelligence operative, French doctors leaked Mandelson being hospitalized after indulging in the “gay sport” felching where a cardboard tube is inserted into the rectum and a furry little hamster is inserted into the butthole for cheap sicko thrills.[60] These are the type of compromised perverts the ruling elite places into power to run our planet. But more on these pedo-cabal puppets in Chapter 25’s Westminster scandal. You now can understand why Sir Bob so freely and smugly throws his “I’m above the law” weight around.

Incredibly whenever Sir Jimmy felt threatened with exposure, he too would immediately resort to uttering this same weaponized line as his cruel reminder that he too reached the “untouchable” zone,[61] as a fully knighted, impugned and protected member of the same planet plunderers club.[62]

At the height of Michael Hutchence and Paula Yates’ embattled custody faceoff against Geldof over Sir Bob’s effort to steal their own biological daughter Tiger Lily, in his final interview just prior to his extremely suspicious death, Michael Hutchence prophetically warned:

Saint Bob, and Wild Boy Rock Star, you pick the one who people are going to believe. One day, the truth will be told. [63]

For Michael Hutchence and wronged victims everywhere, it’s time the truth finally be told. From his Sydney hotel room, Hutchence purportedly argued with Sir Bob over the phone about their impending custody decision, delayed several weeks until the following month of December 1997.[64] Anxious to have Paula and her children including his baby daughter Tiger Lily joining him for Christmas in Australia, and increasingly distraught and exacerbated by drugs over Sir Bob reneging on an earlier agreement and putting the kibosh on Michael’s big family holiday plans, the official narrative maintains that in a fit of alcohol-cocaine-Prozac enflamed depression, the reigning rock star took his own life using his belt and doorknob to hang himself.[65] Paula Yates insisted her man did not commit suicide but died of asphyxiation playing an auto-eroticism game of the alleged David Carradine kind (though it too may be a disguised murder).[66]

But others reminded of Geldof's repeated "above the law" threats after a dozen doorknob hanging "suicides" in recent years, a growing number are questioning this implausible scenario as a staged pretext designed to conceal actual murder by strangulation,[67] especially when a similar falling out pattern emerged later in the untimely supposed drug OD deaths of both Geldof's wife and daughter.[68] Simultaneous celeb "suicides" by doorknob hanging of both designer Ann Spade and chef Anthony Bourdain in June 2018 shortly after Anthony called out sexual predator Harvey Weinstein in the face of increasing exposure of the global pedophilia crisis has given rise to speculation that the Deep State is leaving its cabal calling card assassinations as covert retaliation against truth tellers.[69]

So on flimsy ground back in late 1997, the Sydney coroner refused an inquest or any further inquiry into the Hutchence doorknob hanging, rushing to judgment in favor of suicide and that was that.[70] Grief-stricken Paula descended into self-medicating as no match for the saint to benevolently claim a loving home full of half-sisters for Tiger Lily, setting the stage for Paula's worldly exit less than three years later, by attrition leaving Saint Bob to snatch the youngest daughter from her biological relatives in Australia.[71] Once her mother was gone, 4-year old Tiger Lily's forced estrangement from her father's side of the family soon had her calling Sir Geldof "dad." And after a 5-day vacation in 2006 visiting her real father's family, Saint Bob cut Tiger Lily's grandparents and aunt completely out of his soon-to-be adopted daughter's life altogether. By 2010, unfortunately Tiger's Aussie grandparents were already dead, and Geldof forbid Tiger Lily from attending their funerals or have anything to do with the Hutchence family.[72] But now that the grown up aspiring actress Tiger Lily Hutchence Geldof turned 21 in July 2018, Geldof's hold on her may be slipping just a bit. Much to his chagrin, Tiger Lily has already reestablished contact with her long lost Aunt Tina,[73] who referring to Sir Bob on Australian national television once stated:

I think he's Satan.[74]

Turning to another ill-fated love affair between 42-year old BBC presenter Mark Speight and his 31-year old fiancé actress and fellow BBC presenter Natasha Collins, they died just months apart a decade ago in 2008.[75] After meeting on the BBC TV children's show See It Saw It, they fell in love and were engaged to be married when their tragic fate intervened. When news of Natasha's untimely death surfaced just five days after BBC DJ Kevin Greening's bizarre, questionable demise, the media was all over the splashy, bizarre circumstance that led to Natasha's untimely end.

The story goes that the couple decided to indulge in an alleged end-of-holiday drug alcohol binge on January 3rd, 2008, sharing an alleged lethal cocktail of wine, vodka, sleeping pills and cocaine (with a suspicious five times the deadly dose found in her bloodstream).[76] Mark testified they had retired for the night at around 4AM. But at some point, still in a drugged stupor, Natasha managed to get to the bathroom and into the bathtub, slipping into unconsciousness with the hot water still running with over 60% of her body scalded. Stupor or no stupor, one would think scalding water would be painful enough to get out of the bathtub.

By the time Mark discovered her lifeless body at 1PM the next day, it was too late. According to Westminster Coroner

Dr. Paul Knapman, she died from a drug overdose.[77] Police initially interrogated Speight as a possible murder suspect for allegedly supplying her with the illicit drugs that allegedly killed her, but ultimately opted not to charge him. Perhaps he knew too much about his employer's pedo-ring to risk him spilling the beans if charged with a crime.

But just five days after Natasha's inquest attended by a gaunt, depressed Mark Speight, and just three months after his betrothed's untimely death, the popular kids' show presenter of the BBC art program SMart was reported missing, then six days later also found dead. His body was reportedly discovered hanging at a strangely remote, unused, locked section within the Paddington Railway Station.[78] Six days before his body was recovered by Paddington security, Mark was allegedly last spotted alive nearby by two police officers on patrol, claiming they briefly spoke to him, describing him as distraught and depressed. At the alleged suicide scene, police encountered a broken belt believed to have been first used before Speight allegedly turned to tying his shoelaces together to hang himself from a bannister. Hard to believe that his belt would break apart while two much thinner, much flimsier shoelaces from his shoes would somehow manage to hold the weight of a grown man's body until death without shredding or coming apart first. Thus as reported in the media, his suicide method appears highly implausible. Also found in the deceased's pocket was an alleged scrawled suicide note and another one in his diary addressed to his parents.

A tragic Romeo and Juliet-ish ending of a doomed romance with no foul play involved was the official conclusion ruled by coroner Dr. Paul Knapman… way too simplistic, smacking of an artificially scripted and delivered official narrative. But when viewed together after covering the slew of mysterious deaths all connected to the BBC pedophile ring followed by a cursory look at the highly suspicious, nefarious career of Westminster coroner Dr. Knapman, who ruled over so many of the BBC and Westminster pedophile ring deaths, suddenly Natasha and Mark's cases loom much shadier, darker and increasingly suspect. So far Knapman has been official coroner in Kevin Greening, Paula Yates, Natasha Collins and Mark Speight's inquests. But then by close association, there's an entire cast of shady, supporting cabal characters to uncover.

First we'll start with exploring Natasha Collins and her fiancé Mark Speight's link to the wider BBC pedo-network. Already addressed in Chapter 18 was the Operation YewTree conviction of disgraced fellow BBC employee and now pedophile free bird Rolf Harris, who frequently worked side-by-side with Mark Speight on various BBC kids' projects and programs together. As such, Harris stated at Mark's 2008 memorial:

It was joyful to work with Mark. I realize that I never told him how much I appreciated his programs. You realize you should always tell people what you think, you should tell them that you love them because it might suddenly be too late.[79]

As an admired BBC children's program host, Mark Speight also maintained very close ties with Esther Rantzen, longtime BBC fixture, presenter and producer of the two decade running show That's Life and founder of the BBC ChildLine charity for abused children. Speight often volunteered his free time as an avid campaign fundraiser for ChildLine, Rantzen's 24-hour helpline organization providing a registry of child sexual abuse as well as counseling and support for reporting child abuse victims.[80] However that said, ChildLine also has been openly accused of actually serving as a window-dressing front designed to protect the pedophiles instead of the children in another classic case of the fox guarded henhouse.[81]

Esther Rantzen's helpline was concurrently launched back in 1986 when she and her cousin Sarah Caplan co-founded the ChildLine charity. Sarah's husband, Nick Ross, was the founder and 23-year presenter of BBC's 33-year program staple Crimewatch (that ended in 2017).[82] And his co-presenter from 1995 until her brutal murder in 1999 was broadcast journalist Jill Dando. Lots of evidence indicates that Jill had gathered evidence that was about to expose her own company's pedophile ring. But more on her tragic case along with her dubious cohost Nick Ross later.

The trustee and chief underwriter funding Rantzen's 1986 ChildLine with a half million pound contribution was entrepreneur and philanthropist Sir Ian Skipper[83] with links to Nathan M. Rothschild[84] and Prince Charles.[85] OBE appointed Skipper owned homes in notorious pedophile island of Jersey and Sir Cliff Rischard's island nation of Barbados, both used as billionaires' tax haven write-offs.[86] Interior decorator Conrad Jameson was hired by Skipper to perform work on his estate but soon found out that the trustee of the largest UK children's charity - the National Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children (NSPCC), was a sexual pervert obsessed with pornography. Jameson threatened to expose Skipper, who then sued Jameson for sexual blackmail but lost the case in 1993.

Another suspicious listing in convicted pedophile blackmailer Jeffrey Epstein's address book was also a ChildLine director who worked with Esther Rantzen on That's Life, but also served as both an MP and Secretary of State for Northern Ireland - Shaun Woodward.[87]

Under the familiar pretense of national security, D-notices forbid public access to governmental affairs deemed top secret as a favorite cabal device constantly misused by Blair's skeleton-filled closet in order to conceal VIP pedophilic perversions. Recall earlier that Tony Blair - aka Miranda - issued a D-notice for 100 years based on a thick

MI5 dossier collecting blackmail evidence on Sir Peter Mandelson.[88] Then there was the felching incident in France.[89] A known Rothschild mole planted inside UK establishment to ensure political control and shield the global pedo-trade as director of UK's leading children's charity the NSPCC,[90] Mandelson also enjoyed young boys vacationing at registered US child sex offender Jeffrey Epstein's Sex Slave Island. And Epstein listed on Mandelson no less than 10 different numbers and addresses belonging to fellow pedophile Sir Peter,[91] not to mention Tony Blair's address in the Mossad's who's who as well.

Also key is VIP pedophile enabler Dame Rantzen's 2006 ChildLine-NSPCC merger securing her role as yet another charity henhouse pedo-guard trustee. One year later the NSPCC was busted using fake abuse stories to generate cash donations[92] while its CEO was skimming a cool £162,000 off incoming gravy for his annual salary[93] that's among the top dozen among all UK charities.[94]

Meanwhile, NSPCC vice president multimillionaire Gerald Ronson's fundraiser wife Gail Ronson claimed "I've never, ever, met him [Epstein]. I swear," despite both their names also written in Epstein's now infamous black book.[95] Gail is related to the late accused pedophile Home Secretary Sir Leon Brittan as is his other cousin foreign secretary under conservative PM John Major - Sir Malcolm Rifkind who vehemently defended pedophile Heath's "besmirched reputation."[96] The longtime resident of pedo-infested Dolphin Square and powerful head of the House of Commons intelligence and security committee, Rifkind falsely claimed in 2015 "nobody pays me a salary" despite officially earning £81,936 annually as an MP chair, forcing his resignation as part of a Channel 4 influence peddling sting.[97] It's one very tightly knit Zionist network with the same infiltrating Jewish foxes all cherry picked as cabal pedo-guards protecting their child murdering Luciferian masters.

Now let’s take a closer look at Nick Ross, husband of BBC’s ChildLine co-founder Sally Caplan (Esther’s cousin) and TV partner of murdered Jill Dando. In 2013 a half dozen years after Ross left Crimewatch and 14 years after his co-presenter’s assassination, the so called crime expert actually came out with the following incriminatingly telling statement:

I’d probably watch child pornography to see what all the fuss is about...[98]

Nick Ross was making a flagrant pitch to normalize this heinous sex crime exploiting children that in this computer age of dark web and snuff films, child porn and sex trafficking abuse have become the pedo-cabal’s most lucrative, fastest growing illegal enterprise on the planet.[99] The transparency of the pedo-cabal is at work through the BBC and disturbing, revealing comments like that from Nick Ross, who founded the Crimestopper helpline for the public to supposedly call in information to help law enforcement solve crimes. However, his Crimestopper helpline suddenly went dead right after his BBC partner’s murder.[100] More dot connecting to follow but back to Esther Rantzen’s helpline organization.

Esther’s choice as ChildLine’s very first chief executive - Valerie Howarth - was the former head of social services in Brent when in 1984 a 4-year old girl under her department’s supposed protection was tortured and brutally murdered by her parents.[101] After learning the girl’s social worker had only seen the child once in the 10 months leading up to the murder, Valerie forgot to pass this vitally crucial, life-saving information onto Brent’s chief executive and social services committee and then conveniently failed to mention this gross if not criminal oversight when she later applied to head Cambridgeshire social services. But the dubious career of this unemployed, failed child protector was actually rescued by Esther Rantzen, placing her in a key position in charge of protecting all of United Kingdom's children, exactly like Blair appointed pedo-protecting, PIE connected Margaret (Oppenheimer) Hodge his minister of all UK children.[102] This pervasive pattern permeates each interlocking cog invariably shielded by a pedophile sentinel guarding the pedo-pipeline henhouse.

If the largest children's charity in Britain - the NSPCC - whose very purpose is to protect its children colludes with UK law enforcement's Operation Yewtree endorsing the official lie that Sir Jimmy acted completely alone and that there was never any police corruption helping him, how can the National Society for Protection against Cruelty to Children really be a friend to UK children? The fact is, it isn't when it's run by the likes of pedophile Sir Peter Mandelson and pedo-lover Dame Esther Rantzen.

Of course Esther's celebrity status and popular acclaim as a famous TV personality and so called child advocate pioneer has not gone unnoticed by the British establishment, earning her the most prominent position the last dozen years as an NSPCC trustee.[103] Rantzen is also a patron of the National Association for People Abused in Childhood (NAPAC). Her accolades and awards are endless, an OBE for her services in broadcasting, a CBE for her services for children. The queen appointed her Dame Commander of the Order of the British Empire (DBE) and on and on her honors go.[104] For all her sterling awards and impeccable accolades, is it fair to conclude that Esther Rantzen is rewarded for protecting pedophilia empire interests more than protecting UK children? With the most vulnerable population inside the UK child welfare system the most targeted and accessible victims preyed upon historically by the British pedophile VIP crowd that Dame Esther runs with, I'd say just like her NSPCC, she's done a pretty horrible job protecting the very kids she pretends she cares most about. And her track record only proves it.

Immediately following an internal NSPCC audit, in August 2018 Dame Esther announced she was suddenly resigning her coveted trustee post that she was so paranoid of losing during the post-Savile aftermath. In a face saving move, the 78-year old claimed her three children sat her down for “a family intervention,” pressuring her to slow down and take it easier in her golden years.[105] But according to a recent smoke and Mirror fluff piece, while still ChildLine president and still active in her NSPCC fundraising role, with Sir Jimmy dead and gone, she’s still the undisputed “charity champion” of the British Isles, flaunting her busier than ever schedule with talks of even reviving yet another run of her That’s Life.[106] Though her half century of being in the celebrity charity limelight may have helped some people, the number touted on her ChildLine is 3.2 million, too often outward appearances belie a much darker, hidden past as the Savile saga blatantly proves, especially when it comes to those so closely tied to the BBC and British VIP pedophilia network.

Esther Rantzen’s autobiography was released in 2001. As an adulterer for the second time in less tthan three years while in her mid to late twenties, her first as a mistress to a prominent married pedophile politician,[107] Esther then began sleeping with her BBC producer in 1969, engaging in an 8-year extramarital affair that led to the breakup of a long term marriage between her BBC boss Desmond Wilcox and his wife Patsy, who also worked in the same BBC department as Esther the homewrecker.[108] Initially as Rantzen’s co-worker and friend, Patsy brought her home to meet “this fantastic guy I’m married to.”[109] Rantzen spent so much time at Patsy’s family home that Patsy’s children called her “Aunty Esther.” It took nearly eight years of Rantzin cheating behind her friend’s back to eventually get pregnant and finally convince Patsy to give up on her lost cause marriage vows and divorce Desmond so Esther and Desi could blissfully tie the knot and soon displace Patsy as the new matron living inside the Wilcox family home.

But then like mother, like son. Years later it was Desmond and Esther’s son’s turn to carry on the family tradition, having an affair with a married woman in 2014 resulting in a pregnancy and her leaving her devastated high school sweetheart husband.[110] When both parental role models commit adultery as an indelible family dynamic interwoven into the family history of both parents, it often becomes a common legacy that repeats itself inter-generationally. But let’s skip over that little inconvenient truth and move on to more of Esther’s do-gooder role in her real “that’s life.”

With absolutely zero remorse over destroying a family with three children, in Rantzen’s 2001 book published a year after Desmond died, the homewrecker viciously attacked her onetime friend Patsy, a scorned woman unable to defend herself having died in 1999.[111] One of Esther’s stepchildren Cassandra Wilcox felt compelled to set the record straight in a Daily Mail article refuting what she considered Rantzen lies about her mother Patsy. When Desmond left his wife in 1977 to live with Esther at her place, Rantzen claims in her book that Patsy “wanted to live on her own,” suggesting she abandoned her family when in actuality Patsy was so heartbroken by betrayal that she was literally suffering from a serious enough cardiac condition to warrant a two week stay in Charing Cross Hospital, which caused her younger 15-year old twins to temporarily have to move in with their father and Rantzen. Cassandra states that Rantzen misrepresented her mother as selfish, “virtually throwing them [her kids] out of the family house.” But Rantzen’s stepdaughter maintains that “nothing could be further from the truth.” A brief examination of Esther’s life will show that her self-serving, revisionist distortions of reality and less than honest liberties telling her skewed versions of “truth” reveal a lifelong characterological flaw of deception and hypocrisy.

After reading Esther Ranzen's autobiography, Victor Lewis-Smith's response had Rantzen accurately pegged back in 2001, long before the Savile scandal broke, writing in his Evening Standard book review:

Throughout Esther's career there's always been a yawning chasm between the image she presents to her public and what appears to me to be a deep-seated private contempt for them.[112]

While the British elite revere and fawn over Esther Rantzin as its legendary establishment darling and another queen honored "national treasure"[113] (like Savile), serious charges have persistently plagued her ChildLine helpline alleged to systematically filter out callers reporting child abuse crimes perpetrated by British VIPs.[114] Moreover, after chummily working side by side with Sir Jimmy at the BBC since the 1960s, incriminating accusations have also been levied against Rantzen for knowing about his and other BBC pedophiles, yet all the while doing nothing to stop them. What kind of true child abuse advocate would knowingly allow such widespread abuse and do nothing about it? After the Savile bombshell when called on the carpet in October 2012 for her years of inaction, no sooner did she admit to knowing about the "green room gossip," she then actually confessed that "green room gossip is always true."[115]

But in the face of the Savile allegations, rather than take personal responsibility or show any personal regret as her nation's most famous and powerful child abuse advocate that did nothing to stop Savile abuse, she went from one interview to the next busily pontificating how all of Great Britain was fooled, attempting to assuage her own phony guilt (if she even has any) and criminal complicity by her concerted effort to spread the blame to the entire nation for being so bamboozled:

We as a whole nation were to blame.[116]

Meanwhile, anti-child abuse advocate Shy Keenan came forward in 2012 to disclose that she personally warned Rantzen back in 1994 about Savile's widespread abuse, a full 15 years before his final known victim was abused.[117] While Rantzen hosted her BBC series That's Life, a program boasting that it exposes corruption and criminality, she could have easily utilized her readymade broadcasting platform, her ChildLine hotline ostensibly set up for sexual abuse victims and her influential power and clout within the establishment to unmask the disturbing truth behind the "open secret" rumors and suspicions she admits she knew about way back when. But instead Rantzen chose not to look into Savile at all, despite acknowledging she'd been told about his abuse while a BBC intern back in the 1960s.[118] For decades Dame Esther remained silently complicit, failing to lift a finger to save hundreds of Savile victims from abuse. But then that's the way the system is designed, to protect the perps.

And then when confronted with Shy Keenan's explosively incriminating revelation, Rantzen out and out lied, pretending she never heard of Keenan nor remembered their conversation.[119] Then in the thick of it, when the press confronted her knowing about the Savile rumors and her total lack of response as a supposed child advocate, she was far more terrified and worried about losing her NSPCC trustee job[120] and her "life's work" legacy being destroyed than any abused children. Her response in the Daily Mail:

Say what you like about me – just please don't destroy my life's work.[121]

Instead of being honest and forthright, Esther Rantzen chose to hide behind her crocodile tears[122] and such incredibly asinine explanations as the one depicted below from an October 2012 Telegraph article:

> … The fact that Savile had even been blessed by the Pope, and if the Pope can't tell someone's a paedophile, then how could they [we] possibly be expected to know?[123]

Shy Keenan has pointed out that Rantzen even committed perjury while feigning lost charity revenue:

> In 2015, Dame Rantzen claimed 'under oath' that a 2012 fundraising event was cancelled because of Shy, the evidence shows that the fundraising event took place and Dame Rantzen attended.[124]

This woman has been caught up in her growing web of lies and deceit, virtually losing all credibility with the public. Yet Dame Esther still remains perched on her throne insulated by the queen's bestowed honors. During former police investigator Mark Williams-Thomas' second ITV Exposure installment as a two year follow-up probing how Savile's power allowed him to get away with his heinous half century crime spree, he lastly interviewed Rantzen. After mentioning a charity event that Savile contributed to her ChildLine (more than once she appeared as a guest on his shows) and her thank you letter to the BBC pedophile kingpin, she had the audacity to lament:

> If only a child had rung us [ChildLine helpline]… and told us what he'd been doing to them, we could have passed that to the police and done so much good.[125]

In all the years from 1986 on with her ChildLine fully operational while Britain's worst pedophile in history was still very actively abusing victims, is Rantzen seriously wanting us to believe her ludicrous statement that not one of Savile's hundreds if not thousands of victims over the next near quarter century actually contacted her helpline and reported his abuse? The response to Rantzen's disingenuous "would've-should've-could've" from her army of critics would quickly counter-argue that whenever victims of abuse perpetrated by VIPs like Jimmy Savile did report crimes to her ChildLine workers, their complaints were methodically screened out and never heard again. Claiming to be a lifelong champion of child protection and safety, her half century actions speak far louder than her empty, feeble, fork-tongued words.

Another little Rantzen inconsistency indicating what you see is clearly not what you get… former child actor Ben Fellows reported that in 1990 at age 15, he attended a party in New Forest hosted by BBC executives where supposed child advocate Esther Rantzen was also present and fully aware that lots of drugs and alcohol were being given to children while swarms of pedo partygoers, many of whom were BBC executives, producers, directors and stars were propositioning Ben and the other kids all night long as their latest forbidden fruit conquests.[126] Rantzen again did nothing on behalf of the endangered children right before her eyes witnessing youth being taken advantage of, sexually exploited and victimized. A drugged Ben Fellows recalled being sexually assaulted by a BBC employee who would later work in the children's entertainment department, perhaps manning her ChildLine. The BBC kids department has always been a pedo-magnet within BBC's larger child sex ring.

Keep in mind that the British Broadcasting Corporation is a tax paid, government sponsored mega media giant, guilty of covering up both Savile's so-vile sins as well as its own inside pedophilia ring. Meanwhile, aside from Savile and the half dozen known BBC employed pedophiles Rolf Harris, Paul Gadd, Chris Denning, Jonathon King, Alan Freeman and Stuart Hall covered in Chapter 19, for several decades running, this same complicit company maintained a steady flow of BBC employed insiders privy to this massive criminal cover-up suddenly winding up dead under highly suspicious circumstances. But more on the KIAs later. Back to Dame Esther, the inside pedo-enabling fox masquerading as Britain benign, saintly savior to children.

While working at a prep school, a teacher named Alex Standish provided testimony to crown court as well as an episode of Rantzen's That's Life that helped convict several teachers guilty of child sex abuse in 1991.[127] That's all fine and dandy, but when that same tutor turned out to be a pedophile himself, as a favor to him, Rantzen kept that critical piece of information to herself, once again protecting yet another sexual predator (aside from her former MP lover, Savile and the rest of the BBC pedo-platoon) while placing innocent children at further risk.

Turns out that Esther as well as the local police where Standish was teaching both knew that he was a child molester but neither informed the school nor the parents of any eminent danger. Then when a newspaper exposed her dirty little secret, she sued the paper for libel and somehow won a favorable court settlement despite the veracity of the article's claim that she had deceived the paper's editor in a phone conversation. Because the police also knew Standish was a child molester, she wiggled out of losing her case before a star-struck jury. But an appeals court lowered the overinflated damages from £250,000 to £150,000.[128]

Though Esther Rantzen may not have been present at another social event held at her own residence in New Forest, Hampshire in August 1993, an invited guest, 63-year old former British Airways engineer Robert Gillings sexually assaulted a 5-year old girl in Rantzen's swimming pool.[129] At the time the victim and her parents were staying at Rantzen's estate. Culminating a series of yearlong abuse, the incident resulted in Gillings receiving an 18-month prison sentence in July 1994.

If the true nature of an individual is accurately reflected in the company one intimately keeps, then Rantzen may not love children as much as she purports. In 1966 at age 26 while a BBC researcher, Esther Rantzen began a two year adulterous affair with married Scottish pedophile MP Sir Nichols Fairbairn.[130] A year later the “saintly” serial adulterer embarked on yet another affair with her boss Desmond Wilcox.

NSPCC trustee Esther Rantzen and the current NSPCC chief executive since 2013 Peter Wanless have been the two highest profile figures atop UK’s child protection system. Yet each has a history linked directly to pedophilia and pedophiles. For years prior to his current gig, Wanless was Principle Private Secretary to confirmed pedophile Tory MP and Cabinet Secretary Michael Portillo who was involved in the cover-up of the notorious Westminster child sex ring[131] (fully taken up in Chapter 24). Despite his predatory exposure as a pedophile, the outed Portillo left politics only to reinvent himself at where else but BBC, the pedo-friendly broadcasting network as a television presenter.[132] When birds of a feather flock together, they inevitably morph into foxes guarding their child henhouse. Just as in America, all the top positions entrusted to protect children invariably protect the elite’s pedophilia network cabal.

In March 2003 Esther Rantzen and Paedophile Information Exchange (PIE) founder Tom O’Carroll (see Chapter 2) appeared together as panelists on a BBC After Dark program discussing pedophilia and child protection,[133] as if there’s any common ground between the two when PIE organization advocates no age of consent for children at all.[134] For someone who claims to dedicate her life to keeping children safe, why has her entire public and private life and record been so intertwined with the likes of those bent on violating and destroying children? Bottom line, Esther Rantzen’s been sleeping with the enemy throughout her entire adulthood.

The Coleman Experience claims that a former British intelligence officer disclosed that Esther Rantzen's residence she calls Blood Oaks needs to be dug up for all the bloody dead child corpses literally buried in her backyard, allegedly murdered during satanic sex abuse rituals held at her estate.[135] Rantzen's Jewish family with ties to a diamond fortune also has her making friends with Mossad-CIA agent Uri Geller linked to running a mind control program for gifted children.[136] The Sir Cliff-Sir Jimmy-Geller Zionist pedo-cabal has far reaching tentacles into both Europe and North America and Esther Rantzen and her charity organizations NSPCC and ChildLine appear to be UK's prime gatekeeping apparatus shielding VIP pedophilia operations. And just like her longtime BBC friend and colleague Sir Jimmy, Dame Rantzen has utilized her lofty social position and "charity-minded" fame as a deceptive front pretending to save the innocents. But to insiders who know her, her actions, like the VIP establishment she embodies, represent pure evil incarnate.

So what we have on the one hand are the Luciferian pedophile core at the BBC supported by the pedo-government and pedo-royalty and their loyal puppet enabling legions, and on the other hand we have BBC staff who as insiders have come to know about their company's appalling pedophilia agenda as an open cesspit secret, but more than likely paid for their knowledge and moral conscience with their lives. Even after the smoke has cleared from the post-Savile debacle, the culture of fear at the BBC is still running rampant.[137] Those who offered testimony to the Dame Janet Smith report on the BBC did so strictly on an anonymous basis, selectively leaving out so much criminally sinister truth, especially about the wider BBC pedophile ring and senior management ignoring it. Few former BBC employees dare go public for the obvious reason that they wish to remain alive knowing too many individuals have met the same tragic, untimely fate for simply knowing too much ugly truth.

The closest to a BBC critic-ex-employee gone public may be the former BBC presenter Bill Oddie who alluded to the longtime Savile abuse being “a running sick joke” within the BBC, according to Bill, covered up because of Sir Jimmy’s close ties to Prince Charles.[138] But no former or current BBC employee has ever gone public divulging the reality that the BBC possessed a wider, still active pedophile ring, much less connected to the even wider VIP establishment’s pedo-network. Again, the risk of death is too grave and certain.

And likely a big part of that reason comes from Jill Dando. No single BBC death has carried more weighted impact and implications exposing this diabolical filth percolating for over a half century within the British Broadcasting Company, with its interlocking ties to both government and royalty than the brutal murder of Jill Dando in April 1999. Having worked her way up the BBC corporate ladder since her 1984 hiring, by the mid-1990s, Jill Dando had grown to be the most public face of women at the BBC, fronting the programs Crimewatch from 1995 to her death as well as Holiday and the Six O’ Clock News.[139] In recent years it has been revealed that the ever-popular presenter and broadcaster had been approached by a number of her female colleagues at the Corporation complaining about sexual harassment that regularly included groping and sexual assault.[140]

When fellow BBC presenter Sally Jones disclosed to the Crimewatch host that Jimmy Savile had attempted to kiss and grope her in an elevator in the late 1980s, Sally said that Jill’s response was that “she had to fend off plenty of unwelcome advances herself,” adding that Savile was “just a dirty old perv.”[141] Sexual harassment accusations in the 1980s had also been made by two other presenters Liz Kershaw and Miriam O’Reilly as well.[142] Though a BBC spokesman said their allegations would be looked into, his next statement was the dead giveaway to indicate nothing would ever change at the BBC:

> We have not seen anything to substantiate these claims.[143]

That's forever been BBC's spouted mantra excuse washing its filthy, blood-soaked hands from the pedophilia epidemic flourishing for decades within its ranks, conveniently claiming never to have any record of a single complaint against Savile or anyone else. Over time, Jill became not only increasingly aware of the prevailing sexist culture at the BBC promoting the hostile work environment for women but came to realize it was far more pathologically sinister, foreboding and dangerous for children. According to a retired BBC worker who spoke to the Daily News in July 2014, Jill Dando was informed by her co-workers that many of the BBC's "big name stars," DJs, directors, producers and executives were participating in a large organized child sex abuse ring.[144] The anonymous source explained:

> I think she was quite shocked when told about images of children and that information on how to join this horrible paedophile ring was freely available.[145]

But when Jill tried to get her Crimewatch bosses to investigate, they completely blew her off, clearly not wanting to get involved in any effort to expose or stop it. While in her mid-30s as an ethically-minded, popular host of a program that was supposed to be all about stopping criminal activity, especially involving helpless, abused children, in the mid-1990s Jill went to BBC's senior management with a dossier of identified perps to let the head honchos know what was going on under their noses (as if they didn't already know).[146] A year before she was killed, as a committed child abuse advocate Jill began actively promoting a campaign program to educate children on how to identify potential pedophiles. Jill's onetime colleague stated:

> She compiled a file of complaints but she was not really an investigative journalist, just a presenter. She passed the information to someone else and they gave it back. No one wanted to know. I do remember that she gave a file to senior management. I don't think she heard any more.[147]

No one wanted to broach this alarmingly horrific reality because they placed their jobs and personal safety over the fate of abused children. Jill's friend concluded:

> Nothing had been done and there seemed to be a policy of turning a blind eye.[148]

And near two decades later in the Savile aftermath the BBC was still turning a blind eye in October 2012, flagrantly still lying its ass off claiming that management was totally unaware of any allegations against Savile or anyone else because no formal complaints were ever registered against sexual predators at the BBC:

> The BBC has conducted searches of the its files and has not found any record of allegations of misconduct by Jimmy Savile during his time at the BBC.[149]

Not only did Jill Dando inform top management in the mid-1990s, but the head of Radio 1 Douglas Muggeridge suspecting abuse way back in 1973 approached Radio 1 press officer Rodney Collins to request that he ascertain if any local newspaper reporters were investigating Savile for pedophilia crimes.[150] To refute BBC's October 2012 lie that no record of Savile abuse exists, Rodney Collins emerged to boldly state that he received feedback from all the major newspapers in 1973 that though they were aware of rumors circulating around the BBC program Savile's Travels where the pedophile was abusing underage girls in his traveling caravan, the unanimous consensus was no newspaper had any intention of reporting on it. This means that not only the behemoth BBC knew about Savile's abuse but other major newspaper outlets in the UK were also privy to Savile's crimes, yet chose not to investigate or go public either. This fact - across-the-boards complicity suggests an existing wider pedophilia network extending far beyond Savile or the BBC.

Rodney Collins dutifully passed on his shamefully dubious findings to his higher-ups, urging them to launch a full scale internal inquiry to determine who knew what and when, confirming as far back as the early 1970s that senior BBC management both knew and were covering up child sexual abuse within its ranks. Collins said that not only his boss was aware of allegations but he believes the BBC's managing director later promoted to BBC's top dog Director General Sir Ian Trethowan from 1977 to 1982 also knew.[151] Hardly by accident that queen honored Sir Ian was running the BBC during Sir Jimmy's peak years as the most prolific pedophile in British history.

That the UK's so called free press as well as the police refused to touch the organized pedophilia network with a 10 foot pole operating way back in the early 1970s only proves that the world's epicenter has knowingly allowed it to flourish for a very long time. Keep in mind at that time the Luciferian child raping murderer Edward Heath was the British prime minister and his #1 child procurer was none other than Sir Jimmy Savile. One can easily see why the press tolerated and condoned the ongoing evil a near half century ago as the complicit MSM still tolerates to this day, which in large part is why the worldwide child raping network has been permitted to reach epidemic proportions today.

A reminder worth noting here is the plethora of sexual complaints being filed with law enforcement that police were repeatedly having to investigate the BBC throughout the late 1960s and again in 1971 with the Claire McAlpine sexual allegations and suicide, and then also separately in 1971 over the so called “payola scandal.”[152] A News of the World undercover exposé implicated BBC executives, DJs and producers for rigging the pop charts based on cash giveaways and sexual favors at rampant orgies involving young prostitutes dressed as schoolgirls (some underage) sponsored by record companies, culminating in charges filed in 1973 against a record company executive, a BBC producer, a theatrical agent, several record promoters and the madam orgy hostess. All of this nefarious illegal activity at the BBC was happening more than two decades prior to Jill Dando alerting the BBC top brass in the mid-90s. These facts provide irrefutable evidence that the UK’s largest media corporation sponsored by the national government has been consistently engaging in pedophilia while simultaneously waging a nonstop campaign of widespread deception, denial and criminal cover-up over a span of the last half century.

When Jill Dando was discreetly making waves at the BBC, the pedo-cabal establishment grew increasingly nervous over her plan to expose the pedophilia network on her live television program platform Crimewatch. Enter the pedo-plot thickener as two intimates were mysteriously sent to meet Jill Dando not long before she died, one the legendary pop star Sir Cliff Richard whom she became very close friends with[153] and the other Doctor Alan Farthing who ended up her fiancé less than three months prior to her murder. Their engagement was announced at a party attended by Sir Cliff Richard as well as her Crimewatch partner Nick Ross.[154] A mere year and a half before her death, Alan and Jill were set up on a blind date to meet at a dinner party by a mutual friend,[155] no doubt linked to intelligence services, within mere weeks after August 31, 1997, when the world lost

Princess Diana, its most iconic British heroine possessing the integrity and will that was on the verge of exposing the royal pedophilia filth.[156]

Born just four months apart in 1961, Diana and Jill were two of United Kingdom's most famous, highly recognizable, attractive, extremely popular women, both independently uncovering widespread pedophilia in the royal family, the BBC and government. It's quite conceivable if not probable that Jill and Diana came to know each other, conferred and compared notes on their explosive VIP pedophile findings.[157] While Diana was ready to bring down the royal family, Jill was preparing to unveil and, if need be, bring down the BBC pedophilia network, both ultimately unearthing the same child raping murderous cabal. While Jill was making an unwanted ruckus attempting to alert senior BBC management of its internal pedo-ring, Diana's assassination was being plotted and carried out as a direct threat to the satanic royal order. With both high profile, well-intentioned do-gooders lined up in the fatal crosshairs of British intelligence, the pedo-establishment was growing terrified that if their bombshell of a secret got out to the public it would utterly destroy UK's rulers. Thus, each one was cold-bloodedly picked off and sacrificed little more than a year and a half apart.

No sooner was Diana's plan to bring down the British monarchy's pedo-network averted, the British intelligence agencies got busy again scheming to assess and potentially eliminate their next highly visible threat, the nationally adored BBC darling herself, stirring up a hornet's nest unraveling the same pedo-crime cabal Diana discovered. Enter veteran Mossad-MI5 asset-accused pedophile-mind controlled former rent boy superstar himself, Sir Cliff Richard,[158] along with the "good doctor" Farthing to become Jill's fiancé and royal family's future gynecologist.

Security services dispatched both Sir Cliff as her nearest and dearest confidante and compelled Alan Farthing to wine, dine and romance Jill in order to discern just how much dirt she'd dug up on the British pedo-establishment.[159] Cliff Richard was both feeding her selective information while pumping her for all she knew. Prime Minister Tony Blair tapped intelligence services to conjure up a dirty smear campaign on Jill Dando, the plan being to ruin her reputation providing sufficient grounds for her BBC termination. But MI5 couldn't locate any past boyfriends or contacts willing to badmouth Jill even for bribe money.

Meanwhile, Jill was alleged to be researching the massive sexual exploitation of young boys by British establishment VIPs, collecting a dossier containing a number of household names.[160] As a cover, she told her BBC supervisors that her latest project was examining the sexual health and status of British adolescents. But shortly before Jill Dando's death, it's been reported that she'd heard that one of her intimate friends was implicated in the VIP pedophilia scandal involving BBC personnel, royals, MPs, PMs, high court judges, including top entertainers and influential doctors with VIP friends.[161] A betrayed Jill may well have confronted her fiancé Dr. Farthing and/or her trusted pal Sir Cliff, thus inadvertently sealing her fate. It's been reported that Cliff Richard was caught in the middle, feeling pressured to leak to MI5 and Mossad all he'd learned from Jill, but under increasing conflict and stress over the inevitable consequences it would bring, allegedly checking himself into a health clinic over the next several days.[162]

An alleged British insider, Brian Barrough, left a comment posted on the Coleman Experience blogsite:

My memory is beginning to slip but let me tell you what I know. Tony Blair received a phone call at approx 11.40am > from Paul Condon who was in charge of the Met Police, the name Jill was mentioned as was becoming troublesome.[163]

Within three days of the call, Jill Dando was dead. With thoroughly compromised, crossdressing[164] war criminal Blair[165] officially alerted, knowing Jill had enough goods on his New Labor pedo-cabinet that would inevitably destroy both his government and career, to save his own skin as well as the pedophilia empire, Brian Barrough believes that Blair had no other choice but to order a rushed hit on Jill Dando.[166] So the criminal cabal sped into high gear to eliminate its latest threat since neutralizing and satanically sacrificing Diana and Dodi inside the Paris tunnel a year and a half earlier.[167]

In March 2014 a former BBC staffer (unknown if the same July 2012 Daily Star source) also disclosed that Jill Dando had been investigating her friend Matthew Harding's death in a 1996 helicopter crash.[168] Harding was the deputy chairman of the Chelsea Football Club and had confided in his Irish journalist friend Veronica Guerin about his concerns over rampant corruption and money laundering inside his popular sport football, and that was years ahead of the FIFA scandal (covered in Chapter 17). Guerin was then reportedly murdered while working on a Dublin drug probe just a few months before Harding's death. Only four months prior to his own death, in a panic Harding shared his growing fears with Jill that his life was in danger. Of course the accident was conveniently blamed on helicopter pilot error and "confusion."[169] An inside UK government source leaked:

> Matthew had been nosing around in something he shouldn't and Jill was trying to find out the results of a blood test on the pilot.[170]

It's been said that Harding was close to Blair and Mandelson until he too learned of their Mossad controlled UK blackmail operation compromising so many British VIP pedophiles.[171]

While Harding died suspiciously under mysterious circumstances, his two journalist friends he confidentially confided in with his insider information - Veronica Guerin and Jill Dando - both wound up murder victims.

Jill Dando and fellow BBC presenter Alice Beer both received death threat letters sent four weeks prior to Jill's murder. Yet the police never bothered contacting Alice or Jill, failing to follow up on threats that vowd to kidnap, rape and murder them.[172] Only a total inside job would "overlook" such blatant details.

By the time Jill was killed, she was basically living with her fiancé Alan Farthing in Chiswick. According to police records, on the morning of April 26th, 1999, after cooking breakfast for the doctor, Jill left his home for a brief shopping trip, afterwards traveling back to her own residence in South West London where the alerted killer lie in waiting.[173] Only Farthing and perhaps one or two of Jill's closest friends (like Sir Cliff) would have known she'd be returning to her home at that particular time.

A postal worker delivering mail at Jill's address noticed a man watching him about an hour and a half prior to the shooting. Less than an hour before Jill was dead, a window cleaner also noticed a man standing outside Jill's home talking on a cell phone.[174] A number of witnesses recalled that a blue Range Rover was spotted repeatedly in the area prior to the killing and again leaving the crime scene at high speed afterwards. And despite the multitude of witnesses that caught a fair glimpse of a dark-haired man near 6 feet tall with a Mediterranean or Israeli looking appearance estimated to be about 40 years old wearing a suit periodically talking on his cellphone at or near Jill's address prior to the hit, the police apparently never followed up with questioning them or simply ignored eyewitness accounts in what clearly was an intentionally botched investigation ordered from the top never to be solved.

As Jill was about to place her key in the front door at 11:32AM, the professional assassin stealthily emerged to confront her on her doorstep.[175] Grabbing her arm and pushing her to the ground with his right hand, with his left he placed the barrel of his handgun in direct contact with her head just above her left temple and swiftly fired off a 9mm single, round killing her instantly. The entire deadly encounter lasted all of 20 seconds. Without a drop of blood on him, the well-dressed hitman calmly, briskly walked away.

More than one witness including her neighbor Richard Hughes, heard her startled scream then saw her killer leaving her home.[176] The automatic pistol placed against her head apparently was modified to muffle the gunshot sound. It wasn't for another 14 minutes that another neighbor noticed her slumped body in a pool of blood. The professional hitman speculated to either be an intelligence operative or a hired contract mobster was seen by others running down the street. Perhaps escaping in the Range Rover or slipping into the local underground subway station, the killer vanished, never to be seen again. With witnesses galore and London per capita possessing more installed closed circuit TV cameras than any other city in the world, each Londoner caught on camera on average 300 times a day,[177] it's a shameful abomination and diabolical disgrace that Metro Police have not solved this near 20 year old murder mystery. The world's pedo-capital of the world goes unmatched in its overt contempt for justice.

Chief investigator Hamish Campbell and his team of detectives 20 days into the initial investigation concluded that the key to solving the murder case hinged on the phone contacts made with Jill on the morning of April 26th.[178] The fact that in the last several months of her life, Jill spent next to no time at her own place but was there that morning could have only been known by a select few people, Farthing, Cliff Richard and perhaps one or two others that she may have spoken to just hours before her death. Crime expert John McVicar commented on the then 3-week old police investigation:

> Detectives are convinced that anyone who wanted to harm her needed to be in contact with Jill herself. And only someone close would be able to call Jill and casually inquire about her plans – as Jill was obviously unaware of what lay in store for her until that final scream.[179]

Because the investigators appeared to be on track to swiftly solving what should have been an easy case to crack based on so much available evidence, less than a month into the probe after narrowing their focus to Jill's April 26 morning phone contacts, MI5 abruptly yanked Campbell off the investigation, replacing him with Detective Chief Superintendent Brian Edwards.[180] Incredibly, just two weeks later the police inquiry was strangely halted until September. With Britain's biggest manhunt little more than a month into operation, the insane decision to shut down the investigation is pure self-sabotage, only demonstrating how corrupt and determined the British establishment was to ensure that the ugly truth of the UK pedo-empire gets completely squashed. As if this overt obstruction of justice isn't brazenly criminal enough, DCS Edwards suddenly resigned the first week of December and Campbell was placed back "in command." Playing musical director chairs with the probe is yet one more giveaway that the UK police were never actually in charge but totally manipulated and controlled from behind the scenes at every turn by intelligence services determined to keep the case unsolved.

By this time the higher-ups had "reprogrammed" Campbell to toe the line as an obedient order follower and by March

2000, he was mouthing the lone gunman script[181] handed him as standard state protocol for virtually every false flag cover-up ever committed. Already a year into the butchered investigation, reacting to public pressure to find the killer, law enforcement honed in on their man Barry George, falsely arresting him in late May 2000 and little more than a year later the innocent man living just a half mile away with a 75 IQ deemed an expendable target, was found guilty and facing a lifetime sentence for a crime he never committed.[182]

Another anomaly was within an hour after Jill's death, Clarence Mitchell, the MI5-infiltrating BBC journalist[183] happened to be the first reporter on the crime scene.[184] Later it was Mitchell recruited by Prime Minister Blair as director of his government's media monitoring unit, i.e., running a media operations campaign of propaganda disinformation doing double duty as spin master first unprecedentedly representing the Blair government in the Madeleine McCann disappearance and then in 2007 representing Maddie's shady parents as their personal PR spokesman. No sooner did he abruptly leave the BBC for the Blair appointed civil service post, the UK was rocked by the 7/7 London bombings. Mitchell's remarkable meteoric rise from journalist to public media expert smacks of British intelligence infiltration all the way to the top. What are the odds as a BBC reporter of getting the scoop on the Jill Dando assassination[185] a year and a half after being assigned two other big murder cases - the Paris Princess Di aftermath followed shortly by Sydney's Michael Hutchence fake hanging?[186] Always the very first bloke dramatically on the scene at major state executed violent events wherever they are, no doubt as an intel mole assisted by security services. With a nose for "smelling out" state sponsored assassinations and false flag terrorism as they occur, this guy is the "Johnny-come-early" on-the-spot for Britain's biggest news events, not so subtly leaving behind his undercover calling card.

Early on after Jill's murder, rumors began circulating that Alan Farthing may have had a conspiratorial hand or left fingerprints himself on Jill's murder, with claims he actually came face-to-face with the killer but "forgot" to tell police. Like so many squandered leads, after a few hours of questioning, law enforcement appeared to go through the motions taking direct orders from security forces to give the bereaved fiancé a free pass.[187]

Again consistent with the Jimmy Savile case, clearly following orders from above, the Metropolitan Police intentionally blundered the Dando murder probe from beginning to end. Detectives never bothered to interview Jill's neighbors who witnessed 11 potential suspects observed on her street that morning who were never identified.[188] Nor did they even pay attention to two key witnesses who allegedly observed the killer in action, next door neighbor Hughes and the passer-by in a car Barry Lindsey. Barry happened to be driving by the crime scene literally as the shooting was taking place and saw a dark haired, olive complexioned man confronting a terrified Jill Dando standing at her doorstep at the outset of a murder that took only seconds to complete.[189] Lindsey told police that he even heard a muffled single gunshot as he was turning the corner off Dando's street not far away but, already driving away, it failed to register that he'd just witnessed a murder taking place right before his very eyes and ears. Months later when he did report what he saw, Barry Lindsey said the police by that time were only interested in nailing their suspect Barry George. When they showed Lindsey a photo of George and he told them he was not the man he observed in front of Jill's home, the interview was over. The police had already targeted their framed suspect, and his guilt or innocence didn’t matter in the least.

Meanwhile, Barry George languished in a jail cell falsely imprisoned for eight long years before he won on his second appeal a retrial that finally admitted lack of forensic evidence and he was released in early July 2008. One would think that Dr. Farthing and Jill’s family would not rest until the real killer - obviously still at large - was brought to justice. Yet with no further questions asked, they wanted the case immediately closed.[190] Another gross miscarriage of justice resulted when George lost his formal requests for financial compensation for wrongly having eight years stolen from his life. But the judge absurdly ruled he was not quite “innocent enough,” only reinforcing the foregone conclusion that from start to finish this was one royal government hit job done on both Jill and Barry as well as every man, woman and child in Great Britain.

So predictably to this very day, the April 26th, 1999 assassination of Jill Dando remains conveniently “unsolved” for one obvious reason. Like Princess Diana who was ready to take down the British establishment for its murderous, pedophilic ways, Jill was fatally gunned down, also deemed too much of a threat knowing that Savile and the larger BBC sex ring were part of a vast gangster network for decades regularly procuring expendable children for the British VIP sickos.

The Scotland Yard insists that after interviewing over 5000 people[191] and amassing 2500 witness statements and 3700 exhibits within the first six months alone,[192] the police exhausted every potential lead that after a year incredulously led nowhere. With mounting pressure to solve this high profile crime as all of Britain was watching and waiting, after a year of nonstop fumbling and stonewalling, the investigators claimed that they had found their man and the rush to judgment was on. Based on a supposed speck of gunpowder residue invisible to the naked eye found (or planted) in Barry George's coat pocket, he was railroaded straight to murder conviction.[193] Scarcely a year after his false arrest, Barry George was sentenced to life in prison. It mattered little that he was the wrong man as police purposely overlooked leads on at least 100 known suspects along with dozens of significant witnesses never interviewed that would have led to solving Jill's murder.[194] The government had the means to solve the crime but never the motive nor the will.

That was never part of the elite's agenda, so key witnesses were wholesale systematically screened out, dismissed or ignored,[195] no doubt like the VIP child abuse victims calling in to Rantzen's ChildLine over the years. More than any other nation on earth, the insulated UK crime cabal system, thoroughly infiltrated by blackmail-controlled pedo-enabling puppets in government, law enforcement, high courts, the media, military, child welfare and charity services ensure that all the puppet masters and their minions continue to live above the law while committing the most egregious, nonstop crimes on earth.

Adding insult to injury, the top cop in charge of investigating the Jill Dando murder, Hamish Campbell, because he'd proven himself such a loyal order follower, was duly rewarded for failing to find the real killer, and tactically redeployed to later head the Savile Operation Yewtree farce. In 2013, after a 40 year career, the last four capped as Scotland Yard's Detective Chief Superintendent at Homicide and Serious Crime Command, following his dictated script to the end, Hamish Campbell had the audacity to claim:

We, the Met police, did everything we could to understand that murder and bring the person responsible to court, and we did that, twice.[196]

But before his retirement, DCS Campbell also ended up in May 2011 assigned as top cop investigating the biggest case in UK since Jill Dando - the Madeleine McCann disappearance in Portugal. After two Home Secretaries denied requests by the McCann parents calling for a review of their missing four year old daughter's alleged abduction on May 3, 2007, PM David Cameron begrudgingly gave in to launch Operation Grange, a reexamination of the case. The same shady players like Hamish Campbell and Clarence Mitchell who were closely associated with the Dando murder investigation were repeatedly enlisted to do the dirty bidding of covering-up British establishment scandals.[197] They were called to duty in the McCann case because it exposes the criminality of both British intelligence as well as the international pedophilia network, whitewashing the involvement of such pedophilia notables as pedo-MP Clement Freud whose estate was in such close proximity to Maddie's disappearance, Clement's pedo-buddies the Podesta brothers as guests in his home at the time,[198] and accused-pedo-neighbor Sir Cliff who also lived nearby. The Madeleine McCann case warrants a chapter of its own in number 26.

In recent years, ex-detective of ITV Savile Exposure fame, investigator Mark Williams-Thomas, has launched his own investigation into “operation kill Jill,” commenting on Metro’s shoddy probe:

> I’ve never reviewed a case where there is so much information that was never followed up… There are eleven unidentified people still unaccounted for in the locality, there are over 100 potential suspects, there is other information naming people and specifically information on how this crime was carried out .[199]

Though as of August 2018 Thomas claims to know who the real killer is, we’re still waiting on his full disclosure.[200] Meanwhile, both he and law enforcement insist they are working together to solve among Britain’s biggest unsolved murder mysteries. While Metro Police release statements assuring the public that if new information and leads emerge in the Jill Dando case, it will not hesitate to reopen a new investigation. That said, UK law enforcement’s track record has only shown that it has done everything in its power to avoid capturing the real Dando killer, knowing if it does, British pedophilia’s house of cards will undoubtedly come crashing down. No one’s holding their breath waiting for that to happen.

Meanwhile, a hitman by trade surfaced also insisting that he too knows who the professional hitman is among the suspect list in police possession, but refuses to publicly specify the killer’s identity fearing for his own safety.[201]

As fake news subterfuge, a number of other ongoing speculative explanations have been regularly peddled before Britons as sleight-of-hand decoys to answer why Britain’s perennial girl next door and 1997 BBC TV Personality of the Year was shot dead at point blank range on her front doorstep in broad daylight. The most persistent theory is a mob hit over Jill Dando uncovering organized crime, but also an IRA revenge attack was circulated, and then there's the one that wouldn't go away - a Serbian warload seeking revenge for the NATO war crime bombing of a Serbian radio station.[202] A decade after Jill's co-presenter's Crimestopper helpline suddenly went dead perfectly co-timed during the critical hours seeking witnesses right after her murder, in January 2009 Crimestopper was at it again spewing more diversionary disinfo. Sounding almost like a joke – you here the one about the drunken Serbian in a West Midlands bar? It was reported that incoming Crimestopper calls were claiming a Serbian national in between downing shots of liquor in a West Midlands pub was bragging to his fellow barflies that he was the real Jill Dando murderer.[203] Then after that preposterous lead went cold, suddenly it was back to the old Serbian connection all over again when a Belgrade widow began claiming that the same Serbian hitman 15 days prior to Jill's hit bumped off her journalist husband as well.[204]

Another bizarre twist to this government plotted Jill Dando assassination chases the BBC rabbit hole even deeper into the conspiratorial realm. Crimewatch founder and Jill's co-presenter Nick Ross continued playing a suspicious role as a security services shill after her demise.[205] One more recap seems in order. It was Nick Ross who went on record saying if given half a chance, he'd be checking out child pornography images on the web, alluding to actually doing so as part of his program Crimewatch. Again, his CrimeStopper helpline mysteriously went down right after news that Jill was murdered, an obvious sabotage attempt to prevent her killer from being identified. Then years later his CrimeStopper propaganda venue was the conduit source promoting the bogus Serbian connection again. And with her pedo-complicit cousin Dame Esther Rantzen, Nick Ross' wife Sarah Caplan co-founded BBC's ChildLine accused of screening out called in reports of VIP pedophilia. A so called friend and TV partner like Nick Ross begs the question, who needs enemies?

But there's more on this shady character. On the night of Jill's death, Nick Ross on Newsnight began reporting that retaliatory crimes against judges, lawyers and police are almost unknown,[206] making readymade emphatic statements within hours of Jill's murder categorically denying Crimewatch had anything to do with Jill's bullet hole through her brain.[207] From the get-go this in and of itself is a dead giveaway for planting deception and attempting to manipulate and interfere with both the ensuing investigation as well as public opinion. Every real crime expert knows that just hours after any murder, you cannot definitively rule anything out. Right away this unexpected, premature gesture proves, if not guarantees, Nick Ross is not a crime expert at all but simply a hired stooge working for state security services intent on hiding the truth in favor of pushing misleading, false information. In a blatantly transparent ploy, Ross attempted to willfully steer and manipulate both Jill's murder inquiry and public attention away from his own BBC program, away from any BBC-government linkage to intelligence agencies, and especially away from the BBC's larger British VIP pedo-network to which he, his wife and cousin-in-law have all been longtime designated gatekeepers.

Fourteen years after Jill's death, in May 2013 Ross was still trying to shape, mold and control public opinion, writing a propagandist op-ed piece for the Daily Mail desperately attempting to debunk various conspiracy theories surrounding the Dando murder that he himself played a role in, claiming none had any basis in fact, that it was far from a professional hit but a chance encounter with a bungling amateur,[208] which is actually the furthest thing from the truth or established consensus. But as more people began considering the breaking news coming out that Jill knew about Britain's pedophilia epidemic and was violently silenced for it, the elitist plant Nick Ross was once again doing his order-following duty to frantically ward off the growing population from believing Jill was in fact murdered because his BBC was so steeped in pedo-cabal ratlines extending from Sir Jimmy to PMs and MPs, the Queen, her hubby, their sons Charles and Andrew onto Jeffrey Epstein, the Mossad, the Clintons, Podestas and Bushes. And Nick - the "child porn's worth checking out" guy - as a cabal gatekeeping disinfo agent pretending to be the Crimestopper "crime expert" was feebly trying to put out the spreading flames of truth threatening to burn down his cabal that he's no doubt sworn to protect.

Nick Ross even broke the law in an overt attempt to obstruct justice by interfering with the Barry George court outcome. In 2007 stakes to hide the truth were rising so high that Mr. "Crime Expert" took it upon himself to write an open letter to the appeals court judges in a last ditch effort to sway them to deny a framed innocent man his long overdue justice. Ross claimed in his letter he "remains confident that Barry George killed Jill Dando" with his Daily Mail headline entitled, "I know Barry George killed my friend Jill."[209] Again, with friends like Nick, Jill didn't need enemies because in her own TV co-host, she'd already met her Judas. Fortunately his desperate, extremist, illicit tactics failed as the innocent man was released the following year.[210]

Still in another Daily Mail article written by Nick Ross in August 2015 in the wake of the Ted Heath pedophile allegations, the so called crime expert called for leaving investigations of past prime ministers from so many years ago to historians rather than risk fueling the rise of another satanic panic driven witch-hunt by the public promoted by an over-reactive press.[211] Once again voicing the pedo-apologist POV, Ross is clearly minimizing pedophilia as a public threat to children and clearly does not want the British to find out that their leaders, past and present, are pedophiles or pedo-enablers, again overtly attempting to shield the nation's VIP crime network from further scrutiny and public awareness.

Meanwhile, switching back to Jill's beloved Alan, less than a decade after her death and just days after his fiancé's accused's acquittal, Dr. Farthing's fast track medical career suddenly skyrocketed at the relative young age of 45, when in 2008 he was catapulted from virtual obscurity to appointed next royal family head surgeon,[212] the youngest to serve the royal kingdom in British history.[213] Cherry picked to be Queen Elizabeth's official surgeon-gynecologist, 2008 proved to be a banner year for Dr. Farthing. Once he chose to not reopen the investigation of Jill's murder days after Barry George's prison release, with his role in the Dando affair completed, it appears that the royals duly rewarded him for his services rendered vis-à-vis his silent complicity in his former fiancé's murder. At this juncture he was also free to enter into holy matrimony for a second time, marrying a fellow St. Mary's doctor with whom they share a child.[214] The fateful events surrounding this mysterious, low key MD have fueled speculation that the British crown was paying him off, having already proven he could keep their murderous secrets intact.

But mysterious, highly suspicious deaths just seem to follow this doctor. As head medical surgeon for the royals, Farthing has overseen the births of Prince William and Kate Middleton's three children "delivered" at the Lindo Wing of his St. Mary's hospital in Paddington.[215] But there's added reason the monarchy chose Farthing. The first week of December 2012, Kate Middleton entered King Edward VII

Hospital under the phony pretense that she was suffering from morning sickness two months pregnant with Prince George.[216] In actuality, Prince William and vanity-stricken Kate at 92 pounds arrived there to receive treatment for egg extraction and in vitro fertilization for a surrogate pregnancy to retain her slender delicate figure. As the future king's wife, she need not bother herself bearing the unpleasantries of pregnancy by simply hiring a surrogate to bear the inconvenience of carrying Prince George to full term.

The day after William and Kate left the hospital, December 7th, 2012 should be a day of infamy and shame for the royal family because a nurse on Dr. Farthing's hospital staff, Jacintha Saldanha apparently became the next state executed victim found in her hospital nursing quarters, "hanging" from her scarf in another staged suicide with her feet still touching the floor.[217] A nurse with easy access to drugs would simply not choose to kill herself by such a violent, iffy method of hanging from her wardrobe, much less leave a husband, son and daughter she loved who loved her. It makes no sense at all. But the given reason for her so called suicide is too absurd to be believed: Jacintha committed suicide as a result of growing so humiliated and distraught after taking a call from a couple of idiot radio DJ imposters in Australia posing as the queen and Charles, Jacintha couldn't simply live with herself for shaming the royal family. Yet if that was what drove her to kill herself, during her daily calls back home to India, the wife and mother made no mention of this silly, insignificant incident to her own family. Obviously she was not distraught in the least over the minor buffoonery. The MI5 executioners sunk to an all-time low slaying a nurse unwilling to play along with the royal game of deceitful charade of faking Kate's pregnancy. To once again avoid public scandal, the royals and their minions chose to violently silence another perceived threat as their Modus Operandi. But then the royals can be confident that with their good doctor in charge Farthing, mum's the word.

Regarding the royal surgeon's places of employment at St Mary's hospital in Paddington where he still remains a gynecological consultant[218] as well as the supervising physician of all royal births along with the Royal Brompton hospital in Chelsea, he has been accused of participating in the unlawful removal of children's thymus glands. Until the year Jill was murdered, the British public and parents were completely unaware that the UK National Health Service maintained a clandestine nationwide policy across Britain's hospitals where, without family consent, removing ill-fated children's organs during major surgery was standard practice,[219] not unlike Israel's standard practice of harvesting Palestinian young people's organs in their care and custody.[220] Of course organ trafficking, especially when extracted from children, has become big business in both China[221] and Israel as the cabal hub for illegal organ transplant operations,[222] Big Pharma research[223] as well as occult practice worldwide during satanic ritual child sex abuse and child sacrifice.[224]

Speaking of Farthing's Royal Brompton hospital, the pioneering heart surgeon responsible for the world's first successful heart transplant in 1980, Dr. Magdo Yacoub, ran the children's cardiac unit at the Royal Brompton for decades and in 1995 founded the international children's charity Chain of Hearts. One of his charity's trustees, the once renowned Dr. Phillip Bonhoeffer, was charged with sexually abusing underage children while working as a Chain of Hearts physician in Kenya as well as abusing a 10-year old French boy with sex crimes committed against children from 1995 to 2008.[225]

In 2007 17-year veteran BBC newsreader Anna Ford quit her pedophile saturated network in disgust, tired of BBC's "atmosphere of fear"[226] as her cited reason for departure. But in an interview just two days after Jill's 1999 murder, Anna Ford asked Dr. Farthing, "Does it worry you if it may remain unsolved?"[227] That's an extremely odd, puzzling, telling question posed before the deceased even gets buried in the ground and the manhunt for her murderer and investigation among UK's largest barely get underway. As a BBC insider, did she know something the rest of us didn't? But then considering it was a state executed assassination to urgently cover up the long infested pedo-epidemic raging atop Britain's diabolical elite, it's a no-brainer to conclude that by calculated design, Jill's murder will never be solved. No wonder Ford asked, she was merely reading from a script prepping the public to neither expect justice nor any closure - ever.

Switching gears to Jill Dando's chummy mystery pal Sir Cliff Richard, the always tanned, leather-skinned singing sensation now 78 this year (same as cabal friend Esther Rantzen) is not the Christian celibate he faithfully claims to be for well over half a century.[228] Sir Cliff was questioned several times by Metro Police pertaining to Jill's murder.[229] Speaking of mum's the word, no doubt Richard knows a lot more than he let on with the police. But then this man is thoroughly protected, armed with Cliff's law where no one can even associate him with pedophilia without a huge lawsuit.

All the more reason for a little bit of history on this legend in our time. He is reputed to have signed the Elm Guest Home ledger as "Kitty."[230] Cliff Richard has reportedly been accused by at least nine alleged victims abused in their youth at the notorious Elm Guest House.[231] For several years this pedo-party palace was a boy brothel made infamous by prominent pedophile politicians, cabinet ministers, police and intelligence chiefs as well as entertainers enjoying sex with young lads supplied from local group homes, something Sir Jimmy Savile is known to have specialized in working “under cover” (Savile’s words) as an MI5 operative.[232] Recall from last chapter that Cliff was also accused of molesting an underage boy in 1985 at the Billy Graham crusade.[233]

Between 1979 and 1982 Carole Kasir and her husband Haroon were the Elm Guest House operators who contracted with pedophiles from the Spartacus Club run by a former Catholic priest to provide their pad full of trafficked in “rent boys” from nearby Grafton Close children’s home for the VIP regulars.[234] Haroon used to brag about Savile being his best friend until Sir Jimmy stopped showing up and snubbed him.[235] Even the local head of Richmond social services was implicated as chief pipeline procurer and fellow Elm House club member. Solicitor for the Richmond Council responsible for the care [and abuse] at Grafton Close home was none other than future MP power player Keith Vaz, a disgraced pedophile and pedo-enabler-protector yet still shamelessly sitting in Parliament.[236] He’s gone from one scandal to the next but the British political system is so corrupt, he remains a fixture. The Richmond council, police and social services were all in deep protecting their pedophilia operations, caught ignoring victim complaints and losing files.[237] Police even gave the council a heads-up before conducting a raid on the Elm Guest House.[238]

In 1990 47-year old Carole Kasir suspiciously died of an insulin overdose as she was working with social worker Mary Moss to divulge her explosive secrets as yet more probable foul play to keep the lid tightly sealed on the VIP pedo-ring.[239] Despite corrupt police raids on Mary’s home confiscating and destroying incriminating evidence that would have been used to convict the powerful pedophile guests, subservient police following orders from their pedo-masters were caught blatantly obstructing justice in order to shield VIPs from accountability. But fortunately the raid did not prevent the social advocates Mary Moss and Christopher Fay from securing and uploading records to show horrendous sexual abuse by a who's who list of British VIPs that include famous cabinet ministers, MPs and lords along with heads of MI5, MI6 and police chiefs.[240]

After retired whistleblowing child protection manager Peter McKelvie compiled overwhelming evidence of pervasive child abuse over the last 20 years, he submitted his report to MP Tom Watson who in October 2012 dramatically confronted PM David Cameron on the House floor, forcing him to launch a half-ass Westminster police probe into prominent UK politicians' historic child sexual abuse.[241] McKelvie estimated that up to 40 members of the House of Commons and Lords were either full blown pedophiles or confirmed pedophile protectors.[242]

Peter McKelvie who has dedicated his entire adult professional life to protecting children and exposing those who harm them, especially from high places, quickly became a target for character assassination by the pedophilia cabal when in 2014 he was hired as a consultant by the national Independent Inquiry of Child Abuse. An October 2015 Daily Mail hit piece written by Stephen Wright and Sam Greenhill launched a smear campaign intended to discredit McKelvie's integrity, accusing Peter of making false allegations in an attempted "plot" to destroy the political career of a Tory cabinet minister.[243]

For his career expertise in accessing and exposing the truth on behalf of child victims for so many years, McKelvie was recruited as a consultant member of the Victims and Survivors Consultative Panel for the beleaguered

Independent Inquiry into Child Sexual Abuse. But right after the Daily Mail article attacking his credibility, bogusly claiming his plot to ruin a Tory minister's career, in October 2015 Peter McKelvie resigned his position maintaining he would soon be needed as an inquiry witness, stepping down to avoid conflict of interest.[244] But in actuality he was neutered by the destructive powers whose self-interest is to ensure that the full pedophilia truth never gets revealed to the public and ridding McKelvie as a thorn in the cabal's side had to be chalked up as another victory for the VIP child rapists as yet another child advocate is court muzzled.

Several years earlier the West Mercia Police granted McKelvie full access to the diary belonging to prominent deceased civil servant-pedophile-PIE founder Peter Righton.[245] Peter McKelvie subsequently learned of Righton's child abuse dating back to 1957 along with group home roundups procuring trafficked kids to VIP sex parties at locations like Dolphin Square and Elm Guest House. Though Righton died in 2007, thanks to McKelvie, at least the truth about his extensive serial crime history supplying victims to VIPs ultimately did emerge. One reason Peter took his 20 year criminal findings to MP Tom Watson in the 2012 post-Savile aftermath was the fact that the prolific pedophile-VIP pimp Righton had only been given a 1992 slap on the hand for possessing child pornography images.[246] This classic case of another predatory fox guarding the pedo-house consisting of UK's group homes held top positions with Department of Health, National Children's Bureau and the National Institute of Social Work and wrote national policy on childcare for UK social services. Yet McKelvie determined that Righton had a connection in Malta where they were trafficking child victims. Because Peter the real child protection manager had unearthed the international pedophilia network, including Righton's PIE contacts in Sweden and Norway, McKelvie's seminal investigative work was immediately shut down.

The biggest reason motivating Peter McKelvie to become a whistleblower was the fact that his investigative research and professional experience led him to realize that powerful, famous MPs, Lords and cabinet ministers were molesting and raping UK's throwaway kids for years and never investigated or brought to justice. Peter McKelvie is a hero for following up on leads and uncovering sex abuse committed by a couple of other, still living pedophiles associated with Righton. McKelvie's work helped convict Righton's longtime living partner Richard Alston, brother of diplomat Robert Alston and a former PIE Treasurer and longtime schoolteacher Charles Napier, half-brother of MP John Whittingdale.[247] For decades Napier abused 23 of his students between 1967 and 1983 that eventually led to his arrest and conviction in 2014. Whittendale had to have been aware of his brother's proclivities for abusing young boys and as Home Secretary Brittan's advisor when Leon received the pedophile dossier from MP Geoffrey Dickens in 1983, he also had to have been privy to known Westminster pedophiles.[248] In view of his grandstanding objections to Savile's reign of terror, the question needs to be answered as to what Whittingdale did to safeguard children in harm's way based on his insider knowledge of pedophilia in both his family and workplace.

In 1994 Peter McKelvie's valiant efforts to secure authorization for a proposal that his already established interdisciplinary team consisting of a senior police officer, two seasoned investigative journalists and child social workers from Peter's social services office were turned down in forming a joint task force with law enforcement and then when his boss retired that same year, his office and team were disbanded.[249] Due to so many abuse crimes committed outside his local jurisdiction, Peter McKelvie was forced to turn over his incriminating findings exposing the Westminster VIP pedophiles to various local authorities. And because orders to suppress evidence of child abuse in the UK has always emanated from the top, the prime ministers' Home Office and/or intelligence agencies or higher, police investigations throughout the nation have never gotten off the ground. When victims' accusations were filed in the 1980s right through to this day, it's always been the same old despicable story of next to no arrests and even fewer convictions.

Out of the dozen or so post-Savile Scotland Yard spawned police investigations, from 2012's Operation Yewtree to 2013's Operation Fernbridge launched specifically to probe both past and current allegations surfacing from Elm Guest House, not one VIP pedophile guest guilty of abusing boys was ever brought to justice, and Fernbridge was closed in March 2015.[250] While the still unscathed perpetrators with their stellar reputations intact die off from natural "old age" causes, their younger victims suffering from lifelong effects directly from their abuse are dying in significant numbers at much earlier ages, either taking their own lives or under mysterious circumstances. Chapter 25 delves far deeper into this shameful Westminster marathon scandal and its ongoing cover-up feeding off the lifeblood of innocent children with absolute impunity.

Famous pedophiles at Elm Guest Home at times used phony names to sign in on the guest lists, like Cliff Richard aka "Kitty." Yet with authentic documents still in existence that include household names listed as guests, zero arrests or convictions have been made from the Elm Guest House of Horror.[251] A few years ago Sir Cliff exercised his legal clout and formidable VIP influence to secure a High Court super injunction prohibiting his name from even being associated with the notorious Elm Guest House scandal,[252] and that was before this year's landmark legal victory for the ever-popular, permanently unreachable senior citizen.

As covered in Chapter 19, the Crown Prosecution Service in June 2016 claimed not enough evidence was generated to forward his case to trial. And the rest is history after the BBC and South Yorkshire police sensationalized their August 2014 raid on his home and the July 2018 court decision granting Cliff Richard damages for violating his privacy upwards of over four millions pounds and counting to ensure that in the future famous people arrested for pedophilia (or any crime) never show up in newspapers or on TV ever again without news companies risking a fortune. Only after formal criminal charges against known powerful figures are filed will they ever go public in the media. And with so many foxes in government, law enforcement and courts, that will likely never happen.

Of course this latest legal development was designed to seal off protection and impunity for those at the top of the pedo-food chain from ever having to abide by manmade laws. After all, they delude themselves into believing they are gods, beyond all judgment and reproach, so they see it as their natural Luciferian earthly privilege to live like gods above lowly manmade laws. In the United Kingdom, the ruling elite is now virtually unreachable, making certain that the pedo-epidemic raging at our planet's epicenter will only continue thriving to rage on indefinitely at vulnerable children's expense around the world. If you're an MP or a high court judge or royal family member or famous entertainer, you can rape, sodomize, cannibalize and murder children and adults at will until your heart's content. What they fail to realize is if karma fails to catch up to them in this lifetime, then God most certainly will.

To see how we got to this unholy place and time with the beta tested, Teflon man himself, exploring sir pop legend’s humble roots may be incisively useful. Cliff Richard arrived in this world in October 1940 as Harry Rodger Webb in India, a top recruiting source for British intelligence.[253] Harry, his parents and three sisters moved to England in 1948 where his father secured a job with Thorn Electrical Industries (also known as EMI).[254] Electrical and Mechanical Instruments sold music in its heyday throughout the 1960s but was also a major producer of military electronics within UK’s defense industry, establishing a crucial front for British military intelligence operations to covertly expand its cultural reach and influence among the younger British population.[255] Through Tavistock-developed mind control methods, UK’s security services are notorious for recruiting and transforming cute little boys into future sex slaves, spies and assassins. That they are bred to evolve into iconic legendary singers only makes them more invaluable as a cabal controlled tool for the UK-US-Israel axis-of-evil.

Satanic elements merged with military intelligence to transform the counterculture movement into an orgiastic youth drug-fest back in the swinging 1960s.[256] CIA’s concocted mix of MK Ultra mind control, international drug pushing[257] and satanic sex cults like Alistair Crowley’s OTO have been infused and embedded into popular culture through the globalized entertainment industry.[258] Deployment of mind controlled sex slaves in a grand social engineering experiment has been misusing humanity as guinea pigs as part of the false propaganda machine to brainwash and achieve mass mind control. Scientology founder L. Ron Hubbard[259] was once a naval intelligence operative who with Jack Parsons, a leading NASA rocket scientist, embraced Crowley’s demonic sex occult teachings.[260] The subversively fascist and sinister dogma underpinning the CIA manufactured “peace, love and freedom" movement of the sixties also simultaneously promoted the burgeoning rise of modern art as a Cold War artifice used as an anti-Soviet psyops weapon[261] just as the Cold War itself was also an internationalists' New World Order creation.[262]

From both sides of the Atlantic, the US-British intelligence apparatus launched the careers of many superstar artists from the 1950s, 60s and 70s right up to the present as a combined means of both social control and social engineering through promoting the lifestyle mantra of "sex, drugs and rock n' roll," in the short term to neutralize the antiwar movement in Vietnam but in the long term to destroy family, nationalism and moral and spiritual values as barriers to their New World Order.[263] Operation Paperclip and establishing MK Ultra Monarch mind control through drugs, torture and child sexual abuse in order to mass produce sex slaves, assassins and spies was well underway by the 1950s (see Chapter 9). NWO opponents in JFK, RFK and MLK were all systematically eliminated[264] and the "New Age" of Aquarius promoting rampant sexual promiscuity and hedonism in youth generations was ushered in to stay over the long haul. This socially engineered culture of "anything goes" paves the way for pedophilia as sexual deviance, perversion and predation to systematically and ritualistically be practiced by today's elites as an effective means to an end in order to gain increasing acceptance, power and control over the human race. And thus far, unfortunately for children and humanity alike, it's been working like a charm for them according to sinister plan.

In the same vein as drug and mind controlled Elvis Presley, [265] across the pond likewise Cliff Richard was selected and spawned in England as a covert intel operator for both the Mossad and MI5.[266] Thus, the meteoric rise of Cliff, the Beatles, the Rolling Stones and other British Invasion groups of the sixties were all bi-products of Tavistock and British secret service. In America such artists as John Phillips of the Mamas and the Papas, Jim Morrison of the Doors (whose father was an admiral in naval intelligence) and Jimmy Hendrix were products of this same intelligence apparatchik. The late journalist and author Dave McGowan's treatise documenting the CIA's Laurel Canyon Hippie Movement incisively and graphically exposes this mass mind control phenomenon.[267]

And in the UK, it was intelligence services that co-opted the BBC and its hardcore pedophile DJs such as Alan Freeman, Jimmy Savile and Chris Dunning to name a few teamed up with pedo-notables from the music industry like producer Joe Meeks, manager Brian Epstein and impresario Jonathon King to corrupt, exploit and abuse British youth throughout the swinging 60s, spawning the age of "anything goes" into faithful practice reminiscent of Crowley's "do what thou wilt."[268] But the perversions that characterized the 1960s and 70s never faded, and if anything, have only grown both more pervasive and more perverse. As yet more confirmation of a wider pedophile network, both Savile and an unnamed "top 1960s pop group" (that some websites claim to be the Beatles[269]) have been exposed in a four page 1964 dossier discovered during Operation Yewtree as visitors to a teen brothel in Battersea, South London where runaway kids from group homes were being systemically pipelined and abused.[270]

During the 1950s and 1960s centered in the East End of London infamous gay pedophile Jewish gangster twins – Reggie and Ronnie Kray - were busy running an extensive sexual pedo-blackmail operation,[271] similar to Donald Trump's mentor, CIA sanctioned Roy Cohn masterminding the New York City to Washington pedo-network during the exact same period.[272] Just as in America, mobsters, satanic cults and intelligence agencies all covertly work hand-in-hand in the increasingly lucrative child sex trafficking trade.[273] For years the Kray brothers regularly provided the conduit linkage between boy brothels funneled from group homes to service hundreds of entertainment luminaries, prime ministers, cabinet ministers, MPs, lords and more queen knighted sirs in one big flourishing underworld pedophilia network.

It was the Kray twins who identified Sir Cliff Richard as one of Lord Robert Boothby's "bum-boys."[274] One powerful central figure partaking services from the Kray syndicate was Lord Boothby, who had an unquenchable taste for little boy flesh like Harry Webb throughout the 1950s. As a prominent Oxford educated Conservative member in Parliament, Lord Boothby was also in tight with Sir Winton Churchill, his top tier government peers as well as the royal family. Lord Boothby is said to have had a sexual relationship with Ronnie Kray.[275] As birds of the same feather, veteran intel agent Anthony T. Stokes maintains that Churchill's original MI5 Sandhurst file described him as:

An idle layabout and a confirmed sodomite who was a menace to the younger boys.[276]

Pretty amazing but not surprising for the world's pedophilia haven Britain to have as its bulldog saint Sir Winston be another pedophile. Churchill's protégé bud Bobby Boothby was also an original founding member of the Bilderberg group in 1954. Truth activist Abel Danger's Field McConnell alleges that the Krays, Boothby and the Bilderberg Steering Committee teamed up beginning in 1954 to operate pedo-entrapment rings at all the Bilderberg hosting hotels.[277] Boothby's linkage to the world's elite no doubt became one more reason why his kinky indiscretions were so often overlooked yet fiercely protected. Not only did Lord Boothby and the Kray twins share the same heinous predilection for "rent boys," and establishing VIP blackmail operations, they also assisted Cliff Richard as an initiate into their secret club's established inside connections that helped launch Cliff's musical career.[278] As a close friend of the Kray brothers, in the early days Cliff frequently performed at their nightclubs. Their relations went deep in a perverted "win-win" for all involved.

But not every kid made it out alive much less become a star. The gruesome Tattingstone suitcase murder of 17-year old Bernard Oliver was suspected to be a victim of the Kray pedophile syndicate.[279] Ten days after leaving his North London home in January 1967, Bernard's dismembered body dissected into six pieces was found in two suitcases laying in a field[280] not far from property owned by the Krays in Suffolk where they trafficked in group home rent boys to VIP sex parties. The dead boy's 15-year old brother recognized him from a gruesome newspaper photo of his brother's cut off head. Bernard's five siblings have been tormented by the grisly tragedy ever since. Two now deceased pedophile doctors wanted for subsequent sex crimes and murders of other underage boys who as fugitives fled the country are believed to be Bernard's killers. Already interviewed by police shortly after Bernard's body was discovered, record producer Joe Meek who frequented the Krays' Suffolk pedo-party scene with fellow attendees BBC DJs Savile and Al Freeman went on a paranoid drug binge and fatally shot his landlady then himself with a single gage shotgun.[281] The Kray twins are said to have sealed remaining loose ends with a couple more kills and over a half century later the murder still sadly stays unsolved.

As a testimonial to the Kray-Sir Cliff friendship, even after Reggie and Ronnie were both locked away for life in 1969, Cliff Richard maintained his close ties with his old gangster buddies, signing one of his concert programs with a special nostalgic note to Ronnie.[282] Kray biographer John Pearson furnished a jailhouse letter written by Ronnie in 1969 expressing gratitude for Cliff sending him his support when other celebrity friends were fast disappearing from the recently convicted imprisoned killers, but not loyal Cliff. In Ronnie's own original misspelled words:

> John, I had a verry nice letter from Cliff Ritchards. I thought it was marvoulas of him to write to me at a time like this. He must be a wonderfull person to go to the trouble at a time like this. Their are still a lot of nice people left around.[283]

David Litvinoff (Levy) was one of the Krays' prime procurers in their Jewish mob pedophile ring. In fact, as early as 1954 Litvinoff had a reputation as the go-to guy for delivering rent boys. Apparently his friend Lucian Freud thought so. Sigmund Freud's grandson and brother of fellow pedophile-writer-former MP Sir Clement (connected to the McCann abduction)[284] literally painted Litvinoff in a 1954 portrait he originally entitled "The Procurer," selling at Christie's the year Jill Dando died in 1999 for over a million pounds.[285] Another related tidbit - to capture the gritty real life reality of the Kray mafia scene, pedophile scum Litvinoff was hired as a film advisor on the 1968 Mick Jagger gangster flick "Performance," introducing the cast and crew to London's seedy underworld. As a crime boss lieutenant, especially once the Krays went to prison, for decades David Litvinoff was known to freely circulate socially amongst top British and American celebrities as the VIP pedo-pimp managing to accumulate enough wealth to live the last three years of his pathetic life in opulent style at Davington Priory in Kent before allegedly OD'ing on sleeping pills in 1975. Of all people, the current owner of Davington Priory is none other than the unsaintly Sir Bob Geldof where silenced daughter Peaches married Cohen in the Priory estate gardens.[286]

Just like US pedo-operations in all these sordid affairs, drugs and alcohol are regularly used as standard sedating icebreakers to break children’s hymens, anuses and souls as well as their capacity for trauma memory recall.[287] Like Savile, all the mayhem and suffering the Kray brothers, Litvinoff and Boothby and their ilk perpetrated against children were/are forgiven by the ruling elite, fully protected by the deep bonding glue of their systemic blackmail cesspool.

Boothby was a frequent aficionado at the Kray brother orgies and sex parties. The sex maniac even recklessly carried on a longstanding affair with the wife of the UK Prime Minister Harold MacMillan (their youngest daughter reportedly is his biologically).[288] Promiscuous Boothby even carried on a homosexual tryst with gangster Ronnie Kray[289] amidst lots of masochistic sex with scores of underage boys like Harry Webb.[290] Kray biographer John Pearson accessed intimate accounts of some of Lord Boothby’s favorite forms of kink, such as ordering rent boys to shit on a glass table while the aroused pervert below peered upwards all boggled-eyed, lustily mouthwatering his chops.[291] Mind you these are the sick sort of perversions that the rulers of our planet customarily engage for leisure in when not participating in formal occult ritual torture and murderous sacrifice.

In 1964 the Sunday Mirror exposed the Boothby-Kray homosexual pedophilia operation.[292] But Labor Party’s Harold Wilson sent in his legal fixer to do crisis damage control, and just like that, the paper had to eat their words on top of paying a £40,000 libel settlement for actually printing the truth, in effect scaring off the media from exposing any future scandals (not unlike today’s Sir Cliff lawsuit). And despite opposing political parties (since pedos infiltrate all major political parties), Harold Wilson by exercising restraint in saving Boothby’s ass was rewarded as the next elected prime minister. This little known scandal provides graphic illustration of how the worst sins of the ruling class have always remained above the law. As untouchables, VIPs and gangsters alike can continue raping kids without the inconvenient truth getting in their way.

With such high stakes of perverse power and protection granted the Kray mafia by the decadent British establishment, young group home lads never stand a chance. Ronnie Kray once threatened a boy:

You will go home with Lord Boothby. You will do exactly what Lord Boothby wants. Or I will hurt you.[293]

Ronnie boy also bought more protection for his "Firm" with a sexual dalliance with yet another prominent homosexual pedophile politician from the Krays' own district - Labor Party chairman and 30-year MP Tom Driberg. The KGB cashed in on Driberg's multiple affairs, blackmailing and enlisting him as a Soviet spy codenamed Lepage[294] while already a confirmed MI5 informer. At one point Driberg was even cast out of the Communist party but remained a devout OTO "do what thou wilt" disciple. In his biography the question is raised:

Can the man who in the 1920s was anointed by Aleister Crowley to succeed him as the Great Beast be the man who in the 1960s tried to persuade Mick Jagger to become a Labour MP?[295]

It has recently come to light that the then British Director of Public Prosecutions Sir Norman Skelhorn blocked Driberg's pedo-espionage case from exposure and ever moving forward legally.[296] Again, another pedo-enabling "fox" knighted by the queen protecting VIPs inside their child raping network.

With such high-end protection, the Krays possessed sufficient muscle to pressure Metropolitan Police Commissioner Sir Joseph Simpson (yep, another knighted fox standing guard at the cabal's henhouse) to look the other way from 1958 to 1968.[297] An S&M dominatrix who ran with the Kray mob assured Ronnie she could handle Simpson because as one of her clients, he was her masochist whipping boy.[298]

The Krays underworld activities may have started out in the usual mafia domain - armed robbery, arson, protection racket extortion, gambling, drugs and prostitution, but in the pedo-epicenter of the world it quickly expanded into sexual blackmail pimping children, especially the preferred Englishman's preference - 10-12 year old blue-eyed blue-blooded white boys. With Metro head Sir Simpson dying in 1968, the Krays' luck finally ran out as in 1969 they were tried, convicted and each issued a lifetime sentence for their gangland murders, one victim shot in a pub for calling Ronnie "a fat poof" and Reggie fatally stabbing another in his flat.[299]

But even from their prison cells, the powerful Kray brothers maintaining close ties with the American mob were still in business providing security protection to VIP entertainers including Frank Sinatra, George Raft, Judy Garland (a child rape and mind control victim herself[300]) as well as Saudi princes.[301] With the media's longtime fascination romanticizing organized crime in both America and the UK, the press fielded stories of a 12-year old fatherless boy named Brad Lane becoming a mini-celebrity idolizing Reggie as his "adopted father" and his #1 faithful prison visitor. Unfortunately Brad died young so in 2009 his mother had her son's collected memorabilia from the gangster twins auctioned off for a hefty £50,000.[302]

Once sent to prison, Ronnie went increasingly psychotic and ended up at his old friend Jimmy Savile's Broadmoor, UK's maximum security prison asylum till his death at 61, while a half decade later brother Reggie stricken with cancer was released a month before his death in 2000 at age 66. By the time Ronnie was shipped off to Savile's roost at Broadmoor, Sir Jimmy was already replacing the twins as UK's pimping kingpin running the always profitable child procurement racket through his expanding MI5-BBC-group home pipeline supplying the nonstop demand of kiddie fodder devoured by those same voracious VIP pigs-in-power during the latter decades of the twentieth century.

As SOP spy world folklore, foreign espionage has long involved laying honey traps to gain control targeting unsuspecting politicians and entertainers through sexual blackmail operations. Infiltrating CIA, Mossad, KGB and MI5/6 operatives have been deploying not just female seductresses to lure prominent husbands into adulterous affairs, but increasingly young men and children are regularly offered through Cohn-Kray-Savile-Epstein-spy service sex ring pipelines to own homosexual and pedo-leaning puppets in both high government and show biz.[303]

In 1959 Cliff Richard signed a recording contract with EMI, the Tavistock mind control linked "Electronic Military Intelligence" corporation where his father began working a decade earlier. Ever since signing that 1959 contract on the dotted line and uniquely churning out hits in every decade since, for over sixty years as the pop sensation's handlers - the Mossad and MI5, have been taking full advantage of Sir Cliff's "goodwill" ambassadorship services for the Greater Israel Project[304] no doubt in exchange for security protection against a long stint in prison for his alleged deviant pastime pleasures.

As an anecdotal inference of Cliff's mind control alters, from his own autobiographical account comes:

It was as if I was becoming a different character - almost like the mild mannered Clark Kent... The moment I put on the > pink jacket... I was Cliff ... and when I came off the stage I went back to being a shy little boy...[305]

Of course intelligence agencies have been pervasively deploying Monarch mind controlled superstars to the extent that it's become cliché today. From Beyoncé, Rihanna, Nicki Minaj, Madonna, Lady Gaga, Katy Perry, Britney Spears to Eminem and Lil Wayne, on and on New Babylon ad infinitum go the fashionably sheik, controlled pied piping sex slaves, mesmerizing and enslaving adoring global masses into unholy oblivion as the Luciferian elite's grand planned Trojan horse.[306] Sir Cliff's simply a mind controlled prop hypnotizing the more conservative, Holy Roller geriatric crowd, still captivated by the borderline octogenarian's ass wiggling stage moves so that no one gets left out of this Illuminati cabal's mass mind control operation.

No matter his surface appearance and perennial "choir boy" banality, historic sordid truth just seems to keep haunting Sir Cliff. According to longtime British intelligence operative Anthony T. Stokes, an incident in the spring of 1970 implicated Cliff Richard, then still in his late 20s, as a reported pedophile. An unattended plastic carrier bag was discovered in a large London railway station. Inside the travel bag was a collection of letters and photographs apparently taken at pedophile parties with well-known entertainers and children present.[307] Though Cliff Richard's name was not mentioned, enough is disclosed to leave no doubt as to whose identity was exposed:

> One [photo] in particular showed a pop singer who masquerades under a Christian persona; dressed in women's underwear he was pictured with young boys.[308]

No sooner was the travel bag picked up, while the railway worker was still filling out the lost and found form, two MI5 agents and a special branch officer suddenly barged in demanding the bag and all its contents.[309] What does this tell us? It indicates that even back in 1970 [and earlier], British and foreign intelligence services were facilitating sexual blackmail schemes utilizing underage children as honey trap bait to target, compromise and control public figures in both entertainment as well as government.

Time for another blast-from-the past shining light on the shadowy, untouchable public figures like Savile and Cliff Richard. Back in the early 1970s, both Cliff and Jimmy were recruited and invited to join Lord Frank Longford's infamous fact-finding mission. With the former two-time cabinet minister in the Harold Wilson Labor government, Lord Longford's crew set out to learn all about pornography (like they didn't already know firsthand) touring the UK to research the sleazy sex industry that included a brief stopover in Denmark to observe the seedy side of Copenhagen strip clubs.[310] Now why would Longford choose a pop singer who claimed to be a devout Christian celibate and a single, never been married radio DJ living at home with his mother unless he knew there was more to their seemingly uninitiated, "sheltered" lives than meets the eye. In any event, the factfinders came up with a best seller that flew off the shelves back in 1972 with the keyword "pornography" strategically emboldened on its front cover. Hungry, sex-starved, sex-craving British citizens wanted to know what all the fuss was about with one in five male Brits at that time admitting to regularly buying (and jerking off to) porno rags[311] flying off adult bookstore shelves also proliferating throughout the Isles in the early 70s.

The "porn trio experts" delivered some juicy, salacious tidbits of prep schoolboy spankings and a Danish transvestite's comical come-on to his Lordship, but otherwise never quite measured up to all the hype.[312] Imagine if their perversions were actually unveiled, revealing their booming underground pedophile ring that would've blown the lid off the entire child raping cabal way back when. Instead of just the Kray brothers being stuck in prison in 1972, half the Parliamentary Houses would in common be joining them behind bars where demented child abusers belong.

In reality both Sir Jimmy and Sir Cliff were MI5/6 and Mossad tools used for many decades as undercover assets regularly paying homage to the Jewish State, making frequent trips in support of the Zionist government. In 2013 the pop legend was ready to dedicate his hit song "Living Doll" to Sara Netanyahu sitting in the audience at his Tel Aviv concert till secret service nixed the plan not wanting the public to know the power couple was in attendance. Though Sir Cliff spent quality time schmoozing with the Netanyahus at their plush stately residence several days earlier,[313] the Christian knight in Zionist armor also found time to visit the holy city of Nazareth a month earlier to attend a charity tennis fundraiser.[314]

Richard was back again in 2017 for another concert performance and again having time to host another kumbaya PR tennis photo-op, this time bringing Jewish and Arab kids together[315] while on the West Bank more Palestinian homes were being bulldozed.[316] Like his friend Sir Jimmy, Cliff Richard devotes much time and energy to charitable causes, which of course is a good thing. But it's always used as leverage, along with his projected squeaky clean image as a "martyred victim," to counter the disturbing claims and negative publicity that have lingered throughout his seven decade long career.

Meanwhile, his cohort Sir Savile masquerading as a "saintly" Catholic pretender, the closeted Satanist-necrophiliac-child rapist-closeted serial killer also made certain to pay homage to Zionism, logging in a number of trips to the Jewish State.

Referring to himself as “the most Jewish Catholic you will ever meet,”[317] while knighted in 1990 by the queen[318] and pope alike,[319] in 1979 Sir Jimmy was also awarded a medal by Israel.[320] The likes of Sir Jimmy and Sir Cliff are embraced and lauded as useful stooges by all three cabal powerhouse centers - the City of London, Rome and Israel.

According to Manchester businessman Benny Sandberg, because Savile was in tight with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat’s wife Jehan and her family, Savile was approached by the Friends of Israel Trust to help forge a dialogue between Prime Minister Menachem Began and Sadat.[321] Thus enlisted as an informal Israeli security advisor, in 1975 Savile accompanied his dispatched Jim’ll Fix It crew to Israel on a 10 day visit to meet with the Jerusalem mayor as well as Israel President Ephraim Katzir. Fondly recalling his visit, Savile seized yet another boastful opportunity to plug his grandiose self-importance:

I arrived at this reception. The president came to me and asked how I was enjoying my visit. I said I was very disappointed: the Israelis had won the Six Day War but they had given back all the land, including the only oil well in the region, and were now paying the Egyptians more for oil than if they had bought it from Saudi Arabia. I said: ‘You have forgotten to be Jewish.’ He said: ‘Would you like to tell my cabinet that?' Next morning, I went to the Knesset; they interrupted a cabinet meeting and I told them the same as I had told him.[322]

Just another indicator that both pedophile Sir Jimmy and “alleged” pedophile Sir Cliff are Zionist pawns working on behalf of the Greater Israel Project is their mutual friendship with confirmed Mossad-CIA agent Uri Geller, the spoon bending phenom from the 1970s endowed with supposed supernatural New Age psychic powers.[323] He was a natural to be recruited and deployed as an undercover intelligence operative for both Mossad and the CIA on overseas missions over a span of the next several decades. And of course with both Geller and Richard steeped in mind control, as the Israeli-British go-between, Mossad handler Uri worked closely with both Lord Longford's "porno experts" Savile and Richard in support of their Greater Zionist causes, which by the way include the global pedophilia blackmail network[324]

Tired of the constant tabloid rumors about his unorthodox personal lifestyle living with a parade of men under the pretense of plutonic relationships, 15 years after the queen knighted him, in 2010 Sir Cliff Richard renounced his British citizenship to become a permanent Barbados citizen where privacy allows him to indulge his prurient interests without nearly the interference and unwanted attention.[325] No doubt he had to pull a few of his many political strings to pull that maneuver off as Barbados doesn't often grant outsiders citizenship. But then when Mossad both owns and owes you favors, and you're in tight with compromised British war criminal and Mossad operative Tony Blair, suddenly doors open while super court injunctions busily close the doors on inconvenient truths. With Tony Blair's alleged gay "cottaging" past,[326] and Sir Cliff's likeminded proclivities, rumors of the unpopular Mr. former prime minister and the pop legend abound, stoked by the frequent visits Tony keeps making to Cliff's humble abodes in Portugal and Barbados as shelter from the storm.[327]

After a couple conscripted "PR girlfriends" briefly put on display a lifetime ago,[328] since 1965 Cliff has steadfastly maintained that he found God, especially after hooking up with MK Ultra operative, 33 degree Freemason and fellow pedo-club kingpin Sir Billy Graham,[329] fervently claiming Christ and celibacy despite that pesky accusation that wouldn't go away stemming from a 1985 incident at the Billy Graham crusade in Sheffield.[330]

Speaking of which, in August 2014 Sir Richard’s world crumbled in horrified shock. From his Portugal mansion, a stone’s throw from pedophile neighbor Clement Freud’s house and the McCann girl disappearance, a weeping Sir Richard watched on live television the BBC cameras rolling as South Yorkshire police invaded his Berkshire estate searching for pedophilia evidence in response to allegations of child sexual abuse.[331] An alleged victim while under the age of 16 at the time was accusing the singer of molesting him at Rev. Billy Graham’s 1985 evangelist rally, and in the aftermath of the Jimmy Savile-Operation Yewtree, police and BBC were zeroing in on the girl’s underwearing Kitty.[332] Then six months later due to yet more claims of prior Cliff Richard sex assaults at Elm Guest House, the investigation widened as South Yorkshire Police Chief Constable David Crompton wrote in a February 10, 2015 letter to then chairman of the Commons Home Affairs Select Committee Keith Vaz:

This investigation has increased significantly in size since its inception.[333]

As noted earlier, MP Vaz reining over the powerful parliamentary watchdog committee as another pedo-system “fox,” ended up in September 2016 forcibly retiring in disgrace after he was exposed as a pedophile and staunch pedo-protector of his mentor serial pedophile Lord Greville Janner, each respectively high-up in the UK Muslim-Jewish VIP pedo-predator food chain.[334] Back in 1991 when Janner was accused of chronically abusing two victims (that the presiding judge ruled out incriminating testimony), it was his groomed young Indian protégé pedophile MP Keith Vaz on the House of Commons floor vehemently defending his closest political ally, claiming Janner was “the victim of a cowardly and wicked attack.”[335] In that same deceitful speech, Vaz also made a case for changing the existing law to prohibit prominent figures to be accused in open court (emphasis added due to the aforementioned directly related probable future “Cliff’s law” resultant of the July 2018 court decision).

Despite voices of victims finally being heard (but mostly lip service heard) in the post-Savile aftermath, some of the ugly truth came out in the filthy wash when in 2014 dozens of Greville Janner victims came forth to report four decades of his reprehensible crime history violating young boys.[336] But soon enough at the ripe old age of 87 in December 2015, similar to accused yet uncharged Lord Brittan’s last remaining months alive, Janner died prior to facing formal indictment or even police inquiry. But in defense of their pedo-dad, his Jewish family in the coziest of relationships with British press circled wagons using the anti-Semitic card to successfully repress the overwhelming evidence that their patriarch was yet another longtime flaming VIP predator not unlike Jimmy Savile.[337] More on the Lord Janner scandal in Chapter 25.

Is it any wonder that Cliff Richard’s reversal of misfortune suddenly turned the tides in his favor? Though in 2015 it looked pretty bleak for Sir Cliff when growing evidence of his alleged past pedophilia crimes appeared to finally be catching up to him. But what a difference a year makes. In July 2016 Cliff Richard went on the offensive suing both the South Yorkshire Police and the BBC for their collusion in the highly publicized police raid on his Berkshire home in 2014 after the Crown Prosecution Service the month prior somehow deemed not enough evidence to charge (which smacks of cover-up in and of itself).[338] Then in May 2017 the police agreed to pay the singer a whopping sum of £400,000[339] and another £300,000 for Sir Cliff’s legal costs.[340] Interesting that in June 2016 while Vaz still chaired the committee in charge of all pending UK legal cases, CPS chose not to formally charge Sir Cliff and then a mere month and a half later, news of Vaz's criminal child abuse history surfaced forcing his resignation from his prominent political henhouse perch. See how the inner club constantly looks out for each other?

The question that begs to be answered is why can't the British "justice" system ever collect enough evidence to successfully get a VIP suspect charged, tried and convicted? Why are no child raping MPs or lords ever sent to prison for their crimes? In short, the system is corrosively and irreparably rigged and needs a complete overhaul of personnel if not more. Another big reason is, as of the 1964 Police Act, all of the UK's chief constables heading the nation's city police forces have to answer to one centralized national source - the Home Secretary.[341] And as long as the Home Secretary "fox" guarding the child henhouse is a pedophile or pedophile enabler in what's become a job prerequisite, no powerful pedophile in the UK will ever be convicted and brought to justice. It has yet to happen.

As of that 1964 structural policing change in Britain, no longer are independent law enforcement investigations permitted and thus a national policy of centralized control and cover-up has become the standard operating norm to suppress all police probes into British establishment pedophile rings. This explains why top end politicians and entertainers who systematically rape children always - bar none - get away with it. The British legal system (and for that matter the US and virtually the entire world) is rigged to protect accused child rapists when members of the elite. This worldwide must change! Bring on the Truth and Reconciliation Commissions.

Sir Cliff and Queen Elizabeth's mutual admiration[342] had her knighting him in 1995 while he was her only selected performer requested to sing at her 2012 Jubilee Celebration marking her 60 year reign.[343] Upon learning from the Crown Prosecution Service that the police had dropped its pedophilia investigation against him in 2016, immediately after wiping his tears of joy and relief, he then went to sing “God Save the Queen” for her birthday celebration at the Lisbon British Embassy.[344] Fitting since she probably did save his ass. Of course it can’t hurt to maintain super close ties with his global pedophilia handlers MI5, MI6 and Mossad,[345] or war criminals Tony Blair and Benjamin Netanyahu, and all rest of the top tier perps in the globalized pedo-network that made certain Sir Cliff remains immune from all consequence since his lawsuit represents their self-interest too.

In July 2018 it was BBC’s turn to lose in court. Ostensibly violating Sir Richard’s right to privacy broadcasting the August 2014 police fiasco on national live television, the multibillionaire was awarded another £210,000.[346] £20,000 more was thrown into the plaintiff’s lap as aggravated damages over the BBC arrogantly nominating itself for its coverage of the raid for the Royal Television Society’s scoop of the year award. Still yet to be assessed are damages for Cliff’s lost book deals and public appearances which will no doubt also be substantial.

The overkill of a BBC reporter staked out overnight waiting for the police to arrive and the BBC helicopter flying overhead was over-the-top sensationalism, raising the ante in full tilt damages. BBC journalist Dan Johnson had allegedly learned that South Yorkshire Police were investigating Cliff Richard’s alleged pedophilic past and threatened to expose the investigation unless granted a front row seat tipoff so BBC cameras and helicopter could exclusively lie in wait for the massively staged morning police raid.[347] Big media meets big law enforcement in the show of morning shows. And so far the tally has cost BBC alone £1, 060,000 in compensation to “victim” Cliff,[348] overcome with emotion in tearful relief for all the pain and anguish this poor little rich boy’s been so grievously forced to endure.

The Sun editor Tony Gallagher’s response to the High Court decision:

> Arrests will go unpublicized. Suspects will assert privacy rights. Police probes impeded. Victory for (alleged) criminals and money-grabbing lawyers. Terrible for media.[349]

BBC news director Fran Unsworth said even if the BBC low-keyed its coverage:

> … The judge would still have found that the story was unlawful, despite ruling that what we broadcast about the search was accurate.[350]

Had Cliff Richard been charged and convicted, obviously his counter-lawsuit would never have been possible. But because the judicial process is so corrupted and rigged in the UK, with this latest court decision, the already rigged system just became even more stacked against truth and justice for the common people. This lawsuit and legal judgment are to ensure that the big wig pedophiles at the top of the power pyramid never get identified or arrested, much less ever brought to justice and serve prison time. This court ruling seals the deal for the most powerful on earth to continue living above the law. Rich and famous pedophiles are celebrating in their mansions over this one.

On the one hand, the pedophilia-saturated BBC that allowed its internal pedophile ring to flourish for numerous decades under Sir Jimmy and his gang running amok, along with the BBC’s continual criminal cover-up and nonstop denial of any wrongdoing, co-opted by a corrupted whitewashed investigation by its own appointed former judge as well as Operation Yewtree's police probe debacle, the BBC deserves to lose a whole lot more than just what amounts to chump change for the world's largest media organization[351] with an annual income exceeding £5 billion.[352] Its choice to deceitfully continue denying pedophilia within its own ranks for so many decades while, in the post-Savile witch hunt, relished in its co-opted police spectacle scoop, pouncing on and exploiting Cliff Richard (innocent or guilty) for cheap thrill ratings and accolades also serve this hypocritical, reprehensible, downright evil media giant right.

But on the other hand, this legal decision sets a dark, foreboding and dangerous precedent that muzzles if not kills what little freedom of speech and the press is still left. After initially maintaining the BBC would appeal the decision on "fundamental principle," a month later the government media giant changed its mind, not wanting to "prolong Sir Cliff's distress."[353] More bullshit. This case is a huge setback for the people and children of the United Kingdom. From here on out this Cliff Richard judgment will cause news outlets to not dare pursue controversial stories for fear of incurring major damages for violating suspected public figures' right to privacy.

This 2018 case is not unlike the heavily retracted 1964 Sunday Mirror article mentioned earlier that accurately outed pedophiles Lord Boothby and gangster Ronnie Kray's joint government-organized crime operated child sex ring. And it was no accident that UK's 1964 Police Act centralizing all British law enforcement agencies under the pedo-friendly Home Secretary's control and the Sunday Mirror article being checkmated in court by a costly libel suit all went down at the exact same time. 1964 was a year the pedo-elite defeated truth and justice and now 2018 is another year that VIP pedophiles are happy. This Cliff Richard court decision is simply more of the same, the pedo-elite successfully pushing back after near exposure of its Achilles pedo-heel in recent years after the Savile scandal broke. The predatory elite’s simply engaged now in successful damage control.

Super rich Sir Cliff Richard claims he spent £4 million defending his reputation to legally go after the BBC and police.[354] With police already delivering its public apology and near a million pounds to the queen’s singing knight and the BBC paying over a million so far, at the end of the day, they’re expected to run up a tab of £5 million in damages to victim Cliff. As a result, this court decision now poses such enormous liability risk to every news corporation in the world, regardless of size, that extreme caution will be exercised before daring to expose the next super wealthy public figure turned pedophile or murder suspect caught in the act. In effect, this case silences the free press in the United Kingdom for good. Welcome to the totalitarian dystopian nightmare come true where evil planetary controllers get to live like gods above every manmade law while the rest of us condemned and shackled slaves wretch in their purgatory made hell on earth, if not already genocided yet as part of their Agenda 21 eugenics depopulation plan.[355]

The illusion of a free press that in reality no longer exists in the so called “free world” is today’s manifestation of ruling psychopaths secretly bent on holding absolute power by any means necessary, deploying a number of deceitfully draconian methods to their end, one of which is concealing the truth from the public. It invariably occurs in every totalitarian regime-in-the-making,[356] and when that regime is the current globalist precursor now underway promoting West versus East conflict and confrontation as a pathway to world war and one world government tyranny,[357] writing-on-the-wall signs are everywhere.

Increasing censorship in the digital age, all in the name of “national security,” combatting “extremism,” legalized “rights” of the politically correct, and illegalized “fake news” decided by tech giant gatekeepers propagating official state-MSM lies are fueling battlefronts attacking freedom of press and freedom of speech.[358] Consolidating globalized power and control over news outlets, outflow information and truth even on the internet are being centralized into fewer hands.[359] And the censorship makers in China are working with Google Gestapo et al to make it worldwide.[360] Add to this alarming backdrop of oppressive trends and developments the Cliff Richard case and its disturbing implications for exposing future pedophilia crimes - even when accurately reporting the truth, clearly the privileged pedophiles are increasingly armed with protection at the expense of their powerless victims and the public at large.

Additionally, not revealing the identity of an arrested suspect will foreclose any opportunity for other victims to feel empowered enough to brave the stress, liability and re-trauma of coming forth to report crimes against their powerful perps. Its effects are both sobering and grave, placing an enormous barrier now to exposing the crime cabal’s ugliest sins and clearly is a landmark victory for the planet’s most elitist criminals at the top of the predator food chain. Another consequence in-the-making is what’s being referred to as “Cliff’s law,” where the mere reporting of arrested suspects in and of itself constitutes a criminal violation of their privacy rights.[361] The Orwellian prediction that during a time of universal deceit, not only does telling the truth become a revolutionary act, it also becomes a crime.[362]

So the rights of rich and famous criminals able to spend big bucks going after the media - however guilty of egregious crimes - are also able to trample over the public’s right to know the truth and the rights of all victims seeking any semblance of justice. In the highly rigged economic legal system, the rich and powerful continue getting richer and more powerful at an unprecedented rate,[363] reaping more control to rape and pillage our planet at an exponential, dishearteningly feverish pace. Humanity is in rapid descent, regressed into forcibly living in a current neo-feudal slave system compounded by nightmarish Artificial Intelligence-electronic techno control, surveilling every slave's move and thought, making Orwell's 1984 nostalgically appear a walk in the park.[364] That's why sooner than later citizens of the world must unite in solidarity against the miniscule minority behind the global pedo-empire curtain.

Sir Cliff's landmark case is the beta test for the elite to finagle utilizing their so called privacy rights excuse in order to secure their privileged lives forever to remain above the law. As common everyday citizens, where are our lost privacy rights?[365] While we're living in history's most watched and controlled society ever on earth, the ruling elite's privacy rights are the only ones that apparently matter now. Sir Cliff utilized his legal clout after years of built up capital earned from all those trips to Israel as a lifetime Mossad pawn to first make libelous any reporting of "Kitty's" presence at the Elm Guest pedo-party lodge and now across-the-boards suppression of any of his alleged past criminal activity making him unreachable like all his fellow pedo-sirs and pedo-lords within an elitist aristocracy class guaranteed to continue living like gods above the law with complete impunity answering to no one... except God.

The ruling elite set up the BBC to take the fall for having gotten caught with its pants down vis-a-vis the Savile disgrace. So this monumental landmark decision was strategically orchestrated to add yet one more insurmountable buffered layer to seal off protection for the earth's top level pedophiles from all further accountability. With this legal triumph, "invincible" planetary controllers may be deluding themselves into actually believing their Achilles pedo-heel is now impenetrable. Lest they be reminded their war on truth is never over nor their defiance of karmic laws. In the end, only truth and justice prevail - not them.

By design Operations Yewtree, Midlands, Fairbridge and a host of other police probes into alleged government pedophiles have all failed miserably to arrest the VIP pedo-establishment.[366] While Sir Cliff celebrated his court victory, the alleged victim named "Nick" was hauled off to jail. Nick had claimed MPs and cabinet ministers tortured and sexually abused him for a decade in the 80s while allegedly witnessing the murder of three underage boys. But this year he was conveniently declared a public liar and slapped with charges of perverting course of justice with his so called false statements.[367] The tide has once again turned against victims in the UK as their "unsubstantiated claims" have been blamed for lack of police operations' arrests resulting from all those post-Savile investigations. Thus, no members of the VIP establishment that we absolutely know have been raping children in droves have been arrested. The earth's pedo-epicenter is showing its true colors and true reason for its label in the latest round of intended death blows to truth and justice. Continuing unabated, the pedophilia cover-up in the United Kingdom reigns supreme.

In the summer of 2018, the UK elite has fought back, discrediting and silencing victims once again in order to retain impunity from any and all punishment. In a legal cesspool system the power to declare victims liars not only lets the perps off the hook, it plants the seed of doubt in every abuse victim brave enough to come forth to file a complaint and endure the horrendous ordeal of re-traumatized hardship seeking systemically denied justice. These offensive, over-the-top moves by the establishment are designed to thoroughly discourage future abuse victims from ever filing formal complaints, realizing their voices will never be heard in a morally depraved, fully bankrupted feudal system beyond repair.

In recent years the pedophilia elite have realized that a growing awareness of Pedogate scandals have been gaining momentum worldwide, influencing perceptions of an increasing number of people to accurately view the VIP establishment as a criminal sicko-infested cabal. This expanding base of informed citizens has made them increasingly nervous and vulnerable to finally being made accountable.[368] So they pushed back with a conjured up high profile pivotal court case under the guise of protecting privacy rights of the rich and powerful, killing a diminishing free press while rendering yet more VIP abuse victims unreliable false claimants. Meanwhile, the mired, “unfit for purpose” government-sanctioned child abuse inquiry dragging on impotently for years gets fined £200,000 in July 2018,[369] the same month alleged VIP abuse victim Nick gets jailed and Sir Cliff wins in court. The inquiry is alleged to have inadvertently emailed out full names of child abuse victims, thus violating their privacy rights in the latest self-injuring blunder seemingly intended to render the floundering charade completely impotent and ineffective at getting to the bottom of the British child raping epidemic. Of course that too is the whole point by design as well.

All those repeatedly lost government pedo-dossiers,[370] [371] systemic failure by police to historically follow up hundreds of thousands of real abuse cases[372] and systemic historical failure by CPS to charge real criminals[373] or lose crucial evidence,[374] and the multitudes of victims who’ve filed accusations in the post-Savile years,[375] against both VIP perpetrators as well as the so called Muslim Asian community gangs unimpededly abusing thousands more underage girls in recent decades, all of these massive systemic failures have created an endemic national crisis[376] in the United Kingdom like never before.[377] Upward estimates nearing a half million UK abuse cases mounted up in a 2-year period between April 2012 and March 2014 alone.

By diabolical intentions, the world's worst pedophilia haven systemically protects powerful child rapists and killers while systematically silencing child victims, regardless of which brand of abuse - the VIP 10 Downing Street-Westminster type or the unchecked, out of control Telford, Rochdale and Rotherham debacle.[378] Compounded by the globalist manufactured divide and conquer mass refugee crisis destroying Europe, the deteriorating conditions in the UK have been spreading virtually throughout the entire Western world with a ripple effect in Eastern nations as both a pedo-tourism magnet[379] and ripe source for unbridled child abduction-sex trafficking.[380] Until the citizens of the world come together in unified solidarity to fight this blight on humanity, the dire conditions for children worldwide are only crumbling from bleakly bad to bleaker worse.

History just keeps repeating itself in an endless recycle, ever-raising the ante with the world's puppet masters deploying their Mockingbird press propaganda to manipulate, shape, dumb down and blind public opinion,[381] along with nonstop application of both their divide and conquer formula[382] and the Hegelian dialectic (problem, reaction, solution) as their foolproof methods to increase authoritarian control over the masses while in one fell swoop snuff out dissent, truth and justice.[383] The current stakes are at an all-time high in recorded history as humanity is under an unprecedented, relentless homicidal assault. With the latest setbacks, exposing the unimpugnable, child raping monsters poses even more a formidable challenge. But living by the cherished tenet that the truth shall set us all free, armed with knowledge of the truth and vastly overwhelming numbers on our side, as sovereign members of the human race we possess the power to hold the subhuman handful of life destroyers fully accountable for all their crimes against our innocents and humanity.

So coming full circle with a summary, a year and a half prior to Jill Dando's murder, it appears intelligence agencies sent Dr. Alan Farthing to become her intimate fiancé and assigned asset Sir Cliff Richard as her intimate confidante. No doubt between them they were able to glean everything she learned about the Savile-BBC-British establishment pedophilia network for MI5 and Mossad to know and conclude that she simply posed too much risk to the crime cabal. And very likely she had to be eliminated because she learned of Sir Cliff and/or the doctor's direct involvement in the pedo-crime network. On the fly, the Mossad compromised prime minister placed the hastily constructed hit prior to her dropping the bombshell of all bombshells to the world via live national television.

Clearly the Jill Dando murder was a conjoint Mossad-MI5-mob hit ordered by the highest ranking British elite as a warning to any other journalist or whistleblower who may also be entertaining ideas to expose the filthy truth. The shooting was one more tragic end in a seemingly never-ending series of strange and sudden deaths connected to so many BBC employees that were likely privy to the network's pedophilia ring. All the earlier theoretical conjecture explaining her untimely tragic death was simply planting decoyed rabbit holes to muddle and obscure the truth and thereby protect the British pedophilia establishment that is the ungodly trinity of the BBC, the UK government and the royal family.

And the British elite's "go-to" guy for propagating all these official false narratives on virtually every controversial death in the United Kingdom is the aforementioned West London Westminster coroner Dr. Paul Knapman. For over 30 years from 1980 to 2011 Dr. Knapman ruled on over 85,000 deaths, 12,500 inquests and over 500 murders[384] explaining fake causes on a myriad of strange, unnatural deaths and assorted, undeclared murders of not only an inordinate number of BBC employees but others who also either knew too much or were sacrificed for propaganda purposes in false flag operations promoting the West's warmongering agenda spearheaded by the CIA and friends. Knapman''s "work" was already cited in the suspicious deaths of Peaches Geldof's mother Paula Yates in 2000, the highly probable murders of Natasha Collins and Mark Speight in 2008 as well as BBC DJ Kevin Greening's gay bondage death just 5 days ahead of Natasha's.

Dr. Knapman has also repeatedly come under fire for his gross mishandling of a number of inquests involving casualties from major boating and railway accidents. His most grotesque publicized blunder was the Thames riverboat Marchioness collision with a dredger resulting in the deaths of 51 people in 1989. As an alleged convenient means of identifying victims, he simply cut off half the deceased's hands for easier fingerprint access, atrociously insensitive and arrogantly oblivious to the grieving needs of family members.[385] Without even the families' consent, the creepy megalomaniac doctor removed body parts and tissues, not unlike Jill Dando's fiancé Dr. Alan Farthing's routine medical practice. The hands of one young woman were literally lost, misplaced and ultimately destroyed at the bottom of Knapman's morgue refrigerator for four long years prior to its rediscovery, prompting a victim’s mother to respond:

Your mortuary is so dirty that it took four years to find a child's hands. You are a butcher.[386]

Yet this “butcher” is the kind of unscrupulous, uncaring oaf the cabal system knows will carry out its orders with blind tunnel vision obedience.

As an example of how the global crime cabal system works to use Dr. Knapman’s final “expert” word to further its destabilizing agenda for war and terrorism across the planet comes the coldblooded murder of police constable Yvonne Fletcher in the so called Libyan Embassy siege in April 1984 London.[387] With a handful of Libyans protesting in front of the Libyan People’s Bureau at St. James Square that day, shots rang out killing Yvonne instantly. Official conclusion purported by Knapman at the inquest pointed the finger at a Libyan gunman firing 9mm bullets from the embassy.

Yet the most respected senior ballistics expert in the British Army, a former Belfast hospital surgeon and a longtime Home Office pathologist - all three of the nation’s foremost authorities on forensic firearm ballistics specified that the bullet that assassinated Yvonne Fletcher had to have come from the Enserch House, a building with known links to the CIA.[388] Essentially the constable was most likely gunned down mercilessly as a sacrificial lamb, misused to incite anti-Gaddafi demonization the world over as prepping to justify the following year’s 32,000 pounds of ordnance dropped in bombs over Tripoli by US warplanes based in the UK (i.e., all part of a prearranged election year Reagan-Thatcher deal).[389] The cabal could always count on stooges like Knapman for his rubberstamp approval when needed.

Of course leave it to Hillary and company to finish the job offing Gaddafi in 2011 because he was busily uniting Africa behind his own gold-backed currency rather than continue paying subservient homage to the Empire’s exploitive USD.[390] Historically, the Zionist-Anglo-American Empire systematically demonizes and assassinates any and all national leaders around the world daring to operate independent of Rothschild imperialistic central bank control.[391] That’s why out of near 200 countries on earth, only the “pariah” nation North Korea doesn’t have a central bank.[392]

Little more than a half year before Princess Diana’s life abruptly ended, another suspicious yet inconspicuous death occurred in the famous and mysterious Dolphin Square, the vast block of Pimlico flats in central London close to the House of Commons that’s been home to “the famous, the infamous and the notorious” where MPs, lords, generals and foreign and British intelligence operatives frequently reside.[393] VIP orgies at the Dolphin Square complex have always been notoriously common. An alleged eyewitness victim claimed that in the 1990s he and other children were picked up from various group homes and trafficked in by Peter Righton, the aforementioned British bigwig childcare specialist who wrote national policy on child abuse protection as former director of education at the National Institute of Social Work and consultant for the National Children’s Bureau, also happened to be a co-founder of PIE (talk about a fox guarding the henhouse).[394]

Righton was a procuring pedophile with high-end connections who not only committed horrendous sexual abuse himself but trafficked kids to suffer even a worse fate by VIPs until he was eventually convicted of child pornography in 1992 and died in 2007.[395] But over the years victims and witnesses have reported four children were allegedly murdered at sex parties held at the notorious VIP pedo-haven Dolphin Square. One survivor states that when he was 15, Righton took him to a party where once the women left, about 15 adult men began sexually assaulting and torturing the group home children, among the attendees identified were a Tory minister, several MPs and a famous comedian.[396] According to the victim, one of the trafficked children was a 15-year old girl with braces who was taken into one of the three torture chamber bedrooms and never seen again, suspected to have been murdered by a powerful Tory politician.

But in January 1997 another suspicious Dolphin Square death occurred, this time the 56-year old Conservative MP Iain Mills' body found a couple of days after dying allegedly from acute alcohol poisoning according to coroner Knapman. Friends who knew Iain and Meridian residents who were his constituents for almost two decades insist that Iain never even drank alcohol but was only known to socially drink orange juice.[397] Yet his body was surrounded by empty gin bottles. There are those who believe Iain Mills may well have learned firsthand about the widespread child abuse and alcohol-drug infested orgies going on all around him at Dolphin Square,[398] frequented by his fellow MPs and lords as well as business, legal and military VIPs, violently acting out their sexual deviant criminal pathologies on underage children in the Westminster pedo-blackmail ring operating with impunity throughout the 1970s well into the 1990s.[399] But in Iain's case both police and coroner alike appeared all too eager to brush his death aside, only fueling and reinforcing the speculation that probable foul play was involved.

Ten years later another bizarre twist in yet another Dolphin Square death misruled by Knapman, this one involving 64-year old High Court Judge Rodney McKinnon. Dr. "know-it-all" rigidly maintained that Rodney was suffering from depression due to high blood pressure medicine he'd been prescribed.[400] At the inquest Knapman asserted that the judge just couldn't cope with life anymore and chose to end it jumping off his Drake building in Dolphin Square and falling 50 feet to his intended death. With no suicide note, Rodney's brother Warwick McKinnon, who also happens to be a judge, claimed his brother made plans with his girlfriend just days prior to his untimely demise, adding:

> I don't believe it was suicide and neither does anyone in the family or any friends I have spoken to… He was a very tidy and literary man. He would have wanted to record the reason why if it was suicide… He would not have done this.[401]

Yet the Svengali of death just knew it had to be suicide obviously without sufficient cause, which in the case of a suicide verdict, by law must be "beyond all reasonable doubt." Bottom line, with the judge well aware his Dolphin Square community was historically rife with VIP pedophiles, some of whom he'd convicted in his own court, the plausibility remains strong that the pedo-crime network eliminated him for being a thorn in its side and the suicide-on-the-brain doctor once again was simply following orders.[402] The crime cabal's trail of those who get in the way in Britain is no different from the US trail traveled by the Bush[403]-Clinton crime family[404] because it's one and the same. Like everything else, it's global.

As a cabal tool, Knapman rubberstamped a number of other huge inquests like UK's own 9/11 inside job - the 2005 London 7/7 bombings[405] and the 2007 inquest of the 1997 Princess Diana-Dodi Fayed assassination.[406] Again, demonic evil knows no earthly limit. Racking up so many unbelievably preposterous and highly suspect verdicts on his death track record involving so many suspicious, high profile, abrupt life endings, Dr. Paul Knapman was coming under increasing pressure and opposition from those who saw through his shady racket. Chris Pond, a Member of Parliament from 1997 to 2005 was the most vocal Knapman critic, raising serious and urgent red flag questions about the Westminster coroner's consistent misconduct over the years on the House of Commons floor that could no longer be sloughed off as mere incompetence.[407] And during the debate wouldn't you know it, accused pedophile MP turned BBC broadcaster Michael Portillo[408] rushed to Dr. Knapman's defense.[409] For being such an obedient crime cabal errand boy for over two decades, in 2008 Queen Elizabeth rewarded Dr. Knapman with the lofty title of the Queen's Deputy-Lieutenant for Greater London.[410] As previously noted, bestowed honors from the queen are the dead giveaway revealing who the real pedo-cabal players are. The crown throws a bone to her designated puppets serving to protect her global pedophilia network after demonstrating an over and above zest for contributing to the malaise.

Britain's longtime BBC favorite Irish broadcaster - Sir Terry Wogan, less than three months prior to his January 31, 2016 passing, claimed he would "continue working another ten years" before retiring. Then suddenly the 77-year old stricken with a remarkably fast spreading cancer learned he was dying a scant three weeks ahead of his death.[411] Also just three weeks prior to Wogan's death, another longtime BBC employee, Savile colleague DJ at Radio 1 Ed "Stewpot" Stewart suddenly died shortly after suffering a stroke. The BBC deaths just keep piling up one after the other.

In 2014 Terry Wogan apologized for disrespecting David Icke for an on the air interview where he publicly ridiculed David for his unbelievable truth telling about the evildoers atop the power pyramid, coming to realize Icke was absolutely correct in so many of his earlier proclamations virtually no one took seriously,[412] like years before the former prime minister's death, Icke asserted in 1998 that Edward Heath was a child murdering pedophile.[413] Once the Savile scandal broke in October 2012, the host of the Children in Need telethon stated that he hated Jimmy Savile, blaming him for “poisoning” the BBC.[414] In Wogan’s words:

> He [Savile] always struck me as creepy. I’ve talked to people and not one of them has said: ‘I really liked him.’[415]

Years before Savile’s death, like so many others, the Jesuit educated and trained[416] Terry Wogan also knew about the BBC serial pedophile, revealing at a celebrity luncheon that after Savile went to relieve himself in the bathroom, longtime journalist Jean Rook sitting nearby turned to Terry and asked:

> When are they going to expose him?[417]

“That’s your job,” Terry replied, passing the buck waiting for an investigative journalist outside the BBC to uncover the filth. But Wogan was wrong when so many insiders within the media entertainment industry knew Savile was abusing children but not one person at the BBC was bold or brave enough to step up and say anything except, of all people, Johnny Rotten. All the beloved queen honored BBC stars like Sir Terry Wogan and Dame Esther Rantzen knew full well what was going on, that the BBC was a pedophile haven harboring not just one child rapist but many. The real reason not one BBC employee bothered making waves, other than Jill Dando and look where it got her, BBC personnel were afraid of not just losing their jobs, but their lives as well. For years they saw fellow colleagues dropping dead like flies left and right, and realized the deadly risk and consequence of standing up for what was right protecting children just wasn’t worth it to them.

If you’re still not convinced, former BBC personality Muz Murray literally feared for his life:

> Everyone’s a mason in the BBC. Masons are all over the place there. It was a frightening atmosphere and eventually I left, thinking someone was going to come after me and kill me. That’s why I went into the Himalayan mountains, and I learned all the Tibetan yoga still frightened someone was going to come after me and kill me.[418]

In addition to Jill Dando and the dozen BBC employees who met similarly bizarre, ill-fated deaths, a number of other BBC staff not mentioned in this chapter also died strange and untimely, questionable BBC deaths. They are featured in a website that links their deaths to a preponderance of Freemasons amongst senior BBC management, corroborating the firsthand observation of Muz Murray.[419] The website author encountered a young woman whose father as a Mason and BBC employee had told her decades earlier that Jimmy Savile was a pedophile who was tricking top people in the television industry into compromising situations with children. The same article goes on to quote a senior insider running the government sponsored corporation from the shadows:

We’re plotting to get Jimmy Saville to trick lots of TV stars and other high profile sorts into getting photographed with children, we’re gonna angle the shots so they look like they’re maybe fiddling around with the kids, we’ve sat down and thought of what the most unbelievable claim could conceivably be to say someone has done, we think the public would never believe we could fake child molestation, so that’s exactly what we’re doing, to cause the most total outrage and hatred of the public.[420]

This confirms that the ruling elite placed Savile in charge of a major sexual blackmail operation not unlike the Mossad blackmailer Jeffrey Epstein in the US. The biggest pedophile in British history was an MI5 operative carrying out his diabolical duty as a blackmailing pimp for English royalty, the government and the Freemasons and Luciferians at the top of the predatory food chain. That’s why he so arrogantly operated so brazenly in plain sight, knowing all the while he was fully protected and immune from all accountability.

This brings us to the final, most recent death covered in the BBC mysterious and suspicious demise file. As the second known BBC broadcaster since Jill Dando to prematurely leave this world exposing BBC's culture of pedophilia and fear, longtime BBC journalist Liz MacKean suddenly suffered a fatal stroke at the age of only 52 in August 2017.[421] After working her way up the corporate news ladder as a successful network correspondent from 1993 to 2013, her resignation arose under a flurry of conflict over a documentary she made that was actually the first to expose the Jimmy Savile crimes originally slated for broadcast just weeks after Savile's death.

BBC director James Harding described her as "remarkably tenacious and resourceful," especially commending Liz for her "insightful and hard-hitting reporting of the [Northern Ireland] conflict," adding:

> It was as an investigative reporter that she really shone, shining a light on issues from the dumping of toxic waste off the African coast to Jimmy Savile, the story for which she is probably best known.[422]

Blowing the lid off of Savile's reign of terror in a BBC Newsnight segment that never aired shortly after Savile's demise, Liz MacKean's producer was initially excited with the project scheduled to broadcast weeks after the pedophile died. But overnight succumbing to pressure from the big boys upstairs, the project was abruptly scrapped, put on an indefinite hold and the opportunity to expose Savile was lost for another year.[423] BBC the pedophile enabler remained BBC the pedo-cover-upper, canning Liz' groundbreaking work little more than a month after Savile's death in favor of broadcasting two fake holiday tributes glorifying the BBC beast.

The British Broadcasting Corporation disgraced itself yet again cowardly shelving Liz MacKean's accurate and true indictment, fabricating the lame excuse that the 10-minute segment interviewing 10 Savile victims and witnesses was cut for "editorial reasons," citing that its claims "could not be substantiated," of course immediately recognized as a total boldface CYA lie.[424] Consequently, the world had to wait nearly another full year before the ITV exposé dropped the "other side of Savile" bombshell. As small consolation, Liz's nixed Savile exposure garnered the London Press Club's scoop of the year award. While filming her Newsnight piece exposing the BBC cover-up, Liz MacKean's life was threatened. But unlike all the other BBC staff, her ethical duty to tell the truth was far more important. Though Liz's integrity remained intact, walking away in protest and pure disgust in 2013 for the BBC's gutless decision, she expressed remorse and guilt to the Savile victims over her inability to deliver their timely truth, though certainly not from any lack of effort on her part:

> I thought that that was a failure… I felt we had a responsibility towards them. We got them to talk to us, but above all, we did believe them. And so then, for their stories not to be heard, I felt very bad about that. I felt, very much, that I'd let them down. I was very unhappy the story didn't run because I felt we'd spoken to people who collectively deserved to be heard and they weren't heard.[425]

The BBC also fired the Newsnight investigative producer Meirion Jones who worked with Liz for daring to tell the truth about Savile.[426] From the day Meirion was a boy and his Aunt Margaret Jones was Duncroft School's headmistress when in the 1970s Savile allegedly abused 23 girls there,[427] he witnessed Sir Jimmy driving off with soon-to-be victims in his Rolls. The BBC has gone out of its way to destroy careers of honest investigative journalists who value the truth and the moral conviction to tell it. In Meirion's words:

> There is a small group of powerful people at the BBC who think it would have been better if the truth about Savile had not come out. And they aim to punish the reporters who revealed it.[428]

Liz MacKean on how BBC treated her to the end:

When the Savile Scandal broke, the BBC tried to smear my reputation. They said they had banned the film because Meirion and I had produced shoddy journalism. I stayed to fight them, but I knew they would make me leave in the end. Managers would look through me as if I wasn't there. I went because I was never going to appear on screen again.[429]

Meirion said that BBC creative director Alan Yentob called Meirion and Liz "traitors" after he saw the Panorama piece where the two explained how the BBC in chronic cover-up mode cancelled airing their Savile exposé.[430]

After her two decade tenure at BBC, Liz went on to make films for Channel 4's Dispatch program. The bad blood that went down between Liz and her despicable former employer, then her sudden passing a short time later at a relatively young age leaving two daughters behind, ultimately joining the notorious BBC cemetery row of questionable, sad and highly suspicious deaths after exposing the BBC pedo-cover-up, leaves many still wondering… was she yet the latest brave KIA casualty in the war against truth?

The phenomenon of a plethora of highly suspicious deaths befalling employees at one particular company is nothing new. From 1982 to 1989 twenty-five scientists that worked at the UK defense contractor GEC-Marconi on the controversial US "Star Wars" project and the "Sting Ray" torpedo project were suddenly mysterious killed in an obvious cover-up of murder.[431] And the obvious culprit was intelligences services just as they're undoubtedly involved in so many of the BBC-related deaths as well. One, the global intelligence community has both the means and motive to silence those endowed with valuable, highly-incriminating, top secret information and two, the CIA, Mossad and MI6 are never held accountable by either governments or law enforcement agencies.

An identical parallel pattern has been unfolding with dozens of doctors paying the price for speaking out against the dangers of Big Pharma and vaccines.[432] Then there’s what commonly happens to muckraking journalists and activists who courageously uncover explosive evidence that could bring down crime cabal powerbrokers. Among the half-dozen short list are Gary Webb,[433] artist Mark Lombardi,[434] J.H. Hatfield,[435] Danny Casolaro,[436] Michael Hastings[437] and Max Spiers,[438] though many more around the world have been violently silenced making truth telling journalism as a profession an endangered species. One look at the Bush-Clinton crime family says it all for their never-ending list of “suicided” insiders that knew too much.

With so many nefarious forces all working together to conceal the truth from ever being revealed, it’s no wonder the global pedophilia network has remained so fully intact by eliminating and silencing threats and constantly covering-up cabal criminality. Of course after Jill Dando died, the Metropolitan Police were reported to have interviewed both Dr. Farthing and Sir Cliff Richard on a number of occasions. But because they are likely MI5 assets working on behalf of the criminal British establishment, nothing they could say or do would ever place them at risk of being identified as suspects or accomplices since Metro never fails to comply with orders issued by British intelligence or Special Branch, the UK’s terrorism-counterterrorism unit. But at this point with all this massively overwhelming, cumulative evidence, it should be both flagrantly and abundantly clear that the most powerful criminals in the United Kingdom murdered Jill Dando with complete impunity and were determined at all cost to conceal that ugly truth from the public, no different from their deadly hit on Princess Diana, her unborn Muslim-to-be child and future Muslim husband little more than a year and a half earlier. For a very long time the planetary controllers have been child raping murderers, millions if not billions of times over. It's high time we citizens of the world finally face up to that very dark, most disturbing reality and finally begin holding the relative handful of monsters in this world fully accountable.

Because the government-funded BBC is part of the same interlocking pedophilia crime cabal as Westminster and British royalty, the giant media conglomerate has a long history of shielding its VIP pedophiles and suppressing their heinous crimes. Case in point, the BBC is notorious for its atrocious track record of systematically attacking and smearing child abuse survivors along with journalists and the small minority of MPs that have courageously attempted to expose the truth.[439]

Let's face it, the pedo-cabal stops at no limit to punish and destroy those deemed a serious enough threat, from fellow criminals who knew too much to morally strong souls determined to expose the truth. Knowing that the pedophilia scourge is the ruling elite's Achilles heel in the face of mounting overwhelming evidence unmasking the international pedo-crime cabal, elite pedophiles are growing more desperate, fearing their days may be numbered with critical mass amongst the global masses approaching. So as of late they've been pushing back, winning in court, discounting victim allegations and silencing the truth speakers. Their methods are many. The highest threats in recent times are victims of both overt but primarily covert assassinations through electronic weaponry deployed as psychotronic warfare inducing untraceable, fast-spreading cancers, sudden heart attacks, aneurisms and strokes,[440] perhaps exceeded only by the ever-so-popular standby – assassination by "suicide."[441] The elite is currently engaged in a genocidal war against humanity. But the truth will prevail. Spread it.

The next chapter exposes the “pedo-love affair” between Sir Jimmy and his five time-knight nominating pedo-saturated Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, and more on the MI5 mole as the pimping sexual blackmailer this time to government VIPs.
